CHAIRMAN FLETCHER SOUNDS G. O. P. SLOGAN

Henry T. Fletcher of New York and Pennsylvania has accepted the New Deal of the Roosevelt administration as the issue in the fall election. Col. Fletcher in a nation-wide radio speech asserted the New Deal was a proposition "repudiated and overturned by the Declaration of Independence."

Col. Fletcher is a very able man. He is a very rich man. He is committed to the old order. He has not changed—with the hanging conditions of the times, economic or otherwise.

There are two great political parties in the republic. There is a free ballot. There is freedom of expression. There is freedom of action. There is no dictator. The free man is privileged to do his own voting.

It does seem that a lot of people are keeping as busy as a wind-mill trying to make politics the principal industry in this country. If they are not stopped they may succeed.

There are all kinds of merchandise for sale, but only one kind is offered you through the advertising columns of your newspaper—and that is the best kind.

A whole lot of clams in every city never open their shells to look around.

Some men should quit hunting faults in other people until they first correct their own faults.

By Blood Old Love Story Lives In Pictures In Houston Home

HOUSTON.—A love story of more than two centuries ago lives again in portraits hanging in the home of Miss Anna M. Platte of Houston.

The characters are Johann, aristocratic soldier high in the favor of his king, and Isolde, dark-eyed Belgian lady, whose early won Johann's heart. Their happiness was brief and beset with many complications.

Johann was the brother of one of Miss Platte's ancestors.

The love of Johann and Isolde was a flame too bright and beautiful to be extinguished by years of separation and hopelessness. Rather than extinguish it by remaining her everyday life without the man she loved, Isolde became a nun.

Johann continued true to his love for Isolde and never married. The soldier, whose full name was Johann Christoph Petzold, a favorite of Ernest August, elector of Hanover, who went to England in 1714 to ascend the throne as George I, Miss Platte's marriage between Johann and Isolde was forbidden by her parents, for Isolde was a Roman Catholic and Johann was a Lutheran Protestant. Isolde's parents learned of secret meeting of lovers and placed the girl in a convent. Before she left, she gave Johann an ivory miniature of herself.

Months passed without word from Johann, then one day Isolde was told that he was married, and at that she might return home. Instead she took the vow of the nun who had been her only companion during her loneliness.

It was not until several years later, in a chance meeting with a servant of Isolde's family, at Johann learned where his sweetheart was. It was too late. Johann, so the story goes, returned to England and had the very miniature of Isolde copied by a portrait painter. But the painting gave the brown eyes a light so like that it revived the old man. Finally Johann took the painting back to the artist and had that the eyes be covered by a veil that would partially reveal them.

As today the two pictures hang opposite walls, the serious face of the handsome soldier turned toward the strange sight of a beautiful woman whose gently smiling lips and patrician nose are the only visible parts of her face. D. K. Winder, the artist who painted the beautiful Belgian girl for her love.

The paintings were brought to America in 1871 by Miss Platte's father. The name of the artist appears on the bottom of the canvases, but is too blurred to be legible. And Miss Platte does not know who painted them.

Treasure Hunters Seeking Old Cache Of Mexican Gold

HOUSTON, Tex.—Recovery of $4,000,000 worth of Mexican gold bars said to have been resting in the quicksand at the bottom of Fish Hook lake for nearly 100 years is expected within the next few weeks, according to Henry C. Barnes of Houston who is directing the search.

Barnes said he and members of the searching party actually have felt the gold or some metallic substance with prod poles. He said it was resting in the quicksand 22 feet below the surface. He said it would be necessary to sink a plank enclosed shaft to it. Quicksand seeping in at the bottom of the shaft will be disposed of by pumping water and the quicksand out one side of the shaft, he explained.

Salvaging of the gold will mark the end of a search started 30 years ago when an injured Mexican gave Barnes a map drawn on a goat skin, supposed to show the exact location of the gold bars.

The bars were said to have been thrown into the lake by the Mexican army about 10 days before the battle of San Jacinto.

The Mexican was dying, Barnes said, and was grateful for favors shown him by the American.

Barnes said the map showed the location of the gold but failed to give the site of the lake, the chief clue to which was an anchor cut into a tree by the lakeside.

The treasure hunter searched in vain for the lake and only a few months ago while talking to an old settler learned that such a tree had been found on the banks of Fish Hook lake years ago.

SOPHIE KERR'S SUPERB LOVE STORY "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

By Sophie Kerr

BEHIND HERE TODAY

JANE TERRY comes to New York determined to show her home town, and especially AMY JACKSON that she can make a success of her life. Amy had been her best friend until HOWARD JACKSON broke the engagement. Jane forced on him and married a girl she could not love, and she is now a widow with a young child.

Jane is clever and soon is making a name for herself. She has an affair with ROGER THORPE, who is married. Later she tries to bring her daughter away, and she has the expense of their child she dismisses his contamination.

In her desperate plight Jane turns to her old friend, Howard, who is touring Germany and Amy comes to New York. She tells him the baby is born and then, horrified because Jane insists on giving her daughter away, agrees to take the child with the understanding that Jane never shall see her.

When Amy returns to Marburg, she tells her mother what Howard will do in Europe, and what Howard will do in Europe, and what Howard will do in Europe.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

PROFESSOR LOWE looked down at the tiny baby. "Amy, you must name her," he said. "This continual use of the feminine pronoun annoys me."

"Then you suggest something," Amy prompted. "All fancy and historical names barred."

"Too bad—I was just going to suggest Bonadica or Xenobia or Cleopatra! But there's still Margaret of Navarre and Elizabeth and Mary or good Queen Anne, Helen of Troy, Calpurnia—"

"For heaven's sake, who was she?"

"Amy, I'm ashamed of you. Calpurnia was Julius Caesar's wife."

"Name her Catherine and call her Kitty for short," said Mrs. Lowe. "She's more like a kitten with its eyes not open than anything I ever saw."

They had reached the door. It seemed to Amy, entering, that there had never been any place so beautiful, so welcoming as that old house. The windows were open. The green garden beyond looked in at them. A lazy south breeze stirred the white curtains and brought the honeysuckle. "Oh," she exclaimed, "I didn't know how sweet it was, or how much I missed it. And you've put flowers around—it makes me want to cry. I'm so glad to be home again."

They left her taking off her hat, opening her bags. As they drove away Professor Lowe said to his wife haltingly: "It has to come to all parents, I suppose, but I didn't know how much it was going to hurt, the moment when their child is definitely done with youth. I always think of Amy as such a lovely, happy young thing, and yet today—I realized—the first real touch of age. It wasn't the fatigue of the trip, nor the worry about Howard. She's been through something more, some difficult experience that's changed her and matured her. And I can tell you, my dear, it hurt me in a queer helpless way. That was why I talked so much nonsense about the infant's name."

"I know, I felt exactly what you mean. But it can't be done. We fathers and mothers can't shelter our children forever. If we did

Test Is Devised For City Police

CHICAGO.—Cities now can determine how the general ability of their police force compares with a national standard by using a newly designed police adaptability test.

The test, made up by the United States Civil Service Commission at the request of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, was devised to improve police personnel and eventually set up a national standard of attainment.

Tried out successfully in sample cities, including Washington, D. C., eight cities are already giving their police officers the test based on practical knowledge and ability to analyze and solve police problems. The cities are Berkeley, Cal; Mason City, Ia.; Wichita Kan.; Lansing, Mich.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Norfolk, Va.; Seattle, Wash., and Kenosha, Wis.

"Experience on a police force may enable men to perform police duties more effectively than could new men with higher intelligence," said Dr. L. J. O'Rourke, director of research of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, who designed the test. "For this reason, it must not be assumed that experienced men on the force should be dropped because their intelligence ratings are somewhat below the entrance requirements set up through the test."

"Raising entrance standards," he continued, "will eliminate some men who would make good policemen, it is true. But the main problem is to insure increased efficiency on the force as a whole."

Hot Springs Girl Hailed as Prodigy

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—Hailed as one of the outstanding child prodigies of the age, little Janet Grant, 8, of Hot Springs, has been invited to appear in recital in Washington by the International Art Forum.

Janet spurns jazz, concentrating on the music of the masters. At 4 she played Beethoven. At 5, she mastered Bach's compositions. She is a master of both violin and piano, performing on both with amazing technique. Despite her unusual feats in music, she is a normal, unspoiled child. She weighs 90 pounds, is active, healthy and is advanced in studies as far as the normal 15-year-old.

"I am using your Kruschen Salts for constipation and reducing. Have taken 3 jars and have lost about 20 lbs. I can recommend it to be great." Miss A. J. Barber, Pineville, Ky., 1934.

"I have taken 3 bottles of Kruschen. I weighed 256, I reduced 56 lbs., and felt better each day, have got my 4th bottle." Ed Jordan, Levee, Ariz., 1934.

If you are proud of your double chin and bulging abdomen don't take Kruschen Salts. Ed Jordan made up his mind to take off 50 or more pounds of fat—and he did—Ed was sick and tired of lugging it around with him—persistence won for Ed as it will for any fat man.

Wilson, 62, now a resident of Williamsburg, was a student at Union College in his youth and began work on his degree. Swerving from his course, he began to specialize in normal school work and for three decades has been regarded as one of the state's outstanding educators in this line of teaching.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sick and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to do you exactly what you want and need.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your distress and out-letting is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless gentle vegetable extracts, among them is present in making the bile flow freely.

Don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25c-41 drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.
