GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE READ TO LEGISLATURE

State and Federal Officers Pursue Floyd

FIVE TOPICS ARE SUBMITTED FOR PASSAGE

PEEPING THROUGH THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

It is rather late to comment on the game, but we usually remember around to things some time later, but in the Ranger College-Abilene Christian freshmen game, played the past week-end, we were much impressed by the Frosh squad.

They didn't bring a pep squad along, but about half a dozen organized one alongside the CC bench about the first of the game, and it kept growing, both members, volume and variety of yells, until at the half it was a fair pep squad, composed of 25 to 30 youths about 17 years of age. And they got a kick out of rooting for the men.

When halves two of the RJC leaders ran over to lead them, well, just as in a conference and did those kids scatter, thought they were going to fight, no doubt. But the leaders were just being friendly, they finally re-assembled in a yell, with the two leading them.

And the way they would all make deep bows in acknowledgement of a RJC yell was something to see.

It wouldn't hurt anything if Floyd would be really organized and some yelling for the home side, or the opposition either for matter, in some of the future games. They added a dash of spice to the program that was thoroughly enjoyed by all, including the girls and the kids themselves, especially.

Imagine they were coached time to time from the ACC because when a Frosh play would turn in a good performance was taken from the game would give him the custodianship of a REAL Wildcat. "He's a REAL Wildcat" or whatever the name of the house.

They are informed from a reliable source that Eastland's Mavericks are some new sweaters to wear given to them by the custodians, and instead of the customary numerals they have letters which can be recognized.

Letters run from A on down through the alphabet to X, with Y and Z listed.

They are not sure that they will be able to, but they might be able to get some A-V-E-R-L-C-K-S, but it has in head of many letters, though none is each letter. Anyway that is Coach Long's worry if he wants to make iv 1213. The killing bee out of his lineup.

Miscellaneous: We have heard that several teams are using letters this year, with one using doubles, such as AA, BB, etc. It may be the initials of the democratic administration, with its initials organized.

Ranger seems to be, for the time this year, favored to win at San Angelo.

Several took several guesses on the and, without mentioning names, they all rated Ranger salesmen.

The guesses varied quite a bit, though several were close. One knew of the other's guesses after he had written his own age 30.

The guesses ran as follows:
Ranger 27—Angelo 6.
Ranger 21—Angelo 13.
Ranger 20—Angelo 13.
Ranger 19—Angelo 13.
Ranger 13—Angelo 6.

The same five figured Breckenridge would win by the following scores: 13-7; 19-6; 19-0; 26-0; and 26-12. Guesses on the HING and Brownwood game were all unanimous that Brownwood is being outscored, with the Cisco or new team running as follows, in the order as the two guesses possible:
6-0; 13-0; 19-0; 13-0 and 19-0.

Try to Beat This Home for $2365!

A beautiful home, with a farm of 15 acres, for $2365 sounds like Utopia, but it's an actuality in Crossville, Tenn., with the dwelling shown above as evidence. This is one of the completed homes in that federal subsistence non-wood district, built of Crab Orchard stone, beautiful three-colored sandstone quarried in the homestead area, and hand-hewn timbers, obtained nearby at little cost. The homesteader pays part of his home cost in cash and part of it in labor.

IS REPORTED SEEN AT MANY PLACES TODAY

Ability To Backtrack Amazes Officers Who Are On Trail.

By United Press
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12.—The full strength of Missouri's police force and the federal government was thrown into the search for Pretty Boy Floyd.

Driving at full speed with a wounded companion and confounding officers by his amazing backtracking, the phantom bandit and killer was reported seen in several vicinities in North Central Missouri.

It was one of the greatest man-hunts in Missouri history. Into every home, office and police station went the warning, "Watch out for Pretty Boy." The warning was broadcast over a radio station.

This afternoon the hunt led to Moberly, the fifth place the elusive fugitive had been sighted.

Shortly before noon three desperadoes, one of whom had been identified several times as Floyd, stopped their car at a farm house near Moberly.

The farm wife reported that a man she thought was Floyd came to the house and asked for a towel and water, explaining that one of his friends hurt his hand and wanted to clean it up.

O. L. Blanchard, a salesman who first met the fugitives this morning five miles south of Mexico, reported one of the three men who stopped him was wounded.

Blanchard was certain of his identification of one of the men who stopped him beside their stalled motor car as Floyd, named by the government as one of the assassins in the Union Station massacre at Kansas City.

Officers thought the three men had retraced their steps and were fleeing toward Oklahoma after their encounter with Iowa officers last night.

The state highway patrol were detailed to patrol byroads, the usual routes taken by Floyd. Sheriffs and other officers guarded the main highways.

From descriptions officers believed the fugitives were Floyd, Adam Richetto, also accused in the Kansas City station massacre, and "Shine" Rish, another Oklahoma desperado.

Ruth Chatterton Free Once More

Romance again has played Ruth Chatterton false, marriage for the second time ending in divorce for the stage and film star, shown here in Los Angeles court, as she was granted freedom from George Brent, Irish actor. She charged he was sulky, domineering, and caused her great humiliation. She divorced her first husband, Ralph Forbes, in 1932.

WILD RIOTS IN BELGRADE ARE NOW REPORTED

By United Press
BELGRADE, Oct. 12.—Mounting popular rage at King Alexander's murder, manifested in wild riots, kept police alert and authorities worried today as young King Peter sped across Europe to claim his unhappy throne.

Concerned over anger, the government was reported to have given police at Zagreb orders to shoot to kill if necessary to prevent planned demonstrations before the Italian consulate there.

Serajevio was the scene of the latest violent demonstration. Townspeople wrecked shops and houses, milled outside Roman Catholic churches and bombed the post-office, wounding one person.

Clues Followed In Stoll Kidnap Case

By United Press
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12.—William Stoll, brother-in-law of Mrs. Alice Stoll, kidnaped southern society woman, worked independently today in the case.

Stoll and two armed guards waited a half mile from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Berry Stoll along the Ohio river. Stoll waited at the secluded road and then hurried back to the estate of his brother. He refused to comment on the "clue" except to say he had an appointment.

Funeral Planned For Publisher's Father

By United Press
TULSA, Oct. 12.—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Charles A. Guy, 59, who died of pneumonia at his home yesterday.

His son, Charles, Jr., arrived last night from Lubbock, Texas, where he is publisher of the Avant newspaper.

River Bills, Tax Penalty Bill And Centennial Funds Are Urged.

By United Press
AUSTIN, Oct. 12.—The 43rd Texas legislature convened today to attempt to untangle tax and relief problems, put thousands to work on the Colorado and Brazos river projects and to provide funds for the Texas centennial.

The governor sent his message shortly after the legislature convened.

The message asked consideration of the five measures which constitute her $190,000,000 plan for recovery.

She said she considered remission of penalties and interest on delinquent taxes to be one of the most vital questions.

The governor also asked for harmonious efforts on the Brazos river program, the Colorado dam measure, and financing the Texas centennial.

She suggested the legislature remove the monthly budget restriction put on the last issue of $6,000,000 relief bonds or "more wisely" provide for sale of the remaining possible $3,500,000 in bond bonds.

Operators Warned They Must File Production Report

Omar H. Burkett, railroad commission deputy supervisor, in charge of production reports in district 7-A, comprised of Eastland, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Comanche and Erath counties, has received instructions from Olin Culbertson, director of the pipe line division, to disconnect operators from leases on which they have failed to make production reports for September. The last day to file these reports, according to Mr. Burkett, is next Monday, Oct. 15.

This report to the railroad commission by operators is a separate report from that made to the comptroller or to the federal government, and is in no wise a tax report.

It is not necessary for an oil operator to wait until he gets his pipe line runs, as reports to the commission is their gross daily run.

The local Chamber of Commerce has plenty of report blanks on hand and operators are urged to be sure their report is in on the above date as the commission states it will brook no further delay on these reports, which were due at the end of September.

San Angelo Game Play-By-Play to Be Received Here

The play-by-play report of the Ranger-San Angelo game, which is to be played tonight at San Angelo at 8 o'clock, will be received through the co-operation of several Ranger merchants and will be broadcast through a public address system in front of Bill's Dry Cleaning plant, 311 Main street.

A direct wire from the San Angelo football field to the plant on Main street was hooked up this morning and was ready for operation, starting shortly before 8 o'clock.

No admission charge is being made and a cordial invitation to all football fans of Ranger has been extended by the merchants to attend as their guests.

Those co-operating in making the broadcast possible are: Clyde H. Davis, jeweler; Schooley's Bakery; Mrs. Higdon's Eat Shop; J. E. Moroney, Magnolia agent; A. J. Ratliff Feed Store; O. K. Grocery & Market; and Bill's Dry Cleaning Plant.

By United Press
SCARSDALE, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Edward West (Daddy) Browning, 60, whose life, loves and eccentricities, wrote a unique chapter in America's jazz age, died here today of pneumonia.

Among the missing was Frances (Peaches) Henman, whom (Daddy) married after a whirlwind courtship which culminated in a meeting of the 15-year-old blonde.

By United Press
DENISON, Oct. 12.—Deputy Sheriff Jack Rapp of Hidalgo county was recovering from hunger and fatigue today as Oklahoma and Texas officers searched for three prisoners who kidnaped him as he was taking them to the Hidalgo county jail. They fled afoot after they had crossed into Oklahoma.

D. M. Hood, 53, paroled Texas convict and his two sons, Clifford and Carl, overpowered Rapp and forced him to lie on the floor of his car as they headed to Oklahoma. They deflated the tires of the car before they fled. None of the prisoners were handcuffed.

PLANS FOR BUILDING CITY AUDITORIUM AND GYMNASIUM DISCUSSED THURSDAY NIGHT

Members of the Ranger school board and the directors of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce met in the office of the chamber of commerce Thursday night and discussed with H. E. Driskill, county relief administrator, the status of the city auditorium project.

It was pointed out by Mr. Driskill that it was absolutely necessary that the action be taken on the auditorium be known immediately, in order that it would be included in the work relief projects, or definitely and permanently cancelled.

An extension of time until next Tuesday night was allowed, at which time a report must be made to the county administrator.

It was also pointed out that skilled labor could be furnished by the relief office for brick layers, carpenters, painters and other craftsmen at the rate of only three days a month. After the three days of each of the craftsmen on the relief rolls are taken up the school board can either shut down operations for the remainder of the month, or can hire the men direct. If they are hired by the school board they must be taken from the relief rolls, however, and cannot be used again through the relief office.

It was stated that should the school board hire the skilled labor, enough common labor could be furnished to keep the men busy, however.

E. A. Ringold made a report which showed how much had already been spent on materials and labor and how much was needed to complete the building. Another report was made which showed how much had already been spent on materials and labor and how much was needed to complete the building. Another report was made which showed how much would be required to finish the walls and roof of the building, but which did not include the finishing work to be done.

Mr. Ringold stated that with the $1,500 now on hand and with a concerted effort on the part of the citizenship it helping to collect delinquent taxes which are due and which are listed as good, enough money could be taken in by the first of the year to finish the work started, but that it would take steady and consistent assistance from the majority of the citizens.

The school board, before it can make a report to the county administrator, must find out about purchase of needed materials, with terms for payment and the amount of credit that can be secured before the deadline which is next Tuesday.

Today it was reported that the work was being taken up immediately and a report would be forthcoming before the designated time.

The consensus of opinion of those present was that the auditorium was badly needed in Ranger and that the school board should continue its work for the building and work out means for completing it.

THE CHRISTIAN AND HIS BIBLE

Acts 8:26-39

Philip was a Christian Jew who had been exiled by persecution and traveled afoot over the country preaching Jesus. This was in the early history of the church in A. D. 36. Seven deacons had been appointed to care for the temporal interests of the church. Stephen was the first one listed and became the first martyr. Philip was named second but was not Philip, the apostle. After Stephen's death there was so great a persecution of the Christians that many were driven from Jerusalem to Samaria. It was here that Philip preached winning many converts, among them Simon, the sorcerer. Leaving Samaria Philip was sent out by an angel on the road through an uninhabited country southwest of Jerusalem.

body open at the back and resting on the axle without springs. Bumping along over the road must have made reading difficult but he was reading the scroll of Isaiah, trying to grasp its depth and beauty.

"And the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near and join thyself to this chariot." What a wonderful light broke into the mind and heart of Philip. He began to understand God's purpose in sending him over this 60-mile stretch of desert road.

In his happiness at this understanding he ran to join the man, who after being questioned, asked Philip to sit with him and explain the chapter. This was the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah and was fulfilled when Christ as the Lamb refused to open his mouth to plead his cause before his judges. He was the Lamb of God and in Him was accomplished the prophecy of which the passover lamb was the symbol and token.

"And Philip opened his mouth, and beginning from this scripture, preached unto him Jesus."

"Opened his mouth" is phrase introducing a great utterance, meaning "declared unto him as joyful news Jesus." His heart seemed full of joy as he expounded the sufferings, the glory of triumph and crowning at the right hand of God of Jesus, that this faith was imparted to the questioning man. He asked Philip to baptize him. But Philip would have him know that faith was necessary before baptism. "If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest," was his answer to the request for baptism.

Philip was very happy when he baptized this man, who "went on his way rejoicing." Philip continued his labors through the cities of the coastal plains to Palestine, winning many converts.

Christians are seeking the full and perfect left of freedom in Christ Jesus. Philip can be taken as a worthy example. He had studied the Word until it was real unto him and a joy to be spirit-led. He recognized this as a fact and not just a theory. He obeyed in the spirit and his reward was fruitful success in winning converts to Christ and joy untold.

In reading the Bible a necessity in your life, or is it a dutiful event? If we would live in fellowship with Christ we must know him in his holiness, follow him in his earthly career of suffering, teaching and also his glorious triumph. There must be a hunger and a thirst for knowledge of Him in His saving and keeping power.

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness for they shall be filled (Matthew 5:6).

To such Christians the Bible answers all such needs and hungers. Mother earth supplies all manner of food needful to make a healthful body. So does the Bible supply all needs to the spiritual body in Christ Jesus.

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God (John 1:1).

History, romance, poetry, drama and all manner of writing is found between the covers of this Book of Books. There is found a passage to help every mood of the human heart.

All Scripture is given by the inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works (II Timothy 3:16-17).

So in seeking joy and fullness of life no matter what the station of life may be, it may be found by taking the golden text for the keynote:

Oh, how I love thy law! It is my meditation all the day (Psalm 119:97).

BACK ON THE LITTLE FELLOW

In the hysteria for tax reduction, when in 1932 and 1933 homeowners and landowners rose in revolt, the legislature, instead of shifting the burden to natural resources or monopolies, rushed to submit to the voters a proposed constitutional amendment arbitrarily limiting taxes to be collected by the state for all purposes to $11.25 per year.

That amendment will be voted on Nov. 6, and citizens are just now finding its promise misleading and its effect injurious instead of beneficial.

Study of this proposal has convinced citizens that it should be defeated, for these and other reasons:

Its benefits would go to the large taxpayers, and not the everyday small taxpayer.

It would protect monopolies that collect huge profits, and those who exploit natural resources, rather than the homeowner, who already has been given state tax exemption.

It would jumble state finances to a point where the ad valorem tax could not be cut, when fixed far in advance, and the limit would come on other forms of taxes.

It would withhold much school aid to the public school system; and thus force back the burden upon added local taxation which could be applied to land and homes and real property only, and where the homestead exemption would not save the small man from the levy.

It would seriously injure the University of Texas and A. & M. college, whose available fund revenues are pledged to pay for their building programs, while the legislature would be forced to reach further into this fund than the present $400,000 a year, for running expenses.

The state already is two years behind with eleemosynary housing, and is suffering from it. This amendment would practically nullify all future efforts to provide requisite hospitals and ward building for the institutions.

It would bar the state from setting up new revenues to finance either the present relief bonds or future relief on one hand, or to finance an adequate Centennial on the other.

THE POLLARD VERDICT

The two weeks trial of Claude Pollard, respected Austin citizen, on a charge that he consented to the use of illegal cigarette stamps came to a highly satisfactory end. Mr. Pollard was indicted by a Travis county grand jury. The indictment was an instruction to the district attorney, young Jim Hart, to prosecute the case. He got an early setting, much to Mr. Pollard's satisfaction, and prosecuted the case vigorously and manfully. His aim was to see that justice was done, and the state may always gain more satisfaction that an innocent man is acquitted than that a dozen guilty men are convicted.

Mr. Pollard was vindicated completely, a matter of much satisfaction to his friends. Aside from the personal hope that the verdict would be returned, many persons also expressed a feeling that it would be a serious blow to the dignity of office holding should a man so highly honored stoop to the device of which Mr. Pollard was accused.

The indictment appeared doubtful from the start, and as the evidence was unfolded the error became more apparent. There was revealed, however, that certain witnesses had knowledge of actions for which further criminal prosecution is in order. No doubt Mr. Hart will take the steps necessary to bring the others accused in the cigaret stamp fraud trial at a reasonably early date.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 When DAN BLEEKER, junior publisher of The Blade, learned that CHARLES MORDEN, editor-reporter, had been mysteriously killed, he determined to employ SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminal, to solve the murder.

Morden had been questioned to learn all he could about FRANK B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, who had threatened to sue The Blade because the newspaper reported Cathay had been arrested. Later it was proven that the man arrested, giving the name of Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS, was an impostor. MRS. CATHAY accuses Bleeker by husband and demands the charges if The Blade publishes a retraction, and this is done.

A day later Morden is found dead.

Bleeker receives a telephone call from the editor of the River-view Chronicle. As he picks up the telephone KENNEY, city editor, asks, "What did you do with Morden?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER VIII
 DAN BLEEKER'S face gave no hint of excitement. "Frank B. Cathay," he said, "died about 20 minutes ago." For some reason they were trying to hush up the news of his death. Bleeker sent a veteran reporter out to the house. The reporter got wise to it. There were two doctors and there's going to be a scandal. One of the doctors says Cathay was poisoned."

Kenney stared at Bleeker with wide, startled eyes. "Poisoned!" he said.

Bleeker nodded.

"That," said Kenney, "makes things look a little tough for your wife. I presume there was a lot of property."

"Around two million," Bleeker said.

"How long had Cathay been sick?"

"He was taken sick yesterday morning. Apparently there's no question about the illness. He was stricken at his office. He was taken home and put to bed. As usual the doctors fiddled around with a lot of fancy ideas, and then Cathay lost consciousness. That was about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He's been unconscious ever since. He died without regaining consciousness."

"Then his wife," said Kenney, "must have known he was seriously ill."

Bleeker nodded his head in slow acquiescence.

"And," Kenney went on, "the man was on his deathbed when she and the lawyer made such a hurried trip down here to guess that that case. Why did they do that if Cathay was going to die? Dead men can't bring their suits. And it's not likely that their reputations will be blasted."

"Perhaps," Bleeker remarked, "they didn't know how serious the illness was when they came down."

KENNEY gave a cynical laugh. "If she gave him poison," he said, "she knew how serious the illness was."

Bleeker's tone was impatient.

"You use a lot of 'ifs,'" he said. "As a matter of fact, if she did have anything to do with giving him the poison, she couldn't have given herself any better break than by coming down here with the two lawyers. It shows that she was loyal to her husband's interests."

There's a woman mixed up in the case somehow," Griff said.

"You've told me everything," asked Griff.

"Everything," said Bleeker. "And I wish you wouldn't keep putting the floor. You're making me nervous."

"Sorry," said Griff with a grin and dropped into a big chair. He pulled up an upholstered stool and thrust his legs out in front of him, wrapping the bathrobe around the legs. He settled back in the chair and lit a cigaret.

"I'm a restless cuss," he said.

"I know it," Bleeker told him, "but so am I. What do you make of this business?"

Sidney Griff was long armed and long-legged. He reached out with his right hand, spread the extended fingers apart and made little wavy motions with his arm, as though he might be feeling the texture of the air.

"It's something that requires work and thought," he said.

"Have you any ideas about it?" Bleeker inquired.

"Yes."

"Let's hear them."

"In the first place," Griff said, "I can't understand why the man who was arrested took the name of Frank B. Cathay. Of course he'd taken the wallet. Let's suppose that he did pick Cathay's pocket. Now he was either a professional pickpocket or an amateur."

Bleeker regarded the outstretched arm.

"My God," he said, "that makes me nervous too."

Griff sighed and dropped the arm back to his lap.

"It's a habit of mine," he said, "when I'm thinking. I don't know why I do it. It seems to give me some measure of contact with the people I'm thinking about. As you interested in any of that sort of stuff?"

"What sort of stuff?" asked Bleeker.

"Mental telepathy, hypnosis, and all that," Griff said. "You know there's something peculiar about our personalities. They're filled with life. Life is vibration. Vibrations are sent out and received. Every man's brain is to a certain extent a broadcasting station. There's too much mystery over in the receiving stations. It's much easier to bring it in clearly particularly with the conscious mind. The subconscious mind gets a lot of that, that the conscious mind doesn't comprehend."

Bleeker tapped the tobacco in the bowl of his pipe with a quick thrust of his right forefinger.

"No," he said, "I'm not interested in that stuff."

There was silence for a moment.

"What were you saying about the pickpocket?" asked Bleeker.

"He was either a professional pickpocket or an amateur pickpocket," Griff said. "If he'd been an amateur, it's hardly possible that he'd have managed to pick Cathay's pocket without Cathay knowing it. Of course he would. On the other hand a professional pickpocket invariably slips the wallet of money and throws the wallet itself away. Obviously there's nothing that's more incriminating than to be caught with a money wallet in your possession, particularly when that wallet contains cards and other means of identification."

"That doesn't mean very much as far as the solution of the mystery is concerned," Bleeker pointed out.

"It may and it may not," Griff said. He was on his feet again. "Now, here's something else. There's a woman mixed up in the case somewhere. This Mary Briggs, the hitchhiker. She must know something about the man who posed as Cathay."

"We're going to find her," Bleeker said. "I've already figured she might be a key witness."

"All right, so much for that," Griff said. "We'll let that wait a moment. Now we come to the fact that Morden told you he was contacting a woman but didn't want to mention her name."

"I don't think there's any question," Bleeker said, "but what woman was she who was connected directly with Cathay?"

Tennis Star Hopes For Rest From His Tennis Playing

AUSTIN.—Walter Allison, who wanted his way to the top of American tennis this summer after having been denied a place on the Davis Cup team, hopes that he won't see a tennis racket after Christmas.

Allison returned to his Austin home and to his radio tinkering after eight weeks of strenuous competition. He eliminated Sydney Wood and Lester Steffen in National singles at Forest Hills, only to lose an extra-game match to Fred Perry of England in the finals.

Davis Cup Team? Allison isn't even thinking of it. He does hope that he will replace Frank Shields as No. 1 man in American amateur tennis.

Dr. D. A. Penick, Greek and Latin professor who has developed many of the nation's outstanding tennis players, believes Allison will be at the top when tennis rankings are announced next spring.

During the winter months Allison occupies himself with amateur radio transmission, and works with father-in-law W. T. Caswell of Austin in a brokerage office. Equipped to both send and receive short-wave messages, Allison's set has contacted amateurs in all civilized nations of the world.

Allison said he gets a great thrill in meeting foreign countries those persons to whom he has talked through the air. "In one trip to Australia, I met more than 200 persons to whom I had talked on my set."

Dr. Penick believed Allison was victim of bad management on this year's cup squad. Allison was shipped to England and shipped back again without hitting a ball for the United States.

Allison regretted the incident at the time. He is now convinced that the two-weeks lay off caused by the boat ride was one of the principal factors in his excellent display in the tournaments which followed.

Believing in the revised adage that "all play and no work make a dull tennis player," Allison has laid away his racquets for the winter. After Christmas he will return to the courts.

STAFF

We are having some fine weather now. A cool breeze is blowing from the north today and we are enjoying this pleasant weather after having such a hot summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Hazard were business visitors in Eastland last Monday.

Rev. Ephraim Conway of Ranger, pastor of the Staff Methodist church, filled his regular appointment last Sunday morning.

Rev. Conway delivered a fine sermon to a large congregation.

Frank Williamson was a business visitor in Eastland last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Spencer Hazard motored to Ranger last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williamson entertained the Staff Sunday school in their beautiful home on last Saturday evening.

A large crowd was present. The little tots present were furnished with fishing poles, lines and hooks, to fish from a tent made in wigwam style, where someone placed on each fishing hook a small sack of popcorn or home-made candy.

The children were very much delighted in this. They also played many games. Mrs. Williamson made a fine Sunday school talk and Rev. Ephraim Conway led in prayer.

Refreshments consisting of delicious pies and hot chocolate and home-made candies were served to all present. Everyone present had an enjoyable time.

Rev. H. D. Blair will conduct a revival at the Staff Baptist church beginning on next Sunday morning and continue through the following week. There will only be services at night. The public is invited to attend these services.

Activities of the H. Demonstration Clubs of County

Home made Crystallized Fruit For Fruit Cakes

Mrs. Carl Irbly, farm food supply cooperator of the North Star home demonstration club suggests making your crystallized fruit for cakes and start now to have ready for the holidays.

The following recipe has been used by Mrs. Irbly and other club members and she recommends this:

Remove peel in quarters, cut in long narrow strips, place in sauce pan of cold water, boil twenty minutes, drain, repeat twice. This removes all bitterness. After the third boiling and draining, place peel and equal weight of sugar in clean sauce pan with cold water to cover. Let it come to a boil and cook until syrup threads from the spoon. Drain roll in granulated sugar and lay cross on plate. Remaining syrup is used in crystallizing pulp of citrus fruits. This method may be used for orange, lemon, grape fruit and tangerine peel.

Transplant Roses in Fall

Mrs. L. J. Hazelwood, yard demonstrator for the Carlson home demonstration club advises transplanting roses in the fall in this section. The summer is so hot and dry the roses do not get started enough to withstand the weather conditions. The fall planting gives the plants a growth that takes them through the hot dry summer. The roses will have to have more protection from the winter cold, but this can be taken care of. A good method is to dig in the previously prepared soil a hole at least eight-inches wide and deep, and in that hole spread out the roots of the new rose in their natural position. Very good soil, but with no fresh manure (dry the roots and cover the leaves to burn or turn yellow) should be used, pack the soil well around the roots. After the plant is in this position the ground should be soaked thoroughly. The plants should be pruned to give the roots a chance to get a good growth and not have to furnish all the plant material to the branches. This will make it easier to take care of through the winter.

Protect Roses From Disease

Protect roses and prevent disease, advises Mrs. R. D. Vanderford, yard demonstrator for the Reich home demonstration club. Since the organisms causing the disease can live through the winter in the dead parts of the plants and the leaves collected underneath the plant, all this should be cut out and cleaned from the bush and burned. From time to time during the year dust roses with the following:

One part of arsenate of lead and nine parts of finely ground dusting sulphur. The arsenate of lead controls the leaf chewing insects, prevents the lumping of the sulphur and increases the adhesive qualities of the mixture. It is inexpensive, easily applied and does not discolor the foliage to any great extent. Nicotine mixtures should be used to rid the plants of the sucking insects. Keep these insecticides on hand and be ready to stop the trouble when it starts and save the plants.

CITRON—Preserve for Home Use

Mrs. Louis Pitcock, food demonstrator of the Ranger Co-Workers home demonstration club using the citron grown on the farm for the crystallized fruit in her fruit cakes for the holidays. She gives the method for preparing same.

The citron grows all over the county and in case the women do not have the fruit peels to crystallize they may be interested in trying this:

Cut the citron in quarters, scoop out the pulp, peel. Soak in lime water twelve hours (1 cup lime to one gallon of water). Rinse, boil in clear water until tender. Drain thoroughly and weigh. Use as much sugar as you have in weight of the citron. Make syrup, using one cup to three cups sugar, stir until dissolved. Add citron and boil until syrup is entirely consumed. Remove pieces, press into shape of a scoop and let dry in sun. Pack into jars.

This Bump Started the Row—

Climax of the rough and tumble that featured baserunning of Tigers and Cardinals in the World Series came in the sixth inning of the deciding battle at Navin Field, when Ducky Medwich hurtled against Third Baseman Marvin Owen as Medwich went into the third sack on his triple to right, as shown here. The pair squared off, then thought better of it. Everything seemed to be peaceful, but—

FISH OUT OF WATER TRUE

BALTIMORE—Nellie has made a fallacy of "like fish out of water." Nellie is a walking and diving fish from China who apparently is able to remain out of water for hours without ill effects. She is the property of the Fish Culturists of Maryland. Chinese walking fish (Chana fasciata) inhabit rice fields and in the dry season when only shallow pools remain, they are said to walk or wiggle over the ground to more suitable pools.

It comes to the Columbia Sunday.

scribed as one of the most fasci- nating cities she has ever had the pleasure of visiting.

A letter carrying the date of Sept. 24 was written while visiting in Berlin, where she was entertained with an elaborate program of distinguished features.

One evening included the showing of Fannhouser, which Kenneth states is considered by some as the poorest opera Wagner has ever been responsible for. However, she enjoyed it immensely since it was presented in a very fashion- able theatre. Another evening was spent in sight-seeing, being driven about the city of Berlin in a coach drawn by well groomed horses.

Miss Wier's arrival in Munich brought other delightful surprises and as a whole she is very much impressed with the beauty of Germany. It has also been her pleasure to attend the showing of the Passion Play, which has been scheduled as its last performance.

Her course of study while in Germany promises to add other charming accomplishments to those already acquired through her schooling at C. I. A.

Barn Dance Enjoyed
Last night again proved the popularity of the Ranger Elks club, which is rated as one of the most up-to-date clubrooms in West Texas. At 9 o'clock the American Legion Tickville band appeared on the scene and rounded out musical numbers to fully represent a typical barn dance affair.

Everyone attending reports a thoroughly enjoyable evening with all guests attired in overalls and aprons.

This dance opens the autumn season affording a hint that others perhaps are soon to follow.

Mrs. Lauks Entertains Club With Party at Acorn Acres
Mrs. Cecil Lauks delightfully entertained in compliment to members of the Lone Star Auction Bridge club this week, with a party affair which carried the favored autumn color note of yellow and white, at Acorn Acres tea-room, Strawn highway.

At tables smartly dressed, high score was made by Mrs. Fred Townsend of Gordon, and cut, Mrs. Gene Yonker.

The refreshment plate of orange sherbet was served with slices of white cake to Mmes. Townsend, John Kindel, Dan Long, Gene Yonker, H. C. Kelly, Harry Wheelon, and John Bates of Breckenridge.

Surprise Courtesy For Bride-Elect
For the bride-elect, Miss Lettie Lou Simmons, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Simmons, West Main street, who Saturday, Oct. 13 at 8 o'clock in the evening becomes the bride of J. W. McKinney, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McKinney, the week has been a busy and most delightful one.

Yesterday afternoon co-hostesses Misses Claire Dyar, Lorene and Frances Harrell and Marie Galloway, met at the home of bride-elect during her absence and greeted a group of friends whom they had asked to share the surprise courtesy fashioned in the form of a lovely miscellaneous shower tendered upon her return shortly after the guests had assembled.

Dan Cupid, played by the dainty little Miss Margie Dyar, exemplified the paradise of the surprise revealing an array of packages encased in softly tinted tissue. Preceding a group of beautifully rendered musical numbers these gifts were unwrapped by Miss Simmons and greatly admired.

Dainty refreshments were served to party members, Dorothy O'Donnell, Ruth and Estelle Smith, Marguerite Dennis, Francis Harrell, Catherine Barker, Lorene Harrell, Marie Galloway, Claire Dyar, Mary Helen Childs, Helen Goforth, Margie Dyar, Catherine Jones Conley, Betty Jean McMullen, and Mmes. ### Life of Columbus

A Talk By H. C. "Andy" Anderson Before the Ranger Rotary Club

Four hundred years ago people thought the world was flat. To hear some of our friends on the street talk one would think the world was still flat. I am going to hold to the idea, however, that it is round. In those days the world consisted of Europe and parts of Asia and Africa, the great land in which we live and all the country this side of the Atlantic were quite unknown.

The history of civilization, to a far greater extent than has been realized until recently, is history of trade. For the last few centuries the way that has been fought—whatever the causes set forth in proclamations—have been waged for commercial reasons, and the demands of trade, at the close of the fifteenth century led to the discovery of a new world.

Going back of the fifteenth century we find that the discovery of the new world was due to the strong conviction of Columbus that the world was round, and an idea he gleaned from the work of Roger Bacon, the martyr scholar who died 200 years before Columbus made his memorable voyage, therefore we must insist according to history and the scientific knowledge of this Genoese mariner that Mohammedan influence remains the determining factor in the discovery of the New World.

About the year 1446 there was born in the city of Genoa, Italy, a boy named Christopher Columbus. His father was a poor man, being a weaver of wool. He gave to his son the best education that he could in those days. Columbus was a very studious fellow, fond of adventure, and a lover of the sea. It said he was a qualified sailor at the age of 14.

The story of Columbus' weary striving to enlist the interest of kings in his enterprise is well known; how he wandered from court to court vainly trying to procure funds necessary for the fitting out of an expedition. The truth of the matter was that European monarchs were concerned with matters vitally affecting their kingdom and had little or no time to even consider Columbus' plan. And, too, friends of Columbus thought him to be insane, so intense was he in promoting his scheme.

It was Isabella of Castile who finally offered to aid Columbus. So on Aug. 3, 1492, Columbus with 87 men sailed from the Port of Palos, Spain, in three small vessels, namely: Santa Maria, in which Columbus sailed, Pinta and Nina. And mind you, these ships were so small that no one today would attempt a voyage of the sea. Nevertheless Columbus and his 87 sailors shared the discovery of two unknown continents.

To understand the disappointment, neglect, and shame that overtook Columbus' life, one must ever keep in mind the object with which he first set out—to find a new route to the Indies, as the east was often called.

It would be hard to paint a picture of the more than two months' sailing of this voyage. However, in passing let me call your attention to the fact that one thing after another happened to make the trip everything but pleasant. Columbus made two charts or logs of the voyage, one correct for his own use, the other for the sailors, incorrect. This was due to the men with him being discouraged and wanting to turn back, but the determination never to turn back, Columbus gave the orders, "Sail on; sail on," and on Friday, Oct. 12, 1492, land was sighted, anchors dropped, and Columbus stepped upon a new land, and first and to my mind foremost, knelt upon the coast, lifted his heart in gratitude to his God for having spared his life and his men's lives that they might discover this, a new land, in which you and I might later live and be happy. He planted a Spanish flag on the new found land and took possession of it in the name of the king and queen of Spain. He called it San Salvador, it being one of the small islands of the group of the Bahamas. Thus, my friends, after 70 hard days of sailing, he came to the shores of a new land, in spite of the doubts of wise men, the fears of his friends, and the mutterings of the 87 sailors who accompanied him.

He went to Haiti and Cuba, and several islands, found curious people whom he called Indians, returned to Spain, where he was received by the king and queen in court with much acclaim, rode beside the royal pair and was given the title of don.

On his second voyage he founded a colony on the island of Haiti. On his third voyage he discovered the island of Trinidad, on the coast of South America.

On his fourth voyage he reached the coast of Central America. In these last voyages he was accompanied by many Spaniards, who went along to seek gold and jewels and treasures of the east. These would-be followers treated the Indians with considerable degree of cruelty. Many of them took sick with fever and again caused no little disturbance. Seeing that their plan or scheme would not work, they struck on the idea of poisoning the minds of the king and queen of Spain, telling them that Columbus was mistreating them, and many other falsehoods. While on his third voyage, the king and queen sent men to investigate. Officers arrested Columbus, put him in chains, and carried him back to Spain. Columbus, upon being arrested, said that he would wear the chains as a memento of the gratitude of princes, and desired that he be buried in them. When he reached Spain the chains were taken off by order of the queen, she seemingly being the only friend Columbus had left in the world. Not having anything to do, he wandered around helpless, poor, neglected, and with the idea that he had only made the discovery of a new way to the Indies.

At the age of 71 Columbus died in Valladolid, Spain, in 1506, was buried there, remaining there for seven years. His remains were removed to Seville, and after 23 years, removed to Santo Domingo, on the island of Haiti. In 1796 his body was taken with great pomp and ceremony to Havana, Cuba, and buried in the cathedral at that place. After the war between the United States and Spain in 1898, his body was taken back to Spain and now rests in Seville.

After death it would appear that Columbus came into fame, he having a more or less dual life.

Two towns claim his birthplace. Two nations with reverence lustre his deeds.

Two continents united in laudation of his greatness.

Two convents, after death, held his remains temporarily in Spain.

And today two countries lay claim to absolute possession of his remains.
