TWO NAVY FLIERS KILLED NEAR WEATHERFORD

AUTO CODE IS BEING ARGUED BY FACTIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The automobile code today was the center of a battle waged by labor to secure rights claimed under the recovery act. President Roosevelt, to ordered extension of the code until June 16, was supported by Donald Richberg, coordinator. Arthur Whitehead voted with Richberg to accept the code amendment agreed to by the industry in placing his approval on the extension with Richberg and Roosevelt. The American Federation of Labor claimed the code amendments would not benefit workers and refused to recognize the new code. President William Green attacked the code before a senate committee hearing on the 30-hour week bill. Lined up at least in sympathy with Green were five members of the recovery board who voted against the code changes.

Roosevelt May Hear Huey's Foe

The situation in Louisiana that led to the revolt by the Square Deal association will be laid before President Roosevelt by James E. Mehaffey, above, one of the association leaders, according to a statement by Mehaffey in Biloxi, Miss. New outbreaks by the Square Dealers are feared, as Long's leaders keep a close guard to stem the revolt.

APPOINTMENT OF MRS. HUGHES TO BE FOUGHT

AUSTIN, Feb. 1.—The appointment of Rep. Sarah Hughes of Dallas, judge of the 14th district court today had widened the breach between Governor Allred and Senator Claude Westerfield of Dallas. Announcement of the appointment late yesterday drew from Westerfield the declaration that he would fight confirmation of Mrs. Hughes by the senate, "to the last ditch." "She is a married woman and should be at home washing dishes," Westerfield argued. He asserted that Mrs. Hughes' husband, George Hughes, received a salary of $300 a month from the government and asked "why give the family $500 or more from the state?" Westerfield accused the governor of "paying a political debt" by the appointment.

Huey Long Is Taken for a Ride

His charges of an attempt to assassinate him still echoing in the Senate chamber, Senator Huey Long of Louisiana was taken for a ride in Washington—by Uncle Sam. Here he is seated in the underground railroad that shuttles between the capitol and the Senate office building.

Carbon Black Permit Hearing Set for Feb. 12

Phillips Petroleum Company's application for renewal of permit to manufacture carbon black from residue casinghead gas in the Pioneer district will be heard at the Railroad Commission's hearing room in Austin, Feb. 12, 10 a. m. The announcement was made through Luther Belew, proration umpire for this district of the commission, who received the information from the Austin office. The railroad commission will take such action as its judgment may be just and proper and authorized by law after presentation of evidence by interested parties.

Boys Begin Drive To Win Bicycle

The Ranger carrier boys started on their one-month campaign Friday for subscriptions to the Times, the winner of the contest to win a bicycle as first prize. Early Friday morning most of the boys got to work, while some waited until afternoon to begin their drive for personal news items, magazine and newspaper subscriptions, all of which will count as credits toward the prize. Demeiters when papers are not delivered to subscribers will also help to keep the boys on their toes to see that no one misses his paper. The contest started on the first day of the month and will end on Feb. 28. The bicycle which is to be awarded as first prize can be seen in the Killingsworth, Cox & Co. show window, where it is on display.

Papers For Return Hot Check Artist May Be Arranged

Extradition papers for the return of a woman held in Berryville, Ark., for the passing of a hot check on an Eastland merchant may be arranged, members of the county sheriff's office said Saturday. The woman allegedly passed a check for $125 on the Eastland merchant while fraudulently representing a cosmetic company. D. J. Jobe, deputy sheriff, was in Austin last week and conferred with the secretary of Governor Allred for issuance of the necessary papers. According to a letter from Henry Wilson, sheriff at Berryville, Ark., the woman is wanted for charges in Texas and Oklahoma. With her is held a man who gave his name to Arkansas officers as Jack Stansberry. He was with the woman in Eastland. Stansberry is wanted on a felony charge in Arkansas, a letter from the Arkansas sheriff to officers at Eastland stated.

Legion Post Is For Payment of Bonus

A telegram from the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion, to Hon. Wright Patman, member of congress, was sent Friday by G. E. Robinson, post commander, and J. D. McRae, adjutant. "At a regular meeting of the Carl Barnes Post No. 69, Ranger, Texas, Jan. 31, 1935, the following resolution was unanimously passed, which expresses the sentiments of the members of this post in its entirety: "Whereas, the American Legion in national assembly at Miami, Fla., went on record favoring the payment of the veterans' adjusted service compensation under a plank that it will not create any additional debt; "Whereas, the Patman bill expresses the sentiment of the Legion members and is the only bill that carries out the mandate of the Miami convention; "Be it resolved that we pledge you our support and are heartily in accord with your stand as announced in today's press that the national commander, Balgrano, either support your bill or resign for the good of the Legion." The telegram was signed by the post commander at the time of the meeting.

Carbon High Wins From Alameda by 107 to 7 Friday

What is regarded as the highest score amassed in a cage game in this section was totaled Friday at Eastland by Carbon High school which defeated Alameda, 107-7. The game thrust Carbon into the semi-finals of the Class B county cage tournament to be played in Eastland Feb. 6. Finals will be played in Carbon Feb. 8. Scorekeepers were forced to tally scores by writing numerals on the board instead of using the cards, it is reported.

Case In Litigation For Over 10 Years Acted On By Supreme Court

In litigation over 10 years, the supreme court of Texas at Austin rendered judgment Friday in a case that was filed Feb. 27, 1924, at Eastland 88th district court. The Texas Bitulithic company filed suit on that date on a paving certificate against Briggs Owen of Eastland. The case was twice appealed to the court of civil appeals, first by Owen, then by the paving company. The court of civil appeals on the last hearing reversed the judgment of Judge Elza Heen and rendered judgment for the paving company. A writ of error was granted by the supreme court and that court this week reversed the judgment of the court of civil appeals and affirmed Judge Heen's judgment. Turner, Seaberry and Springer represented the Bitulithic company and Frank Judkins of Eastland the defendant.

UNEMPLOYABLE WILL BE KEPT ON AID ROLES

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—Unemployables among the state's needy will continue to receive general relief allotments until federal aid is stopped, State Director Adam Johnson said today. Federal support was to be withdrawn from unemployables Feb. 1 but action was postponed. Federal and state funds are combined to provide general relief. February checks totaling $1,569,750 were mailed yesterday to counties. The funds will go for general and drought relief. Total allocation for the month was uncertain because available state bond funds and federal aid have not been determined. Work relief projects announced will cost $407,860 and give work to 2,876 men on 171 projects. Among the projects are: emergency education, Eastland, $3,276, 13 men; Ellis, 1,008, four men; Taylor, $8,704, including road improvement, 46 men.

Grace Brandon Is Cross-Examined At Murder Trial

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 2.—Miss Grace Brandon, the army department stenographer, whose blond beauty so captivated the clerical Major Charles Shepard that he proposed marriage, wrote ardent love letters to her almost daily and talked of divorcing his wife, was turned over from cross-examination today at Shepard's trial on murder charges. The Major, Miss Brandon told defense counsel, was always a gentleman whose motives apparently were of the highest order. Major Shepard is accused of poisoning his second wife in 1929, so that he might marry Miss Brandon, who then was 21 years old, 136 years the major's junior.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED ON HENRY COUPLE

Indictments were returned Friday by 91st court grand jurors against Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry, charged with murder in the death of H. L. McBee, Rising Star highway worker whose skeleton was found near that town Dec. 22. No announcement was made of the true billing or no billing of M. E. Tyler, Rising Star laborer, charged with murder in the same case. Grand jurors had been in special session since Monday. The Henrys Saturday were at liberty under $4,000 bond. McBee, Rising Star highway worker, disappeared from his home in Rising Star in May, 1933. A futile search was conducted for some time. The skeleton identified as that of McBee was found by Herman Boyman and Dean Broughton of Rising Star near that town early Saturday morning, Dec. 22. Identification of the skeleton was definitely fixed the following day as being that of H. L. McBee. A highway tag with numbers corresponding with those given him when he was a highway worker were one of the identification certainties. Also gold fillings and other dental work was identified as the same as an Eastland dentist had done for McBee some time ago. When found the body was suspended from a low limb of the tree by a piece of wire wrapped about the neck and tied to the limb. The upper part of the body was all intact but the feet had dropped off, carrying the shoes and trousers with them and were wadded up on the ground under the tree. A cap pulled well over the face was still on his head and the hair was still intact. The upper part of the shirt was still on the body and in the shirt pocket was found a box of aspirin and a few cigarette papers. A leather belt was still in the loops of the rotting trousers and was identified as one similar to the one worn by McBee when he disappeared. On Dec. 27 Eastland county officers arrested Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henry of Rising Star. Mrs. Henry is the former wife of McBee. On Dec. 28 M. E. Tyler, Rising Star laborer, was arrested. A verdict of death from indeterminate reasons was returned Dec. 29 at Rising Star.

Soviet Scents German "Grab"

World diplomats pricked up their ears when Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet premier, opening the seventh all-union congress of the Soviet republics in Moscow, bluntly charged Germany with aggressive designs against Soviet territory. Russia's relations with Germany are "abnormally bad," the premier declared.

BOTH BODIES BADLY BURNED IN ACCIDENT

Tentative Identification Is Made From Personal Effects Found. WEATHERFORD, Texas, Feb. 2.—Two U. S. navy fliers were killed near here today when their plane crashed and burned. Papers and personal effects found on the bodies indicated the men were Lt. O. W. Tate Jr. and George Chaffee of San Diego, Calif. Witnesses said the plane apparently crashed in attempting to make a forced landing. The ship had fallen behind two other navy planes, headed for Shreveport, La. The other fliers evidently did not notice the ship when it dropped out of formation and continued on their way. George Williams, farmer, said the plane circled a plowed field near where he was working and as it attempted to land he heard an explosion and the ship burst into flames. It fell in the field and in a few moments was a mass of wreckage. Lieutenant Tate was identified by a ring and cigaret case on which his name was engraved. Lieutenant Chaffee was identified by a partially burned flight order which was found on his body. A fragment of a telegram found in one of the fliers' pockets said, "Will see you March 1," and was signed "Father." It had been sent from San Diego, Calif. A watch near one of the bodies had stopped at 9:30. The bodies were held at Weatherford.

Services for Mrs. Hugh Mahaffey Held Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Hugh Mahaffey, 36, who died at her home west of the city limits of Eastland Friday night were scheduled to be held Saturday afternoon at the Baptist church with Rev. Willis Skaggs of DeLeon and Rev. O. B. Darby of Eastland conducting. Interment was to be in Eastland cemetery. Mrs. Mahaffey had been ill for over a year prior to her death. She had lived in Eastland 14 years after her moving from Plainview. Surviving Mrs. Mahaffey are her husband, and father, S. R. Goss, Eastland; five children, Charles, Dale, Vaneta, Joyce and Ernest, all of Eastland; two sisters, Mrs. F. A. Rose, Fort Worth and Mrs. W. E. Mahaffey of Englewood, Calif., and a brother, Ed Goss, of Ely, Nev.

NEW PLOTS TO ASSASSINATE LONG CLAIMED

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 2.—New and varied plots to assassinate Huey Long in the manner of old melodrama, were introduced in fast succession today as the senator-investigator-dictator pursued his investigation into the deadly intentions of his enemies. The conspiracies were difficult to delineate there were so many. Some were described quite casually by George Davis, a former deputy sheriff. He told of several attempts he said he and Fred Parker, another deputy, had made to kill Long. National guardsmen patrolled the capitol while police searched all persons entering the courtroom. Even women were forced to open their handbags before entering the building. Machine guns mounted on the courthouse steps yesterday commanded every approach.

Davisson Youngest Man Elected from District In Years

The following article concerning Eastland county's representative, George Davisson, appeared in a recent issue of the Daily Texan, University of Texas publication: "George Davisson of Eastland defeated eight opponents to gain his seat in the House. His election came after a campaign in which Davisson made 67 speeches advocating poll tax reduction, pensions for old aged, state income tax, and other issues, were out two suits sliding in and out of his Ford and making every thrasher in the country. "Premature gray, Davisson scored a victory that would have done credit to an older man, for he had been absent from the district 10 years, part of the time teaching military science at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell, He, 26, is the youngest man elected in his district during the past 30 years. "At the first session of the new House, Davisson and Representative Cecil Lotief sought to amend the senate $500,000 contingent expense bill to have itemized expenses of each House and Senate member printed in the Journal each month. The amendment passed the House, but was removed in conference committee. "Davisson, while at the university, was a member of the Order of San Jacinto, Cowboys, Hidebrand Law society, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon."

Hon. Wirt Franklin To Be Speaker at Oil Men's Banquet

Hon. Wirt Franklin, who is to be the principal speaker at the banquet to be held on the Burch Hotel Roof in Breckenridge Tuesday night by the West Central Texas Oil and Gas association, has been an active, independent producer for a number of years and has had vast experience in a number of fields. The following biographical sketch of his life will give his background as a speaker on such an occasion. It is expected that practically all the oil men in this section of the state will attend. Wirt Franklin, President of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, is a native of Richmond, Missouri, where he was born on March 22, 1883. He was raised at Macomb and Lacon, Illinois, and graduated from the Lacon High School. During the years 1900-1902 he was employed as a stenographer with the Commission on Indian Affairs, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., and while working there attended Columbian University (now George Washington University). He secured an appointment as stenographer with the Dawes Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes at Muskogee, during which time he continued his law studies on his own initiative. While with the Dawes Commission he had charge of the preparation of the Choctaw and Chickasaw rolls. He resigned from the Commission.

BREAKDOWN DEBT RELATION IS OF CONCERN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—State department officials today were concerned with possible effect of the far eastern situation as a result of breakdown of Soviet Russian-American debt negotiations. The possible effect on world peace are considered far more serious than the setback to American hopes for early expansion of Soviet markets. Administration officials were concerned over possible developments in North China, Siberia and Mongolia. Japan and Soviet Russia are competing for dominance in that area. The collapse of the Soviet-American negotiations may cause a drop of soviet prestige in world capitals, especially in Japan and China, authorities believed. TO ATTEND OIL MEET Luther Belew and possibly Omar Burkett and I. J. Killough of the Railroad Commission office at Eastland, will attend the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association meet in Breckenridge Tuesday. (Continued on page 3)

Singers Meeting At De Leon Today

Dr. A. K. Wier, president of the Ranger Singing association, has received a card from the Ripptoe, brothers, announcing a singing convention to be held in DeLeon today. The card reads: "We will have a big singing convention at DeLeon on Sunday, Feb. 3. Loud-speakers have been installed so that everyone can hear. Mr. Stamps and his famous quartet will be here. "We are expecting a great time. Come, and tell everyone to be sure to come."

Another Is Held As Barrow Aid

DALLAS, Feb. 2.—Another member of the desperate Clyde Barrow gang, James Mullen, was under arrest today. His capture brought to two score the number of persons rounded up by Federal officers in their drive to wipe out the contacts which enabled Barrow and Bonnie Parker to remain fugitives. A deputy marshal arrested Mullen. He was taken to an unnamed jail.

OIL TENDER IS REVISED AS OF DEC. 10

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—Texas Railroad commissioners today revised their tender order of Dec. 5 to require every person to obtain a permit before selling any oil products. The revised order was believed to give the commission a hold on illicit traffic in crude and on its products in Texas. It also ordered the oil industry to file an inventory of its stocks. The inventory was made retroactive to Dec. 10, thus enabling the railroad commission to ascertain every transaction in Texas from Dec. 10 to Feb. 1, inclusive.

Wallace Looks Ahead To a New Democracy

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace believes that the time is coming when we shall have to revamp our political machinery to put economic democracy on the footing of political democracy.

Writing in a recent issue of Collier's Weekly, Secretary Wallace dips into the future and foresees a new governmental unit, a sort of cross between a president's cabinet and a supreme court, existing across the terms of various administrations and empowered to sound out public sentiment and make decisions on the great economic issues of the day.

Such unit, he suggests, might consist of four councilors representing, respectively, industry, agriculture, labor, and the consumers. They would be above class narrowness just as the supreme court is above it; they would hold office for terms of a dozen years or more, so that the council would not change color with each change of administration.

Most important, they would be empowered to conduct referenda on vital issues. Suppose, for example, that the cancellation of war debts, or the wisdom of certain "social planning" schemes for re-employment, were up for consideration; the council would poll the country, find out just what the voters would or would not stand for, and then order it done.

Now it is obvious that such a proposal as this could not be accepted without years of debate and study. The secretary does not suggest it as a reform to be adopted day after tomorrow.

But in the mere fact of its being advanced there is a significant revelation of our growing realization that economic democracy and political democracy are two separate things, and that machinery designed to insure the latter does not always gain the former.

When our government was established, it was political democracy that was all-important. If a man could be governed only by laws in whose making he himself had had a part, he was a free man, and the freedom thus gained was the only kind of freedom worth worrying about.

But the course of events moved out from under us. If you are a business man, for instance, or a mechanic, or an ordinary laborer, your life may be far more dependent on the decision of some distant corporation, or on the mysterious and incalculable shift of economic forces, than upon any law that Congress or your state legislature may pass.

We need some way of putting these things under public control. It may be that Secretary Wallace's method

Ford Trucks Show Marked Increase In Retail Sales

DEARBORN, Mich., Feb. 2.—A strong indication of the upward trend of business this year was seen today in the announcement at the home office of the Ford Motor Company that Ford retail truck sales for the first 20 days of January, 1935, were the highest for this period in the past nine years.

The figures also showed that only twice in the company's history have sales for the first twenty days of January surpassed the present 20-day figures and then only by a slight margin. Ford truck sales reached a higher 20-day January total in January of 1925 and 1926.

This marked increase in truck sales was regarded as exceptionally indicative of business improvement, since trucks are definitely recognized as business tools. Ford truck sales for the first 20 days of this month, as reported by Ford V-8 dealers throughout the country were almost three times as great as retail sales dur-

Allred to Confer On Oil Compact

AUSTIN, Feb. 2.—Gov. James Allred will confer this afternoon with W. F. Holloway of Oklahoma City, on the proposed petroleum compact between oil states.

Holloway, a former governor of Oklahoma and representing the present Governor E. W. Mariand, had an appointment with Allred to talk over possibilities of an interstate oil conference designed to eliminate abuses prevalent in many states.

Wilbur Glenn Voliva predicts we're in for a lot of trouble this year, since the world is supposed to have ended last fall.

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lee Brockman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father.

Steve Meyers who also works in the mill asks Gale to marry him, the promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Later that evening Gale goes skating on the river, goes through the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian asks Gale to wait while he gets his car but when she returns she is gone.

Brian has come home after two years in Paris, convinced he can never be an artist and eager to go to work in the mill. Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

Brian sees Gale in the mill and recognizes her. Next evening he asks her if he can walk home with her. Gale refuses but Steve sees her talking to Brian. Steve is jealous and he and Gale quarrel.

Lonely, she goes skating again. Brian suddenly appears and says he was hoping to find you here.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XX
Hand in hand, Gale and Brian Westmore skated up the river. The click of steel runners on ice was like silvery music. Ahead the mirror smooth surface of the river glistened—a starlit pathway against ebony shadows. Wind rushed against them, cold, invigorating. Gale, matching long strokes to those of the young man beside her, was caught by the spell of the rhythm. She felt excited and warm and very, much alive.

She turned her head and saw that Brian was looking down at her.

"Why did you do it?" he asked.

"Do what?"

"Why did you run away the other night when you said you'd quit?"

"I—changed my mind," Gale told him.

"And you've run away from me since—at the mill. I thought you were going to see me."

"I could not see, in the darkness, how her cheeks had crimsoned. 'I couldn't talk to you at the mill,' she said. 'I couldn't walk home with you.'"

"Why not?"

"Because you're Brian Westmore, one of the owners, and I'm just one of your employees."

"What difference does that make?"

"It makes all the difference in the world," he said.

"That's nonsense," he said, abruptly. "Nothing but nonsense."

"Oh, no it isn't. It's—the way you are, that's all. You saved my life the other night and I'll never forget it. I'll never be able to talk you—"

"One way might be not to run every time you see me coming."

She laughed. She hadn't meant, but there was something in the way he said it that made it very funny.

"I want to talk to you," Brian went on. "I want to know lots of things about you—your name, for instance."

"Gale Henderson."

"Nice name," he answered. "Yes, it suits you. And you're about 19 years old—"

"Twenty-three," she told him.

"What?" He appeared startled.

"As old as that? My, my, how time goes on! So you're 23 years old. And you work in the silk mill and you don't like men who come pestering around, asking to walk home with you—"

He was teasing and she knew it. How he didn't seem to be Brian Westmore, owner of the mill, any longer. He was just a young man with a pair of dark eyes that gazed at you, demanding to be gazed at in return—a young man who was an uncommonly good fencer, whose long, sure strokes used Gale on against the wind, seeking glowing eyes bright, her heart beating that incessant tattoo.

"You're an awfully good skater," he told her.

"Not as good as you are. I'll bet you can cut spirals and fancy figures."

"I used to be able to when I was a kid," he said. "I've probably forgotten how now. Every winter I always think of this river and the fun I used to have here."

"You're really going to stay at home now?"

"Yes. Didn't I tell you that the other night?"

"You said you wanted to get a job."

"I've got one—in the mill. Oh, it isn't much of a job. I guess they're afraid to trust me because there's so much I've got to learn yet. You know I envy you!"

"You envy me?"

He nodded. "Yes, because you know what it's all about. I wanted to start in the way any beginner would, but Thatcher didn't seem to like the idea. He said I should learn the business end first. He's right, I suppose—but I know I'd like the other a lot better. I'd like to be out among the machines—"

"It's no picnic," Gale assured him.

"No, I suppose not. But I'd like to try it just the same. I'd like to work at a desk and reading papers and trying to get through my head what other people are talking about."

Gale looked up quickly to see if he was joking now. He wasn't, apparently.

She said, "Maybe we ought to turn back now."

"If you want to," he agreed.

They swung around in a broad arc. The wind was behind them, so that they moved almost effortlessly. Only the sound of the runners, the click-click of steel on ice, broke the stillness. Overhead the sky was a spangled tapestry, blue-black woven with stars.

Suddenly the majesty of the night was overwhelming. Gale felt she could not speak. She wanted to glide on like this. On and on. With the wind whispering over her shoulder, and her hand in Brian Westmore's, her body swaying to the rhythm of the gliding strokes. She wanted to go on—

It was Brian who broke the spell. "Cold?" he asked, looking down at her anxiously.

"No, I'm not cold."

"Something hot would be good for you, though. There's a place a couple of blocks from here where we can get coffee and sandwiches."

"I'd rather not," Gale told him.

"But you'll get chilled. I don't want you to hurry away like you did the other night. I want to talk to you. A cup of coffee—"

"I can't go with you," Gale said, "but I'll tell you what you might do. If you'll build a fire we could sit and talk for a little while." "Good! Over there by that bend looks like a good place, don't you think?" He swung her toward the shore. "Careful. Better let me go ahead—"

Once again Brian gathered leaves and dead branches and presently the knife-like flames were leaping and twisting, sending up a wavering gray ribbon of smoke.

There was a log for Gale to sit on. She said, smiling, "This is just like the other night—only lots nicer. For one thing, I'm not soaking wet and I haven't just been fished out of an ice bath."

"Nit-wit that I am!" Brian exclaimed, "I haven't even asked if you caught cold."

"I didn't," she told him. "I got into dry things and went to bed and woke up next morning feeling first rate."

"You certainly look it right now," he said admiringly. "First rate!"

She couldn't help noticing the warmth of his tone. And being 23 and under the spell of the night, the bloom on her cheeks brightened and her eyes, when she raised them, held a starry light. Her voice, though, was casual.

She said, "Look—that branch has burned in two—"

Brian busied himself with the fire. "You're a queer girl," he said, "but I like you. Maybe that's why I like you. You're different from anyone I know—"

Suddenly the words broke off. He was staring at her. I've seen you before," he said with conviction. "Somewhere. I don't mean here the other night, or at the mill. It was somewhere else."

He paused, frowning. "I have seen you—haven't I?"

"Maybe," she smiled at him, a provocative three-cornered little smile.

"I don't think it was here," Brian went on slowly. "And I can't remember the place, but I've certainly seen you. It couldn't have been—no—"

He sat back, studying her. "Where was it?" he demanded.

"Professor Felamier's class."

"Professor Felamier—?"

"Yes. History VI. I believe it was. Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10:30. You sat in the second row from the front and I was three seats back, across the aisle."

"You were at State?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell me?"

"Why should I?"

Brian was staring at her. "Listen, I don't get this," he said. "You were at State when I was there and now you're here, working in the silk mill—"

The girl nodded. "I had to quit," she said. "Two years ago. My father worked in the mill and he was taken sick. He hasn't been able to do anything since. I thought I was going to be a teacher when I went away to school, but there weren't any jobs so I took what I could get."

Both of them were silent a moment. Then Brian said, "We're in the same boat—for different reasons. I thought I could be an artist, but I wasn't good enough; you wanted to be a teacher. It's tough giving up something you've set your heart on, but you get over it."

"Yes," Gale said, "you do."

Their eyes met and held. Brian Westmore said slowly, "I think you're swell, Gale. I think you're the sweetest girl I've met in a long time."

She said, "I can't stay any longer," and got to her feet.

"Father's alone," she explained,

"and I promised I wouldn't leave away long. I shouldn't have stayed as long as I have."

Brian began tramping out the fire. "All right," he said, "we'll go. But I want you to promise me something. Promise you'll meet me here tomorrow night."

CCC Head Calls And Coyotes Come

By United Press
TUCUMCARI, N. M.—When Roy H. Franks, CCC camp superintendent near Clovis called coyotes, they come running up to him like a dog to his master. Franks uses his skill to aid him in hunting. He said he was taught to call coyotes by an old Cherokee Indian when he was a boy.

tion in 1905 and formed a law partnership with S. A. Apple. In 1906 they moved from Muskogee to Ardmore and on January 24, 1907, Mr. Franklin was admitted to the bar in the United States Court for the Southern District, Indian Territory, and continued the practice of law until the opening of the Healdton oil field in 1913.

Franklin's first venture of consequence was during his association with Apple, Ed Galt and Roy Johnson, in the Healdton field, at which time the pool was discovered and the Crystal Oil Company organized and later sold (in 1916) for $2,000,000. The Apple-Franklin Oil Company, with Franklin, Apple and J. W. Harold as organizers, was also formed during the same time.

Following this Franklin operated independently until the organization of the Wirt Franklin Petroleum Corporation in 1927, which he heads as President.

He is a member of all Masonic bodies, including Scottish and York rite. He is a Vice-President of the Kansas-Oklahoma Division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, a Director of the A. P. L., a charter member and former President of the Ardmore Lions Club, former President of the Dornick Hills Country Club, Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Mr. Franklin was the first Chairman of the Planning and Coordinating Committee for the Petroleum Industry and is now Chairman of the Production Subcommittee of the Planning and Coordination Committee.

Mr. Franklin has served continuously as President of the Independent Petroleum Association of America since its organization in June, 1929.

He maintains residences in Ardmore, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Real Chimpanzee Is Seen Here at High School Auditorium

Personal appearance of five trained animals will thrill kids Monday, February 4, when "Skippy," known as Hollywood's educated chimpanzee, will be put through his paces on the High School stage.

His act will take about forty minutes and during that time he will ride a bicycle, roller skate, dance, smoke and as his trainer says, "do everything but talk."

"Skippy" has appeared with Johnny Weismuller in "Tarzan and His Mate." He also has appeared in several "Our Gang Comedies," and will be in pictures again when the tour he is now on is completed.

Survivors of First Antarctic Trip Meet

VERMILION, Alta.—Two veteran explorers, sole survivors of an expedition that spent nearly two years in the Antarctic, have been reunited here for the first time in 34 years.

They are Lieut. Com. Louis Bernacchi, retired British naval officer, and C. Blackwell-Evans, Alberta rancher. They are the only survivors of a group of 10 men who spent 22 months in a small hut in the Antarctic when the first British naval exploration expedition headed for the South Pole 35 years ago. The eight other men died before the rescue ship could reach them.

The two veterans were reunited when Lieut. Commander Bernacchi stopped off here specially to meet his old friend while en route from Britain to Vancouver on a business trip.

Irish Versus Irish At Wrestling Arena

When Jimmie Black, the Irish wrestler of Toledo, Ohio, invaded Texas with his rough style of wrestling, he thought the neck breakers in this neck of the woods could not take it. Jimmie was discomfited last Monday night for his roughness.

But up jumps another Irishman, one other than Eddie O'Shea, the real rough-house Irishman. Eddie says that Jimmie is just the laddie he's been looking for. "He wants to show me a few tricks, eh? I'm willing to learn them, but I'll keep him so busy he won't have time to show me nuttin'."

This match is the main event on Monday night's card, Feb. 4, and will be double tough, nothing but shillalah.

The semi-final will bring together Mervin Barackman, Canadian champ and Ernie Aultman. These two boys have both been successful in their former matches in Ranger and no doubt will give a good account of themselves. There will be plenty of action.

The arena will be made comfortable regardless of weather conditions. Spectators are advised to read carefully the instructions on form 1040 relating to the earned-income credit and surtax, as well as all other instructions thereon, before preparing their returns.

ST. RITA'S CHURCH

Masses today will be at 8 and 10 a. m., by Rev. Joseph Fernandez.

This is the fourth Sunday after the Epiphany. The Epistle read is taken from St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans 13:8-10; the Gospel is from St. Matthew 8:23-27. The Gospel gives an account of the tempest at sea when Christ was asleep and his disciples wake him to save them. We may consider three things in this short gospel. The tempest at sea, the conduct of the disciples, and the conduct of Jesus during the storm. The moral for Christians is that they need fear no storm as long as they have recourse to Jesus and do what He tells them. Then they will be saved.

Free Library Full Of Information

By MISS IRENE CHADWICK

"A young Detroit mechanic named Henry Ford had neither the cash nor the inclination to attend the high school, but he had a mind which seethed with an intellectual curiosity. He haunted the Detroit public library day and night enlarging his knowledge of clumsy traction engines and steam engines with queer ideas of finding a self-motive power for buggies. He told Samuel H. Ranck, librarian of the Grand Rapids public library, that among other publications he ran across The English Mechanic or the World of Science which convinced him of the possibilities of the internal combustion engine. The world today would seem to owe something to the library that brought Henry Ford and that strange periodical together."

You, too, can gain interesting and valuable information from the Ranger public library. A few of the titles on timely subjects are: Tax Racket, Power Age, Pecan Growing, Forestry, Tea Room and Cafeteria Management, Public Speaking for Executives, Story of Mankind, In the Heart of the Canadian Rockies, and Radio Writing. The library is free to everyone. It is located on the ground floor of the high school building and is open on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights from 7 until 8 o'clock as well as during school hours on school days.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to press our sincere appreciation to our friends for their kindness shown us during the death of our dear mother and grandmother—Mrs. J. T. Killingsworth, Floyd Killingsworth, Mrs. J. P. Cross, Mrs. T. F. Foster.

BEVERLY, Mass.—Local residents claim this as a fisherman's paradise. John Bonnette and Alexander Krohmel, fishing through ice, caught nine pickerel weighing more than four pounds each. The largest was 25 1/2 inches long and weighed 4 pounds 12 ounces.

Now if the World court could knock the "I" out of "world," maybe there would be less objection to letting our senators join it.

Automobile of A. E. Yeager Stolen At Home Friday

County officers were seeking a late model Ford sedan, which was stolen from A. E. Yeager of Eastland Friday evening.

The keys of the automobile were in the ignition slot when Yeager went to his residence for supper at 6 p. m. Yeager, in an automobile of M. L. Keasler, a neighbor, attempted immediately after the theft to trace the party, but was unable to ascertain the direction taken.

Search for Karpis Reaches to Nevada

By United Press
RENO, Nev., Feb. 2.—Search for Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, only members of the Karpis gang still at large, has turned to California and Nevada with discovery of a machine gun here, it was learned today.

The two men shot their way out of an Atlantic City hotel two weeks ago and fled west.

The machine gun was found under a bridge several miles from here last Thursday. Nearby were four boxes containing 200 rounds of ammunition.

High Speed Rail Travel Now Due

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA.—Passenger trains will whiz through the countryside at 100 miles an hour—freight trains will travel 60 miles an hour—within the next 10 years according to a forecast of I. I. Mont Hughes, president of Carnegie Steel company.

Speaking before a club, Hughes asserted the higher speed will make possible wide improvement of rails and in construction of motive and passenger coaches.

The greatest change in rails and track beds will be necessary in the mountainous sections, Hughes believes.

"Curves and grades must be leveled and additional bridges and tunnels built," Hughes continued. He asserted that fortunes of roads and steel companies are closely aligned.

"One of the surest ways of turn to prosperity," Hughes declared, "is by return to normal operations of the durable goods industries, of which steel is one of the most important."

"I believe we cannot have prosperity again until these two industries are operating at a satisfactory rate."

Church Wedding Friday Evening Claims Attention of Ranger Society

Dr. D. T. Wier and Miss Maxine Henderson Marry at Baptist Church

In Green and White Wedding Scene, Rev. H. H. Stephens Reads Service of Prominent Couple

Society recorded an event of wide interest in the wedding at Central Baptist church Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at which Miss Maxine Henderson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Henderson, became the bride of Dr. D. T. Wier, only son of Dr. A. K. Wier, at a service spoken by Dr. H. H. Stephens, and prayer said by Dr. L. B. Gray, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Tall palms and ferns offered an attractive background, with white candles held in floor standards also of white. The standards silhouetted against the greenery effectively accentuated the two-tone motif.

The lovely bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father to be presented in marriage by him, was wearing a beautiful white satin gown, becomingly styled to her graceful type, diagonally tucked and finished in cocktail effect at sweeping hem length. Her finger-tip veil of flowing illusion was held with pearl clips and given the finishing touch of beauty with a design of orange blossoms encircling the crown. She carried a gorgeous bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley, which nestled an orchid to form the colorful center. The gown was made and designed by the bride's mother whose artistic ability was given smart note.

Mother is Matron of Honor

The bride was attended by her mother as matron of honor. Mrs. Henderson was gowned in ashes of roses crepe and wore a shoulder corsage of talsiman roses.

Mrs. Jimmie Burrage, who served as bride's matron, was attired in coral pink. Her flowers were sweetpeas and pernet roses.

Misses Ruth Shirley, Mary Edie Davenport and Marguerite Adamson made up the bridesmaid group. Miss Shirley was wearing a water-green dinner gown, Miss Davenport, shell pink, and Miss Adamson, a model of pale blue. They carried nosegays of sweetpeas in pastel tints combined with sweetheart rosebuds and pernets.

Mrs. C. I. Wolford and Mrs. Herman J. Brown of Haynesville, La., shared honors in lighting the candles an effective feature of the ceremony. Mrs. Wolford wore a blue-green, long sleeves, with high front decollette. Mrs. Brown also wore a striking gown of heavenly blue, long sleeves and emphasized with the decollette design. Their flowers were shoulder corsages of rosebuds and sweetpeas.

The best man was attended by Floyd Killingsworth as best man, Messrs. Bob Neely, Jr., of Fort Worth, Cecil Cole, Jack Galoway and Lee Thompson were ushers.

Music by Drago Oudette

Miss Wilda Drago and her brilliant octette of Eastland, dressed in colorful evening attire, gave the music. Preliminary selection was the ever-favored "Meditation," from Bach-Gounod. Piano accompaniment was played by Miss Jane Ferguson. For the recessional the octette beautifully played Mendelssohn's Wedding March from Lobengrin. During the reading of the ceremony the strains were modulated into the playing of "Love's Old Sweet Song." Talented musicians comprising the octette name Misses Margaret Hart, Jennie Tolbert, Jo Earl Utz, Alma Williamson, Clara June Kimble, Mrs. Arthur Vaughn and director, Miss Wilda Drago.

The marriage of Miss Henderson and Dr. Wier marked the uniting of two prominent families, both prominent in civic and church life of Ranger.

Mrs. Wier is a graduate of Centenary College in Shreveport, La., and has a Bachelor of Arts degree. She is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Dr. Wier is a graduate of Baylor University at Waco and is a member of Phi Alpha Sigma and Kappa Beta Phi fraternal organizations.

On Honeymoon Trip

The couple left by automobile for a honeymoon trip to Monterrey, Mexico, where they will visit 10 days.

The bride's going-away suit was a handsome gray tweed with complete accessories of navy blue.

After their return they will be at home on East Main street. Congratulations were graciously expressed through an array of beautiful wedding gifts from their host of friends.

Luncheon Delightful Courtesy

American Legion auxiliary members together with their president, Mrs. Charles Surbrook were delightful hostesses for the 1 o'clock buffet luncheon meeting entertaining in the colonial room Gholson hotel, Friday afternoon.

The buffet tables laden with its delicious course of friend chicken and all the trimmings was centered with a lovely bouquet of spring blossoms shading from navy to pale tones.

Quartette tables were lace covered and centered with small clusters of violets, favors for guests.

Mrs. Surbrook graciously presided for the program, presenting Mrs. O. B. Pierce of Cisco in three vocal numbers, "America," "Kiss Me Again" (Victor Herbert); "Thine Alone" and "Texas," a composition of her own. Mrs. Pierce is a vocal artist of note and was well received in Ranger. Mrs. Noel also of Cisco was her accompanist.

In a note of greeting the president presented the principle speaker of the hour, Mrs. L. S. Daniel of Abilene, who is capably serving as 17th district committee woman. Her remarks were sincere, impressive and drew the complete attention of each guest.

Places were marked at the luncheon one of the most smartly appointed of early spring affairs for: Meses Charles Surbrook, L. S. Daniel, J. D. McClister, J. B. Houghton, Preston Burks, G. E. Robinson, R. H. Hansford, R. W. Gordon, R. H. Penock, A. N. Larson, S. P. Boon, J. J. Kelly, Clyde

H. Davis, Roy Jameson, Carrie Brady, A. J. Baum, E. C. Murphy, Ida Utz, and Miss Arrietta Davenport.

Safety Meeting Held

The safety meeting of the Sinclair-Prairie Oil company met Friday evening at 7 p. m., in the auditorium of Cooper school.

At the close of the business meeting both the boys' and girls' glee clubs entertained the safety club. The program of popular music was most excellent and Miss Mitchell, Mr. Jeffries and Mrs. Smith deserve much praise for the splendid programs they are presenting.

Cooper P. T. A. to Meet

The Cooper Parent-Teacher association will meet Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 3:30. The leader for the day will be Mrs. E. L. Hood and her topic will be "The Social Life of the School."

The junior glee club, sponsored by Mrs. Smith and Miss Pettitt, will sing several numbers.

Fun Festival

Thursday night, Feb. 7, there will be a program at the High School auditorium. This program is sponsored by Ringold's literary-dramatic club. It has a full evening's entertainment of fun, mirth and laughter, musical selections, dramatic numbers, skits, appearance of Cooper's girls and boys glee club with other numbers round out an evening of entertainment. The show, beginning promptly at 7:30, will be given free of charge. All parents and friends of the school are urged to attend and see their children perform.
