The DARK BLOND

By CARLETON KENDRAKE ©1935 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Millicent Graves, secretary to Dringgold, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent is a notebook in which Dringgold began to dictate a confession. She rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name, Mrs. Happ, a stranger, offers help. He sends her to a shop where she is introduced to a brunet, then takes her home, introducing her as his wife. She meets Happ's son, a man; his stepson, Robert Caise, Mrs. Happ.

That night a note under her door informs Millicent, "The woman in black is here." Millicent sees the woman in black away and follows in Robert's coupe, but runs out of gas. She walks home, enters the chauffeur's quarters and finds him dead. Next morning Millicent goes to her room and finds Vera Duchene, Happ's maid, there. Vera attempts to tell the detectives that she was out of the house the night before, then leaves. There is a knock at the door. A voice says, "It's Sergeant Mahoney."

CHAPTER XXIV

Millicent hesitated only long enough to push the pieces of paper in the corner of the carpet. She got to her feet—and opened the door.

"Come in," said Sergeant Mahoney.

"I am perhaps 34 or 35 years of age, with sympathetic eyes, bushy black eyebrows, full-formed, smiling mouth, high-boned, broad shoulders and slender waist, broad shoulders and air of politeness which indicates that his call was official. He was aware of the amenities of the situation, but that his primary purpose was to uncover a murderer."

"You're Millicent Graves?"

"Yes."

"You knew Harry Felding, the dead man?"

"I had seen him, that was all. He shot the next question at her with the impact of a blow. "Who killed him?"

"I'm sure," she said, "I couldn't tell you."

"Know anything about what was happening here last night?"

"I'm afraid I can't tell you very much."

He crossed to a chair, smiled at her, and said, "Mind if I sit down?"

"Not in the least."

"Care if I smoke?"

"Not at all."

"Will you join me?"

"No, thank you."

"Don't smoke?"

"Sometimes, but not now."

He sat, watching her for a few moments with a quizzical expression on his face. He lit a cigarette and the blue smoke seeped from his nostrils, curling upward so that his eyes seemed to stare intently at her from a blue haze.

"I can see," he said, "that you are all primed to answer the orthodox type of questions."

"What do you mean by the orthodox type of questions?"

He laughed and said, "The kind I seldom ask. What do you think of Vera Duchene?"

The question took her by surprise.

"She's rather beautiful," she said.

He nodded slowly and went on. "And she's going somewhat out of her way to impress Detective Buchanan with his manly importance, don't you think?"

Surprise showed on Millicent's face. "Good heavens," she said. "How long have you been here?"

"About 15 minutes."

"And you've found that out in so short a time?"

"Oh, yes."

"You've seen Miss Duchene?"

"I saw her a few minutes ago. She was carrying a dress over her arm. She tried to conceal the dress

In their best bibs and tuckers—well, in their best new bibs, anyway— with their names proudly blazoned on the front of the crisp white surface, the Dionne quintuplets give you a bright good-morning. Not that each little girl has her own idea of how to handle a doll. But each of the five sets of starry eyes is equally bright.

"Do you think he'll tell you?"

"Oh, yes," Sergeant Mahoney said, laughing cheerily, "he'll tell me. People always tell me things. Lots of times they tell me more than they expect to. And how, good morning."

He left the room, walking with quick, purposeful steps, as though he knew exactly where he was going and what he was going to do when he got there.

Millicent found herself trembling like a leaf. Surely this man was dangerous. She could have no secrets around him. She thought of flight. Did she dare to run away? There seemed no other way out.

She looked hastily about, wondering what she could take with her, and then decided that she dare not take anything except the clothes she wore. She slipped into her fur coat, put on her hat, gave a final look to her face and lips. She gently opened the door into the corridor, listened for a moment, then thrust out her head. The corridor was empty.

Millicent started tip-toeing down the corridor toward the back steps. Suddenly a door opened. Cynthia Happ stepped into the corridor. She saw Millicent standing not more than 12 feet away. Raising her rigid forefingers, pointing it at Millicent, she screamed, "There's the woman who threw the keys into the pond!"

There was a swirl of motion behind Mrs. Happ. Millicent's startled eyes saw the face of Sergeant Mahoney. His eyes were no longer smiling. His face was set in grim, uncompromising lines.

"Arrest that woman!" Mrs. Happ screamed.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go in

If you feel sore and sick and the world seem to be a little more of a pain, you've got to get your liver and bile working right. You need a little of the good old Calomel to get those two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels, builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. Buy at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

FORD ECONOMY

The 1935 Ford V-8 gives you the most economical car to operate Ford has ever built.

Why take less?

FORD has always aimed to make the automobile-buying dollar go as far as possible.

This year, the 1935 Ford V-8 gives you traditional Ford low prices, traditional Ford operating economy—and, in addition, riding comfort, body roominess, new beauty and new safety features that will satisfy the requirements of almost everyone.

Comfort Zone Riding that gives "front seat comfort" even to rear seat passengers. Deep cushioned, high-backed, wider seats. Big, air-balloon tires. The plant, established in 1896, is owned by the Santa Fe railroad and has treated timber exclusively from East Texas and Western Louisiana. Two Fish Prey On Oyster Beds

PALACIOS, Tex.—The secret of happiness in an oyster's life, according to fishermen on Matagorda Bay, lies chiefly in the absence of... 1. Conchs, sea animals which produce the spiral-shaped shells that you hold to your ear "to hear the sea roar," and; 2. Drums, fish noted chiefly for their low conception of sport when they swim across an oyster bed. Conchs pry open oyster shells with the sharp edges of their own and proceed to feast. Drums literally bite their way through an oyster, and hunger does not provide sufficient motive for their destructiveness.

THE "Laxative Question"

DOCTORS SETTLED IT, LONG AGO.

UNDER the doctor's care, or in the hospital, you would get a liquid laxative. And the liquid form is what you would use at home, if you knew what a doctor knows! A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that can't be regulated to suit the need. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even with children.

BE CAREFUL If any laxative makes you thirsty, affects your appetite, causes bloating, or requires larger doses than when you first began its use—change to a liquid laxative! Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

West Texas C. of C. Convention to Be In Plainview

The 1935 general convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is five weeks away. Dates are Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 13-14-15. Host city is Plainview. Plans are maturing on a half-dozen fronts to make the convention notable, in the number of paid registrations, number of towns represented, in color, and—most important—in quickly getting to the heart of what West Texas needs most for its prosperity and development and in formulating a program of work calculated to meet those needs. The organization's 1935-36 year, from convention to convention, then will be devoted to carrying out the program laid down as the membership's mandate at Plainview. The Westex Chamber is now a full-statured organization of service. Through its remarkable life it has come through the various stages from (1) organization to hopefulness, (2) hopefulness to testing under stress, and (3) successful testing into its present era of vigorous maturity. Since 1918, year of its birth, it has had only one goal: to be of service to its territory. There is no denying that it has accomplished greatly and that today it is at the peak of its strength and efficiency and usefulness. With enormous prestige, completely staffed, paying its way as it goes along, there is no reason why it should not serve us for many more years, growing bigger and better as its years increase. The convention will major this year on three points, all fundamental in the life of West Texas, taxation, agriculture and territorial development.

How the four billion dollar appropriation for work-relief may be expended under direction of President Roosevelt is clearly shown in this chart, with the maximum sum allowed for each of the nine branches of activity given in millions. The president is given authority to shift funds among the above classifications up to a maximum of 20 per cent of the entire appropriation.

Laura Bidding for Laurels, Too
What's sauce for Amelia Earhart is sauce for her, too, believes Laura Ingalls, below, famed American aviatrix, who has announced intent to rival the No. 1 woman flyer in the matter of record flights. Miss Ingalls is preparing for an east-west assault on the 17-hour woman's transcontinental air record, in her new, long-range Lockheed shown above. Then she'll try to duplicate the non-stop hop to Mexico City which Miss Earhart is now planning.

ON TEXAS FARMS
April is reassemble spring to the post but it is just bitter weed and wild onions to the dairyman—and that means plenty of grief with the customers.
Extension dairy husbandmen advise the use of oats for pasture if the native pasture is badly infested with these two ill flavored spring blossoms. Pretty good cows make a good oat pasture worth $5 per month per cow, and one acre will take care of two cows.
The oats can be grazed two months and that's a return of $12 per acre. But remember that month per cow, and one acre will last.
If the permanent pasture infested with the weeds is the only grazing to be had, the next best thing apparently is to take the cows off of it at noon daily and feed some dry roughage such as hay, fodder or hulls. Also feeding two or three pounds of sweet feed with the grain mixture at milking time will help they say.
Sudan grass planting is the good word that comes from South Texas dairymen at this time. This is the month for dairymen all over the state to be getting it in. And it will furnish more grazing planted in rows than if the seed are broadcast, the ones who know say.
Which in a way is good news, because Sudan grass seed is high this year, and planted in 36-inch rows eight or 10 pounds of seed will sow an acre. If broadcast in a big-hearted way it will take 20 to 25 pounds to the acre.
HENRIETTA—Seventy-two head of cattle fed on cotton fodder

Actress Dares Gang to Strike
A gleaming revolver, holstered for a quick draw, rests on the hip of Barbara Leonard, film actress, as she goes about Hollywood, a challenge to gangsters who bound her in her bathtub and scrawled a "last warning" on her back, after once before robbing and beating her. Police and U. S. agents are on the trail of the thugs.

550 trees and shrubs set out by Mrs. Curtis Roach of Ochiltree county as a windbreak for her garden, she reports to Miss Marie Ludwick, home demonstration agent. Mrs. Roach has tilled her garden, and to insure plenty of water a 1,000-barrel tank is being installed.
Mrs. Roach has completed her meat canning and has eight varieties of meats, totaling 900 pounds. She is also planning a supply of poultry products for the family and is raising 1,200 baby chicks.

LIVINGSTON—Eight feed sacks have been washed, bleached, pressed and made into a mattress cover by Mrs. R. E. Peebles of Polk county as part of her bedroom improvement work, according to Miss Ruth Causey, home demonstration agent. In order to make the cover as smooth as possible, the sacks were put together with flat felt seams. Since buttons from discarded garments were used to fasten it at one end, the only cost of the cover was thread and labor. Mrs. Peebles is now saving sacks to make a mattress pad, and other members of her home demonstration club, inspired by her example, are saving for the same purpose.
FORT WORTH—Ripe tomatoes and fresh pears were served during the winter months by members of the Pantigo Home Demonstration club of Tarrant county, according to Miss Mary Powell, home demonstration agent. Last fall, just before the first freeze, Mrs. Leo Jones gathered, wrapped and stored two bushels of green tomatoes. These continued to ripen and have supplied the family with fresh tomatoes to the present time.
Mrs. C. P. Sebastian wrapped and stored two and one-half dozen pears to ripen and mellow. Fresh pears were made into salad in the middle of the winter, and two and one-half prints of pear preserves were made.

Tickville Band to Play at Chapel
Friday, April 12, at the high school auditorium the Tickville Band will play in chapel. This will be the first time that any such program has been presented. The band will play from 11:15 until they have completed their show which will be from one-half to three-quarters of an hour long.
Dr. Logsdon and his boys were a little uncertain at first about making their appearance before the student body but inasmuch as this was their first appearance as chapel headliners they decided to play.
This program will be a charge affair, 10 cents for adults and high school students and 5 cents for grade children. The money taken in will be used to send three judging teams to A. & M. college for the annual judging contest next week.
Every one is urged to be out and hear the band give its program. Several new attractions will be included in the show.
