Low Cost of Graduate School of University of Texas

The graduate school of the University of Texas has been maintained within modest proportions and within total student costs that are extremely low, writes A. P. Brogan, assistant dean of the graduate school of the university. It is the telling argument of the assistant dean that Texas needs a graduate school on the level of the best national standards. In the educational record for April, 1934, there is printed a report of the committee on graduate instruction of the American Council on Education. This committee undertook carefully to gather the opinion of many specialists throughout the United States on the quality of work offered and required for the degree of doctor of philosophy in American universities. The results of this extensive investigation, writes Dr. Brogan show that the University of Texas is recognized as being the head of all southern and southwestern universities but that it is much below the level of those universities mostly in the north which have much larger income per student.

The University of Texas is ranked 21st among the leading universities of the United States in an article based on the committee's report and published in the June 2, 1934, issue of School and Society. It is outranked by no other institution in the South or the Southwest. It is outranked by the following state institutions: California, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, Iowa State and Missouri. It is also outranked by 11 private universities such as Harvard, Columbia, Chicago and others. "It should not be forgotten that the best figures available show that these institutions which outrank the University of Texas spend something like two to five times as much per student as the university of Texas," is the conclusion of Dr. Brogan.

In spite of the adverse factors of low cost per student, low salaries for faculty, heavy teaching load and inadequate facilities for the promotion of research, the graduate school of the university has so far been able to maintain a surprisingly high national rank. This is an excerpt from the Brogan leaflet: "The youth of Texas deserves a state university second to none, since there is no reason to doubt that our best students are equal in capacity to the best anywhere. The performance of Texans and of former students of the university in the greatest universities of the world is sufficient evidence that the Texas youths are equal to the youths of any other state, although they cannot get opportunities in Texas that are first class except in a few subjects."

Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri are largely agricultural states. Now why should these states lead the empire state of the American sisterhood, with its vast natural resource wealth, its staple which lead the world, its mineral wealth, which is not only vast but inexhaustible according to geologists and those who are competent to supply the facts and the figures. Why shouldn't Texas lead the states named? It is for the millions of Texans to make answer. They are reminded by Dr. Brogan that "with careful management the University of Texas can build a good graduate school with increased funds that represent a trifle of the money now spent on education in this state." It is for the friends of Texas U. everywhere to make answer. It is for the ex-students—that many thousands of ex-students—to make answer. It is for the lawmakers to make answer. And lastly, it is for the rich friends of education who pride themselves on their wealth and their love of Texas and the cause of education to come to the rescue of the State University and its graduate school.

New Deal Senators Battle for AAA Program

American farmers are reminded that the senate of the United States adopted an amendment to the AAA law "specifically validating benefit payments to farmers." Just the other day the senate refused to close the courts to suits for recovery of AAA processing taxes "if the supreme court finds them illegal." Backers of the AAA evolved the new amendment which was offered by Chairman Ellison L. Smith of South Carolina of the agricultural committee. Incidentally and to the point, the adoption of the new proposal means that regardless of what the supreme court does to the AAA the government may continue paying benefits to farmers who control production in accordance with its program.

During the first 11 months of the 1935 fiscal year the agricultural adjustment administration expended $767,000,000 or $900,000,000 available funds. The total for Texas the first 11 months follows: "$54,084,166 expenses $322,397. Benefits, $44,749,491 as follows: cotton, $34,765,253; wheat, $5,330,891; corn-hogs, $44,749,285; trust fund operations, $7,012,337." If the processing taxes of the AAA are to be paid by the government as provided by the Smith amendment, the cotton growers of the South, including Texas, are reminded that they owe a vast debt of gratitude to the New Deal administration and the liberal minded senators who represent the administration in its "must" as well as its AAA farm relief program.

THE LEANING TOWER

By HARRY GRAYSON

A NEW park surrounded by a thick stone wall, built after years of hard labor, is the pride of Chisholm, Minn., a small town tucked away in the iron ranges...

Anne is neither an ex-mayor nor the heroine of an Indian massacre. She is a 19-year-old girl who until a few days ago was the national women's 220-yard champion breast stroke swimmer.

Three years ago Anne was just one of the swimmers on the Chisholm High girls' team. On April 23, 1932, a historic day for Chisholm, its high school squad had a dual meet with one of a neighboring town, Neils Thorpe, Minnesota swimming coach, was the official.

Miss Goedvnik, then not quite 16, swam the 100-yard breast stroke. Her time was 1:18.9-10. The gallery thought that was very good.

Thorpe didn't know women's swimming records offhand. He, too thought that was fine time for a high school girl, and just out of curiosity telegraphed the Women's Swimming Association in New York to ascertain the world record.

The association replied that it was 1:12.2-10, and wanted to know what he wanted with it.

Minnesota Miss No Meteor It was hard for Chisholm to believe that one of its own girls—one of 8000 citizens—had cracked a world record—any kind of record—but it was even more difficult for New York to picture a 15-year-old swimmer making any such time.

When Miss Goedvnik was forgotten by the people who ran the Olympic trials in the summer of 1932, Chisholm was so determined to help its only celebrity that it reused funds to send her and her coach to the meet in New York. The little lady who learned to swim in abandoned iron mine pits took second in the trials, went on to place in the Olympic events, and in 1934 won the national 220-yard breast stroke crown in Chicago. In 1932, Anne had lowered the American long course 100-meter mark to 1:27.3-5, and the 200 yards to 2:58.1-5.

Rejecting invitations from larger and more famous institutions, pretty Miss Goedvnik entered St. Cloud Teachers College. Fame and publicity weren't in her future plans. For Chisholm and St. Cloud A level-headed lass, Miss Goedvnik likes only to swim for the fun and sport that is in it. She cares not at all for racing or meets with their excitement, crowds, and throngs of autograph seekers. But it meant a lot to Chisholm to have its name in the metropolitan newspapers. There also were Anne's enthusiastic fellow students at St. Cloud.

So Miss Goedvnik put aside her dislike for competition, championships, and records, and for Chisholm and St. Cloud went east and swam the best 220 yards that was in her. George A. Selkie, president of St. Cloud, drove her to Manhattan Beach for the national meet. Anne didn't win. The astonishing and versatile Katherine Rawls and Dorothy Schiller, of Chicago, were a bit too fast for her.

But Chisholm still is proud of Anne Goedvnik, perhaps more so for the plucky fight she put up in salt water that was strange to a Minnesota miss, after only three days' practice against stars who trained for weeks.

And it is still going to be called The Anne Goedvnik Recreation Park, stone wall and all.

Gun Runners—

Nominally, they carry trinkets and western goods for the Emperor's people, but in reality they have been loaded to the plimsoll line with powder and arms.

The gun-running racketeers are supplementing this traffic. Mostly Greeks, Germans, Armenians and other individuals of no defined nationality, they have spread their activity from the capitals of Europe to the shores of the Red Sea and the inland frontiers of the Emperor's kingdom.

Their agents throughout the western capitals are charged with the mission of buying all available rifles, shot-guns and revolvers and, if possible, machine-guns. These are then shipped to the nearest port, where bartering goes on with the captains of vessels bound east of Suez.

Racketeers Charter Ships The smugglers' agents offer big rewards to sea captains who are willing to use up available space in loading guns for the East African war. As, however, the number of vessels available on the regular trade routes is limited, the racketeers have been chartering vessels of their own, idle tramp steamers, yachts and sailing craft.

Crammed full to the decks with grenades and rifles and machine-guns, they steer for the Red Sea, unload their cargoes and rush them over the caravan routes, by camel and mule-pack, to the frontiers of the Negus' kingdom.

Here the Ethiopians, hungry for the guns which they need to defend their soil, are ready with precious gold-dust tied in cloth, which they pay to the gun-traders.

Tribesmen Lead Aid Throughout the vast desert wastes of Arabia and the Yemen, where Lawrence roused the tribes against the Turks in the World War, the gun-traders today are searching the land for guns which they can ship across the stretch of water which separates the Arabian state from Africa.

Arabian tribes, eager to help their Ethiopian neighbors against the invading white man, gladly contribute their sharp-shooting rifles to the cause, especially when they get well paid for their benevolence.

Down the valley of the Nile and over the borders of the Sudan the traders likewise are plying their wares, with all the war material directed to the capital of the black kingdom, Addis Ababa.

The Ethiopians declare they need rifles chiefly, as the majority of the Negus' troops are unable to handle machine-guns. There are about 300 machine-guns in the hands of the regular army, which is estimated to total 50,000 men.

Italians To Be Outnumbered With irregular tribesmen, the fighting force of the nation will exceed 500,000. It will be pitted against an estimated strength of the Italians of between 300,000 and 400,000 men, including one-third native Somaliland and Eritrean troops.

The Italians, even the natives, are versed in the use of machine-guns, bomb throwing mortars, grenades and other war weapons.

In normal times, the main occupation of the border tribes in Ethiopia was slave-raiding, as they stole across frontiers of British, Italian, French and Egyptian possessions and seized women and children to take them into bondage.

But slave-raiding has taken a second place to gun-running as the racketeers have organized business in readiness for the big blaze which will light up East Africa and the Red Sea shores.

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—In Alexandria, Va., a few miles down on the other side of the Potomac, a shirt factory employing about 160 women has cut wages three times since NRA codes went out to 32 window. The cuts amount to 32 per cent and have been accompanied by an increase of weekly working hours from 36 to 44. Resultant wages of $6, $7, and $8 a week, paid in the back yard of the national capital, are a reminder here that the old-fashioned sweatshop is coming back.

It is worth noting that the Alexandria factory girls, never before organized and quickly persuaded to return when they walked out after a first 10 per cent cut, are now being organized by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

When the U. S. Supreme Court's Schechter decision hit the NRA and Roosevelt decided to dismantle it, Sidney Hillman, president of Amalgamated, grabbed his hat and jumped on the next train to New York without even bothering to resign from the NRA board.

He hasn't been seen here since, because he has been busy with other garment industry unions in building up a $1,000,000 strike fund with which to fight for preservation of gains made under NRA.

The attitude of Mayor E. C. Davison of Alexandria possibly reflects a change of viewpoint in many cities and towns toward sweatshops as a result of NRA education. Davison tells the strikers: "You don't have a job. You have a disease. Alexandria business men don't sympathize with employers who exploit workers to the breaking point and don't pay a living wage. This government gives you a right to strike and policemen are at the factory to protect that right. "If anyone interferes with it, he, not you, is going to get locked up. We've just cleaned up the relief rolls here, so don't worry about starving to death. We've got r for you."

THE final phase of the Brewster-Corcoran lobbying battle, which started off all this "power trust" lobbying investigation, was so completely buried by the sensational publicity on operations at Warren, Pa., that all reports missed the concluding words of Congressman Brewster of Maine, who originally charged that Tom Corcoran of RFC had threatened to stop the Passamaquoddy project unless Brewster voted for the holding company "death sentence."

After Brewster explained that he had been "tricked" to sacrifice anything, perhaps even his reputation, to get Quoddy going in my district," the record shows: Congressman Cox of Georgia: "Do you feel your conduct has been such as to afford a reasonable basis for your associates thinking you practiced deception on them?"

Mr. Brewster: "I do." (Adding that he had been convinced Quoddy would be endangered by what he considered the probability that Corcoran would "put the screws on me.")

Mr. Cox: "Do you not feel that is a terrible indictment which you have laid against yourself?" Mr. Brewster: "I do."

Mr. Brewster, "I said the Maine congressman, 'joined in the surprise which everyone else has expressed at my vote and expressed, I think, also, some little regret.' And that made it unanimous. (Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

Old Time School Books Found In The U. of T. Library

AUSTIN.—If you went to school in Texas "back in the good old days," the very books you studied may be found at the University of Texas.

Dr. J. L. Henderson, education professor, is chiefly responsible for collecting a library of 4,058 volumes—books used in southwest public schools during the last 50 years.

There are McGuffey's Readers, which everyone remembers, Ray's arithmetics, Steele's sciences, Harvey's Grammars and Maury's Geography. All are familiar names to the student of 1900.

Copies of 90 per cent of the textbooks used in the last 37 years in Texas have been acquired. Henderson hopes to perpetuate the library by getting books as they are introduced in state public schools.

Wooden Church is Raised 190 Feet

CHURCH POINT, Nova Scotia.—The present-day French Acadians, descendants of the people about whom Longfellow wrote his famous poem, "Evangeline," boast of the world's largest wooden churches.

This structure, the Church of St. Mary's, has a steeple 190 feet high. It is 200 feet long and the dome is 65 feet high. It was begun in 1901 and finished in 1903.

The wood was furnished by the farm parishioners from their own timber tracts. All the work was done by local peasants, fishermen and farmers. They donated their services. Even the intricate wood work carving in the interior was done by local artisans.

Huge tree trunks, 50 feet in height, form the columns of the interior. Each is cleverly covered with painted canvas so that it resembles marble. The organ was imported from France, as was the altar.

Letters From Our Readers

Mr. Bill Mayes, Editor
Ranger Times.

Dear Sir:

I noticed a very interesting letter from a reader who did not sign his name, published in your Sunday edition. It was filled with interesting and timely suggestions and comments. The fact is, I should think that he would have been glad to sign such a letter and take credit for the information contained therein.

First, I want to say that I also enjoy your column, "Peeping Thru the Knothole," and think that you are accomplishing a great deal of good with your suggestions and questions, as we are all prone to let well-enough alone until something is called to our attention that needs remedying.

I wish to express appreciation to the writer of the letter in Sunday's Times for the kindly remarks about the chamber of commerce, and agree that the people of Ranger seem to be working in harmony at the present time, with no dissention or factional differences, which is very commendable.

Regarding what the writer said about federal projects, I heartily agree with him that a permanent projects committee should be meeting regular and helping the city, the school board and the chamber of commerce in working out something for the betterment of Ranger.

Several weeks ago one of our citizens, G. E. (Bob) Robinson, made a similar suggestion and was discussed at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the chamber of commerce, and a committee appointed from that body to work with committee from other clubs and civic organizations, but since these have failed to appoint their committees, I think it is high time for us all to be working together trying to get as much government money spent in Ranger as possible.

Although the chamber of commerce is not permitted to sponsor these government projects under the new setup, it is in readiness at all times to assist the city commission, the school board or any other body in any way possible that may have a project to put through.

Regarding the armory building, will say that the chamber of commerce, at the request of Adjutant General Carl Nesbit, sent telegrams to Washington from the various organizations of Ranger urging the appropriation of money for this purpose, but it is my understanding that the money has not as yet been appropriated.

On May 20, this year, this office wrote too General Nesbit asking him to notify us if there was anything further that the chamber of commerce could do to help with this project. His answer stated that nothing could be done at present, but that he firmly believed that the appropriation would be made and that he would promptly notify us if we could help in any way.

The Jersey Cattle club mentioned in the letter is a very fine suggestion and the Ranger Chamber of Commerce will be glad to help with this in any way.

Regarding a steam laundry for Ranger, will state that a few weeks ago I had a talk with the man, I suppose about whom you referred weeks visit in the home of E. A. and Miss Sallie Ringold, West Main street.

F. P. Brashier Jr. has as his house guest during the week Noel and Miss Marjorie Percival of Bronte, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Alworth, whose home is in Dickinson, Texas, are in town for a visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Alworth, Strawn highway.

Dr. and Mrs. Harry A. Logsdon returned home last night after a delightful vacation at Ruidosa, and Clouderoft, N. M. Their return route brought them through El Paso and other interesting points of Texas.

Miss Lullie Allen returns to her home in Hope, Ark., today after a pleasant two weeks visit here with her sister, Mrs. E. L. Fontaine.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koch spent the week-end in Fort Worth, where they visited friends and relatives. The Kochs formerly lived there before moving to Ranger the first of July.

Floyd Killingsworth left this morning for a day's visit to Dallas. Mr. Killingsworth, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Hearn of Eastland, will attend the Atwater Kent radio show to be held at the Dallas Cedar Crest Country club this evening. The program consists of the showing of 1936 Atwater Kent radios, a dinner party and floor show.

Miss Bee Whitthaber, special representative with Dorothy Perkins products company, with headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., is a visitor in Ranger this week, guest of Hassen company store. Ladies of Ranger are extended an invitation to pay a visit to the store and make the acquaintance of Miss Whitthaber, who has the latest hints in beauty makeup, and will be happy to talk with you along this line.

Letter From Rev. J. M. Bond States He Is Resting Well

B. A. Tunnell has received a letter from Rev. J. M. Bond, who is in Fort Worth convalescing, stating that he will be in Fort Worth for some time yet, and in the meantime mid-week services at the First Methodist church would not be conducted.

Rev. Bond, whose address is 2300 Edgewood, Fort Worth, writes as follows:

"I have spent a considerable part of my time since coming here in Dr. Terrell's clinical laboratory and he and Dr. Bond have not as yet made any report to me as to what is the cause of my nervousness. I think every day will be my last one with them. I have felt some better since coming over here, but am still compelled to spend much time in bed. When I learn something more definite I will let you know.

"Am not able at this time to make any announcement about Sunday services. I think I can send a preacher for the morning hour, but am doubtful about securing one for the night service.

"We may have to call that in. I presume we had just as well discontinue the mid-week services until further notice. I will send a notice to the 'Times' of the Sunday morning service. I greatly regret the necessity of being away from here, but it is impossible for me to preach now."

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE

Any suggestions of projects that might be secured for Ranger can be turned in to any of the members and they will bring it up for action at one of the semi-monthly meetings.

And here is a suggestion that might be of some use to the pastors of Ranger:

A collection box that nobody could ignore is suggested by Dr. H. Augustine Smith of the Boston Symphony Orchestra ensemble.

Under Dr. Smith's novel plan a dollar bill would produce no sound when dropped into the collection box, a quarter would ring a bell, a nickel would blow a whistle, and if someone passed by without contributions the box would fire a blank cartridge and take the unfortunate's picture for future reference.

Maybe the local pastors do not have to resort to such rigid measures for securing contributions in the collection plate, however.

R. P. Holloway, who has just resigned as superintendent of schools has a favorite joke about collections.

He says that years ago when he was living in Comanche he went into a drug store one Sunday evening and asked for change for a nickel.

"Are you going to church?" the drug clerk asked.

And speaking of collections and churches reminds us that some of the favorite jokes are about collections and sleeping in church.

We heard one pastor remark several years ago, that he had become accustomed to seeing a member of the congregation asleep and it bothered him not at all when one pulled out his watch and looked at it while he was preaching. But he said he was really put out one morning when a man pulled out his watch, looked at it with a surprised look on his face and then shook it and held it up to his ear to see if it was still running. The pastor said that he was about half way through his sermon, but he cut it short right away.

So we will cut this short before some of the clients drop off to sleep.

Lemuel Bray Wins CMTC Gold Medal

More than 175 cups, medals and trophies for individual and collective excellence in military proficiency, marksmanship, sports, and literary arts were distributed to winners in a colorful ceremony Tuesday morning at Camp Bullis where 1,000 Texas youths have just completed a month of military training in the citizens' military training camp directed by officers of the organized reserve under the supervision of regular army officers.

The awards were announced and presented personally to the winners of individual and company competitions by the camp commander.

Ranger winners included Lemuel Bray, gold medal for winning the middleweight boxing championship.

Lone Star Gas Co. Shuts Out Teepee By Score of 15-0

In the second shutout victory of the second half of the softball season, Lone Star Gas company defeated Tee Pee Tuesday afternoon by a score of 15 to 0. Lone Star Gas was the victim of the other shutout, administered by Magnolia of Olden.

The Gassers started off in a big way, scoring five runs on five hits in the first inning, accounting for three more runs in the second, one in the third and then skipped to the fifth before scoring two more. The final four runs came in the fifth.

Three Tee Pee men died on third, while two more got as far as second base leaving seven to die on first or be caught off second.

This afternoon Lone Star will play Marathon.

Central West Texas Oil Field

RISEING STAR, July 29.—Activity in the old Morgan pool, town, comes to life with the spud about eight miles northwest of ding in by Anderson & Drury of a new well on the L. J. Griggs farm. The same firm is rigging up for another well on the Bud Gage farm, about one mile east of their Griggs location.

The well on the Griggs place in near the Griggs No. 1, brought in some seven years ago when first play was started in the Morgan pool. The well is said to be still producing about 15 barrels daily. Depth of the wells is about 3100 feet and the oil is of high gravity.

The operators have quite a bit of land under lease in the vicinity of the new wells and will likely drill a number of holes.

Ligon Smith Will Be at Lake Cisco

Ligon Smith and his orchestra will be featured at Lake Cisco, "Where West Texas Dances" on Thursday evening, Aug. 1.

As this is one of the popular dance orchestras of this section a large crowd is expected to attend, as is the case with most of the dances held at Lake Cisco this year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pass out two pounds of liquid bile to your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A new laxative movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 50c.
