Wooden Buttons Are Made In Texas At a Large Profit

AUSTIN—E. L. Kurth, chairman of the Texas Planning board's forestry committee, has called a meeting of his committee to be held in the Lufkin Chamber of Commerce offices on Friday, Aug. 16, for the purpose of preparing a forestry policy for the State of Texas.

Many interesting uses of wood are coming to the attention of this committee, among which the following is probably the most unique. The Planning Board wrote to the county judge of Cameron county for samples of abony root, having in mind that this material would make excellent pipe bowls. The response brings to light a new industry for Texas, namely the manufacture of wooden buttons from Texas ebony. The manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Harlingen advises that there are a number of small operators manufacturing buttons from ebony and other native woods found in the Rio Grande Valley. He states that the buttons are very ornamental, and they retail at 15 per button, or 75 to 90 cents for a card of six. One enterprising Valley farmer has manufactured by hand and sold from $450 to $500 worth of these buttons each year for the past two years.

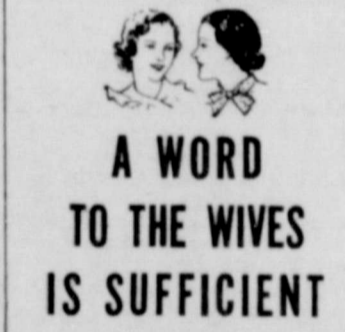

The forestry committee of the planning board is also interested in ascertaining the extent of the pine trees to be found in the Davis Mountains. Very little information is available on this subject, and a few visitors to the planning board have advised that the Davis Mountain pine trees are from 25 to 36 inches in diameter and tower 100 feet or more in height. The board, however, does not have adequate information on the extent of the pine forests in the Davis Mountains, if such actually exist.

Farmer Rids House Of Swarms Of Bees

By United Press
TOLEDO.—Oley Semark, who said he was just as afraid of bees as Mrs. Edna Bond, whose farm he works, held his breath "for 11 minutes" and resorted to creosote to rid the Bond house of bees. Not one, but three swarms, found their way inside on successive days. Four bee-keepers said they'd have to tear off the side of the house. Then Oley took a deep breath and went to work, carrying dead bees out by the bucketful.

When land loses as much as six inches it becomes submarginal land and should be retired from cultivation, Hendrickson points out.

While preventative and remedial methods are expensive to the farmer, they are worth the expenditure, he says.

New York State in the Red Many Millions

New York State is in the red many millions. It is the empire state of the East. It is the wealthy state of the sisterhood. It is the most populous state. Well, it is in the red $97,000,000, records of the state comptroller show. According to the New York newspapers, the deficit "was due almost entirely to falling off in revenues." Those who are familiar with conditions say that the deficit was caused by the millions needed to feed and house the hungry and the naked in the depression era. They had to be fed. There were no jobs. White collar workers as well as laborers and skilled mechanics were facing the poorhouse. All this happened during three republican administrations, and in 1930 Herbert Hoover was going about the country promising two cars in the garage for every citizen, two roast chickens daily on the platter of every worker and—"the American poorhouse had been abolished forever." Now he is before the people as the protector and defender of the federal constitution which was not responsible for the depression or the wild orgy of American gamblers and American money lenders which followed in the wake of the World War.

Threat of Race War

When Adolf Hitler set out to violate the terms of the Versailles treaty, the British government did nothing effective to stop him. Indeed, it even helped him by concluding a separate naval agreement with him. But it is apparently ready to go to much greater lengths to keep Italy from making war on Ethiopia in violation of the Kellogg treaty.

The explanation may, perhaps be found in a remark dropped the other day by Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, the famous South African veteran.

General Smuts fears that war between Italy and Ethiopia may set off a tremendous race war in Africa. The Russian-Japanese War, he points out, inflamed all the east against its white masters; Mussolini's venture may have a similar effect in Africa, stirring the blacks of the whole continent to revolt.

If his fear is shared generally in London, it is easy to see why Britain is taking a firm stand against Italy. More than any other power, England would have to pay the price if such a conflagration occurred.

The biggest men are the least pompous men. Inflated self-esteem, exaggerated ego and other human fallacies do not enter their system.

ANCIENT FOX HEAD FOUND

MARQUETTE, Neb.—The head of a large fox, claimed to be about 125,000 years old, has been unearthed near here by W. D. Ryder, of the University of Nebraska. Ryder was digging up bones of a large elephant when he discovered the fox head. It was in good condition and complete in detail.

(Continued from page 1) ever, might be to compel the refund of hundreds of millions of dollars which have been collected from processors of farm products and have been passed on to the growers.

It is barely possible also that the attack of the leading Chicago meat packers on the meat processing tax may reach the court this term. A Chicago judge recently granted a temporary restraining order barring the collection of the tax pending a decision.

The government's course on the question of slum clearance has not been decided. An adverse decision has been handed down in Louisville, where a substantial program was contemplated. A landowner sued to restrain the government from taking over his property by condemnation proceedings and was granted an injunction. The court held that the government could condemn property only for public use and that slum clearance and the erection of model dwellings was not a public purpose. This decision was upheld by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

U. S. Withdrew Case
The Department of Justice brought the Louisville case before the court at the last session but withdrew it before it could be argued. Now the law is being studied to determine if the slum clearance projects cannot be carried on without resort to the condemnation power of the federal government.

Two gold clause cases are pending before the court of claims. One is the suit of the Dixie Terminal company of Cincinnati, O. The other is brought by John M. Perry, a New York lawyer, who was one of the litigants in the gold cases decided last year.

The Dixie Terminal case challenges the right of the Government to call its gold clause bonds in advance of maturity. The company seeks to enforce payment of a small interest coupon on a $50 Liberty Bond which had been called for redemption in New Deal dollars.

If the company's contention prevails, it may completely halt the present refinancing operations of the Treasury by which gold clause bonds are being replaced by legal tender bonds.

Same Bond Involved
The Perry gold suit involves the same $10,000 bond on which the lawyer sued last year. At the time of the gold decisions the Supreme Court ruled that his suit must be thrown out of court because he had failed to allege or show any actual damages. The court held

"OUT OUR WAY" — By Williams

he must show now the New Deal dollars would buy less than the gold dollars he might have obtained if he had cashed his bond earlier. In his present suit Perry alleges that the legal tender dollars have a purchasing power so much less than the gold dollar would have had that he ought to have $20,000 to repay is $10,000 bond. In addition to these cases it is considered possible that tests involving the Wagner Labor act, the Social Security law, the utilities bill and other measures recently enacted may reach the court before its present term expires.

Welding
... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.
