SPECIAL SESSION ENTERS LAST WEEK

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

This should be a week that will go down in history in Eastland. The Mavericks defeated the Cisco Lobos Friday afternoon by a score of 28 to 7, the first win for the Mavericks in many years of contests between the two teams, and Monday morning the Eastland National bank, the first bank Eastland has had since the fall of 1931, is to open with a big celebration.

But because Eastland overwhelmingly swamped the Lobos does not mean that Ranger will have any too easy a time of it on Nov. 12, when the two teams meet. Those who saw the game said the Eastland team was 10 times better than the one which met Ranger, while Cisco looked more ragged than on any previous occasion.

The Lobos will be plenty steamed up for the Ranger encounter here, and the Lobos have been noted for playing their best games against Ranger.

For instance, in 1933 Abilene defeated Cisco by a score of 20 to 0 and Ranger defeated Abilene by one point, which would indicate that the Bulldogs were 21 points better than the Lobos.

When telling us about the change in the date an invitation was extended to all Ranger fans to attend the Breckenridge-Abilene game and it was said that a large number of Breckenridge fans would be down the following Monday to see the contest between the Bulldogs and the Lobos.

The Mavericks, in celebrating their victory, or at least some of their supporters, built a big bonfire on the sidewalk on the west side of the square, and a big time was had by all, according to reports. We imagine they could have torn down the courthouse without very much opposition.

INSULL TRIES TO JUSTIFY EUROPE TRIP

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Rising to the climax of an almost unparalleled court ordeal, 74-year-old Samuel Insull attempted to justify his flight to Europe in 1932 while his $2,000,000,000 utility empire crumbled behind him.

"I refused to return from Paris to Chicago," he shouted at Special Prosecutor Leslie Slater, "because I did not want to be pulled through the streets in chains as politicians here promised I would be."

"Self-preservation is the first law of nature and I would have been crucified if I had been returned there. A man slapped on one cheek ordinarily does not go 8,000 miles to get slapped on the other."

Mavs Stampede For 28-7 Win Over Cisco

LOBO SUFFER FIRST DEFEAT BY MAVERICKS

Two Thousand Fans See the Mavericks Shatter to Threads Old Tradition.

By J. T. COTTINGHAM Red Petty's Mavericks topped the Cisco Lobos in a hotly contested game Friday evening before a crowd of 2,000 people. The contest was fought out on Eastland's new Welch field on the Ranger highway east of town and the fans filled almost every seat in the park.

Captain John Garrison played the entire game, with the exception of a few minutes out of each quarter to enable the doctor to examine his shoulder, entirely disregarding a collar bone broken in the Breckenridge game three weeks ago. He was unable to tackle at all but he made up for this by spectacular blocking. Garrison has the gift of leadership and his very presence in the game went a long way toward making the team; he was also able to furnish the little extra power necessary to cop first downs.

Darrell Tully was the outstanding star of the contest. He has developed into a triple-threat back. Petty formerly carried him as an end and only shifted him into the backfield as an emergency move. His development was a surprise to everyone. He made the first touchdown on a pass from Garrison, intercepted one of Caffrey's bullet passes and ran 70 yards to score the second and his off-tackle runs and passes accounted for a large portion of Eastland's total yardage gained.

Sikes stood out for his tackling and stopping of Beasley and Caffrey. He intercepted a pass intended for Colium and made an 85-yard run through a broken field to score but even without this spectacular play Sikes had starred on account of his defensive play.

John Hart and Brawner also made remarkable showing and in fact, the play of the entire squad was good enough to make star picking difficult. The most remarkable showing in comparison to past performance was from Butler. The showing made by Eastland's lanky center during the first three games was only fair, due to lack of experience in football, but each of the next three games showed Butler contributing more to the advancement of his team.

Barnes kicked for the Lobos. Received by Mackall who was stopped by Beasley on Eastland's 30-yard line. Tully off left tackle for five yards; Tully thrown behind the line for a five-yard loss; Tully punted but ball was called back and Cisco penalized five yards for offside, making a first down for Eastland. Tully was stopped off-tackle with no gain; pass, Tully to Mackall incomplete; Tully punted. Caffrey received but was downed by Mackall after only a five-yard return. Colium went through center for 10 yards and a first down, Beasley was thrown behind the line for a five-yard loss. Caffrey punted to Tully and it was returned to the Eastland 35-yard marker. Pass, Tully to Mackall incomplete. Hart through center gained four yards; pass Tully to Brawner completed for 25 yards and a first down. Brawner went around right end for two yards; Garrison goes in to replace Horton. Garrison on left end for two yards; pass, Garrison to Tully, completed for 25 yards and a touchdown. Tully

AUXILIARY TO SELL POPPIES ARMISTICE DAY

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion will sell poppies on the streets of Ranger and at the Ranger-Cisco football game in Ranger on Monday, Nov. 12.

It is customary for the ladies to sell these poppies each Armistice Day but since Armistice comes on Sunday this year the sale will be held on Monday, which is being observed as the holiday.

All poppies to be sold will be bought from the state department of the American Legion at Austin. The poppies are made by disabled war veterans in government hospitals, and they get paid for each flower they make.

This provides those able to do only light work a means of making their little spending money and also provides them with something to occupy their time. The money made locally from the sale of the poppies is used by the auxiliary in aiding the destitute families of war veterans, or any other needy families in the city who come under the observation of the ladies of the auxiliary.

Those who wish to take up any phase of electrical study should report to the high school building Monday night and begin the study with the first classes.

DEMOCRATS TO HAVE POWER IN CONGRESS

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Democrats have the election won three days before the polls open but there is no assurance President Roosevelt will be able to control the congress which is to be voted into office Tuesday.

Surveys reveal new deal prestige diminished, but still sufficient to assume what will look like steamroller majorities in house and senate. Democratic majorities of two-thirds in both houses may be counted after Tuesday's elections. House democrats now number 308 to 115 republicans, five farm-laboratories, and seven vacancies. The democrats could lose 18 votes and retain the two-thirds majority. A gain of four senate seats would give the democrats a two-thirds count in that body.

H. Walker Returns From Attending the Bankers Meeting

Hall Walker, who has just returned from a trip to Washington and Chicago, where he attended the convention of the American Bankers association and the World's fair, was very much impressed with the meeting, which was attended by the leading bankers of the United States.

Of particular interest, he said Saturday, was the talk by Jesse Jones, chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation, who was one of the principal speakers. His talk was very impressive and he gave an optimistic view of the future of banking in the United States. He urged the co-operation of the bankers in extending credits and in making long-time loans and recommended the examination of banks a year by one group of examiners, instead of the federal reserve, the state and national examiners making separate examinations.

He said that the country, at this time, was well supplied with capital stock, and that a broader system of credits would aid materially in restoring prosperity. President Roosevelt, who was also one of the principal speakers, made an interesting talk, in which he accused the bankers of not operating as thoroughly in the past as he hoped they would in the future. He said that when he went into office practically all the banks were closed because of lack of confidence of the people in the banks, and that now the banks were on a sound basis, but the banks should have more confidence in the people when it came to extending credits.

Stalcup, Brown Are Held In Jail

HOUSTON, Nov. 3.—Virgil Stalcup and Clarence Brown, West Texas outlaws who killed Sheriff W. B. Arthur when they fled the Dickens county jail last Saturday, were under arrest here. Brown was arrested Thursday, but the news was withheld until officers could trap Stalcup, who was taken last night as he approached his apartment here. The desperadoes will probably be removed to Lubbock, officers said, as feeling at Dickens was reportedly running high.

SOLONS MUST HURRY TO GET BILLS PASSED

Only One of Five Topics Has Been Approved At Session So Far.

AUSTIN, Nov. 3.—Texas legislators must hurry to finish the special session program mapped out by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson. The session will enter its final week Monday.

In the three weeks they have acted finally on one of the five topics submitted; they are apparently deadlocked on two; dubious on another; and apparently have decided to ignore the fifth.

The enacted bill authorizes a Brazos river district to negotiate a federal loan of not less than $30,000,000 for construction of 13 dams along the Brazos and tributaries. The governor has it, unsigned, on her desk. She is waiting to see what else is done.

The tax penalty remission bill still had the house and senate divided on treatment of city and school district taxes. The senate adjourned yesterday until Monday while the house failed to muster a quorum today.

Need Seen for Better Highways

An immense highway construction job still faces the American public. Accidents and high cra driving costs, fostered by lack of adequate highway improvements, extract tolls that far exceed the money expended for highway and street improvement.

Accidents, with the deaths, injuries and damaged cars that follow in their wake, annually cost $2,500,000,000, or $1,000,000,000 more than is spent each 12 months for highway repair and betterment.

High driving costs, too, vastly swell the highway transportation bill. American motorists annually travel more than 20 billion miles. Naturally the good roads and streets in service have largely reduced car driving costs. Yet conservatively estimating excessive driving costs on the poor roads and streets at one cent a mile, motorists yearly spend $1,500,000,000 in excess of what they would pay if the bulk of them were provided with traffic facilities better suited to the motor vehicle.

That continued highway improvement at an accelerated rate would pay for itself is indicated by the fact that the costs of driving cars today is probably more than one-third less than it was 15 years ago when good road building got under way.

The large road job ahead is indicated by the condition of the main state highway systems. These roads, totaling 383,000 miles, are only one-eighth of all the roads in the United States. These roads, the through routes, carry upwards of two-thirds of all country travel. Yet one-half of these roads are still classed as mud or dust roads.

Less than a third, 120,000 miles, of the main street highways are paved. In view of their importance to commerce, which means to everybody, at least another 100,000 miles should be hard surfaced in the immediate future. Improvement of these roads would mean cheaper driving costs, fewer accidents and employment equivalent to 650,000 men working for nearly three years.

A Fitting Memorial

The Texas State Bar association has dedicated its effort to building a great memorial to the earliest supreme court; a monument commensurate with the dignity of the conception, and one that finds its expression in service to the present and the future.

The association, through a committee now at work, would enlist federal public works support for erection of a useful, dignified building, to be dedicated in Centennial year, and to house the two court of final jurisdiction and the department of the attorney general, chief law officer of the state. The committee is working with state officials and agencies. Its program is to create the memorial structure with the state's only contribution to it and the ground upon which it shall be erected.

By United Press COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 3.—Gov. Eastland County Farmers Will Receive $211,458 This Year From the Federal Government

By J. C. PATTERSON County Agent The agricultural adjustment administration is paying Eastland county farmers a sum of $211,458 to restrict their crops this year as an aid in adjusting market surpluses.

Three hundred seventy-eight hog raisers will receive a total of $31,770 for producing 1,864 less hogs and 928 acres less corn than their 1932-33 average. The second payment should be received during the month of November.

Four hundred seventy-eight cotton producers will receive $50,150 in rental and parity payments for agreeing to plant 5,255 acres less cotton than the five-year average on their farms. The second final checks should be received late this month.

Five hundred thirty-four cotton producers who participated in the plop-up last summer pooled 1,311 bales of cotton on which they received $29 per bale advance last spring totaling $26,227. Now an additional advance is offered on this pooled cotton of two cents per pound less accrued expense, making available another $9,966 to cotton producers.

Twelve-cent loans are available to any cotton producer on this year's cotton crop where stored in a bonded warehouse. Just recently this loan was also made available to non-contract signers who will agree to execute a 1935 cotton acreage reduction contract.

Those who stored cotton last year and received 10-cent loans may now cancel out the old loans and borrow 12 cents per pound on it.

Wheat raisers were offered a reduction contract but only three Eastland county men availed themselves of this opportunity.

Through the drought relief cattle purchasing program 756 producers sold 7,561 head of cattle for $92,531. During this program 1,174 producers owning 30,723 head of cattle listed 13,124 for sale and while the buying program apparently is at an end producers are coming in continuously to list other cattle for sale to the government.

It may be of interest to note the numbers purchased from producers owning different numbers of cattle: purchases were made from 118 producers owning five head or less; from 148 owning six to 10 head; from 124 owning from 11 to 25; from 68 owning from 26 to 50; and from 43 producers owning over 100 head of cattle.

Sheep purchases have been made from all producers offering but only 56 head were sold under this program at $2 per head.

Goat buying in this county has not been started as yet but the county quota is 494 head and the price to be paid is $1.40 per head.

A referendum vote has been conducted among corn-corn contract signers to determine whether or not they desired the privilege of executing reduction contracts in 1935. Voting for contract in 1935 were 104 and voting against a new contract were 85.

The agricultural adjustment administration has indicated that a referendum will probably be held early in December on the administration's cotton adjustment program at which time all cotton producers will be given an opportunity to vote their opinion of the governmental effort to advance cotton prices.

Schell Brothers Circus Is Coming To Ranger Friday

With the coming of fall means the coming of the circus, and we are not to be disappointed this year. As the advance men of Schell Bros. Four-Ring Wild Animal circus were in the city making the final arrangements for the coming of their circus to Ranger Friday, Nov. 9, for two performances, afternoon and night.

Schell Bros. circus comes to Ranger well recommended from other towns and cities where they have exhibited last season as well as this year having a very pleasing performance. As a prelude to the circus a beautiful and spectacular pageant is presented, which is a gorgeous procession of Old Spain, with various dances, music and a grand parade. The performance is then presented in four rings, where every performance is a champion in his respective line of entertainment. The world's circus champions have engaged this year by Schell Bros. at a great added cost.

A few of the outstanding featured artists who are presented twice daily in the main circus performance are as follows: The Flying Gazelles, the Conner Family, the Henrys, the Uraths, the Dreisbeck Sisters, beautiful equestriennes of international eminence; Miss Mickie Hogan, world's greatest aerial gymnast; Albert Connely, dancing, somersaulting, acrobatic wizard of the air. As an added feature for this season, Miss Kate Lola, Hollywood's sweetheart and movie star and her entire company of beautiful young ladies. There are hundreds of people, horses, cages, and dens of wild elephants; two herds of elephants. The wild animal numbers are presented by Captain Kohler, Arthur Bum Fairbanks and his congress of laugh-provoking clowns will give away the blues. Doors are open one hour earlier than the performance to permit leisurely inspection of the menageries. A whole colony of cute infant animals will delight the children when they visit this circus.

You'll save money if you consider all 4 points when you buy paint!

Four factors govern the true economy of a house paint. Each must be considered.

- 1 COVERAGE
Of two paints otherwise alike, the one covering the most square feet per gallon would be the most economical. Good paint at $3.00 a gallon would cost the same as a $2.00 a gallon paint which covered only two-thirds as much surface.
- 2 HIDING POWER
If a single coat of good paint at $3.00 a gallon will hide a surface as well as two coats of cheap paint costing only $1.50 a gallon (and it will) quite obviously the better paint costs no more and look what you save in labor!
- 3 DURABILITY
Good paint, wearing three or four times as long as cheap paint (as it will) makes an ultimate saving of six or eight times the price of the cheap paint even if the cheap paint costs only half as much.
- 4 PRICE
Price is the most obvious factor in any comparison of values. Of two paints identical in quality the lowest in price would be the most economical. Price is the only factor of the four that you can know before you buy. Therefore it pays to play safe and buy paint made by a reputable manufacturer.

Actually cheap paint costs more than twice as much as good paint when coverage, hiding and durability are considered.

Remember it costs less, even at the outset, to use good paint especially when you can buy Cook's finest quality house paint at a saving of over half a dollar a gallon.

Mrs. Leslie Hagman to Give Book Review

To those of you who have heard Mrs. Leslie Hagman give a book review, we know that you will need no urging to be present at the Missionary Society Monday November 5th, at 3 o'clock, at the M. E. Church.

Mrs. Hagman will review the entire book entitled "Christ of Japan," by Toyohiko Kagawa, who is universally accepted as one of the outstanding Christian social leaders of our time. In this striking new book he discusses intimately the problems of his people. He presents a stirring message of Japan's need for Christ and an appeal for closer fellowship between the East and West, in carrying forward the Christian mission.

This Monday will mark the closing of the fall mission study period. The leader, Mrs. C. D. Woods, will give the devotional followed by a short but important business meeting, with plans for winter activity to be discussed. All women of the church are cordially invited to attend this review and members are urged to be present.

Mrs. E. S. Brink Entertains Honoring Teachers and Officers of Primary Department

Mrs. E. S. Brink entertained at her home, Walnut street, with a turkey dinner at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. Mrs. Brink has been superintendent of the Primary department of Central Baptist Sunday School for the past seven years. The home was beautifully decorated and two long tables filled the dining room.

After the serving of the dinner, Mrs. Brink made a fitting talk to her co-workers, expressing deep appreciation and giving her plans for the department for this winter. Mrs. Packwood, Mrs. Wilkes and Miss Lorraine Harrell responded with talks on "What I Can Do to Have a Better Primary Department." Mr. L. Antonio de Mendoza, viceroy of New Spain (Mexico) was thankful that year back in 1539, that Friar Marcos brought reports of a wonderful country to the North which should be, by all means, explored and claimed for His Majesty, the King of Spain. The viceroy was thankful because his problem was solved of finding employment for the men about court who were "chiefly young gentlemen." He would begin negotiations at once with prominent men of Spain and New Spain who would be able to finance such an expedition of exploration.

The "gentlemen" of the court were well-to-do young Spaniards who had come to New Spain in search of adventure and excitement. They had left their homes sometimes through the insistence of parents who wanted to keep them out of mischief, and sometimes because they hoped to find something of unusual interest in the new land, which would give more zest to their lives. Among these young men was Francisco Vasquez de Coronado, black-headed, energetic, with a twinkle of curiosity and interest for life in his eyes.

Friar Marcos had traveled over part of the land to the North which Cabeza de Vaca had been over two years earlier, and realizing that the country was worth claiming for Spain, he suggested to the Viceroy that an expedition be made. Too, there were reports from various people about a marvellously rich group of seven cities called the Cibola, which would bring untold wealth in gold and silver to the Spanish. To such tales it was difficult to turn a deaf ear. On the whole it seemed to be to the advantage of the viceroy to claim the land as soon as possible.

Although the expedition was to be a failure in regard to the wealth in precious metals, it was highly successful because of the land traversed and explored. To Texans in 1936 Coronado's trip will be celebrated, for it was through his expedition that Texas became a land of great value for future civilization.
