MAN IS CHARGED IN RANGER SHOOTING AFTER INVESTIGATION IS HELD

George Gaugler, member of a camp at Brownwood, who was wounded and Wanda Harris, of Ranger, was shot early Sunday morning following shooting of Gaugler at Eastland Hill home of the Chief of Police Jim Ingham. District Attorney Harris, Jr., investigate the shooting Monday morning that was assault with intent to kill. Harris filed a charge against the woman. Harris reported to officers, and fled to Brownwood. He was returned to Ranger by his CCC captain for questioning. Gaugler is reported to have stated to officers that he believed the shooting was accidental. The woman is reported to have secured the pistol after stating that someone had been annoying her at night by throwing rocks at her house. A neighbor reported to Officers Bill Angus and Johnny Boyd of Ranger and they investigated the shooting and took Gaugler to a Ranger hospital. The woman was arrested and placed in the Ranger jail, pending investigation of the case, and was later turned over to county officers. Before enrolling in the Brownwood CCC camp Gaugler at one time was a waiter in Ranger cafes.

Four-Year-Old Tells of Killing Girl Companion

WINDSOR, Vt., March 8.—Sheriff Ernest Schoenfeld's marble shooting skill was credited today with coaxing a confession from a five-year-old suspect in the murder of four-year-old Beverly Ann Page. The sheriff first won the boy's confidence by playing marbles with him. As the game progressed they talked about Beverly Ann. The lad told how he held the girl's head under the shallow water of Mill Brook Friday, while a nine-year-old companion jumped on her chest. Names of both boys were withheld. The boys were inclined to believe the boy's story, although his companion steadfastly denied knowledge of the crime.

HOUSE VOTES TO REMIT TAX TO COUNTIES

AUSTIN, Mar. 8.—Five year remission of ad valorem taxes to all counties again received a favorable vote in the Texas House of Representatives today, but its supporters failed to muster enough strength for immediate final passage. The bill, which would take $8,500,000 from the state treasury and return it to counties was engrossed 68 to 54. Earlier this session the bill was engrossed 83 to 49 and then was sent to a committee. In contrast with earlier consideration, today's vote was taken without a "sales tax" cry raised against it. A senate committee reporting today on investigation of school affairs, divided on whether the state school superintendent should be elected or appointed, had one dissenting vote on the proposed creation of a board to handle school lands and unanimously recommended the state board of education be given administration of rural school aid and aid for vocational training. Circumstantial evidence of manipulation of student transfers, resulting in more teachers being employed, was reported.

Bond Is Executed In Driving Charge

Sprague Sprawls, indicted recently by a district court grand jury on a charge of driving while intoxicated, has made $750 bond, the sheriff's office reported Monday.

Four Americans Killed In Mexico

MONTERREY, Mexico, March 8.—Four Americans and two Mexicans were killed last night in an automobile-truck collision on the Laredo Highway, 40 miles north of Monterrey. The dead were John Russell, 42, Weldon Osborne, 26, both engineers for the Sun Oil Company at McAllen, Texas; Katherine Gillespie, 30, of McAllen and Miss Madge Colburn, 32, Pharr, Texas, and the two Mexican men. Eight others were injured when the automobile of the Americans, returning to McAllen after a week-end visit to Monterrey, crashed into the rear of the Mexican's truck, which survivors said was without lights.

THEATRE GIRLS WIN IN FIRST STRIKE THREAT

HOUSTON, March 8.—Pretty girl employees of four Horwitz Theatres called a brief sit-down strike here today, heard joking pleas of the owner not to "wreck or blow up" his show houses, and then returned to work under a truce. Fifty ushettes and other women employees, insisting "we mean business" demanded Saturdays off. Only Saturday would do, although it was the busiest day. Will Horwitz, owner and his general manager, Jack Grant, admitted they were taken "entirely by surprise" and immediately began conferences which ended in the truce. Miss Jane Sleight, pretty head usher, spoke for the sit downers while patrons crowded at the ticket booth. "Give us Saturday or nothing," she told Grant. "We've got coats, food, extra clothing and everything needed to 'sit'."

Clubs Dispensing Beer In Dry Area Will Face Probes

ABILENE, Mar. 8.—Texas' liquor control board will henceforth seek to close what John Coates, district supervisor stationed here, termed "dispensers of beer to the public, operating under the name 'clubs'."

Prosecutor Gets Threatening Note While in Hospital

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 8.—A letter threatening harm to District Attorney Buren Fitts was delivered to his office today while the prosecutor lay in a hospital with a bullet wound in his arm, suffered in an assassination attempt last night. The bullet was fired from an automobile containing three or four men and crashed through a windshield into his arm. It was the first time in several years that he had been out without his bodyguard since receiving continuous threats after obtaining indictments against 345 sit-down strikers at the Douglas Aircraft plant at Santa Monica. Authorities believed either strike sympathizers or vengeful criminals whom Fitts had prosecuted, were involved.

Pecan Raisers Are Warned Against Transient 'Experts'

Pecan raisers of Eastland county are being warned not to allow strangers to bud, graft, spray and prune their trees as very often such "tree specialists" are only interested in the pay they receive for their work, and either can or do not do satisfactory work. In addition to taking money for such work, such men can damage valuable trees. Last year the county agent personally inspected some work done by a man who represented himself as being a pecan budding expert. The work done was not only worthless but the trees were badly damaged and one year's growth was lost. Tree specialists who are reliable can easily establish that fact by giving references from persons who have had a job completed satisfactorily. It takes at least three years to do a complete job of top-working a pecan tree. The average person can not give a tree the proper after-care after it is budded, and pecan growers should insist on a finished-job-contract with final payments due when the job is complete.

4-H Clubs Will Attend Stock Show

One hundred and fifty Eastland county 4-H club boys and girls are planning to attend a special day Monday, Mar. 15, at the Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show in Fort Worth. Extension agents said Saturday special inducements are being made by officials to attract attendance. Tours are planned of industrial plants and other places on the special day. Club members from Morton Valley and Alameda will travel to the show in school buses. Others will go in private automobiles. Home Demonstration Agent Ruth Ramey, her assistant, Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart, and Assistant County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart will accompany the members.

Woman Sentenced On Forgery Count

MARLIN, Mar. 8.—Mrs. Billie Bell, who admitted various forgeries, with which Mrs. Nellie Harvey of Wichita Falls had been charged in a strange "mistaken identity" mixup, pleaded guilty today to two forgery charges here. She was sentenced to two years imprisonment in each case, the terms to run concurrently. Mrs. Bell will be taken to Hillsboro in a few days to be tried there on forgery charges.

Dr. R. G. Miller

Dr. R. G. Miller, left a dentist, married and father of two children, has confessed, police say, that pretty Cleo Sprouse, 18, right, died during an attempted illegal operation and that he placed her body in the Charlottesville, Va., cemetery where it was found. The girl was an honor student in the Charlottesville high school. The operation was attempted, Miller said, in an auto. He was arrested.

FIVE INJURED IN EASTLAND AUTO MISHAP

Two of five persons injured Saturday night in an automobile collision at Eastland were in the Payne Hospital Monday morning. Miss Clea Brown of Hobbs, N. M., who had been visiting an aunt in Ranger, Mrs. R. T. Harrod, suffered an ankle dislocation and cuts. Miss Brown received a head injury. John Kemp of Gordon, who had accompanied Miss Brown and Mrs. Harrod to Eastland where the former was to leave Saturday night on a bus for New Mexico, received a head injury and face cut. He was taken to Ranger. In the other automobile were Cole Garrett of Eastland and Allen Mathis of Eastland Rt. 2. Garrett's shoulder was bruised and Mathis' right leg was lacerated. The crash occurred in front of the Eastland County Lumber company on West Main street, Eastland.

725 Farmers at The 1937 Farm Program Meeting

Seven hundred twenty-five Eastland county farmers have heard the Agricultural Conservation program for 1937 explained in detail. The meetings were held at twelve different community centers of Eastland county. The program, as it would affect an average Eastland county farmer, was explained and illustrated by the following: Elmo V. Cook, agricultural agent; Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant agricultural agent; Layman N. Miller, agricultural conservation assistant, and members of the 1936 county committee, composed of Dick Weekes, chairman; R. R. Bradshaw and R. F. Cox. It was pointed out in the meetings that the payments made come under two classes: Class 1 payment, for diversion of cash crops, as follows: Cotton—Not to exceed 35 per cent of base. Peanuts—Not to exceed 15 per cent of base, and general field crops not to exceed 15 per cent of base. Class 2 payment is for soil-building practices carried out during 1937, on the farm. Meetings were held at the following community centers: Pioneer—Attendance 75. Meeting conducted by county agent, assisted by Hugh F. Barnhart and R. R. Bradshaw. Scranton—Attendance 30. Meeting conducted by Elmo V. Cook and R. R. Bradshaw. Cisco—Attendance 75. Meeting conducted by Elmo V. Cook, assisted by Hugh Barnhart and R. R. Bradshaw. Okra—Attendance 30. Meeting conducted by Hugh F. Barnhart and Dick Weekes. Ranger—Attendance 20. Meeting conducted by Hugh F. Barnhart and Dick Weekes. Desdemona—Attendance 30. Meeting conducted by Elmo V. Cook and Nayman N. Miller. Alameda—Fifteen farmers attended, but meeting was postponed, due to rain. Eastland—Attendance 50. Meeting conducted by Elmo V. Cook and Layman N. Miller. Farmers who attended these meetings showed much interest in the 1937 program. Many of them said they saw no reason why the majority of Eastland county farmers should not comply and profit for years to come, both financially and materially. The program has been broadened so much this year that any farmer who has bases established on his farm may comply with the new program.

Ship Reports It Is Being Fired Upon By a Battleship

LONDON, March 8.—Usually reliable sources reported today that an Elder Dempster liner had gone down in flames into the Bay of Biscay and it was feared several hundred passengers had been lost. It was learned four British destroyers were rushing to the steamer's assistance. GENOA, Italy, Mar. 8.—Two persons were killed and 64 injured on the liner Rex, fastest and largest of the Italian merchant marine, during a storm, it was confirmed today. A rigid censorship hid details, but independent sources said one of the persons killed was a passenger, an Italian. The other was an elevator boy.

YOUTH ROBS T. E. S. OFFICE IN FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, Mar. 8.—While more than a score of unsuspecting customers watched today, a calm, well-dressed young man, took $350 from the cashier of Texas Electric Service Company under a threat to blast the lobby with nitro-glycerin. Police searched for a taxicab overduel at its hotel station on the theory the robber might have used it to escape. The robbery was accomplished so quietly persons in line in front of the cashier's window, did not know a robbery was in progress. The young man, wearing dark glasses, waited in front of the cashier's window, Mrs. Lillie Campbell. The man shoved a typewritten note in the window, then exhibited a small bottle. The note read: "I have nitro-glycerin in this bottle. I don't care if I die or not. All I want is money and I want it quick." Mrs. Campbell read the note and started dealing out currency.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Lecture In Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH, March 8.—Unperturbed by an attempt to kidnap a Fort Worth oil man who lives near her son's country home, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt continued with plans for a lecture engagement here. The president's wife spent last night at the country estate of her son, Elliott, which is only a few miles from the country home of Walter Donnelly, Fort Worth oil man who foiled a kidnaping attempt Saturday night. Elliott Roosevelt said no guard was at his estate and jokingly admitted his mother did not carry her pistol.

H. G. JENNINGS, HEAD COACH AT STRAWN, NEW ASSISTANT AT RANGER

Jennings also has quite a reputation as a teacher, his typewriting pupils having won consistently over Mineral Wells in the county interscholastic meets. He is a graduate of Texas Technological college at Lubbock. The selection of Jennings was made after several prospective backfield coaches had been contacted in an effort to secure the best possible man for the backfield coaching position. In addition to coaching, Jennings will teach commercial work in the business administration department of the Ranger high school. He expects to assume his new duties next week, if possible, and said, after his election, that he would report for duty as soon as he could secure his release from the Strawn school board. Jennings has established quite a reputation as a coach at Strawn producing outstanding teams in his district each year since he has been at Strawn. Last year his team, which was much smaller than the Ranger Bulldog team, administered a 13 to 6 victory over the Bulldogs.

Let's Think Through Matter of 'Rights'!

No time is so hard to live in as one in which people change their ideas without realizing that they are doing it. And one of the things that make life so perplexing today is the fact that we have unconsciously moved toward a new viewpoint on a lot of important matters.

There is, for instance, the matter of the strike; of such a thing as the General Motors sitdown strike, to be specific.

There can be no shadow of a doubt that the sitdown at Flint, Mich., was illegal. The sitdowners simply took possession of property not theirs and refused to give it up until their demands were met. There is nothing in our law to give the slightest countenance to such a course.

And yet it is perfectly obvious that the sitdowners did not look on themselves as lawbreakers. And the Michigan authorities did not move to throw them out as lawbreakers, even though they had a court order to do so.

Why? Is it because our whole attitude toward jobs and property rights has undergone a subtle change—a change of which we were hardly conscious until the trouble at Flint forced it on our attention?

We are beginning, in other words, to feel that this whole business of "rights" is a great deal more complex than we used to suppose.

A sample of our changed attitude can be found in the much-discussed "bootleg coal mines" of Pennsylvania. Jobless miners have gone into closed pits, taken out coal, and sold it, in order to keep alive. The whole business is technically as illegal as the stealing of money from a bank. Yet the governor of Pennsylvania has refused to use state troops to stop it, and public sentiment in general has supported him.

Again, why? Is it because people have felt that justice, somehow, was on the side of the miners? Their right to work at the only jobs they knew has somehow looked superior to the mine-owners' right to close their mines, even though there is nothing in our law to countenance it.

Now all this does not mean that the Flint sitdowners had complete and unqualified justice on their side. It does mean that we cannot hope to understand this new factor in labor relations unless we realize that this slow change in attitude has been taking place.

Our job right now is to think the thing through, to ascertain just where job-right and property-right cut across each other, and to decide precisely how far our attitude toward the working man's relation to his job needs to be altered to fit changing times.

With some people praying they won't get flu, and others suffering from it, this seems a season of prayer and medication.

Institutions thus protecting the savings of their members grew in 12 months to 1,632 from 1,169. The insured assets increased to $1,217,760,429 from $706,033,234.

Of the individual accounts insured, 71,762 were in 1,215 Federal savings and loan associations with assets of $717,98,484. The individual accounts numbered 522,789 in 992 Federal associations with assets of $428,246,202 a year ago.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—The United States Senate, which will decide the fate of President Roosevelt's request for permission to liberalize the supreme court, is composed 75 per cent of lawyers. Seventy-two of its 96 members have practiced law as an occupation and many of them still do. The other 24 are, or were, bankers, business men, school teachers, a physician, a dentist and so on. The last time a poll was taken, the Senate was almost evenly divided in three sections—those committed to the president's plan, those committed against it and those who refused to commit themselves publicly. Polls of the Senate differ, because it isn't always possible to tell which of the three camps a senator is in. And there is a departure from the non-committal group almost daily.

FOR purposes of an analytical breakdown of the groups and the Senate as a whole, however, a recent fairly reliable poll may be accepted. It showed 32 senators registered for the plan, 31 against and 33 not committed. The pro-Roosevelt group consisted of 31 Democrats and one Progressive. The anti-Roosevelt group included 16 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

The noncommittal group was made up of 29 Democrats, two Farmer-Laborites, one Republican and one Independent. (The third group includes several who prefer a constitutional amendment to Roosevelt's expedient, but who are likely to vote for "packing" the court in the end.)

It now appears probable that more of the Senate's non-lawyers will vote against the administration bill than will vote for it. Eleven non-lawyers have declared themselves opposed, and only five in favor, with seven still undecided. That leaves 26 lawyers for it, 20 against and 26 non-lawyers.

THE average ages of the three groups has been figured also. The average age of the pro-Roosevelt group is slightly less than 54 years. The anti-Roosevelt group averages just about 52 years. The undecided contingent averages about 55.7. Of the 19 senators who are 50 or more, only one has declared for the Roosevelt plan. Six have declared against it and voted in three are undecided. The one assured "pro" vote in the 10 list of McAdoo, of California. The six opposed are Glass of Virginia, King of Utah, Smith of South Carolina, Borah of Idaho, Capper of Kansas and Johnson of California. The three undecided are Hays of Delaware, Lewis of Illinois and Norris of Nebraska.

Among senators of 60 years or more, 13 have declared for the Roosevelt plan, 15 say they oppose it and 12 are undecided.

LOOKING at the light from a graphical standpoint, you get the heaviest concentration of strength against Roosevelt among senators from the northeastern states. Southern states are given him his chief support. The breakdown goes like this: Northeast: 3 for, 11 against, undecided. Lake states: 4 for, against, 6 undecided. Border states: 5 for, 2 against, 5 undecided. South: 8 for, 5 undecided. Pacific Coast: 3 against, Mountain states: 3 for, 3 against, 3 undecided. Far states: 2 for, 4 against, 4 undecided. Southwest: 3 for, against, 4 undecided.

Q. What became of Jean LaFitte?

A. When he established himself on Galveston Island, he had orders not to interfere with American cargoes, but his men and vessels grew so troublesome that a United States brig was sent, in 1821, to notify him to leave the island. When he found the order was imperative, he paid off his men, and with 100 men sailed out of the harbor on his favorite ship, the Pride. He died at Silan, near Merida, Yucatan, in 1826.

Q. Who brought in the discovery of oil well at Ranger and at whose instance?

STORIES involving two of the more illustrious names in football rock Pennsylvania. Dr. John Bain Sutherland, Mr. Panther himself and one of the game's great coaches, threatens to resign at the University of Pittsburgh in a quarrel with his athletic director, W. Don Harrison.

Unless there is a sharp change of mind, Ernie Nevers will quit Lafayette College to coach the Cleveland Rams, recently admitted to the National League of Professional Football Clubs.

In Jock Sutherland's case, it's a question of being too good. In the instance of Nevers, it's a question of being too bad.

Moreover, Pittsburgh's outlook for the next two autumns is positively illuminating. According to Sutherland, he has been too efficient to suit Harrison, whom he asserts complained about Pittsburgh winning too consistently.

Sutherland and Harrison never have hit it off well. Sutherland objected to his chief's schedules and they clashed repeatedly on other policies.

The breach came following this year's Rose Bowl engagement, when Sutherland did not consider that his players were treated fairly. It was when Sutherland spoke to Harrison about what he believed was shoddy acknowledgment of a glorious achievement that the athletic director said to him: "I made you as a football coach and I'll break you."

Sutherland criticizes Harrison for traveling and entertaining like an imperial potentate while Pitt scouts move about the country in a style somewhat less than first class.

While few suspected it, it is doubtful if any institution in major football has had a less expensive coaching staff than Pittsburgh.

Sutherland attributes the loss of his backfield coach, Dr. Eddie Baker, to Harrison's tight-fistedness.

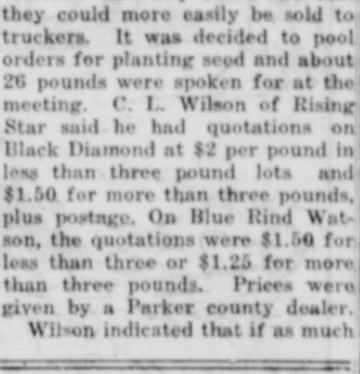

The doctor lost four of his five aides at the conclusion of the last campaign. Baker accompanied the line coach, Bill Kern, across the street to Carnegie Tech.

Nevers scarcely found Welcome engraved on the mat at Easton, where his three-year contract, binding Lafayette but not him, still has two years to run.

A powerful faction seemed to resent the importation of Stanford's all-America fullback who got exactly nowhere with poor material and a hard schedule which included Pennsylvania, Colgate, and New York University.

Ernie Nevers would be happier back with the pros and Dr. Jock Sutherland wouldn't be out of a job very long.

Expansion of the carbon black industry in the Lone Star state, aided by technical improvements in packing and handling, and making of specialized types of black for specific uses, is expected to continue augmenting the state's growing industrial payroll.

There's Texas Gas In Auto Tires to Make 'Em Wear

BORGER, Texas—America's millions of automobiles roll on tires filled with just plain air—but there are billions of cubic feet of Texas natural gas in those tires, too!

Preposterous? Not at all. Of course, you don't put it in with a hose. But it's built into the tires in the form of carbon black, a little-known but vital industrial commodity made almost exclusively from natural gas—and more than 81 per cent of the United States output is accounted for by Texas plants, says a report of the All-South Development Council.

Carbon black, the only article "manufactured" from natural gas as a raw material—unless one considers gas heat and light as manufactured articles—was Texas' fourth-ranking natural resource in value in 1936, its $11,000,000 valuation topped only by oil, natural gas-natural gasoline, and sulfur.

as 50 pounds could be placed in a Rising Star, a still better price could be secured. A committee has been appointed by Cecil Shultz, president of the chamber of commerce, to visit the farm February 20 to inquire about getting seed at reduced rates.

Salmon Detour at Bonneville Dam

To protect the salmon industry, which yields $3,500,000 and supports 25,000 persons annually, this concrete "ladder" has been built to route the salmon around Bonneville dam on the Columbia River.

Protests that the 72-foot dam would prevent the fish from moving upstream to spawn produced the idea. Although salmon have been known to clear 20-foot barriers, engineers are not certain the salmon will use this ladder, which requires jumps of less than a foot.

BEGIN HERE TODAY DAPHNE BRETT, charming young New York advertising executive, rents her deceased father's Connecticut estate to LARRY SMITH, attractive young bachelor architect, and promptly likes him tremendously. Daphne has one sister, JENNIFER, six years younger, just out of college and as her first job. Jennifer resents Daphne's attempts at guidance and proceeds to date whom she pleases, including TUCKER AINSLEY, wealthy playboy. Next Jennifer buds that Larry is not married and she makes a play for his attentions. This develops a struggle between the sisters for the same man. One night Larry dates Daphne. At the same time Daphne refuses Jennifer permission to date Tucker. Daphne spends a thrilling evening with the man she likes, but she didn't let Daphne date Tucker just once more. Then, in the early hours of the next morning, she returns to her apartment to find Jennifer is gone. Daphne has been openly defied. She lies awake over the problem. She sleeps badly. At dawn Jennifer knocks at the door. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI DAPHNE stared at the door for a full minute, her feet refusing to obey the command of her brain. She was afraid to open that door. The pounding in the silence of the early morning struck blows of apprehension into her. At last she reached the door and jerked it open. "Hi, there! You're a sound sleeper." It was Jennifer, a little less lovely in the gray light. The hem of her white satin gown was soiled. Her hands were blue where they clutched her evening wrap about her shivering shoulders. Her hair was in disarray but her manner was jaunty enough. Daphne was unable to speak. Her fears turned to swift anger that bubbled up in her throat. Without speaking she turned and went into the bath, started the hot water in the tub. Then she stepped back to the living room and lighted the hearth fire. "Sit here," she said shortly and drew a chair up before the fire. Jennifer sank into it and waved her chiffon handkerchief airily above her head. "Thass what I call service. You're a good sport." Daphne had knelt down to take off Jennifer's slippers. Thass. The word returned to her. She sat back on her heels. "Jennifer," she asked gently, "have you been drinking?" Jennifer kicked off her slippers and sat up a bit straighter. Her head moved in a gesture Daphne knew too well but her voice was different as she meant it to be. "What if I have? I'm of age and I know what I'm doing. Why don't you go to bed?" "That's what I'm going to do. I don't trust myself to talk to you now. Your tub is ready. We'll discuss this tomorrow." The mantle clock struck six. Twelve hours later it was striking when Daphne let herself into her living room. This was the hour she had dreaded all day, a day that Jennifer had stolen from her. This should have been a memorable day in her life. A day to savor her new-found happiness. INSTEAD it had been a day filled with heaviness and weariness. With the weight of her responsibility and the knowledge that it was unfair that she, who was only a girl herself, should have to meet the problem that Jennifer had proved herself. She had expected to be greeted with sullenness, with defiance. Perhaps Jennifer would not be there at all. "Jennifer!" "Hello, darling, welcome home. I've a treat for you tonight. I'm making something you like for dinner." Jennifer was in the kitchen. Daphne caught her breath in sheer surprise while she took in the unexpectedness of fresh flowers in the bowl on her desk, the small table smartly set for two. She took firm hold of herself. She was not to be wooed this way. But she took her cue from Jennifer and responded brightly to Jennifer's questions about the day until they had cleared away the dinner and sat, with their coffee, before the blazing hearth. "Might as well make up your mind to it, Jennifer, the time has come to talk. I want to know where you were last night." "You might as well make up your mind, you're going to hear some unpleasant things yourself, Daph. One of the things is that I'm not going to be treated like a child anymore. However, I'll tell you where I was last night. I went on a party with George Blumenthal." "Who in heaven's name is George Blumenthal and why did you lie to me about wanting to go out with Tucker?" "George Blumenthal is a very charming, very rich young man that I met at a party somewhere. He... he knows a lot of people and he happened to call me up and ask me out after you had left." Daphne knew that Jennifer was lying. (To Be Continued)

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON - Tangled threads of human frailty and error are snarled over the reverse side of the New Deal historical tapestry now woven to the point where ye foolhardy knights, Sir Franklin, doth challenge to mortal combat ye Nine Supreme Knights of ye Marble Palace.

Thanks to the fact that supreme court justices, presidents and other characters involved do not always confine their feelings within their bosoms, it is possible to reveal these items of background to the current cannonade. The issue between Roosevelt and the court probably would never have reached a crisis had the court's conservative justices not been encouraged by NRA's maladministration and unpopularity to kill the blue eagle and had their attitude subsequently not been stiffened by unfavorable public reaction to Roosevelt's "horse and buggy" remarks. The bitter parts of Roosevelt's message to Congress asking power to pack the court were inserted by Donald Richberg. They are traceable to the bitterness engendered by the Schechter decision in both Roosevelt and Richberg. The latter had offered to stake his legal reputation on victory in that case. The four most conservative justices believed they could kill, or at least turn back, the New Deal by killing NRA. If the AAA test case had come to the supreme court before the NRA case, more than one observer believes, the New Deal would have been upheld in its farm program. ONE mistake followed another. The president gambled on NRA as his big recovery ace, rather than the public works program. NRA was administered so badly that nearly everyone either hated it or was frightened by it—including nine justices of the supreme court. Richberg pulled a boner in pushing the Schechter "sick chicken" case before the supreme court. Those who counted strongly on the liberalism of Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo feel that the three justices made a mistake by joining in the sweeping condemnation of NRA, which was widely taken as a rebuke to the whole New Deal. Roosevelt made a mistake when, egged on by General Johnson, he made his famous "horse and buggy" statement. NO important case involving New Deal reform had come before the court prior to the NRA case. Up to that time, according to the inside information, the conservative justices had been somewhat in the same frame of mind as Republican members of Congress. They felt it would be wise and expedient to string along with Roosevelt in the emergency because the country was behind him. There was great dissension within the New Deal at the time, a large faction favoring a modified NRA with unpopular and unworkable features removed. This faction was successful to the point that it persuaded Roosevelt and Richberg to drop the Belcher lumber case, first scheduled as the NRA test case. But Richberg insisted on bullying it through, and picked the Schechter case as his battleground. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer

EVERY three months Alice Bradley turns out another guide for the home cook, consisting of marketing, menu and recipe advice. Her latest is "The Alice Bradley Menu-Cook Book for April-May-June." In washable cover, brilliant with garden vegetables, bound so as to lie flat on the kitchen table when in use, and prepared by an old friend of American housewives, this third issue of Miss Bradley's book is well worth the glance of a hungry eye. The Alice Bradley Menu-Cook Book is a gold mine of desserts. Let's do a bit of sampling. Her recipes are for 6 servings. Maple Fudge Frosting Ingredients: 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup maple syrup, 1-3 cup cream. (Note the procedure method in which the ingredients are written.) Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup maple syrup and 1-3 cup cream. Stir until sugar is dissolved, bring to boiling point and boil without stirring to 235 degrees F. or until mixture forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Remove from fire, let stand undisturbed until cool, then beat with a wooden spoon or pour out on a marble slab or slate tray and work with a spatula, until the candy begins to get firm. Return to saucepan and stir over hot water until melted but not hot and then pour over little cup cakes—they've been waiting so long and with such sweet patience. Raisin Chocolate Squares Two-third square unsweetened chocolate, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 egg, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-4 cup flour, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup raisins, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Melt chocolate over hot water, add butter and stir until mixture melts. Set aside. Beat egg, gradually adding sugar. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and salt. Add to egg with 1-3 cup chopped raisins and vanilla. Add chocolate mixture. Mix thoroughly. Spread in shallow pan measuring approximately 4 by 7 inches. Bake 15 minutes at moderate temperature (350 degrees F.). Cut in squares while warm. Maple Nut Parfait Two eggs, 1-3 cup hot maple syrup, 1-2 pint cream, 1-2 cup finely cut nut meats. Beat eggs slightly in top of double boiler and gradually add while beating the hot maple syrup. Cook until mixture thickens, beating constantly. Bake cream stiff, then add to maple mixture. Add nut meats. Refrigerator or in mold packed in equal parts of ice and salt. Do not stir while freezing. Serve in meringue cases. So now you see how Miss Bradley faces the break-up of a mild winter.

Health Department Is Cracking Down On Unclean Sacks

proper reeleaning has been the cause of finding many bags of flour adulterated and these were condemned because of the presence of weevils and other filth. In numerous instances it has been found by inspectors of the Bureau of Food and Drugs that no care whatsoever has been exercised by bakers in keeping sacks intended for refilling at the mill in a clean condition. One lot of sacks of this kind appeared to have been used in wiping machinery and mopping the floor of the mill. Another lot was found mouldy. In other cases it was found to be breeding place for insects. "From these findings it becomes evident that such practices constitute a constant and growing menace to the health of Texas. The Bureau of Food and Drugs intends to bring prosecution against such practices. A westerner was arrested for chaining his 9-year-old daughter to a bed. Still, it seems one way to keep them from eloping.

ARNOLD SCORES IN POWERFUL FILM ROMANCE
A gripping story of a love that turned to hate and then to love again brings Edward Arnold to the screen again in the role of an industrial Croesus who thought he could buy a woman's heart with gold, in "John Meade's Woman," showing at the Arcadia last times today. Starring opposite him is the intriguing Francine Larrimore, noted stage star, who makes her initial motion picture appearance in this drama.

Arnold, rich and ruthless industrialist, is engaged to Gail Patrick, a society beauty who intends to marry him for his money. She is really in love with Sidney Blackmer, who is of her own class. Arnold accidentally meets Miss Larrimore, a country girl trying to make a go of it in the big city, and becomes interested in her. When he discovers the affair between Miss Patrick and Blackmer, he marries Miss Larrimore, merely to humble the high-born beauty. Miss Larrimore really lives Arnold, and when the time comes when he tells her why he married her and offers to pay her for it, she is heartbroken. She returns to the land from whence she arose, spurning Arnold's gifts and profers of aid. The love she bore him turns to a fierce and burning hatred.

Later, when she saves his life from an infuriated mob which she had fomented against him, she realizes that she can not hate him. He realizes there are women in the world to whom his money and power means nothing. He begs forgiveness of the poor farm girl.

Also in the brilliant cast are George Brancroft, as Arnold's hard-boiled lieutenant; John Trent, Jonathan Hale, Stanley Andrews and a host of others.

Public Invited to Attend Banquet of Educators Friday

O. G. Lanier, secretary of the Oil Belt Education Association, announced today that visitors to the annual association banquet, which is to be held Friday night at the Recreation Building in connection with the association's convention, would be cordially welcomed.

The people of Ranger, who are interested in attending, should call Mrs. Susan Hunt, at the tax assessor-collector's office, telephone No. 11, and make reservations to attend, Lanier said. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Hunt not later than Tuesday afternoon, it was stated, in order that arrangements can be made for them.

The banquet program is one of the features of the association convention, and one which the general public will enjoy, as an unusual program has been arranged with Rev. Dick O'Brien, who spoke at the Chamber of Commerce banquet last week, as one of the speakers and Dr. George W. Frazier, president of the State Teachers College, Greeley, Colo., as the other. Both are renowned as after-dinner speakers.

Two Names Left Off List Directors

In the hurry of preparing copy for the special edition Welcoming the Oil Belt Education Association to Ranger this week-end, the names of Hal H. Hunter and Ken Ambrose was left off the list of directors of the Chamber of Commerce in the advertisement of that organization.

Hunter is immediate past president of the organization and still a member of the board of directors, while Ambrose was elected to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of R. E. Canfield.

The mistake in listing the names of the directors was made in the office of the Times Publishing Company through an error in listing the names.

Those Who Aided in Preparing Copy for Edition Are Thanked

The Times takes this method of again thanking all who had a part in helping to make the special edition for the Oil Belt Education Association a success.

O. G. Lanier, secretary of the association, furnished information about the organization's history, along with other data, while principals and teachers of a number of schools in the country contributed articles about their schools all of which helped to make the edition one of the best ever published locally.

In addition to those who contributed articles, the merchants of Ranger used the opportunity offered by the special edition to extend a cordial welcome to the teachers.

Appeal Is Made For All To Aid In Clean-up Campaign

By J. E. Meroney, Secretary, Ranger Chamber of Commerce

The 1920 Club, The City Administration, The Chamber of Commerce, and other organized groups are cooperating in a "Clean-up Ranger" campaign. As a representative of the Chamber of Commerce, I am taking this method of appealing to the people of Ranger in general for their hearty cooperation in this most worthy campaign.

Unfortunately Ranger is built on the water shed which supplies Lake Hagaman. This makes it an imperative necessity that we keep the town as clean as possible. Of course the water comes back to us treated and without question pure; nevertheless, the fact remains that the water reaches the lake in the best possible state of purity and that the lake is not filled with rubbish.

Another matter that needs attention at this time is the elimination of stagnant water, which is left alone for a short time will breed mosquitoes. It is astonishing to note the number of tin cans strown throughout the alleys and on vacant lots of the town. Thousands of these cans have water in them together with bits of decayed food. These cans make a wonderful breeding place for mosquitoes. Not only are cans serving as breeding places, but old car fenders and many other pieces of debris will be found to hold water. On a recent tour of the town, I found a piece of old linoleum which was cupped up in such a manner that it held almost two gallons of water. A thorough clean-up of the town will certainly do much to reduce the mosquito menace. Not only do these little pests bother, but they are disease carriers that should be avoided.

If trash and filth strown over the town would not contribute to the contamination of our water or the breeding of mosquitoes, civic pride should move us to do our part in keeping the town clean. A town is judged on pretty much the same basis as we judge an individual. We all know what it means to us individually to keep clean bodily, but we seem to forget keeping our premises as clean as they should be and need to be reminded. That is what we are trying to do. As an incentive the City is hauling trash to the dump ground free. However, if you are financially able to do this for yourself please do not wait for the free service. There are perhaps a thousand loads of rubbish to be hauled. This will take several days and cost the City a big sum of money if they do it all. Next Friday and Saturday we are to be host to the Oil Belt Education Association and are expecting from fifteen hundred to two thousand strangers in town. Lets clean up and make ready for them in such a way that they will go back home with praise for Ranger as a clean, friendly place to visit.

Clothing and Motor Fuel Are Changed With the Seasons

NEW YORK.—The completely personal, but always difficult problem, of how to dress for the weather is solved with the facility which characterizes the changes in gasoline with the seasons. Whereas the individual must decide upon his dress, the motorist finds the decision as to which gasoline to use already made when he drives into a roadside service station.

The service station has a dual problem, however. One phase in weather and in seasons; the other in the insistence of the American motorist that his motor shall perform at its peak regardless of weather, temperature, or previous condition of decrepitude! He wants to "step on her" and go.

The peculiar kinks in weather, and the equally peculiar quirks in human nature, long ago were recognized and accepted in the gasoline business. Refiners and marketers were appointed to draw up resolutions in keeping with the purpose of the meeting and the name of Colonel Brasher was left off the list. Taylor appointed R. L. Ross, Joe Calder and Colonel Brasher to draw the resolutions which were unanimously adopted at the meeting. A copy of the resolutions were immediately sent to Eastland county representatives at Austin.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)
