Texas and Louisiana Trainmen Vote to Strike

The League of Women Voters still had money left when the last campaign was over. The women will never get anywhere that way.

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

We give up. For some time we had to keep track of when we were in and when we were out of the Off Belt race, but announcements and denials of the announcements and denials of the denials have come so thick and fast that it has been impossible to get a story in print before someone changed his mind. Last week Mr. Holloway gave a statement to the effect that he was going to forfeit the games to Cisco, Eastland and Abilene. Before we got back to the office he had changed his mind, so we didn't run the story. Later he gave out an interview to another paper stating that he had forfeited. We called him and he denied forfeiting any games and said he wasn't going to do so. He said he was going to follow a policy of "open-mindedness" and leave it up to Cisco. He stated that it was not up to Ranger to forfeit any games. Now, according to one paper, he gave out an interview in which he was quoted as saying that he had not been responsible for the details that came out of Ranger Monday. In still another interview, supposed to have been issued earlier in the day he is quoted as saying "we will make no defense of the charge and will forfeit the games with Abilene, Cisco and Eastland without argument if the committee so decides." R. N. Thack is reported to have stated in still another paper as having talked with Mr. Holloway over the telephone and was told that he was not admitting anything. So we give up. We can't keep track of the thing at all. It sounds as though someone was being misquoted somewhere or something is wrong somewhere along the line.

Ripped Wide Open in Harbor Crash

Ripped open from waterline to deck about the bridge, here's how a side of the Munson liner Munargo appeared after colliding with the liner Deutschland in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor. The Munargo was without passengers, the Deutschland carried 299.

SLAIN WOMAN WAS INSURED POLICE STATE

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Police disclosed today that 10 days before a $5,000 insurance policy carrying a double indemnity clause was taken out on the life of Rheta Gardner Wynkoop, found shot to death on her mother-in-law's private operating table last night. The insurance policy was payable to the mother-in-law, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop, prominent woman physician. Police believe Mrs. Wynkoop was murdered either by a drug fiend or by someone with an intimate knowledge of the habits of the family. The young woman was found on the private operating table of her mother-in-law, who was one time a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois. Widespread search was ordered for Earle Wynkoop, 27, the husband of the woman, who was said to be absent from the city at the time of the slaying. Mrs. Wynkoop's body, clad only in chemise and silk stockings, was discovered, according to the mother-in-law's story, at 8:30 a. m. The body was wrapped in a blanket and lay on an operating table in the basement of the Wynkoop residence. There was a single bullet hole in the back of her head. A revolver, neatly wrapped in a towel and bearing no fingerprints, was deposited at the head of the table. Three bullets had been discharged. Dr. Wynkoop said the gun was hers.

BOLER SELLS GROCERY BUT KEEPS BAKERY

J. A. Boler, who has been operating the Boler Grocery & Market for the past several months, has sold his grocery and market business to M. A. Harwood, formerly of Thurber, but has retained his bakery business here. Mr. Harwood was for seven years manager of the dry goods department of the T. P. M. & M. store in Thurber and has had considerable experience in the merchandising business. He will continue to handle a good line of staple groceries and fresh meats at the same location in the Tullos building. Mr. and Mrs. Harwood have moved into their new home in Ranger at 603 Spring road, with their daughter, Miss Crystal. They have one son who is now attending the University of Texas at Austin and is working on the Austin American in the editorial department. Mr. Boler will continue to operate the bakery, adding, in addition to the breads, pies and cakes now baked, a special line of these items and will make a specialty of fancy pastries. Ben Bentleman, an experienced baker, will do the baking and Mr. Boler will be assisted in handling the business by Miss Billie Boler and Ed Boler. The deal was completed Monday, announcement today stated, and the two firms are now being operated in the same building formerly occupied by the Boler grocery and Market, where old customers and new will be welcomed.

SCORES ASK FOR JOBS WHEN STRIKE STARTS

Official Action On Strike Ballots To Be Determined Tonight. HOUSTON, Nov. 22.—The 3,000 employees of the Southern Pacific railroad lines in Texas and Louisiana today voted for a strike in protest against 108 enumerated grievances. Official action of the four brotherhoods of the employees, to be based on the strike ballots counted today, will be taken at a meeting late today. Vice President F. W. Lewis of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen issued the formal statement on the ballot at 1 p. m. He did not say what final action of the organization would be.

Reporters Are Being Barred From Treasury

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The shades are being pulled down on the goldfish bowl in which the Roosevelt administration started to work. The open door to the press at the treasury department has been suddenly slammed shut at one of the most decisive moments in the country's monetary history. Action of acting secretary of treasury Morgenthau in forbidding his associates to talk to the press startled newspaper correspondents here and provoked a direct protest to President Roosevelt. It was signed by representatives of leading newspapers of all political convictions. There is apprehension lest this policy of sealing up government sources of information be adopted throughout the capital.

Earl Quinn Is To Die Thursday

McALISTER, Okla., Nov. 22.—Earl Quinn appeared to be "bearing up today better than ever before" Warden Sam Brown said at state prison as he made ready to electrocute Quinn for his part in the slaying of the Griffith sisters, two school teachers. Quinn is scheduled to die in the electric chair soon after midnight, Thursday.

Hotel Manager to Move to Lubbock

Don Burger, who has been managing the Gholson Hotel in Ranger and the Laguna hotel in Cisco, is leaving tomorrow for Lubbock, where he will take over the management of the Hilton hotel. Mr. Burger is to be relieved of his duties here tonight by Jimmy Gray, who has been an employee of the hotel for some time. Mr. Burger stated today that he was sorry to leave Ranger because he had, in the year he has been here, become attached to the town and the people and liked to live here.

CONGRESSMAN BLANTON SAYS THE PEOPLE MUST UNITE ON A SITE FOR POST OFFICE HERE

Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, representative in congress of the 17th congressional district, of which Ranger is a part, has written a letter, addressed to L. C. Keel, secretary of the Ranger Common Labor Union and Oil Field Workers of America, in which he gives information on securing a postoffice building for the city of Ranger. In his letter Mr. Blanton states that the main reason construction has not yet begun on the postoffice is that the people have not yet gotten together and agreed on a site, and until this is done no steps can be taken to secure a building. His suggestion is that a regular election be held, with one voting box, and that everyone who gets his mail from the postoffice here, whether he has paid a poll tax or not, be entitled to a vote. Congressman Blanton's letter follows, in full: "Replying to your letter, will state that the main reason construction has not yet begun on the Ranger postoffice is that the people have not yet gotten together on the site. "Where there are so many different propositions offered, favored by so many different factions there, it is impossible for me to get behind any of the propositions, and I won't get behind any proposition until I am assured that at least 60 per cent of the citizens there have agreed upon a site. If and when they do agree, I will get behind their site and push it in a way that will have it approved and cause construction to begin promptly, provided, of course, that it is offered at a figure commensurate with the price of similar property that is offered for sale there at this time. I would under no circumstances be a party to any attempt to muzzle the government in asking a price that is out of line. "There are numerous factions there who claim that the vote taken by your organization was not a fair representation of the sentiment of Ranger, just as you contend that the vote taken by the Chamber of Commerce did not fairly represent that sentiment. "I would suggest that a regular election be held there in Ranger, with one central voting box at which all factions should be represented, and let a fair vote be taken on all sites offered, with every man and woman there who gets their mail at the Ranger postoffice be allowed to vote, regardless of poll tax payments. If such an election can be arranged and held before it is held so that I may pass on whether it will be held under circumstances as will elicit the real sentiment of Ranger, I would then be able to get behind the result of such an election. I am sending a copy of this letter to the Chamber of Commerce and also to the Ranger Times. "Very sincerely yours, (Signed) "THOMAS L. BLANTON."

Open Breach Is Result of Arkansas Ineligibility Case

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 22.—Repercussions from the ineligibility of Ulysses Schleuter, substitute Arkansas tackle, today had shaped into an open breach between authorities of two Southwest Conference schools. President J. C. Futrall of the University of Arkansas assailed Coach Schmidt of Texas Christian University for statements attributed to the latter. "I have seen a statement by Coach Schmidt regarding the ineligibility of Schleuter," Futrall said. "To those who know Mr. Schmidt and his method of conducting athletics, his statement is amusing." The coach had been quoted as saying the games in which Schleuter had played should be forfeited.

SPRAGUE WILL STILL OPPOSE MONEY PLANS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The administration awaited with anxiety today the nation's reaction to the pointed criticism of its economic and monetary policies made by Dr. Oliver Sprague, noted economist and financial expert, in resigning as treasury financial advisor. Sprague's criticism was expected by observers here to have strong results among important business and banking interests. Around him were expected to gather "hard money" advocates to oppose the experimental monetary program. Predictions were made of a monetary fight, thwarting the Bryan silver fight back in 1896. Sprague revealed that his letter of resignation, in which he warned of a drift into unrestrained inflation and a breakdown of government credit, was the beginning of his offensive against President Roosevelt's monetary program. He plans to arouse and organize public opinion against the program, he said, incorporating his views in a syndicated series of economic and monetary discussions of "what should be done to bring about recovery."

Osaba Says Bank Robbery Story Is Just 'False Alarm'

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—Ranger Sergeant Joe Osaba, of headquarters company, today testified that a reported plot to rob a bank at Edna, Texas, was only another "bugaboo or false alarm," and had nothing shady about it. Other witnesses before a legislative committee here had implied the bank robbery was "framed" in order that the reward for dead bank robbers might be split among participating officers.

Rotarians Told How Automobile Pistons Are Made

Gaston Dixon had charge of the Rotary club program today and gave an interesting classification talk on the automobile parts business. He gave a history of the automobile from 1900 to the present, giving the important changes that had been made in the machines in that time. He told the causes of oil pumping into the cylinders of a car, giving measurements of the piston, the cylinder and the film of oil in terms of a car traveling at the speed of 50 miles an hour. He said that a piston in a car traveling 80 miles an hour was moving at the rate of 3,000 feet a minute and that the pistons and cylinder walls had to be properly oiled in order for a car to run at that speed. He told how pistons were finished and fitted into the cylinders and answered a number of questions by the club members. H. S. Von Roeder announced that the Ranger Junior College Texas Rangers would play the John Tarleton Ploewboys here Friday afternoon and urged everyone who could to attend the game. The meeting next week will be held at 7:30 in the evening instead of at noon, with the directors meeting at 6:30. O. B. Sellers, district governor of the 41st district, will make his official visit to the club at that time.

Times Offers An Unusual Bargain To Its Subscribers

The Ranger Times is making a particularly attractive subscription offer, both to the readers in the city of Ranger and those who receive their copies of the paper through the mail. Three prominent magazines and the Ranger Times, all for the price regularly charged for the paper alone, plus a cash payment of only $1, makes up the most attractive subscription offer ever made in this section of the country. This offer is for those who receive their papers by carriers. For those in the rural sections, a cash payment of $4 will bring the three magazines they chose and the Times for one year each, an offer that has never been duplicated before. These magazines can be selected from a large group, which is being published in this issue of the paper. This offer may not last long, so those who want to take advantage of the extremely low price now available, should do so as soon as possible. This offer is good on both new subscriptions or renewals.

Bankers to Study New Banking Code

FORT WORTH.—A two-day meeting of trust officers from 35 Texas banks will meet here Nov. 24 to study the new banking code as it applies to their phase of the profession. W. B. Baker, Houston, is chairman of the trust officers. Speakers will include D. E. Blackburn, Victoria, president of the Texas Bankers' association; Guy Price, Fort Worth; E. C. Barkley, Houston; O. E. Davis, Beaumont; J. B. Hamilton, A. B. Culbertson and E. C. Mansell, all of Fort Worth; A. H. Muir, San Antonio, and Allen R. Cline, Houston.

Price Fixing For Oil Seems To Be Abandoned Now

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Creation of a legal division to enforce rigidly the production and marketing provision of the petroleum code was seen as a strong indication that Secretary of Interior Ickes contemplates abandonment of the oil price fixing plan. Observers pointed out creation of a permanent agency to enforce the production features of the code was indicative that price fixing was to be relegated to the background because its temporary enforcement was contemplated. Such an agency would not be necessary. Ickes postponed the date on which price fixing schedules were to go into effect from Oct. 1 to Jan. 1 and said it might be extended further.

World's Largest Airplane Crashes

MOSCOW, Nov. 22.—The world's largest airplane, just completed, crashed at Kharkov yesterday, killing 14 persons, according to dispatches reaching here today. Details of the accident were not available. The gigantic plane, named the K-7, was an all-metal ship with six motors and was built to carry 120 passengers.

Discovery Date Delays Plans

MONTREAL, Can.—Plans for celebrating the 400th anniversary of the discovery of Canada are being delayed because a group of citizens are not sure when the country will be 400-years-old. Some members of the committee in charge of the celebration insist that the event should be held in 1934. Others are equally sure that it should be held in 1935.

THREE GUESSES

Long Probe Will Stay In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—Its side at the vanishing point, the senate sub-committee investigating the Huey P. Long political machine of Louisiana, relied on police today to bring in reluctant witnesses to tell what they know about the 1932 senatorial primary. Lack of finances caused Senator Tom Connally, chairman, to announce the inquiry temporarily would be confined here and not extended to other Louisiana parishes, as had been planned.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DELIGHT AND DESIRES: Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart.—Psalm 37: 4.

COOPERATIVES THROW A BOMB IN THE GINNERS' CAMP

Cotton co-ops are very industrious. They have their own publicity agents. This speaking of the American Co-operative association headquarters in New Orleans. Their newest bulletin sounds this blast of war: "Handwriting on the wall in the gin business." What follows the caption of the article is interesting. This is the foreword: "The cotton grower has willy nilly become a member of a co-operative enterprise, whether he likes it or not. That enterprise is his gin. Fifty to 90 per cent of growers now sell their cotton to the gin. In such cases, it make no difference whether cotton is strict middling or low, middling, inch and a sixteenth or dog tail. The ginner takes it all at one price. That price is usually a godo bit more than the farmer could get by selling anywhere else—even if he sold in even running lots. The ginner makes back his cotton buying loss as best he can in the charge for ginning or in the profit on seed."

As to the handwriting on the wall in the gin business the explanation of the publicity agent is "in some 200 communities in the Southwest cotton farmers have taken over ownership and control of their gins." In order to clinch his argument, the co-op manipulator of the typewriter returns this verdict: "They have been at it long enough now to get satisfactory evidence of how it works." This is the conclusion: "In West Texas and also in Oklahoma growers are doing this (taking over ownership and control of the gins) and in taking over control they are also stepping out along way on the road to control of their production and marketing." How does this fit in with the co-op's slogan, "Cotton growers demand farm markets and not bonuses." Secretary Henry A. Wallace shifting from land nationalization or acreage control to a tariff high or low has taken a new step. Now he has asked that "America take a position either for reducing tariffs or curbing production, or a compromise between the two, and to be prepared to stick to the decision for 10 to 15 years."

In other words he would have the farmers adopt a foreign policy. William A. Clayton is one of the ablest as well as one of the best informed buyers and exporters of American cotton. He would tear down all the American tariff walls. He would invade the foreign fields or markets and throw down the gauntlet to all the world. There is a session of the congress coming. Senators and representatives make the tariff laws. Is tariff reform on the way? If so, what will happen to "the higher standards of living and the higher wage scales" of the industrial wage workers of the republic? Old Man Democracy and his new deal is face to face with many problems that will force a realignment of the voters of America. Is a realignment of the way?

KANSAS LAWMAKERS RATIFY CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

More than 10 years ago the child labor amendment to the federal constitution was submitted to the legislatures of the 48 commonwealths. Fifteen have ratified, with Kansas on the way. The Kansas house adopted, 75 to 33, and sent to the senate a resolution calling for ratification. A majority vote by the senate will complete the Jayhawker ratification. A Texas house ratified it; a Texas senate refused to ratify it. Certain senators were apprehensive that it would drive child labor under 16 from the cotton patches. If child labor is "a barbarism," why not?

It is reported that in one year in Manchuria one railroad lost fifty of its employees killed by bandits, 800 injured, over 2000 kidnaped, 50 engines and over 1500 freight and passenger cars destroyed. The railroad employees over there must live a short but active life.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

It is said that the average taxpayer takes little interest in municipal affairs; that they are indifferent regarding questions which have a vital bearing on their welfare. That allegation is, to a certain extent, true.

The taxpayer is apathetic when municipal affairs are concerned. They do not attend meetings of the city fathers and do not insist that all city, financial and other conditions be published in the advertising columns of the newspapers regularly so they can discuss among themselves and take up with the city officials questions in which they have a general interest.

City officials should do their best to get the taxpayers together and explain what is being done and what they expect to do. By so doing, they would interest the people in their own affairs and encourage them to play their part in the development of the city.

Dallas Firemen Go Modernistic

By United Press

DALLAS—The fire department here has gone modernistic, and 3,300 fire plugs throughout the city will take on a new color spectrum to keep in line with the trend of the decade.

The shape of the fire plugs will remain the same but they will be repainted in red, blue, yellow and aluminum hues.

Chief Rod Brambrell, is not a dabbler in colors but present plans which will go into effect soon are that the plugs will be painted so that firemen can tell at a glance how much they can expect out of each plug.

As an explanation, Chief Grambell said painters will daub red on tops of plugs hooked into four-inch water mains, aluminum all over plugs with six-inch connections, while eight-inch connections will be topped with blue. Plugs with ten-inch mains and up will be topped with yellow. The bodies of the plugs will continue aluminum.

The new color scheme will insure greater speed in laying water lines to a fire, Chief Grambell believes.

Airplanes are becoming so popular, the only time some people travel by rail is when they cross the ocean.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

DERRICK SHADOWS
By V. MARIE STEPHENS

It does seem a bit early for whiskers and tinsel and snow, but there really are only 28 more shopping days until Christmas.

Shopping days? Well, for you, no doubt.

And although we have no intention of howling you down in sympathetic tears, it really is true:

There are countless little boys and girls who have wide-eyed visions of Santa Claus... and who will not see him this year.

That is, unless you do your part.

With the Blue Eagle poised in every window, it shouldn't be hard.

You don't have to search around in the rain and snow and sleet to find trusting little souls whose noses are cold from pressing against show windows.

The local Child Welfare club eagerly asks you to go into early spring house-cleaning and gather up a lot of things you wish you didn't own.

Broken, bent, legless, armless... Toys... Tops, dolls, wagons... Dishes, rabbits, carts... Trunks, marbles, cars... Anything and everything a youngster loves... Which means, anything and everything.

They don't mean a thing to you. You'll throw them away soon, anyhow. Young Tom and Sue at your house are busy with better playthings... And what about the less fortunate little boys and girls? You don't even have to mend the broken and crushed articles.

The Ranger firemen will do it for you... But we predict the happiest Christmas in your life, despite struggling depressions, if you'll make Santa a reality.

You can shove him right down a smokeless chimney... And introduce him to a believing Bobby and Mary...

And start those same youngsters off on another and better year... With something you don't even want...

If you follow the president's advice... And do your part... At home.

Long Awaited Film To Show Here Soon

Thrills, pathos, comedy and romance are deftly combined, it is said, to make "Night Flight," coming to the Arcadia theatre today, one of the greatest productions of the season.

Certainly Director Clarence Brown has placed in it a multi-star cast of remarkable proportions. The players include John Barrymore, Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Robert Montgomery, Myrna Loy, William Gargan, C. Henry Gordon and Leslie Fenton.

The story is announced as the most authentic and most human tale of the night air mail ever written. It is from the pen of Antoine de Saint-Exupery, himself a pilot over the very air line in South America so vividly described in the talking picture.

Central in the story is John Barrymore, hard, stern general manager of the air line. It is he who, with strict discipline, keeps his men flying through dark and through fog to get the mail through.

Pellerin (Robert Montgomery), one of the pilots, reports a storm coming in from the mountains, which he is then crossing. He wants to avoid this gale, but is ordered to proceed through it. The storm approaches the coast and menaces Fabian... (Clark Gable), pilot of the plane from Buenos Aires to Rio de Janeiro. He, too, is ordered to press on, told that his mail must make connections with the Brazil plane for Europe.

Barrymore lashes his people to the highest point of efficiency, even the doddering old inspector of planes, Robineau (Lionel Barrymore), inclined to be top-heavy with the pilots.

At home, Madame Fabian (Helen Hayes) eats a pathos-laden dinner when she is to husband has been delayed later, becomes the storm center of great drama when the radio Fabian indicate that the plane has hopelessly lost... that he has five minutes of gas left.

The UNKNOWN BLOND
By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

Who killed Tracy King? The cops didn't know until they talked to the girl that she'd never even spoken to Tracy King—that she made up every word of the story she told Herman.

"They're pretty sure of that, are they?" "McNeal believes it. Al Druhan, who's supposed to be King's best friend, said he'd never heard of the girl. I guess that part's straight all right."

"But here's what the cops don't know!" Gaineys had forgotten the food before him, was leaning forward eagerly. "Three nights ago—the same night Scurlach wrote that letter—Carlotta was late getting home from the theater. She works until the place closes at midnight. It was about 1:30 when she got home and Herman was waiting for her."

"I got all this from the woman who lives across the hall. Mrs. Nicolai, her name is. She said Carlotta knocked on her door next morning and came in crying that Herman was going to kill her. She said he had a gun and had threatened to shoot her. Mrs. Nicolai said Carlotta cried so much it was a long time before she found out what it was all about. As near as she could get the straight of it—Mrs. Nicolai I mean—Herman had threatened that Carlotta had been with King and that's why she was late getting home."

"Well, by this time I guess the girl saw that her little game had gone too far. She tried to tell Herman the truth, that she didn't even know Tracy King. That only made things worse. They had a terrible scene and once she thought he was going to strangle her, then and there. Instead he grabbed up his hat, put the gun in his pocket and left. Now listen to this—Carlotta hadn't seen him from that time until she went to headquarters today! Mrs. Nicolai said some of the children saw him at the house once, but it was while Carlotta was at the theater. Where he was all that time and what he was doing nobody knows."

Down in that neighborhood they're all afraid of cops. Close-mouthed but—"Gaineys grinned again, "well, we managed to get friendly. It isn't my idea to print all this right away. I'd rather hold it—" "Until they get a confession from Scurlach!" Gaineys shook his head. "Not that," he said. "I want to see how one or two other things turn out first."

BANNISTER remembered then the story that the woman at the Shelby Arms had told him, the story of Melvina Hollister's dead canary bird, and Miss Hollister's heated quarrel with Tracy King. "Here's a funny one I picked up this afternoon," he said. "Maybe you can explain this." He repeated what Mrs. Kennebec had said. Gaineys asked questions but evidently was not much impressed. It appeared that, to J. Randolph Gaineys, the King murder case had been solved and solved satisfactorily.

"Yeah," he said, "lots of funny bits like that around an apartment hotel. They've got to live somewhere, I guess. Relatives won't have 'em, or they can't get along with anyone else." "Do you think I should tell McNeal about it?" Bannister asked. "Oh, you might as well. What harm can it do?" To Gaineys this line of thought was distinctly secondary. He returned to Carlotta Scurlach. "You know," he said, "it's queer how a girl like that can marry an egg like Scurlach. Of course there are plenty of brighter people in the world but she's not so dumb! Darned good-looking, too. She had that little place where they live all fixed up."

"Did you talk to her husband?" Bannister asked. "Yeah, and a lot of good it did! Just a big guy with a head of solid bone. Kept saying over and over that he didn't do it, that he'd never hurt nobody! Steve Fisher told me they haven't been able to get anything else out of him except when the girl was there. They left Scurlach and the girl alone together but of course the detectives were listening. Scurlach broke down and cried and told Carlotta he was sorry he'd scared her and he'd never do it again if only they'd let him go home. Then she cried too and told him not to worry. The cops had to go in and stop 'em for fear they'd flood the place with tears!"

"I suppose," Bannister said thoughtfully, "it's not so pleasant to be in jail for murder." Gaineys looked up from the wedge of apple pie he had been attacking. "Not giving me the raspberry, are you?" he asked suspiciously. "Why, of course not!" The reporter seemed satisfied. "I've got a little plan on for tonight," he explained. "You can come with me if you want to." "Fine. Where do we go?" "Out to see Denise Lang—King's fiancée. Neither paper's had an interview with her yet. I'd like to talk to her." Five minutes later they had risen from the table and were on their way. Gaineys paused at the cashier's desk to buy cigars before joining Bannister at the door. And then something happened to change their plans.
