GROUP MEETS TO DISCUSS HOUSING ACT

A group of Ranger citizens met in the offices of the chamber of commerce Monday afternoon to perfect an organization under the National Housing Act and to discuss the possibility of securing credit for home owners in Ranger with which they could make repairs.

W. C. Hickey acted as chairman of the meeting and explained the purposes of the National Housing Act and read some letters and extracts from literature he had received about the plan.

After some discussion, in which L. H. Flewellen, Calvin Brown, F. D. Hicks and R. S. Balch made short talks, it was voted unanimously that L. H. Flewellen be elected temporary chairman of a local organization and that W. C. Hickey act as secretary.

It was also voted unanimously that the chairman and secretary write letters to the district headquarters at Fort Worth, requesting that a government man be sent to Ranger to meet with the citizens, explain the provisions and requirements under the act and to advise with them as to the amount of money that could be secured in Ranger for remodeling the homes of the town.

After the federal representative explains in detail the plan, a permanent organization may be formed, with committees appointed to look after the various details of the work that will be required.

Mother Pleads For Someone to Awaken Daughter

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—A mother's pleading went out to the world of medical science today to produce a "prince charming" who can awaken pretty Patricia Maguire from her two and a half years of slumber.

Somewhere, pleaded Patricia's mother, there must be some one and some way of arousing the "sleeping beauty, whose long sleep has baffled medical men."

Everything has been tried. There have been blood transfusions, oxygen tents and even some of the weird cures bordering on witchcraft have been tried.

But the 20 year old stenographer who dozed off Feb. 14, 1932, with a yawning remark, "I wonder if I am going to have that sleeping sickness I have been reading about," sleeps on.

40 BULLDOGS OUT MONDAY FOR PRACTICE

About 40 candidates for places on the Ranger High school football team reported to Coach Otis (Red) Moore Monday afternoon for the first regular practice session of the season with two or three who are expected to play on the team unable to be present at the first workout, but who are to be on hand within the next few days.

Rough Weather Threatens Two Endurance Fliers

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Rough weather today marred the progress of the two girls from Texas as their big "Lone Star" monoplane dived closer to the half way mark in their attempt at a new women's flight endurance record.

The girl pilots, Gene Le Rene and Mary Owens, guided their ship to various altitudes, trying to avoid the rough weather. Last night at 11:13 p. m. the girls passed the 100-hour mark and at 6:15 p. m. tonight they will have reached the half way mark toward the present record of 237 hours and 45 minutes.

NEW STORMS APPROACHING TEXAS COAST

HOUSTON, Aug. 28.—New storm fears gripped the Texas coast today from the Matagorda Bay section to Galveston.

It had been thought the hurricane which caused gales and rain storms over a wide area yesterday struck Freeport during the night and dissipated its force, but a new advisory from Washington warned that the storm had not reached the coast an urged continue caution.

The bureau's advisory located the center of the storm 25 miles south of Velasco, which would put it just a few miles off the coast about opposite Freeport.

As many who fled from that section made their way back to their homes today, believing the storm had passed inland, the weather bureau ordered storm warnings along the coast from San Luis Pass to Port O'Connor.

"The direction of movement is uncertain," the advisory warns, "and precaution should not be relaxed until further advised."

No serious damage has been reported along the coast, although some sections were swept yesterday by gales and rains.

NEW GASOLINE PLANT TO GIVE WORK TO MANY

BRECKENRIDGE, Aug. 28.—Employment for more than 210 men from Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge and Ranger has been provided by major construction activities at Lone Star Gasoline company Brooks plant northeast of Breckenridge. Additions to the plant and new pipe lines to bring the gas to the plant have been started and will be completed by October 1st.

Reconstruction of this plant will give additional gas supply facilities to the Lone Star Gas company main pipe line system serving numerous cities in North Central and West Texas, including Dallas and Fort Worth.

When completed the Brooks plant will be one of the largest natural gasoline absorption plants in Texas and the largest operated by Lone Star Gasoline company. It will have 23 compressor units, three auxiliary power engines, and will provide permanent employment for additional men. Total daily capacity of the plant is being increased from 10,000,000 cubic feet to 16,000,000 cubic feet of gas and 30,000 gallons of gasoline.

Men instead of machines are used for ditching and excavating so that a greater number can be given employment. More than a half ton of ice is purchased daily to supply ice-water to the beehive of men engaged. Two carloads of cement, eight carloads of gravel, 100 tons of dynamite, two tons of carbide, a half ton of welding rods and large quantities of other supplies necessary in construction work have already been used.

More than five miles of 8-inch and 16-inch pipe lines, 23,000 feet, have been laid.

Installation of six large compressor engines and a building to house them is being supervised by S. W. Taft of Eastland, construction engineer for the Lone Star Gas company compressor department. Mr. Taft organized his crew of 30 men, most of whom were unemployed, from Eastland and Eastland county.

Additional production recently acquired by Lone Star from Gulf Production company is the reason given for increasing capacity of the Brooks plant. The production is located north, south, and immediately west of Breckenridge, and will assist in maintaining an adequate gas supply for the Lone Star Gas system.

The following are in charge of various construction activities: Paul C. Coffin, assistant to J. R. Jarvis of Dallas, general superintendent of Lone Star gasoline plants; Harry Wheelon of Ranger, district superintendent of gasoline plants in West Texas; J. A. Bates, superintendent of Breckenridge district; Cecil Louks, assistant to Mr. Bates; Luther Tolbert, assistant pipe line superintendent; J. L. Hamilton of Ranger, master mechanic, and Mr. Taft of Eastland.

Canning of Meats Is Explained By Miss Ruth Ramey

This article has been prepared and will be published both in this paper and in the weekly papers of the county so that everyone may know just how the work should be done.

Those interested should watch the papers and the article will be published this week.

Before and After Remodeling

These illustrations show how a home, run-down in appearance, can be completely transformed into an attractive, livable dwelling with a little modernization operation under the National Housing Act.

Success of The Home Modernization Program Depends Upon The Full Co-operation of All The People

The public—home owners, financial executives and industrial men—will determine the success of the Better Housing Program. The Federal Housing Administration provides the plan and works out the details; the remainder hinges upon the cooperation it receives from the rest of the nation.

With the launching of this immense plan, thousands of owners of homes and other buildings will be able to make necessary repairs, alterations and improvements on their property by taking advantage of the attractive loan basis made possible by the F. H. A. The loans may be obtained from local agencies collaborating with the Government, for repairing, altering or improving existing buildings or the grounds.

Plans for effective and interesting community campaigns are being evolved at the headquarters of the Federal Housing Administration, to be sponsored locally by trade organizations and civic groups.

Financial institutions will find the type of loan sponsored by the Federal Housing Administration to be one of the safest that can be made, since in very few cases, if any, will losses be greater than the amount insured by the Administration.

Industries more than a thousand strong are already showing an interest in the vast undertaking and asking how they can cooperate. They are urged to fit their plans as far as possible to those of the Federal Housing Administration, and above all, to maintain fair prices in the face of the great demand that is certain to come for building supplies and labor.

It is this sort of cooperation administration officials feel that will put the Better Housing Program over, and start the country toward complete recovery.

JOHNSON'S SALARY BOOSTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's frequent critics could not afford to sacrifice his private business earning capacity for government service have won him a pay boost from $6,000 to $15,000 a year as NRA administrator. Recovery administration officials revealed today that Johnson's salary was increased July 1 by order of President Roosevelt.

An Opportunity Ranger Should Not Miss

Monday afternoon L. H. Flewellen was elected general chairman of the movement sponsored by the Federal government and known as the National Housing Act, passed by the last session of Congress for the purpose of rehabilitating the homes of the people in every community in the United States. This meeting Monday was attended by a representative group from every business in Ranger and was discussed by several present. Out of this gathering and temporary organization it is hoped to form a permanent organization, from which will ultimately result much work and employment for the craftsmen in Ranger and trade territory.

The purpose of the meeting was to get a federal man here who understands the working of the housing act, who will assist Ranger in perfecting an organization that will function and one that will receive recognition from the government. W. C. Hickey, elected secretary, was instructed to get in touch with Robert Stewart of Fort Worth and see when he could come to Ranger and explain in detail the plan and also assist in working out the minute details in completing the organization.

WTCC URGES PARITY WITH OTHER STATES

STAMFORD, Aug. 28.—Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are being asked by James D. Hamlin, president of the organization, to call upon the West Texas members of the Texas Legislature during the present special session to insist that Federal Emergency Relief Administration allotments to Texas be increased to a parity with other states in the union, and that supplementary funds be reduced to a parity with what other states are giving.

These recommendations followed a study made by the regional chamber's Commission on Territorial Development, headed by R. H. Nichols of Vernon, of relief allotments to all of the states in the union, and of the amount of state funds that have supplemented the federal allotments in each of the states for the year 1933, and the first quarter of 1934—these being the only periods upon which the statistics were available.

The report of Chairman Nichols of the Territorial Commission composed of 38 directors of the chamber in part follows:

"From an investigation we have made we feel that this state is being discriminated against on federal emergency relief and we are of the opinion that these facts should be brought to the attention of the legislature and the relief commission at the forthcoming special session. We are enclosing herewith for your information an analysis made of relief allotments made to all states of the union. You will note on a per capita basis that Texas ranks 45th among the states in the amount of money received. You will note that Texas has received $4.50 per capita; Louisiana has received $10.30; New Mexico, $10.00; Arizona, $14.85; Oklahoma, $6.70. One year drought states not much larger than our three year drought Panhandle counties, and with needs no more acute have received from four to seven times as much as Texas. South Dakota having received $26.00 per capita, and North Dakota, $17.15 per capita. Even the District of Columbia with all of its federal payroll and with millions of public works money being spent has secured $18.80 per capita against our $4.50.

"Although our investigation is not complete, it appears from the figures we have that Texas likewise is putting up more state funds than other states. A statement on this for 1933 shows that 18 states made no appropriations for matching relief fundings. For the first quarter of 1934, twenty states made no state appropriations while three contributed less than 1 per cent, seven between 1 and 10 per cent, five between 10 and 20 per cent, two between 20 and 30 per cent, four between 30 and 40 per cent, four between 40 and 50 per cent, two between 50 and 60 per cent, two between 60 and 70 per cent, and two states, including Texas, contributed between 70 and 80 per cent of the cost of relief.

"For the sake of fairness and with the view of taking care of our needs on a parity with other states I therefore urge you to permit me to lay this matter before the proper authorities, i. e. to urge the FERA allotments to Texas should be increased to a parity with other states, and secondly, that state supplementary funds should be reduced to a parity with other states."

Schuschnigg Says Hitler Schemed Dolfuss Slaying

GENEVA, Aug. 28.—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg will place before the league of nations and the foreign ministers of France, Great Britain and Italy, documents purporting to fix responsibility of assassination of Chancellor Dolfuss, directly on Germany.

PEACE PLAN IS URGED BY LEGION HEAD

MINERAL WELLS, Aug. 28.—Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, today proposed as a guarantee of peace a law making universal service compulsory in war time. He addressed Legionnaires of Texas at their 16th annual convention.

"When we enact into the law of the land the principal that every element—industry, capital, transportation, natural resources, as well as man power—must serve equally, and without privilege or profit, we will then have established an individual responsibility for each and every citizen which will awaken in all a realization of citizenship duties," he said.

NEARLY ALL OF MEMBERS FAVOR BILL

W. E. Pope Secures Signatures of 90 Per Cent of House Members.

AUSTIN, Aug. 28.—Two years relief from tax interest and penalties was proposed in a bill circulated in the Texas House of Representatives. Approximately 90 per cent of the members had signed.

Rep. W. E. Pope, Corpus Christi, author of the bill, said he will present it to the governor as soon as all members have had an opportunity to sign it.

He was confident the signatures will cause the governor to submit the topic. Under the bill the usual interest and penalties would be dropped for a two year period. Taxes could be paid up to next March 31, with one per cent added to the amount originally due; with two per cent added if paid by December 31, 1935; four per cent if paid by March 31, 1936, and six per cent if paid by Oct. 1, 1936.

Consideration of the relief bill to issue the remaining $9,500,000 state relief bonds was begun this afternoon by the state affairs committee of the house. Many senators members attended the hearing. Invitation was extended relief director Johnson, and the governor.

Cattle Buying to Be Continued Until 'Emergency is Met'

AUSTIN, Tex.—Representatives of the Texas Southwest Cattle Raisers' Association, The Gulf Coast Cattle Raisers' association, the drought relief service, Bureau of Animal Industry, State Livestock Sanitary Commission and railroad met at Houston Wednesday to coordinate the cattle buying program in Texas and attempt to inform the public generally of the problems of the program.

C. Z. Crain, head of the surplus commodities department and R. D. McCrum, cattle movement supervisor of the Texas Relief Commission, attended the meeting from Austin.

Explaining the county quota basis, Crain said it was necessary to limit the shipments from each county to 450 head per week in order to avoid congestion at pens and processing plants. He explained that the processing plants can handle only about 70,000 head of cattle per day at capacity. At the same time, Crain said he had been assured from Washington that the buying program will be continued "until the emergency has been met."

To farmers and ranchmen whose herds have not yet been touched Crain declared that the program will continue until every cattle raiser has had a chance to sell the animals he wishes to cull from his herd.

As a result of the government's program, the cattle population of Texas, estimated at near 7,000,000 is expected to be reduced by approximately 2,000,000. Already, some 600,000 heads have been shipped from the state.

Under the quota arrangement, the most acute cases of distressed cattle are to be handled first, Crain said. In addition to the 450 head for shipping purposes, condemnations of cows unfit for shipment will bring the total sales per county per week up to approximately 650 head. One visit to a pasture doesn't necessarily mean that it is the last. After animals hardest hit by the drought have been eliminated, federal agents may return later to buy other undesirable animals, and further reduce the surplus.

Crain again asked cattle owners to bear in mind that field representatives are working just as fast as quotas will allow them and that every effort will be made to reach all distressed herds.

TREE BELT CHIEFS TO OPEN OFFICES FOR BUSINESS

President Roosevelt, years before he became President or governor of New York, "viewed the desert belt of Texas from a Pullman car window." It must have been in the drouth season of the year as the heat was intense and the dust was intolerable. Now the forest service of the federal government has announced the administrative office for its 1000-mile tree shelter belt across the plains states will be located at Lincoln, Neb. State divisional offices will be established in the capitals of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas—the states to be traversed by the shelter belt. Technical phases of the projects will be under control of Dr. Raphael Zon, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment station. Land for the planting of the trees will be acquired by long time lease, out-right purchase or by co-operative agreements with the owners. Active work will start as soon as the necessary organization is completed. According to Washington advices forest service officials are taking into consideration the emergency employment relief situation in the selection of men for the job and "qualified men are being assigned from the relief rolls." It is important that Uncle Sam should be the chief water boy for the trees to be planted.

Tree planting is an easy job in the drouth infested plains section reaching all the way from the Canadian border line to the Rio Grande. Watering the trees daily when old Sol is a sure enough scorcher in summertime will be the real job if the millions of trees are to survive the planting. Just now all these desert plains or scorched areas need water and the trees will need it all the time after the planting in the summer season of the year.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS was a girl in the prettiest New York suburb, but her father's financial reverses made it hard for her to keep up with her crowd. Wealthy SYLVIA RIVERBES schemes to force Boots to resign from the Juniors. Deeply hurt, Boots accepts the attention of RUSSELL, her swimming instructor. She realizes she is in love with Boots when he tells her he is going away. He wants her to 'cling' with him, but Boots asks for time to think it over. She decides the time when her mother will hear about her withdrawal from the club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

MRS. RAEBURN came into the living room with a puzzled expression on her thin, lined face. "That was Alice Fernell," she said. "I wonder what on earth she wanted. She sounded rather queer."

Boots looked up, her eyes clouding. Her heart had begun to beat irregularly.

"What did she say?"

"Only that she wanted specially to see me. She'll be over at three. Now, what in the world," worried Mrs. Raeburn, plumping a cushion. "What do you suppose it's about?"

Boots shook her head. It was coming—the moment which had so dreaded, the moment which had been artificially postponed by her mother's visit to Aunt Nedda's. Alice Fernell with her steam-roller tactics, her tact that was worse than bluntness, her veiled accusations.

Boots went out into the garden blindly. The heat of noonday poured down upon her.

"What am I going to do?" she asked herself. "Mother won't understand. Jane Fernell was staring at me yesterday when I talked to Russ at the beach. And about when she knew about it."

The situation was unendurable. "I think I'll go to the city after lunch," she said, coming into the kitchen where her mother was shelling peas. "Here, let me do that." She took the wooden bowl from the thin, nervous hands. . . .

The very act of shelling peas, of spurring the little emerald globules into the bowl, relieved her unbearable tension.

"Why, dear, I don't think I'd do that if I were you," her mother said quickly and vaguely. "It's so hot."

"I've saved up my allowance for three weeks," Boots told her. "I want a big hat. I'll go down to one of those Fourteenth Street places."

"Well," Mrs. Raeburn's objections were silenced. "It would be nice," she muttered a little later, "if you could drive in with somebody. It's simply stifling on the train."

Boots agreed. She had no conscious plan, no real idea of doing anything desperate or final. Her one idea, for the moment, was to leave the village and its problems behind her. It was cowardly of her to run off and leave her mother to face Mrs. Fernell. But what else could she do? Perhaps she would have time to run in and see Mrs. George before train time, ask her if anything had turned up about a job on the staff of "Womanhood."

"I'll find something to do in the city," Boots said. "I'll find a job."

People trembled with excitement and promptly forgot all about them. Denis Fenway, only this morning had made a half-hearted promise to look up something for her. But he had probably already forgotten that she existed.

"You've got to do things for yourself," the girl muttered bitterly. "No one else cares."

The pavements fairly cracked with heat as she walked down to the station. Awnings were dropped against shop windows all along the main street. The asphalt bubbled with tar which stuck to the soles of her white shoes. Her thin dark blue swims frock her little dark blue bag with the field flowers were immensely becoming but today all this did not seem to matter.

She passed Ethlyn Tree at the bank corner and the younger girl, whose vacuous smile and loud meaningless laugh she had always rather disliked, stopped a moment to chat.

"Where you been keeping your self?" Ethlyn wanted to know, languidly. To do her credit, she genuinely admired Boots and was trying to be friendly. But Boots misunderstood the intent and the interest and thought Ethlyn was merely prying.

"I've been around all summer," she said with cool defensiveness, nodding and passing on. Her cheeks burned. That day should have been the day Boots and Ethlyn might be estranged by that stupid little Tree girl! Hatred for Sylvia rose again in her like a tide. All of this was Sylvia's fault. She had her to blame for the whole miserable summer. Oh, if she might pay her back in her own coin! But she was powerless. Sylvia had all the odds in her favor.

THE red brick station bared in the heat and Boots found its moldy interior gratefully cool. The rows of dusty benches, the magazine stand with its racks of 5-cent candies and sheaves of bright-covered periodicals was a familiar sight. One or two hardy matrons stood about, talking brightly to each other. These she avoided, plunging down the stairway that led to the westbound platform. When the train came toping in she swung herself aboard without looking to the right or left. She did not, she told herself grimly, want to spend the entire 50 minutes talking animatedly to some dull neighbor. She did not observe the young man who came racing along the platform at the last moment, flinging a battered cowhide bag ahead of him. He strode through several swaying cars, glancing intently at each passenger as he went. In the second car the girl in dark blue was seated quite alone, staring moodily out of the window. The broad-shouldered young man's eyes lighted on her with satisfaction. He hung the bag into the overhead rack and sat down beside her.

Boots did not stir nor did she show any evidence of interest in her seatmate, her gaze lost to the flying landscape. They ran past little colonial houses with yards ending in wire fences bordering the railroad right of way. Past the "bits" the train swung and rocked, and here you caught a glimpse of shabby houses with sagging back porches, their dooryards a welter of tin cans, old Fords and enterprising chickens. A goat peered inquisitively through a jagged tear in the wire and two or three dirty and scantily dressed children played in a sandbox baking under the sky.

Boots stirred, sighed, folded her gloves nervously in her warm, lax fingers. For the first time she was conscious of the other person in the seat beside her. Some faint, subtle aroma, compounded of tobacco and old weeds, stirred a sense-memory. Her pulse quickened. She turned with wide, startled eyes under the dark brim of her summer hat.

"You!" she stammered.

The man beside her was Russ Lund.

TWO hours later she was seated opposite him in a restaurant in the upper fifties. A small square table, painted green, rocked on unsteady legs between them.

"I think we must be crazy," she was saying unsteadily, toying with her spoon. "I just came in to do some shopping to look for a job. You can't expect me to go off with you like this at a moment's notice. It wouldn't be right."

Russ shrugged his shoulders impatiently. You could see he had been over this ground before.

"It'd be perfectly simple," he said. "You stay in town tonight. Put up at a hotel, call your mother up and say you've met somebody who wants you to stay over. Haven't you got anybody—a cousin, aunt or anything?"

"Of course. Two or three people," Boots admitted. "She might think it was funny but she wouldn't worry really."

"Then tomorrow we'll go down to City Hall, get the license and find a minister to marry us. I'll stay at my brother's in Astoria to-night," Russ elaborated.

"No—no," Boots shook her head. "It would break her heart. I simply can't."

"But you said it would be impossible at home. You told me not an hour ago you simply couldn't go back that you had to find a way out."

"I know. I know," she bit her lip. Alice Fernell was with her mother now. After her mother heard the story Boots would be shipped off to Aunt Nedda's. She would die or dry rot in Aunt Nedda's terrible, dull house.

"Listen, sweet," he began, trying another tack. "You trust me, don't you?"

"Of course I do." The eyes she lifted to his were heavy, their young lustre dimmed.

"Well then, why not take a chance with me? We can have a good time. You won't be sorry."

A good time . . . an escape from her difficulties . . .

The waitress came, hovering over them for the fifth or sixth time, extending a simsy check with stubby fingers. They wandered out into the baking street between rows of shabby brownstone houses with plane trees, high-fenced, bringing an occasional touch of green into the scene.

"I'm so hot," Boots said childishly, "and my head aches and I'm so tired."

"Look here, look here," said the young man with concern. He held up two fingers and a roving taxi slowed to admit them.

"Hitch! Willowsers," Russ said. (To Be Continued)

Care of Clothing—Storage Proper storage space is one of the big secrets in dressing well and making clothes last longer. If we expect to keep well dressed and expect our clothes to last we must treat them with care. Nothing contributes more toward prolonging the life of ones garments than a well arranged, well kept, clothes closet. This type of closet also minimizes the amount of energy in caring for the clothing. These are some of the suggestions Mrs. Elbert Ezell, clothing demonstrator of the Reich home demonstration club give the cooperators of her club and the women of the county. She suggests the following dimensions for a clothes closet; build to the ceiling and use the surplus space in top for storing quilts or boxes; as wide a space will permit and at least 24 to 26 inches deep. A rod should extend the full length of the wardrobe and be up high enough to keep all garments from touching the floor. Closets narrower than the 24 to 26 inches are not wide enough to prevent the garments from being crushed when the door is closed. Shoes may be kept in drawers, on one of the shelves or on a rack on the door or wall. Make plans for all garments and articles.

Storing Canned Foods Due to the length of the hot summer storage period in this section one should have a cellar or well ventilated pantry for storing canned food, states Mrs. J. W. Tame, cooperator of the Peak home demonstration club. Containers should be placed on shelves and one-half inches above each other and not more than three containers deep nor two high in order to let the air circulate around at all time. Shelves built this way will not waste space because the cans and jars fit in and fill all available space.

Fall Greens Swiss Chard is a vegetable cold weather will have little effect upon. I plant this every fall and have all the greens needed for the family and surplus green food for the chickens. The bitter taste some complain of can be done away with by removing the large coarse veins from the leaves. This is a good green for canning and is a quick growth. Mrs. R. L. Cooner, Bass Lake home demonstration club cooperator, gave this information in a discussion of leafy vegetables in the diet at a club meeting. We always plan a fall turnip patch, change this year or try both greens in the patch.

Pantries Can Be Filled in Dry Weather Six hundred and forty containers of food fill the pantry shelves of Mrs. P. S. Larkin, farm food supply demonstrator of the Peak home demonstration club. Mrs. Larkin has traded peaches for pears, apples and grapes in order to have a variety of fruit for the family. The food supply contains Irish potatoes, dry beans and peas, and the fall garden will supply other vegetables for storing, such as turnip and pumpkin and sweet potatoes. The meat supply is to be canned and cured yet, one beef and the pork.

This pantry is worth approximately two hundred dollars and cost me about $18 to preserve, states Mrs. Larkin. With the supply on the shelves, I can give my family the fruit and vegetables they should have each day. It is cheaper to feed the family to keep well rather than pay a doctor bill. The canned products include leafy vegetables, starchy and other vegetables, tomatoes, fruits (canned, dried and preserved), jellies and pickles, and the meat and protein supply will be supplied with the canned and cured meat, the dried vegetables, milk and butter and eggs from the dairy and poultry of the farm. Since the potato and fruit crop started in we have traded these products for the staple groceries and have not had to put out any cash for the family food supply. I have these products stored in a well ventilated storage space and they are not hot in summer and not cold in the winter. The storage is one of the most important points to consider when planning the food supply.

Sweet Corn Honey June sweet corn is good for this section in dry weather and the seed will be given four cooperators in the Romney 4-H club by the demonstrator, Katherine Webb, to try next season which may be a more suitable season for all products. Katherine planted one-half of an acre of the corn and tried this fresh, but did not eat any due to the drought cutting it short. Katherine and the cooperators of the club plan to plant the corn another year and try canning, drying and using fresh. The demonstration this season is more in treating the seed to keep the weevils and moths out. This can be done by artificial heat, but I have treated mine in the following way: This method was recommended in a bulletin from the Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station, Texas. Spread the seed in a thin layer, not more than two seed deep, on sheet metal or the roof (sheet metal) exposed to the direct rays of the sun from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. The sun rays are required temperature 120 degrees during this time. This treatment should be done on a bright cloudless quiet day. After treating, store in a sealed paper bag or glass jar.

Peanut Growers To Get Benefit Payments on Crops

WASHINGTON.—Acting secretary of Agriculture Resford G. Tugwell today proclaimed that rental and benefit payments will be made on peanuts, designated by the last Congress as a basic agricultural commodity under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. The payments will be derived from a processing tax, the rate and scope of which will be considered at a public hearing to be held August 21, in Room 1, Board of Tax Appeals, Internal Revenue Building, Washington, D. C., it was announced by Chester C. Davis, administrator of the Act. J. B. Hutson, chief of the tobacco section, has been designated to work out the peanut adjustment program. The plan provides for diverting a portion of the 1933 and 1934 crop from the shelling to the oil trade and for adjusting the plantings in 1935. Under this proposal, benefit payments would be made this season on that portion of the crop diverted to oil, which would bring the returns to growers for such peanuts used for oil to approximately the level prevailing for shelled goods. The contracts would have flexible provisions under which the individual grower could divert a small or large portion of his crop to oil depending on the prices paid for shelling goods. In addition he would receive rental payments in order to make the adjustment to the desirable production next year. It is expected that the details of the plan will be completed and contracts available to growers before October 1. Consideration also is being given to a marketing agreement which would supplement the production adjustment program. A conference will be held in Washington on August 30 for the purpose of determining whether shellers and millers desire to enter into a marketing agreement for the coming season. The average price paid farmers for peanuts during the last marketing season was 2.9 cents a pound as compared with 1.6 cents a pound in 1932. Peanuts the grown commercially in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. Approximately 200,000 growers produce around one billion pounds of peanuts annually.

Employers Plan Drive to Restrict The Labor Unions

By H. O. THOMPSON United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright 1934 by United Press) WASHINGTON.—Organized employers are planning a drive at the next session of Congress to place legal restrictions on the activities of labor unions. There is on the other hand agitation from the rank and file of labor for direct action to bring a clearer cut definition of the collective bargaining power recognized in the National Industrial Recovery Act, and for definite steps by the government to make this guarantee effective and binding. The American Federation of Labor is under fire from both directions. It is being attacked by employers as too grasping and criticized by some of its membership as not sufficiently aggressive. The National Association of Manufacturers has distributed copies of the British Trade Disputes Act of 1927 and apparently will sponsor some such law in the United States. The British act made strikes illegal under certain conditions, prohibited sympathetic or general strikes, limited picketing and in general controlled local employment relations. "We will fight strenuously against any such plan," said William Green, president of the A. F. of L. "In addition, we are taking an active part in the campaigns this Fall. We are going into the labor record of every candidate for office and will support only the worthy ones. We don't stand for any weakening of our rights under the Recovery Act." Another type of labor union control, advocated by some em-

Let's Talk About Clothes
 By a "YOUNG MODERN"

DENTON.—Shall we get out and walk? Of course not if you don't want to, but have you ever decided just why it is that you don't particularly care for the "roses to your cheeks." Maybe it's your shoes!

Dame Fashion says walk for your health, walk for your figure, walk for fun, but walk in comfort, and Texas State College for Women (GIA) co-eds readily agree.

Several years ago it was with some reluctance that college girls "walked in comfort" for the existing patterns in "comfort shoes" weren't just the thing to be seen in on campus. But now the new low heels, so attractive and easy on your feet are the smartest being shown to wear with tweeds and new fall dress fabrics.

Designed in light colored silk effectively trimmed with dark brown calf, perforated designs or a pebbly looking grain calf which gives two tone effects, the ever-popular oxfords and ghillie ties will help you "get on to your stride."

For more formal dress the latest fall shoes are designed in alligator and reptile skins cut to a high lance in either pump or oxford styles. Let them be conservative but attractive, neat and most of all harmonize with your new fall ensemble.

With an eye to "glamour for the evening" college students select a frivolous sandal in silver or gold for their dancing dress. Dark sandals in black, brown or navy blue also make their appearance in early fall styles to blend with the formal evening gown.

Choose your shoes to harmonize with your costume—it's most essential in perfect grooming.

Minister Proud of 47 Canes In Collection

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Dr. Roger T. Nooe, Nashville minister, has in his collection of 47 canes one that President Roosevelt formerly used.

Dr. Nooe started collecting canes about 23 years ago and since then he has obtained canes from Europe, South America and island countries. He has one that came from Juan Fernandez, the island that is said to have given Daniel DeFoe his inspiration to write "Robinson Crusoe." This particular cane is made from chunta wood. Another one is a silver-handled snake wood cane that he bought in Peru.

Good Crowd Sees Fights on Monday

A large and enthusiastic crowd witnessed Doug Henderson throw Bob Blaylock the best two out of three falls last night at the Elks Arena, Ranger. Doug was at a disadvantage as he had hurt his leg early in the match and Bob was using all his strength to get a leg hold on Doug. Both falls were with rocking chair splits. Blaylock was substituting for Jack Fields, who was unable to appear.

Doc Pool beat the pretty boy, Bobby Davidson, in the best two out of three. This match was fast and both boys were plenty rough.

The eight rounds of boxing between Bobby Reed and Chico Alvarez, the Mexican boy from the Rio Grande country, was full of pep from the start. The Mexican lad is the fastest boxer we have seen in the ring in some time and packs plenty of dynamite. Bobby Reed is a hard and cautious fighter and packs lead also. Both the boys really fought and the match was declared a draw.

MAGNOLIA IS WINNER IN A PLAY-OFF GAME

The Magnolia team from Olden won the second half championship Monday afternoon in the most thrilling game of the season, as a fitting climax to the close of the season and with all kinds of plays involved in the victory.

What was estimated as the largest crowd of the season witnessed the game, which was delayed at the start because the spectators' cars crowded into left field and the game was delayed until they could be moved back some. As it was they interfered somewhat with the game as two balls in the first innings went under cars and hampered the fielders somewhat.

Roy Moore, manager of the Lone Star team and Fred Warren, manager of the Magnolia team, met after the game and decided upon a three-game series, the team winning two out of the three games being declared champions of the season. The games will begin Wednesday afternoon and will continue each evening until one team has won two games. The games will be called promptly at 6 o'clock instead of 6:30 in order that they may be completed before dark.

Coming from behind in the sixth, at which time Lone Star was leading by a 7 to 0 score, Magnolia ran in eight runs to take the lead momentarily, after which Lone Star again forged ahead only to have Magnolia win the game by a 12 to 9 score in the last half of the last inning.

Lone Star started scoring in the first half of the first inning when G. Yonker was safe at first on an error by Smith, Foy doubled and T. Yonker doubled and scored on an error by Woods in left field, who let the ball get away from him and roll to the cars.

Lone Star picked up one run in the third when T. Yonker walked and scored on Littlefield's triple and got three more in the fifth when Kindred and Dick made errors in succession and after two were out and one run had scored on Anderson's error at first. Littlefield again batted in a run when he singled but Pace, who had a bad day at bat, was out unassisted at first.

Anderson started a sixth inning rally when he doubled, followed by a home run by Groves. Pandemonium then broke out among the large crowd of fans and Magnolia ran in eight runs amid the most hectic inning of the season, to forge one run ahead.

After Lone Star had run in two runs in the first of the seventh on a single by Gene Yonker that Roberts knocked down, but could not handle, another double by T. Yonker and singles by Littlefield and Turner, Magnolia started another rally and scored three runs on Kock's single, Wright's bingle, followed by one by Wyatt and a home run by Dick that should have been taken easily by Turner had he played the ball properly. He played could have been scored an error for Turner, but the batter was given the benefit of the doubt.

Magnolia turned in the two best plays of the game when Groves knocked down a hard hit liner in a one handed stab at the ball and

40 Bulldogs

The Bulldogs face a stiffer pre-season schedule this year than in some time, the first game being on Sept. 21, in Ranger, with the McMurry freshmen, a team that is expected to be much stronger than Stephenville, with whom the Bulldogs have opened their pre-season campaigns in previous years.

Following the McMurry game the Bulldogs go to Lubbock, where they play Sept. 28 in a night game. Oct. 5 they go to Fort Worth for their annual encounter with Central High school, a game that will also be played at night, Oct. 13 they go to San Angelo, where they will meet the San Angelo Bob Cats, quarter-finalists in the championship race of 1933. The conference schedule starts on Oct. 19 in Ranger with Eastland and all conference games, with the exception of the Brownwood game, will be played in Ranger.

There is one open date, Nov. 3, on the Bulldog schedule, and it is possible the team may be given a rest that week, or, if it seems advisable, a non-conference game may be scheduled.
