POST DOWN IN DRY LAKE BED IN SPEED HOP

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—The attempt of Wiley Post, veteran flier, to send his plane across the continent in seven hours, ended on the dry bed of Muroc Lake today, just a little more than 100 miles from Los Angeles, his take-off point.

The round-the-world flier telegraphed Lockheed Aircraft officials he was uninjured and his plane was only slightly damaged, though he was forced to land on belly skids, having dropped his regular landing gear at his takeoff.

"Am down at Muroc Lake. No damage except bent propeller. You can land alongside with ease," his wire said.

Muroc Lake apparently was an ideal landing spot. Its dry, even bed frequently has been the scene of automobile and motorcycle speed trials.

It was believed a faulty propeller forced Post to abandon his attempt.

Kennamer in Spotlight He Craved

The spotlight which friends say Phillip Kennamer has craved in bizarre ambitions since his childhood played glaringly on the youth on trial in Pawnee, Okla., for the slaying of John Gorrell, Jr., as he went to the stand in his own defense. Here is a striking study of the 19-year-old son of a federal judge as he sat in court and heard members of his Tulsa social set give testimony that cast doubts on his sanity. He was found guilty of manslaughter.

KENNAMER TO BE SENTENCED ON SATURDAY

By United Press
PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 22.—Phil Kennamer waited in the Pawnee county jail today to learn the term of years that will be his punishment for the admitted killing of John Gorrell Jr.

Reporters were not permitted to see him.

Judge Thurman Hurst, in whose court the jury last night found the youngest son of U. S. Judge Franklin Kennamer guilty of manslaughter, will sentence him Saturday at 2 p. m.

The jury agreed on a manslaughter conviction at 9:15 p. m., yesterday, after deliberating the case since noon, but could not agree on punishment and left that with the court.

Judge Hurst may sentence Kennamer from four years to life imprisonment.

Stomach Upside Down in Illness

Smiling courageously despite the peril to her life from a rare physical ailment, Aloyce Jane McHenry, 19, of Omaha, Neb., is shown here as she rested on her way to Fall River, Mass., for an operation. Rupture of the diaphragm has turned her stomach nearly upside down and she is living almost entirely on an ice cream.

PROGRAM FOR TWO DAYS HAS BEEN ARRANGED

Big Crowd Anticipated From Over The Entire District.

The 17th district convention of the American Legion will open in Ranger Saturday and will continue through Sunday afternoon. Fully 300 to 400 Legionnaires from the counties in the district are expected to be present at the convention, with the majority of the delegates and visitors arriving Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Elaborate plans have been made by the Carl Barnes Post No. 69, which will be host to the visiting Legionnaires, and one of the best conventions the 17th district has ever held is expected, both by Rangerites and by visitors. Indications are that practically every Legion post in the district will be represented, with many posts sending a large number of visitors.

A good program of entertainment has been worked out by the committees in charge of the various phases of the convention and the convention will be full of pep from start to finish, with not a dull moment from noon Saturday until the last session of the convention is held Sunday afternoon.

Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge, Strawn, Thurber, Gordon, Mineral Wells, Abilene and other towns in this section of the district have indicated that they will have a large representation present.

The program for the two days will be started when the visitors begin registration at the Gholson hotel, where headquarters for the convention will be and will continue throughout the day and into the night, with the main business session on Sunday afternoon.

Beginning at 4 p. m. and lasting until 7 p. m. Buddy Bill McDonald will be master of ceremonies in the basement of the Gholson, with an intermission during the dance that will be held that night.

From 9 until 12 a George Washington dance will be held at the Legion Hall, with a special floor show. The American Legion Tickville band will furnish the music for the dance, as well as features on the floor show program.

Sunday morning at 9:30 the resolutions committee meeting will be held with L. R. Herring as chairman and the credentials committee will also meet at that hour, with Walter Harwell presiding as chairman. Both these meetings will (Continued on page 3)

Fat Stock Show Good Will Trip To Visit Ranger

R. V. Galloway, newly elected secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has received a letter from Charles G. Cotten, manager of the trade extension department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, stating that a group of Fort Worth business men will visit Ranger Thursday afternoon for the purpose of boosting the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show, to be held in Fort Worth March 16 to 24.

The letter, which was received today, reads as follows:

"On Thursday, Feb. 28, a group of Fort Worth business men will visit your city. The purpose of the trip is to bring to the citizens of Ranger an invitation to attend the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, which will be held in Fort Worth March 16 to 24.

"Our plans are to arrive in Ranger at 4 p. m., departing 20 minutes later. Our party will be traveling in a large bus. A stringed band will accompany the group and present a concert of popular music over a public address system, which also will be used in officially inviting your citizenship to this year's Fat Stock Show.

"Our party, which will include heads of some of the largest and most influential business institutions of Fort Worth, will reach your city via Cisco and Eastland."

SUPPORT OF OIL CONTROL BEING SOUGHT

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The administration, it was learned today, is secretly rallying congressional support behind a move to give the government strict control over the nation's $12,000,000,000 oil industry.

Officials have trapped a well-planned campaign for power to curtail crude petroleum production. They allowed congress to pass the Connally oil bill, which they have authority to regulate the huge business if their present efforts fail.

Oil Administrator Harold Ickes is holding the throat of having oil concerns declared public utilities to line-up senators and representatives from oil states in the regulation campaign.

"I challenge any other present day industry in the United States to show greater waste and inefficiency than seem to be inherent in the oil industry," he said.

Pointing to the fact that 1,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas is being blown into the air every day in the Texas and Oklahoma fields, that the East Texas field has flooded the market with crude oil when not curtailed, he asserted:

"Wise statesmanship demands that oil be declared a public utility if waste of our natural petroleum resources continues."

MASS TRIAL OF BARROW AIDS STARTS TODAY

By United Press
DALLAS, Feb. 22.—Desperado Raymond Hamilton, the principal defendant, was missing today as the federal government began its wholesale prosecution of relatives and friends charged with aiding the slain bandit sweethearts, Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

Federal Judge W. H. Atwell Overruled motions to quash indictments, and continued as 12 women and 10 men answered ready in the largest trial in Dallas court history.

As the crowd of defendants entered the courtroom some of the men brought to trial from the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville, were handcuffed together. The women were not handcuffed. Several of them hid their faces behind purses and handkerchiefs as photographers' flashlights blinked and movie cameras ground.

Merchants Asked to Put Out Flags For Legion Convention

G. E. (Bob) Robinson, post commander of the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion, and G. A. Murphy, in charge of decorations for the 17th district convention of the American Legion, today urged all merchants in the city to put out their flags early Saturday morning and to leave them out all day.

"We did not want to put the merchants to the expense of decorating the building fronts for the two days of the convention," Robinson explained, "so we are going to put out the cost of honor flags around the light posts, and urge the merchants to cooperate by putting out their large flags."

Property Owners Want Rehearing In Overpass Case

Forty five Abilene property owners led by S. M. Shelton, this week submitted for rehearing to the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals their case vs. City of Abilene, the State Highway Commission, and the Texas & Pacific Railway Company.

The opinion of Abilene district court was affirmed Feb. 1, by the appeals court.

The suit represents 45 property owners of Abilene who seek to restrain Abilene, the railway company and highway commission from construction of a $145,000 PWA approved overpass in Abilene.

The plaintiffs were denied an injunction in 42nd district court at Abilene. At first in the Eastland court a writ of superseades was sought while the original case went through on appeal. It was denied, as was an injunction asked from the court.

The plaintiffs have contended the construction would be a violation of the original dedication of the railroad right of way to railway purposes only.

DUST STORMS ARE REPORTED IN WIDE AREA

By United Press
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 22.—Dust storms that blotted out the sun, drove people from the streets, blinded motorists and halted air travel, swept over sections of Texas, western Kansas and Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming today.

The great clouds of gray and black dust swept from the dried out soil by winds that reached velocities of from 50 to 60 miles an hour, were worst in western Kansas. Great damage was believed done to wheat, though estimates varied.

The dust and wind came up suddenly. At mid-day yesterday Northwest Texas seemed to be the worst hit. Today El Paso reported a dust cloud with an area of over 300 miles east and west had struck that city. A sudden cessation of strong winds which permitted the dust to drop was blamed for the clouds there.

ROOSEVELTS MAJORITY IS BEING LOST

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—President Roosevelt's big majorities in congress are letting him down.

There is resentment against the administration in the senate where democrats are dividing along liberal conservative lines. There is evidence on capital hill a disposition to heckle and haze representatives of the administration who appear to explain legislation.

Back of these symptoms of ill feeling is congressional resentment against cabinet members and brain trusters and bitter patronage disappointment.

Democrats avoid criticism of Mr. Roosevelt, but their resentment has its effect on legislation in which he is vitally interested.

The 74th congress has been in session almost two months and has passed four bills of consequence, two routine measures, extension of RFC and a crop loan authorization. One of the appropriation bills defied Mr. Roosevelt with a restoration of federal employees' pay cuts ahead of the schedule fixed by the administration.

Prohibitionist to Speak In Ranger

C. J. Spiers, of Great Bend, Kan., advance representative of the Flying Squadron Foundation, was in this city a few days ago arranging for a meeting to be addressed by the Hon. Oliver W. Stewart, president of the organization and internationally known leader of the prohibition movement.

Plans have been completed for a gathering to be held on Wednesday, March 13, 7:30 p. m., in the First Baptist church.

Mr. Stewart has been heard often in every section of the country over the last 30 years during which time he has been, without interruption, a national figure of prominence and large influence in the reform he has unceasingly served. His coming here is hailed by its advocates as an event of first importance.

HARLON MASSIE RECEIVES SIX YEARS FRIDAY

A 31st court jury Friday morning sentenced Harlon Massie, who pleaded guilty to three robbery and two conspiracy to rob charges, to six years in the state penitentiary.

Massie Feb. 11 received five years in the state penitentiary in Breckenridge district court on other robbery charges. He pleaded guilty in the Breckenridge court.

Massie, by confession, in Breckenridge told of connection with robbery of Metcalf Gap and Breckenridge service stations and stealing of an Olden resident's automobile.

Tom Colburn and Vernon Smith, also charged in the cases are in Palo Pinto county, but will be returned to Eastland for trial, officers have said.

A fourth person, known as "the brains of hijackings" is being sought.

Legislators Recess Until Next Week

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—Representatives at most tired of holiday efforts to complete relief bond amendments and adjourned until Monday.

Then the senate will probably receive back its $3,500,000 bill with many changes.

An attempt to limit any salary paid to a relief administrative officer to $150 a month was defeated.

Committee to Decide Case For Paper Readers

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—The case of the Texas news vs. Texas newspaper readers rested today with an extraordinary jury of three members.

Clint Small of Amarillo, John Hornaby of Austin and Will Pace of Tyler were asked to recommend whether or not senate rules should be amended to increase secrecy of restrictive sessions.

Newspaper editors and senators yesterday assured the rules committee the public is entitled to know how their elected legislators vote on questions of public interest.

Cooking School Has Become City Wide With Cooperation

Almost 100 per cent co-operation with the Times Cooking School, to start at the Masonic building on Tuesday, March 5, and continue through Friday, March 8, was secured today when the dry cleaners of Ranger joined the other merchants of the town on the plan. With the dry cleaners now co-operating it now makes Happy Kitchen cooking school almost a city-wide movement.

The dry cleaners who are co-operating in helping to make the cooking school a success are City Taylors, North Austin street; Bill's Dry Cleaning Plant, Main street, and Ranger Dry Cleaners, South Austin street.

A new feature in the cooking school for this year was announced today when it was stated that a question box would be installed, where any woman who has a particular problem she wants solved can drop her written question and it will be discussed by Mrs. Martha McDonald.

The cooking school is absolutely free of charge of any kind, and the women of this section of the country are cordially invited by the Times and the co-operating merchants to attend. They are urged to bring their pencils and paper with them so that they can take down notes on how Mrs. McDonald prepares many of the delicious dishes which she will introduce at her school.

Texas Oil Fields To Get New Orders

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—Texas oil fields will start March 1 with authority to produce 13,729 more barrels of oil daily than they were allowed on Feb. 1. New production orders sent to fields today effective March 1, permit production of 1,028,549 barrels.

The increase is estimated to be 2,322 barrels more per day than would have been possible under February prorations. February completions have raised production.

The allowable for West Central Texas was 31,000 barrels. No change was made in this section.

Graham Woman's Rites Today At Eastland Church

Funeral services for Mrs. Wilma Niver Sparks who died at Graham Thursday morning, were scheduled to be held this afternoon at 3:30 from the Eastland Baptist church with interment in Eastland cemetery.

Mrs. Sparks, wife of Harry Sparks of Graham, died of pneumonia. She had lived in Graham for about three years, relatives state.

Survivors include her father, J. R. Niver; step-mother, Mrs. J. R. Niver; brothers, Joe Bailey and Walter, north of Eastland, and a sister, Emma Lois Nellis of Pennsylvania.

Rooms Needed For NTAC Students On Program Monday

Mrs. Hal Hunter, teacher in the Ranger Junior college, announced today that the group of 120 North Texas Agricultural students, which will visit in Ranger Monday night and present a concert at the high school auditorium, will need places in which they can spend the night.

"Many of the students are going to see that these visitors have rooms and one meal furnished them, but any citizens who can furnish one or more of the visitors with a room Monday night and breakfast Tuesday morning are requested to get in touch with us so that we can assign the students to their places when they arrive."

One of the objects in having the group appear in Ranger to present the program of musical novelties is to furnish the people with good, clean entertainment that all can enjoy. Another motive is to help raise funds with which to buy football sweaters for the members of the Ranger Junior college team.

The co-operation of the people, both in helping to find rooms for these students, and in attending the program has been urged by all the members of the faculty of the Ranger Junior college.

George Washington—Sane Balance Wheel

Back in George Washington's day the words left and right had no political connotations. If you were a conservative they called you a tory, and if you were very conservative you were an out-and-out monarchist; if you were radical you were a democrat, and if you were downright Bolshevik they called you a Jacobin.

But whatever the words were, Washington had the same sort of problem that any leader must face in time of social upheaval—the job of steering a fair course between the extremes demanded by different groups of his fellows.

He was unquestionably a conservative at heart. He was a landed country gentleman—probably the richest man in America, by all accounts—and he was an aristocrat by birth and training.

Yet he was a rebel, too. To revolt against the king was no light thing, in those days. If the revolution had failed, Washington would unquestionably have been hanged, drawn and quartered in the tower of London, and he knew it as well as anyone. The man who led the colonial army in 1776 must have had a good streak of the radical in him somewhere.

In his own character he balanced the radical and conservative elements perfectly; and we add "First in peace" to that familiar tag, because he did the same thing as president.

That was no easy thing for him to do, any more than it is an easy thing to do today. On the one side were powerful influences which wanted the new nation contaminated as little as possible by this pernicious democracy business—some of them, indeed, wanted a new monarchy over here. On the other side were the ultra-radicals, who wanted their democracy made as absolute as possible.

Washington listened to both sides—and made both sides work together for the country. He teamed Hamilton and Jefferson together in his cabinet, which would be something like grouping Ogden Mills and Norman Thomas today. He steered a way straight down the middle.

Hamilton got much that he wanted, and so did Jefferson. What the country got was a solid beginning on which it was able to continue the great experiment in self-government for many generations.

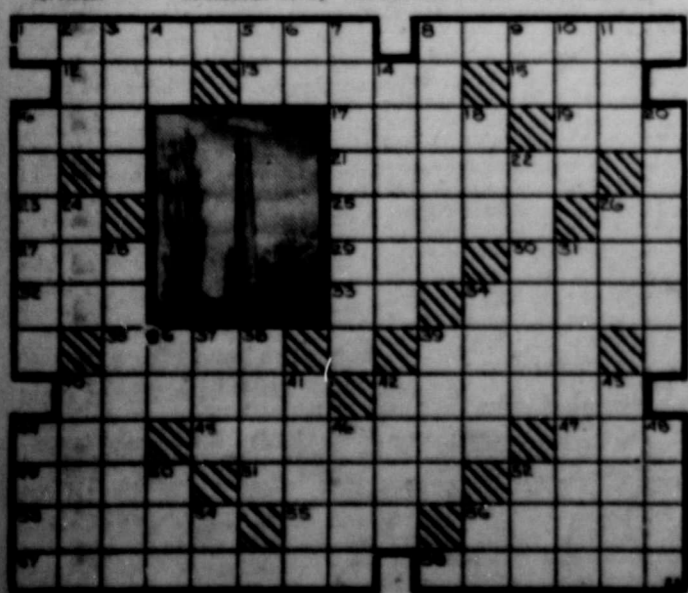

The middle course is never very popular or spectacular. But it served the country very well indeed, as Washington applied it. Might not the same thing be true today?

Every visit to a weighing machine by some people seems to be a matter for depression.

The Audiences Have Grown Bigger; but the Speaker—

SILKEN SPINDLES
by Laura Lu Brodman © 1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gale Henderson, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, Phil, support their invalid father. Steve Meyers, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks thru the ice and is rescued by Brian Westmore, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Gale disappears before he can learn her name.

Vicky Thatcher, daughter of Robert Thatcher, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

Gale and Steve quarrel, later make up. Vicky tells Brian she wants to get acquainted with the mill workers, on the pretense of helping them. He is pleased, agrees to take her to Gale. Next evening Gale, who is expecting Brian, opens the door and faces Vicky.

Now Go On With The Story CHAPTER XXXII

Vicky smiled from beneath the insolently slanting hat brim. She said, "How do you do. May we come in?"

"Why—why, yes," Gale said. Her eyes once again sought Brian's, questioning, trying to hide the hurt that was in them. "Yes, do come in."

She stepped back and they entered the house. Brian said, "Gale, this is Vicky Thatcher. Vicky—Gale Henderson. I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends. Vicky's come to ask a favor of you, Gale."

Vicky had turned and was surveying the room. Gale, watching her, suddenly saw it all with this stranger's eyes—the faded carpet, worn threadbare before the door and in front of the place where her father's big chair stood; the old-fashioned wall paper that should have been replaced long ago; the "golden oak" living room table with the hand-crocheted scarf across it and the lamp with the hand-painted shade that in Gale's childhood, had been an especial treasure; the framed, enlarged photographs of her father and mother at the time of their marriage and the tinted landscape with the far too pink roses and far too blue sky. They must be hideous, all of them, to this girl in the expensive fur coat and flippant little hat—Vicky Thatcher who flew about the countryside in her big green roadster, who made frequent trips to New York and Miami and Havana. Gale hadn't thought the room was hideous before. She loved it because it was familiar and because it was home. She hadn't realized how it would look to a stranger.

Suddenly, she remembered herself and said, "Won't you sit on the chair that was nearest, and forward and gathered her coat about her. Gale noticed the gesture, ever so slight and yet completely aloof. There was a subtle perfume in the room when Vicky moved, a perfume that was spicy and exotic and rather heady.

Brian sat down, looking completely at ease. He said, "It's like this, Gale. Vicky's got an idea I think a good one. She wants to get acquainted with some of the people who work in the mill. She thought there might be things she could do for them—going to see them when they're sick, visiting with the old people, and telling stories to the children. She wants to be really helpful, you understand. What do you think of it?"

Gale's voice was very low. She said, "It's very kind of Miss Thatcher—"

Brian moved one hand disparagingly. "That's not the idea," he said. "She doesn't want to go at this as though it was charity. It isn't. She's got time on her hands and wants to find a way to use it to help someone else. She's just—well, trying to help out. I think myself it's a fine thing. We came to you because I couldn't think of anyone better to take her around and introduce her. Will you do that?"

Gale hesitated. She had remembered that afternoon in Brian's office when Vicky had opened the door and seen her weeping. Did Vicky remember? Had she recognized her? And what possible construction had she put on the situation? The thought made Gale uncomfortable, just as the sight of Vicky in her furs and her audacious hat, sitting in that shabby room with her knees crossed and swinging one French-heeled foot made her uncomfortable.

But Brian was waiting for her to say something. "I'll be glad to do anything I can," Gale said. She studied the other girl. Vicky didn't look to Gale like anyone who could be very helpful in the mill village. She couldn't imagine her bathing the Dinwiddies' baby or sitting beside Grandpa Higgins, whose fondness for chewing tobacco was always evidenced by the spots on his shirt. Vicky didn't even look like a person who wanted to be helpful. Why had Brian done this?

Gale thought, all at once, that she understood. This was his way of bridging his world and hers. He had thought that if she and Vicky Thatcher were friends the rest would be simple. That was what Brian had said: "I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends."

"Oh, but that made all the difference in the world! Suddenly, Gale smiled. She said, "Everyone knows everyone else here. We're all neighbors. I'll take you anywhere you like. When shall we go? Of course, I'm at the mill most of the day—"

Vicky was not looking at her, did not seem to be listening. She said, "Oh, Brian—I must have left my purse in your car!"

"I'll get it," he said, on his feet. "Be back in a moment."

Vicky watched the door close behind him. She lifted her head slightly, smiled a sulky smile. "Brian's sweet, isn't he?" she said.

Vicky nodded. "Everyone thinks so," she agreed. "And so good-looking, too. I don't suppose I should tell you—but I'm going to. It's supposed to be an absolute secret, and you must promise not to tell!"

She hesitated. Gale sat watching her. She didn't know what it was that had happened but suddenly she was afraid to move, afraid to breathe. There was something fearful in the air.

The other girl went on. "It's supposed to be a secret," she said again, "but I know you'll keep it for us. Brian and I are going to be married!"

Cold, cruel eyes watched the other girl. "I've even set the date of the wedding. Vicky went on, merrily. "That is, it's going to be in June—some time. I think June weddings are much the nicest, don't you?"

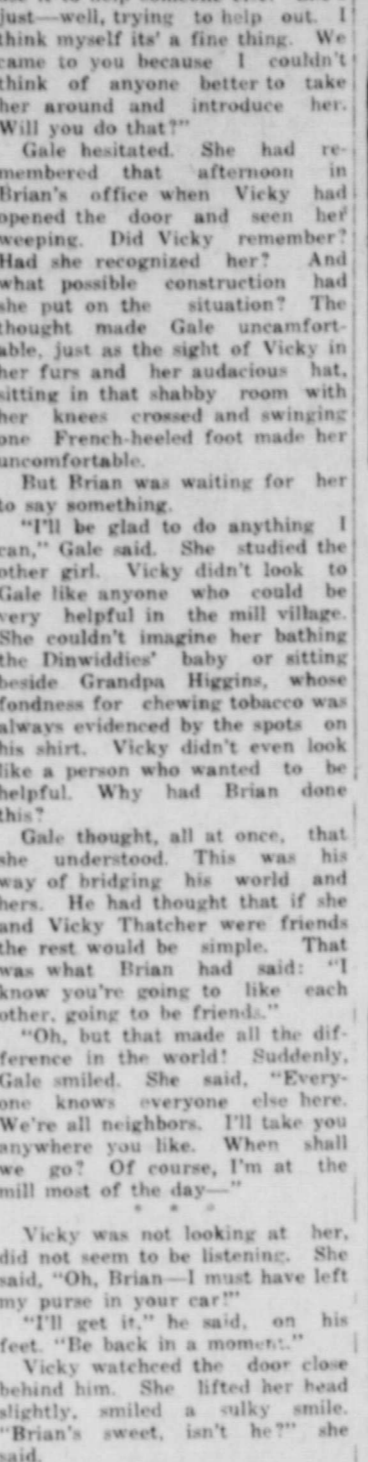

Gale's lips moved but no words came. She tried again and said, "Oh—oh, yes."

"I don't suppose anyone will be really surprised about it," Vicky went on. "That is, our friends I mean. There was the faintest perceptible accent on the "our." You see, it's really a boy and girl affair. Ever since we were children it's been taken for granted that this would happen some time. And the relatives—Brian's family and mine—are both so pleased."

Vicky stopped suddenly. "Why, for goodness sake," she exclaimed, "you're white as a sheet! Look there anything wrong? You look as though you'd had a shock—"

"I'm quite all right," Gale said. The words sounded to her ears

EDITORIAL

By EL MERLE

Someone has said that man cannot live to himself alone. How true this is! We often do not realize the extent to which we depend upon our fellowmen.

In this age of specialization we have come to depend on other men more than ever. Each person specializes in one particular occupation or study and depends on others to supply his other needs.

Man depends on his fellows for clothing, food, shelter, recreation, and rest, but not least, love. Perhaps we do not realize the importance of the love expressed by man for his fellowmen, but it is what makes life worth living. It is as necessary to man as air; it is the thing that makes the "world go round"; without it man would be a pitiful, struggling along trying to be sufficient unto himself.

We have seen cases of people with a warped idea which caused them to believe that they could live alone, away from the rest of the world. Hermits, as we call them, but do they seem happy? No, indeed! They seem so pitifully alone that it touches our hearts to see them.

Let's try to learn that the more we give for others, the fuller and finer our own lives will be. Just as much as we give ourselves in trying to make others happy will we ourselves. We cannot give of love and cheer without being replenished full.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22—Joseph in Egypt, to be treated as the second part of the story of Joseph and His Brethren will be presented by Montgomery Ward as the next of the "Immortal Dramas" series over an NBS-WEAF network Sunday, Feb. 24 at 2 p. m. E. S. T.

This program follows the episode of the Coat of Many Colors which was produced last Sunday.

The narrative takes up at the point where Joseph is in the prison of Pharaoh and accurately interprets the dreams of his fellow captives who have fallen in ill favor with the king.

Pharaoh, also perturbed by a dream which he has had, and finding his magicians at a loss to tell him what it means, is told of Joseph and seeks his counsel. Joseph interprets the dream to mean that there will be seven years of plenty in the land to be followed by seven years of famine and is promptly rewarded by being made Pharaoh's first man.

His subsequent meeting with his brothers and their happy reunion offer passages which will rival those already presented on this series for dramatic effectiveness.

Musical compositions are by Iza-vell and Schumann, together with modern classical and original compositions, will be scored in proper balance and played by a symphony orchestra. Vocal choruses and chants by an A Cappella choir will be blended to the dramatic narrative.

Much time and effort has been given to the choice and arrangement of the music used in these "Immortal Dramas." Since only a few little classical music has been composed with stories from the Old Testament as the inspirational theme, it has been necessary to select a variety of compositions of the great masters which, because of their prevailing mood or tempo, are found suitable for the script.

After appropriate music has been chosen many hours of patient rehearsal are required for proper volume control and timing.

SAFEGUARD HIS FOOD THE YEAR 'ROUND with ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

BABY'S food needs the protection of Electric Refrigeration in winter as well as in summer, for Nature is a poor substitute for an electric refrigerator in this part of Texas. Milk, the main item on Baby's menu, spoils quickly unless refrigeration is used, and one warm day or keeping food in a warm kitchen without refrigeration may cause trouble and illness. Electric refrigeration costs less in winter than in summer, for during cool nights the refrigerator has less work to do, and is always protecting food with a 50-degree temperature or less on those days when the temperature in the kitchen or on the porch climbs above this safety mark. Be safe and let your electric refrigerator give you year-round food protection.

EDITORIAL

By EL MERLE

Someone has said that man cannot live to himself alone. How true this is! We often do not realize the extent to which we depend upon our fellowmen.

In this age of specialization we have come to depend on others more than ever. Each person specializes in one particular occupation or study and depends on others to supply his other needs.

It depends on his fellows for clothing, food, shelter, recreation, and rest, but not least, love. Perhaps we do not realize the importance of the love expressed by man for his fellowmen, but it is what makes life worth living. It is as necessary to man as air; it is the thing that makes the "world go round"; without it man would be a pitiful, struggling animal trying to be sufficient unto himself.

We have seen cases of people with a warped idea which caused them to believe that they could live alone, away from the rest of the world. Hermits, as we call them, but do they seem happy? No, indeed! They seem so pitifully alone that it touches our hearts to see them.

Let's try to learn that the more we live for others, the fuller and finer our own lives will be. Just so much as we give ourselves in trying to make others happy will we ourselves. We cannot give of love and cheer without being repaid in full.

JUNIOR NEWS

Girls have been assigned for the Junior play, "Hold Everything." Practice will begin Wednesday night, and we want all characters to be there on time.

SENIOR NEWS

Frances Edwards, our reporter, has returned to school after two weeks illness.

Valetta Alldredge has been absent the past few days because of illness. Harry and get well, Valetta, we miss you!

An order for personal cards will be sent off this week, so all Seniors desiring cards make yourselves known by sending your deposits to El Merle.

Sophomore News

We welcome into our ranks Mary Louise Myrick from Eastland High School. Here's hoping you like to be in our classes.

Freshman News

All those who have been absent because of illness are back in school again.

SPORT NEWS

Everyone was out for track this week and we are trying to get in shape for a meet with Eastland in about two weeks. Every afternoon trial races are held and good showing is being made by all members.

We are still selling tickets for the roller rink and urge everyone to buy them from O. H. S.

Mr. Collins attended a meeting of the basketball coaches of the county Monday night where a definite date was set for the girls Class B tournament. Friday and Saturday, March 8 and 9 has been set as the date for the tournament. Friday at 4 o'clock Olden vs. Colony.

The boys and girls seem to be taking a great interest in selling the roller rink tickets. Thanks to Mr. Todd of the roller rink who has helped us start a drive to earn money for buying sweaters for those who will letter.

DOPE

Oh, Johnny, where were you last Saturday night about 11:30? Did you get her out of bed . . .

And, El Merle, seems as if Valetta kinda ruined things for you for Tuesday night, didn't she . . .

Seen at the skating rink . . . Florine writing love (?) notes . . . certain seniors losing all their dignity . . . Eugene's arm around Florine . . . D. M. sitting very surprised looking, in the middle of the floor . . . El Merle sitting out, talking animatedly to Red . . . Arlean and her boy friend from Brownwood . . . Leola giving Elso a shove that sent him down the entire length of the rink . . . Max and Fay skating together . . . Charlie Butler tripping Lena . . . Howard and Max playing leap frog on skates . . . Nadine introducing "Snookie" to all her girl friends . . .

Your author of this column has decided that she will remain a "drugstore" skater. Really, its most disconcerting to unexpectedly stand on your head!

And who was Charles Magill's girl friend Monday night? Was the show any good, Charles, or did you see it . . . What—you don't mean to say that Coco hasn't been over lately? What's wrong, Frances, he seemed rather friendly the last time . . .

Second Part of Story of Joseph To Be Broadcast

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Joseph in Egypt, to be treated as the second part of the story of Joseph and His Brethren will be presented by Montgomery Ward as the next of the "Immortal Dramas" series over an NBS-WEAF network Sunday, Feb. 24 at 2 p. m. E. S. T. This program follows the episode of the Coat of Many Colors which was produced last Sunday.

The narrative takes up at the point where Joseph is in the prison of Pharaoh and accurately interprets the dreams of his fellow captives who have fallen in ill favor with the king. Pharaoh, also perturbed by a dream which he has had, and finding his magicians at a loss to tell him what it means, is told of Joseph and seeks his counsel. Joseph interprets the dream to mean that there will be seven years of plenty in the land to be followed by seven years of famine and is promptly rewarded by being made Pharaoh's first man.

His subsequent meeting with his brothers and their happy reunion offer passages which will rival those already presented on this series for dramatic effectiveness.

Musical compositions as by Beethoven and Schumann, together with modern classical and original compositions, will be scored in proper balance and played by a symphony orchestra. Vocal choruses and chants by an A Cappella choir will also be blended to the dramatic narrative.

Much time and effort has been given to the choice and arrangement of the music used in these "Immortal Dramas." Since our program is little classical music has been composed with stories from the Old Testament as the inspirational theme, it has been necessary to select a variety of compositions of the great masters which, because of their prevailing mood or tempo, are found suitable for the script.

After appropriate music has been chosen many hours of patient rehearsal are required for proper volume control and timing.

SAFEGUARD HIS FOOD THE YEAR 'ROUND with ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

BABY'S food needs the protection of Electric Refrigeration in winter as well as in summer, for Nature is a poor substitute for an electric refrigerator in this part of Texas. Milk, the main item on Baby's menu, spoils quickly unless refrigeration is used, and one warm day or keeping food in a warm kitchen without refrigeration may cause trouble and illness. Electric refrigeration costs less in winter than in summer, for during cool nights the refrigerator has less work to do, and is always protecting food with a 50-degree temperature or less on those days when the temperature in the kitchen or on the porch climbs above this safety mark. Be safe and let your electric refrigerator give you year-round food protection.

HAPPY KITCHEN CHATS

By MRS. MARTHA McDONALD, Conductor
Times Cooking, March 5th to 8th

"The Romance of Cooking"

A great celebration will take place on the day when dishes are invented that are inexpensive enough to be thrown away after one using, but still retain the virtues of china.

Until that time comes, however, our pride of ownership in good dishes will keep us at the daily cycle of clearing up the dinner table, washing the dishes and storing them away. In the meantime, also, many of us will continually be seeking for ways to lighten the task that takes us from table to sink to cupboard. There is really romance in cooking if we but look for it.

If we examine the processes in dishwashing, reduce if possible the time each takes and eliminate those who are unnecessary it is possible we may find waste motions and reduce the unpleasantness of an unavoidable chore.

First, all dishwashing should be left until after the meal. Begin to reduce the after-dinner part of the work the first moment of meal preparation.

Clearing away as you go will simplify dishwashing unbelievably. Replace materials or containers as soon as they are used—the baking powder, the spice can, the sifter.

As you replace them determine whether or not they are in their most convenient location. Replacing is simple if it means merely reaching out to a shelf an arm's length away and not walking across the kitchen.

One meal process likely to create a confused and untidy kitchen is vegetable preparation. To avoid this all fresh vegetables such as lettuce, radishes and tomatoes should be washed as soon as they arrive from the green grocer and placed in the refrigerator ready for use.

This keeps the untidiness of wilted leaves and sandy sediment out of the kitchen during its busiest time.

Other vegetables refuse, such as potato parings, carrots scrapings, and bean strings, can easily be kept out of the sink by paring or cleaning them directly into waste cans.

The large accumulation of cooking dishes during food preparation—measuring cups and spoons, mixing bowls, pans—all but the last minute cooking dishes, can be washed and rinsed with hot water.

Some housekeepers advise washing each dish as it is used, but there may be waste motion in that. A little easier system may be to clear away as one goes along but to have one washing during the last period of cooking.

When baking, a utility tray saves labor. Each tool as it is used is placed on this tray and taken with the soiled dishes on it in one trip to the sink to be washed.

The next step in cutting down waste effort in the handling of dishes after they come to the table is to have a systematic routine for them in the kitchen.

Extra space near the sink and a table placed conveniently near the sink where the dishes can be cleared and stacked as they arrive from the table are helpful.

It is at this point that a movable table of generous proportions makes its usefulness felt.

Dishes may be placed directly on the table in the dining room, washed, put back on the table and taken to the point of storage if the cupboards cannot be reached from the sink.

Buildings Must Be True

Every builder and home owner knows the necessity of having the foundation solid and plumb. Architects frequently dig through yards of sand to reach rock for a secure base for large structures.

Character Needs a Firm Foundation

The church is a character-builder, of which Christ is the foundation stone. Churchgoing alone will not insure happiness here or hereafter, but regular church attendance reinforces good resolves and strengthens character against the time of temptation.

"Love your enemies. Bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you."

REASON TO SMILE

Rudy Vallee and Ann Dvorak have smiles coming, for they're made the biggest screen hit of their careers in Warner Bros' newest comedy-musical "Sweet Music," opening at the Arcadia Theatre on Monday. Hollywood had forgotten that Ann Dvorak was a singer and a hooper until Rudy chose her for his leading lady in his first dramatic role for the screen. "Sweet Music" has a notable cast as well as two world famous bands, and hundreds of Hollywood's prettiest girls.

2-HORNED ROOSTER RANCH

By United Press
CRESTON, S. D.—The only two-horned roosters of their type in the world are bred by Carl Hanson, Cheyenne River rancher, he claimed today. The fighting stock were bred after 10 years of effort. The rooster has well developed horns on both sides of its head, each about an inch and a half long and curved like Texas steers' horns.

LANDED ON SLEEPING BEAR

By United Press
LANDAFF, N. H.—While chopping logs, Chris Stinson slipped in a hole and landed on something soft. Curious, he returned next day and shot a 150-pound black bear which was hibernating in the hole. Two tiny cubs were taken from the hole alive and he is raising them on a bottle.

Now that the Hauptmann case is over, there's a chance that the war in the Gran Chaco will be finished, too.

POPULAR OLD LAXATIVE

While other laxatives have come and gone, increasing numbers of men and women have continued to use the old, reliable, purely vegetable Theford's Black-Draught. "My father used Black-Draught," writes Mrs. A. M. Brunley, of Steele, Mo., "and we haven't found anything that can take its place. I take Black-Draught for headache, constipation and smothering after meals. Black-Draught relieves me at once." Black-Draught helps to relieve headache and discomfort after meals where simply due to constipation.

Peck's Bad Boy Opens Here Today

The Fox Film presentation of "Peck's Bad Boy," which will be seen at the Arcadia theatre, beginning today, was acclaimed by Hollywood critics at its preview showings as a "new American classic" and "a vital human document for every man and woman." That brilliant and appealing young player, Jackie Cooper, is the star of this human film story. Jackie is seen as a fine two-fisted boy who is nearly crowded out of his father's life and affections through the plotting of an unprincipled aunt and her no less unprincipled son. To judge from advance reports, no story of boyhood has brought to the screen a profounder understanding or a more touching situation. Adults will find particular appeal in "Peck's Bad Boy," it is believed. Every mother will see in young Bill Peck her own son. Every father will see himself. In addition to Jackie Cooper, a number of notable players have been assembled for the picture. Thomas Meighan returns to the screen from a two years' retirement to play Jackie's father. Young Jackie Seal has an important role as Bill Peck's own special demon. As his scheming mother, Dorothy Peterson contributes a performance that has already drawn "raves" from previewers and that fine actor, O. P. Heggie is also in the cast. Edward F. Cline has directed "Peck's Bad Boy" with what is described as a deep understanding of a boy's heartaches. In addition to the fine emotional quality of the film, it is said to abound in comedy.
