Tree Grew in Throat Of Chicken

By United Press
CERO, Tex.—Leland Lapp, veterinarian, has plenty of neighbors to substantiate his story of a hen and the oak sprout.

He said he paid little attention when he saw an oak sprout growing from the neck of his hen, thinking the fowl had swallowed it.

Several days later, he observed the tiny plant had begun to grow and was causing the hen to cough.

He killed the hen and removed the sprout. Inside was a large, fully sprouted, it had its way up the chicken's pipe and out of the beak.

Mussolini Warns Powers Italy Is Not to Submit

ROME, Dec. 7.—Mussolini warned the powers today that Italy will never submit to sanctions and will continue the conquest of Ethiopia until her demands are met.

While news was being received of the renewed bombing of Haile Selassie's quarters at Dessaye, El Duce thundered his defiance before a cheering, enthusiastic chamber of deputies.

"On the 36th day of sanctions we will have the same courage and the same determination as on the first day," he said.

Declaring Italy must make her position in Africa clear, once and for all, he continued.

"No coalition can defeat us. Our counter-sanctions are legitimate defense."

Despite his refusal to back down in the slightest, from Italy's demands, he recognized peace negotiations are in progress and did not close the door to the prospect they might succeed.

25 MILES PER HOUR NEW TOP FOR EASTLAND

Driving over 15 miles per hour on the square and over 25 miles per hour in the residential section of Eastland was outlawed in a warning issued by Police Chief W. J. Peters Saturday.

Penalty of breaking of windows in vacant buildings and houses by children was reminded of by Chief Peters. The police chief stated that windows in the vacant Coca Cola building and houses have recently been broken and warned that if officers learn the identity of the children, damages must be paid.

Shooting of firecrackers or other fireworks on the square or business district will not be allowed this year, Chief Peters advised.

ADMITS THEFT OF 30 AUTOS SINCE APRIL

A. L. White, Jr., of Hico, Gets Terms After Plea Of Guilty Is Heard By Eastland Court.

A. L. White, Jr., of Hico, quoted by Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill as admitting theft of 30 automobiles in West Texas since April, pleaded guilty to three charges of theft over $50 and was given three two-year prison sentences in 91st district court Saturday. The sentences were made concurrent, commencing Nov. 25.

White was brought to Eastland on a bench warrant from Gatesville, where it was stated "the one man car theft ring" was held in the county jail on another automobile theft charge.

Indictments charged White with the thefts in Eastland county of automobiles owned by W. H. McDonald on Oct. 14, L. R. Hightower on June 10 and Adrian Swindle on Oct. 15.

Officials expected officers from Lampasas to arrive this week for White, who was wanted there in connection with an automobile theft charge.

S. M. U. Defeats Aggies 24 to 0 To Take Title

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 7.—SMU hurdled the last threat in the Southwest Conference by defeating A. & M. college by a score of 24 to 0.

The game was the Methodists' 12th victory of the season and leaves them with a clean record to meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

A defeat today would have left the Mustangs in a tie for the conference championship with TCU, which will tackle LSU in the Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans New Year's Day.

Bobbie Wilson, snakey hipped halfback, ran from his own 35 yard line to the goal line shortly after the game opened and the Methodist machine never faltered thereafter.

Even a drizzling rain which made the ball slippery, failed to halt the Mustangs, though it was uncomfortable to 4,500 fans.

After the Aggies kicked off two tries at the line failed to gain and the Methodists punted over the goal line. Pittner, Aggie quarter, kicked to Wilson, who received on his own 35 and ran the length of the field for the first touchdown. Orr converted.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK BEFORE FARM GROUP

By United Press
CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—President Roosevelt standing beneath the high vaulted ceiling of the International Amphitheatre here Monday will make his bid for the nation's 1936 farm vote.

The president, making his important mid-western appearance before a capacity audience of 25,000 persons will open the national convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Political observers have attached significance to his appearance at this point in his administration, many viewing it as a direct answer to the onslaughts which have forced the administration to defend the constitutionality of much of its farm program.

In his first personal appearance to the American farmer since his talk in Fremont, Nebraska, the president will speak from the heart.

It was apparent today, however, that he will be on more than friendly ground.

Edward O'Neal, president of the federation, made it clear that his organization is an ardent supporter of the AAA act and that he himself believes Mr. Roosevelt to be the "greatest friend" the farmer ever had.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry the latter the former wife of McBoe, were charged with murder in connection with the death of former highway worker when his skeleton was found hanging by a wire from a tree near Rising Star on Dec. 22 of last year.

INDUSTRY IS URGED TO AID UNEMPLOYED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Geo. Berry warned industry tonight that if it fails to accept government leadership the country may head toward another depression.

"Any plan of action ignoring the government's natural leadership in the nation's affairs is but a shadowy substance and most certainly will fail," the president coordinator of industrial cooperation said.

Berry warned the 3,000 business and labor leaders meeting here Monday to discuss industrial cooperation that they "must meet squarely the problems of unemployment, taxation and public debt."

If this conference does not another one will be held.

In an interview he said that unless business itself provides employment for the 11,000,000 jobless men, it must continue to pay the bill for relief through high taxes and possibly increasing federal deficit.

Business must foot the bill in either case, he said.

Replies to the 5,000 invitations to the conference revealed a "wide difference" of opinion on the part of the government should take in directing industrial cooperation, he said.

"Some industrialists favor a complete hands off policy for the government," he said. "Others are inclined to varying types of government regulation. Labor undoubtedly will make proposals."

UTILITY ACT MAY BE RULED UPON IN RECORD TIME

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A radical change in legal tactics of the federal government tonight raised the possibility of a supreme court decision within the next three or four months on constitutionality of the utilities holding company act.

The early decision would be brought about by concentrating the entire battle on the suit which the securities and exchange commission has instituted against the Electric Bond and Share company in federal court in New York.

Ordinarily a year and frequently considerably more is required for a high court ruling.

The scores of suits brought against the SEC and the government by holding companies throughout the country, challenging the constitutionality of the law would be laid aside until the supreme court rules on the test case involving Electric Bond and Share.

PROCEDURE IN PENSIONS NOT YET COMPLETE

In answer to a communication requesting information on old age pensions, J. N. McFater, Justice of the Peace of Precinct 2, Ranger, has received the following letter:

"I have your letter of Nov. 30, relative to old age pensions. The Old Age Pension commission will not take office until Feb. 14, 1936, and the blanks for making those petitions will be furnished when they are printed. Nothing can be done until that commission is organized. There will be no payment of pensions until July 1, 1936.

"You mention a fee of $2.00 which is charged for filing the birth certificates. I do not advise any old age pensioner to attempt to file a birth certificate until the method of making the application and the forms on which the applications may be made has been established. I am sure these old folk want their pension but neither you nor they can do anything now to assist in getting the pension.

"When it is advisable if they desire, however, to file a birth record they can secure the necessary affidavits. I feel that any notary in the state should do this work for nothing or at least charge no more than 25 cents or 50 cents per affidavit. I know that they can not legally charge a fee for registering the births and I suggest to them that they do not do so for the vital statistics law does not provide for such a fee.

"I will write the registrars from time to time with reference to this pension. I have statements from registrars which lead me to believe that more than 50 per cent are above the age limit for the old age pensions, and I am very much interested in seeing everyone who is justly entitled to that pension to have it.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "W. A. Davis, M. D.
"State Registrar."

CHILD SWAYS GOVERNOR TO A DECISION

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—George William Nottley, 8 years old, with dark brown eyes, sat on Gov. James V. Alfred's knee today and said, "Daddy and me are partners."

The governor paused a moment. He had listened to attorneys argue the boy's father, George Nottley, should be extradited from El Paso to Port Huron, Mich., to face a charge of kidnapping.

He had taken junior from his divorced wife, an act which under Michigan law constitutes kidnapping. Their separation gave the mother, a business woman, custody of the child with provisions Junior should have a two week visit with his father at the end of the school term. During the visit Nottley brought his son to El Paso and kept him.

"Why don't you want to go back to Michigan," the governor asked the lad.

"It's too cold," Junior replied promptly. "I asked Daddy if I might come to Texas. Daddy and me are partners, you know."

Not To Be Kept Secret

As long as there are human beings who defy the law and go out to get what they want at the point of a gun, the newspapers will be obliged to print crime news; and just so long, probably, will the argument about that kind of news be carried on.

Crime news makes unpleasant reading. Now and then, honest citizens feel that it is news which should be suppressed. And one of the best answers that we have yet seen to this argument was made recently by Prof. Lowell J. Carr, of the sociology department of the University of Michigan, in an address before the University Press Club at Ann Arbor.

"The newspapers of America," says Prof. Carr, "have been the greatest single force in arousing the public conscience to the menace of crime. Theorists who talk of eliminating crime news from our papers simply don't know what they are asking.

"We are never going to win our fight on cancer by shutting our eyes to its prevalence, and we are never going to win our fight on crime by suppressing crime news.

Attorney General To Argue Case On Right-of-Way

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—Texas attorneys will turn loose currents of legal arguments Dec. 16, to place before the United States Supreme Court for final interpretation a short sentence written in 1850 by the state legislature which was without a prophet to foretell valuable oil lands would be a prize of 1935 litigation.

Representing Texas will be Attorney General William McCraw and Assistant H. Grady Chandler. They left Austin Sunday for Washington, planning to arrive there several days in advance of the hearing in order to complete preparations for presentation of the state's case. Both will argue a motion to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction and also merits of the suit.

Opposing them will be the chief legal counsel for the Texas & Pacific, including T. D. Gresham and M. E. Clinton of Dallas, and Herbert Fitzpatrick of Cleveland, O.

The Supreme Court hearing will be on the merits of an appeal by the Texas and Pacific from a decision of the Texas Supreme Court holding in favor of the state that the railroad possesses only an easement and not a fee title to its right of way and is not entitled to drill and take oil from it.

Specifically, the land in dispute is about six miles long, contains 155 acres, and comprises a portion of the railway's right of way in Ector county of West Texas. This particular strip, McCraw said, is worth an immense amount because of its potential oil production.

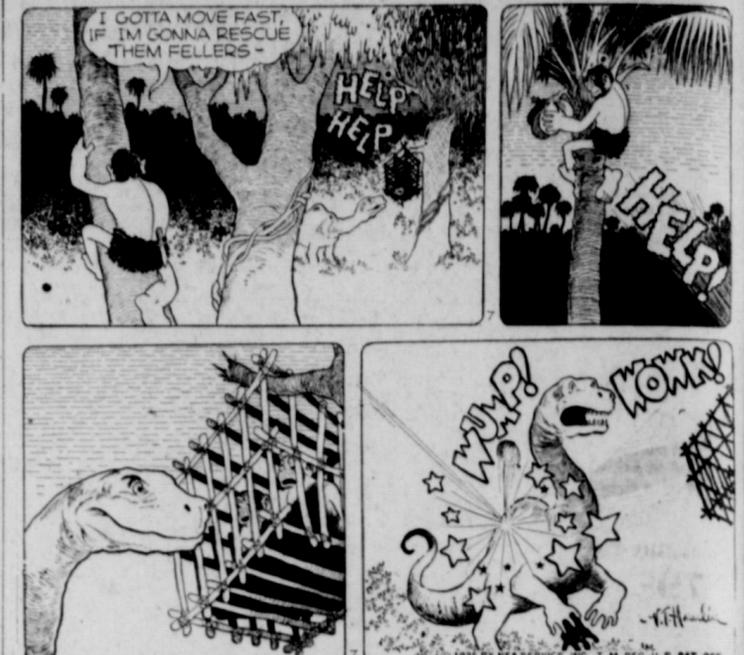

The state's brief points out ruling of the highest tribunal will have a direct effect on all cities, towns, farms, business firms and individuals having titles to land adjoining and including the T. & P. right of way from Fort Worth to El Paso, a distance of 620 miles for a 100-foot width on each side of the track. Put end-to-end, this strip would be 1,240 miles long and 100 feet wide and embrace in the neighborhood of 15,000 acres.

The brief said: "A contrary holding would serve to invest the United States with an unclaimed title" to these strips of land. "This situation would exist through the cities of Fort Worth, Weatherford, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Abilene, Sweetwater, Colorado, Big Spring, Midland, Pecos and El Paso as well as many small towns."

First proceedings in the litigation were in 1930 when Robert Lee Bobbitt, then attorney general, filed suit against the T. & P. to try title to its right of way in Ector county. Arguments in the trial court, the Court of Civil Appeals and State Supreme Court, all of which found for the state, centered around construction and effect of the short sentence contained in an enactment of the 1850 legislature.

In substance the sentence reads: That if the federal government shall not have adopted a certain rail route through Texas for the construction of the road by March 4, 1851, this resolution shall cease and have no force.

In 1850, there was tremendous public clamor for a transcontinental railroad through Texas and the Texas legislature passed a joint resolution granting to the general government a right of way 600 feet wide and alternate sections of 640 acres each as inducements to speed advent of the "iron horse."

the railroad under state statute of 1852 incorporating the Texas Western Railroad Company (whose name later was changed to Southern Pacific). The T. & P. contends the former line was given fee title and it acquired that title by purchase of the Southern Pacific. But the state argues the Southern Pacific had only an easement and that if the 1852 act did provide fee title it was surrendered by the Texas and Pacific by its acceptance of a subsequent act adjusting all Southern and Pacific land claims in Texas.

The Texas and Pacific further declares that even if it does not have fee title, it is authorized under another state law to drill the right of way for oil for use in operation of its railroad.

Its brief sets out that for a five-year period, the Texas and Pacific purchased 16,151,400 barrels of fuel oil and lubricants at a cost of $16,779,860.

In conclusion, the state's brief avers:

"Under the novel theory urged by the appellant, it would own in fee that right of way of 200 feet, and in addition would own a strip of land 100 feet wide lying adjacent to both the north and the south side of its 200-foot right of way, and in addition thereto the United States government would own two other strips of land each 100 feet wide and lying immediately north and south of a 400-foot right of way claimed by the Texas and Pacific."

It pointed out that public land surveys were made at an early date upon the theory that the T. & P. right of way was 200 feet wide, and on these school land developed, farms and homes acquired, and cities and towns laid out, developed and populated from Fort Worth to El Paso.

THE EVIDENCE IS IN FAVOR OF THE V-8

EVERY ONE who drives a car has witnessed the outstanding performance of the Ford V-8. More than two million cars on the road have proved its reliability and economy. There is convincing testimony that V-8 stands for something distinctly better in power, acceleration, smoothness and motoring enjoyment.

The V-type engine is the modern engine and it is worth having in your 1936 car. It means a great deal to you... it is an important reason why the Ford is in a class by itself in value and satisfaction. There is no other low-price car like it.

Here is further evidence in favor of the fine-car quality of the Ford V-8... It needs no breaking in. You can drive it 60 miles an hour the day you buy it. Unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts insures better performance, greater operating economy, freedom from repairs and longer life.

You'll find the 1936 Ford V-8 a most unusual motor car—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford ever built.

Suppose we get to the point. "Very well. I'm objecting to your visits here. I want you to stop seeing my granddaughter monopolizing her time."

"Dana's face was white. "Does Dana know of your objections?" She does. We had a talk yesterday."

"Did she agree with you?" Scott's voice was still with anger. "Dana's an impressionable young girl, but she has sense. She told me she knew she'd make a poor peer-man's wife."

Scott's eyes blazed in his white face. "You might tell her for me that she's a little premature in her decision. As I recall, the subject of marriage has never been discussed between us."

He bowed mechanically, and went down the steps. Mrs. Cameron watched him get into his car and drive away.

She did not feel any too comfortable over her victory. That young man had spirit and it would be a long time before he forgot this blow to his pride. Dana actually had said that about being a poor man's wife. Of course she hadn't said it yesterday when they were talking about Scott, as he had inferred. Grandmother Cameron had intended for him to infer that he sides, it all amounted to the same thing. Dana knew she wouldn't be happy depriving herself of the luxuries and comforts her friends had. Yet, there was a chance she might be swept off her feet by a fascinating young man. Or rather, there had been a chance. Knowing the proud Stanley Scott, Grandmother Cameron felt almost certain that Scott would leave Dana entirely alone from now on.

OWN mixed emotions told her this. Occasionally she saw Ronnie. He invariably looked hurt and miserably, and kept away from her.

Other young men were telephoning, taking Dana to dinner and dances. Ted Stanbury was devoted. Roger Jerome, who was spending the summer with cousins, was openly adoring. He had reached such an abject stage that Nancy had dubbed him "Roger-on-his-knees."

"And he might be a good catch, Dana," Nancy suggested cynically. "I hear the Jeromes are among the upper crust in New York with plenty of money too."

Dana didn't want Roger—snare sophisticated Roger. She didn't want Ted either. Men, she had decided, were disappointing.

The College Club dance had rolled around again. Dana thought of it without interest.

"There's a surprise program that's going to be awfully clever," Nancy told her.

NANCY, for some reason, was in a friendlier mood these days. Not enthusiastically friendly, but not enthusiastically hostile either. Not enthusiastically hostile, but not enthusiastically friendly. Not enthusiastically hostile, but not enthusiastically friendly. Not enthusiastically hostile, but not enthusiastically friendly.

THE PREACHERS' PROTEST At the last meeting of the Ranger Ministerial Alliance, one of its ministers was appointed to draft resolutions expressing our disapproval of the Sunday football game, in the name of charity. We are not antagonistic to football, and we believe in charity. If this game were played on any other day but Sunday, the Lord's Day, we would gladly favor it, and patronize it. But many people will be kept away because they believe, as we do, that it is a desecration of the day, and a prostitution of a holy cause by unholy means. Too far has society gone already in forgetting the Lord's Day, and in commercializing its sacred hours. Therefore, we, the ministers of Ranger, most emphatically protest against this abuse of God's holy day, and urge the people to refrain from participation in, and attendance on the game, as proposed. Let us make our benevolent donations to those in need, in the real spirit of Him who taught us the gracious spirit of charity for its own sake, and save the day for Him who gave it to us.

Mrs. J. W. Ducker Honors Mrs. Alfred Irby of Cisco

One of the smartest affairs in the past week's social happenings took place Thursday when Mrs. J. W. Ducker entertained with a colorfully appointed luncheon at her home, Spring Road, in honor of Mrs. Alfred Irby of Cisco who that afternoon was guest speaker at the 1920 club meeting, Colonial room, Gholson hotel.

The dining table reflected an artistic design, centered with a cluster of holly adorned with its red berries and flanked on either side with red tapers in silver candle sticks. Places were designated by cards fashioned into the shape of poinsettias.

After luncheon hour was a hospitable one enjoyed before the open fire place, its mantel adorned with emblems colorful and festive. Other house decorations sounded notes of the Yuletide season.

Those present: Mrs. R. B. Canfield, who graciously assisted the hostess, and guests, Mrs. Alfred Irby, George Fee Sr., George Fee Jr., of Cisco; Mrs. Williams of Cisco, mother of Mrs. Ducker, and Ranger guests, Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, C. E. May, J. A. Shackelford, and O. L. Phillips.

Won't You Give a Doll? Won't you give a doll this Christmas for some underprivileged child, who perhaps would otherwise be forgotten by Santa? Again this year the splendid members of Child Welfare club are working untiringly on collection of dolls. Among the committee working this week are Mrs. Saunders Gregg and Mrs. Pete Jensen, who are pleased with the cooperation given thus far. By calling either of the women, your donation will be called for. Last year a large number of dolls were bought by the organization at the last minute in order that Ranger children would be made happy Christmas morning. Let's cooperate this year 100 per cent and give our doll soon as possible, since there are only 14 more shopping days until Santas' arrival.

Kiddies to Be Admitted to Show With One New Toy Saturday Morning

B. E. Garner, manager of the Arcadia theatre, is extending a special Christmas courtesy to the Child Welfare club of Ranger, in the showing of a special picture and comedy next Saturday morning, with the kiddies admittance, one new toy.

This custom has been carried forward for several Yuletide seasons, and in this manner the needy of Ranger are too to be remembered on Christmas. Last year the admission was one toy—and some children took advantage and brought used and completely worn out toys. Parents are asked to see that new toys and inexpensive ones are presented.

Mrs. Alfred Irby Gives Interesting Talk

Mrs. Alfred Irby gave a splendid talk on Hamlet, Thursday afternoon when the 1920 club met in the Colonial room, Gholson hotel.

A large and well represented group offered their undivided attention for the address, one of the best to have been their pleasure in hearing this season.

Mrs. Irby is a prominent worker in clubs at Cisco, her home, and has a large group of friends here. During the business session presided over by Mrs. M. H. Hagaman it was decided to cooperate with the Child Welfare club in the Christmas doll drive, under sponsorship of Mrs. L. H. Flewelling.

Mrs. Brimberry Hostess to Club

Mrs. Archie Brimberry was host-

Will Rogers in "In Old Kentucky" which ends today at the Arcadia Theatre. This is the last chance to see a first run Will Rogers picture on the Arcadia screen.

Neighbor Juveniles, held at the I. O. O. F. hall.

A business session and program comprised the interesting hour.

Next Sunday will be devoted to the making of plans for a Christmas party.

Central Baptist Will Celebrate With a Pageant

As has been the custom for several years, Central Baptist will celebrate Christmas by putting on a Christmas Pageant in White, on Sunday night, Dec. 22, in the church auditorium. Each year these White Christmas Programs have been well received, last year the play was presented the Sunday before and the Sunday after Christmas. Each presentation was made before a packed house and many were turned away.

Those in charge of the program this year declare the decorations and production will surpass those of former years and much work is being done to make it so. At the
