AUTO STRIKE SETTLEMENT UP TO BOARD

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Automobile manufacturers announced today they had agreed on an establishment of an impartial board to review cases of alleged discrimination against union members in the motor industry.

The statement indicated, however, that the manufacturers had reached no agreement on procedure for workers' elections, one of the key issues of the threatened strike.

It was believed that a compromise settlement to end the strike crisis was imminent.

President Roosevelt held himself in readiness for further conferences looking toward a definite agreement.

William Collins, American Federation of Labor automobile union organizer, said a settlement was "pretty likely."

Bond Granted Keel And Vinson But It Is Not Yet Signed

Reports circulated in Ranger early Saturday afternoon to the effect the L. C. Keel, charged with the robbery of the Ranger National Guard armory on the night of Feb. 19, had made bond and had been released, were denied Saturday afternoon by members of the sheriff's department at Eastland.

However, it was stated that Judge Burette W. Patterson, judge of the 88th district court, had set bond for both Vinson and Keel at $1,000 each in the robbery case and in the burglary case, making a total bond of $2,000 for each of the accused men.

The bonds were drawn up, it was stated, and were ready for signatures, but by mid-afternoon Saturday the bonds had not been signed.

Meantime both Keel and Vinson were being held in the Eastland county jail until their bonds are signed and approved and no indication was made as to when they would be approved and the two prisoners released.

CURRENT YEAR MAY SURPASS YEAR OF 1931

Charts indicate 98 per cent of normal business by June, 1935.

(Copyright 1934 by United Press)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—America's business recovery is proceeding faster than President Roosevelt's fiscal advisors thought likely several months ago and activity for the current fiscal year may exceed the fair business year of 1931.

Treasury department charts estimate industrial activity for the fiscal year which ends June 30 at 81 per cent of the 1923-25 average. This was the average level for the calendar year 1931.

This estimate has been exceeded in the first eight months of the current fiscal year, even without the full effects of the usual rise in business activity. Activity in the eight months ending Feb. 28 has exceeded 82 per cent of the 1923-25 average.

Current activity has made further gains since February and the average rate for the fiscal year may be raised close to 85 per cent by June.

The treasury department fiscal experts have plotted the business curve two years in the future to aid in investigating prospective government tax revenue.

In the 12 months ending June 30, 1935, activity is estimated at 98 per cent or in excess of 1930.

FERGUSON IS SELECTED AS COMMITTEEMAN

HOUSTON, March 24.—James E. Ferguson, Texas political power for the past 20 years, appeared for "unity in our ranks" as he was given a seat on the national democratic committee here today by the state executive committee.

Loud cheers and prolonged handclapping followed his elevation to the national position to succeed J. Ed Adams.

Ferguson was the only one nominated and the chairman announced that he was elected by acclamation, but a check showed two votes. They were W. R. Hooks of Tascas and Summers Norman of Jacksonville.

Ed Hussion of Houston, secretary of the committee, was elected vice chairman of the committee. Miss Bertha Kuhn of Houston was named secretary.

J. K. Brim of Sulphur Springs was elected chairman to succeed Maury Hughes of Dallas.

The Ferguson-controlled state committee named Brim its chairman and by a vote of 19 to 11 tabled a resolution ordering a referendum to the national election in July.

From the opening discussion on the resolution to the final election of the national committee there was never a doubt as to Ferguson's supremacy. His machine clicked perfectly.

RUSSIA WANTS INTO LEAGUE ON NATIONS

PARIS, France, March 24.—Authoritative sources asserted today Soviet Russia, fearful of a collapse of armament efforts, was eager to lead a movement of world powers for revival of the League of Nations and was negotiating with the United States to that end.

It was asserted that American Ambassador William Bullitt, at Moscow, and the Russian ambassador at Washington were conducting negotiations in behalf of their governments.

The informant said Russia was hopeful of reviving the moral and political authority of the league, and, if terms could be arranged, to announce her own entry after many years of absence, at the annual league assembly in September.

Russia's fears were based on withdrawal of her two great neighbors, Germany and Japan, from the league and the danger that armament race and war might follow collapse of disarmament.

Funeral Services For Rev. Taylor to Be Held Today

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at 2:30 at the Central Baptist church of Ranger for Rev. J. C. Taylor, 78, pioneer Eastland county Baptist minister, who died at the City-County hospital Friday night at 11:20 after a long illness.

The services will be conducted by Rev. H. H. Stephens, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Morris Jefferies of Ranger, who will introduce Rev. A. A. Davis of Carbon, a life-long friend of the deceased. All the pastors of Ranger and several of his old-time friends will have part in the services. Special music will be arranged and directed by the Kippitoe brothers of DeLeon. Burial will be in the Merriman cemetery following the services at the church.

The decedent was born in Jacksonville, Miss., in 1855, and came to Texas in his young manhood. In 1879 he was married to Miss Mary Sanson at Crockett, and to this union nine children were born, six of whom are living.

He entered the ministry at Wayland in 1890 and was ordained a Baptist minister at Jacksonville two years later. He returned to Wayland and Ranger churches for a number of years. He preached in Archer, Wise, Stephens, Eastland, Erath and Comanche counties for a number of years and was for 10 years Eastland county missionary for the Baptist church, traveling with his own tent and singers and preaching in every community in the county. He moved to Eastland county in 1912 and was called as pastor of the Merriman church, where he served for one year, being called to serve as county missionary.

He was later called to the DeLeon and Comanche association, where he remained a year and returned to the Merriman church, preaching there for eight years. For the past two years he had been retired, though he preached from time to time, his last sermon being delivered from the pulpit of the Central Baptist church late in 1933.

During his 44 years of active ministry he was known and beloved by thousands of his followers in this and other counties. He was known as one of the most powerful and forceful preachers of his day.

The decedent is survived by six children, his wife having died in December, 1932. Survivors are Mrs. Myrtle Huffman, Mrs. Pearl Hunt and Paul Taylor of Ranger; Mrs. A. A. Nipper and Mrs. J. Hunt of Hedley, and J. C. Taylor of Axtell, Texas.

Active pallbearers will be Aaron Stiles, Roy Moore, Ed Dixon, Lon Tankersley, Maxton Hunt and W. A. Lewis. Honorary pallbearers will be his large host of friends from over this and Stephens counties.

France Demanding Protection From Other Countries

LONDON, March 24.—A somewhat unusual note from France on disarmament left Great Britain willing to seek further for a solution of the problem.

As the note was published, the French war ministry announced that beginning April 6 it would accept 18 months' enlistments from men who had fulfilled their compulsory military training of one year.

League of Nations headquarters announced 4,000,000 men were under arms in Europe and 32,000,000 could be mobilized ready for war.

The French note demanded, in brief, that if Germany were permitted to re-arm, Britain and other nations must guarantee French security. It was specified, "consultation" would not be enough—there must be certainty of prompt penalties against any nation, meaning Germany, which proved aggressive.

STERLING P. STRONG AND HIS PIPELINE BILL

Cong. Sterling P. Strong of Dallas has introduced a bill to divorce oil pipelines from companies engaged in any other branch of the industry and to prohibit ownership of pipeline securities by any person owning securities in any other branch of the business. Sen. W. E. Borah, the lone eagle of the Rockies, has a similar measure pending. These bills would become effective Jan. 1, 1935—that is, if they go over the legislative top and are signed by the President.

Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson signed all three oil bills enacted by the special session lawmakers. Now it is said that these measures are to be enforced to the letter by the state railway commission if it requires 40,000 additional men to cover all the fields and enforce all provisions of the act. This is a year of political campaigning. Ross Sterling, while he held the reins of power, declared martial law in the East Texas field and sent soldiers there. He forced the price of crude from 15 to 90 cents. Well, when primary election day rolled around by a scant margin Ross was on the outside looking in. All the close students of Texas politics predict many upheavals this year—and many new faces in the official picture gallery.

The men who express doubt about the future of your home city are not usually those who are best able to gauge its future.

ALLEY OOP

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

CHAPTER XXI AT the end of a month in Havana Marcia Treadway moved on to South America. She had grown restless, she admitted, and she was much thinner. She did not have to watch her diet these days nor count calories. She left orders, through a letter sent to her attorneys in New York, that she should be advised by wireless of any news concerning the Jeffries case. The lawyers, no doubt, would think this a curious request but that didn't matter. The only thing that did matter to Marcia was finding Pabito and she was convinced now that he must have gone to South America. She would find him there and together they would embark on a glamorous future. She promised this fervently to the vaguely envisioned deity that served her as a substitute for God. NORRIS NOYES remained at the hotel, La Mirasol, until he was alerted, courteously but firmly, for his inability to pay for the room he occupied. Not even Marcia the proprietor's daughter, whose memory for faces was so excellent, recognized Noyes as the man Pabito had described. Perhaps one reason for this was the fact that Noyes had registered under the name of Tom Lathrop. Thus Noyes found himself early one morning, penniless, hungry and out in the open hours and ozen, drawing heavy loads, plodded past him. Trucks too, passed, and an endless mirage of motora. A small dog boy made its delicate and unear way close to the footwalk. Strapped to its sides were baskets which were filled with fruits from Cuba's rich soil: bananas, melons, grapes, pineapples, limes and oranges. Noyes looked after the basket that had brushed his thin arm and was more than ever conscious of the emptiness in his stomach. Again he studied the constant motion about him, waiting his parted lips now and again with a tongue that was growing dry. He thought he knew what Pabito had done for him and why he had not found the boy. He thought he understood why Pabito was in hiding and why was a matter for conjecture only. Noyes himself had escaped those who had come to the island searching for him by lowering himself into the mud under the

Old Time Machines Outdated by Buick

FLINT, Mich., March 24.—New methods of manufacture in the modern automobile plants have obsoleted many of the old-time machines used in the factories and in addition the introduction of more and more innovations on the new cars has resulted in the use of several more machines to provide the necessary equipment.

Typical of these innovations is the new machinery of the Buick Motor company for production of the coil spring providing the independent front wheel suspension, "knee-action," with which the 1934 Buicks are equipped.

Highly specialized is the machinery and complicated is the process which Buick turns out a simple coil spring. Although being innocent in appearance, the coil front chassis spring presented a difficult problem in manufacturing.

Originally, when Buick decided to use the coil spring for its "knees" it was intended to purchase these springs completely finished and ready for assembly.

Therefore, prints and specifications were submitted to the various spring manufacturers who advised that springs could not be made and held to the exacting limits specified for Buick's present work.

Buick then decided to manufacture the springs in its own plant and develop methods whereby they could be manufactured and held to the rigid specifications necessary.

Consequently, machinery of a highly complicated nature was produced and installed for making the spring.

Life of these springs is from six to six times that of an equivalent leaf spring. In testing the new spring under test is fully compressed thousands of times. This rigorous treatment has satisfied

Buick engineers that the "knee-action" springs will stand up under all kinds of road use and will outlast the life of the car.

Buick's manufacturing process for the new spring is an interesting one. The material used is silicon manganese steel and comes in a long straight bar nearly three-fourths of an inch in diameter and about 135 inches long, depending on which series of cars the spring is intended for.

This bar is first heated at either end and run between rolls which flatten it for a distance of about a foot to form the flat bearing surface at which end of the spring. The entire bar is then heated to a temperature of 1,560 degrees Fahrenheit preparatory to coiling. The spring is then coiled on a mandrel, being guided by a spiral lead screw. After coiling it is automatically stripped from the mandrel and is reheated for hardening. It is placed on a continuous conveyor and enters a furnace where it is held at 1,610 degrees for a period of 45 minutes.

At the end of this period the spring is removed for oil quenching. It remains in the oil treatment for 75 seconds and then is sent to the tempering oven where it is removed and quenched in cold water.

Each spring is next inspected for hardness and must fall within the close limits specified.

As a last check the spring is pressed to a load equal to that which it will receive in the car and the height measured. This height is important as it determines the standing height of the completed car. The spring then is rust-proofed and dried, after which it is placed in a vat of enamel and finally baked—producing a durable elastic enamel finish on the completed spring.

Scientists are agreed, said Dr. Ball, that there is no satisfactory evidence that any species of octopus ever intentionally attacked a man, or that anyone ever has been seriously injured by them.

RANGER IN 1925

In 1925 crime, fires, explosions and other excitement that had prevailed in Ranger during the early boom days quieted down quite a bit, but the year was not without its outstanding events, among which were the murder of Jim Daniels, Ranger policeman, two nitroglycerin blasts on the outskirts of the town, a couple of kidnapping attempts and several fires.

Jan. 9 the G. C. Barkley warehouse in Ranger burned to the ground. Later in January a cleanup drive against crime was started and the first move resulted in the arrest of five women and two men on vagrancy charges.

Feb. 2 the commissioner of banking ordered the Peoples State Bank closed. On the morning of Feb. 8, at 6:10 o'clock, Jim Daniels, night patrolman, was shot to death on Homer street, between Cypress and Page streets, as he was on his way home. A manhunt resulted in which arrests were made and the body was exhumed to determine the calibre of the pistol used to kill him. A reward of $1,000 was offered by the city and a number of citizens cooperating in an attempt to stop crime, but no one was ever sentenced for the murder.

Feb. 9 the "White Way" was opened along Main street. Feb. 15 the Ed Maher home was burned, with little saved. Feb. 23 a report was made that an attempt was made to kidnap Mrs. Dell F. Woodell and Mrs. Leonard Nolley. June 22 a similar attempt by a man and a woman was made against Bertha Deere, 14. Both attempts were unsuccessful.

April 26, 11 men were seriously burned when a gas line being repaired burst and ignited. None of the injured died. April 24 a new oil boom was predicted and after considerable drilling, on May 28, fire broke out in two wells near Ranger, seriously burning H. F. Christwell, driller. June 5 Pat McGonigal was burned to death trying to save his 3-year-old daughter, Patsy, from the flames in their home. The girl also was burned to death, and Mrs. McGonigal was badly burned, but lived. June 8 Oris Wheeler, 16, died from burns sustained in a gas explosion in the West Texas Produce company building. Five others were burned.

June 16 the Texas Drug Store was burned and the Paramount hotel was damaged by the fire and smoke. On June 30 W. H. Lassater, night operator of the Texas & Pacific railway, was held up by a hijacker and the office robbed of $90. The bandit escaped. Early in May jake sales had become prominent and on July 1, the grand jury blamed the crime wage in Ranger on these jake sales.

July 20 the entire city was rocked by a gigantic nitroglycerin explosion at the warehouse of the Independent Torpedo company, two miles north of Ranger on the Caddo highway. No one was in or near the building at the time and no deaths occurred. It was blamed on hunters who built a fire near the building. But when, on Dec. 11, the building that replaced the blown-up warehouse was again demolished in a similar explosion which again rocked the town, it was thought to be vandalism.

The year 1925 ended quietly, though murders, explosions and fires had caused considerable excitement throughout the year.

Garden and Yard Hints From Club Women of County

Head Lettuce Mrs. W. A. Justice, farm food supply demonstrator for the Flatwood home demonstration club gives the following information on growing lettuce in the county to produce good heads:

Lettuce is a cool season vegetable. If warm weather prevails before the plants head, seed producing tissue is developed and later a seed stem appears. Such plants never head. If the weather is cool enough during the entire growing season to prevent seed producing tissue developing in the plant, then there is no reason why the plants should not produce heads. Fall planted lettuce is more apt to develop into good heads than spring lettuce, for the reason that I have just given. To make lettuce head, start the plants in a box or plant bed in later September or October, when cool days begin. When the second set of true leaves have developed transplant the plants to the garden rows and allow 8-10 inches for each plant in the row.

Protect Strawberries from Dirt Mrs. J. E. Holding, farm food supply demonstrator of the North Star home demonstration club, gives the following information on protecting strawberries from getting gritty or lirty:

Mulch the berry rows at blooming time three inches deep with oat, wheat straw or peanut hulls, or cotton gin "bolly-burr" refuse may be used. After the berry crop is harvested, gradually work this material into the soil in cultivating.

Cold Frame for Tomato Plants When it is yet too cold to plant tomato plants in the garden or field, and they are beginning to crowd and becoming spindly, the following method has been suggested by Mrs. Lillian Neal Eastland, farm food supply coordinator of the Ranger Co-Workers Club:

"You can make a temporary cold frame by looking up the soil and boxing in a small area on the south side of one of the buildings in the yard. If some glass window sash is not available, you can dip light muslin into hot linseed oil and use it to cover the top of the frame. The muslin should be tacked on one side of the frame and attached to a pole on the other so that it can be easily rolled up each morning to ventilate the bed. Where there is a limited area to be planted in the cans, one plant to each can. These can be moved in and out of the house each day. Cut the cans down the side, then fasten together with wire and when ready to transplant into the garden, the wire is removed and lets the cans drop off and the roots of the plant are not disturbed."

HUDSON WHICH STEPS OVER BUMPS DISPLAYED BY C. J. MOORE, EASTLAND CO. DEALER

Just how does a car act when it has knee-action? The illustration herewith shows one of the 1934 Hudson cars equipped with the axleflex system of independent front suspension. It will be noted that the car has climbed to the top of the rock in the road and although the wheel is raised high from the ground, the body has remained perfectly level. This method of independent spring suspension is furnished at no extra charge on Terraplans and Hudsons for 1934. The owner has his choice of axleflex or regular front axle. It will be noted that in this type of independent front suspension there is a big safety element in that the axle member is still retained, although the wheels are permitted independent action in a vertical plane.

Now that the cars have been out in the hands of the public for some time, reports from those who are using the axleflex suspension are coming in as a result of actual experiences. The general consensus of opinion is that there is actually a banking action on curves and on certain types of roads, particularly of the wash-board type. The flexibility permitted with this system prevents any synchronizing of the two front wheels and hence helps to iron-out the road. A feature of the system is the fact that the sturdy cross-tie formed by the front axle is retained, although the independent wheel action is secured. Another safety consideration is the use of full non-skid tread on the tires.
