Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wonderly, Arville, Kansas, injured Thursday afternoon when their automobile overturned about one-half west of Olden, were recovered Friday at Payne hospital in Arville.

Wonderly sustained a broken leg while his wife was "completely bruised," according to local authorities.

The accident, it was reported, was from a defective steering or braking mechanism. One of the cars behind the Wonderly machine did not see any reason other than the ability of the car turning over as reported cause.

An ambulance from the Hammett Undertaking company brought those who were at the accident shortly after it occurred and the car was turned over on its side.

Two of three registered Mexican bulldog dogs wandered from automobile after the accident.

The Wheelers' recreation began when they met while he was selling cook books to make college expenses.

PLANE CRASH PROBE STARTS AT PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Mar. 26.—Bureau of Air Commerce investigators examined the scattered wreckage of a Transcontinental and Western Air liner today in an effort to determine the cause of a crash that killed nine men and four women.

The twin-motored ship, bucking strong headwinds, plunged into a hillside, five miles southwest of the Allegheny airport last night, ripped its cabin to splinters and brought death to all its occupants.

Pilot Lawrence Bohnes, a veteran of the airways, had been ready to land. Five miles from the airport something happened. What it remained a mystery. Eyewitnesses said the ship "spit fire" and went into a dive, crashing nose first into a sloping field.

The big plane hit the ground with such terrific force the cabin was split in two.

Other members of the crew included Doris Hammons, of Orange N. J., and Leedy, Okla.

Crash of the transport brought the total deaths in major commercial air disasters in the last three months to 52.

SUPERVISION OF BUILDINGS BEING URGED

AUSTIN, Mar. 26.—A governmental agency to supervise construction of public buildings and the addition of malodorous to natural gas were recommended today by the military court of inquiry which submitted its official report of the New London school explosion.

Confirming findings announced at the close of testimony by Dr. E. P. Schoch, University of Texas chemistry professor and explosives expert, the court report assigned the probable cause to building construction, use of dangerous gas, inadequate pressure and the spark from a manual training motor switch.

"We recommend that some governmental agency of the state be entrusted with the duty of supervising the erection of public buildings in the state, the installation of heating and lighting devices therein, and the periodic inspection of all such buildings, together with all public buildings heretofore erected, and the heating and lighting equipment," the report read.

Founding of Land Bank to Be Noted

The Cisco and Eastland National Farm Loan Associations plan to take an active part in the state-wide observance of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, according to Claude Strickland. It is to be a County wide meeting for all farmers and those interested in farming. The meeting to be jointly sponsored by the Cisco and Eastland associations.

The observance is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m., Saturday, April 3, which will be twenty years since the charter of the Federal Land Bank of Houston was signed. The Cisco association was chartered shortly thereafter with Loan No. 16 as made by the bank. The Eastland association followed and was organized at Eastland in 1924.

Said Strickland:

"The program as prepared will be held at Romney School house between Cisco and Rising Star on Highway No. 23. Same to be a basket picnic general good time farmers meeting for themselves, families, and friends. Everyone voted to join in the program and to bring full baskets. There will be old time fiddlers with plenty of music, interesting speeches, all to be short and snappy, with a special radio program and radio provided to listen in on 30 minute broadcast from Houston featuring dramatic incidents in the history of the bank and the National Farm Loan Associations of Texas. This broadcast will be heard over WPAB and WFAA as well as other stations of the Texas Quality Network.

"This is to be a real birthday celebration and the biggest in the life of the Cisco and Eastland National Farm Loan Associations. All members of the Associations, Commission Loan borrowers, and all farmers and their friends are urged to be present."

Takes Loaf and Jug on Sitdown

A loaf of bread, a jug of water and a hard bench constituted not paradise but the implements of a sitdown strike in the Missouri legislature for Dr. J. A. Gray, Republican representative, pictured above, bread in hand. He chose a hard bench in a capitol office at Jefferson City for his strike, and declared he would remain there until he obtained information as to how many employees, listed on various department payrolls, were working for legislators.

Four Gunman Rob Houston Grocery

HOUSTON, Mar. 26.—Four gunmen robbed a chain grocery of $2,000 today, engaged police and deputy sheriffs in a running gun battle and escaped on foot when they were forced to abandon their automobile.

The bandits shot the tires from one police radio car as they careered wildly through the streets. George Owen, a milk truck driver, said one of the robbers fired from his automobile what sounded like a machine gun.

ALL EUROPE IS THREATENED WITH A WAR

The scene of the heaviest fighting in Spain's civil war, which threatened to involve all Europe today, shifted temporarily from northeast of Madrid to Posoblanco in the south.

Jubilant loyalists, victorious against rebels and Italians, pressed their advance on all sectors of the south-central front, advices reported. Around Madrid Good Friday saw a lull in firing and the loyalists played football near the front lines.

The popular front government sent a note to Great Britain charging the non-intervention committee had approved a system described as illegal and discriminatory, and an aid to the Spanish rebels.

Premier Mussolini indicated he intended to defer action on any Spanish war policy in the hope that the rebels would win a signal victory.

Signing of a treaty between Yugoslavia and Italy was hailed as a real step toward peace. The pact is to run five years. It is a treaty of friendship and non-aggression.

They were Mrs. M. H. Bobo, Lascas, and Mrs. D. J. Dick of Kermit. These two women were the only new out-of-town visitors among the 35 or 40 present today.

"GOOD FRIDAY" WINTER HITS ALL OF STATE

DALLAS, Mar. 26.—Rain, hail and freezing weather gave Texas a "Good Friday spell" of belated winter today.

Dallas was doused with rain and hail, the temperature dropping to 34.

The southern fringe of a blizzard which brought heavy snow in southern Colorado and northern New Mexico caused Amarillo to have a low of 22, Lubbock 24 and Wichita Falls and Abilene 32.

El Paso, with clear skies and a temperature of 40, reported heavy frost.

Dr. J. L. Cline, federal meteorologist, said a low pressure area over the Gulf of Mexico, retreating before a mass of cold air, slipping southward from the Rocky mountains and Middle West, probably would cause a continuation of cold weather over most of Texas tonight.

Universal Mills Has Had a Rapid Growth Since It Was Established in 1921

The story of the rise of the Universal Mills to a dominant position in the milling of fine flour closely parallels the development of the Panhandle-Plains section as the home of the world's best high-protein winter wheat.

Fifteen years ago Texas was a negligible factor in the nation's wheat crop—and it was just a year later (1921) that the Universal Mills was established as a small mixed feed plant at Fort Worth. The founders of the business—Rosser Cook and Gaylord J. Stone—were convinced that there was a place in the Southwest for a mill that would manufacture feeds of superior quality. Events of the ensuing decade rewarded their quality ideals, and by 1930 the Universal Mills "Red Chain" brand of stock and poultry feeds were being handled in carlots by over 400 dealers, and thousands of feeders throughout Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico by their use had endorsed them as being the highest quality, most efficient and economical feeds on the market.

But during all these years while he was pushing Universal Mills to the top in the Southwestern mixed feed industry, Gaylord Stone was perfecting in his mind a secret, lifelong ambition. Descended from a flour-milling family of old Virginia, he had long cherished the desire to make a flour that would become as well and favorably known as his "Red Chain" feeds. But those to whom he talked of his pet idea were not overly enthusiastic. There were already plenty of long-established mills in Texas, manufacturing considerably more flour than the state could consume, and in addition the Mid-Western mills were competing strongly for the business of the Southwest. In the face of all these discouraging facts, what chance had a new flour mill of breaking into this overcrowded market with just another brand of flour?

But Gaylord Stone had nourished his flour mill dream too long to be denied by a few obstacles which after all, were no more serious than those that had confronted his entry into feed milling. And so, after many arguments pro and con with his associates, he finally "sold" the idea to the Board of Directors and in the summer of 1929 work was actually started on the grain elevators and a 2,000 barrel flour mill building.

Mr. Stone and his associates knew full well that "just another flour" would not do, so the entire Universal organization set to work to create a flour definitely superior to any other brand on the market. Prominent mill architects were commissioned to plan the new buildings; leading flour engineers supervised the layout and installation of the brand-new milling machinery; all were instructed to spare neither time, effort nor expense to make this the most modern and efficient flour mill in America.

Leaping Flames Burn Five After Crash

There was a crash of grinding metal, an explosion, then the sheets of roaring flame shown above, when this automobile and truck loaded with gasoline collided in Santa Ana Canyon, near Los Angeles. Five persons, four in the automobile and the driver of the truck, were burned almost beyond recognition.

While the new buildings were rising toward the sky, Mr. Stone, traveled throughout the flour-milling sections, personally interviewing more than 100 applicants for the position of mill superintendent. He at last selected Mr. Walter T. Stedman as being the most capable man available. Mr. Stedman had long been superintendent of one of the best known quality mills of the West and he enjoyed a national reputation for milling flour products of superior quality.

Mr. Stone next employed as chief chemist Mr. Floyd A. Belgar, from one of the most prominent mills of the Middle West, and he selected the rest of the mill personnel with the same care he had exercised in the choice of these two key men.

However, the reception of Universal Mills' flour and its commercial success were still unknown quantities, so only one 1,000-barrel unit was equipped with machinery—the other unit being left unequipped until Universal Mills achieved the then impossible-appearing goal of selling more flour than one unit could produce.

The rolls in the new mill turned for the first time in February of 1930, and during that year thousands of bakers and housewives throughout the Southwestern States tried this new flour and decided that it "had something." In less than two years the first 1,000 barrel unit was working 24 hours per day and still could not satisfy the demand for Universal Flour, and so in 1932 the second unit was likewise equipped from top to bottom with the newest of modern machinery and was devoted exclusively to the milling of bakers' flour—with all family flour being milled in the original unit.

In the short period of seven years Gold Chain Flour has made a "hit" with housewives over the Southwest . . . thousands have learned there is a big difference in flour. Demonstrations made at the cooking school clearly show many of the outstanding merits of this popular product. A. J. Ratliff, local distributor of Gold Chain flour and Red Chain feeds, says: "try one sack of Gold Chain flour from your favorite grocer and if you are not entirely satisfied, return the unused portion and he will be glad to refund you the entire purchase price" . . . no guarantee could be more liberal than this.

Gold Chain Flour is handled in Ranger by A. J. Ratliff, who has helped the rural schools in the county by taking advertising space on their auditorium curtains. These advertisements have all featured Gold Chain Flour.

Letter Gives Hints On Baking Powder

Miss Jessie Hogue who is conducting the Ranger Times Cooking School, says that for the best results in baking it is a good plan to follow these simple rules:

Use the amount of baking powder recommended on the can. Because of the high strength of K C Baking Powder which she is using in the cooking school, only one level teaspoonful should be used to a cup of well sifted flour for most recipes. This is equivalent to one heaping teaspoonful to a quart of flour.

Careful measurement is very necessary as using more or less than a recipe calls for will not produce best results.
Another secret of good baking is to be sure that the baking powder is thoroughly mixed with the flour and other ingredients. The more thoroughly the baking powder and flour are mixed before you add moisture, the better your results are likely to be. Sift three or four times.

For biscuits, make a smooth dough that can be handled without sticking, and bake in moderate oven. For cakes, have your oven slow to moderate at first, until the cake is fully risen; then increase heat so as to just brown lightly.

Miss Hogue says that K C, the brand she is using in cooking schools, is manufactured by baking powder specialists who make nothing but baking powder, controlled by expert chemists of national reputation. It is always uniform in quality and can be relied upon to produce for you, the kind of bakings you will be proud to serve.

News From 4-H Clubs of County

Before a demonstration in 4-H club work is complete, a history and records must be kept and turned in to the home demonstration agent at the end of the club year. From the ones turned in at the end of the year, the twelve best ones were selected and mailed to the district agent. She selects the best twelve from the ones sent her from the 19 counties in her district. Four of those best twelve are histories and records belonging to Eastland county 4-H club girls. Johnnie Foster of the Carbon girls' 4-H club was ranked third place in the district; Addie Spurlen of the Olden girls' 4-H club, seventh place; Lorraine Byrd, Flatwood, eleventh; and Essie Lou Marsh, Romney, twelfth. All these girls are eligible to be gold star girls. —Cornelia Faye Stewart, ass't home agent.

BY JOHNNIE FOSTER

On the 10th day of February, I began my fourth year of club work, which has been one of the most enjoyable ones to me. The garden was not such a problem, because I had already helped mother plant all of our garden for the spring season. We planted a varied variety of vegetables including English peas, lettuce, mustard, turnips, radishes, carrots, beets, green beans, crowder, black-eyed peas, cream peas, spinach, corn, onions, cucumbers, cabbages, butter beans and potatoes.

After these vegetables were gathered we had our garden plowed so that the winter snows and rains would give us a better season and kill the insects. We started our planting in February so we would have an early garden. We had some trouble with the lice eating our cabbage. By pulling up all the heads that had lice, we were able to save the rest of them. The careless weeds tried to take the garden but we finally got them killed.

With the help of mother, we canned 200 quarts of beans, peas, spinach, corn and English peas. Later in the summer, I went to visit my married brother in Louisiana. They had a fine garden but the vegetables were ruining due to my sister-in-law's illness. I immediately tried to save them. She never canned in cans so I went to the home demonstration agent to borrow her sealer. With her help and equipment I was able to can 280 cans of vegetables. While I was in Louisiana, I had the pleasure of helping several of my brother's neighbors can in tin cans. I showed them how to can with little work and it had a better flavor.

With the help of my brother, we built a pantry on the screened porch. He lived in an oil field so we used scrap lumber to build it and the cost amounted to 15c. I enjoyed telling someone what I had learned in my club work.

My clothes did not cost so much this year. From the clothing record I kept, my individual wardrobe cost $34.92. I found that my shoes and hose were my greatest expense.

I took an old gray suit that my brother could not wear and made me a spring suit that cost 80c. I spent 53c in buying some navy blue material for a blouse. I also made a green silk dress. My three club garments cost $1.19. I improved my closet space by adding six coat hangers and making a shoerack and two hat racks. The total cost of improvement was 25c.

I have really enjoyed my club work and have tried to make a success of it. I have tried to take part in everything in order to be an all-round club girl.

BY ADDIE SPURLEN

I joined the club in the early part of the year because I love the club work. I was a wardrobe co-operator of the 4-H club girls at Olden. I wanted to rebuild our closet as it was too small and not built well. The first thing I did was to see what needed to be done. The front of the closet was made from cardboard. A curtain was used for the door, the inside was not painted and there was no shoerack.

I tore down the pasteboard walls and put up new ones. I cut a beaver board door and slipped it into a frame which was made of three-inch flooring. I made a shoerack and painted it and the inside of the closet.

The closet has five shelves, two rods for hanging clothes, a low one for the children and a high one for the grown-ups. The inside of the closet was papered. I also papered the room which the closet was in. This improved the looks of everything in the room.

All the supplies, including paper, paint, lumber, beaver board, hinges and latch only cost $3.55. There seems to be twice as much storage space in the closet as well as looking twice as well. Everything in the closet is in its place.

I have made twelve pieces in this year's wardrobe demonstration. I won first place on my club dress and slip. I decided that improving my closet helped so much I would rearrange our cellar. The first thing I did was to remove all the canned food from the shelves. I then washed the shelves. While they were drying, I whitewashed the ceiling and walls. This made the cellar very light and airy. I painted the shelves white, giving them two coats. I built another group of shelves so we would have plenty of storage space. They were made of scrap lumber.

Before putting the jars on the shelves, I washed them. After the shelves were dry, I placed the canned food on the shelves according to the following classification: leafy vegetables, starchy vegetables, other vegetables, fruits and fruit juices, protein rich food, pickles and relishes, preserves and jellies and miscellaneous.

The cost of the cellar improvement was $1.75. My sister and I had an acre blackberry patch that had paid for our fall and winter clothes for several years.

Last fall the patch was pruned and fertilized. While the berries were in bud, many were killed by a freeze. We knew that the crop could not be over half. Of course, we were disappointed, but we were more disappointed when we found it was going to be less than fourth. The patch produced 88 gallons of berries. Of these, 41 gallons were sold at 25c a gallon, amounting to $10.25. Nine and a half gallons were canned, 23 gallons went to pickers and the remaining 5 gallons were eaten at home.

I am proud of my club work this year but hope to make next year my best club year. My club work has meant a lot to me and its value cannot be estimated. I feel that money could not buy what I have learned.

BY LORRAINE BYRD
About the middle of January my father broke my garden. Some time later the garden was listed. Then as the planting season came, I began to plant my garden.

I had a row of the following vegetables: beans, lettuce, mustard, okra, cucumber and chard. There were four rows of onions and English peas. In the skips of the onions, I planted cabbages. I had three rows of tomatoes and six rows of sweet potatoes. Including the labor and seeds, my garden cost $5.40.

An average garden produces one pound of vegetables to every foot of garden. My garden produced one pound of vegetables to every two feet of garden due to the drought.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The first three days of attack and counter-attack before the Senate Judiciary Committee left administration generals convinced that the opposition will have to develop a more effective fire if the Roosevelt Supreme Court plan is to be defeated.

The Roosevelt case in all its strength, carefully prepared and pruned of its weak points by some of the keenest minds in government service, was laid down to the committee by Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings, Assistant Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson and Judge John Patrick Devaney, president of the National Lawyers' Guild.

Weakness of opposing senators in cross-examination was commented upon by observers in all camps. Press gallery betting odds on the Roosevelt scheme went up. Veteran correspondents, who had seen hundreds of witnesses hounded and harassed by Senate committees, were surprised to find that leaders of the opposition seemed unprepared and unable to pierce the armor of the plan's advocates.

To all of which, the opposition grimly replies: "Just wait and see!" The mental agility of Cummings was the biggest surprise of the early hearings. Some of the attorney-general's own good friends, who had regarded him as an amiable and rather elderly gentleman, not quite fast enough for the give-and-take of such an occasion, were pleasantly astonished.

Instead of being torn to pieces by Senators Borah, Burke, Van Nuys, King, Austin, O'Mahoney, Connally and Steiwer, the attorney-general registered as a nonchalant, confident, drawing every two feet of garden due to the drought. After canning 200 quarts of vegetables and putting up 25 quarts of pickles and using the fresh vegetables on the table, I did not have a surplus to sell.

Since I have arranged my canned food in the cellar according to classification, it is much easier to find the food you are looking for. I can take a can from each group of food and have a good meal.

As a clothing co-operator, I made the three club garments. They cost a total of 83c. In addition to that, I have been sewing for my six-year-old sister. Mother is very busy with the house and other things, and I find I can help her lots by making my little sister's clothing.

I was not able to build a closet for my room but I did make a shoerack. My mother's closet is very dark, so I bought a flashlight to hang just inside the closet door.

Yankee who seemed to be master of the situation. JACKSON demonstrated, as he had on previous occasions, that he was one of the government's three or four most brilliant lawyers. The administration will stand or fall on points he made and sought to prove—that Congress is responsible for proper functioning of the Supreme Court; that the judiciary has usurped a veto power over federal legislation and is rapidly expanding this power; that the Supreme Court is impairing states' rights, and that the court had so impaired its own functioning and prestige that only addition of new members can restore it to balance.

To O'Mahoney of Wyoming, who sought an amendment providing that only 6 to 3 votes could invalidate federal laws, he replied that the Roosevelt bill would leave judicial power exactly where it now is. To Burke of Nebraska, who asked if he would mind enlargement of the court sometime by conservatives, he replied that conservatives always sought to keep things in status quo, that the Supreme Court never initiated anything; that one branch of government was enough to stop things; that progress needed all three branches.

DEVANEY'S big job was to try to smash the O'Mahoney amendment. In this attempt he pointed out that the devastating court decision against the A. A. A. had stood 6 to 3. He added that a requirement of a 7 to 2 vote for validation of a law would mean that a minority of three justices could preserve an act which violated civil or religious liberties; that our judicial system does not work in such a way as to permit the courts to segregate or isolate the constitutional issues in litigation brought before it. BY BESSIE LOU MARSH
My garden consisted of one acre of land and plowed in January. I found that my garden has a better season if it is broken immediately after the fall garden stops bearing. In February, I planted 16 rows of English peas. Later I transplanted cabbages and onions from the hotbed to the garden. Radishes, mustard, lettuce, cucumbers, okra and garden beans were planted that month.

In March, with the help of my sister, who was a garden co-operator, I planted six rows of Irish potatoes, nine rows of pinto beans, 6 rows of the great northern bean, 4 rows of black-eyed peas, 6 rows of sweet corn and transplanted 4 rows of tomatoes.

Since I was to can for the entire family, I canned 56 quarts of English peas, 12 quarts of kraut, 32 quarts of cucumber pickles, 18 quarts string beans, 12 quarts of Irish potatoes, 46 pinto tomatoes, 92 pints of corn, 48 quarts of black-eyed peas. I valued the canned food at $50.00.

Besides the canned food a d supply for the table, I sold 9 bushels of English peas at $1 per bushel, 185 pounds of cabbage at 2 1-2c per pound, 50 pounds of onions at 3 1-2c per pound, 100 pounds of dried beans at 1 1-2c per pound, 200 ears of roasting corn at $1 per 100, and 150 pounds of tomatoes at 4c per pound. The total amount came to $28.87.

As a wardrobe co-operator, I improved my closet very much. In the closet, I added 18 coat hangers and I made a shoerack. Then I papered the inside of the closet. My club dress was made of linette. It had 3 yards in it at 30c a yard. I trimmed it in buttons and a slide to match. The entire dress cost $1.05. The club slip cost 58c and the apron 25c.

Watering Hotbeds
"Excessive watering of tomato plants in a hotbed will produce 'spindling plants,'" says Helen Hagar, garden co-operator of the girls' 4-H club at Mangum. "The watering should be done in the morning so that the plants will dry off before evening."

Temperature of Hotbeds
"The temperature of the hotbed should be as nearly uniform as possible, and can be controlled by proper ventilation," says Commie Eeago, garden demonstrator of the New Hope girls' 4-H club. "The hotbed should be given little ventilation by lifting the sash or cover on all but cold or very windy days. On cold nights, the hotbed sash should be covered with straw, hay or blankets, so that the heat will be conserved. It is well to keep a pile of straw at the hotbed so that it can be used at any time needed."

Transplanting from Hotbed
"Tomato plants should be moved from the hotbed as soon as they have developed their third leaf," says Drucilla Pharr, garden co-operator of the Romney girls' 4-H club. "At this time, the plants will be 3 or 4 inches high. If the plants are watered freely before transplanting, the soil will adhere to the roots."

The Mangum girls' 4-H club, which is the newest girls' 4-H club in the county, has reached their goals up to date 100 per cent. A total of 3,075 tomato plants are growing in their hotbeds. Each girl has her sewing box equipped with thread, needles, thimble, scissors, pins, pin cushion and tape. Their first garment, gown or pajamas, is cut-out and will be finished by next club meeting. Mrs. C. E. Nolen is working with the girls as sponsor.

Killing Talented Men—Is That Efficiency?

Another "treason trial" seems to be in the making at Moscow.

Alexis L. Rykow and Nikolai Bukharin, until recently two of the most prominent men in the Russian scheme of things, have been expelled from the Communist party...

During the French revolution, someone remarked that "the revolution is devouring its own children." Never was the truth of this aphorism brought out more terribly than during the past year in Russia...

One's first reaction to this sort of thing is to shudder with horror and conclude that Russia is at the mercy of a conscienceless band of assassins.

What is significant about it all is that these outbursts of cold, calculated violence are part of the price that must be paid for a dictatorship.

For a dictatorship has no room for an opposition. The state must be completely responsive to a single will...

So a dictatorial machine must be completely ruthless. The men in charge of it are not dictators because they are bloodthirsty and unscrupulous...

And this leads us to a point worth bearing in mind. The Fascist and the Communist share the notion that democracy is too inefficient and cumbersome...

But—is it? Is it efficiency, to live by a system which compels you to kill all the prominent men who do not agree with you?

Is not a dictatorship, with its spies, its blood purges, and its subterranean treasuries, actually the most inefficient form of government that could possibly be devised?

Maine guide says deer are vain creatures, always looking at themselves in pools. Maybe they're trying to figure out why hunters should be mistaken for them.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Service Star Writer

THERE is something new under the Easter sun. It's a daffodil cake, made of a layer of sponge and a layer of angel food plus the spotlight of pineapple flowers. So roll up your sleeves.

Pineapple Daffodil Cake Bottom layer—1 cup cake flour, 1-1/4 cups sifted sugar, 1 cup egg whites (8 eggs), 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add 1-2 teaspoon cream tartar and the salt, then sift 4 times. Beat egg whites with flat wire whisk until foamy. Then add remaining 1-2 teaspoon cream of tartar and continue beating eggs until stiff enough to form peaks, but not dry.

Fold in sugar, a little at a time. Fold in flouring. Then sift small amount of flour over mixture and fold in carefully, add more flour a little at a time until all is used. Turn into layer cake pan, 9 by 2 inches. Bake 1 hour in slow oven (300 degrees F.)

For Yellow Layer

Top layer—1-1/2 cups cake flour, 1-1/4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup plus 2 teaspoons sifted sugar, 5 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon lemon extract, 6 tablespoons cold water.

Sift flour, then measure. Add baking powder and salt, sift together 3 times. Add sugar gradually to well beaten egg yolks, beating with rotary beater after each addition of sugar until thick and light. Fold in flour, a little at a time, and blend. Add flavoring, then cold water gradually, mixing only enough to blend.

Turn into layer cake pan 9 by 2 inches. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) one hour. Use eggs which have been out of the refrigerator for several hours. Grease only the bottom of the cake pans, line bottom with wax paper. Allow cakes to cool in pans, do not invert.

IN INDIA, TRACTORS ARE CAUSING ELEPHANTS TO BE DISCARDED AS WORK ANIMALS.

Elephants long ago were discarded in warfare, but until the present day they have been used in heavy transporting. Now the use of tractors has reduced the elephant's usefulness, and in the eastern state of Mysore, only 20 elephants are in use for industrial purposes. In ceremonial displays, the animal still remains an important factor.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

FIRMLY believing that all boss players not only die broke but fail to pay their bills before passing away, a posse of Texas business men have banded together and are endeavoring to have horse racing ruled off the course in the Lone Star State.

With the aid of churchmen, they have persuaded the Senate to pass a bill repealing the law under which racing is legal. The bill seems quite innocent. It merely requires that 90 per cent of the employees at Texas race tracks be Texans. But tacked on to the end as a rider are a few sentences prohibiting betting on horse races.

This bill is now before the Texas House and even the most hopeful of the horsemen fear that racing is riding for a fall.

And it was only four years ago that racing was legalized in Texas amid the joyous whinnies of the populace. But now, despite the fact that the state collected $500,000 or so in taxes from the tracks last year, that enthusiasm has died down. Especially the enthusiasm of the business men.

"On the days that people go to the races they don't go shopping," mourns Billy Peyton, San Antonio credit man. "The stores are deserted."

Mr. K. H. Parker, Dallas real estate man, says that he thinks the money spent on race track wagers last year would have bought 2,000,000 suits of clothes, or 1,500 homes, or 228,000 radios, although heaven knows what anybody would want with that many radios.

IT'S too bad for the race folk that Col. W. T. Waggoner isn't alive. The old millionaire oil and cattle king fought a successful one-man battle for legalization of racing and undoubtedly he would be able to save it.

Colonel Waggoner was so enthusiastic about horses and racing that he built beautiful Arlington Downs track at Dallas—grand stand, clubhouse, peacock stables and all—four years before betting was legalized. Then he offered large enough purses to attract pretty good horses from around the country to run against his own and other Texas ponies and conducted the only track in the U. S. without betting.

It cost the colonel something like $2,000,000 to erect the plant on his Three-D Stock Farm-land, and many thousands more to operate the track, but money meant little to him. He was fabulously wealthy and owned more land than the state of Rhode Island.

His track is the finest of the four major plants in Texas. It has a mile-and-sixteenth strip, a glassed-in grand stand, a luxurious clubhouse and a seating capacity of 7500. Last year a "lote" was installed by his sons, Guy and Paul, who have inherited some of their father's love of horses.

The other three major tracks are Alamo Downs in San Antonio, Epsom Downs in Houston and Fair Park in Dallas. They aren't as elaborate as the Waggoner plant but they cost thousands to build and their owners are willing over the fact that they will be good for nothing except chicken roasts if the repeal bill goes through.

Trailer ADVENTURE

BY NARD JONES

©1937, NEA Service, Inc.

Apparently, he had won Betty, for now she appeared, too, quite as if she'd known Gerry Neal all of her life.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 MARTHA BRITTAIN and BETTY HAYNES overtook on their California vacation trip and had themselves stranded in San Diego. They discover an ad of the Airstream Trailer Company and obtain an assignment to travel up the west coast, demonstrating the new do-luxe trailer. Their suspicions are aroused somewhat when ARNOLD SLOSS of the Airstream company fails to ask for either bond or references.

Elated at the prospect of the trip and money, nevertheless, the two purchase travel outfits and return to their apartment to pack. At their door they surprise a handsome young man trying to enter. Apologetically, he tells them he stepped off at the wrong door and that his name is GERRY NEAL. At first alarmed, the girls soon incline to dismiss the incident. But Martha doesn't forget Neal. They start northward. And on the outskirts of a little town they are halted by an unshaven young man seeking a ride. He is Neal.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER III

Neal recognized them he gave no sign of it. "I hope you'll pardon me," he said. "But it's really tough getting a lift these days. Would you object very much to my riding along with you?"

The question was put so frankly and in such a friendly tone, that Martha—despite Betty's frantic nudging—heard herself saying, "I—I guess not, but it's only a coupe."

The young man looked contrite. "I wouldn't want to crowd you," Martha looked at him. He did appear tired and down on his luck, and there was something about his eyes which made her, instinctively, trust him and want to help him. She smiled. "Are you sure you don't remember seeing us before?"

"Why . . ." He searched her face hesitatingly. "Say! You're the girls who lived in the apartment below me in San Diego!"

"Yes," said Betty, a trifle belligerently. "You were trying to get into our apartment."

Neal laughed. "I assure you it was a mistake. You see, I was a little excited. My intention was to get into my own apartment and quietly retrieve this suitcase—without paying the rent. I suppose I was so afraid of meeting the landlady that I forgot to watch my floor!"

His predicament was so parallel to the one they had faced that Martha and Betty found themselves joining in his laughter.

"This is really mighty kind of you," Neal said as they climbed into the little coupe. "Especially in view of the fact that I haven't had a shave since yesterday morning and my clothes are a little road-worn."

He was openly curious about their trip, and as they drove along the Martha told him the story of Car-

Always honest with herself, she admitted that she had been attracted to him. Even at that first meeting, in the half-light of the hall in that San Diego apartment, she had found Neal interesting. She had, in fact, found him more interesting than she would have admitted to Betty Haynes. And now she had picked him up on the road. A moment ago she'd been so foolish as to mention that she and Betty had received money from Arnold Sloss. Nervously Martha visioned the revolver she had purchased in San Diego. It was in the pocket of the door nearest Neal. She wouldn't, she realized in sudden panic, have the slightest chance of reaching it if Gerry Neal decided against it.

But if Neal intended trickery he was at least leisurely about it. The afternoon hours passed swiftly, and as they drew nearer to Long Beach he still gave no sign of being anything more than a happy-go-lucky young man temporarily out of luck. Apparently, too, he had won Betty—for now she was talking merrily, too, quite as if she'd known Gerry Neal all her life.

"By the way," Neal said at last, rubbing his chin, "I'm frightfully embarrassed about arriving in Long Beach with two charming young ladies and no shave. I've a razor in my bag and I'm just wondering if you'd let me get into that fancy trailer and use it."

"Of course," Martha said quickly, slowing down. "There's a good mirror and a wash basin."

Taking his bag from between his feet, Neal stepped down into the road. "Well," he smiled, "I hope you recognize me when we meet at the Golden State Auto Park."

Martha listened for the click of the trailer door, then shoved the car into gear. "He may not have much money or baggage," she told Betty, "but he packs a lot of nerve around with him. When he got into the road I had half a mind to drive off and leave him standing there."

"I think he's nice, after all," said Betty. "Why would you want to do that?"

"That isn't our trailer. We have no right to let him in there."

Betty shrugged. "He's harmless. And anyhow, it's better to have him in there where he's safe."

The streamlined trailer and the little coupe sped northward, skirting gay Balboa and Newport Harbor, rolling easily through Venice with its lanes of tall oil-well derricks.

"Wonder if we ought to liberate the prisoner," mentioned Martha, set that suitcase out on the curb and drive away from here."

But before this could be accomplished Neal had reappeared. "Everything's set," he said. "Jack's going to meet me." He got back into the coupe; and with a side-long glance at her companion Martha shoved the car into gear.

As they sped along, Neal talked entertainingly. There was no doubt but what he was well educated and had traveled. Whatever his luck was now, he had known better fortune.

AS Martha drove the little coupe, listening to Gerry Neal's pleasant voice, she wondered if she were being a fool.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—The national conference on constitutional amendment, which once promised to be an historic session and was scheduled to begin here March 18, has been postponed because most of its sponsors didn't want to get in the way of what they considered, temporarily, the big band-wagon.

Earlier it had appeared that the conference might prove an embarrassment to Roosevelt's Supreme Court proposal, proclaimed after the call for the conference. Then it began to appear that most of the leaders in the movement, and the delegates, would be in favor of the President's plan, plus an amendment.

The conference was planned to bring the liberals of the country together and get them behind a constitutional amendment, since progressives appeared to be divided—between perhaps a dozen different plans for Supreme Court change. It may yet be called again for that purpose.

But as the event drew near, it became apparent that the liberals could no more agree as to various other problems, possibilities and phases of the meeting than they had previously been able to agree as to the most desirable type of amendment.

The only thing organizers of the conference ever did agree on was that they would rather not take a chance on embarrassing the Roosevelt drive to change complexion of the court.

powerful training station team in check while they marched to an early touchdown.

Then, with two minutes to go, the Middles, leading 6-0, started another drive. They marched down to the two-yard line where Navy Bill Ingram plunged into the center of the heaving line.

The ball popped out of his clutch across the goal line right into the arms of Dizzy Edson, Great Lakes' halfback, who later became a star on Washington and Jefferson's great eleven.

DIEZY hugged the ball to his bosom and took stall down field. Five Great Lakes men gathered around him as con- Ten . . . twenty . . . thirty . . . forty . . . past midfield roared the triumphant formation . . . ten . . . twenty more . . . a touchdown was at hand . . .

What happened there was, next to Chateau Thierry, the worst battle of the war—almost. A huge tackle on the Great Lakes team, named Blacklock, plucked the Navy sub off the ground and smashed him back down again with his fist. The Middle got back up. And, just like everything that goes up, went back down.

Middles and sailors tumbled from the opposite stands, full of fury. It looked like a German sabotage plot to wreck our Navy but the officers managed to persuade the boys to save their fighting for the North Sea.

But what about the game? Who won? Well, the referee gave the Great Lakes team the touchdown, Blacklock kicked goal, the enlisted men won, 7-6, the offending Middle was court-martialed, and Paddy Driscoll's team won on to win the National championship in Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

Swank, Songs and Gaiety of "On the Avenue" Make Hit

Swinging merrily along to the tune of the best songs ever written by the greatest song writer in the world, "On the Avenue" opening Sunday at the Arcadia Theatre, represents Irving Berlin at his melodious best, in a musical that is full of pep and lifting good spirits.

With Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll making a new and romantic twosome of musical comedy, the lively Twentieth Century-Fox musical presents a real-life romance of New York, in a show that is as big as the town. Alice Faye, The Ritz Brothers and George Barbier add both melody and mirth to the production.

Madeleine Carroll, noted hitherto for straight dramatic roles, makes a charming sweetheart for Dick Powell.

Swank in its songs, in its romantic stars, and in its lovely choruses, "On the Avenue" has the added virtue of presenting some merrily madcap performances by reliable Hollywood funmakers.

Worthy of a separate note are the distinctive and lovely melodies Irving Berlin composed for the film. "This Year's Kisses," "You're Laughing at Me," "Slumming on Park Avenue," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "The Girl on the Police Gazette," and a novelty number written for the Ritz

Tennessee Cotton Picker in Soviet Fields as Russia Aims at Industrialized Farming

That Soviet Russia is moving toward industrialization of agriculture, particularly cotton, and that the Soviet has plenty of cotton to industrialize, is shown by these two photographs. Below is the Rust Cotton Picker, with John Rust, one of its two brother inventors of Memphis, Tenn., shown, arm extended, during an experimental tryout near Tashkent, Asiatic Russia. Rust, who has just returned to the United States after seven months spent in Russia adapting the invention to Russian needs, predicted mass production by the government there within a year. The upper photo shows tests being made with a Russian-made cotton picker, a suction type with tubes operated by hand. The photo also gives evidence of the productivity of Russian cotton fields.
