Taxes On Oil Are Equal Royalty of One-Eighth of Oil

ABILENE, Texas—Taxes now levied against oil producers of a virtually constitute the payment of an over-riding royalty one-eighth of the net value of oil, after paying the usual one-eighth royalty to the landowner, according to J. C. Hunter, independent oil operator and vice-president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association. In the face of threatened increases in oil production taxes, Mr. Hunter, "Texas oil operators are obliged to be extremely cautious in making capital expenditures for new field development. Few oil operators today are willing to invest money in new properties that involve the payment of an over-ride above the ordinary one-eighth royalty. Yet, it's exactly what Texas oil men are now paying in State and county taxes on the average barrel of oil produced in the State. How can we continue to exploit the oil producing possibilities of our state when our industries constantly faces threatened increases in taxation?" he asked. Authentic figures compiled by the Association show that Texas producers are now paying an average tax of 8.6 cents on every barrel of crude oil produced in the State. In some counties, high valorem assessments cause producers to pay as much as 14 cents a barrel! This situation is not only tending the abandonment of existing oil wells, but also tends to discourage necessary development of new oil fields throughout the State. Mr. Hunter cited facts of the oil industry which show that on an average well which produces five times what they were in 1922, while every item of overhead cost has advanced materially since 1922, and because of lower prices and proration restrictions the average well outside of Texas returns only half an average revenue as formerly. "In the days," said Mr. Hunter, "you could pay out the cost of an oil well in one year and eight months. Now, you're lucky to get your money back in fifteen years."

Costs of School Is Varied, a Survey In State Reveals

SAN ANTONIO—Wide discrepancies in operating costs and efficiency of schools in the Texas educational system are being reported by researchers employed on the Works Progress Administration school adequacy survey, R. H. Lawrence, WPA official in charge of the project, revealed today. Lawrence pointed out that data gathered by WPA workers shows that 294 districts containing 45,079 scholars are levying maintenance taxes of $1 per $100 assessed property value for school purposes while 487 districts containing 60,318 scholars levy no maintenance taxes whatsoever. Initiated in June, 1936, the WPA school adequacy survey has employed an average of 250 men and women formerly on the relief rolls in making a statistical research into such matters as tax record levies by school districts, average daily attendance at schools, number of teachers employed, and physical building facilities. Findings of the workers are to be presented to the Texas Legislature for suggested remedial legislation and the State Board of Education, sponsoring the enterprise, hopes to equalize the tax burden and to realize a more efficient school system. L. D. Stokes, supervisor of the State Board of Education, drew attention to the following as examples made by researchers: There are 1,815 one-teacher schools in Texas. Many of these include eight, nine, ten or eleven grades. One school, with a scholastic population of 102, was discovered to have an attendance of 26. For these pupils, scattered over seven grades, two teachers were employed at salaries of $90 and $82.50 per month. Two schools, employing teachers at $65 per month, were discovered to have only one pupil each. One South Texas school, with an enrollment of two pupils, was found to have abandoned the large stone building provided for its use and to be holding classes in an old automobile. It was explained that the students preferred the car as being more comfortable than the building which had no heating facilities. In the same county a class is being held in a formerly-condemned building whose walls are bulging outward. In another, class is held in a seven-room building whose roof has rusted through and is falling off. Many rural schools have been found to have no sanitary facilities.

Adult Life Has Been Lengthened

AUSTIN.—"Adult life has been lengthened materially during the past thirty-five years. However, the gain largely has been in the age bracket below the forty-five year limit. The reason this lies in the great progress made by medical science in preventing infant mortality. Or to express it otherwise, little folks, on average, will live fifteen or twenty years longer than was the case prior to 1900. While undoubtedly this is a magnificent achievement, it serves also to indicate that the obligation of the aged and older, to be reasonably concerned about their health and life prospects, still exists and is justified," states Dr. Geo. Cox, State Health Officer. The truth is that the increase in deaths from heart, kidney, and blood vessel conditions not only is responsible for blocking extension to life for the average person who has reached the forty mark but, from a statistical standpoint, to an extent has retarded the successful inroads that have been made against tuberculosis and some of the other fatal diseases. And it is at this time that personal health should be more active than it is today. Faulty living habits perhaps are often responsible for a shortened life than is otherwise the case. The step-up of life's tempo and the strains associated therewith too frequently prove so absorbing and consuming that little, if any, thought is given to the real business of life which is to get out of it in terms of health, happiness, and longevity as much as any possible. The family physician should be consulted in this connection. Often, persons wait until they are taking the doctor into their confidence. And sometimes, it is then too late. Indeed, should be stressed that good medical advice on how to keep healthy and the early professional attention of an unmanaged condition can mean many added years of usefulness.

Science Has Turned Against Old Cistern And Rain Barrel

CHICAGO—Now science has turned against the old-fashioned rainwater barrel and the "soft" water cistern. Like the open well with its old wooden bucket they are on the way out, and the manufacture of mechanical water softeners is well on the way toward becoming a major industry. Installations have risen from practically nothing two decades ago to more than 20,000 units last year, according to figures released today by the Water Softener and Filter Institute. Chemists, according to the Institute, have found that most of the supposed advantages of the rainwater barrel and the cistern were mere illusions. Tests of hundreds of samples of water from them showed 5 to 15 grains of hardness—amount of calcium and magnesium per gallon. In addition there were numerous forms of bacteria and decayed organic matter collected from roofs and drain pipes and blown in by the wind. "Most cisterns are lined with concrete or brick containing the same elements as the rocks in the soil which give ordinary water its hardness," said the Institute. "Few cisterns are so tight that hard water from the surrounding soil does not seep in to add the undesirable 'lime,' and as a result cistern water in many hard water areas is harder than any known to residents of such soft water regions as New England." Water softener manufacturers look for an even greater part in their business with the rise of the building industry, since the average home now can be installed for much less than a cistern can be constructed.

Tiny Giant Headed Horses Once Lived In the Panhandle

SAN ANTONIO.—Misfortune which directed the hooves of tiny giant-headed horses into the treacherous quicksands of the Texas Panhandle more than a million years ago is now being hailed by Dr. C. Stuart Johnston, West Texas State Teachers College paleontologist, as good fortune for science. Supervising a small band of WPA workmen, Dr. Johnston is discovering that the long-dried quicksand beds have preserved skeletal remains of the extinct horses in almost perfect condition. The prehistoric animal is described by Dr. Johnston as being slightly smaller than the modern pony but with a head as large as that of the average draft horse. The WPA workers are excavating and helping to reconstruct a veritable menagerie of strange and extinct animals which once roamed the western plains of Texas. For several decades the rich fossil beds of West Texas have been combed for scientifically significant deposits by representatives of out-of-state museums and scientific institutions, Dr. Johnston said. With the provision of federal funds it has been possible to employ workers and researchers to excavate Texas fossils for Texas institutions. Reconstructed skeletons of prehistoric animals are being placed in the Panhandle Plains museum on the WTSTC campus at Canyon. In one 3,700-pound block now on exhibit at the museum are the bones of rhinos, camels, saber-tooth tigers, prehistoric dogs and horses, all figures in the million-year-old drama of the Texas Panhandle which is being unfolded by the small band of researchers. One of the rarest specimens uncovered by the workmen is a complete skeleton of the giant ground sloth, unearthed in Bricoco county. Untrained workers rapidly become proficient in the unusual tasks involved in this project, Dr. Johnston reports, and several of the WPA workmen have been qualified as skilled workers in excavation and preservation of fossilized deposits. The Swedish four daler, said to be the world's largest coin, weighs more than seven pounds. There should be no requests for dalers from heaven.

Ranger Leads State In Bad Record In Insurance Changes

AUSTIN.—Effective March 1, Texas communities will profit or suffer according to their fire conduct during 1936. The State Insurance Commission has rewarded and punished communities by allowing credits or imposing penalties according to fire losses during the past five years. If there have been few fire losses in a community, it may get as high as a 25 per cent insurance rate reduction. Its rate may remain stationary or it may be required to pay 15 per cent more. The percentage applies to a "basic rate." It is not figured on the entire group of factors that enter into fixing the rate for a specific piece of property. The rate changes announced by Commissioner Marvin Hall include: Credits: Dallas, 10; El Paso, 20; Fort Worth, 10; Galveston, 25; Houston, 15; South Houston, 15; San Antonio 25; Abilene, 25; Amarillo, 20; Austin, 25; Alamo Heights, 25; Beaumont, 15; Big Spring, 20; Braeswood Addition, Houston, 15; Breckenridge, 5; Brownwood, 15; Center, 15; Cisco, 15; Corpus Christi, 25; Corsicana, 5; Gladewater, 10; Gonzales, 15; Goose Creek, 20; Highland Park, 25; Deep Water Power Plant, Houston, 15; International Crocheting and Construction Co., Texarkana, 15; Jefferson, 15; Port Arthur, 20; Sweetwater, 5; Wichita Falls, 15; Marshall, 5; Midland, 10; Mineral Wells, 10; Pampa, 25; Taylor, 20; Texarkana, 10; Tyler, 10; University Park, 25; Waco, 5; Waxahachie, 5; Weatherford, 15. MISS HOGUE TO CONDUCT THE CLASSES

More Merchants Than Ever Before are Participating In School Here This Year. With practically every merchant in Ranger participating and having a display prepared to be installed, the greatest cooking school ever attempted in Ranger will begin at the Recreation building Tuesday, March 23, and will continue through Friday afternoon, March 26. Sessions will be held each afternoon, with Miss Jessie Hogue, noted cooking school expert and home economist, in charge. Miss Hogue conducted the cooking school here last year when the first held in the Recreation building was conducted. Electrical refrigerator dealers, in particular, are taking a keen interest in the preparations, with each having a lavish display planned, with other cooking conveniences being shown around the auditorium. All the features of the cooking schools held in the past will be included this year, with several new features added. A question box in which anyone can drop their written questions about any of their cooking problems, which will be taken up by Miss Hogue and answered. Special prizes, of unusual value, are being offered by a number of the merchants, with more and better prizes being offered than ever before. The list of those cooperating is not as yet complete, as new participants are coming in each day and by the time the school opens on Tuesday afternoon the largest number in the long history of the Ranger cooking schools is a certainty. One of the special features this year will be a night session for men, at which cooking will not be taught, but at which a short program will be rendered and an opportunity given for business men who cannot attend in the afternoons to view the exhibits. Refreshments will be served to the men at the evening session. The "Kingdom of the Kitchen" belongs particularly to the housewife. It is here that she reigns supreme, at liberty to wave her magic wand of cookery and with a dash of onion juice a sprinkling of paprika, mixing of mushrooms and spreading of frosting, produce those magic edibles which crown her with one of the most enviable of American titles—a good cook. A man is pathetically out of place in this realm of the household—not for all his methods of efficiency, economy or far-sightedness in business can he come into the kitchen without results, somehow, approaching the disastrous. Many delightful secrets of this "kitchen magic" will be unfolded to women of this in the free Happy Kitchen Chautauquon which this paper is sponsoring, to be conducted by Miss Jessie Hogue. This famed home economics lecturer declares that there need be no mystery about the delicate blending of flavors and seasonings and the illusive tang of savory dishes. The art of "snapping up" a dish, already delicious, may be acquired by any woman who enjoys cooking, she believes, and at her cooking school here will tell many of her favorite methods of producing "kitchen magic." There's garlic for instance. Of course, one must be discreet in its use—oh, very, but the lovely garlic is among "kitchen magic" secrets. This seasoning comes to the American housewife from the sunny land of Italy, where the native palate lends itself to stronger dashes of this powerful condiment than the American digestion will stand. It is in the matter of seasoning that Miss Hogue finds American cooks the most lacking, she states. She believes that this is possibly due to the fact that the earliest native American dishes did not particularly lend themselves to rich seasonings. Also, in early American days these choice spices and flavorings were not easily obtainable and the pioneer housewives were forced to cook buckwheat cakes, corn pone, corn on the cob, pumpkin pie, and even hor-mout with little seasoning beyond salt and pepper.

Student Paper of Texas University Under New Rules

AUSTIN.—Amendments to present rules of The University of Texas and of the University Students' Association relative to the organization of The Daily Texan and the Texas Student Publications, Inc., were announced by the Board of Regents recently. The action of the Regents follows a series of conferences with faculty and student committees during the past several months during which many different proposals were presented and considered by the Executive Committee of the Board. Under the plan as adopted, the editor of the Texan will continue to be elected by the student body, this proposal having been adopted over another one which would have made the editor an appointive officer. Revised qualifications are fixed for candidates for editorial positions and the Texan editor is made subject to removal by the six non-editorial members of the Board of Directors of the Texas Student Publications, Inc., with the Dean of Student Life voting in case of a tie. The non-editorial members consist of three faculty members, the president of the Students' Association, and two members elected by and from the Students' Assembly. The plan as adopted by the Regents provides for the retention of the three student editors as members of the board of directors differing in this matter from an organization suggested previously in a meeting of the Student Assembly committee and the Executive Committee of the Board of Regents, under which scheme the editors would not have been members of the Board. The editorial agent provided for by the Board of Regents last summer to read, prior to publication, all non-advertising copy written for the Texan will be eliminated at the end of the current long session. HAWAII INVITES BOXERS HONOLULU.—American Legion posts which are promoting boxing in the Hawaiian Islands now are working out plans for a "talent exchange" with the Hollywood legion. The plan would be to bring more outstanding mainland boxers for appearances in the islands.

In a state of collapse, Mrs. Bessie Bartnosky, 45, is half dragged, half carried into a police station in Brooklyn, N. Y., accused of the hammer murder of her 75-year-old mother-in-law. The aged woman's battered body was found in the apartment occupied by Mrs. Bartnosky, the murder weapon hidden in a drawer.

'Horned Frogs' Is Name Given TCU Team Back In '98

FORT WORTH.—An English teacher is responsible for the name, "Horned Frogs," as applied to Texas Christian University. F. F. Elkin of Midland, business manager of the first student yearbook in 188, tells the authoritative story of the name. "I was present when the name was decided upon," Mr. Elkin wrote to J. Willard Ridings, director of the T. C. U. News Service, who a few weeks ago broadcast an appeal for information as to how the name came to be adopted. "The teacher of English at the time was Addison Clark, Jr.," Elkin recalls. "He urged the establishment of the annual, as many Texas schools had begun them." "When the question of name came up, Prof. Clark suggested that the name should be taken from some plant, bird or animal peculiar or indigenous to Texas and the Southwest. He suggested 'Horned Frog' and challenged us to find a more appropriate name. The name was adopted. "Other schools had already appropriated for their own use the more common names such as 'Longhorn,' 'Cactus,' etc. "Intercollegiate athletics began to develop at about the same time and the athletic teams, for the same reason as the annual, adopted the name of 'Horned Frogs.' " STUDENTS SHUN BIBLE STANFORD, UNIVERSITY.—The Rev. David Elton Trueblood, professor of philosophy, finds that Stanford University students are not addicted to Bible reading. "If the Lord Himself came to speak at the chapel, I wonder how many students would attend," he asked.

Panhandle Is Not Through as Wheat Area, Dealers Say

By United Press
 FORT WORTH, Texas.—Informed Texas grain dealers do not share the opinion recently stated on Wall Street that the plains country is "through" as a wheat producing section.

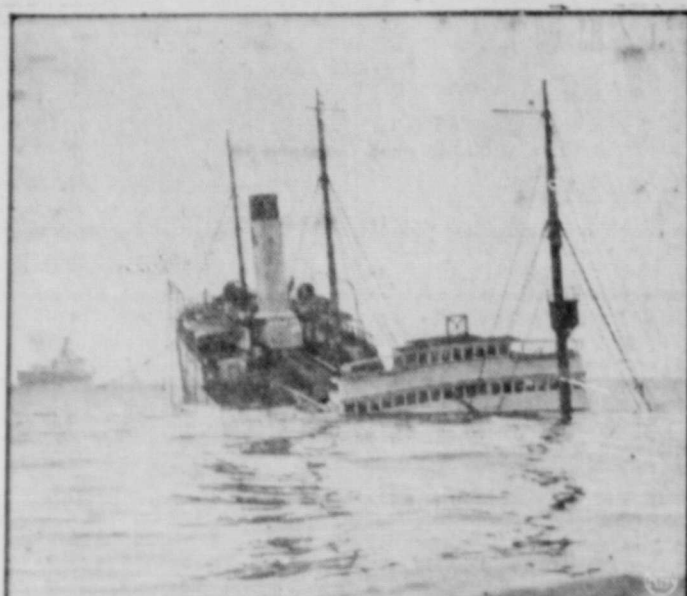

G. E. Blowett, secretary, said reports to him indicate that acreage in this state will total 5,700,000, the largest in history, which will force growers to seek an export market if the expected yield is produced.

Sections of the Texas Panhandle have suffered from ravages of spring dust storms, Blowett added. Other wheat-growing areas promise normal or above normal production.

Chicago and some other storage centers have reported that stocks of 1936 wheat on hand will be only 13,000,000 bushels, the least in recent history. Texas points have reported to Blowett that wheat storage both in terminal and interior elevators is above average.

Blowett declared that Texas wheat possibly will be forced into export channels. This state and Oklahoma have relied largely on export business until recent years, he said. Since droughts and government crop reduction programs have curtailed the yield during the last five years, much of the former Texas-Oklahoma wheat trade has been absorbed by Canadian and Argentine dealers.

The Texas wheat official suggested that Congress concentrate on trying to regain lost markets instead of crop control which he considers "beyond the control of any group of men."

THE NEW NORGE LOW-TEMP (ROLLATOR) ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR WHICH WILL BE A FEATURE AT THE KITCHEN CHAUTAUQUA

Picture four refrigerators in a room kept constantly at 100 degrees. One of them is a good standard ice refrigerator, two are modern mechanical refrigerators, one is a Norge Low-Temp Rollator Refrigerator. Various commonly used foods are placed in each one. It is a silent contest—a contest of vital interest to anyone who keeps house.

As the hours pass, samples of the various foods are taken out—tasted by expert food tasters—inspected for appetizing appearance—tested for moisture content—examined under powerful microscope for bacterial growth—rated as Prime Fresh, Edible or Inedible. As soon as a food showed any appreciable loss of flavor, it passed from the Prime Fresh rating into Zone No. 2—described as edible but not perfectly fresh. The time was noted. And here is the amazing fact—

Many foods kept in the Low-Temp Norge remained in the zone of prime freshness from 2 to 5 times longer than the same foods kept in the other refrigerators.

Here are some astounding facts about the foods you eat. Twenty-four different foods were checked for the length of time they kept so fresh that even an expert food taster could detect no loss of flavor. The average length of time in the ice refrigerator was 3.3 days. In the standard mechanical refrigerators the time was 3.6 days. And—

In the Low-Temp Norge these twenty-four different kinds of foods remained prime fresh for an average of nearly ten days. (9.97 to be exact).

Think of the effect of this kind of refrigeration on your daily meals—on your marketing. You have no hesitation in serving left-over cooked foods—in buying meats, fruits and vegetables in money-saving quantities. You have complete confidence that if you buy food fresh—store it fresh—you can serve it fresh. Wholesome, appetizing flavor—retained nutritive values—will improve every meal. And, with all these conspicuous advantages—

The Low-Temp Norge requires no more current than the ordinary electric refrigerator.

If you are using old-fashioned methods of refrigeration or if your mechanical refrigerator is an old one, it will pay you to get all the facts about this newest development in food preservation.

C. I. Hyatt, dealer and distributor of Norge products will have a complete display of Norge refrigerators, Gas ranges and Electric washing machines at the Kitchen Chautauqua Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Hyatt of the Central Pharmacy of Olden states that he will be glad to show visitors these new modern wonders.

Low Gas Tax and No Diversion Is Making Good Roads
 TULSA, Okla.—The benefits of a low gasoline tax and legal prohibition against diversion of highway funds to other purposes is well illustrated in the experience of Missouri, according to the Western Petroleum Refiners association.

Missouri's gasoline tax was set at 2 cents a gallon in 1918 and a constitutional amendment prohibited its increase before 1938. The same amendment prohibited use of gasoline tax for any purpose other than road building.

LEGATION STATION — The increase of farm poultry flocks is reported from cultural agents indicate, say farmers are utilizing for an additional source of cash income as well as for home consumption. The fact that poultry will yield returns commensurate to the care and effort expended on them is well illustrated by the case of Claude Hale of Decatur, the county seat of Wise, whose 127 leghorn pullets laid a total of 215 1-2 dozen eggs during December, or an average of 21 eggs per hen for the month. The hens several times produced in excess of 100 eggs a day during this period. Hale's hens consumed an average of a little more than three pounds each of grain and mash during the 31 day period, or a total of 6.2 pounds of feed per hen. The eggs were produced at a feed cost of .097 cents per dozen and were sold at 25 cents a dozen. Green feed was available throughout the month. Another Wise county farmer, Sam J. Kiker, started out the past year with 18 purebred bronze turkey hens and two toms, from which he raised 275 turkeys and had a margin of $134.50 above ex-

Midget Plane Flies At 200-Mile Clip

By United Press
SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The latest thing in vest-pocket airplanes — so small two men can pick it up and carry it, yet so powerful it zips across the sky at better than 200 miles an hour — is being groomed here for the National Air Races next fall.

H. G. Nicholson, who put the tiny, home-made monoplane through its paces on its first trial hop, said: "I don't think there's a thing in the country of her size that can touch its speed. We didn't have instruments on the test hop, but I know it did better than 200 miles an hour."

"Gosh," he said as he pried himself out of the midget 600-pound ship, "it's so small the rudder felt like a collar button on the back of my neck."

The tiny craft was designed by C. C. Flagg, an inspector in a San Diego aircraft plant, and built under his direction by six young air enthusiasts—Young McClure, Lionel Machado, Herbert Jewell, Joe McCannon, J. Sturgis and L. Mac-Donald. The little plane is only 14 feet 12 feet. It is powered by a seven-cylinder, 90-horsepower rotary long and its low wings spread but engine.

BALLINGER: One-hundred-seven Runnels county farm boys have started on their year's 4-H Club work under the coaching of County Agent J. A. Barton, his assistant, Thomas B. Hill, and local club leaders. Forty-four of these boys are preparing to grow at least 3 acres of cotton each. Other demonstrations to be carried on by the boys will include feed crops, poultry, beef calves, lambs, pigs and dairy calves. These boys use the best seed and animals available and follow the scientific methods of cultivating crops and caring for their livestock.

STEPHENVILLE: Eight large tractors and graders belonging to Erath county are working overtime to complete terraces on as many farms as possible before planting time. Terrace lines were laid off for the construction crews on 2194 acres during February under the supervision of County Agent G. D. Everett. New requests for terracing help continue to pile up at the county agent's office. County owned road building machinery is being used for terrace building by the commissioners at the actual cost to the farmers of operating the machines. The cost of building terraces under this plan varies but is usually about $1.00 per acre.

BRECKENRIDGE: Jim Bridges, a Stephens county farmer living in the Frankell community reports a profitable experience with angora goats to County Agent L. L. Ballard. About a year ago Bridges bought 97 goats. He got them to clear out the brush from a 164 acre pasture but he sheared $170 worth of mohair from them and sold them, after they ate his brush at a profit of $88 above the purchase price.

JOHNSON CITY: A total of 91,165 acres of range land was reported by the first 54 Blanco ranchmen who signed requests with County Agent C. E. Tisdale for admission to the range conservation program. This acreage was signed up before meetings were held to explain the details of the program as it will apply to grazing land. Cutting cedar is the feature of the program in which Blanco ranchmen show most interest. Very little grass grows on ranges heavily infested with cedar and loss of soil and water can be checked by removing the cedar and permitting the grass to become established.

BAIRD: Dairy cows fed from a trench silo actually picked up in their milk production during the coldest weather of the winter for J. G. Barton, a farmer living in the Dudley community, according to his report to County Agent Ross Jenkins. E. H. Williams, a rancher of the Putnam community opened his 140 ton trench silo and saved buying feed when his small grain pasture was overgrazed. Neighbors are watching

While brutes were hatched from eggs in OKLAHOMA

THEY were born, they lived and they died—these strange brutes. And yet the span of time from the first to the last of them covers only a small part of the history of the Cambro-Ordovician oil pool in Oklahoma—a history which includes millions of years of mellowing and filtering.

Cambro-Ordovician crude, piped from the oil fields to the great Sinclair refineries, and carefully blended after the refining process, becomes the Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil of today—a product averaging 80 million years of filtering and mellowing.

An important part of this refining process includes de-waxing (carried on by most refiners) and removing the petroleum jelly (carried on by few except Sinclair). To eliminate non-lubricating petroleum jelly, Sinclair chills the oil down to as low as 60° F. below zero. At this low point the petroleum jelly congeals and is removed by separating machinery.

Have the nearest Sinclair dealer change your oil to Sinclair Opaline according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication Index. Notice how quietly your engine runs. Then, at the next draining period examine the used Opaline. Observe how it still holds its rich lubricating body—how little oil has been used up!

REMEMBER: Sinclair offers you your choice—Sinclair Opaline, made from the oldest Mid-continent crudes, or Sinclair Pennsylvania, made from the costliest Pennsylvania grade crude.

46 Per Cent of Farms of County
Run By Tenants

Tenants constitute 46 per cent of the farmers of Eastland County according to figures released today by Geo. I. Lane, county supervisor of the Resettlement Administration. The Resettlement Administration survey shows that in many Texas counties more than 70 per cent of the farmers are tenants. The high per cent of tenancy is confined to no one part of the state, for in Terry County near the New Mexico line 72 per cent of all the farmers are tenants, while at the opposite corner of the state, in San Augustine County, the figure runs to 65 per cent.

In Haskell County and in Jones County, the heart of central west Texas' most fertile cotton area, 70 per cent and 68 per cent, respectively, are tenants. In the famous black land belt where more than a million bales of cotton are normally raised within a 100-mile radius, Ellis County has 68 per cent tenancy, Navarro County 72 per cent, Hill County 67 per cent, and Williamson County 66 per cent.

The lowest per cent of tenancy is in the hill country, where the farmers grow their living first and make cash crops more of a secondary matter. Typical of this type of county are Gillespie County, Kerr County and Kendall county, where the per cent of tenancy ranges from 21 per cent to 27 per cent. Some comparatively low tenancy areas are also found in Southwestern Texas, where there is another area of small live-at-home farms. In five counties just north of Beaumont, the percentage of tenancy runs from 32 per cent to 38 per cent, as compared with an average for the state of 57 per cent.

The Resettlement Administration, carrying out a three-point program to improve the conditions of tenant farmers and help them toward eventual ownership of the land. These activities are:

(1) Rural rehabilitation, which resulted last year in leading $9,010,971 to 29,653 Texas farm families for the purchase of teams, tools and equipment which they would have been able to obtain in no other way. The central feature of this program is guidance in "live-at-home" methods, such as have kept certain sections of the state low in tenancy and high in percent of owner operators.

(2) Debt adjustment committees, organized by the Resettlement Administration and working under its supervision, are preventing hard-pressed land owners from losing their farms through foreclosure and thereby swelling the ranks of tenants still farther.

(3) Construction is now in progress or authorized on 183 farms in Texas which have been bought for sale to farm tenants on 40-year time at not more than three per cent interest. Eighty-five families already living on these farms are using the original buildings which are to be remodelled or replaced by new ones.

All these activities being carried out by the Resettlement Administration are along lines suggested for more intensive prosecution by President Roosevelt in his recent message to Congress in regard to tenancy.

Miss Jessie Hogue Picks Mrs. Tucker's Shortening Here

Miss Jessie Hogue has selected Mrs. Tucker's Shortening for the exclusive use in her cooking school because she has found it to be the ideal all-purpose cooking fat. First, on her list of requisites for a good shortening, she places digestibility. Second comes creaminess; third, freshness; fourth, adaptability to frying; and fifth, economy. And after years of testing she has found Mrs. Tucker's answers every one of these requirements.

This famous cooking expert depends on Mrs. Tucker's shortening as a highly digestible product because it is made from choice vegetable oils, which, through the years, have proved most healthful. She knows that her breads, pies, cakes and fried foods prepared with Mrs. Tucker's will digest quickly and easily; and therefore is good for the families of those to whom she lectures on cooking.

In this day of modern ranges, refrigerators and other conveniences, housewives are continually looking for equipment and products that will lessen their work in the kitchen, and to these smart women, Miss Hogue recommends Mrs. Tucker's shortening because it is triple creamed at the factory in Sherman, Texas, to eliminate much of the hard work from cooking. On the cooking school stage and in the home, this expert finds that there is no need for tiresome, extra creaming when Mrs. Tucker's is used. This shortening is so velvety-smooth that it mixes readily when stirred with the other ingredients, and the triple creaming process gives the shortening the perfect consistency necessary to stand up under all weather conditions. Another innovation in shortening production is credited to Mrs. Tucker, because she pioneered and developed the cellophane-sealed carton, which is used exclusively by her to protect the shortening from heat, dirt, germs and other contamination. The use of this cellophane-seal is expensive, but Mrs. Tucker knows that only by its use can she guarantee the freshness and purity of her product. Mrs. Tucker's shortening is so factory-fresh, sweet and pure that every package brings the housewife Mrs. Tucker's personal guarantee, which reads as follows: "If for any reason, you are not satisfied with my shortening, you may return the unused portion and your grocer will refund the full purchase price." The noted expert who will conduct this school further recommends Mrs. Tucker's shortening because it is perfect for all kinds of frying. By special exclusive processes, Mrs. Tucker's shortening is refined and prepared so that it heats to higher temperature without smoking or burning. It contains absolutely no moisture; therefore it will not pop nor spatter; and as it is neutral in flavor, and will not absorb the flavors of foods fried in it, Mrs. Tucker's shortening can be strained and used over and over again for frying. Adding high digestibility to these qualities, Mrs. Tucker's shortening is much in demand for the preparation of all fried foods.

"Economy in shortening is not to be preferred over the above mentioned qualities," says Miss Hogue, "but Mrs. Tucker's shortening not only gives the housewife all the desirable qualities of a perfect shortening, it is also most economical to use. It contains a higher percentage of free

Nation's Proven Oil Reserve Is 13 Billion Barrels

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Proven oil reserves of the United States on January 1, 1937 are estimated at 13,063,000,000 barrels, according to a report submitted today to the board of directors of the American Petroleum Institute by the Institute's Committee on Petroleum Reserves. This is an increase of 886,000,000 barrels over the estimate of these reserves as of January 1, 1935. During this two-year period the committee calculates that 2,044,000,000 barrels were produced; but discoveries of new pools and development of old ones have covered this and added 886,000,000 barrels to proved reserves.

Further, the committee says that its latest calculation of reserves is so conservative that it will probably have to be revised upward as further developments take place. That was what happened two years ago, when the estimates as of January 1, 1935 placed proven reserves at 12,177,000,000 barrels. Later the figure was raised to 13,632,000,000 barrels when more complete data on new discoveries became available.

Commenting on the report, oil and should be used in smaller quantities. By constant tests over long periods of time, I have found that we must use much less Mrs. Tucker's in our recipes. Therefore, I caution housewives who are switching to this brand for the first time to adjust their recipes to the economy of this superior shortening."

Mrs. Tucker's shortening is made in her plant in Sherman, Texas, which is always open to visitors. The dear old lady, known as "The Mother of the Southwest," invites the people who attend this cooking school and all others to visit her plant whenever they are in Sherman.

Center of Legal, Medical Puzzle

Baffling to legal as well as medical men was the case of Mrs. Helen Wills Love, who, seeking death by "will power," put herself into a coma after she was found guilty of slaying her husband. While attempts were made to "revive" Mrs. Love, shown above at Los Angeles with an attendant during her state of "suspended animation," the trial judge called a bedside session to determine whether sentence could be pronounced.

President Axel J. Byles, of the Institute, said the estimate must be understood to deal only with "known and proven" resources.

"It takes no account of possible, indeed, certain-future discoveries," he explained. "The figures do not mean that the country has available only 13,063,000,000 barrels of oil, but that it has proved reserves up to that amount. The Chicago wheat pit estimates of 'visible supply' of wheat do not include calculations of next year's crop; and likewise these petroleum estimates take no account of future findings of oil. They are calculations of what we know we have."

"The probability is that these proven reserves constitute only a small portion of the supply which will be made available. But these reserves do assure that there is no imminent danger of shortage. The known and proven reserves of today will be supplanted by new discoveries, as in the past. Beyond this there is the definite knowledge of many possible substitutes, obtainable by known processes and in substantially inexhaustible quantities, at reasonable prices. Also, there is the certainty of larger recoveries of oil from the earth by reason of continuous improvement in recovery methods."

The committee pointed out that it considered all available data on production and discoveries in 1935 and 1936 and had studied carefully the record of developments during those years. Estimates of reserves by states, as of January 1, 1937, gave Texas 6,422,000,000 barrels; California 2,956,000,000 barrels; Oklahoma 1,141,000,000 barrels; the Rocky Mountain states—Wyoming, Montana and Colorado, 348,000,000 barrels; Kansas 568,000,000 barrels; Louisiana 524,000,000 barrels; New Mexico 471,000,000 barrels; Arkansas 84,000,000 barrels; and the eastern states—Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, New York, Michigan, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois, 551,000,000 barrels; making a total of 13,063,000,000 barrels.

Philadelphia, Pa., chairman of the Committee on Petroleum Reserves, said he believed in view of the thorough assembly of data, and of the cooperation the committee had received from many petroleum geologists and engineers, the report was the most accurate presentation that had ever been made on the matter of reserves. Other members of the committee are Wallace E. Pratt, Humble Oil and Refining Co., Houston, Texas; W. B. Heroy, Consolidated Oil Corp., New York; G. Clark Gester, Standard Oil Company of California, San Francisco, Calif.; R. F. Baker, The Texas Company, New York; Frank Clark, The Ohio Oil Co., Tulsa, Oklahoma; Fred E. Wood, Standard Oil Company (Indiana), Chicago; and F. H. Lebow, Standard Oil Company, Dallas, Texas.

Many Visitors See Local Sewing Room

At the open house of the Ranger Sewing Room, held this past week, a number of out of town visitors were present in addition to the people from Ranger and the surrounding territory who were gathered.

The sewing room was decorated specially for the occasion, and steps in making garments, the organization under which the work conducted were pointed out to the visitors. The posters mentioned care of children, homes, those who are ill, providing food and clothing and other necessities that had been acquired through the work secured in the sewing room.

Visitors from out of town included Miss Carolyn Chambers, district supervisor of women's work, Abilene; Mrs. Estelle Brooks, Taylor county project supervisor

Son of Eastland Man Joins Staff of City Magazine

Milburn McCarty Jr., son of Milburn McCarty of Eastland, has resigned a job in the circulation department of the New York Herald-Tribune for an editorial position on the New Yorker, a magazine published in the metropolitan city.

A graduate of Dartmouth, young McCarty began work in the circulation department of the Herald Tribune in 1935. While attending Dartmouth at Hanover, New Hampshire, he was in charge of circulation for the paper in the college town. Last summer McCarty was in charge of circulation for the Herald-Tribune at summer resorts in northern New Hampshire. Before joining the editorial staff of the New Yorker he had contributed several articles which were published. One of the articles was condensed in the Reader's Digest, August, 1936. McCarty, who attended Eastland High school and served as editor of its weekly paper, served a time as a page in Congress at Washington, D. C. He was Al Smith's personal page on the presidential candidate's special train and attended an intermediate school in Mexico City, Mexico. He has traveled extensively in Mexico and Europe.

At Dartmouth he also served as managing editor of the school paper and occupied the undergraduate chair on the alumni magazine. His father is president of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce and first vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Total For Vehicle Registration Higher

Saturday's registrations of automobiles for 1937 in tax assessor-collector office brought the total to over 1,300, according to C. H. O'Brien.

O'Brien, assessor-collector, expected a rush from Saturday on through April 1, the date when automobiles which are operated must have the 1937 registration plates.

Total issuance is expected to be approximately 7,000.

Triple-Star Threat of 1937

The Gorgeous Hussy, The Thin Man and Picadilly Jim are united in M-G-M's star-studded new production, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," which brings Joan Crawford, William Powell, Robert Montgomery and a brilliant supporting cast to the Arcadia screen for the next 2 days. Based on the Frederic Londale stage success, "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" opens as the first multi-star picture of the 1937 season and advance comment has it that it is a wow!

At the big store on North Rusk street one will find many models of the new Electrolux in both Kerosene and Gas. The public is invited to attend the cooking school.

J. S. REYNOLDS
J. S. Reynolds who will feature Frigidaire at the cooking school, is one of the most enthusiastic mechanical refrigerator dealers in Eastland county. "Spud" as he is known by his many friends is Eastland county dealer for Frigidaire and is systematically checking the territory. He reports business as being unusually good especially since the season is so early.

Reynolds had a Frigidaire in the lobby of the Connellee Hotel in Eastland during the recent school held in that city.

D. Joseph, latest and newest mechanical refrigerator dealer in Ranger will feature General Electric at the school and the G-E will be used in the school by Miss Hogue. The choice of the GE was by drawing the name of the GE from a hat it having been agreed that the name first drawn would be the refrigerator used by Miss Hogue. Mr. Joseph has a complete line of all G-E products.

Library. A number of new books have been added to the library with the money from fines. The fine money purchased the following books: "Log of a Cowboy," by Adams; "Spring Fevery ETAOI ETAOIO "Log Cabin Lady" and "Little Men" by Aldrich; "Spring Came on Forever," by Aldrich; "Blue Window," by Bailey; "Silver Slippers," by Bailey; "Wild Wind," by Bailey; "Secret Garden," by Burnett; "The Rosary," by Barclay; "Shadows on the Rock," by Cather; "Sky Pilot," by Connor; "Texas Bluebonnet," by Jacobs; "White Monkey," by Galsworthy; "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," by Hardy, (a very good book in our opinion); "The Light that Failed," by Kipling; "Haunted Bookshop," by Morley; "Cabbage and Kings," by O'Henry; "Four Million," by O'Henry; "Scarlet Pimpernel," by Orey; "Freckles," by Porter, and two copies of that famous "Gone With the Wind" by Margaret Mitchell.

A six volume set of "Groves Dictionary of Music and Musicians" has been also added, but this set of books was not purchased with fine money.

Tennis. The Ranger and Rising Star boys and girls played some "nice" games of tennis the other day, with Ranger winning the following: Senior boys' doubles, senior boys' singles, senior girls' doubles, junior boys' doubles, and junior girls' doubles. Rising Star captured the senior and junior girls' and the junior boys' singles.

The team went to Olden Wednesday but the weather played a trick on them and they had to come home and wait for pretty weather.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, Harry Hopkins and the Budget Bureau are about to grapple with the relief problem again, prior to recommending to Congress an appropriation of somewhere between one and two billion dollars for the next fiscal year.

There is no assurance yet that the president can work out a permanent program for unemployment relief. Nevertheless, as Roosevelt once laughingly said, in reply to the question when he would balance the budget: "Hope springs eternal."

Meanwhile, the most encouraging news concerning reduction of WPA rolls and the expense of maintaining them is this:

For the first time in four years, the number of persons on WPA or federal relief rolls has remained practically the same throughout January and February. In 1933, 1934 and 1935 the curve rose sharply during those two months. There were 2,162,000 on WPA lists in the latter part of February, as compared with 2,288,000 in December. In February, 1936, the number was 2,039,000.

THE present official plan is to cut the rolls down to 1,600,000 heads of families and single persons by the end of the fiscal year, June 30. That's what Congress provided for when it gave WPA a deficiency appropriation of $650,000,000 for this year. State administrators have been given their quotas for the months from now until July. The total scheduled cuts for the country call for a drop of 50,000 in March, 150,000 in April, 200,000 in May and 200,000 more in June.

Yet, Hopkins insists no one in actual need be cut off WPA. The state administrators are receiving that order, too. There are to be no arbitrary cuts and quotas will be subject to review.

The curtailment program was predicated upon an absorption by private industry of roughly 300,000 WPA workers; on continued recovery, on a good agricultural year; upon contribution of more money to projects by localities affected; and on the possibility the rolls could be kept from expanding during January, February and March. Except in the last instance, it is still too early to tell how many of these possibilities will come true. In the meantime, there have been disastrous floods which may keep the WPA figures up. It is concededly impossible to cut WPA rolls at a time when local relief lists are growing.

A REPORT just in from an area of 12 southern states lists a March quota of 402,000 WPA workers, 405,000 actually on the rolls and 118,000 "certified cases awaiting assignment or reassignment." The last figure, representing unemployed employable persons eligible for WPA, probably is too high. But secret WPA estimates place the number of the country's employables trying to get on WPA rolls at between 300,000 and 400,000.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

BY RICHARD McCANN

THEY are calling the Chicago White Sox "Dykes' Dudes" these days. Of course, along about the Fourth of July they are liable to drop that E and call them Dykes' Duds. But that is beside the point.

It seems that as soon as the aspiring young rookies had gathered at the White Sox training camp in Pasadena, Calif., Mr. James Dykes, the manager, took them all aside and told them how he wants them to dress.

"I do not mind my players having breakfast and luncheon in sports clothes," said Mr. Dykes. "but I want them to dress like the other guests when they enter the dining room at dinner hour."

Mr. Dykes' ultimatum must have been quite embarrassing to the White Sox rookies are different from the other young scallwags who ride the rails to major league training camps.

MOST of the boys, you see, are fresh off the farm and their borrowed traveling bags carry nothing more than a change of shirt, if that, and their ungainly frames are content to be clothed in an unraveling sweater, father's old pants and a pair of shoes that have been in the repair shop so often that they can walk down there by themselves.

"Why," complained Mr. Dykes, "I had one fellow on the club last spring who wore a cap most of the time, and morning, noon and night he'd wear the same sport sweater into the dining room."

But, although it's none of my business, James, it seems to me that if you're going to do something about the way the White Sox dress you ought to start out on the ball field and work up from there. The White Sox uniform, no doubt, is the worst get-up in the major leagues—especially those white stockings.

White stockings? Why, they haven't been washed since 1919 and are so black most of the time that you could lay any five of them down on the table as spade flush and rake in the pot without a quarrel.

If he is troubled by the way his rookies dress, Mr. Dykes should call on the St. Louis Cardinals, they who are known as the Gas House Gang, some time. Talk about your sweaters and caps and dungarees—none of those Gas House boys would ever be mistaken for a collar ad model on the way to work.

They look like a bunch of the boys in town from Roaring Camp for a visit. They shave about as often as the Smith Brothers and swagger around in the fashionable hotel lobby among the dear old awed ladies and smartly gotten-up vacationers in polo shirts and sweaters.

The average ball player, however, is a good dresser, leaning always toward sporting clothes. All of them, you see, make fine wages and can well afford expensive wardrobes, and then, too, in most major league cities clothing dealers offer suits for home runs by local players.

U. S. Can Save Money If War Isn't in Cards

If the average government could only find some way of letting its right hand know what its left hand doeth, the world might have a far better chance of living in peace these days.

The other day, for example, Japanese and American officials gathered about the grave of Commodore Matthew Perry, in New York, and exchanged new vows as to the eternal qualities of the friendship and harmony existing between America and Japan.

Japanese Ambassador Saito sent a telegram mentioning "the indestructibility of the traditional friendship." An official of the American State Department remarked that Japan and America have never been enemies and that the American people and government "hope that the record thus established will never be impaired." And President Roosevelt, from afar, shed his blessing on the memorial services to the American seaman who brought Japan into the modern world.

Now all this sounds extremely fine, and might lead one to believe that prospects for continued peace between the two nations were never better—if it were not that each of the governments involved supports a fighting force as well as a handshaking department, and that the fighters don't seem to know just what the handshakers are up to.

The Japanese have been spending millions on their navy lately. They had prepared a whole chain of Pacific islands for war uses. They have refused to be bound any longer by the limitations of the Washington naval treaty. And, somehow, it is impossible to escape the conclusion that, in doing these things, they are thinking principally of friendly old Uncle Sam across the water.

Similarly, America has been and still is spending vast sums on its fleet. The Hawaiian base is being made into a regular Gibraltar. There are rumors of air bases and the like in the Aleutian islands. And, once again, it is very hard to doubt that all this is being done with one eye on the friendly Japanese over beyond the Pacific.

In other words, these two governments seem to be playing the old game of talking peace and preparing to fight.

Either the peace talk is a lot of hokum which isn't meant to be taken seriously, or both nations are spending a lot of money that they might just as well be using for something else.

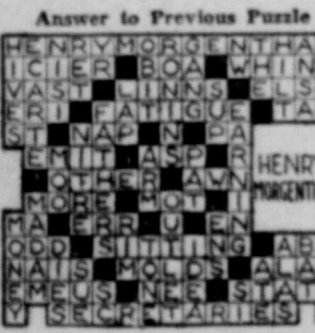

Before we go any farther, we would do well to find out which is the case. The ordinary American has no quarrel with the Japanese—indeed, he rather likes them. And if this talk about indestructible peace is to be taken seriously, he could save a good deal of money on his naval bill.

OURS is a dieting nation. Each morning's newspaper reports an even more fantastic way to banish unwanted poundage. Hollywood beauties have set the fashion in bodies that are slender and diets that are dangerous. But dieting should be regarded as a serious matter. Physicians take it seriously, so do nutritionists. Any slender bodies are not the only purpose of diets.

As every mother knows, in each family there is often need for a diet for anemia, for diabetes, for underweight, for allergy requirements. How can the untrained housewife find recipes and menus of interest when some member of her family must go on a special menu? First, she should consult her family physician, then she might profitably read two valuable new books which give general nutritional and recipe advice to the layman.

Food in Health and Disease
Dietetics Simplified, is by L. J. Bogert, Ph. D., now consultant in nutrition with a nationally known institute and formerly instructor of medicine at University of Chicago and Yale University; and M. T. Porter, M. A., Head of Home Economics and Nutrition, Department of Public Welfare, Utica, N. Y., with an excellent public health and hospital record of experience. This authentic book explains the use of foods in health and disease which will be a revelation to the layman.

Diabetes has become a widespread modern problem. Thanks to insulin, the diabetic can live his normal life without danger and thanks to the scientific studies in diabetic diets, he can also enjoy his life.

A Diabetic Manual, by E. L. Bortz, M. D., Associate Professor of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania and Assistant Editor of the Cyclopaedia of Medicine, is a boon to the housewife who tries to keep her family meals and the special diabetic diet more or less along the same line. It can usually be done when expert advice is at hand, as it is in this practical and thoroughly reliable book by Dr. Bortz. It contains not only medically correct diabetic menus and special measurements given in terms of familiar household utensils, but also many simple yet interesting recipes for the diabetic on his narrowly restricted food list.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Aspirants for presidential nomination in 1940 are entirely relieved by Roosevelt's assurances that he looks forward to retiring to private life on Jan. 20, 1941. They won't be entirely happy until the president gives them a signed affidavit, couched in solemn language, officially sealed and riveted on the White House front door.

Roosevelt said at the Democratic "Victory Dinner" here: "My great ambition on Jan. 20, 1941, is to turn over this desk and chair in the White House to my successor, whoever he may be. . . . But there are those who predict that when the time comes, the president may feel himself unable to realize that "great ambition." They fear—perhaps in some cases, pretend to fear—that he will feel the country needs him desperately. And so they're whispering that his statement is comparable to the rather enigmatic remark of Calvin Coolidge: "I do not choose to run."

There seems to be no sound basis for supposing at this time that F. D. R. has any thought of seeking a third term. Suspicion appears to rest chiefly on the tradition that no president has ever been happy at leaving the White House, even after two terms. Presidential intimates scoff at the thought. Some already are busy speculating as to Roosevelt's 1940 successor, if not actually laying unobtrusive groundwork for certain candidates. They say there isn't any more reason for supposing Roosevelt harbors third-term ambitions than there is for paying serious attention to suggestions Mrs. Roosevelt herself branded that last idea as "idiotic." The mere fact any such phantasy reached such a point that it was raised at one of her press conferences, amply demonstrated that people do get some funny political ideas into their heads.

SPEAKING of what must seem to most folks like squirrel-cage economics:

Men are digging frantically down into the ground for gold. Last year the total gold production was 329,273 ounces, an increase of 17 per cent over 1935. The Treasury paid $55 an ounce for this gold. But then, all it did was to bury the yellow metal in the ground again—some 30 or 40 feet down in its vaults at Fort Knox, Ky. . . .

JOE DAVIES was about the only conspicuous Democratic lobbyist who didn't serve on the committee sponsoring the $100-a-plate Victory Dinner. Joe Tumulty, Woodrow Wilson's wartime secretary, who has made considerable wealth lawyering and lobbying here, was chairman and toastmaster. He sat right next to Roosevelt. Power companies, lobbying against Roosevelt's pet holding company bill, hired Tumulty and paid him $33,000 in a single year. Others among the 30 hosts on the Victory committee included Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, and O. Max Gardner of North Carolina. All three worked for utility companies opposing the holding company measure. All were members of the Democratic national committee before Roosevelt decided such posts were incompatible with their activities. Other lobbyists on the dinner committee included Donald Richberg, former Assistant Attorney General William Stanley, Swager Sherley and Brice Claggett, son-in-law of Senator McAdoo. HER NAME IN LIGHTS

by MARIE BLIZARD

placed Mr. Hammer at her left, Mrs. Carteret at Herzberg's right, Anne opposite her, and Frank Rossiter at the next place. That meant that Larry, or now Lockheed, would have to be between Mrs. Carteret and Jennifer with Mrs. Hammer next to . . .

BUT would it be a good idea to throw this unknown man into conversation with . . . or should she switch Mr. Hammer, no, she couldn't, because he was her guest of honor. Daphne scratched her ear below the sculptured curls.

"Oh, dear," she said and took her first sip of the champagne, "I guess I never cut out to be a hostess. I can't do seem to know where to place people."

"Don't let's bother," Daphne wanted only two things. One that Herzberg would be at her side and away from Jennifer. And the other, that if Larry were there he would be far enough away from her so that she wouldn't have to look up and have him see her eyes, but now Larry was not coming and that . . .

The waiter whispered, "Miss Brett."

She rose. "Our men seem to have arrived."

She followed the waiter toward the lounge to welcome her guests. He was standing with his back to her inspecting a print on the wall.

She knew his name but she couldn't say it. "I'm glad you decided you could come," she said and held out her hand to him.

"Daphne," Larry clung to her hand but he didn't say anything else.

This was a new Daphne. This stunning girl with the cool, clipped voice and the manner of a stranger. If she had known how these past months he had . . .

"Jennifer is a little late arriving. Poor child, she had to work tonight. She's been doing some posing for a photographer."

"Oh, that's splendid."

"It keeps her occupied." Daphne was conscious of the inanity of it all but the furious pounding in her breast, the close tightness in her throat seemed to block off her mind. She couldn't think of anything to say. She couldn't even ask him about himself. She would have found herself blushing something about his looking well and he wasn't . . .

The doors to the rear swung open to let in an icy blast and a radiant Jennifer with a man. "Oh, darling, there you are." She went right to Larry and took his arm. "Daphne this is Mr. Herzberg. My sister, Gordon."

Daphne gave Gordon Herzberg her hand and a smile as radiant as Jennifer's. She was glad to see that he was young; that gave her a line of attack.

"I'm so pleased that you could join us," she said and, taking his arm, led the other two with wary backward glance, back to her table.

"I'm monopolizing you," she said. "Mr. Herzberg; you're going to sit at my right."

"How did you know that was where I wanted to be? I've heard a lot about you, Miss Brett. Your sister tells me you are a very interesting person and that you know a bit about the theater yourself."

"Do you mind talking about the theater? I want you to tell me so much."

Fules Carteret, Douglas Lockheed and Frank Rossiter arrived at the same time and for a few minutes Daphne had no opportunity to pursue her course.

But when the others had gotten up to dance—Larry and Mrs. Hammer were the last—she said to Herzberg, "We can dance later. I want you to tell me about yourself and your new play. The theater was my first love, you know. Do you mind?"

He didn't mind. There were few men who could resist the flattering attention, the intelligent response that Daphne had to give him. He found himself returning eagerly to her side to go on with their conversation.

"Will you dance with me, Daphne?" It was Larry. All evening he had avoided looking in his direction. Now there was no escape. But there was. The lights were dimmed. Carita, the Spanish sensation, was going into her dance.

"Sorry," she said to Larry sweetly and returned her attention to Herzberg.

"Would it . . . would it be asking too much, let me read your new play?"

"I'd be charmed," he said. "I'll send it over to you in the morning. I'd like to see what you think of it."

"If you really mean that," she said softly, "I'll ask you to tea with me on Sunday."

"At four?" he asked.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES
 Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.
 Morning service, 11 a. m.
 Wednesday, testimonial service 8 p. m.
 Public cordially invited.
 "Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, March 21.
 The Golden Text is: "I have declared, and have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you: therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God" (Isaiah 43:12).
 Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might" (Deuteronomy 6: 4, 5).
 The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, waring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God" (page 140).

Freedom of Seas Preferred to Ruling South Sea Island

By United Press
 HOUSTON, Texas—Freedom to sail the seas is preferable to ruling a South Sea island kingdom. L. J. Plesner, third mate aboard the freighter Scottsburg, is the authority for that belief, for he abdicated from the throne of the Isle of Huahine.

"It was a soft life, as the French ruled the island, but let the natives have their own royalty as sort of a favor, Plesner said. The Scottsburg's third mate, a heavyweight boxer when he went to Huahine in 1913, found the life too soft for his inclinations. Plesner said he visited Huahine, a member of the Leeward Island group, after winning the boxing championship of Tahiti. He defeated the best boxer the island, with a population of 7,000, which had to offer before an audience which included the dowager queen and the princess. "I met the royal family who were high type Polynesians," Plesner related, "and in a short exception of about 50," Plesner said. "My luck is still running." Plesner said he drifted from one port to another, fighting here and there, until 12 years ago when he went to work for the Lykes Brothers Steamship lines. He has been in the Far East service since 1929. The third mate is more than six feet tall, weighs about 200 pounds and has a flat nose and a cauliflower ear. He said his fighting days are over except for a "few personal wars." He often thinks of Huahine. "Maybe after all; if I hadn't been such a kid (he was 21), I would have stayed."

A. & M. Student Has Speech Put In Book
 COLLEGE STATION, Texas—Hoke Higdon of Pleasanton, sophomore student in liberal arts at Texas A. & M., was one of 25 college students in the United States to have a speech published in the book "Intercollegiate-After-Dinner Speaking." Higdon's speech was entitled "The Desirability of War." C. O. Surigga, professor of public speaking at A. & M., said the talk was a "beautiful satire on war" and certainly took the audience by storm. "It was given last evening in the college's annual B. B. Downs Oratorical Contest."

Pay Pleasant Visit To Times Force

Friday afternoon brought a very pleasant informal visit to the Times office by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ambrose, whose interest in the cooking school which opens next Tuesday afternoon at the Recreation building is highly apparent. While discussing their display which will center about the new 1937 Coolerator air conditioned box, to be under the sole supervision of Mrs. Ambrose during the four days school, she remembered she was giving the box a complete test through a new ice cream recipe. Better yet, she in her gracious manner decided the Times force should be the judge of her recipe. A delicious container of ice cream was brought to the office by Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose and served the entire personnel, who heartily agree Mrs. Ambrose knows her recipes, and Coolerator is proving tops for 1937 refrigeration.

Newlyweds Visiting In Ranger

Miss Iru Murrell of Sweetwater, attractive daughter of Mrs. L. E. Murrell of Eastland, became the bride of Lane Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Turner of Ranger, the latter part of last week, with Rev. Palmer, pastor of Sweetwater Baptist church of Sweetwater reading the ring ceremony.

The newlyweds arrived in Ranger over the weekend for a visit with his parents, and her mother, before leaving for their home at Jal N. M., where he holds a position with the El Paso Gas Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner have many friends both in Ranger and Eastland who are offering congratulations.

A program of interest has been planned and those desiring to go and haven't way are asked to get in touch with either Mrs. Owen Hinman or Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes.

Outing Plans to Be Carried Out at Later Meeting

Plans for an outing, an entertainment for Junior New Era club members remain slated for the evening of Tuesday, April 6th, when the group will journey to Winsett Springs. The trip was supposed to have been made last week, and since the postponement the above date has been set.

Mmes. Warren and Hill Substitute at Club Program

First Vice President Mrs. Fred Warren, opened the 1920 club program held in the Colonial room, Gholson hotel, Thursday afternoon and members heard a most interesting lesson on "The Stratford-on-Avon Country" under the leadership of Mrs. L. N. Griffin.

The lesson was given as previously announced, with Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Carl Hill substituting for Mrs. M. H. Hagaman and Mrs. L. C. G. Buchanan.

Poem, "Composed at Neidpath Castle the Property of Lord Queensbury, 1803" (Wordsworth) closed the program and was read by Mrs. C. E. May.

Current Interest Turns to Times Cooking School

Late winter with all its low temperatures, snow, sleet and ice, invariably brings a longing for warmer climes, new ideas and home changes. Not every woman has it in her power to drop her general routine of housekeeping and therefore welcomes new and inviting suggestions.

Fortunately, there are new plans brought to us in varied ways, and this week will bring to Ranger a four-day cooking school, Mar. 23, 24, 25, and 26, to be held at the Recreation building each afternoon from 2 to 4, under the supervision of Miss Jessie Hogue.

Few women's experience becomes so enriched that there isn't room for added knowledge, adding an extra degree of satisfaction of be derived in the knowledge you are an efficient home manager.

Attractive displays will be in evidence, and prizes are to be given away at the close of each afternoon's school.

A choice selection of recipes are to be offered, and chosen from them in the following:

- Cocoanut Coffee Frosting
 - 1 cup sugar.
 - 1-2 cup brown sugar.
 - 1-2 cup coffee.
 - 2 egg whites.
 - 3-4 cup cocoanut.
 - 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.
 - Few grains of salt.
- Boil sugar and coffee until the syrup will spin a thread when dropped from tip of spoon. Pour gradually on egg whites beaten until stiff and continue until cool.

Then add cocoanut, vanilla and salt. Pour on cake and spread, leaving rough surface.

Luncheon Salad
On 2 or 3 well bleached leaves of lettuce, place a center slice of 1-2 of a peeled tomato. In the center of tomato place some scrambled eggs and on top of the eggs place 3 very thin slices of boiled ham cut with a 1-inch column cutter and then cut in half again, making small horse-shoe cuts. Lay the ham on top of the egg in a row. Add dressing.

the company, which started "on a shoestring" is being increased from $30,000 to $200,000, which is an indication of its rapid growth.

The business of the company is grading and shelling peanuts, which are now being shipped in large quantities throughout the country, where the peanuts are made into all kinds of peanut products, chief of which are possibly peanut butter and peanut candy.

Since its organization the company has paid thousands of dollars to the peanut raisers of Eastland county, affording a ready market, at good prices, to the grower who can produce high grade peanuts. This money, all of which has been spent during the depression years, has made available a purchasing power that other wise would not have been possible and it has increased business throughout the county to no little extent.

At the cooking school, Miss Jessie Hogue will tell of some of the many uses to which peanuts and peanut products can be put.
