CISCO'S GAS RATE NOT CUT BY COMMISSION

By United Press
AUSTIN, June 27.—Cisco residents will continue to pay a gas rate of 75 cents a thousand cubic feet with 10 per cent discount for payment of bills in 10 days, under order issued today by the state road commission.
The rate has been in dispute since Oct. 26, 1931. At that time city by ordinance ordered a reduction to 50 cents. Community Natural Gas company appealed on May 1, 1932, submitted to city a proposed sliding scale.
In issuing the order today the commission said: "In the present unsettled and distressed condition of our country and of this particular municipality, the commission finds no reason why a rate such as that in effect since acquisition of the property by the Community Natural Gas company has prevailed and which has not herebefore been complained of, should be reduced for the distressed period, be it extended."

Free Moral Agency Topic of Sermon At Revival Meet

The revival at First Christian church attracted one of its largest and most interested audiences Tuesday night to hear the Evangelist, Robert Forrester, in a sermon on the text: "Wilt Thou Be Whole?" (John 5:6).
The only power that will ever drive man from the gates of heaven, the preacher said, is the power of his own choice. The only force that will ever open to him the gates of eternal darkness will be the force of his individual will.
The question which Jesus addressed to the cripple at the Pool of Bethesda may seem to us a strange question to ask one in his condition. For thirty-eight years he had been afflicted and helpless. For a long time, no doubt, he had been waiting at this pool for an opportunity to get into the water and be made whole. Then to ask if he is willing to be cured would at first seem simple or even silly. But Jesus never indulged in meaningless speech nor asked unmeaning questions. This question takes into account the principles (Continued on page 4)

Motorcade to Visit Towns of County to Advertise Pageant

F. C. McClung, producer of the March of Time Pageant, to be presented in Ranger on the night of July 4th, and Wayne C. Hickey, chairman of the Fourth of July celebration committee, were today busily engaged in forming plans for the celebration.

The motorcade, which will be headed by the loud speaker car belonging to McClung, will visit Olden, Eastland, Cisco, Rising Star, Desdemona, Gorman and Carbon before returning to Ranger and will probably stop off in several of the rural communities for a few minutes while on the trip.

Flames Destroy Wheat That Survived Drouth

Destruction of this tract of wheat was completed by flames, after the grain, barely had survived the long drouth, with most of the able-bodied population of Clearwater, Kan., fighting fruitfully to halt the blaze. A strong wind sent the fire raging through a mile of the wheat before it was quelled upon reaching a highway.

Innumerable Ideas to Bring Rain Cause Weather Man Only to Laugh

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 27.—The weather man looked exasperatedly at a hill of letters telling President Roosevelt how to break the drouth and announced:
"No power on earth can make it rain."
All the ideas on how to produce rain—and they are innumerable—just produce so many good laughs at the United States weather bureau. W. J. Humphreys, meteorologist to whom most of the well-meaning suggestions are referred, is getting fed up with stinking factual pins into pet theories.

The popular notion that noises such as are made by detonation of cannon or dynamite can shake the sky loose of its moisture burden is entirely fallacious, Humphreys said. Against the weather bureau's advice, the government once tried out the idea in a drouth-afflicted part of Texas. It didn't work and the weather men laughed up their sleeves.

Another common theory associates rain with battle. That, also, is wrong, Humphreys declared. To the rain-soaked troops of 1914-18 the idea seemed reasonable. Many thought the constant thunder of artillery was blasting the sky open. Humphreys said it was not.

Plutarch, in his "Lives," called attention to the fact—Humphreys said it was coincidental—that rain often occurred after great battles. He listed these theories to account for this:
1. The Olympian gods, outraged by man's conflicts, sent showers to cleanse the earth;
2. The clash of swords on shields, cries of the wounded and other sounds of battle "shocked" the clouds into opening and pouring forth;
3. Mass evaporation of blood and sweat produced rain.

When it comes to warfare as a rain maker, Humphreys is a pacifist.
A patriotic citizen of Akron, Ohio, recently wrote the president suggesting that all this radio broadcasting was causing the drouth. The letter was referred to Humphreys who replied:
"The idea has often been suggested and the converse also, namely, that radio brings entirely too much rain and causes floods."
"Evaporation is a process that consumes a very large amount of heat and radio does not produce a measurable amount of heat. Neither does radio cool the air."
"In short, we know definitely that radio neither increases rainfall nor decreases it."

From Detroit came the suggestion that rain could be coaxed out of the sky by: 1. Sprinkling dry ice on clouds; 2. Building large oil fires.
Other rain-making ideas, all worthless in Humphreys' opinion, include:
Sprinkling clouds with electrified sand.
Boring holes in the sky.
Spraying dust in the air.
Blood-letting (practiced at one time by Australian natives).
Abuse of idols and images.
Imitative tableaux. Once in Eschonia three men climbed trees.

Absentee Claims For Cotton Checks Can Be Obtained

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION.—Absentee landlords and their tenants will save much time in getting farm allotments of cotton and exemption certificates under the Rankhead Act if absentees will name promptly persons to act for them. C. A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, has advised Texas A. & M. Extension Service officials.
Absentees' agents must be supplied with power of attorney on forms expected to reach Texas by the end of June, and will be available in the offices of cotton production control associations.
Time for filing applications for individual farm allotments of cotton and tax exemption certificates will be limited, Cobb said, but deferred specifying the limit.
Landlords, cash tenants and tenants renting for a fixed share of the crop, or their authorized agents, are eligible to sign Rankhead applications for allotments and certificates, it was pointed out.

Funeral services for W. S. Michael, who died late Sunday evening at a Cisco hospital where he had been rushed for treatment for injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Romney, were conducted from the First Methodist church of Eastland at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Eastland business houses out of respect to the deceased closed their doors for the funeral hour, 2:30 to 3:30.

REV. WELBURN TESTIFIES HE DIDN'T MARRY

By United Press
SAN ANTONIO, June 27.—The Rev. William D. Welburn today denied from the witness stand that he was the husband of Mrs. Wineta Long Welburn, who seeks a divorce from him, or that he was the father of her son, born last November.
The former pastor of the Government Hill Methodist church also denied the statement that he filed notice of intent to marry her at Boerne last July 21. The alleged marriage was at Boerne, four days later, according to Mrs. Welburn.
The minister testified the attractive brunet "chased" him and on several occasions demanded that he marry her.
The witness said that on the Saturday he was supposed to have filed the notice at Boerne he spent the morning calling on members of his congregation and the afternoon preparing a sermon.

By United Press
NEW YORK, June 27.—A Max West movie of the same type as established the swaggering actress and one featuring Dolores Del Rio as the French courtesan, Madame Du Barry, became the first victims of a militant church campaign for decency in pictures today.
Both the Max West movie, "It Ain't No Sin," and Miss Del Rio's picture were withdrawn from application for licensing in New York state. The pictures are to be reviewed.
The announcement came a few days after leaders of the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faith joined in a drive against indecent movies.

She asserts she met Poderjaj in New York in 1932, and that she'd like to "wing his neck" for the annoying publicity.

Tugwell Tells of Partnership In Des Monies Speech

By United Press
DES MOINES, Ia., June 27.—A future in which industry, government and agriculture are all to be "partners in the same firm" was described today by Rexford Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, before 1,800 Iowa bankers and farmers at the Iowa Bankers association convention here.
In his missionary campaign to sell the new deal to the corn belt, as "one dirt farmer to another" the "main" trust chief said the government would use his position as partner to help "not only big business men, but also others interested in the enterprise—the farmer, the worker, the investor and the consumer."
The partnership would be evoked, he said, through "social management."
He explained he used the term social management because planning is a label which scares business men.

PLAN WILL BE ANNOUNCED BY TOMORROW

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 27.—President Roosevelt today invoked his special labor arbitration powers in an effort to end the Pacific coast longshoremen's strike.
His action forecast new national labor conciliation machinery to pacify industrial unrest raging for weeks in all parts of the country.
The new setup to be announced today or tomorrow, is expected to apply to the deadlocked dispute of steel companies and their workers and similar labor situations.
The plan will carry into practice the special labor dispute legislation passed in the closing days of congress.
In the longshoremen's strike the president, acting under authority of this legislation, named a three-man board to arbitrate, as reports of a dangerously tense situation came in.
His executive order was seen as a model for future industrial peace plans. The outline is broadly similar to that in the automobile strike last spring.
In the reorganization the president is expected to name a key arbitration board of three members from the present personnel of the national labor board. This board would be empowered to settle all disagreements.

EAST TEXAS TOMATO GROWERS CALL OFF STRIKE

There is peace in East Texas, the land where "love apples" grow. The modern name for the love apple is the tomato, which had its origin in Peru, the land of the Incas and their golden temples. In those ancient days it was the apple of love, but not a table offering. Spanish crusaders carried the love apples to Europe. For many years they were regarded as more ornamental than useful. Indeed, the physicians of that age declared that they produced cancer in the human frame or body.

Down on the Carolina coast for 100 years they were known as "Jerusalem apples" and the fisher folk planted them in their scanty flower gardens. Now a million cars of tomatoes the country over are shipped to the larger cities of America as well as the smaller cities and the Lord knows how many carloads local consumption calls for, speaking of the gardens and the patches given to the cultivation of early vegetables by the American people.

East Texas growers ended the strike with receipt of word that a Texas committee had arranged with Mississippi growers to get two cents a pound for their product. East Texas farmers began at once marketing hundreds of bushels which had been held in sheds at Jacksonville for the best prices available. Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. MacDonald of Texas made a temporary deal with the marketing committee of the Mississippi growers. Well, cooperation is the thing. Growers of two states came together and now the East Texas strike is off and peace reigns.

THIS HAPPENED IN TEXAS

A farmer who sold a carload of tomatoes for 10 cents a bushel at Frankston, Texas, was escorted from town by a group of officers after a mob had formed to protest the sale. Violence was prevented by the presence of the officers. It appears that the mob spirit is making rapid headway the country over. Low sellers in the tomato growing districts of Texas should beware. The mobster will catch them if they don't watch out.

Quite a number of our politicians seem to be suffering from convulsions—having spasm after spasm. The malady can be traced back to the vote they cast for more and more taxes. Many of them will have plenty of time after the next election to rest and think.

The men who never in their lives offered to serve or even interest themselves in the welfare of the home city or usually the fellows who howl the loudest about the work being done by the newspapers and civic organizations.

Texas Retail Sales For May Show a Decided Increase

AUSTIN.—Retail dollar sales in Texas during May made a very favorable showing, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director and statistician in the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas.

Reports from 88 stores covering all sections of the state show an average increase in dollar sales of 11 per cent over April and 22 per cent over May, 1933. Sales for the year to date averaged 30 per cent above the corresponding period last year. Although every city from which reports were received made a favorable showing, those cities which were above the average compared with their showing in May and the year to date, 1933, were: Abilene, Corsicana, San Antonio, Temple, Tyler, and Waco. The "all others group," consisting of stores in smaller towns, made the best comparative showing.

Of the various types of stores, men's clothing stores had the largest increase in sales compared with May last year, followed in order by women's specialty shops, smaller department stores, dry goods and apparel stores, and larger department stores. Compared with April, the smaller department stores made the largest per centage gain, followed in order by men's clothing, larger department stores, dry goods and apparel, and women's specialty shops.

Collections of outstanding accounts also were highly gratifying. In May 36.9 per cent of accounts outstanding were collected against 31.5 per cent during the same month last year.

Navy is Planning To Increase its Personnel 29,500

By MACK JOHNSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—The Navy expects to expand its present enlisted strength of 82,500 men to 112,000 and its officers from 5,800 to 7,900 by 1941 to pace the greatest peace-time naval construction program in this country's history.

The three-point program is:

- 1—Annual expansion of personnel until 1941.
- 2—Building of 102 ships, mostly replacements, in the next five years, costing more than $500,000,000.
- 3—Expansion of the present naval air force of about 1,000 planes during the same period to 2,184.

Ship-Plane Program
The ship-plane program, already authorized under the Vinson Bill, begins this year with a $90,000,000 construction plan for 225 planes, one heavy cruiser, three light cruisers, 12 destroyers, two destroyer leaders and six submarines.

Conclusion of the five-year plan, according to Secretary of Navy Claude A. Swanson, will guarantee the United States a "treaty strength navy second to none."

Swanson, pointing out that many ships in the Navy are operating considerably below the 85 per cent "safety line in peace-time" crew complements, sees the personnel question as one of the most serious problems confronting him.

Deposits Showing Increase in Texas

AUSTIN.—Checks cashed during May by member banks reporting to the Dallas Reserve bank totaled $450,000,000, 26.8 per cent less than in May last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Deposits of $294,000,000, however, made a more favorable showing; time deposits of $121,000,000 having been the same as April and only 3.2 per cent less than in May a year ago, while demand deposits of $273,000,000 increased slightly over April and 90 per cent above May last year. Total loans remained practically the same as in April, but as $187,000,000 they were 12.2 per cent less than in May, 1933. Loans on securities other than government collateral declined 14.3 per cent. Government securities of $146,000,000 owned decreased 8 per cent from April but increased 62 per cent over May last year.

Farmers Making Wheat Contracts Will Be Checked

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION.—How many Texas farmers carried out their domestic wheat allotment contracts with the AAA will be determined early next month, Texas A. & M. College Extension Service announced today.

The compliance check is nearly three-fourths complete up to June 16. Reports from 69 counties show that 9,515 farms of 14,135 involved in contracts have been inspected. Only two of 11 counties which have not yet reported are large wheat producers.

Only 6 per cent of the inspection reports have been returned to supervisors for correction, according to extension officials, who expressed pleasure with the small amount of error.

Inspection work, which includes not only the measurement of wheat land and the contracted acreage but also the use to which the contracted acres are put, is under the direction of John R. Edmonds, former extension district agent, has headquarters at Amarillo, and more than 200 supervisors, most of them county and community committeemen, are engaged in the work.

Extension officials pointed out that the drought insurance feature of the AAA wheat plan marks the first time that American farmers have had any crop insurance to protect them from the vagaries of nature and that the plan is helping Northwest Texas farmers through a difficult situation. Regardless of the size of this year's crop, a contracting farmer is to be paid benefits of nearly 30 cents a bushel on 54 per cent of his average five-year production.

Agricultural adjustment does not always mean acreage reduction, extension officials pointed out. Contracting farmers in the wheat and corn-hog programs were permitted to plant food and feed crops for hay and forage without limit because of drought conditions.

The idea behind the AAA, officials said, is the adjustment of production "to secure the best prices and also the best general welfare."

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When HOWARD JACKSON, young geology professor, comes to the small middle-western town of Marburg, JANE TERRY, the prettiest girl in town, determines to win his heart.

Howard is attracted by Jane's friend, AMY LOWE, but Jane schemes to keep them apart. Then one evening Howard calls on Amy and almost immediately they fall in love.

Later that night Jane confronts Howard and accuses him of breaking her heart. When he tries to calm her she interprets his words as a declaration of love and announces their engagement.

A day later Howard is trying to explain to Amy what happened when Jane sees them together. She flies into a rage. Howard tells Jane he does not and never did want to marry her and that it is Amy he loves. Jane leaves. Amy admits her love for Howard and agrees to marry him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VI

AFTER Howard had gone Amy went back to the organ and let Schubert's "Rosamunde" sing her strange and compelling joy. But she could not stop remembering Jane, Jane stumbling away alone in the sunlight that flickered through the elms.

Three years before, for Jane's birthday, she had made up a little song without words, using for the note the letters corresponding to Jane's name in the scale. She played it now, a plea for pardon, for understanding, and it made her want to cry for the lost friendship.

Her thoughts had come back to Howard and she began to wonder why she was so sure that she loved him, that she would never love any one else. How had she known, how had they both known? But she could not tell! Presently she closed the organ and went home, taking a way that would not lead her past the Terry house. She could not see Jane again, not that day.

Howard, in Miss Rosa's polished parlor, was feeling very much like a delinquent student before a large severe dean. Miss Rosa had not been surprised at his story, but she had not made it easy for him to tell it.

"Jane runs in here like a wild thing and raves around saying that you've been making love to Amy behind her back, and locks herself in her room, presumably to cry her eyes out, and now you've come with the story that you weren't engaged to Jane of your own free will, that she cooked it up in her imagination. What I can't understand is why did you let her tell all her friends that you were engaged and now, two days later, renege on it?"

HOWARD'S backbone stiffened. "Jane told me without my knowledge. She was excited and unreasonable on Friday night and mistook my trying to quiet her for—well, for a proposal. Then in the morning she telephoned to everyone she knew without saying anything to me. I did not ask Jane to marry me, I never thought of it. When I found that she'd told I didn't know what to do. I certainly didn't want to embarrass or humiliate her or you. I had decided to go away and let the whole affair die out naturally."

"Then this morning she found you making love to Amy?"

"She found me talking to Amy and she found me talking to Amy. It is Amy I care about. It is Amy I want to marry. If she'll have us after all this mess."

Why in the world did you pay so much attention to Jane, if you wanted Amy?"

"It sounds very cheap and slurring to say so, but if you will think about it, I believe you'll remember that most of my opportunities to be with Jane were made, were in stated on by Jane herself, and not of my asking."

"In other words," said Miss Rosa, very nastily, "Jane ran after you."

"In other words, she certainly did."

"Well," said Miss Rosa, glaringly. "I never expected to hear any man say such a thing about a girl! In my young days men were horse whipped for less."

"Nevertheless," said Howard, "it is so. But I certainly had the conceit to imagine that Jane took any serious interest in me. I am a complete stranger here, as you know, and I had no friends except you and Jane. You were very kind to me, you yourself told me that I was your kin, that I was always welcome in your house. I am sorry that I misunderstood you. I am more than sorry for what has happened. I know that I should have been franker with Jane at first, and that I shouldn't have come here so much, or taken her out so often."

Then he saw that Miss Rosa's eyes were full of tears and that her plump chin was trembling.

"Oh, Howard," she quavered, "Jane's so devoted! She's always been difficult! I thought you liked her! I thought she might be happy with you! Somebody of her very own, you know."

"Miss Rosa, please! I like a scum!"

MISS ROSA dried her eyes and straightened. "When she came in, she blamed us—she said, it was my fault, it was your fault, it was Amy's fault. It was everybody's fault but her own—I couldn't tell her so, she was too hurt, and nobody young ever reasons about feelings while they're feeling them. She cares about you, she really does, Howard."

"Miss Rosa—I can't think so, and I'm not saying that to escape my own responsibility."

Jane would not reply to the knock.

Miss Rosa was recovering her control. "I'm afraid I said some sharp things to you, Howard, but I didn't mean them, exactly. They were just the conventional reaction. We'll both have to forget them. Your instinct is right, Amy'll make a much better wife for you than Jane. In fact I'm not sure but that she's much too good for you."

"I know she is," he admitted humbly. "Miss Rosa, if there's anything I can do, if you'd like me to go away, I'll gladly do it. Amy thought if nothing was known about her and me, for a while, it would be easier for Jane, she wouldn't be questioned or disturbed."

"You don't need to worry about that. Jane will make up a better story than you or Amy could in a year. And she declares she's going away and if I can arrange it, I'm going to let her. She's in that raw state now where everything familiar will only irritate her more, but if she sees new things and new people she can pretend what she likes and it will divert her and ease her down."

After he had gone Miss Rosa sat still for a few minutes looking for all the gravity in her face, very much like a piece of her own well-kept overstuffed furniture. Now she must tackle Jane and she felt loath to begin. At last, with the courage of a seasoned whist player when dealt the poorest cards and partnered by stupidity, she began her task. The door was, as she had told Howard, locked. Jane was lying on the bed and at first she would not reply to the knock.

Miss Rosa persisted. "Jane," she said gently, "if you want to go away, we've got to talk about it. There are practical arrangements, your packing, and your clothes and where you're going, and money; you can't just get on the train and set off for nowhere in particular."

THERE was a pause, then the key turned. "You can come in," said Jane, "but don't say anything about what's happened." She was desolate, but resolved. Only her swollen eyes and set lips marked the storm.

"I'm not going where people will

Laws Now Stress Safety of Tires

The laws of an increasing number of states and cities are recognizing the fact that cheap and unsafe tires are the leading cause of accidents, other than those caused by careless acts of drivers. This bears out the experience of racing drivers, who in the early days called a racing event a "race of tires."

For the past 15 years, Firestone has been vitally interested in providing the utmost safety in tires, for their tires have been on the winning cars at Indianapolis each year during that period. Firestone engineers recognized the fact that the higher speeds of modern cars would bring not only public opinion, but legal action to bear on the importance of safe tires for all motorists.

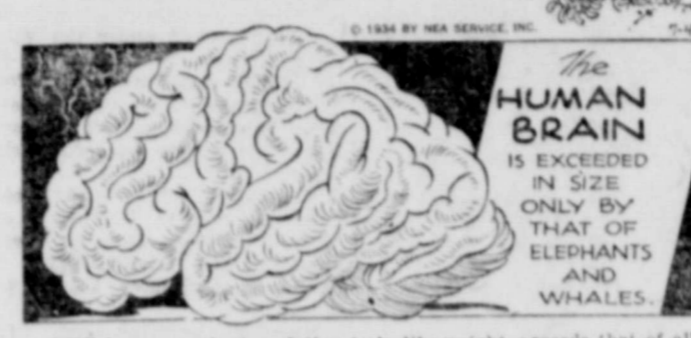

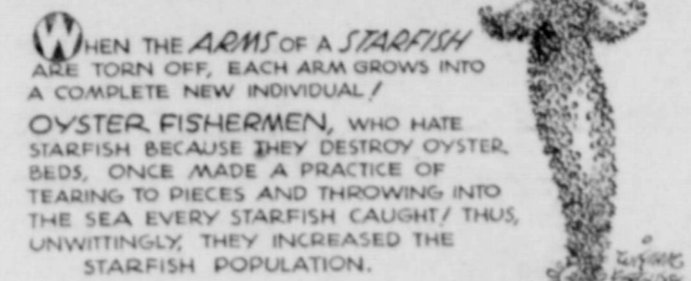

Minneapolis and St. Paul put on extensive campaigns in which police tagged worn and unsafe tires leaving a notice for the owner to replace the tires under penalty of a fine, if further check-ups found the matter unattended to. Some New England cities have recently taken legal steps to force drivers to obtain safe equipment. Other states have included tire equipment with such factors as brake inspection and headlight inspection in their safety campaigns. England has laws covering use of unsafe tires.

A defective tire in Stockton, Calif., recently cost the owner $13,500. A judgment for that amount was returned against this owner after a blowout caused her car to collide with another. The judge ruled that the cause, an unsafe tire, constituted negligence.

The chief cause of blowouts was found by Firestone engineers to be internal friction of the cords, causing heat. To counteract this, Firestone developed the patented gum-dipping process which soaks each cord in liquid rubber. This process also helps to weld the tire into one strong unit. Firestone is the only company using the process which adds eight pounds of pure rubber for every 100 pounds of cord. The proof of the effectiveness of this construction is the fact that all of the 33 racing drivers in the Indianapolis race this year chose Firestone tires and there was not a single tire failure.

Nearly four billion pounds of coffee have been burned in the last year in Brazil—and all because the producers got their dates mixed.

Free Moral—

upon which God has dealt with man from the beginning of the race until the present time. The preacher then analyzed the text word for word and showed how these principles were recognized by the Master. The first, he said, is the power of the human will. God made man in His own likeness and His own image. Man is, therefore, an intelligent will. God is the Supreme loving Intelligent Will of the Universe and could will the heavens and the earth came into being. He could speak and man stood forth, himself in the image of his creator. Had man been made with the power of choice left out he would not have been in the image of God. In the Garden of Eden man exercised the law of his maker and brought sin and death upon the world. Jesus said, "Behold I stand at the door and knock. If any man will hear my voice and will open the door I will come in and sup with him and he with me." He could break down the door and enter despite man's effort to keep him out, but man would no longer be in the image of God but would become a mere tool without personality. The last message that Jesus sent back to man from the Island of Patmos was this: "And the Spirit and the Bride say come, and let him that heareth say come, and let him that is athirst come, and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Not only has man the power of will, but he must exercise that power individually. Will then he made whole? Man cannot hide himself behind the crowd and think to escape personal judgment, nor lay the responsibility of his own folly at the door of the society in which he moves. For Paul declares that we must all stand before the judgment seat of Christ that every one may receive the things done in the body according to that which He has done whether it be good or evil. Then man is confronted with the realization that he cannot save himself; that he cannot hope by any moral, educational or evolutionary process to lift himself into a perfect state, but he must be made whole. He sees too that this making whole is a complete process. The good wholesome doctrine of Holiness or sanctification has been muddled for us by those who have some fanatical ideas but without it we cannot see the Lord.
