SIMMONS URGES MORE AXES FOR PRISONERS

MEMBERSHIPS FOR C. OF C. BEING PLANNED

John Hassen and F. D. Hicks, composing the membership committee of the recently reorganized Chamber of Commerce, announce that a membership drive will start within the near future, at which time committees will call on every firm in Ranger, to solicit monthly pledges to finance the Chamber of Commerce program for this year.

They also announce that an individual membership has been instituted in addition to firm memberships, and the employees of the various firms will be asked to join as an annual member, paying the sum of $1.00. They will be issued a membership card which shows that their dues are paid up in the chamber of commerce until Nov. 31, 1935.

The membership committee is having a number of window cards printed for firms who support the Chamber of Commerce 100 percent. The wording on the window card will be "This firm supports the Chamber of Commerce 100 Percent. Help Us to Make Ranger the Best Town in the State."

In the past month since the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce much activity has been shown, and plans have been worked out for a number of projects which will be undertaken, and in order to put these projects over it is necessary that funds be raised for this purpose. The amount of money received from the city is inadequate to finance a constructive program, and the firms and individuals will be asked to help raise the necessary amount.

The Baptist Training school, being conducted at the First Baptist church, has almost reached the 100-mark, it was announced today by the workers, all of whom are from Hardin-Simmons university of Abilene.

Tonight there will be an evangelistic service during the intermission between the two class periods and Friday night a special feature will be presented by the Boys' Glee club of the Cooper school.

A special prayer service will be held at the church tonight at 7:30. The workers who are conducting the training school are M. J. Westwoodland of Anson, Charles Dickson of Fort Worth, and Miss Ollie Pittrell of Big Lake.

Barbara's Back to Ditch Prince

Back from her long foreign tour and ready to head for Reno to win a divorce from Prince Alexis Mdivani, Barbara Hutton, dime show here on her arrival in New York. She remained locked in her cabin when other passengers left the ship, emerging later in an attempt to "avoid the rush."

AUSTRIA IS DEMANDING A LARGER ARMY

Austria's demand for rearmament opened the way for scrapping of all military clauses of all World War treaties.

Pilot Is Given Eighth Gold Star

DALLAS.—Richard Lee Dobie, native of Beeville, Texas, proudly displays the eighth gold star on the sleeve of his uniform coat as a pilot for United Airlines.

Dobie, a pilot on the Kansas City-Dallas division of United Airlines until the air mail shakedown last year, now is assigned to the New York-Cleveland-Chicago division and lives in Cleveland.

Dobie took the first air mail out of Kansas City, May 12, 1926, for the National Air Transport division of United Airlines, on the first established air mail route for Kansas City and the Southwest. He has been flying the mail for nine years since that time.

However, even before Dobie started flying for N. A. T. he had accumulated a total of more than 22,500 flying hours in the Army Air Corps and in "barn-storming."

BIG FUN FEST IS PLANNED BY THE RANGER BAND FOR MAY 12

The Ranger band is planning a big "Fun Fest" to be staged in Ranger on May 12. It was announced by R. L. Maddox, director.

The Fun Fest is to be staged in the new city auditorium, if it is completed in time for that engagement, otherwise the Fun Fest will be held in the high school auditorium, according to present plans.

The entertainment has been staged in a number of towns and has met with the whole hearted approval of all who have attended. Special equipment, scenery and costumes are to be secured and the whole show has a professional atmosphere that will make it highly entertaining, reports from other localities indicate.

The Fun Fest is to be staged for the purpose of creating more interest in the band and to secure funds with which to keep it functioning, and to increase its ability as a musical organization through this increased support. The cooperation of the entire town is to be urged for this big entertainment to be promoted by the Ranger band.

Included in the specialty number to be presented will be a clown band, that will stage a 20-minute skit that is hilarious thru-out; a "Human Pipe Organ" with special scenery, and electrically controlled; "Mephists" the educating horse and a chorus of 10 girls and a "convict band" to be used for advertising the Fun Fest on the streets of Ranger.

The band will begin rehearsals for the big event within the next few days and one of the best rounded out programs of the year is promised by the director and the band committee. Further announcements concerning the Fun Fest will be made at future dates.

RANGER HOST TO DISTRICT IOOF MEETING

The district convention of the I. O. O. F., including lodges from Eastland, Erath and Callahan counties, was in session today in Ranger, with representatives from all lodges in the district present.

A delightful program, including an address of welcome from the city by Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, mayor; a response by Robert Palmer of Stephenville; the address of welcome on behalf of the Odd Fellows by Rev. L. B. Gray, and a response by Mr. Clemmets of Cisco and an address of welcome on behalf of the Rebekahs by Clara Witt and a response by Myrtle Cook of Putnam were on the program.

Trash Pile Contest Entries Should Be Registered Saturday

H. V. Galloway, executive secretary of the Ranger cleanup campaign, today urged all who have gathered piles of trash for judging in the cleanup campaign contest for the largest pile of trash, to notify the Chamber of Commerce by Saturday morning in order that the hauling and judging committee would know where to go.

The hauling will be started Monday morning, it has been announced, and the judging is to be conducted Saturday afternoon.

Nazi Kidnaping Takes Queer Turn

LONDON, April 4.—The dispute between Switzerland and Germany over the kidnaping by German Nazis of a German journalist on Swiss soil took a startling turn today with the mysterious death of two German refugees in a London flat.

Scotland Yard investigated on the theory the deaths may have been connected with the International situation.

The dead, two women, shared the flat. They had not been seen since Sunday and were found dead in bed today. Police suspected they had been poisoned, but were uncertain whether it was murder or suicide.

MAN BLAMES SLAIN WIFE WITH TORTURE

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Experienced police officers inured to crime in its most shocking form, confessed bafflement today in their efforts to clear up the case of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hurd and their adopted daughter.

A hodge-podge of spiritualism, barbaric cruelty and a near homicide confused their attempts to learn why Hurd, 77-year-old retired railroad watchman, shot and fatally wounded his wife, Nelly, 67.

Hurd told detectives last night his wife tortured him with flames and whips and knives into signing a preposterous statement in which he "confessed" to giving $15,000 from a "hidden fortune" to a neighbor woman, with whom she accused him of having intimate relations.

Crazed with pain from burns on his feet, knife wounds on his legs and arms he said were caused by whippings with wire lashes. Hurd said he was driven to shoot his wife with the gun she had used to intimidate him.

She died today from four bullet wounds in the same hospital where Hurd, weak and ill, was questioned by officers.

"We've had trouble ever since we were married 12 years ago. Then she got the idea spirits had told her I was having relations with this other woman and I had given the woman $15,000 of a hidden fortune," he said.

Hurd faced his stepdaughter, Miss Bertha Hurd, 44, and accused her of helping "my wife torture me."

"You went into the kitchen and brought the matches that she used to burn the bottom of my feet," he shouted. His body bore numerous stab wounds and his feet were blistered.

He said he had been in the hospital for several weeks and his feet were blistered.

Managers Meet to Form a Soft Ball League This Year

At a meeting of managers of soft ball teams in Ranger, held in the office of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon, Dr. Harry A. Logsdon was elected as soft ball commissioner or czar for the third consecutive year, and it was voted that his rulings would be final in regard to interpretation of the rules governing the league.

R. V. Galloway was elected secretary of the league.

It was thought possible that two leagues be formed, one in which a more conservative game would be played along the lines of the league as operated in 1933, the first year of soft ball in Ranger, and the other for the faster, younger crowd, using a smaller, livelier ball, with a larger diamond.

Most of the teams preferred the more conservative game along the lines of the original intentions of the game, it seemed.

All firms and companies interested in entering a team in either league, if both are formed, have been asked to have a representative at the next meeting, which will be held on Wednesday afternoon, April 10, at 5 o'clock, at which time a schedule committee and other committees will be appointed.

Roy Moore, Archie Robinson and Arthur Williams were appointed to a committee to see about finding a suitable location for the diamond, and G. A. Murphy stated that the fire department would get it in shape.

Representatives were at the meeting from the Lone Star Gas Company, Lone Star Gasoline Company, Texas & Pacific Coal & Oil Company, B. P. O. Elks, Robinson's Grocery, and the Ranger Times.

Names of Native Texans Sought By Eastland C. of C.

Few names of native Texans out of the state to forward to Centennial headquarters in Dallas have been received by the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, H. C. Davis, secretary, stated Thursday.

The secretary urged all Eastland residents to cooperate with Centennial officials in their request.

Elected Delegate to Journalism Congress

Miss Anna Lou Estes, daughter of Rev. Charles W. Estes, minister of the Eastland First Presbyterian church, was one of 10 C. I. A. journalism majors at Denton elected delegates to the joint meeting of the Southwestern Journalism congress and the Southwest Student Press club in Baton Rouge, La., April 12 and 13.

Hinted as G.O.P. Hope in 1936

AUSTIN, April 4.—Texas Senators today voted 15 to 11 to postpone action until May 1 on the house resolution adjourning the legislature May 7.

Terrorized Co-ed Held in Shooting

Held in jail pending outcome of wounds she inflicted on a fellow student, Lois Thompson, 19, above, is the central figure in a Tahlequah, Okla., teachers' college mystery in which her life was threatened unless she gave $1000 to a gang.

Practic with worry, she shot George Hing Siew, 27, below, Chinese student, but police say no evidence links him with her plot.

ALLRED URGES A PIPE LINE TO MID-WEST

AUSTIN, April 4.—A bill creating a gas corporation to build a $50,000,000 pipe line to St. Louis and Detroit from the Texas Panhandle was submitted by Gov. James Allred as an emergency matter.

The project will furnish 47,000,000 man hours of employment in addition to the fabrication of 415,000 tons of steel, engineers estimated.

"This means a veritable army of men new on the unemployment relief rolls will be put into useful and gainful employment. It means steel mills will hum with activity and long deserted villages will spring into existence."

"It means cities that have struggled with artificial fuel will be recipients of a natural resource of this state now going to waste and get it at a low price, even for a poor man to pay, promoting his financial welfare and his social existence as well," the governor said.

Car Stolen In Ranger Wednesday

A car belonging to Floyd Killingsworth was stolen Wednesday night between 7:30 and 8:30 as it was parked on Young street, reports to the Ranger police stated.

The car was a 1934 model Chevrolet coupe, bearing 1935 license plates number 216-686, and had been driven but about 5,500 miles.

Reilly Says He Has New Evidence In Hauptmann Case

NEW YORK, April 4.—Ousted as chief counsel for Bruno Hauptmann, Edward J. Reilly said today he had new evidence to disprove his client was guilty of the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

SAYS MANY ARE TOO LAZY TO DO WORK

HOUSTON, April 4.—Lee Simmons, manager of Texas prison systems, today favored "more axes if they need them" for convict who mutilate themselves to escape work or punishment.

Simmons made the remark after an investigation of conditions on Reprise prison farm near Angleton, where a member of the prison board told Gov. Allred he had discovered "disgraceful conduct."

Ranger Captain Fred McDaniel, under the governor's orders, was at Reprise today investigating.

"We found two men who had cut their legs with axes, but that's nothing new in the prison system," Simmons said.

Simmons said officials were doing "exactly what is necessary to hold the prisoners."

Cost of Training Future Lawyers is Only $65 Per Year

AUSTIN.—Cost of training future Texas lawyers at the University of Texas is $65 per student per year, lowest of any state law school in the union, faculty members have reported to alumni attorneys.

Enrollments of 573 students places Texas first in numbers, despite a 10-man faculty. Michigan has 539 law students in its state university; Wisconsin is third with 380.

In an appeal for more teachers and better salaries, members of the Texas law faculty pointed out that they trained twice as many students yearly as does the average teacher in 61 other members of the American Association of Law Schools and receive 25 per cent less salary.

Eastland May Have Princess at Fete In Mineral Wells

Selection of a girl to represent Eastland at the Centennial pageant in Mineral Wells April 19 has been asked by H. C. Davis, Chamber of Commerce secretary, by the Mineral Wells chamber, he announced Thursday.

Whether or not an Eastland girl will be selected was not announced.

Activities of the Mineral Wells celebration will end with the coronation of Queen Texas.

Hitler Throws Bombshell Into Armed Camps of Europe

Mars appears to be in the ascendancy not only on the continent of Europe but the wide world over. Hitler is the supreme master of Germany. He is more powerful, in a sense, than any of the Hohenzollerns or Hapsburgs who were dethroned by the Allies in the World war. He is a most amazing individual, this strong man of Germany. He has scraped the Versailles treaty. He has served warning on all the nations of Europe, including England, that Germany will arm to the utmost and take its place among the powers of the world. He demands equality of armament and has bluntly told all the rulers of continental Europe as well as those who direct the policies of the British empire that the Germany of today demands an equality in the sun with all the warlike and so-called civilized countries on the map of the world. Saar has been returned to Germany.

Now in the coming month of April the Germans, by their ballots at the polls, may take over the free city of Danzig. Hitler is as bold as a lion and not a caged lion at that. His program calls for the conscription of all Germans able to bear arms for a standing army of 500,000 trained warriors in peace time, for the conscription of wealth as well as manpower and perhaps for the building of a navy second to none. All this does not mean a declaration of war, but it has filled the chancelleries of Europe and the world with grim foreboding of what may happen in the years to come.

Soviet Russia has replied to the challenge and the military spokesmen of Stalin has given his marching orders to the Red Army to be ready for any warlike emergency. Austria, speaking through its government, has signified a willingness to walk in the path outlined by Hitler and scrap the treaties which were dictated by the representatives of the allied governments after the signing of the armistice. Should the Hitler plan go over Austria may become a willing province of the Germany of today and Mussolini, who wears the crown of the Caesars, may find it necessary to recall his troops from Ethiopia in order to face the alleged new terrors planned by Mars in Central Europe and the Balkan nations.

Incidentally, the Wilson administration negotiated a separate treaty with Germany after the passing of the Hohenzollerns and the coming of the German republic which was headed by a man who had begun his career as a humble shoemaker and who was a complete failure as the president of a new democracy enthroned a successor of a long line of kings and emperors.

Allies Can Be Blamed For German Rearming

In a Europe already armed to the teeth, the rearming of Germany can hardly make quite as much difference as the professional scare-mongers seem to think it will. The whole European system has been sliding toward war for years; one more set of armaments doesn't change things much.

What it does do is throw a damning light on the post-war conduct of the victors of 1918.

When Hitler says that the Versailles treaty which kept Germany disarmed also pledged the allied nations to disarm, he is simply stating a plain fact. The amount of disarmament that the allies have indulged in since 1918 could be put in your eye without difficulty.

If Germany has finally decided to toss the whole treaty out of the window, the allies have no one to blame but themselves.

For the basic difficulty has been that the treaty-makers forgot the one fundamental fact back of all European treaties and agreements—that the various peoples of Europe, after all, have to live side by side, and that no system which keeps them indisposed to live peaceably is a good one.

When the war ended, Germany's royal family had fled in a panic and the great gospel of militarism was completely discredited. It was not merely possible to build an era of enduring peace and understanding then; the plain people of all countries wanted it desperately. But the peace-makers deliberately chose the opposite course.

The Versailles treaty embodied that choice. It created a situation which could not possibly be permanent. And the victors, by refusing even to listen to any suggestions that the treaty be modified, made it inevitable that those who felt it to be unjust should look to war as their only hope.

The whole record of human history contains few instances of greater folly than this.

Where countries are packed together as closely as they are in Europe, it is insane to suppose that any system which creates hatred and suspicion and perpetuates resentment can lead in any direction except toward war.

Germany's renunciation of the treaty was only a matter of time. If the war which this step seems to foreshadow is to be averted, the nations which dictated the treaty must prepare to work out a plan to settle Europe's troubles by conciliation instead of by repression.

10,000 Delegates To Attend Annual Baptist Convention

By United Press
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Upwards of 10,000 delegates or "messengers," are expected to attend the annual Southern Baptist Convention here May 15-18.

The large number of delegates—perhaps the largest ever to attend a convention of this kind—will come from 18 states and the district of Columbia. Each of the 24,000 churches under the organization is eligible to send a messenger.

The states include Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Southern Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Arizona and Maryland.

Memphis is almost the exact geographical center of this territory. Dr. Hight C. Moore, educational secretary of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board and recording secretary of the convention, said here.

He was accompanied by Walter M. Gilmore, of Nashville, in making preliminary arrangements.

Dr. J. B. Witherspoon, professor of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., will preach the convention sermon the opening night, Wednesday, May 15.

Dr. R. S. Jones, field secretary for foreign mission, Richmond, Va., will deliver the principal talk on foreign missions, Thursday night, May 16, and will have charge of the program.

The convention will open with the registration at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Millicent Graves, secretary to George Dringold, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent has a notebook in which Dringold had begun to dictate a confession. In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name. Jarvis Happ, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty parlor where she is transformed into a blond, then takes her home and introduces her as his secretary. She meets Happ's son, Norman; his stepson, Robert Caise, and Mrs. Happ.

Millicent falls asleep and wakes to find a note under her door reading, "The woman in black ermine is here." Millicent dresses, sees the woman in black drive away and follows in Robert Caise's car but runs out of gas. She goes to the chauffeur's quarters and finds him dead.

Next morning Millicent meets Vera Duchene, Mrs. Happ's maid. Millicent goes to Vera's room and sees her with something that looks like a black ermine coat.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
 CHAPTER XIX
 Vera Duchene whirled, regarding Millicent with eyes that were suddenly cold, hard and viciously unfeeling.

"What are you doing, snooping around here?" she asked.

Millicent said, "I wasn't snooping. I came to warn you of something."

"Well, what was it?"

"This isn't going to be an ordinary investigation," Millicent said. "There are elements involved which are going to cause trouble. If you didn't get in until a late hour this morning, as you started to say, you'd better tell the police now, because otherwise they'll peek up on you."

"And what makes you think I can't get in until this morning?"

"Because you started to say so when you were at the table."

"And you came all the way up here just to tell me that?"

"Yes."

"Baloney!"

"All right. Why did I come up here?" Millicent demanded angrily.

"You came up here to snoop because Jarvis Happ has been suspicious of me ever since I started to work for his wife. Go back and tell him that his spying didn't work."

"Don't be too certain it didn't work," Millicent said. "I saw what you threw in the closet."

And with that, she turned around and banged the door angrily behind her.

She ran down the corridor and sought her own room, trying to analyze her conflicting emotions. Had she really gone to the room to spy on Vera Duchene?

Suddenly she realized that she had. She was suspicious of Vera Duchene, had been from the moment she had seen her. There was about Vera Duchene a suggestion of that power that some women wield over men, applied selfishly and consciously to advance their own ends.

Vera Duchene had been out the night before. She had returned early in the morning. She, then, must have been the one who had driven the sedan Millicent had encountered when leaving Felding's room. Had she also been the one who led Harry Felding on the chase which ended in his death?

Was Vera Duchene the woman in the black ermine coat?

Millicent could not, of course, be certain, but she did know that the form and figure of Vera Duchene were similar to the form and figure of the woman who had worn the black ermine, and the single swift glimpse Millicent had had of the woman in the tea room had shown her a cold, gray eyescheming, hard, wary and watchful.

Vera Duchene's eye could well have taken on such an expression. Millicent, herself, had seen those eyes change. They had been filled with alluring invitation when they rested upon the officer. Then, later, when Millicent had entered her room and had glimpsed what apparently was a black ermine coat Vera Duchene was flinging in the closet, the eyes had become cold, hard, glittering and vengeful.

And where would Vera Duchene, a lady's maid, have secured the wherewithal to get an ermine coat? Or, rather, having interested someone sufficiently to secure an ermine coat, why would she continue to work as a maid?

Millicent determined that she would keep Vera Duchene in mind, and would pay closer attention to her comings and goings.

There was a discreet knock at the door.

"Who is it?" Millicent asked.

"Winton, the butler," said a mournful voice.

She opened the door.

The butler stood in wooden-faced dignity upon the threshold.

"The master would like to have you report to him in his study," he said. "And did you hear about the murder?"

She smiled up into his professionally lugubrious countenance and said, "I understand that the chauffeur was killed by bandits."

"He might have been killed by bandits," the butler said, "and then again he might not. You see, he must have borrowed Master Robert's car, run out of gasoline and walked home, but the police can't find the keys to the car."

"Master Robert is careless about his keys at times. He left all of his keys in the car—not only the keys to the car, but the keys he carries to the house and the garage."

"Well?" asked Millicent.

"If Harry Felding had left the car and locked it, where the police found it, he'd naturally have left the keys in his pocket."

"Perhaps he put them some place when he got to his room," Millicent said.

"I beg your pardon, but that's impossible," the butler said with mournful cadence. "He was killed

Jarvis Happ, looking very grave, was seated at his desk. He nodded and said, "Sit down, Millicent. I want to ask you some questions."

She dropped into the chair, suddenly feeling that peculiar psychic commotion which Jarvis Happ's magnetic personality and keen, peering eyes always caused.

"Dick Gentry was in your room last night," he said.

She flushed and started to make an indignant denial.

"No, no," he said, "don't misunderstand me, I mean he accompanied you to your door with the suitcase."

"Oh, yes."

"What did he say at that time?"

"You know what I mean," he told her, with gentle but firm insistence. "He told you something he didn't want me to hear."

"What makes you think that?"

"Because of the look on his face when he left this room. Because of the look on his face when he emerged from your room."

"Perhaps," she said, "it was confidential."

"You shouldn't keep secrets from your employer."

"Perhaps it was one of those propositions a man sometimes makes to a woman, a proposition he doesn't mean exactly, but which he holds out as a glittering promise for the purpose of securing some temporary advantage."

"Such as?" Happ asked.

"Need you ask?"

"Yes," he said, "because I think this was an advantage that had something to do with me personally."

"I gathered," she said slowly, "that there was something in the books he was afraid of. After all, Mr. Happ, I'm working for you and I should be loyal to you. I didn't want to make the accusation directly, but since you've asked me I've told you."

He got to his feet, nodded, and said, "Come on, we're going down and take a look at those books right now. They're in your room?"

Fortunately she did not have to answer the question. Happ acted on the assumption that they were. He led the way down the corridor. She opened the door of her room.

"In the closet?" he asked her.

She nodded dumbly.

Happ opened the door of the closet, stood there looking about him in frowning concentration.

"I don't see any suitcase here," he said.

She peered over his shoulder.

The dummy suitcase had disappeared.

"OUT OUR WAY" - - - - - By Williams

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN.

ON TEXAS FARMS

"Mattress schools" took the center of the home demonstration stage during the last months of the old year and the first three of the new, rural women having firmly made up their minds to have King Cotton take his part in this live-at-home business.

From Cherokee county we learn that 40 people representing 27 communities attended one of the three-mattress schools held in the county. These representatives and all other such have an obligation to go back home and teach the women of their own community what they have learned about making nice, soft, comfortable mattresses out of home-grown cotton.

Renovating evidently allows for a certain amount of originality—one Gray county woman reports that her husband put their mattress through the feed mill and that, coupled with a new ticking, has made them practically a new bed.

From Rusk and Trinity counties in East Texas and Presidio county in the far western end of the state; from Carson county in the Panhandle to Hardin county on the gulf coast the reports are rolling in about these mattress schools. More than 1,500 home-made cotton mattresses were reported by home demonstration club women in 1934. The market for bed ticking will probably ride an upward curve in 1935.

WAXAHACHIE—Knowing that a spacious lawn makes a more attractive setting for a house than a small crowded one, Mrs. O. P. Claunch, yard improvement demonstrator for the Maypearl Home Demonstration club in Ellis county, has moved her fence back to add 21 feet to one side of her yard and nine feet to another, according to Miss Irma Ross, home demonstration agent. The yard has sufficient space at one side of the lawn for a rose garden and space at the back for a planting which will form a background for the house and lawn and serve as a screen to hide the poultry quarters. Mrs. Claunch has started a rose garden of 18 rooted roses and planted 85 shrubs and small native trees in screen plantings.

AUSTIN—"I am so pleased with the convenience of my new wardrobe that I would not sell it for $30, although it cost only $3.20 plus the labor," Mrs. E. C. Naurert of the Richland Home Demonstration club in Travis county told Miss Thelma Casey, home demonstration agent.

"The closet is 81 inches high, 48 inches wide and 26 inches deep, and is portable. On one side are shelves for storing folded garments and on the other is a rod for hanging dresses and coats. The closet was built by my husband from refrigerator boxes and a few pieces of lumber for the frame. The outside is varnished a light oak and the inside is painted cream," Mrs. Naurert added.

Palo Pinto county reported four schools where 60 women learned mattress technique from helping to make three new mattresses and renovate two old ones.

WHARTON—From a flock of 126 hens, Mrs. L. H. Obenhaus, Wharton county home demonstration club member, made a profit of $74.49 during the months of December, January and February, according to the report of Miss Louise Bryant, home demonstration agent. Each hen produced an average of 53 7-18 eggs at a cost of 7 15-56 cents per dozen.

SPEARMAN—Sixteen contracts for the laying of concrete sub-irrigation tile in Hansford county gardens were signed by farmers of the county during February, according to B. L. Boykin, county agricultural agent. These gardens will be tiled through a co-operative agreement whereby the relief board furnishes the labor for making and installing the tile and the farmer furnishes the material. In addition to these 16 farmers, 10 others have installed tile. These either made their own tile or had them made locally at two and one-half cents each. Sixteen of the 26 tiled gardens will be used as demonstrations located in various parts of the county.

DUMAS—A net profit of $91.27 was made by Art S. Knorpp of Moore county during the three months period ending Jan. 31, according to W. K. Cottingham, county agricultural agent. Knorpp fed a balanced ration of egg mash and grain, supplemented with alfalfa hay to take the place of green feed since last October. His gross income from eggs was $160.97 while his total expense for feed was $69.70.

VEGA—More than 3,000 acres of land in Oldham county were terraced during the past winter in an effort to prevent wind erosion, according to J. F. Ford, county agricultural agent. Other methods of control consist of listing, drilling, and plowing. Continued crop destruction by wind erosion constitutes one of the major problems of agricultural interests in this section of Texas. In many instances this year's crops which are underlaid by sufficient moisture to carry the for weeks are being destroyed by scouring top soil, the county agricultural agent reports.

Ward Week Going Over Better Than Expected This Year

Carl Jansing, manager of the Ranger store of Montgomery Ward today called attention to the fact that Saturday was the last day of Ward Week, which is being celebrated over the country with a gigantic sale. This will be the last opportunity for the Ward customers to get these low prices on Ward merchandise.

The middle of the week, the manager said, large shipments of new merchandise were received for the last few days of the sale, and these will be offered on Friday and Saturday.

This is one of the most successful Ward Weeks ever conducted by the local store, he said Thursday, and every line of merchandise in stock has contributed toward the success of the sale, with furniture sales being exceptionally good. The sale has met with a wonderful response from all over this section of the state.

Anyone who has not visited the store since it was remodeled and rearranged has been invited to do so during this sale, so they may be able to take advantage of the low prices during Ward Week.

"We have had to add quite a few to the sales force, too," Jansing said, "and though we expect Saturday to be the largest day of the sale we will have plenty of help to wait on the customers and prompt service is assured, no matter how large the crowds."

HOUSE REJECTS SENATE BILL ON CENTENNIAL

By United Press

AUSTIN, April 4.—The Texas House of Representatives today rejected senate amendments to the $3,000,000 Centennial appropriation bill, asking that a conference committee be appointed and instructing its conferees to insist that 15 per cent of the gross receipt of the Dallas exposition be used to pay the state appropriation.

The instruction was given in disregard of assertions the Centennial is impossible under such a requirement.

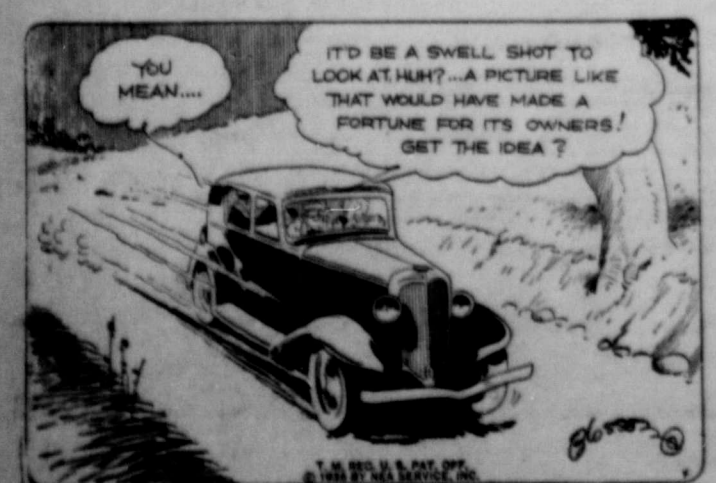

"It would absolutely kill the Centennial," Rep. Stinson, of Dallas said. "It couldn't possibly operate under such a handicap, Dallas is setting up $4 for every $1 the state appropriates. No business man would consider a proposition that paid him 15 per cent to a contributor in that proportion."

DICKERING FOR MANGUM DAM IS O. K. TO FIVE

In their opinion, Eastland is facing a coming need for a "more dependable water supply," city commissioners have passed a resolution favoring entering of negotiations looking forward toward the possibility of securing one as would be offered by the proposed Mangum dam. The resolution was passed the first of the week it was stated Thursday. The resolution: Whereas, the City of Eastland must in the relatively near future look for a more dependable water supply, and whereas we understand that there is a possibility that such water supply may be made available through the establishment of a reservoir on one of the tributaries of the Brazos River near the City of Eastland; Now therefore be it resolved that the City Commission of Eastland, Texas, go on record as favoring the entering of negotiations looking toward the possibility of securing a more dependable source of municipal water supply such as would be offered by the impounding of water in the proposed reservoirs on the Brazos River and more particularly in a reservoir which might be located on the Leon River, a tributary of the Brazos River, near the City of Eastland, Eastland County, Texas. Passed and unanimously approved by the Board of Commissioners of the City of Eastland, Texas, at a regular meeting. Donald Kinnaird, Mayor. Attest: Walter Gray, Acting City Manager.

Pan-American Road to Panama

By United Press
 LAREDO, Texas. — Possibility that the Pan-American highway, long an issue in Latin-American politics, will within a few years stretch from Laredo to Panama City was predicted by Ielson Rounsvelt, publisher of the Pan-American, Panama City, proponent of the highway. For the first time all nations along the proposed route of the highway have agreed to send delegates to the Pan-American conference which meets in San Salvador. The conference was called by Rounsvelt and will seek to establish a corporaation of the nations involved, whereby funds for the construction work can be procured. Seven nations, Honduras, Nicaragua, San Salvador, Panama, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Mexico have agreed to send a lawyer and an engineer each to take part in the discussion.

One plan suggested by Rounsvelt calls for the levying of a capital toll of one cent a mile for travel on the highway to pay for the cost. Much of the highway, it was pointed out, has already been built. The highway between Laredo and Mexico City is to be opened within a few months.

Accidental Death Is Verdict In the Stevenson Death

Justice of the Peace J. N. McFatter of Ranger has rendered a verdict of death by gunshot wound accidentally inflicted, in the death of Henry Stevenson, 22, who was fatally shot at his farm home south of Ranger Wednesday morning. According to the justice of the peace he made an investigation of the shooting and found nothing that indicated it was not accidental, and his verdict was made according to his findings at the scene of the accident. Mrs. Stevenson testified at the inquest that her husband was trying to remove a shell from the gun when it accidentally exploded and the bullet struck him in the abdomen. Judge McFatter said, and the testimony of neighbors bore out this evidence.

EASTLAND, Texas, April 4.—Members of the Dragoo Violin Octet led by Miss Wilda Dragoo, were presented in three selections by J. B. Krause and J. B. Johnson, program committeemen, at the Monday Rotary meeting.

Ben Hamner and T. E. Richardson were reported as possible candidates for president and vice president in the election next week by Sam Gamble, member of the nominating committee. Other members on the committee were Earl Bender and Carl Springer.

H. C. Atkins and H. Flowers were introduced as new members. Carl Springer, chairman of the Mexico convention committee, presented Ivan H. Riley, who gave prices and details of the convention trip to the country. The Eastland club is sponsoring an Oil Belt sleeper to the Mexico convention.

Numbers played by the Dragoo octet were "The Waters of Minnetonka" by Lilurance; "Dark Eyes," Gypsy folksong, and "Tennis Player" by Severn. In the musician group were Miss Wilda Dragoo, Alma Williamson, Clara June Kimble, Jo Earl Uttz, Olga Vaughn, Jennie Tolbert and Margaret Hart. Visitors at the meeting were Dick Tolbert of East Texas, guest of J. B. Johnson; Bert Ross, C. E. Newby, Breckenridge; Cyrus B. Frost, Horace Oldham, Eastland. Next week's program committeemen are John Harrison and A. Neill.

FORD V-8

First Car to Close the Gap Between Low Price and Fine Performance

FROM THE $2000 PRICE CLASS COMES THE V-8 ENGINE TO POWER THE MOST ECONOMICALLY CAL FORD CAR EVER BUILT

THE FORD V-8 occupies a distinctive place among automobiles. There is no way to compare it with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

What the Ford has done is to establish a new standard of value. Fine-car performance isn't limited to the well-to-do these days. The Ford V-8 has made it possible for the average motorist to have the kind of car that used to be beyond his reach.

It takes eight cylinders to give modern performance. And the Ford is powered by a V-8—the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

Ford cars are priced at $495 up F. O. B. Detroit. Standard accessory group including bumpers and spare tire extra. Easy terms through Universal Credit Company. All body types have Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost.
