LETTERMEN ON EASTLAND HIGH TEAM NAMED

Names of 13 members of the Eastland Maverick squad who played a minimum of 170 minutes in grid games this year and will receive letters were announced Friday by Coach Johnny Kitchen. They are Troy Taylor, Jack Trantham, Charles Van Geem, Roy Taylor, Jim Taylor, Evan Mitchell, Ralph Greer, Pete Garrison, Bob Sikes, Harry Taylor, Cleo Key, James Hill, L. A. Dolberry. Managers of the team, Gene Dulin and Tommy Hammon, also will receive "E's."

Scholastic work was also considered in naming the lettermen. Date when the boys will receive the honors had not been decided.

Public Suicide In New York Startles Hundreds of People

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—With hundreds of horror-struck pedestrians watching, Frederick Abel, 29, climbed a 50-foot steel high tension pole, drew a rope and, after trying it to the cross bar and putting his neck into the noosed end, leaped to his death. Abel's neck was broken in the fall. His body dangled for 20 minutes before police cut it down. The crowd was originally attracted as sparks flew from his hands and feet as he climbed the pole.

WOMAN IS SOUGHT

In today's issue of the Ranger Times will be found a want ad seeking the whereabouts of Mrs. Nell Hope Sivalls, widow of the late J. T. Sivalls, who at one time operated the Sivalls Motor Company in Ranger. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of this party will please get in touch with C. E. Madams & Co., Ranger, phone 252. A reward will be paid for correct information, according to the announcement in the ad.

GOSPEL CENTER

Sweetwater Airport Project Approved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The area of air commerce announced approval today of 34 airport projects and one state marking program, proposed for development with PWA funds. The bureau's approval merely means the projects are technically satisfactory from the viewpoint of aeronautics. Included was the Sweetwater municipal airport, $45,700.

Clues Are Found To Milne Kidnaper

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Dec. 20.—Clues found at an abandoned farmhouse and fingerprints on ransom notes have revealed the identity of one of the four kidnapers of Caleb Milne IV, it was reported today. Evidence that 45 federal agents had turned their search to Ohio, near Cleveland, caused reports they suspected Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1.

Guilty in Slaying, He's Sent Home

The jury found William Pabst, 18, guilty of killing his father with a hatchet in defending assault. The verdict carried a five to ten-year prison term. But Judge James M. Barrett of Bronx County, N. Y., court, added "Sentence suspended" and ordered young Pabst: "Sonny, go home to a good mother." Pabst is pictured about to leave court a free man.

OFFICERS SEEK THE BODY OF MISSING MAN

SNYDER, Texas, Dec. 20.—Possession searched rugged ranchland northwest of Snyder today for the body of Truman Cannon, 40, liquor salesman from Big Spring, who disappeared last Wednesday. A 25-year-old man was held for questioning. Sheriff S. H. Newman held to a theory Cannon was robbed and slain. His automobile was blood-stained in the front compartment. It was found last night five miles north of Snyder. Cannon's wife, who came here from Sweetwater, identified a hat as belonging to her husband. It was bloodstained. The suspect, a resident of Justiceburg, Garza county, was charged with illegally transporting liquor. Half a case of liquor was found in his automobile which had been parked on the square here. Sheriff Newman said the man became excited when questioned about the man's disappearance. The sheriff said he learned the man and Cannon quarreled Wednesday morning in Big Spring and the suspect made threats against Cannon's life.

Two Terms Given To Frank Brown

Frank Brown pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated and to a charge of burglary in 88th district court Thursday and received sentences of one year and two years, respectively. One indictment charged the defendant with driving while intoxicated March 4, 1934, and the other with entering the residence of R. D. Smith Sept. 28, 1932.

FATHER KILLS INVALID SON, THEN SUICIDES

BEDFORD, Iowa, Dec. 20.—William Reed gave up hope today that his son would ever recover from a brain tumor, so he killed him. After the "Mercy killing," the father committed suicide. Reed, 50-year-old wealthy farmer and stockman had been despondent since the recent return of his 16-year-old son, Raymond, from the St. Joseph, Mo., hospital where he had undergone an operation for removal of the brain tumor. He arose early today. Without awakening his wife and three other children he took his shotgun from a closet and went to Raymond's room. He sent the first blast through the head of his invalid son. The second charge he fired into his own head. A brief note found in his room said: "This is the best way out."

Attorney Falls to Death In Houston

HOUSTON, Dec. 20.—E. T. Norton, 35, Fort Worth attorney for the Federal Securities Exchange commission, who fell from his death from a hotel window today, had been working hard and was at times despondent, his friends said. The attorney, clad in pajamas, fell or jumped from a 10th floor window, his body striking on an annex. He was killed almost instantly.

Borah Welcomes Aid of Liberals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Sen. William E. Borah announced today he would welcome the help of liberals toward the presidential nomination but he would cooperate with any other candidate who might be named if he represented a "liberal" viewpoint. Borah issued a statement considered a bid for liberal support. In regard to nomination he said he was "inflexible as to the objective, flexible as to the tactics."

Police Official Is Student at T.C.U.

FORT WORTH, Texas.—Frank Rainwater, 36, world war veteran university band director, identification expert, and now a college freshman. Rainwater attends the Texas Christian University by day and is in charge of the bureau of identification, Fort Worth police, by night. Sleep is a brief afternoon matter for Rainwater, who may be catching a burglary at 6 a. m. and attending a government lecture at T. C. U. at 8 a. m. He is studying courses that will aid him in the pursuit of criminology. Rainwater is a member of the Horned Frog Band, playing a trumpet. He began playing as a youngster back in Louisville, Ky. After five years with the 138th Field Artillery during the World War, he joined a circus and, until 1926, traveled with various shows. In 1926 he took a position in a theatrical theater in Athens. In 1927 when the director of the Cowboy Band of Simmons University took a year's leave of absence, Rainwater got the job. On the director's return, he came to Fort Worth and has since been associated with the police department.

Uncle Sam's Airmen Step Right Up

The U. S. Army Air Corps put its best foot forward at the All-American Air Maneuvers held in Miami, Fla., to provide a spectacular display of its most formidable aeronautical weapons. An attack squadron, prowling close to the ground at a 180-mile-an-hour pace, seems to form a gigantic stairway to the lowering clouds.

TODD MYSTERY WITNESS SENT TWO THREATS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 20.—Kidnap threats against a witness in the investigation of Thelma Todd's death today caused a police guard to be stationed at the home of Alex Hounie, maître hotel at the Trocadero night club. Miss Todd attended a party there a few hours before being found dead in a garage. Hounie appeared at police headquarters today and appealed for protection after receiving the second threat. Early yesterday he received a post card which said: "Wouldn't give testimony or kidnap trip."

MOODY INSTITUTE TO CELEBRATE

CHICAGO.—Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, one of the strongholds of religious orthodoxy in the country, during 1935 and 1937 will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding.

HIGHER PEANUT PRICES, NEW MARKET SEEN FOR PRODUCERS

CISCO, Dec. 6.—Hope for a new market for peanuts at a substantially higher price for farmers of this area was seen when action was promised by the department of commerce within the next 48 hours. The present price is from 65 to 75 cents a bushel, due to a break in the market after the government contracts expired Nov. 15. It was believed that if a solution would be worked out whereby the bonus demanded of peanut crushers could be met, a price of around 90 cents a bushel, based on 70 per cent sound nuts, could be established for this section of the country, including all the territory west of the Mississippi. The following telegram to Secretary Wallace was dispatched Thursday afternoon by W. B. Starr, former member of the national peanut control board and chairman of the committee on marketing program for the Southwestern Peanut Growers association: "Understand major portion of Eastern peanut crop has been marketed at prices satisfactory to growers, with possible exception of Virginia-North Carolina section where diversion payments to the crushers have been raised from $16.00 per ton to $20.00 on Jumbo peanuts. Due to continued wet weather 80 per cent of peanut crop in Southwestern area still in farmers hands, but are now dry and ready for market. Prices were satisfactory October 15th to November 15th, but as your aides know are now low. To meet this existing emergency we earnestly urge your immediate advancing diversion payment from base of $9.00 per ton to $15.00 per ton until at least 10,000 tons have been diverted to oil. This request meets the endorsement of county agents in affected counties and West Texas Chamber of Commerce and all business men in this section. Increased diversion payment above requested would approximately one dollar per grower in this Southwestern area."

PRODUCER IS BROUGHT IN NEAR STAFF

The R. T. Hoff No. 1 White, six miles southeast of Eastland and six miles south of Ranger, near Staff, blew itself in about 9:00 o'clock Thursday night and was estimated to be making about 200 barrels of oil a day. The well is on lot 42, lease 3 and 4 of the McLennan county school land survey on land belonging to the White estate. The well was drilled with a spudder to a depth of 1451 feet, when gas flow was encountered. It was estimated that the well was producing about 1,500,000 cubic feet of gas daily. After the control valve was set the well blew itself in for an estimated 100 barrels of oil daily. Hoff and associates of Comanche county have a lease of 650 acres at the well, which is reported to be a new horizon at the depth. The well had been drilling for about three weeks. This was the second well drilled by the Hoff interests on the lease, the first being a dry hole. It was reported today that the well will likely be drilled deeper. Activities at the well were at a standstill Friday morning awaiting arrival of tanks.

W.D. McFarlane Is Speaker at Meeting Thursday Evening

Congressman W. D. McFarlane was the principal speaker at an open forum meeting, sponsored by the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion and which was held at the Recreation building Thursday night. The speaker spoke on the Roosevelt administration and some of the measures of success with which it has met. His talk was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Dr. Harry A. Logsdon presided at the meeting and the speaker was introduced by Rev. T. E. Bowman, pastor of the First Methodist church of Ranger. B. H. Peacock, post commander, spoke briefly, stating that other open forum meetings would be held during the winter. A short program preceded the meeting in which Misses Marjorie Clark and Jean Williams read, and dances were presented by Margaret Watt and Dorothy Henry. The Congressman was guest at an informal dinner prior to the meeting at which Legionnaires and friends were also present.

Farmers Can Pool Cotton Certificates

Cotton producers having surplus exemption certificates that are saleable may place them in the national pool before Dec. 28, A. E. Arthur, assistant in cotton adjustment, announced Friday. The national pool pays four cents per pound, Arthur stated. The sales surplus exemptions are those not issued under the regular two-bale ruling. The certificates should be brought to Arthur at the county agent's office in Eastland.

Divorce Granted

Divorce to Pauline Irvin from W. R. Irvin was granted by 91st district court Thursday. Plaintiff was given custody of a child, Dural Irvin, 1.

Mooney of Fort Worth, formerly of Ranger, the former Marie Whalen, and sister of Mrs. Nell Carlin of Ranger, will be held at St. Mary's Catholic Church Saturday morning in Fort Worth, at 10 o'clock. The decedent is the wife of Dr. E. V. Mooney, and is survived by her husband and an infant daughter, her mother, Mrs. Whalen, and several other relatives.

POWERMEN OF TESCO MEET AT EASTLAND

Sixty-five employees of the transmission section of the Texas Electric Service company of three districts—Eastland, Big Spring and Wichita Falls—attended an instructional and safety meeting at the Connelley hotel in Eastland on Friday. O. S. Hockaday of Fort Worth, transmission superintendent for the company, was in charge of the meeting. C. A. Lilly of Fort Worth, superintendent of power for TESCO, was a speaker at the morning session. A film urging safety rules, "Death Takes No Holidays," was shown at the Connelley theatre. J. R. Thomas, vice president of the electric company, of Fort Worth was an afternoon speaker.

FAILURE OF PEACE PLANS QUIETS EUROPE

The emphatic disavowal by the British government of the Franco-British peace plan for settling the Ethiopian war, left the European atmosphere cleared today with the nations committed to a policy of preventing any unjustified attacks by one power on another. The frank statement by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and Sir Samuel Hoare in the house of commons, permits it to be said without danger of seeming to editorialize the plan was pretty bad. It gave Mussolini almost everything and Ethiopia practically nothing. Dispatches from United Press correspondents indicate however, that it is the common belief that this can be avoided. This belief is based on the supposition that Mussolini can be punished enough by a long bloodless war of sanctions, that the cutting off of credit and strangling of Italy's export trade will bring them to terms. The real danger of war lies in the possibility Mussolini rather than to be starved out will decide the issue by resorting to arms against Britain. France is committed to aid Britain.

Allred Questions All Legislators On A Special Session

AUSTIN, Dec. 20.—Governor Allred today contemplated a letter to all members of the legislature asking: 1—If a special session of the legislature should be called. 2—If so when. 3—What should be done at the session. The questionnaire will not make suggestions to the legislators.

Employment Up During November

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Factory employment and payrolls made the best showing last month of any November since 1925, secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced today. Aggregate employment and payrolls in combined manufacturing and non-manufacturing industries showed net declines from October to November, the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. "The decrease, however, was the smallest for any similar period since November, 1925, and much below the usual seasonal decline in employment and payrolls," Miss Perkins said. Factory employment decreased one half of one per cent.

Mercury Tumbles Over Midwest

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 20.—The mercury tumbled in the middle-west today, ranging from 20 below zero at Moorhead, Minn., to 36 above at Dallas, Texas. Seasonal records were created in most cities. The low temperatures were caused by a high pressure area that moved in from Canada and enveloped the midwest as far as northwest Texas. A seasonal record for low temperature was made at Kansas City with 9 above; Omaha, Neb., 2 and Des Moines 2 below. The cold weather probably will be temporary. Clear skies and rising temperatures are forecast for tonight as a small low pressure area now over Montana moves eastward.

3 SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

Cordova Foresaw Big Export Trade From Over State

AUSTIN.—Jacob de Cordova the man who founded Texas' great cotton export trade, built its first textile mill, first envisaged the Brazos river development now being sponsored by the government, and chartered the first Odd Fellows Lodge outside the United States—was re-interred in the state cemetery here Dec. 8, with his wife, Rebecca.

Dist. Judge Charles A. Wheeler, past grand master of the Odd Fellows in Texas, delivered the oration.

The remains of Mr. and Mrs. Cordova were brought here from a burial site in Bosque county along the Brazos, under terms of an act sponsored by Rep. Conde Hoskins, Gonzales.

People from many parts of the state attended the ceremonies. Among them were Odd Fellows from Houston for whose lodge he obtained a charter in 1838.

Cordova was born in Jamaica in 1808 of Spanish parents. He came to Texas in 1837. Previously he had lived in Philadelphia where he married Rebecca Sterling in 1829.

With the accomplishments of Texas Independence, Cordova began at once to colonize and develop Texas. His first shipments came from New Orleans to Galveston. Later he made Houston his home. By horseback and buggy he traveled over much of Texas and made its first official map, endorsed by Gen. Sam Houston, Thos. J. Rusk and others.

By visits to England and addresses to the cotton associations at Manchester and other places, he inaugurated the English cotton export market, which takes a major part of Texas cotton production.

"If we raise vast amounts of cotton, we must be able to manufacture some of it," Cordova told Texas business men of that early day. With their cooperation he founded the first cotton textile mill. He also founded the city of Waco and gave the sites for early churches, schools and enterprises, as well as a city park there.

His plans for harnessing the Brazos were cut short by his death in 1868. His wife survived until 1882. Regardless of dangers and hardships, she had accompanied him on many of his surveying trips.

His books on early Texas still are used as references.

Art of Pig-Sticking Is Much Discussed

TYLER.—Pig-sticking time has arrived, and the art of hog-killing has turned out to be no easy matter, particularly since bacon is now dearer than turkey.

Take a few pointers from Elbert Gentry, a hog-killer from away back. Gentry is a county farm agent and qualifies as an expert.

"The best method," Gentry claims, "is to kill the hog by sticking, rather than by shooting or knocking the beast in the head."

That was a score for the stickers, against the hog-shooters and knockers-in-the-headers.

"When a hog is shot or hit in the head with an ax," he explains, "the animal becomes excited and over-heated. That prevents a thorough bleeding. Hence the meat has a tendency to sour."

Furthermore—and he scored another point for the confirmed pigstickers—shooting or killing a hog with an ax and dragging the carcass across the ground bruises the meat and that starts the souring process even sooner.

Of course, even the hog-shooters and knockers-in-the-headers will agree that a hog, for killing, should weigh from 200 to 250 pounds and the flesh for future bacon, hams and side-ribs should be hardened by grain feeding, although the hog should not be fed for 24 hours before slaughtering.

For home-curing, Gentry advises prepared salt cures as the best.

Airline Claims a Record For Flights

PORTLAND, Ore.—United Airlines claimed two world's records when it completed 99.1 per cent of 1,500,000 miles of scheduled flying on its routes during one month.

This was the highest percentage of completed schedules of an airline flying more than a million miles a month and the first time an airline had averaged 50,000 miles a day.

Enough Lipstick for Four Barns!

You'd never suspect, just watching Dorothy Lee going through her lipstick ritual, that she covers 9.68 square feet of lips in a year and that she and the other 2874 co-eds at the University of Wisconsin use enough lipstick annually to paint our good-sized barns. But that's what the test shows. The chart below shows that the average lip area is .83 square inch. With the painting process repeated 32 times a week, the annual territory coverage reaches the 9.68 average for each co-ed.

Health Officer Urges Safety For Christmas Season
 AUSTIN, Tex.—Christmas, the season of joy and happiness, will soon be with us and Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, urges every one to do their utmost to prevent accidents in order that the season of merriment be not changed to one of sorrow or suffering.
 The speed mania and reckless driving, and all that they imply, in the line of self control, disregard for laws and for the rights and lives of others, are responsible for a large part of the tragic deaths and unnecessary suffering. In the face of the hazards involved, absent-mindedness on the part of the driver or pedestrian, also be-

This season of the year brings with it an increase in the motor vehicle traffic. Thousands of persons, enjoying a vacation, are on the highways at this time. Like public health, and a great many other things, traffic safety depends upon effective partnership. Whether you are at the wheel or on the highway or street, your safety and that of the other fellow, depend upon both of you.
 The speed mania and reckless driving, and all that they imply, in the line of self control, disregard for laws and for the rights and lives of others, are responsible for a large part of the tragic deaths and unnecessary suffering. In the face of the hazards involved, absent-mindedness on the part of the driver or pedestrian, also be-

Distribution Is Puzzle Facing Producers

"We must move," says Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, "toward a soundly based and widely distributed economic well-being. This is the 'theory of plenty,' as distinguished from the 'theory of scarcity' which has dominated our recent economic thinking policies."

The assembled manufacturers to whom Mr. Sloan made this speech applauded heartily, and it is hard to see how they could have done anything else. Coming out for economic well-being is something like coming out for home, mother, and the American flag; that is, you'd have to hunt a long way to find someone who didn't want it.

But the means of getting it aren't quite so simple. If American industry is really going to take Mr. Sloan's advice and proceed on the theory of plenty, this is the biggest news that has broken in this country since Paul Revere got off his horse. For this theory is one that we have never yet followed.

Our industrialists, by and large, are about the most completely able set of men at their respective jobs that the business world has ever seen. The science of taking raw materials and transforming them into things that people can wear or eat or use in other ways has been brought, under their guidance, to something very like perfection.

Why, then, do we have occasional periods in which a great many people do not have enough to eat or enough to wear or enough things like autos and refrigerators and bridge lamps? It isn't because our industry cannot make enough of these things. It can flood us with them, and the men who run it would like nothing better than the chance to do so.

The trouble rather would seem to be that we don't yet know how to take advantage of our industrial brilliance.
Until comparatively recently, it was humanly impossible for the race to produce enough things to go around; and the way in which we distribute and consume the things we make still seems to be affected by that out-of-date concept.

No sensible American can want to see his country follow policies under which production is restricted. We all want more of everything—more food, more houses, more clothing, more this, that and the other thing.

But saying that we want this doesn't necessarily mean that we're going to get it—for these things have to be paid for in hard cash, and the men who produce them have to produce them at a profit.

That is what makes Mr. Sloan's declaration so important.
He bids industry follow the theory of abundance and produce bountifully. Industry has solved the problem of production; now, it would seem, he summons it so solve the problem of distribution.

That problem can be solved; American industrialists have the brain and energy to do it. If they succeed, a bright new day will dawn for all Americans.

"WITH ALL MY LOVE" - - - By Mary Raymond FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop) By Cowen

HEAVEN BENEATH
 Every one at work that day...
 Dana emerged from the long talk with her grandmother white and shaken, but still firm in her resolution. "The first year," she said, repeating the old phrase slowly, "is the hardest. Grandmother, Scott has all kinds of obligations. Next year we'll be able to have more and play more."
 "Fiddsticks! If he has so many obligations, he shouldn't have married. He had no business dumping you in a kitchen and expecting you to wear old clothes."
 "He didn't dump me in a kitchen," Dana's face was flushed now. "He insisted on having a cook but I wouldn't have one. And he bothers as much as you do about my clothes."
 "You're a mighty big goose if you don't get some new ones," Mrs. Cameron said. "If there's any class of women in the world who have competition, it's doctors' wives. If Paula Long were married to Scott, you wouldn't see her parading so many conscientious scruples."
 "Paula has her own money," Dana said. Then because her grandmother had made her very angry she retorted, "I can't imagine Paula married to Scott under any circumstances."
 "You can't? Well, he ran around with her a mighty long while," "That's why" Dana flashed back. "He went with her a mighty long while. If he had been in the least in love with her, he'd have married her."
 "But the grass in the other pasture always looks greener," Mrs. Cameron said shortly. "I'm not easily frightened," Dana said, adding, "and I trust Scott fully. There isn't any room in my heart for suspicion."
 Mrs. Cameron said, in an injured tone, "I wasn't trying to make you suspicious, Dana. I was trying to persuade you to buy something new. I say again the man isn't made who doesn't admire a well-dressed woman. And no man is proud of a dowdy woman, even though she's the best wife in the world."
 When the door had closed Dana wiped tears from her eyes. Why were people always prating about dowdiness and shabbiness? She wouldn't believe the man isn't made who doesn't admire a well-dressed woman. And no man is proud of a dowdy woman, even though she's the best wife in the world.
 Scott and Mrs. Cameron almost bumped into each other on the stairs. Mrs. Cameron had come charging along with her head bent as one of her towering rages. She spoke curtly.
 At the stair landing she stopped and flung upward at him her eyes cold and unforgiving. "Dana seems to think being married is some excuse for being a martyr. I wish you'd talk some sense into her."
 Scott fitted his key into the lock soberly.
 So the old lady thought he was taking all the shine and sparkle out of life for Dana. Well, maybe she was right at that.

Sub-Deb Progressive Dinner

The High School Sub-Deb Club was entertained last night with a progressive dinner at the homes of several members. The girls gathered at the home of Lucille and Daisy Woods for the first course, fruit cocktail, at 7 o'clock. Next a Waldorf salad was served at the residence of Doris May. From there the club progressed to the home of Catherine Jane Conley, where the main course, Italian spaghetti and hot rolls, was served. Following the last course, at the home of Camilla Hunt, gifts were exchanged between members and presented to the club sponsor, Mrs. Neill.

Members present were: Catherine Jane Conley, Bernice Reuser, Marjorie Phillips, Mattie Beryl Montgomery, Maxine Dutton, Jennie Lee Rice, Vivian Champion, Rita Mooney, Cecelia McDowell, Sammy Ruth Matthews, Doris May, Betty Jean McMillen, Mavis Murray, Nancy Martin, Daisy Woods, Lucille Woods, Bobbie Lee Toller, Mildred Fern Mitchell, and sponsor, Mrs. Neill.

Rescues after the manner of shipwrecks at sea gave a spectacular touch to the freak flood which took toll of more than a million dollars and at least five lives in Houston, Texas, when Buffalo bayou surged over low-lying sections of the downtown area. Here, in the circle, is shown a stranded storekeeper riding a breeches buoy to safety, while several other inarmored residents wait their turn for a lift. Note the height to which the water had risen in the street. Several large buildings were undermined by the flood waters, and one collapsed.

Pigs Once Saved Texas Republic

RUSK, Tex.—While lacking the fame of Rome's cackling geese, records show it is quite possible that humble Texas pigs once saved the Republic of Texas. The evidence in the case follows.

With $6,000,000 in debt, its legislation of necessity based on a "depreciated and depreciating credit," the struggling Texas Republic sought relief in a French lion. Paris bankers, with what was understood to be government sanction, contracted with Loan Commissioner James Hamilton for the advancement of 37 million francs. In the midst of rejoicing, the loan was blocked by withdrawal of the French government's support. Looking for the news behind the news, one finds pigs. Tavernkeeper Bullock's pigs.

M. De Saligny was the French Charge D' Affairs at Austin while the above negotiations were under way. The Bullock pigs coveted the corn which M. De Saligny's horses let drop to the ground of their stable. Angry at their pilfering, the stablekeeper killed the pigs. Their owner chastised the slayer. M. De Saligny haughtily demanded redress for this "scandalous violation of the Laws of Nations." His long and heated correspondence with the Secretary of State ended with Saligny calling for his passport.

Again the story switches to France. M. De Saligny had a brother-in-law, M. Humann, Minister of Finance. Through M. Humann's influence, he "struck back." The French government refused support; the pending loan was defeated, defeated by the Bullock pigs.

The creation of a national bank for the Republic of Texas already had ardent advocates. The French loan doubtless would have brought a speedy charter. But such a central bank, according to an opposing school of economics, would have been disastrous, increasing the public debt possibly threefold. The Bullock pigs, like Rome's cackling geese, saved the Republic.

The AAA benefit payment era ushers in a new version; the pen is mightier than the plowshare.

Incorporation of Safety Council In Valley Is Urged

MERCEDES, Tex.—Members of the board of directors of the Rio Grande Valley Safety Council have decided to incorporate the organization and to start its safety program throughout the Valley at the earliest possible moment.

McAllen was selected as home city of the corporation and incorporators will be E. W. Sawyer, McAllen, president; C. H. Britton, McAllen, secretary; and A. A. Aldrich, Edinburg.

Articles of incorporation will be prepared by Aldrich and will, along with a model resolution, be presented at the next meeting of the council in Mercedes the night of November 19.

Directors were asked to seek resolutions from all civic organizations in each Valley city endorsing the safety movement and requesting L. G. Phares, director of the Texas Public Safety Commission, to station more state highway patrolmen in the Valley to handle traffic matters.

Arrangements have been made for a series of highway safety talks over KRGV, Weslaco, and for public speakers in a number of Valley schools.

J. L. Bates of San Benito has been named safety director from that city and was formally installed as a member of the board Tuesday night.

Each director present accepted a quota of $200 to be raised in his city to provide the corporation with an operating fund.
