The man had retired for the evening and apparently, his wife told officers, was preparing to go outside to investigate noises when his son appeared and was shot.

ALL LOUISIANA FUNDS HANDLED BY WOMAN

By United Press
NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 11.—The former secretary of Huey Long was believed today to hold the balance of power in the Long organization.

She is Mrs. Alice Tharpe, supervisor of public accounts, and the most powerful office holder, Gov. O. K. Allen not excepted.

Out of the confusion in government left by Long, it developed Mrs. Tharpe had custody of most of the state's money.

She is handling this year $22,000,000 in public funds, half of Louisiana's revenue. She bosses seven staffs of auditors and inspectors, including hundreds of gun-carrying sleuths.

The governor may remove her from office, but he is responsible to her for his finances.

The treasurer and auditor of Louisiana are at his disposal. She audits her own books and no outsider may see her accounts. She turns part of her money over to the state treasurer at her pleasure and disburses much of it as she pleases, independently of him.

B. C. Johnson Bit By Rattlesnake On Ranger Golf Course

B. C. Johnson of Ranger, who was bitten by a rattlesnake Tuesday afternoon while playing golf on the Ranger Country Club course, was reported today to be resting comfortably, after spending a night in extreme pain.

Johnson and Jimmy Gray were playing the eighth hole, according to Gray's story when Johnson hit one into the rough, just at the edge of the fairway. Gray's shot carried almost to the same spot and when Johnson stepped into the rough for his second shot he stepped on the snake. The rattler struck and then rattled.

Johnson became frightened and started to run for his car, but Gray overtook him and quieted him. A tourniquet was placed about his leg below the knee and the bite lanced with a knife to let the wound bleed freely. Within 10 minutes after he was bitten he was at a local hospital for treatment, Gray said.

WOMAN FILES SIXTH SUIT FOR INSURANCE

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Sept. 11.—The Texas law which presumes a person to be dead who has been absent for seven years is the basis for a sixth suit by Mrs. Emma Norwood of Dallas in 48th district court here to collect on insurance policies held by her husband, Sidney Norwood, Cleburne banker who disappeared in 1924.

Mrs. Norwood's last suit is against the Standard Life Association and is for collection on a $2,000 policy Norwood was issued in 1907.

In the first suit against Southland Life of Dallas, Mrs. Norwood was given judgment for $120,000 representing $100,000 on the policy and the balance in interest. The insurance firm took the case to the appellate court and won a reversal. The case was sent back for retrial when the supreme court refused Mrs. Norwood a writ of error.

In four other suits, filed several weeks ago Mrs. Norwood is seeking $20,000 from various insurance companies.

BRITAIN WILL COOPERATE IN LEAGUE PLANS

By United Press
GENEVA, Sept. 11.—Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, informed the League of Nations assembly today Britain would back all combined international efforts to enforce rules of the League against an aggressor.

Tecla Hawariatt, Ethiopian delegate, pleaded with the assembly to send a commission to Ethiopia to disprove Italy's charges the kingdom is beyond the pale of civilization.

Hoare's speech was regarded as an invitation for action to curb Italy with the intimation Britain would not act alone as an international policeman, but is willing to co-operate if all nations work together.

It was reported Laval of France, who deferred his speech, was considering telephoning Mussolini, urging him to soften his attitude toward the proposal on which the committee of five is now working.

COCKTAIL BARS MAY BE LEGAL UNDER THE LAW

By United Press

A conference to discuss the bill will be called if the draft can be completed by Friday.

Main features now decided upon are:

LEGISLATURE PASSES LAST OF LONG'S BILLS

Thousands From Over The State Throng To Baton Rouge For Funeral Thursday.

By United Press
BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 11.—The Louisiana legislature, without the lash of the late Senator Huey Long, complied with his last wish today and passed 38 bills the Kingfish ordered before he was assassinated.

Thousands from the red clay hills and back-country bayous poured into this sprawling, laxy city of 40,000 to view his body as the legislature adjourned.

With the legislation both houses adopted the resolution calling for burial of the senator on the lawn of his $5,000,000 capitol. Both bodies voted to attend the funeral en masse.

The visitors taxed the housing facilities of the city.

With a state funeral and burial on the capitol grounds scheduled for tomorrow, friends of Long made effort to establish reports that Long's slayer was a member of an organized assassins' band.

Long had been warned that an attempt would be made on his life. He spoke about it in the senate jestingly, though his associates said he became convinced he would be victim of an attempted assassination.

Despite that, Long failed to heed advice to walk behind his bodyguard instead of in front of it.

Long's friends said thousands of pistols, similar to the one used by Dr. Weiss, had been shipped to Louisiana in recent months.

They believed Weiss participated in the preparation of the assassination plot and in drawing of lots to determine who should fire the shot.

Nazism Has No Aggressive Aims, Hitler Tells Crowds

By United Press
NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 11.—Nazism has no aggressive aim against any European country, Adolf Hitler said today in a proclamation read to Nazis here in their annual rally.

Hitler reviewed the last three years and said: "Nazis might be proud of their achievement, especially as regards decrease of unemployment."

"But even this achievement is small to the work done to give the nation again its honor and freedom through reinauguration of universal conscription," the proclamation said.

"There is nothing to it. My resignation has never been discussed. 'Are you going to discuss it in the near future?' he was asked.

"The time has not arrived for me to say anything about that. That is up to the president."

Car Is Stolen As Owner Looks On

A 1935 Ford V-8 sedan, owned by a man named Griffin, who lives in Brownwood, was stolen on 4th Austin street, Ranger, Wednesday morning about 10 o'clock.

Griffin had parked the car and went into a barber shop to get a haircut when he saw two men enter the car and drive away. He ran to the shop and attempted to stop them. He then summoned Patrolman M. J. who searched the Breckenridge road as far as Morton Valley but finding any trace of the car.

Griffin said the two men wore dark suits and white hats, but was unable to give a very accurate description of them. The license number of the car is 122-270 and motor number 1801277518. The car was painted a gunmetal gray.

LIQUOR ADS ARE LEGAL IN NEWSPAPERS

By United Press
AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—Liquor advertisements were given an o. k. today by the attorney general.

He said: "Newspaper advertising of liquor will not be the subject of the attorney general's department until the close of the called session."

"I think it would be silly to prevent Texas papers from carrying advertisements of liquors, in view of the fact every newswriter is full of magazines full of liquor ads. It would be equally preposterous to declare against the magazines when barring them from Texas newswriters would injure Texas and add nothing to the general good."

Communists Shatter Even Ancient Tradition of Sea

Since the first unshaven Phoenician forced his unwilling galley slaves to take a rickety ship out into the perils of the Mediterranean, the sea has had a long and inflexible tradition, the gist of which is that the captain is always right and that there is no greater crime than disobedience.

This tradition has endured through all the great changes that have come upon travel by sea. The galleys of long ago gave way to square sail, and this in turn gave way to steam and oil, but the rule that the captain is boss and that the man who rebels must get it in the neck is still unbroken.

Except, it seems, beneath the Russian flag. A great many things have been turned upside down under Communism; but the most amazing change of all, in some way, is one which seems to have been made in the tradition of the sea. A recent criminal trial in Moscow sheds a surprising light on it.

Last May a Soviet steamer was towing an oil tanker across the Caspian Sea. There was a sudden explosion aboard the tanker, followed by a fire, and the captain of the steamer which was doing the towing decided to save his own ship at any cost. So he ordered the tow line cut, and steamed away to safety.

Ships have been commanded by cowards before this, and the action of the Soviet court in ordering this skipper shot for general poltroonery is not exactly unprecedented. What is decidedly unusual is the disposal of the crew.

For the sailors on this steamer were all ordered to jail, on the ground that they should have mutinied when their captain ordered them to steam away. The Russian court held that "capitalistic traditions" about the infallibility of skippers are nonsensical.

Its idea seems to have been that a common seaman knows right from wrong just as well as a captain does, and that nothing in the way of discipline should keep him from acting on that knowledge.

So here, at last, we get the first definite break with the sea's oldest tradition. Sailors innumerable have been punished for mutiny, in all ages. They have been hanged from the yardarm, they have been flogged to death in open boats, they have been keel-hauled beneath the ship until death by drowning came to relieve their sufferings—all for questioning the wisdom of the gold-braided genius of bridge or quarterdeck.

Here is something new; an affirmation not merely of the sailor's right to mutiny, but of his actual duty to do so. For the first time, we find sailors being punished for failing to mutiny. Could there be a more amazing break with the most ancient and inflexible rule of the sea?

If that Albertan premier fails to keep his promise to pay $25 monthly to his constituents, they may sue him for impersonation. He gave them the impression he was frank and earnest.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON
WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

SEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Some day, perhaps before election, President Roosevelt will have to admit to the country that business activity has returned to normal, but that there are still six to eight million unemployed.

He will have to explain that the efficiency of private industry, expressing itself in a saving of labor costs, has largely brought about that condition. And doubtless add that until industry can think up some way of absorbing those millions, it will have to pay for their subsistence through taxes.

This problem—call it technological unemployment or the increased productivity per man per hour, which gained enormously during the depression—is one of the biggest stories in the country. The highest officials often discuss it privately, though only an occasional labor leader talks of it publicly.

The most scientific chart of unemployment yet devised by the government (it's kept secret for the time being) indicates that 800,000 more persons were unemployed in June, 1935, than in June, 1934. True, this counts in some 300,000 of "new population available for employment" and about as many more displaced from road building and other public works, but—

In that same period, the Federal Reserve Index of manufacturing production rose from 83 to 86, which you might well suppose would have meant re-employment of several hundred thousand men. Remember that this was in the NRA period, before codes were canceled and employers began to increase hours.

THE answer is that workers, at an ever-accelerating rate, are being displaced by better management, elimination of the least efficient plants and equipment—and the least efficient labor—pressure through sweatshop, stretchout and speedup methods, new machinery and new inventions.

This goes on in agriculture, mining, transportation, and other fields, as well as in the factories.

Dr. Isador Lubin is now in an official position as commissioner of labor statistics and isn't talking publicly about the matter any more. But in 1932 he told a Senate committee that even if business reached its 1929 level, there would still be at least 5,000,000 unemployed.

PRODUCTIVITY has since increased and nobody is awfully patting any early arrival at the 1929 industrial production index figure, which was 119 as against the recent 36.

From every front come reports of new inventions certain to displace human labor. Washington this fall will watch closely the performance of the mechanical cotton picker, ballyhooed as able to pick 1000 pounds an hour as against a man's 10 pounds, a potential instrument of unemployment for hundreds of thousands.

Everyone is talking of prefabricated houses—and some warn of what it will do to building trades workers. New single-unit trains threaten the jobs of shopmen, switchmen, brakemen, and firemen. High-line logging operations threaten the jobs of thousands of northwest lumbermen.

NRA halted the process awhile through spreading work by shortening hours and by protecting obsolete plants. But now the chains are off.

Unless something new is done now, foreseen happens to about millions of workers, this problem holds the sprouting seeds of future political issues, future economic progress, future depression and the future, if any, of national economic planning.

Montgomery Ward Will Have Fall Showing of Radios

Montgomery Ward, world's largest retailer of radios, will present its new line, incorporating the six latest developments known to the industry at a Fall Radio Show to be staged at the local store from Tuesday through Saturday.

Eighteen models, covering every conceivable need, from a powerful new 16-tube console to the smaller battery sets, will be shown to the public under most interesting conditions during the show. Research and technical staffs have been working for months in perfecting the new Ward lines and the tremendous buying power of the company has made it possible for Wards to offer merchandise of unusual quality and performance at surprisingly low prices.

One of the six new features which promises to sweep the country is the introduction of metal tubes. Wards is using two types of metal tubes and they have been found to provide for greater selectivity, and to eliminate microphonic noises or "howling." In addition, of course, they are sturdier than their glass predecessors and make possible a more rigid internal structure.

Another of the largest improvements which has proved a boon to the industry is the high fidelity feature. Simply stated, high fidelity means the ability of the set to reproduce faithfully the entire audible range for music as it is broadcast at the transmitting station. Whereas the ordinary set, without this feature, either fails to reproduce the two extreme limits of the musical range or causes a distortion which has no musical quality that compares to the original broadcast, high fidelity will reproduce both the upper and lower registers at any volume.

Other important objectives which have been achieved in the new Ward line is the suppression of inter-station noise by means of an automatic electrical device which cuts out all noise when tuning from one station to another; the all wave-world range feature which means that the set has the ability to cover the entire range of short-wave and regular broadcasts; the micrometer tuning or instant dialing making it possible to "log" short wave stations; and the adjustable selectivity feature.

All Ward radios are licensed by R. C. A. and Hazeltine and thus include all the advantages of the latest patent developments from these world-famous laboratories. The Ward sets also carry the approval of the Radio Manufacturers Association.

The new Ward line includes a variety of both console and mantel models, many of which are designed in the new classic manner. There is a cabinet designed to fit almost any interior decorating scheme so that it is not necessary to break any theme in design which may be prominent in the room.

At last reports, the utility holding companies were living up to their name. The burden was a bag.

Expect Kicker Lindberg to Become National Figure

ILLINOIS has dropped only three Western Conference games in two years—two of these by one-point margins—so the 1935 squad has a task set for it in attempting to equal the records of the 1933 and 1934 outfits.

The loss of Jack Beynon will be distressingly felt. Beynon was one of the finest passers in the history of the game. Much depends upon whether the year's substitute, Wib Hestep, steps into his shoes at back.

Other losses include Bennis, outstanding guard; Dahl, Red Gragg, and Palmer, tackles; Bill Wain, Bart Cummings, ends; and Portman, Johnny Pitzer, Frank Froschauer, backman was a feet-footed runner of pronounced ability.

Les Lindberg, one of the kickers of the country, called upon to run and pass. Zup expects Lindberg to be a national figure. Howard and Johnny Theodors have a year of experience as fullbacks.

What Zup is banking on is a veteran line—Ken Gene Dykstra, and Frank well, ends; Capt. Chuck G and Arvo Antilla, tackles; boski and Cliff Kuhn, guard; El Sayre, center. Kuhn is a man of 1933 who has returned.

Speedy Illinois Players Know How to Handle ZUP isn't camouflaging his declares that he sees spots in the Illinois schedule, Iowa, Michigan, Northwestern State, and Chicago in the East and Southern California.

Against Don Pedersen's Ohio city aggregation and Washington University of St. Louis are enough.

Illinois probably will have the same kind of an array as it had the past two years. It will be a light team dependent upon speed, alertness, deft dodging, and good passing and blocking. It cannot hope to push the other fellow.

Cotton Leaf Worm Hurting Ellis Cotton

ITALY, Tex.—Although commercial poison in considerable quantities has been used in particularly every Ellis county farmer, the pest has not been effectively controlled, it was reported here.

Unless there is a sudden increase of the insect, the county will produce one of the smallest cotton crops in years.

METHUSELAH SPRING SEWARD, Alaska.—Over mineral springs here, reads: "Methusealah Springs. Drink this and you'll live."

"Why Bobbie, what did you do to that blouse?"

Yes, Bobbie's clothes are pretty much hors de combat. So are Elinor's. But remember, Mother, it's been a strenuous summer. And, anyhow, you wouldn't exchange those coats of healthful tan they're wearing for many times the cost of the clothes they've romped into tatters.

Furthermore, replenishing the children's wardrobe is not such a purse-wrecking task. In fact, even in the price-climbing times youngsters can be outfitted at surprisingly small cost—If you watch the advertisements.

Frocks, suits, coats, knickers, hats, shoes, stockings, blouses, jackets, underwear—don't buy them blindly. Makers and merchants are constantly putting their best values forward. The place to find them is right here in this newspaper... And the time to buy is right now—in September.

Read the advertisements as carefully as you do the regular news and editorial columns. They, too, are "news"... news directly addressed to you—in the interest of your family and your pocketbook.

Wine Cellar Lee Mansion Fully Restored

By United Press. The old wine cellar in the Lee Mansion, Arlington, Va., has been completely restored...

The cellar, which once held fancy champagnes, fine wines, rare brandies and aperitifs now look exactly like they did when George Washington Parke Custis and his son-in-law, General Lee lived at the mansion. For the last five years work on restoring the wine cellar has been in progress. Now it is ready for public inspection...

piece about you in the paper." "Penny," exclaimed Ruth in real panic, "if anything like that happens I'll leave town! I—I hate publicity!" She made Penny take a solemn oath that she would tell no one of her presence. "I wouldn't anyway," Penny explained. "I keep to myself. People pry. There's lots of things I'd die before I'd tell 'em! She peered around her defiantly, as if holding the whole town at bay. "Yes, Penny," said Ruth soothingly, and patted her arm. "Would you mind if I'd go for a ride with John McNeill before supper? He asked me this morning. "Penny relaxed. "Do go, Miss Elaine. It'll do you good. Only be sure to put on that warmer suit. It's turned chilly with the rain."

Pearson Talks on Trip to Cuba at Rotary Club Meet

L. R. Pearson had charge of the Rotary Club program today and gave a very interesting talk on his recent trip to Cuba, pointing out many of the peculiarities of the people and stressing principally the friendly feeling the Cubans have for Americans. This feeling, he said, was engendered principally because America was directly responsible for Cuba being a free and independent nation.
He spoke on the economic and political side of the Cuban situation, stating that most of the people were still in stature. He mentioned that he went into a clothing store, but could not be fitted because only the smaller sizes were carried.
He said the country was Americanized to a great extent, especially the harbor, which he described as being one of the most modern things in the country.
He touched on many interesting customs and traditions of the people, saying they were very musical and very sympathetic. He said that only the men went to funerals in order to protect the feelings of the women.
On the whole, he said, Cuba was not on a par with the United States, though it had modern buildings, most of which were three and four stories in height. One, he said, was about 15 stories high.
The three principal commodities of Cuba are sugar, tobacco and fruits, while they do a quantity of tile manufacturing.
He said that he noticed almost all of the automobiles were of American make and were open cars. He asked why they used American automobiles and the reply was that the United States bought sugar from Cuba, so the Cubans bought American goods.

He pointed out that the normal government of Cuba was very similar to that of the United States, as it had been organized by Americans, though at present Cuba was under a provisional government. Elections are to be held soon, however, and the government will return to the former status.
Throughout his talk the speaker stressed the friendly feeling the Cubans have toward America, whom they look upon almost as big brothers.

Demand Is Found For Old Pictures

Since the chamber of commerce has begun collecting old-time pictures of Ranger there has been an increased demand for pictures of that kind, and the organization is soon to be prepared to handle such requests.

produced.
Graham stated in his letter that the pictures are to be used in a
