PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

with BILL MAYES

Way back on Jan. 13, 1931, which was just a few weeks after the Abilene Eagles had marched through to a state championship, Prexy Anderson, sports scribe of Abilene, wrote the following famous article, and since that date, almost three years ago, Abilene's Eagles have never defeated Ranger, either in Abilene or in Ranger. The clipping, which we have carefully preserved all these years, reads as follows:

"William Hearst Mayes of the Ranger paper has dropped us a brief note on the situation, which we quote in part:

"All Ranger home games are played at Eastland because we do not have a basketball court and as far as I have been able to find out no one from here goes to the games in Eastland."

"If you want to keep up with the games at Eastland you might get in touch with Gus Coleman at the Eastland Telegram office and get him to check up on the games and send you the score. So far he hasn't carried anything about the Eastland games, so I suppose the same condition prevails there as here."

"Ranger sports fans think basketball is a necessary evil and won't even discuss it, don't know when or whom Ranger is to play or the score after a game, so it is almost impossible to get anything unless the coach happens to remember the score."

"It is evident to us that the Ranger sports fans are griping in the dark, and it behooves us to lead them out into the light. It is assumed that the Ranger people are looking for a winner, an article they would come much nearer landing in basketball than in football. Just once in a dozen years have the Bulldogs taken a district gridiron championship; unless Ranger enjoys a spectacular and unexpected growth, we should say the odds are against it to maintain that average. Even if it had a first class recruiting system, which it has not, its chances would be more remote of getting along in the state race. Of the 24 teams that have been to the state football finals, only three of them have come from towns in the 10,000 class or under."

"On the other hand, we find that Athens, which has won national fame for its basketball team, is a smaller place than any of the towns that have ever been in the Texas football finals. Once upon a time a town in Smith county that is so small we had never heard of it since won the state championship."

"The point is that a small student body is much more likely to produce a winner in sport requiring only five players at a time than it is in a branch of athletics that takes 11 for a given play, and around 15 or 16 to the game, to make proper allowances for injuries."

"The very persons now calling for federal aid to stop but all are the ones who heeded at the idea then," former Governor James E. Ferguson said.

EASTLAND OFFENSIVE CLICKS 28 TO 2 AGAINST WEATHERFORD

By J. T. Cottingham
The Eastland Mavericks downed the Weatherford Kangaroos Friday night at Weatherford, putting on an exhibition of offensive effectiveness that should have won even in a conference game. The real feature of the display was Tully's discovery that he could carry the ball on off tackle plays. The big end has not been used for ball carrying before except from short passes over the line from Garrison. The final score was 28 to 2 with Eastland chalking up the high number.

Weatherford received the initial kick and Kirkpatrick was downed on his own thirty yard line. Three tries around and left eight to go and the Kangaroos punted.

Sikes gathered in the punt but was cut down after only a five yard run. Garrett off tackle and Mackall's line plunge netted the Mavericks three yards. Pass, Tully to Mackall incomplete and Tully punted.

The Kangaroos received on their thirty yard line and carried the pigskin back ten yards. An end run and a plunge through line

LEGISLATURE IS READY TO GET BILLS PASSED

AUSTIN, Oct. 27—The Texas Legislature, reconvening Monday, has jockeyed itself into position for speedy completion of two more of five purposes for which the session was called.

Remission of interest and penalties on taxes paid by March 1, await Senate adoption of a conference report on a compromise bill. The House already has adopted it by two-thirds vote.

Senate sponsors of the bill proposed to bring it up Monday. They were hopeful of favorable action, but were not confident of a two-thirds vote.

Final passage in the House of the Colorado river bill for completion of Buchanan dam will place that bill in a favorable position for enactment next week.

The Brazos river bill for a $50,000,000 state federal-development program, the first major bill finally passed, did not reach the executive office today for approval.

Ranger Band Has Strenuous Week

The Ranger High school band had as full a schedule this week as the Ranger Bulldogs, and came off about as victorious.

While the Bulldogs were drubbing the Eagles on the field, the band boys were probably just about as tired, as they had put in as strenuous a week as any Ranger band ever put in.

Their schedule ran like this: Two band practices. Two football games. Three pep rallies. Three drills. Two concerts in chapel.

Met two special trains and lead parade.

Went to Breckenridge, where they entered a band contest and won first money, amounting to $30.

R. L. Maddox, director of the band, today expressed his appreciation to J. C. Penney company, Montgomery Ward, Piggly Wiggly, the Lone Star Gas company and the Arcadia Theatre for letting the boys who work for them off Saturday morning in order that they might play in the band contest at Breckenridge.

The band and pep squad members were guests of B. E. Garner at the Arcadia Theatre Saturday night.

Indications For Improvement Are Seen In Survey

AUSTIN, Oct. 27—A group of business indications, mostly cheerful, was issued today by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas.

A. B. Cox, cotton expert, and bureau director, reviews stocks, consumption and other factors to arrive at a calculated price for middling spots on the New Orleans cotton market of 14.41 cents.

Widening margins indicate a better demand for American cotton, Cox concluded.

Shipment of livestock from Texas to Fort Worth yards in September were more than twice those of September, 1933, although the total fell below August shipments when government buying was at a peak.

Building permits showed a marked rise from a year ago.

NEGRO'S BODY IS HUNG IN TREE BY MOB

MARRIANA, Fla., Oct. 27—The body of Claude Neal, 23, negro confessed attacker and slayer of a white girl, swung from a tree on the courthouse lawn here today, victim of an enraged mob.

A large crowd of men, women and children silently gazed at the body, nude, except for a sack reaching from the waist to the knees. The negro had been shot at least 50 times, burned with red hot irons and dragged through the streets behind a car.

Sheriff W. F. Chambliss, speaking from his home two blocks from the courthouse square, insisted he knew nothing of the lynching.

A description of the scene and the body was furnished by Allison White, employe of an automobile concern near the square. White said the body and the crowd on his way to work.

White said the negro, who told officers he beat Lela Cannady, 20, to death after criminally attacking her on her father's farm near Greenwood, Fla., last week, was brought to town shortly after midnight.

The body trailed through the dust at the end of a rope behind an automobile, White said, and was swung, dead, from a tree. A mob of 5,000 composed the lynching party.

APPLICATIONS ARE APPROVED; WORK ON CITY AUDITORIUM TO BE RESUMED IMMEDIATELY

R. F. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger public schools, and chief among the sponsors of the city auditorium and gymnasium project, received word from County Administrator Driskill of Eastland Saturday that the application for all the skilled labor for the project had been approved at Austin.

Driskill and Engineer Gaither have been working on the project with Mr. Holloway and have put in much time trying to get the project approved.

At the same time an announcement was made that $4,470 in money had been granted on the project and the work would be resumed immediately.

All the requests for aid on the project, as set out in the application made by Holloway, Gaither and Driskill, were granted. Mr. Holloway, announced Saturday, and all were highly elated over the news which will mean the immediate resumption of the project.

The work has been at a standstill for some time, pending approval of these applications, and much work has been done to get them on the approved list of the county.

EAGLES ARE OUTPLAYED IN EACH QUARTER

Britt, Payton and Jacoby Score Touchdowns; Anderson Kicks Goals.

For the third consecutive year Ranger's fighting Bulldogs defeated the Abilene Eagles on Lillard field Saturday afternoon before a large crowd, by a score of 23 to 7. This, likewise, was the third consecutive defeat of the Eagles at the hands of the Bulldogs since the Eagles went to the state championship in 1931 when Prexy Anderson wrote that Ranger should become basketball-minded because a town of this size could not hope to compete successfully with a town the size of Abilene.

The Bulldogs completely outplayed the Eagles, and their highly advertised line, the Eagles being able to gain but a few yards at a time through their line, while the Bulldogs ripped off gain after gain with Anderson and Britt alternating at the line plugging. Occasionally they swung wide around the ends to cross up the Eagle defense, gaining 35, 30 and 45 yards from time to time.

When the little Eagle secondary tried to stop either in the open they were usually carried off the field after the play, but undaunted, the plucky Eagles who took their places, gritted their teeth and tried manfully to stop their onslaughts, but in vain.

Abilene took the initiative early in the game and put over a quick touchdown. The Eagles resisted and after making one, first down they kicked to the Ranger eight-yard line, but Ranger kicked out. Wheeler intercepted an Eagle pass to stop the Eagle attack and then Walsh ripped off 30 yards around his left end. After four plays failed, Anderson passed over the goal and Abilene took possession of the ball on their 20-yard line. Another exchange of punts, Britt fumbled and Abilene recovered on the Ranger 20-yard line. A pass to Moser was good for a first down on the Ranger six-yard line and Moser carried it over for a touchdown in two plays which netted three yards each, after Shytle had failed to gain.

Galbraith's kick for point after touchdown was good and the score was 7 to 0 in favor of Abilene, and Abilene fans went wild, thinking the game was "on ice."

But the Bulldogs came back to make an easy touchdown immediately thereafter. After two kick-offs went out of bounds the Bulldogs were given the ball on their 40-yard line and it took just three plays to march the 60 yards to the touchdown.

Anderson swung around his left end for 26 yards and a first down on the Abilene 34. A pass from Anderson to Britt carried the ball to the Abilene 49-yard line for another first down and on the next play Britt circled his left end for 19 yards and a touchdown. Anderson failed to kick goal.

Shortly after the second quarter started Ranger again scored, this time by means of a field goal from the 20-yard line.

Walsh returned a punt after the kickoff to the Abilene 25-yard line and Ranger drew a penalty. Anderson ripped off 45 yards for a first down on the Abilene 35. A pass to Britt was good for five yards, a second pass was incomplete, but Britt picked up 12 yards for a first down on the Abilene 18.

Anderson and Britt made six yards to put the ball on the Abilene 12-yard line, directly behind the goal post and Anderson dropped back to his 20-yard line, where he booted it squarely between the uprights to put Ranger in the lead, a lead they maintained and increased throughout the game.

Ranger's next score came when Crumpton fumbled on his own 25-yard line and Ranger recovered. Anderson failed to gain through the line and then passed to Bill Payton, who raced the last 10 yards to score after sheding off a couple of would-be tacklers. Anderson's kick was good and the score was 16 to 7 in favor of Ranger, where it remained until after the half.

Neither side scored in the third quarter, though Ranger possessed to the Abilene eight-yard line, where a lateral was fumbled and

Unreal Riches Melt Like May Snowfall

That odd atmosphere of unreality in which large-scale financial operations sometimes take place was never better illustrated than by some of the testimony given in the current trial of Samuel Insull.

This testimony had to do with that famous battle between Insull and Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland utilities magnate, for control of three of Insull's most important properties.

According to witnesses, Eaton set out to corner large blocks of stock in these companies at a time when their condition was a bit shaky and Insull was worried about them. Altogether, Eaton rounded up something like 160,000 shares, at market prices averaging slightly more than $300 a share.

Then, it is testified, he went to Insull and declared that he wanted $400 a share for this stock—threatening to dump it all on the market if his price was refused.

Such a wave of selling, of course, would have beaten the price down disastrously. So Insull's Corporation Securities Co. came to the rescue. Insull managed to beat Eaton's price down to $350 a share, the Corporation Securities Co. raised $40,000,000 through the issuance of serial gold notes, and Eaton was paid $56,000,000—$48,000,000 in cash and $8,000,000 in stocks.

Now an innocent bystander would suppose that whatever this deal might have done to Insull, it would at least have left Eaton sitting very pretty indeed.

After all, $48,000,000 in cold cash is a neat little nest egg. The financial worries of Eaton, doubtless, were forever ended, then?

Not at all. Today the personal fortune of this financier is estimated at about $100,000. Whatever may have happened to that $48,000,000, it at least seems certain that it has left Eaton's pocket.

What, then, was the result of this titanic combat of the money kings? Ruin for Insull, certainly; for Eaton, a stupendous victory whose fruits, within a few short years, turned to dust like Dead Sea apples.

Like so many of the games of the money masters, it all took place in a realm of fantasy. The 1929 crash proved that multi-millionaires could be turned into paupers overnight.

This episode is simply added proof that these enormous "fortunes" that the money masters command have something unreal about them. They can vanish faster than a May snowfall.

Safety first is a good slogan. It is better to be safe than sorry.

A community is judged by the support it gives its newspaper.

People who are always hunting for trouble usually find it.

punt from behind their own goal line.

Tully received but was cut down with only a ten yard return. Again the Kangaroo line held Sikes, Mackall and Garrett without any advance. Upton sent in to punt and the ball was killed by Mackall on Weatherford's thirty yard line.

Weatherford advanced on two short end runs just short of a first down. A twenty yard pass completed. An end run stopped behind the line. A short pass, incomplete. Ball lost to Mavericks on fumble.

Sikes and Mackall got short gains off tackle. Tully starts off tackle but cuts back through center and gets away. Thirty yard run for touchdown. Tully's conversion good. Score, 14 to 0.

Kangaroos brought kick back to their thirty yard marker. Fifteen yard pass completed. An end run got through to safety. Three tries around end failed and Weatherford punted.

Tully received but was downed in his tracks. Tully punted. Punt blocked and recovered behind goal line. Safety. Score, 14 to 2.

Tully punted from twenty yard stripe and Weatherford brought it back to Eastland's forty marker.

The Kangaroos failed to gain on an off tackle play and then a pass was intercepted, giving the Mavericks back the ball.

Tully stopped on off tackle try. Pass to Mackall intercepted and the Kangaroos had the ball.

An off tackle fails to gain. A center plunge stopped. An end run added twenty yards. Off tackle try stopped. Another end run stopped on Maverick's five yard marker. Three off tackles and a center plunge failed to gain goal. Ball goes to Mavericks on downs.

Tully faked kick and slipped around left end for twenty yards. Mackall, Tully and Sikes carried the ball on running play to Kangaroo ten yard line and were held for downs. Half ended before the Kangaroo punt could be made. Score, 14 to 2.

Eastland received the kickoff and was cut down on their thirty-five line. Mackall and Sikes got short gains through line. Pass, Tully to Mackall incomplete. Punted.

Weatherford returned to their forty mark. Pass completed for fifteen yards. Two fifteen yard end runs carried the ball to Eastland's five yard line and ball went over on downs.

Tully off tackle on fake twenty yards. Pass to Horton incomplete. Tully off tackle thirty yards. Pass to Brawner added thirty yards. Tully off right tackle for touchdown. Conversion made. Score, 21 to 2.

Weatherford returned the kick off to their thirty yard stripe. Short pass incomplete and fumble gave the Mavericks the ball on the Weatherford forty yard marker.

Tully off tackle for twenty yards. Hart off tackle for eight yards. Tully cut back through center, eight yards. Mackall to first down. Pass to Taylor for touchdown.

Balance of game back and forth on running plays. Final score, 28 to 2 with the Mavericks carrying the long end.

Woody, Kirkpatrick, Kelly and Green of Weatherford were entitled to the credit for the majority of the Kangaroo gains. Fumbles can be charged with the Weatherford losses.

Tully did well in the Maverick offensive game, gaining approximately a couple of hundred yards with off tackle and cut back runs. Horton was making a good record until a blow on the back of the head took him out. He will be back for the next week end. Brawner and Hart must be ranked next to Tully for effective work with Taylor and Frost crowding loose. Butler showed remarkable improvement over his play in other games and credit should be given the entire list. Garrison and Bagley were kept out by injuries but are expected to return for the go with Cisco the coming week end.

Beautiful Virginia Wedding
 Miss Virginia Beall Paul of Wellburg, West Virginia, who has visited in Eastland in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Joseph M. Weaver, was married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Paul, Thursday evening, October 4th, at Morningside, their home in Wellburg, to Mr. Ralph Wood Whitehead.

The wedding was a very gorgeous and colorful occasion. The bridal party included Miss Virginia Beall Weaver of this city.

The bride was gowned in old ivory satin, with finger sleeves and court train. The bridal veil was held by a coronet of braided satin; ivory color Dutch lace was centered draped the length of the veil that reached to hem of her graceful court train.

She carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. A marvelous altar improvised of gorgeous ferns, flowers and white muslin with candelabra at side, each holding seven ivory taper, had beautiful lighting effect installed by a famous Monongahela system.

Music before and during the ceremony, and the wedding marches, was played by Mr. Addison Jones of Washington, Pennsylvania.

The bride maids, Miss Virginia Beall Weaver and Miss Mary Beall Carter, both cousins, the latter from Baltimore, were similarly gowned in Jean Patou models, of tea rose satin, crystal clips at neck, and with dual trains.

They wore silver sandals, and carried bouquets of bronze pom-poms, and roses.

After the ceremony the bridal party was served in the dining room, and the two hundred guests attending, on the broad enclosed terrace, which was decorated with autumn flowers, and banked with flowers and greenery.

The bride's table had 'mums, pom-poms and silver candelabra with ivory taper decorations.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Paul, who has frequently visited Eastland, was gowned in pale pink lace and the groom's mother in black lace.

The large list of out of town house guests included Miss Ruth Weaver in black velvet, and Miss Louise Weaver in jade crepe. Guests were from all parts of Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The Misses Weaver returned a few days ago from West Virginia, and have as their house guest their cousin, Miss Mary Beall Carter of Baltimore, Maryland. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Weaver are now at home, from an extended visit.

BY CAROLYN KENDRAKE

BEHIND HER TODAY when DAN HERRICK, publisher of the Blade, learns that CHARLES MORDEN, police reporter, has been mysteriously killed by employe SIDNEY GRIFF, a criminologist, to solve the murder.

Morden had been investigating GRIFF, a detective employed by MISS CATHY, a wealthy and prominent woman who had threatened to sue the Blade because the newspaper reported GRIFF had been arrested. The man arrested was an impostor, the name of Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY HERRICK.

Morden's fingerprints are found in the apartment of a girl named ALICE LORTON, who has reported the disappearance of her roommate, CATHERINE HEDDLEY, a girl and brother, question Alice Lorton.

GRIFF warns that CARL HANCOCK, detective employed by MISS CATHY, is trying to locate a MISS BEATRICE MALONE. Alice GRIFF agrees to see Alice Lorton, and accuses her of being Esther Ordway.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXI

THE girl stared at Griff. The color had drained from her face leaving it wan and pathetic. Her lips, bare of rouge, pressed together in a tight line. When she spoke the words were almost inaudible. "The police," she said, and stopped impatiently. "There's been a murder committed. That's what the police are for, you know. Did you think you could get mixed up in a murder and then have someone just slap your wrist and tell you not to do it again?"

"But I'm not mixed up in a murder," Alice Lorton said.

Griff shrugged his shoulders.

There were several moments of silence then. Sidney Griff seemed to be waiting, the girl to be thinking.

She squirmed restlessly in the chair. Her feet shot out from under her kimono. She leaned forward and put a cold, white hand on his wrist.

"Listen," she said, "please believe me. I'm telling you the truth. My name is Alice Lorton. I don't know anything at all about Esther Ordway. Perhaps if I did I'd try to protect her. I don't know. But I'm telling you the God's truth. Please believe me. It's vital that you do believe me."

Griff frowned thoughtfully, seemed undecided.

The girl's other hand clung to his arm as though she had been trying to drag herself out of a quicksand. The quivering of her hands was visible, despite the tight grip which she held upon the criminologist's arm.

"You've got to believe me. It means a lot to me. I'm about to be married and to be happy. Anything that might come up that would connect me with a scandal of this kind would ruin my entire life. I'm telling you the truth. I'm Alice Lorton. I can prove it to you. I'll write out for you my whole life's history if you want."

"I'll tell you where I was born when I went to school. I'll bring in people who know me."

GRIFF'S tone was that of a man who is growing less sure of himself momentarily.

"But how does it happen that all of the things around here are Esther Ordway's? Why haven't you something here?"

"Because," she said, "I didn't have anything. I came here broke. Esther picked me up on the street. Oh, it was ghastly! I can't even tell you about it. I was broke and hungry and desperate, and Esther Ordway came and picked me up. I didn't want to tell the newspaper men about it. I didn't want my folks to find out about it. You see, I came on here to take part in a show. I wanted to be an actress. They told me what an awful life it was, but I wouldn't listen to them."

"And then I got on here and went broke, and I was out on the street, wondering where my next meal would come from. I was thinking of suicide—thinking of everything horrible. And then Esther was walking along beside me before I knew what had happened. She held my elbow in her hand and smiled at me just as friendly as though she'd known me all my life, and said, 'You look like you're pretty much up against it, kid.'"

"There was a sympathy in her tone that I hadn't heard in weeks. It brought out all the homesickness in me. I just started to cry right there in the street. She asked me how long since I'd eaten, and I told her it had been a day, perhaps two days. It had seemed as though I had been weeks. But it wasn't the food. It was the sympathy."

"And how long ago was this?" Griff demanded.

THE girl lowered her eyes.

"This," she said in a slow, hesitant voice, "was only two weeks ago."

"Why did you lie to us?"

"Because I didn't want to have the story come out in the newspapers."

"And you're engaged?" asked Griff.

"Yes," she said.

"Who is the man you are going to marry, Alice?" he asked in a kind, fatherly tone.

"A man back in my home town," she said. "He thinks that I've made good here in the city as an actress, but that I'm giving up my career in order to come back and marry him. Tell me, was it very wrong for me to deceive him like that?"

He laughed, patted her cold hand, pushed back his chair and got to his feet.

"A man back in my home town. I'm just a criminologist working on a case and trying to find out some of the facts. Forgive me for bothering you after you'd retired."

"Oh!" she said, with a quick little exclamation, "you're so nice. You approve, don't you?"

"I don't know," he told her, "as it makes any difference whether I approve or not."

"But you understand, anyway."

"Yes," he said, "I think I do."

She watched him as he buttoned his coat and reached for his hat, which he held by the brim.

"Good night, Alice," he said.

"Good night," she told him. "And thank you so much."

She came close to him, stood for a moment looking up into his eyes, her own eyes wide and starry.

"You're . . . you're wonderful," she said.

Before he could stop her, she stooped swiftly and kissed his hand.

A MOMENT later he was in the hallway, with the sound of the closing door and the clicking spring lock ringing in his ears.

Sidney Griff strode swiftly down the corridor to the elevator, paused in the lobby and found a public telephone. He dropped a coin and called the number of a detective agency which sometimes did work for him.

"Griff talking," he said. "I'm at the Elite Apartments, 319 Robinson street. Send an operative with a car out here right away. Get him here just as soon as you can. I'll be waiting across the street."

Griff hung up the telephone, left the lobby, pulled his coat about him as he felt the bite of the night wind, crossed the street to stand in the shadows. Occasionally he paced back and forth, his head bowed in thought, but his eyes watched the entrance to the Elite Apartments.

It was some 20 minutes before a light roadster slid in close to the curb. A man and woman alighted and stepped out to the sidewalk.

"Griff?" he asked in a low voice, as Sidney Griff came forward.

"Yes," Griff told him. "There's a young woman in that apartment house. She's about five feet two, blond, about 24 years of age, with a trim figure. She weighs around 105 pounds. She'll be coming out of the apartment house pretty quick. I think perhaps a man will come for her. I want her shadowed. It may be that another man will take up his position here to keep a watch on the apartment house. Don't pay any attention to him. Keep out of sight yourself. You'd better go down the street about half a block and park. Investigate everyone who comes out of the apartment house that might be the party I described."

The detective looked at his watch.

"Let's get the time straight," he said. "It's 12:40 now."

"That's right. Griff told him 'I have 12:41. But 12:40 is near enough.'"

"Okay," the man said. "I'll stay on the job and make reports. After I've got her located do you want me to telephone you?"

"No," Griff said. "Telephone your agency, but keep her shadowed. You'd better have them send out a couple more men if you are able to keep her in sight until she gets to where she's going."

Elaborate Program at Cooper School Celebrates Halloween

On last Thursday evening, Oct. 25, a usual custom, but the king and queen of Halloween held full of royal attendants held full of the annual Halloween celebration given at Cooper school by the Parent-Teacher association.

At 8 o'clock the arrival of the royal party was proclaimed by the sound of a trumpet played by Miss Ferris as a herald. As the royal attendants neared the throne they were introduced by a page as follows: Lady Irma Jo of the House of Wilkes, escorted by Lord Billy Mack of the House of Mendon; Lady Vera Vivian of the House of Cooper, with Lord Ben of the House of Patterson; Lady Betty of the House of Pugh with Lord Orval Lee of the House of Russell; Lady Peggy of the House of Hudson with Lord Jimmie of the House of Smith; Lady Betty of the House of Herwick with Lord Schley D. of the House of Lemna. The ladies-in-waiting were beautifully dressed in dresses of various pastel shades, made long and full, with short puffed sleeves. Each escort wore a white sash with satin sash to match the dress of the lady whom he escorted.

Following the royal attendants came the dainty little 2-year-old Betty Jean Reuser with a short frock of pink tulle made with a huge bow in the back. She scattered flowers along the royal path.

Next, behold Princess Billy Jean of the House of Crawley, with Prince Edgar Allen of the House of Smith. The Princess was beautifully attired in a dress of rose-colored satin richly embroidered with silver. The dress was made quite long and full. She wore silver slippers to harmonize with the dress. Prince Edgar Allen was dressed in white with a rich rose-colored sash matching the gown of the princess. The long train worn by the Princess Billy Jean was of black net bordered with silver ribbons. The charming little train bearers were Roy Jean Denton and Daphne Staggs dressed in very short white net dresses, one with trimmings of pink, the other of blue.

Next came the crown-bearers, Ben Pointer and Roy Pitcock, dressed alike in white satin blouses, short black satin trousers and slippers, bearing the crowns upon poles of satin.

The crown was placed upon the head of Prince Edgar Allen by Roy Jean Denton, who then handed her the crown which he placed upon the head of the Princess Billy Jean, thus proclaiming her his queen.

Throughout the ceremony, appropriate music was furnished by Miss Lott, teacher of music in the school.

This coronation ceremony was fitting climax to a contest which the primary department of Cooper school won over the upper grades to decide who should furnish the king and queen of Halloween for the annual carnival.

Miss Pettit, primary teacher, was named as chairman to see that all royal people carried out their coronation ceremony properly and in the proper setting, and the beauty of it all showed that Miss Pettit and those who assisted her spent much time in making an event that soon to be forgotten.

Mrs. Jeffries was master-of-ceremonies during the remainder of the program in which children and patrons of the different rooms participated for the entertainment of the royal court.

All in all, it was a very delightful occasion and one long to be remembered by the Cooper school children.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
 "Probation after Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 28.

The Golden Text is: "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death" (1 Corinthians 15:26).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom" (Luke 16:23).

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The sin and error which possess us at the instant of death do not cease at that moment, but endure until the death of those errors. So be wholly spiritual, man must be unselfish, and he becomes thus ardent when he reaches perfection. We know that all will be changed in the twinkling of an eye, when the last trump shall sound; but the last call of wisdom cannot come till mortals have already yielded to each lesser call in the growth of Christian character" (page 230).

Abilene took possession on their own 13-yard line. The Eagles failed to gain and kicked out to Welch on the Ranger 41 and he stepped off 12 yards to put the ball on the Abilene 47. Anderson gained three and then stepped back and passed to Jacoby on the goal line, for a touchdown. Jacoby's left arm was completely surrounded by the Rangers, but making the catch with one hand and stepping across the line on the score. A. J. Anderson kicked the goal and made the score 23 to 7 in favor of the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs line outplayed the Eagle forwards, despite advance notice from the Eagles' stronghold that they had a wonderful line. Jacoby, Britt, Love, and Payton harassed the Eagle backfield throughout the game and whenever they tried the line they found Aaron Anderson and "Stump" Warden on the other side of the hole to stop them after short gains of one to three yards, while when they tried to circle the ends they were completely outclassed, as the light interference could get nowhere against Ranger's heavier two ends and the plays bogged down completely, the longest two runs of the game being for six yards each, one by Ray Moser and the other by Crumpton. The average gain for running plays was only about two yards, while on several occasions they were smothered by Britt, Payton or Jacoby for losses of 12 and 15 yards.

In the last quarter, with a number of reserves in the lineup, the Bulldogs took a new lease on life and completed several passes to carry the ball from their own 15-yard line down to the Ranger 50 on their longest drive of the day.

But even with a number of reserves in the line the Eagles fanned a word well executed time after time and failed to make material holes in the Ranger line and these were successfully blocked by the line-backers.

Ranger drew eight penalties for a total of 55 yards, while Abilene was penalized three times for a total of 15 yards.

The Eagle secondary made two blunders in the latter phases of the game when they intercepted Ranger passes on their own four-yard line and then had to kick out from behind their own goal line, one they were completely outclassed, as the light interference could get nowhere against Ranger's heavier two ends and the plays bogged down completely, the longest two runs of a total gain of 102 yards, none of which netted touchdowns, but one which put the Eagles in scoring position.

Ranger punted eight times for a total of 369 yards, an average of 46 yards, while Abilene punted 15 times for a total of 338 yards, an average of slightly over 35 yards per punt.

Ranger made 11 first downs to even for the Eagles.

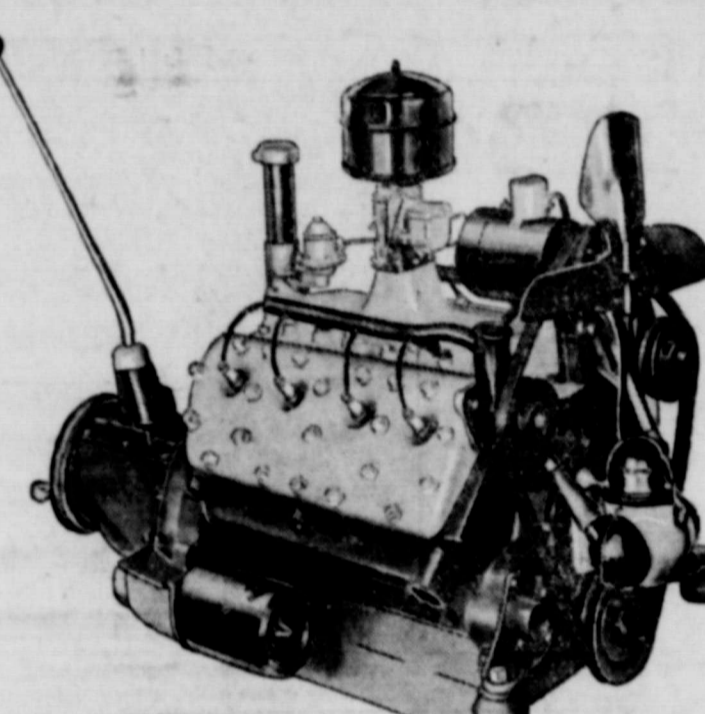

The starting lineups:
Ranger—Jacoby and Payton, ends; Donowho and Love, tackles; Warden and Wheeler, guards; Burton, center; Anderson, quarter; Westbrook and Walsh, halves, and Britt, full.

Abilene—E. Jones and Blackmon, ends; Schupbach and Collins, tackles; Balfanz and Howell, guards; H. J. Jones, center; Walters, quarter; Galbraith and Moser, halves, and Shytles, full.

Substitutions: Ranger, Caroway, Champ, Agnew, Palmer, Bray, Crumpton, Harris, Holliday.

V-8 Leadership Is Based on Engine Facts and Records

SOME things about an automobile are more or less a matter of opinion. But when it comes to the engine, you are dealing with the hard facts of power and its application. Either you have V-8 power or you don't have it.

You should know that experience and the records of performance are definitely in favor of the V-8 type engine. You need not depend on words—the record speaks for itself. It is something you can see as you "Watch The Fords Go By." Something you will realize even more fully when you drive the Ford V-8 yourself.

It isn't the difference between green or black or between velour and broad-cloth upholstery, but a far-reaching difference in basic engine design. Only the V-8 can give you V-8 speed, power and performance. It costs more to produce, but Ford has made it possible to use this engine in a low-price car. Only the Ford gives you a V-8 engine unless you pay $2500 or more!
