Managers of Soft Ball Teams Meet To Form Leagues

Managers of soft ball teams met in the office of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of forming a league. It was voted to have two divisions of the league, one for business men and the other for fast ball clubs, with possibly a larger diamond and smaller ball.

The Class B league is to turn in the names of players by May 3, and will be allowed 20 players, while the Class A league will turn in their rosters by April 26 and will be allowed 16 men.

A schedule committee was selected to draw up a schedule as soon as all teams have entered both leagues. It is composed of Fred Warren, Roy Moore, G. A. Murphy, and Bill Hayes.

After the meeting all managers went to the new city park and inspected the grounds there to determine if they would be large enough for the soft ball games.

Safety Films to Be Presented at Safety Conference

The program of the Oilbelt Safety Conference, which is to be held in Ranger on April 29, is to be given over for the entire afternoon to the presentation of a safety educational program at the Columbia Theatre. Through the cooperation of the theatre management and the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, a splendid showing of pictures in both sound and color, drama and comedy, will be presented to those in attendance at the conference.

Several unusually good films have been secured for this showing, which will extend from 1:00 p. m. to 7:20 p. m. on the afternoon of the twenty-ninth. Among others might be mentioned a picture entitled "Public Enemy Number One," produced by the Commission of Motor Vehicles, State of New Jersey. This picture depicts a series of safe and unsafe practices on streets and highways with regard to automobile driving.

Still another picture that should prove of particular interest to the people of this community and those who will be in attendance at the Safety Conference is that which delineates the operation and scheme of the City of Memphis Automobile Testing Station. This city has achieved national recognition by virtue of its unusual and outstanding program of street and highway safety. Automobile accidents in the City of Memphis during the past year were reduced to such a great extent by virtue of the program which was adopted that there was a wide-spread demand for a picture which would be instrumental in disseminating the meritorious features of their program. Through the cooperation of the National Safety Council and Vice Mayor Cliff Davis of Memphis, the program committee feels justly proud in having secured this picture.

In order to satisfy the tastes of even the most fastidious, the Columbia Theatre will present "Once Upon a Time," a beautifully arranged film in both sound and color with a fairly land setting. From the moment the gates of "Once Upon a Time" swing open, during an original musical symphony, the film is full of action. Pandora, in a moment of curiosity raises the lid of a box, releasing two goblins, "Carelessness" and "Discourtesy." These goblins cause well-known characters of childhood to become involved in present-day types of street and highway accidents. Furthermore, they emphasize foolish and sometimes ludicrous actions which today have become common occurrences and thus depict various accident hazards. In a fit of rage, the king of "Once Upon a Time" calls for help in remedying the accident problem. His Wise Man mixes four attributes of safety—common sense, knowledge, attention, and obedience—in a magic cauldron and produces two beautiful maidens, "Carefulness" and "Courtesy." These musical fairies recapture the demons, "Carelessness" and "Discourtesy," and "Safety"—as demonstrated—again reigns supreme.

RAIN, SNOW ARE EXPECTED IN WIDE AREA

Loss To Winter Wheat Unofficially Placed At $145,000,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—The dust pall which shrouded eight states yesterday, began to break today, with colder weather moving in accompanied by possibilities of snow or rain.

In Kansas, where the storm was the worst of the long series that has harassed the state this spring, the dust still hung heavy and choking over some towns. In others the wind has swept it along and dark rainclouds had moved in. Temperatures were lower.

At Garden City, where all traffic, including railroad movement, had been halted since yesterday morning, the storm was abating, but still was serious. Salina and Abilene, Kas., however, obtained relief when rain fell and high winds swept away the dust.

Dodge City reported visibility was limited with dust rolling through the air like smoke.

At Guymon, Okla., a strong wind carried away the dust clouds, but rural schools were closed. The north wind served to carry the dust from the Texas Panhandle all the way to the Gulf. In Kansas and Oklahoma the worst had passed, but the storm left behind the blasted hopes of farmers.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Drought and dust storms have robbed farmers of nearly $145,000,000 potential income from the 1935 winter wheat crop, unofficial estimates based on department of agriculture reports indicated today.

Last fall farmers seeded 44,306,000 acres in winter wheat. Continued drought and gales which stripped fields bare of top soil and smothered young shoots, made further cultivation of this area useless, so 12,405,680 acres were abandoned.

All the wheat harvested in the United States this year will barely equal normal consumption requirements, present conditions indicate. The loss is centered in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle and Eastern Colorado and New Mexico.

Deny Profits of War, And Assure Peace!

An honest-to-goodness bill to take the profits out of war might turn out to be an excellent means of keeping the nation out of war altogether.

Take a look at the plan now being considered by the Senate munitions committee. This plan, submitted by John T. Flynn, New York financial writer, is reported to bear a certain amount of White House approval; and whether it does or not, it at least suggests a new way of keeping the country at peace.

This bill would take the profits out of war with a vengeance. Under its provisions, the government would take 50 per cent of the first 6 per cent profits of corporations, and 100 per cent of all over that in excess profits.

It would limit all individual incomes to $10,000, taking everything over that for Uncle Sam. It would slap income taxes on everyone earning more than $1000 a year, and the rates would be stiff.

Furthermore, it would draft general officers of all corporations into the military forces, and in case of need these gentlemen could be put under the same sort of control and pay scales that apply to army officers. It would close all commodity exchanges, forbid speculation in commodities, license industries and, where necessary, fix prices, and commandeer for the government all essential industries and services.

The whole business is drastic enough to take your breath away. But that it would do what it sets out to do—remove the profits from war—there is not the shadow of a doubt.

Declaration of war would mean the beginning of a dreary and irksome interval for business and industry, under this scheme; furthermore, the government should be able to pay all war expenses out of income, and the stupendous bond issues of past wars would be unknown.

But beyond all that, it is highly probable that such a law would be a powerful force to make the nation keep the peace.

One of the chief dangers nowadays is the fact that war does at least provide a great, if temporary, spurt of prosperity. Enormous profits are to be made.

That fact sticks in the back of everyone's head. It helps make us ready to accept the idea of war; for we can never forget that however trying the war period may be, it will at least be a time of high earnings.

We'd get a different attitude if this Flynn plan were law. The advent of war would mean fewer profits, not greater ones. No one would have any financial incentive for welcoming war.

Passing such a bill might prove an excellent means of keeping the nation at peace.

Gerald Mann Calls For Drive Against Rotten Stocks

Gerald C. Mann, secretary of state, has called for a legislative drive against the sellers of worthless securities. He advises new legislation. He further advises that the present law is inadequate to the extent "we might as well not have one." He favors the enactment of a measure which has been approved by a house committee. One feature of the bill recommended would require registration fees, proceeds of which would be sufficient to employ agents to enforce a blue sky law. At present there is no enforcement, and persons refused licenses may sell stock in outlying sections of the state. He makes the direct charge that many salesmen have been victimizing innocent purchasers, including widows and orphans, and the time has come for lawmakers to call a halt. Secretary Mann is on the right track. There should be a blue sky law that would place sellers of rotten or faked stock securities behind the bars.

Decorum, Above All!

That peculiar British habit of conducting even the wildest of anti-government demonstrations in an orderly manner was never better illustrated than in a recent display at Glasgow.

Some 70,000 unemployed put on a great march to protest against the national unemployment act. They carried red flags and banners, they shouted "Down with the national government," "Down with Ramsay MacDonald,"—and even "Down with the King!" which is about as far in the direction of bloody riot and revolution as any British crowd can go.

But there wasn't a sign of actual disorder. The 1,900 police called out to handle them had nothing whatever to do. The demonstrators marched, waved banners, and shouted—and that was all.

In what other country on earth could a wild, passionate demonstration of that kind have been staged in just that way? The English instinct for being orderly seems to control even those who want the government overthrown.

WATCH KIDNEYS SAME AS BOWELS

Wash Out Your 79,200 Feet of Kidney Tubes
Your bowels contain only 27 feet of intestine, yet the kidneys contain nearly 10 million tiny tubes or filters which would measure 79,200 feet if laid end to end. Therefore, it is just as important to watch the kidneys as the bowels. Kidneys are working all the time and are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and poisonous waste out of the blood.
Healthy persons pass thru the bladder 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 1 pound of waste matter. If you pass less than this, your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes may be clogged with poisonous waste. This is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.
Kidneys should be watched closely and need cleaning out the same as bowels. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to wash out your 79,200 feet of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills at your druggist. © 1954, Foster-Milburn Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Millicent Graves, secretary to George Drimgold, finds her employer in his office dead. Millicent has a notebook in which Drimgold had begun to dictate a confession. In panic she rushes away, registers at a hotel under an assumed name.

Jarvis Happ, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunet, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Happ's son, Norman; his stepson, Robert Caise, and Mrs. Happ.

That night a note under her door informs Millicent "The woman in black ermine is here." Millicent sees the woman in black drive away and follows in Robert Caise's coupe, but runs out of gas. She walks home, enters the chauffeur's quarters and finds him dead.

Next morning Sergeant Mahoney questions Millicent. Later Millicent becomes panic-stricken and decides to run away. She is stopped by Mrs. Happ who shouts, "Arrest that woman!"

CHAPTER XXV

Sergeant Happ stepped forward and said, "Just a minute, Mrs. Happ. What is it you were trying to say?"

"This girl," she said, pointing to Millicent, "is the one who threw the keys into the pond at the base of the fountain."

"How do you know?"

"I saw her."

"Are you willing to swear that you saw her throw the keys?"

"Well, I saw her leaning out of the window, and there was a splash in the fish pond."

"You saw her leaning out of the window?"

"Yes."

"Did you see her leaning out of the window before or after the splash in the fish pond?"

"Look here," she said in her most imperious manner, "you can't cross-examine me this way. I'm telling you what I saw, and I don't

"Did you ever see this before?" he asked.

She stared at him in wide-eyed surprise.

"Good heavens, no!" she said.

He extended it to her—the butt toward her.

"Take it," he said.

She started to reach for it, then instinctively recoiled from the weapon. "I don't want to touch it."

He reached across and placed it on the table by her right hand.

"That gun," he said, "is fully loaded."

"Will it go off?"

"Not unless you shoot it."

"Why should I shoot it?"

"I am giving it to you," he said "so that if you want to make your escape, you can take this gun and get out."

She stared at him curiously.

"You mean I should take this gun and threaten you or anyone who tried to stop me?" she asked.

"Yes, if that's what you want to do."

Knuckles pounded imperatively on the door. Sergeant Mahoney glanced at Millicent and called, "Who's there?"

"Detective Buchanan."

"Come in, Buchanan."

The door opened and Buchanan pushed his way into the room.

"I've got something!" he exclaimed.

"Got what?" Sergeant Mahoney asked him.

"Some woman was in Harry Felding's room last night. She was probably the one who fired the shot."

"How do you know?"

"I found a whisky flask in the bathroom. There were fingerprints on it. I've brought out those latent fingerprints with powder and I'm satisfied they're the prints of a woman's fingers."

"Where was this whisky flask?"

"In the bathroom."

"Did the woman drink the whisky out of the flask or out of a tumbler?" Sergeant Mahoney asked.

"They were rather badly smudged. I couldn't develop a clear latent from them. The tumbler evi-

"And you did throw the keys into the fish pond?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell me this before?"

"Because I was afraid to."

"Why?"

"I was afraid I'd be accused of something I didn't do, and I was afraid that I lose my job."

"Did you hear any shot in the direction of the chauffeur's quarters?"

"No."

"Did you see anyone near the chauffeur's place?"

"No."

"Did you talk with the chauffeur?"

"No."

"Did you shoot him?"

"No."

He stared at her moodily. "I think," he said, "you were running away just now."

"What if I was?"

"It would have been a very bad thing to do. The police would have caught you, and your flight would have been almost a certain sign of guilt."

Sergeant Mahoney watched her speculatively for a few moments, then took from his pocket a small automatic.

public farned of Hitch-Hiking Germ Of Typhoid Fever

AUSTIN.—A warning against the hitch-hiking germ of typhoid fever has just been issued by Dr. John W. Brown, state Health Officer. They must catch a ride from an infected person to the well person; this is generally accomplished by water, milk, flies, fingers, or food. Every case is contracted by way of the mouth and digestive system.

A carrier is a person who has had typhoid fever at some time and who even after recovery carries the germs of the disease in the urine and discharge of the bowels. Carriers who are careless in their personal habits are likely to infect any food they handle with unwashed hands. Some of the most serious and far-reaching outbreaks of the disease have been caused by drinking milk or eating foods that have been handled by carriers. Persons may be carriers without knowing it.

Typhoid fever is unnecessary and preventable. Every case is due either to ignorance or negligence or to the ignorance or carelessness of some individual. Some persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Three inoculations with typhoid vaccine, a week apart are all that is necessary to secure protection against this disease.

Just a Bit Personal Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Tunnell and daughter, Granddaddy, were visitors in Abilene the first of the week at the home of Mr. Tunnell's brother and family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Maddocks were business visitors in Cisco Wednesday.

Mrs. Jewel Sumner welcomed members of Child Study Club No. 1 into her home, Prairie-Sinclair camp, Wednesday afternoon for an hour which brought reports from the twenty-fourth annual conference of First District of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, which convened at Coleman April 3 and 4.

Mrs. J. O. Thompson, president, opened the program and after a brief business session was disposed of Mrs. J. S. Reynolds, who was re-elected president of the above First District association and Mrs. Ernest Johnson, incoming president and delegate to the convention were introduced by Mrs. Thompson, who each in turn gave impressive and intensely interesting detailed reports of the two-day session. The high points of the program were touched upon by Mrs. Reynolds, and the finer points of interest were summarized by Mrs. Johnson. The combined talks were favorably endorsed by the club and made record of by the secretary, Mrs. Reynolds, who extended her visit through a third day in order to pay visits to the Coleman schools, praised the school system highly for the successful manner in which they are being conducted.

A chilled vegetable salad with fancy crackers, angel food cake and iced tea composed the refreshment plate passed to Mmes. Joe Thompson, J. D. Johnson, Lester Crossley, O. G. Lanier, J. S. Reynolds, Melvin Robinson, Brown Bradley, Troy Grubbs, E. K. Green, E. L. Fontaine, and Miss Rena Mason, and hostess, Mrs. Sumner.
