A. & L. ENTERS AUTO STRIKE CONTROVERSY

By United Press
DETROIT, Feb. 8.—William Green, American Federation of Labor president, telegraphed from Washington today urging Governor Frank Murphy, mediator in the General Motors strike, not to accede to demands for recognition of the United Automobile Workers as exclusive bargaining agent. Green asked protection of federation craftsmen involved in the strike. The demands have been made by John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, a group of unions suspended by the A. F. of L. Observers believed Lewis will be strengthened in his fight with the A. F. of L. over industrial vs. craft unionism, if he wins the General Motors strike on the issue of sole recognition. Both sides were still at the conference opened today with little indication of immediate settlement. The atmosphere was pessimistic. There was a possibility, if not of actual termination of the conference seeking to end the strike keeping 100,000 automobile workers from their jobs, of an indefinite suspension.

RESIGNATION OF JUSTICES IS RUMORED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Speculation on the possible resignation of some members of the supreme court received impetus today when the tribunal failed to act on controversial cases on its docket. The feeling was strong in the courtroom as the high tribunal made its first public appearance since President Roosevelt announced his plan for reorganization of the court. The impression was strengthened by a strange circumstance. The court order was delayed 45 minutes. This list, announcing the cases the court will hear arguments upon and which they will not consider, usually is handed out after the day's formal opinions are read. When they were distributed today they carried only decisions on a few small cases. WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—President Roosevelt was said today to want quick congressional approval of his judicial reform program, so that new NRA type labor legislation and substitute AAA legislation can be enacted. Intimate white house sources explained Mr. Roosevelt felt it was futile for Congress to attempt substitute legislation in the NRA and AAA until the judicial reform measure has been passed. Opponents of the program maneuvered to split the administration force and force a vote in the senate on the plan. Veteran legislators believed administration strength would gain quick house approval, but that a long battle was certain in the senate with present signs favoring a new deal victory. AUSTIN, Feb. 8.—President Roosevelt's proposed increase in the supreme court was denounced in a resolution placed before the all-democratic Texas Senate today by agreement a vote was deferred until tomorrow. A majority who spoke opposed the proposal.

Army engineers said they believed they had won their fight with the flood.

Rebels Capture Seaport of Malaga

By United Press
GIBRALTAR, Feb. 8.—The rebels have captured Malaga, Spain's second largest seaport, giving them virtual control of the southern coast of Spain, insurgent sources reported today. A broadcast from Malaga said the first insurgent columns entering the city were composed of the foreign legion and troops from Morocco, who captured hundreds of prisoners. The defenders were described as fleeing in panic. The loss of Malaga is a severe blow to the government, because it gives Gen. Franco a naval base from which he can bother Alicante and Valencia, the latter the temporary capital.

Ask Exoneration in Film Shooting

She denied persistent rumors that one of her nightgowns had been found in his rooms. WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The supreme court today ordered oral arguments on the plea of the State of Texas to be allowed to file a suit to determine which of four states may impose inheritance taxes on the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green, son of the famous Hettie Green. Texas' interest in the Green estate, on the basis of present tax laws, has been estimated between $10,000,000 and $14,000,000. The bill of complaint asserted Fla., Mass., and N. Y., also claimed to be Green's residence.

Boom Time's Best Time to Fight 'Next' Slump

A burnt child fears the fires, according to the wisdom of the ancients, and it looks very much as if the American people have not in any way forgotten the scorching they took when the 1939 boom went up in smoke.

For an odd phenomenon is observable these days. The business indices show us to be approaching a new boom—and people everywhere are looking away beyond it and seeing another slump coming. They are approaching this new boom cautiously, keeping their fingers crossed.

Going up is pleasant, and the view from the top is elegant, but when you slide down on the other side, the bump is something awful, and the people have not forgotten what happened the last time.

This must be the first time in our history that we have approached a boom with anything but unbounded hope in our hearts, and the sign is a good one. A good part of the history of the next generation will be written by the way in which we handle this coming boom.

If we treat it merely as something to be exploited, as a high, wide, and handsome period in which anything goes so long as it makes money, the dark story of the recent depression will begin all over again in a few years, and the things that happen in it will be apt to produce some disastrous consequences.

If, on the other hand, we can work out a way of making the boom truly productive—if we can remember that the problem of the last few years need solution just as badly when the stock market is going up as when it is coming down, and act accordingly, we can help to insure the happiness of American for many years to come.

A depression is supposed to be a good time to make reforms, because during a depression the people are willing to experiment, whereas they tend to be opposed to change in time of prosperity.

But a depression creates an atmosphere of fear. It brings extremists and crackpots to the top, and they get a following they cannot command at any other time. Their excesses, in turn, make conservative folk feel that any concession to change is likely to lead to disaster.

It is different when times are good. The pressure to do something, anything at all so long as it is different, is not there. Men of opposing beliefs can meet calmly and discuss what needs to be done. There is time to take the long view.

For that reason, the coming boom is our opportunity. While we are enjoying prosperity, we can look ahead to the next slump and take steps to make our country as nearly slump-proof as a land may be in this uncertain world.

If we go into the boom with that determination constantly in mind, we need not be afraid of that long slide down the other side of the mountain.

A Kansas farmer has just had removed from his ear a bug that had been there for 49 years. And, incidentally, Dr. Townsend has been quiet recently.

The inventor of matches was honored by a recent biography. Think of it, if it weren't for him, we might never know what to balance atop a bottle.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt's ambitious program for government reorganization is likely to go the way of all previous such programs unless he begins to apply plenty of heat at an early date.

That is to say, there's a growing danger that there will be no reorganization at all. Hardly anyone on Capitol Hill admits being completely satisfied with the president's plan, and past experience has been that when every member could find some particular item objectionable, any proposed plan would be torn to pieces until nothing could be accomplished.

ADVISERS to Roosevelt are suggesting to him that one prompt application of the full power of his personal prestige can assure any reorganization action.

James Roosevelt, the president's son and new secretary-assistant, is understood to have taken the reorganization project under his wing—rather than Undersecretary of Interior Charlie West, usually the No. 1 White House liaison man with Capitol Hill. James is inexperienced.

Among members whom Roosevelt usually can count on to support progressive legislation, there's an especial concurrence of objection to the proposal to bring the independent regulatory commissions under departmental roofs.

What the president had most in mind when that proposal was formulated, his advisers whisper, was the necessity of getting the Federal Trade and Interstate Commerce commissions under executive control to the point where they could be "cleaned out."
