 PRESIDENT MAY NAME 3-MAN PEACE BOARD
 Labor and Industry Pledge Utmost Co-operation to President's Board.
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—President Roosevelt today seeks a settlement of the strike which is threatening its way through America's huge textile industry.
 Upon recommendation of the national labor relation board he announced that he had decided to name a special board of three men to mediate the strike.
 WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Textile strike leaders and the industry pledged co-operation to President Roosevelt's mediation proposal today in the midst of widening flare-ups of violence and code authority charges of intimidation by pickets.
 The strike will continue, however, Francis Gorman, strike leader, warned on commenting on the president's peace move.
 From north and south came reports of strikes, mobilization of troops and state police in various strike centers. Through the strike areas tension was increasing.
 President George A. Sloan of the Cotton Textile Institute said the mediation board "will receive our utmost respect." Sloan earlier had charged "mob action" by strikers against their jobs.
 Gorman said that union leaders would co-operate as "far as possible" in meeting the president's mediation move.
 Other major developments in the rapidly increasing strike scenes were:
 1. President Roosevelt, at Hyde Park, N. Y., decides to name a three-man board.
 2. More than 300,000 workers are now in strike ranks, according to United Press survey.
 3. North Carolina strike leaders order "flying squadron" of pickets to put on brakes in trying to force mills to close. Threats of martial law unless action were curbed. Police and pickets fought at numerous mills.
 HOUSTON, Sept. 5.—Textile unions remained closed. Union pickets were on duty early but there was no call for workers nor no clash reported.
 RELIEF PROJECT FILED BY COLLIE
 AUSTIN, Sept. 5.—Senator Willbourne R. Collie, Eastland, today filed a relief project application for funds to complete drilling water wells to supply the town of Hamlin in Jones county.
 The water supply has been condemned by the health authorities.
 Relief Check Is Over 2 Million
 AUSTIN, Sept. 5.—Relief checks using up the last available state relief funds, were sent to Texas counties today by relief headquarters.
 The distribution totaled $2,000,000. It is to care for a relief case load of 265,000 during the first half of September. The load is 105,000 higher than it was in August.
 With the checks there went a letter to administrators urging conservation of funds and an effort to get those on relief rolls off with seasonal employment.
 Flyer Killed In Crash At Abilene
 ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 5.—Lt. Robert Allen Blount, Marion, Ind., Kelly Field officer, was killed when his airplane crashed here today.
 Blount was attached to the attack section at Kelly Field and was making a solo flight to Midland.

We might be able to look forward with more pleasure to winter if we didn't have to endure the rancorous coat season just before winter arrives.

No Loss of Cotton Markets Seen In AAA Cotton Plan

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION.—The South is not about to lose its cotton markets to foreign countries because of the Bankhead Act and the cotton adjustment program, according to reliable facts gathered by the United States Department of Agriculture. Material furnished by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration clearly shows that foreign countries have increased cotton production to the limit for years. A careful study of each of America's cotton growing competitors indicates that the possibility of further increases are very unlikely in the near future.
 If American cotton prices were to go to very high levels and remain there for 15 or 20 years foreign cotton production would increase it is believed. As matters now stand, America has a large available surplus of cotton to more than satisfy all foreign markets. American cotton exports for the two years 1931-32 and 1932-33 exceeded all exports for the last 13 years except for one year. The exports for the cotton year recently ended are expected to be nearly as high as those of the years just preceding.
 It has been said that every time the reduce acreage foreign countries increase their cotton acreage. This does not bear this out. The cotton world seems to move here or less together in increasing or decreasing acreage. It is said that last year we plowed up 10 billion acres of cotton and foreign countries promptly increased their cotton 4 million acres. The foreign increase was planted before the American plow-up. Cotton planting dates are about the same all over the world. America increased plantings 4 million acres in 1933 and so did the rest of the world.
 Foreign cotton production steadily increased from 1890 to 1933. Some people are alarmed about this because they think this increase will continue indefinitely. As a matter of fact, foreign countries have nearly reached their limit of profitable cotton competition. It will take very high prices over a long period of years to bring much more competition. The Agricultural Adjustment cotton program merely aims at preventing towering surpluses that bring poverty to the South. It aims to allow the cotton producer to sell at home and abroad. A reasonable American price is too low to encourage unlimited foreign production.
 It should always be kept in mind that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration cotton program does not aim at permanent fluctuation. It does propose to help farmers to cooperate to adjust the supply of cotton to effective demand. For the first time in history a southern farmer and business man has the opportunity to work for a long-time plan that will avoid most of the fall spins in cotton price which have periodically pressed the South for 50 years. The plan has not surrendered to foreign markets and is not likely to do so.
 In succeeding articles facts about cotton growing conditions in India, Egypt, Russia, China and Brazil will be presented. The first two countries furnish nearly 85 percent of our foreign competition, and Brazil is the one country which might give real competition in the future. When these are added there will be less alarm about the foreign situation.

Speaks at Ranger Lions-Rotary

W. Alston Johnston, Fort Worth, executive assistant, Federal Housing Administration, who was guest speaker at Lions-Rotary Club luncheon today.

Labor expressed itself at a mass meeting held last night on the Community lot of Pine and Austin Streets, Ranger, as being willing to go hand in hand, as it were with other community leaders to help build up the city, looking into the future with far-seeing eyes on projects that would bring more enterprises and hence more payrolls to the town.
 The purpose of the meeting was explained by Charley Hutchinson, who said it was called by labor leaders for the purpose of formulating plans that would result in improvement projects that would of necessity increase employment and enhance property values. There was a good response to the call for the meeting, there being around 300 men from all walks of life present.
 Among those who made talks and expressed their appreciation of the efforts that the labor leaders are making to stimulate conditions, were Hall Walker, F. D. Hickey, L. C. Keel, N. A. Brown, and George H. Murphy.
 One of the first projects that came up for discussion after the purpose of the calling of the mass meeting had been explained, was the proposal to chat roads around various schools in Ranger that are not on paved streets. This would not only give employment to a number of men, but it would fill a need that has long been existing.
 The water situation was discussed to some extent. This discussion was not in the nature of a criticism of the present water system, as Ranger's water supply is good and its water pure, but looking ahead, envisioning a day when factories might be attracted here if there was an inexhaustible supply of water for their needs, was the spirit that was behind this discussion.
 A number of plans grew out of this meeting, some of them will be perfected at the next meeting, two weeks from now, other as time and opportunity permit but over and above all plans for things that will in time be executed, was an intangible something, the welding as it were of the spirit of men together in faith, to conserve what its community has and to build ever towards a more stable and larger future.

MYERS TRIAL ENTERS ON ITS SECOND DAY

NORMAN, Ok., Sept. 5.—Neal Myers, described today to the jury trying him for murder of his co-ed sweetheart, as "a youth driven when in distress into ill considered and enervating schemes because of a stern doctrinal father and an absent mother," lawyers defended him against accusation that he caused the death of Marion Mills, 19, University of Oklahoma beauty queen, in an attempt to thwart motherhood, also stated that they would fight to nullify the charges.
 Prof. J. M. Mills, father of the dead girl, was one of the first witnesses. The trial was in its second day.

Blanton Writes CCC Director Fechner

Wayne C. Hickey, secretary of Ranger Chamber of Commerce, has received a copy of a letter written by Congressman Thomas T. Blanton, to Robert Fechner, director of emergency concentration work, Washington, D. C., relative to obtaining a CCC camp for Ranger.
 As the letter was written on August 30, sufficient time has not elapsed for a reply Mr. Hickey said, but that he was expecting to hear from Mr. Fechner any time now.
 The letter to Mr. Fechner from Mr. Blanton reads:
 Abilene, Texas, August 30, 1934

 Thomas L. Blanton.

Co. I National Guard Holds Regular Meet

The attendance at the regular meeting of Co. 1, 142nd Infantry, held last night at the Ranger Armory, was rather light, according to Wayne C. Hickey, company commander.

 The Rev. Johnnie Lovell will preach tonight, Thursday and Friday nights at the usual place in Ranger. Everybody is invited to come and enjoy the old time gospel preaching.
 Also there is to be an all day fellowship meeting with dinner on the grounds at the Willows. Bible study at 10 o'clock, preaching at 11, and baptizing about 3:30 at the W. D. Cook tank, one mile north of Ranger.

SECY. WALLACE WOULD CREATE COTTON POOL

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Acting to aid the cotton farmers in the drought stricken areas Secretary of Agriculture Henry J. Wallace today announced creation of a national pool to facilitate sales and purchases of tax exemption certificates, issued under the Bankhead Cotton control bill.
 Wallace fixed the price of 4 cents a pound on the amount of cotton which the tax certificate represents, this figure is approximately 70 per cent of the tax of 5.67 cents a pound imposed by the act on the ginning of cotton.
 Under provision of the Bankhead bill all cotton farmers throughout the south were allotted a certificate which was tax exempt. The certificates were issued to planters and were to be presented with their cotton at the gins. Many cotton crops in the south and west have been damaged by the drought. Farmers in those areas holding tax certificates representing more cotton than they actually produced.
 This assures them at least, Wallace announced today at least 4 cents a pound which they are entitled to produce but which will not come on the market due to the drought conditions.
 Three Bandits Get Large Loot
LAKE CITY, S. C., Sept. 5.—After taking the bank president from his home and threatening to murder his family, three bandits today robbed the Palmetto State bank of this city of between $75,000 and $100,000.
 The bandits fled with the bank president, J. H. Carter, and Cashier Fred Staley, but released them near Lamar, 35 miles from here.
 Planning Aid in Feed Shortage
COLLEGE STATION.—Every available help that the agencies of AAM College can give to aid the State in the existing feed shortage will be made immediately available according to plans made here. To this end a meeting was held in the Experiment Station conference room, presided over by A. B. Conner, director, at which various phases of the situation were presented by members of the Experiment Station, the Extension Service and College teaching staff.
 With this pooling of information it was decided to line up and get before the public facts relating to the problem in the order of their immediate importance. The conservation of hay and other roughage now standing in the fields, will be treated by C. N. Shephard, in charge of dairy husbandry. Cotton plants and burs as feed, Dr. G. S. Fraps, State Chemist will work on. Fall forage planting in South Texas and small winter grains for grazing will work on. ### MANY RANGER MEN HEAR TALK ON HOUSING ACT

A number of Ranger men, most of them either members of the Lions or Rotary clubs, but a number not affiliated with either club met at the Gholsen hotel today at noon for lunch and heard W. Alston Johnston, Fort Worth, executive assistant of the federal housing administration, West Texas district, explain the national housing act.
 L. R. Pearson, Ranger attorney, presided over the meeting and in turn introduced L. H. Flewellen, chairman of the National Housing Act for Ranger, who gave some information on the home ordinance corporation, which was greatly appreciated by those present. Mr. Flewellen presented a survey of Ranger showing that approximately 1000 homes and business houses here could come up for repair under the modernization act.
 N. A. Barber of the Fort Worth Real Estate Board, who had part in the organization in Fort Worth, was presented by Mr. Flewellen, and he made a splendid talk of the act-up in his home city and the work that had been launched there in perfecting that city's readiness for national cooperation in the movement.
 This speaker was followed by the speaker of the day, W. Alston Johnston, who went into full explanation of the workings of the National Housing Act. Mr. Johnston not only gave the fundamental information necessary for the successful launching of this movement here and elsewhere in the county, but he brought to the minds of every man present the sanctity of the home, and the fact that the solvency of the nation depends on the preservation of the American home.
 In addition to his explanations, he gave permission to those present to ask him any questions that might occur to them, all of which he answered fully and explicitly.
 At the close of the meeting Mr. Flewellen announced that a meeting would be called immediately to organize a modernization and improvement plan for Ranger.
 Judge Clyde Garrett and Earl Bender of Eastland were also present, and took the message back with them to their home town.
 Work Started On Well In County
 Work was started Tuesday by Sinclair Prairie Oil Co. on the J. T. Earnest No. 7 well located in Eastland county on the Earnest lease, Elizabeth Finley abstract.
 Location of the well according to the application in the Railroad Commission office in Eastland was "1231 feet from most westerly west line, 850 feet from well No. 6 and 990 feet from most northerly south line of 224 tract in Elizabeth Finley abstract."
 The company contemplates to drill to 3,335 feet.

FINANCIAL HOUSES READY TO ADVANCE CASH TO OWNERS

WASHINGTON.—Modernization Loans now are being made to many property owners by banks, trust companies, finance companies and other lending institutions in all sections of the United States. Each one of these several thousand institutions has been sent complete instructions on how to handle and issue these loans. The Federal Housing Administration already has formally approved the applications of a considerable number.
 Reports have reached the Administrator's office that some institutions already have arranged loans, waiting only for the official forms in order to complete them.
 First official information concerning Modernization Loans was given by the Federal Housing Administration to these lending institutions, James A. Moffett, administrator, states, because it is realized that their active cooperation is a vital part of the program and essential to its success.
 F. H. A. Does Not Lend
 This is true, it was explained, because the money does not come from the Federal Housing Administration, but from these private institutions.
 Banks, trust companies, finance companies, building and loan associations and similar organizations actually pay out the cash for the repairs, alterations, or modernization of the home, store, shop, factory, garage, barn or other building to be improved. Two other essential functions at the same time are performed by these institutions, besides lending the money. One is to pass judgment on the necessity or advisability of the improvement proposed by the property owner. The other is to pass judgment on the character and financial responsibility of the borrower, that is, his willingness and ability to repay the loan when due. For regulations of the Federal Housing Administration require that modernization

FOUR MILLION GET JOBS IN FDR NEW DEAL

President Roosevelt continues to smile his wonderful smile. He has been advised that 4,120,000 workers were re-employed, industrial payrolls increased $36,000,000 weekly and business failures reduced 40 per cent during the nation's first year under the New Deal.

Speaking of the petroleum industry, Sir Henri W. A. Deterding has been swinging around the financial and oil circles of the United States. Sir Henri is a very wise and far-seeing Dutchman. He is the all powerful managing director of the Royal Dutch Shell interests and the Royal Dutch Shell owned by English and Dutch capital is the European and Asiatic rival of that huge combination or corporation known as Standard Oil. Sir Henri, before departing for Europe, declared that "a brief period of world wide co-operation would work off excess petroleum stocks in two years. He had been in the United States 15 days on a business trip. This his plan of control: "If everybody realizes that the total excess available production of oil as compared with consumption the world over is not much more than 6 per cent and if everybody realized this and co-operated in curtailing production it would not be long before the excess would be worked off—perhaps in two years."

Uncle Sam is the invisible ruler of the American republic. Uncle Sam, speaking through the elected officials of the oil producing states of America, should be able to do his own co-operating, control his own resources, do his own planning and conserving as well as to make a home as well as a foreign market for his product. Uncle Sam has had a bitter and costly experience. Every time he co-operated on the other side of the world in war or commerce he had his fingers singed and his pockets made lean.

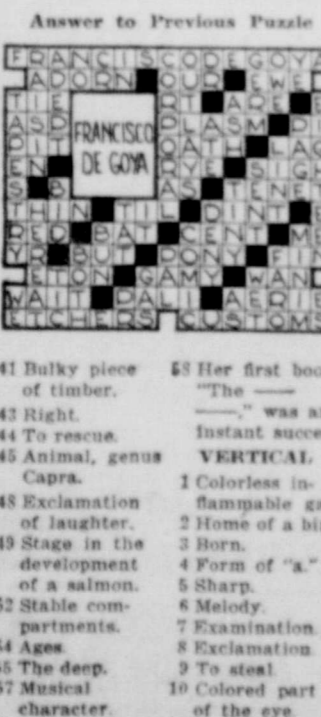

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN DROUTH SECTION

Livestock producers as well as all the tillers of the soil in the San Angelo country are happy. An old fashioned downpour broke the drouth in the Concho river area "and came in time to save drying ranges, although some damage was done to open cotton." More important than this, farmers in a vast section already had moisture enough to start small grain crops and affil gardens. Both the north and the south Concho rivers are on eight to 10 foot rises due to heavy rains at their headwaters. Optimistic reports came out of the plans of West Texas after drenching rains had given new life to feed grass and winter forage.

Every city has a few "underminers" whose claws should be cut.

HOME, SWEET HOME!

BEACH CLUB GIRL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BOOTS HAD A TALK with her pretty, blonde-haired, wavy-haired SYLVIA RIVERS. Due to Sylvia's good looks she is favored to reach from the juniors. Both girls live in Larchbrook, fashionable New York suburb.

Hurt and humiliated, Boots accepted the attention of Miss RAEBURN, swimming instructor. Mrs. RAEBURN returns from a trip out of town and Boots dreads her mother's hearing what has happened. On impulse she marries Raeburn who takes her to live with his brother and his wife. Raeburn has no job and apparently no ambition. Some Boots begins to see him as he is.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER XXIV
MARY had said to Boots, "The worst they can do is to take it out of your pay," quite as if $10 weren't a small fortune when you worked at Lacy's and were paid $15 a week. Ah, how was that the worst of it really? Might not the management suspect her of dishonesty, suspect her of having done away with that particular $10 bill? Boots, walking to the soda fountain on leaden feet, had visions of an ignominious search. Of course they would not find the money, simply because she hadn't stolen it. But she felt that she would never be quite the same again after such an ordeal. No, she would feel definitely smothered.

There was no use trying to eat. Somehow she swallowed the scalding, bitter tea with the horrid little mullin bag floating around in the thick cup. Somewhere, she thought drowsily, at this very moment girls her own age were sitting in softly lighted and scented restaurants, sipping a beverage to tally unlike this. There would be faint music playing behind a screen of greenery and waiters would be slipping back and forth deferentially with silver dishes.

Meantime the revolving door of the soda-fountain swung inward with monotonous regularity and a maddening whoosh-whoosh. Every one who came in, borne on the wings of the raw November wind, looked cold, looked shabby. A fast mounting peddle of water formed under the ledge of the counter, where umbrellas dripped and a discouraging, appetite-destroying odor of stale dishwater hovered over all. Oh, this was no use, it was simply no use trying to buck this game, the girl thought in utter despair. In the mirror beyond the pyramids of oranges, beyond the bowl of cold storage eggs used in the concoction of "chocolate milk" she could see her own pale countenance. The tip of her small nose was ever so slightly reddened. Her hat which had been last season's dashing enough "sports model" of brown felt was wilted by the rain. The brim drooped.

She swallowed the last of the bitter liquid in the cup and pushed back her stool, giving place to a pale, thin, spectacled girl who had been impatiently waiting for her to do just that thing. The counter boy called "Another ham with the special." Boots drifted out into the rain again.

That afternoon was torrid. Mr. Raeburn questioned her again. She was sure she had put the bill in the container? Well, they would check up on the day's receipts. Of course she quite understood that if the money did not turn up she would be held responsible? Boots nodded mutely. She was at the stage now where a single kind word would have brought upon a spell of bitter weeping. Fortunately she was so busy she did not have time for this luxury. Ten dollars—why that would wipe out all her small margin of savings and take two other precious dollars out of her week's pay besides!

At long last the washroom Miss Apfel came close and murmured sympathetically, "Heard about it, dear. It's a shame. It happened to me once." "Honestly?" Boots' eyes lighted with the first hope she had felt all day. Perhaps her disgrace was not so deep after all.

"No kidding. I was only here a week. I like to die!" Miss Apfel assured her redemning her tips. "It was only five." But it sure looked like a fortune to me." She sighed heavily at the memory. "I don't understand it," Boots said, on the edge of tears. "I put it right in and slammed it shut. Then we waited and waited." "This darn change system is years behind the times, that's what," Miss Apfel stated firmly, adjusting a nose veil. "Just don't you worry. Maybe it'll turn up yet." But her tone was kind rather than encouraging. You could see she believed that precious bill was swallowed up forever in the enormous maw of Lacy's change system.

In spite of a heavy hunt and a sense of impending disaster Boots discovered she was hungry. There was a bakery shop on lower Sixth avenue not far from Mrs. Mooney's where she could have a hot filling meal for 40 cents. A slab of pot roast with red cabbage cooked German style. A crisp poppy-seed roll. A cup of steaming coffee with cream.

DEACON DR. SAMUEL FULLER, FIRST DOCTOR IN NEW ENGLAND

FIRST MOTORCYCLE HILL CLIMB AT BOSTON MAY 30, 1904

FIRST GINGHAM FACTORY OPENED IN CLINTON, MASS., 1844

DR. FULLER arrived on the Mayflower Dec. 21, 1620, and was, for a time, the sole physician in the colony. Charles Gustafson won the Boston hill climb. Until then, people did not believe a motorcycle had much power. Erastus Brigham Bigelow patented gingham manufacturing machinery in 1845 and opened the Lancaster Mills at a capitalization of $500,000.

President of W. M. U. Presides Over Installation Ceremony

Last Sunday evening's service at the First Baptist church was transformed into that of a beautiful one when the president of the Women's Missionary Union, Mrs. G. W. Thomas, presided over the installation ceremony bringing into service all officers for the ensuing term.

The charge given in smooth and impressive manner was offered prior to the invitation to officers to take their seats on the platform as the name of each was called.

Duties of the personnel will be found and fully explained in the Manual and year book. Efficiency and leadership was particularly stressed by the president as major qualifications. As the group was seated Miss Doris Mitchell sang a well selected solo, "Give of Your Best to the Master," followed with a prayer said by the incoming president, Mrs. W. A. Lewis.

The outgoing president, Mrs. J. G. McGehee, whose services have been invaluable and efforts untiring, pinned the W. M. U. colors upon the newly elected president whose leadership is greatly looked forward to.

Fitting remarks were made at intervals by the installing officer making the ceremony one to be long remembered by the members as well as appreciative audience.

Those whose united efforts are to be closely interwoven for a successful year are: President, Mrs. Lewis; secretary, Mrs. Walter Reinmund; treasurer, Mrs. E. C. White.

Winsett Spring A Real Oasis In Very Dry Land

Men have always sought two things—gold and pure water—and the prospectors of '49 found that without pure water gold was as useless as dead sea fruit. Men are still seeking both, trying to wrest both from nature, and even in Winsett the desire for good, cold spring water send many people daily to Winsett springs, east of town.

During an hour's stay there yesterday afternoon dozens of people were counted who came with five-gallon bottles, milk cans and fruit jars for the spring water that has not ceased to flow since the memory of anyone in these parts.

According to J. M. Winsett, who owns the property on which is situated the spring, it was originally called "Anthony spring," taking its name from a sheep herder who pitched his tent there when this country was open range. When the Winsett family bought the property some 23 years ago, the name gradually changed to "Winsett spring." However, before the sheepherder, the Indians must have had a name for it, as it undoubtedly was at one time a favorite Indian camp ground.

Mr. Winsett says that in plowing he has often struck things with his plow, that upon investigation would prove to be some Indian implement, broad tray, or weapon, and that he has also found many arrowheads, and other pertinent signs of Indian habitation.

During the boom in Ranger the water was used extensively, being sold by wagon loads in the city and it was also piped into some of the company camps.

The beautiful natural setting of the spring has been changed somewhat due to the piping of water for the purpose of selling it, but the quality and the volume of the water has never decreased.

Nobody knows from where it comes, nor is much known of its history other than is above set forth, but there are certainly a lot of folks who know that it is well worth going after and during the summer months it has been well come in many homes and to many travelers.

Gertrude Michael Soars to Stardom In New Picture

Gertrude Michael, attractive and talented Paramount actress who has won distinction in a series of increasingly important film roles during the past year, soars to stardom by her portrait of a fascinating and beautiful adventuress in the title role of Paramount's "The Notorious Sophie Lang," which opens at the Arcadia Theatre today.

Adapted from the famous series of short stories by Frederick Irving Anderson, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, the film presents in a light, deft and amusing fashion the story of the beautiful woman who filched jewels and masculine hearts on two continents, while she eluded the baffled and exasperated police.

The story opens when a particularly daring robbery is accomplished in New York, by a woman who manages an ingenious escape. Inspector Parr of the New York police, played by Arthur Byron, concludes that it is the work of Sophie Lang. Playing a double game, he plans to use Maximilian Bernard, notorious English jewel thief, who is posing as Sir Nigel Centre, to trap her.

Sophie Lang, however, learns of the plot. Through a whirling maze of intrigue and counter-intrigue, Sophie and Bernard make several successful hauls, attempt to betray each other to the police, and wind up completely in love with each other, fleeing to England, while the baffled and amazed Parr wires "condolences" to Scotland Yard.

In the supporting roles are Paul Cavanagh, as the suave and debonair Bernard; Arthur Byron who renders a delightful characterization as the police chief; and those two grand comedians, Leon Errol, of the wobbly legs, and Allison Skipworth, who renders another of her inimitable characterizations as a venerable and motherly soundrel.

Ben Taggart, Edward McWade and Ferdinand Gottschalk are cast in supporting roles.
