Turner Is Turning Out More Produce With Extra Shift

Since the extra shift of work has been installed at the cannery plant operated in Ranger by county relief commission, the output of the plant has been greatly increased and it is expected that it will soon catch up with the demand, it was stated Monday.

Friday, the first day on which extra supervision and the extra shift of workers were on duty, the output increased to over 100,000 cans of food, with a total of 1,000,000 cans being put up on Saturday.

It is hoped by the two supervisors that the output can be increased to around 1,100 or 1,200 cans daily, and that the demand for the services of the cannery can be supplied within a short time.

Heretofore the demand has exceeded the output and it has been necessary for those who wanted cans to make arrangements several days in advance.

Negro Has a Close Call When He Falls Under Moving Train

Jim, one of the porters at the prominent hotel, had a narrow escape early Monday morning, when he was struck by a Texas & Pacific passenger train as it pulled at the Ranger station. According to witnesses the train also had a close call.

According to the story of the accident, it happened something like this:

Back about 10 o'clock to the station he might have. When he arrived at the station he found that the train was about an hour late, and he crawled up on a platform and stretched out for a nap. When the train arrived it woke him. He jumped from the truck on the wrong side, and fell in the path of the train, landing in a small depression between the tracks and the station platform.

The trainmen did not see Jim in time to stop and one of the first passenger coach struck him on the head, "almost killing the train" as one witness described the accident.

After the train stopped Jim got up and walked to the West Texas Hotel and Hospital, where he received treatment and was released. No damage was reported to the train, but damage to the car step hit him.

Oil Lease Sale Regulations Will Be State's Goal

AUSTIN, July 8.—Strict regulation of oil and gas lease sales will be demanded under the new Texas securities act until prohibited by court order, W. W. Halcomb, secretary of state's department said today.

An attempt to prevent application of the law to oil and gas leases and royalties has been made by application to federal courts at San Antonio. Halcomb said service in the suit had not been made today. Chief contention is that oil and mineral royalties have been held to be real property and cannot be classed as securities. The state will contest this issue.

OFFICERS SEEK A SLAYER OF ONE DEPUTY

By United Press
McALLEN, Tex., July 8.—More than 150 officers on both sides of the Rio Grande engaged today in the search for Samuel Fortuna, Texas-Mexico border badman, sought for questioning regarding the killing of Deputy Sheriff George Dennett.

Dennett was shot from ambush last night at Los Ebanos in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Hidalgo county officers, customs inspectors and border patrolmen searched for the bandits known hideouts, on the Texas side of the river, while Mexican troops patrolled the Mexican side. Bloodhounds were able to trail the slayer of Dennett only a few hundred yards.

When Fortuna walked into the officer's trap last night with a man and woman companion, he fired at Dennett's flashlight. Dennett died of buckshot wounds in his neck.

Catherine married Anthony and Victoria married Frank, and the two couples moved into the same house. Recently Catherine became the mother of an eight-pound girl. Four days later Victoria gave birth to an eight and one-half pound girl.

"We won't name them alike," Catherine Wilk said. "This has gone far enough."

LAKEWOOD, N. J., July 8.—John D. Rockefeller Sr. was 96 today and given a better chance than in years to realize his hope of living to be 100.

Early 1930's Marked Turning Point In Economic Structure of Texas

AUSTIN.—Just as the turn of the century marked a turning point in the economic structure of the United States and therefore a turning point, though less noticeable, in America's relations to the rest of the world, it appears now that the first part of the 1930's has marked a turning point in the economic structure of Texas, according to a statement made by Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer in the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas.

"For a complete appraisal of the significance of the changes which have already taken place in the past few years in Texas, we must await the fuller perspective of time as well as a more complete sequence of changes that already have well begun," Mr. Johnson said.

"In fact, significant changes have been in evidence in Texas since the turn of the century. Finding what was then large oil production when the Lucas gusher came in at Spindletop in 1901 may be regarded as the inception of one of the most important, in some ways perhaps the most important, economic event in the history of the state.

"Oil at Spindletop marked the beginning of large mineral production in Texas, and now Texas stands second only to Pennsylvania as the leading producer in value of mineral products in the United States.

"Without oil Texas would have been able to take and hold first place in production of a number of major agricultural commodities. Even with oil and other forms of mineral production Texas still remains dominantly a raw material producing state and therefore a transporter and exporter of raw materials and an importer of manufactured goods.

"State production both raw and absolutely of manufacturing, i. e., the processing of Texas raw materials. And it is natural gas that offers today one of the greatest inducements for the migration into Texas of other industries that extend the processing of Texas raw materials. Two other factors, however, have begun to play leading parts in the changes already well in evidence. One of these factors is that of the location of Texas on the Gulf of Mexico and therefore its access by low-cost water transportation to the markets of the eastern seaboard and the large commercial markets of the rest of the world. The other factor is that of the already relatively large and growing buying power of the Texas and southwestern market. And with freight rate readjustments, it may be that certain Texas industries may even look to the growing markets of the middle west.

"By and large, Texas industry occupies a zone in the new industrial frontiers of America. There are no basic economic reasons to prevent the further growth and expansion of Texas industry; on the other hand, there exist many basic economic reasons for a substantial expansion of Texas industry, processing those raw materials Texas has in such abundance, and selling the product in available markets. (There are, of course, many non-economic factors which may be expected to exert considerable influence, in some cases, against the growth of Texas industry.) But in heeding the mile posts for the future direction of Texas industry, the most important single group of factors, appear to be:

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 8.—Adam Richetti, the tough Ozark badman who ran with "Pretty Boy" Floyd until he was shot to death, lost his nerve today and tried suicide.

He is under sentence to hang for his part in the Union Station massacre in which four officers and a prisoner were killed.

House Committee Hears Proposals On Taxation Schedule

WASHINGTON, July 8.—House ways and means committee tax hearings today revealed existence of graduated tentative schedules which Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., estimated would yield $108,000,000 a year, or $901,600,000 if Congress dips deep into the pockets of the upper middle class.

Morgenthau refused to recommend what rates the committee propose. He reiterated President Roosevelt's statement that the rates to be proposed and revenues must be determined by congress.

He charged that "Certain members of congress who are on the military affairs committee and who are fighting the administration on TVA" had been participating in hotel meetings with power lobbyists.

CREW IS HELD AT BAY WHILE SAFE LOOTED

Daring Daybreak Robbery Nets Five Pirates $32,000 From Ship.

By United Press
LONG BEACH, Calif., July 8.—Five modern "pirates" armed with shotguns, boarded the gambling ship Monte Carlo at 5 a. m. today, forced members of the crew to open the safe and took $32,000. They fled in a small, white power boat.

Ed Turner, owner of the barge, said the men carried shotguns and were disguised by stockings pulled over their heads. Eye holes had been cut in the masks.

A few hours before the robbery hundreds of week-end gamblers had been taken to shore in speed boats. Only Turner and members of the crew were on board. While members of the pirate crew held Turner and his aides at bay, other boat sped toward shore and hunted the safe. They seized the money, went over the side and their power boat sped toward shore and hundreds of inlets, docks and miles of beaches which offered concealment or a place to land.

A coast guard boat put to sea as soon as the robbery was reported, seeking to locate the pirate craft.

Cotton Acreage Is Slightly Above That of Last Year

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Department of Agriculture today placed cotton acreage of July 1, at 29,166,000 acres and increase of four and six-tenths per cent over last years acreage on that date.

With Bankhead act restrictions in effect, however, the acreage is 28.6 per cent less than the average for 1929-33 and the smallest, except last years, since 1906.

Last year's total yield was 9,569,038 bales. With average yield per acre the year's crop would be slightly larger. Acreage increases were shown for all major states except Oklahoma, ranging from 4 per cent in North Carolina to 10 per cent in Louisiana.

The acreage in cultivation and the nation to last year included Texas 11,367,000, 105 per cent.

Planes Without Men Next War Dread

If you want to get a shuddery new glimpse of what warfare in the future is apt to be like, you might study specifications of the new airplane which has been undergoing tests by the British Air Ministry.

This plane is almost completely automatic. With no human being aboard, and all controls operated by a complicated radio device, it can take off by itself, fly to a height of two miles, speed along along at 1200 miles an hour, perform all kinds of twists, turns, and dives in the air, and then make a safe landing.

To date the British authorities have used it only for flying tests and for target practice. They admit, however, that it would be a simple matter to turn it into a bomber, with radio-controlled apparatus for releasing its deadly cargo—and your imagination can fill in the rest of the picture.

Imagine a fleet of these grim machines flying toward a city—an entirely automatic fleet, without a man aboard, ready to shower bombs on factories and railroad stations, on homes and school houses, impervious to any danger or threat of death, riding soullessly through the sky under the control of some super-radio operator safe on the ground miles away!

It is the kind of picture that makes cold shivers race up and down one's back. The sheer impersonality of such an attacking fleet, its utter lack of any human attributes, would provide war with its ultimate horror.

To be sure, a vision of this kind won't become a reality tomorrow. Ingenious as this automatic plane is, it still needs improving; it cannot, for instance, fly more than 10 miles away from its radio controls at present.

But it is a safe bet that limitation will be dropped before long, and that these automatic bombing fleets will be regular equipment for every air force before many years have passed.

And yet, in spite of the grim menace of this forecast, one might wonder if inventions such as this may not, eventually, make war less deadly.

Every time an ordinary plane is replaced by one of these radio-controlled planes, one pilot is saved from the risk of death. Does this weird invention foreshadow the day when all our fighting will be done mechanically—when we shall send out machines, and not men, to destroy one another?

Altogether, the idea seems to offer queer alternatives. If we don't first blow our civilization to bits, we may some day arrive at the stage in which we fight battles that don't hurt anybody.

The Standard, Buenos Aires, Argentina, tells us in their "Random Topics" column that history has taught us that the chivalrous actions of men pale into insignificance when compared with accomplishments and sacrifices made by women.

Nothing helps a city as much as a good appearance. To be known as a clean city, a busy city, a god city in which to live is something to be proud of.

Men build cities, not locations.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson
THE ARCHERS' PARADOX!
AN ARROW THAT BENDS CAN BE SHOT MORE ACCURATELY THAN A STIFF ONE.

THE STARS ARE INVISIBLE FROM THE PLANETS JUPITER AND VENUS, DUE TO THE OPAQUE ATMOSPHERE OF THESE TWO BODIES.

PANAMA HAT PALMS, FROM WHICH PANAMA HATS ARE MADE, GROW CHIEFLY IN ECUADOR AND PERU.

AN arrow that is too stiff to bend will fly to the left of the target. It is deflected from its course by contact with the bow as it glides past. An arrow thin enough to bend slightly will absorb the pressure of the bow without being thrown from its course.
