Lions Club Funds Stolen Saturday

J. E. Meroney, secretary-treasurer of the Ranger Lions club, announced today that about $52 in Lions club funds was stolen from his desk in the chamber of commerce office, where he had it before depositing it in the bank. The money was in a leather satchel on his desk, and he placed it in the office safe Saturday afternoon, he stated today, and when he went to remove it from the safe today the zipper was open and the money missing. It was possible, Meroney said, that the money was removed before he put the satchel in the safe, because apparently the safe had not been opened. About $9 in silver was not taken from the satchel, though about $17 of the money taken was in checks, the remainder being in currency.

HOW ESTATE MAY BE BUILT WITH Collector of Revenue Is Club Speaker FEDERAL "BABY BONDS" IS TOLD

Building of an estate in the federal government's "baby bonds" was explained to members of the Rotary club in Eastland Monday by W. A. Thomas of Dallas, collector of internal revenue. The government, Thomas declared, is offering the average American citizen an opportunity to save effectively and safely out of small means. The speaker sketched the history of government financing in early days to modern times, telling of changes which have occurred with economic conditions. A portion of Mr. Thomas' address: "United States savings bonds are issued in denominations of: Twenty-five dollars, fifty dollars, one hundred dollars, five hundred dollars, and one thousand dollars. Those are their maturity values. They mature in 10 years. The prices at which you can buy them today are: $18.75 for the $25 bond; $37.50 for the $50 bond; $75 for the $100 bond; $375 for the $500 bond; and $750 for the $1,000 bond. Regular monthly investment in United States savings Bonds, through the magic of compound interest, gives surprising results. This is the way it works out: $18.75 invested each month for 120 months in United States savings bonds will build an income estate of $3,000 guaranteed by the

BANKHEAD ACT WILL GET TEST IN HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Gov. Eugene Talmadge, bitter new deal foe and presidential aspirant, today won supreme court recognition of his fight to have the Bankhead cotton control act declared unconstitutional. Government officials named in a suit by the State of Georgia asked permission to file the suit on Oct. 14. The complaint was nominally filed by the Georgia Attorney General but the brief made clear the action had been brought under the direct instruction of Talmadge, who has used the Bankhead act as a basis for much criticism of the new deal. Prior to Georgia's petition the court had accepted jurisdiction in an attack on the law brought by Lee Moore, a Texas cotton plantation owner. Moore's suit did not involve the United States and it was doubtful until the Georgia action was begun whether the new deal would join in the argument.

Senators by a 19 to 8 vote so a resolution to the finance committee asking the governor to give specific views on the pension situation. Before the resolution was passed Governor Allred was taken to task for speaking in "general generalities." Senators Cline Small, Amarillo and Allan Shivers, Fort Arth commended the administration for not attempting to tell them what to do. "At the first session he liquor regulation and a salary first. Now he says old age pensions must come first." Cooper told house members. "But nobody in a long time has accused a governor of being consistent and sincere. He is trying to throw legislators to the lions to further his own political ambitions. I am not going to be a sacrifice without a protest. Probably the legislators when they get a taste of blood may go out and eat a lion."

At the close of the services envelopes which have been given out the week before were collected in and when opened revealed that the congregation has neared the $100 set at a goal by the pastor. It is confidently believed that when the gleaming is done this week among members who could not attend yesterday's services that the goal will be reached. A high hour was reached in the evening service when 122 gathered in the B. T. U., the training service of the church. A memory work try out was given by the Juniors under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Renner. These contestants will go to Cisco next Sunday afternoon and if they win in this contest they will go to the district and state B. Y. P. U. convention. A Hungry Boy Suicide In A Rich Country!

Someone once said that you can judge a civilization by the way in which it treats its children.

If that is true, what are we to say about the United States of America of the year 1935, in which an 11-year-old boy has just hanged himself so that a little of the weight of the depression might be lifted from the shoulders of his family?

That happened. Unbelievable and tragic as it sounds, it actually happened; in the rich middle western section of the richest nation in the world—in the small city of Willard, O., to be exact.

The boy was Eugene Trushel. At 11, he was the oldest of the five sons of John Trushel, a railway locomotive fireman who lost his job four years ago and has been unable to find work ever since.

For four years the family has been on relief. Every two weeks they have been getting $5 worth of groceries from the local relief office. That isn't very much food for a man and his wife and five healthy children, but it did keep them alive. But the other day the family was told that the local relief office would be closed, and that the grocery orders would cease altogether.

They had a family conference. The parents talked of sending the children to the county orphanage. Eugene begged them not to. He had a pet rabbit, he pointed out; they could eat it, and thus postpone the arrival of actual starvation by at least one day. You must imagine how his father and mother felt when he bravely made this offer.

The matter was left unsettled, and the children went off to school—all but Eugene, who went into the house and hanged himself, so that with one less mouth to feed, his parents might be able to save the other children from the orphanage. His body was discovered, the coroner came, asked questions, and wrote, "Suicide: due to despondency," after the child's name in his record books; and the case was closed.

That's all there is to the story—except for the fact that half an hour later the family learned that it was a false alarm about the relief station closing—and there is pitifully little that we can say about it that will do anyone any good. There is a great deal that we might have done about it, as a society, perhaps, but no words will lessen the shock of the tragedy.

But we ought to keep it in mind. It might keep us from saying insane things like, "People on relief don't really want to work," from clamoring for an end of the "dole" or from supposing innocently that children don't suffer in their very souls from the effect of the depression.

It might help us to understand that simple, ordinary joblessness is the greatest curse of the age—and that if the richest country on earth cannot keep things like this from happening, it is perilously close to spiritual bankruptcy.

Opium Raiders Busy In China

By United Press

HONG KONG, China. — Forty-one persons, 33 pipes and 17 lamps, forming one of the largest opium dives yet discovered here, has been brought to light in a report made by the superintendent of imports and exports.

Daily raids to check the illicit use of opium in the crowded quarters of Victoria and Kowloon seldom fail to bring in large hauls of the prohibited powder. The following is a translation of three notices found in a dive just raided. Waitresses were employed here—a comparatively new departure from the regular routine.

A—“Even to the best friends no credit is allowed here. If credit is asked for after smoking, no consideration will be given.
B—“Nowadays business competition is keen and financial difficulties are great. The proprietor, realizing this, has chosen genuine goods of the best quality and, especially as a sacrifice, is cutting down the price to $1 for 2 mace in order to benefit his customers. Purchases made for smoking either on or off the premises are much welcomed. Night sales carry on until 2 a. m.

C—“When our friends favor us with their patronage, payment must be made in cash. No credit is to be given. Will our good friends please excuse this! The place is clean and tidy; the pipes are beautiful and the lamps nice; tea and water are generously supplied; the assistants render good service. For one mace the charge is 35 cents. The opium is good and worthy to be smoked.”

Heroin dives are more exclusive and there are more women clients in these. They are also better furnished with European style beds with spring mattresses occasional-

All of which, stated simply and stripped of technical terms, means that United States savings bonds are ordinarily free of all taxation for the small investor. "Your government guarantees you back one-third more at the end of the 10 years than you pay for the purchase of United States savings bonds. This difference between what you pay and what you receive represents an annual interest accruing to you at the rate of 2.9 per cent compounded semi-annually. "Instead of sending you this interest annually or semi-annually, the government retains it and gives you interest on interest, so that at the end of ten years your original investments have grown one-third greater than they were when you made them. Thus the owner of United States savings bonds knows exactly what they will earn for him. He never has to bother about them from the day he buys them at the post office or direct by mail from the United States Treasury, until the day they mature. He doesn't have to remember to clip coupons, because there are no coupons. He doesn't have to reinvest his interest, because it is already reinvested at compound interest. "The fact that these bonds are not transferable means that no person or syndicate need attempt to buy them up at a discount, for it cannot be done. "These bonds have fixed values from the day they are issued until they mature and their price cannot be beaten down on account of any of the owners being forced to sell. No one can redeem any of these bonds except the owners in whose names they are registered. "These bonds are issued: "To stimulate among the people greater interest in government financing, debt, taxes and expenditures. "To give opportunity to as many as are able, without undue privation, to become actual financial partners with their government, to the end that they may take the same personal interest in its affairs as do stockholders in other corporations. "There are many millions of our citizens who can, with but little self-denial, undertake for their own and their dependants' benefits this safe and profitable plan of systematic saving for future needs. "It is true that these bonds have a 10-year maturity and 10 years from now seems an unending time to work, to wait and to save—but 10 years ago was but yesterday. "This year 1935 will seem as close to us in '45 and '25 seems today. Let's each of us now determine to build our income estate and begin its enjoyment 10 years from now with the same gratification we would have today if this was the year of its maturity. "Your post office is a sales agency for United States savings bonds and you can purchase them there just as easily as you buy a money order. There is no red tape, no waiting, no delay. Should it better suit your convenience you may order your bond purchases direct by mail from the United States Treasury. Any time you desire to buy a bond, or bonds, all you need to do is to write a letter to the United States Treasury, at Washington, D. C., stating the amount of bonds you desire to purchase, and enclose your check or money order to cover and your bond or bonds will be mailed direct to you. "If you are confused over prices or other details, call your post office. "The Secretary of the Treasury can terminate this offering at any time, but the present plan is that these bonds shall remain a permanent feature of the government financing. "The congress in authorizing this issue felt that it was a sound policy that there be as large an infusion of tax-free government securities among the people as possible. "It is suggested that you buy these bonds with only your own purpose and needs in mind such as the assurance of a college education for one or more of the younger members of the family, or to augment your own retirement fund, or any other definite future need. "Remember, you will not be serving yourself or your country by purchasing more than you can afford to save. Buy with a view to getting the most out of your investment and since the government pays you interest on interest, the longer you hold your bonds the greater will be your return.

Buy with a view of holding your bonds until 10 years from now. "And now, in conclusion, may I be permitted to say that the treasury and post office departments, in having me come before you today to deliver this message have a two-fold purpose: "The one is to interest each one of you personally in the United States savings bonds. "The other is to have you thoroughly understand the meaning and the purpose of these bonds to the end that you may help further their sale. "We feel that the members of your great organization will prove a most potent force in making known the advantages of the United States savings bonds and we bespeak your individual cooperation which will be most highly appreciated."

The GOLDEN FEATHER

by Robert Bruce © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY JEAN DENN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer, delays her summer when BOBBY WALLACE, automobile salesman, asks Jean to marry him. At the Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARKINS, whose business connections in Sugar Land introduces Bobby to her and MRS. LEWIS and Bobby arranges to sell some bonds for Lewis. SANDY asks Jean to marry him. She promises to give him an answer after she returns from a vacation in her home town. LARRY GLENN, federal agent, told a friend of Jean's, Monteague, Larry talks to Monteague who says he bought the bonds from Bobby. LARRY sets out to find Bobby. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX WHEN LARRY GLENN arrived at the sales rooms of the State Auto Sales, Inc., he found that Bobby Wallace was out with a prospect and he had to wait for more than an hour before the young man returned. When Bobby finally did come in, he came over to Larry with a smile and an outstretched hand. Larry shook his hand and said quietly, "Bobby, I've got to have a little talk with you. Can you come outside for a while and perch in my car with me?" "Why, sure. What's up?" "Tell you when we get outside." They walked to where Larry's car was parked and got into the front seat. "Bobby," said Larry at last. "I think you've just done the most foolish thing of your whole life, and I want you to tell me everything you can remember about it." Bobby looked at him in utter wonder. "Tell me," said Larry, "all about those bonds you sold to Don Montague." "Those bonds?" began Bobby. He turned toward the detective. "Why, what's wrong with them?" Larry smiled a wry smile. "Nothing," he said, "except that they were stolen from the National Bank of Neola, a month and a half ago, by the Red Jackson gang. That's all." Bobby gaped, his mouth open, his vocal chords seemingly unable to function. At last he managed to gulp "Stolen?" "Yes. Those were what we call hot bonds, Bobby. We've been looking for them for weeks in the hope that their appearance would lead us to the gangsters. And when we do find them—we discover that you yourself sold them!" It took Bobby another minute to collect his faculties sufficiently to tell his story, but at last he managed to do it. In halting, uncertain sentences he told the whole story, aided by Larry's quiet but insistent questions. "Did you ever see a bigger fool than me?" he asked miserably. Larry smiled at him. "You have been pretty much of a fool, Bobby," he said. "I think you can arrange things so that the consequences won't be too serious for you—" Bobby's face suddenly became white. It had not occurred to him before that by dealing in stolen bonds he had made himself criminally liable. "—the main thing," Larry was saying, "is to run down this gang and get them all locked up. First of all, can you remember where that apartment was that they took you to?" Bobby wrinkled his brows, then shook his head slowly. "Not exactly," he said. "I remember it was out on the west side in an apartment hotel, but I didn't pay much attention to where we were going. It was off West Park boulevard somewhere, I remember." "You didn't notice the name of the building?" "The boy shook his head unhappily. "No. Gosh, I'm sorry." "Think you'd know it again if you saw it?" Bobby thought this over. "I might. Yes, I think I would." "Well, there aren't so many apartment hotels out that way but what we ought to be able to find it. . . . Now, about another thing, Bobby. You say this Lewis wanted $10,000 to buy a car. I didn't know your firm had any cars that cost that much." "We don't," said Bobby. "Sixty four hundred is tops with our line. He said it was a special custom job." Larry was silent for a moment. "Bobby, you'll help me all you can, won't you?" "Lord, yes," said Bobby fervently. "Well—did you ever hear of armored cars? I don't mean like the express trucks; I mean cars that gangsters use, made out of bullet-proof steel, with bullet-proof glass in the windows, and so on."

Coch Gibson's face was red after that. At Eastland the Bulldogs were defeated, though they gained more ground on passing and were forced to punt but three times, one being a quick kick that caught the Mavericks flat-footed and might not have been necessary. Usually the losing team has to punt more often than the winners, but the Mavericks were in tight spots nine times and kicked out.

And at Longview the Masonic Home team was so gentlemanly that it received editorial comment in one of the state's largest papers. The editorial, from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, said in part: "The team was quartered in the hotel. After the game was over and the players had departed the hotel management came in for the surprise of its experience. From chambermaids to landlady swept the news that the Masonic Home boys had swept their rooms, made the beds and made proper arrangement of the towels—leaving everything in as spick and span fashion as found. The story spread and, as stories are wont to do, found its way to newspaper offices. In all of the experiences of hotels with visiting football teams there is no parallel. In all too many instances the untidiness is extremely pronounced and the inventory of accessories fails to check."

Action Galore at Elks Arena Tonight

The wrestling fans of the Oil Belt have been wanting wrestling matches with plenty of action. Here you are. The opening match a one hour, best two out of three falls. Dummy Nelson who hails from Shreveport. Dummy is deaf and dumb and cannot hear the instructions of the referee, so he can't be bothered with that but does what he pleases to his opponent. He has been displaying his wares in Oklahoma and Kansas for the past two months and has defeated such men as Wakeland, Davidson, Sullivan and others. His opponent is Blackie Blackburn from Kansas City, and known as the Kansas bad boy. Blackburn has defeated Eddie O'Shea, Benny Wilson, Young Sampson and drew with Gorman, Reno and Shiek Marallah in the past few weeks. He is one of the toughest, toughest boys in the game.

The main event will be between two lighter boys but equally as tough and will use every foul and illegal tactic known to win their match. Tommy Kaiser, known in Ranger as Wildcat Hood, is a much improved ruffian and what he will do to his opponent Red Rodgers, well, you will have to come and see for yourself. Red Rodgers is no sissy and is capable of dealing plenty of misery to his opponent. These two matches bring together four of the rings roughest villains, and anything may happen from simple assault to mayhem. Make reservation by calling 283. A large attendance is expected tonight.

NO GUM CHEWING IS PERMITTED IN U. S. NAVAL FILM
"No gum-chewing, boys!" was Director Frank Borzage's order to a hundred extras impersonating Annapolis midshipmen in the Cosmopolitan picture of Naval Academy life, "Shipmates Forever," showing at the Tracadia today, and released by Warner Bros. Borzage's technical advisor from the school had just told him:

"No naval midshipman or officer is permitted to chew gum except in the privacy of his room, or while taking part in an athletic contest."

A small item, but Borzage insisted upon being technically correct in everything. These boys were watching the midshipmen's boxing contests.

Other examples of Borzage's insistence on realism was in the manner of dress. Annapolis boys wore undershirts with sleeves half way to the elbow. The extras in the film were provided with these. None had ever worn such garments before.

The middies also wear ankle-height shoes, not low-cut oxford. None of the extras had ever been told this before. All of the lads were Southern Californians where high shoes and boots are never worn.

Ordinary shirts and low shoes might have gone undetected in the picture, but Borzage wouldn't chance it.

"Shipmates Forever" is a stirring drama with an all star cast headed by Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler and including Lewis Stone, Ross Alexander, Richard (Dick) Foran, Eddie Acuff, Johnny Arledge, Robert Light and Joseph Crehan.

"Myself and Me"

"I'm the best pal I ever had;
We never have a fuss;
We like to sit and talk about
What's best for both of us."
—Adapted

Come to think of it, haven't we all dual selves? . . . One to acquire and one to bestow; one to work and one to play; one self to provide what the other self needs.

It isn't selfishness to think about yourself. It isn't arrogance to take pride in your appearance. It isn't egotism to strive to impress others. It's just good sense in the direction of self-progress—especially in business. . . .

So, tell You to give You more consideration. Scruce up! This is the season to buy new clothes. And the surest way to get the best styles and values is to "shop" through the advertisements in this newspaper—because:

The merchants and manufacturers who thus put their wares on exhibition and their prices in black-and-white cannot afford to risk their reputation by making extravagant claims for doubtful merchandise. Read and trust the advertisements. They'll help you find what you want—and save money!

IT'S HOME TOWN SERVICE

The best part about your telephone service is that it's home town service—tailor-made for you at the switchboard by people who live and work here.

Experts on American Telephone & Telegraph Company's headquarters staff can develop better methods of giving you service. Scientists of Bell Telephone Laboratories can contribute new inventions and scientific developments. Western Electric can buy and manufacture economically for the 24 operating companies of the Bell System.

And all of these things can—and do—help us tremendously at the job of giving you good telephone service at a fair cost.

Yet not one of them could replace the qualities of friendliness and neighborliness which grow out of the fact that the men and women who operate the telephones here belong to and are part of this community.

You can't measure those qualities. You can't set them down on monthly reports. Yet they have a large part in the job of providing telephone service.
