Scoutmaster Book Termed Useful For Training of Boys

This new book developed by the Boy Scouts of America for the use of its volunteer leaders who are dealing with boys is extremely useful to everyone who teaches a boy, who has a boy, or who even knows a boy. Someone has said that if he were east on a desert island the Boy Scout handbook would be the book he would most certainly choose to take with him.

Those who live in communities, urban or rural, might prefer this handbook for scoutmasters because it takes up all sorts of aspects of human relations. It is very much more readable than most books of this type, being written in informal, attractive style. The illustrations are a joy and an inspiration having been made by the well-known artist, Remington Schuyler. Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive, was closely related to the project from its beginning and has contributed many suggestions and actively participated in the development of the book. The manuscript was written by William Hillecourt of the editorial service of the Boy Scouts of America.

Besides technical information for scout leaders on various phases of scoutcraft and scout leadership, there is a fine section on the scout program itself. The psychology of boyhood, community relationships, a bibliography that makes the book of value to general readers, activities features which include games that can be played in the home or on the playground, the latest wrinkles in camping, menu planning, hiking and health and safety in the open—have been designed to carry for the book a place on the home bookshelf and not just in the library of the social worker. The Boy Scouts of America for more than a quarter of a century have been a part of American life, one of the accepted institutions in the community. The new handbook for scoutmasters is worthy of the reputation that they have built up.

Spain's Fascist Trial
Leads Only Downward

Someone once remarked that the true measure of a civilization is the way it treats the helpless—racial minorities, paupers, children, and others who are forever at society's mercy.

If that is true, then what we are seeing in Europe is the rise of a civilization which is down somewhere on the level of that of Attila the Hun.

Making all due allowances for propaganda and inaccurate reporting, it is impossible to read the dispatches from Spain without feeling that Fascism—as revealed by its method of making war—is nothing less than a throwback to those dark ages in human history which we had hoped were forever behind us.

Read the accounts of the evacuation of helpless children from Bilbao—and try to remain unmoved.
"The rebel government had refused angrily to grant safe conduct to the children," says a United Press dispatch, "asserting that evacuation of non-combatants would make Bilbao harder to capture."

If you will reflect for a moment on the philosophy implied by that refusal you will get a glimpse of something too dark and horrible for a decent society to put up with.
The obvious, unmistakable implication is that these Fascist commanders are intentionally striking at their enemies through the bodies of children—striking at them that way on the theory that, unable to endure the sight of murdered children, their enemies eventually will lose the will to go fight.

This is borne out by past performances. The assault on Guernica, where military objectives went untouched while airplane squadrons bombed and machine-gunned helpless noncombatants penned up in a burning city; the repeated shelling and bombing of Madrid, where thousands of noncombatants have been slain for no military advantage whatsoever—these things prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that Fascism, when it fights, strikes down the weak and helpless wifely and by design.

What are we to make of this? What, except that Fascism simply represents an utter collapse of everything that we understand by the word civilization?

This does not mean that we must at once "take sides" in this foreign war. It does not mean that we must prepare to take up arms ourselves to destroy this lower form of civilization. We have had one experience in the matter of "making the world safe for democracy" by force, and it ought to be enough.

But it does mean that we must recognize facts. We must know this thing, Fascism, for what it is—for what it has convicted itself of—and understand, once and for all, that no matter how bad a fix civilization may get itself into, the road blazed by the Fascists in Spain can lead nowhere except downward to something worse.

NOW WOULDN'T THIS BE IRONIC?

"THIN BLUE LINE" NOW THINNER;
VETERAN OF 86 IS G. A. R. "BABY"

Only 7886 Bluecoats
Still Remain on Pension Rolls

By NEA Service

BRUCEVILLE, Ind., May 29.—
The "thin blue line" of the men who fought for the Union during the Civil War of 1860-'64
grows thinner each year.

Post after post of the G. A. R., Union veterans' organization, is giving up its charter as its last member answers "taps." Many a town which saw an elaborate hall built to accommodate the hundreds of veterans who came home in '65 now see that hall dusty and empty, its last tenant gone to join the final muster.

There are today 7,886 Union veterans on the rolls of the Veterans' Administration at Washington for pensions. More than a million were mustered out in
'64.

That was 73 years ago. A boy of 17 who joined the army in the last year of that way would be 90 today.

AT 86, HE'S YOUNGEST

WILLIAM STRANGE at 86
proudly wears the G. A. R.
medal, and believes he is the youngest Union veteran of the Civil War. He was only a boy, 13 years old, when he enlisted in Company E, 143rd Illinois Infantry.

It is impossible to establish with absolute finality Strange's claim.
But Veterans' Administration records indicate that Strange is actually the youngest of those who have actively claimed the honor.
Sparing some claim not yet advanced, Strange appears to merit the title of the "youngest Civil War veteran"—at 86!

Strange was born at Loogootee, Ind., June 13, 1850. When he was 12 years old he was apprenticed to a jeweler. The work proved dull amid all the excitement of the war. Then Strange's big brother came home on furlough from Gen.
Grant's army with thrilling tales of Ft. Donelson and Shiloh, and Vicksburg. The boy determined to follow his big brother into the army.

In the spring of '64, he went to Centralia, Ill., where the 143rd was encamped, awaiting replacements. The officers laughed and winked at each other when

William Strange

the boy, who was five feet and one inch tall and weighed 81 pounds, announced that he wanted to enlist.

As a joke, one officer assigned him to watch a certain gate and to allow no one to pass without an order signed by the colonel.
The boy, gravely concerned with his first "duty," armed himself with a heavy club and took his post at the gate.

HE BECOMES A SOLDIER

PRESENTLY a hugh Irish soldier, returning very drunk
from a trip to town, approached the gate. The boy challenged him.

"Devil take you and the colonel, too!" roared the Irish soldier. "Get out of me way!"

Seeing his future as a soldier vanishing, young Strange gripped his club firmly and brought it down on the soldier's head. Then, frightened, he ran to the officers to tell that he had done. The soldier was only knocked out, and the officers laughed at their fearless little "sentry."

Indianian is Believed Youngest Civil War Vet

Next morning the regiment was entraining, and one captain noted Strange standing on the platform, tears in his eyes. "Get on, Billy," he called, just as the train was pulling out. And that is how Billy Strange, 13 years old, came to be a soldier.

He was mustered in as 18 years old.
Billy carried the regulation
"Springfield and 40 rounds," and was actually under fire during an attack by guerrillas in Tennessee.
Mustered out at the end of the war, he went west and lived an adventurous life as wagon train driver, shepherd, Indian fighter, wild west show entertainer, policeman and mail rider. But the moment when the muster officer wrote his name on the rolls of the regiment remains the proudest of his life.
Most of the older comrades of those days are dead.

LAST ROLL CALL NEAR

MANY faded charters, many a worn Bible or heavy sabbre, many dusty books of post records have been turned over to national G. A. R. headquarters in San Francisco or given to historical societies or museums. One by one the local posts of these aging veterans are ending their 70-year existence as the last member dies and the organization which so deeply influenced American life from 1870 to 1900 gradually recedes into history. The Grand Army of the Republic is nearing the last roll call.

Son to Hear Father's Commencement Talk

of delivering a commencement address solely for his 16-year-old son, Paul, who is the only graduating senior in a private school at Oklahoma City.

THEY wanted to know what War Admiral would do when looking in the eye.

War Admiral gave them their answer when Pompoon, on the rail-pulled up alongside of the little Man of War colt and actually took the lead in the stretch of the Preakness. Under the circumstances only a true son of Big Red could have tackled the flying product of Pompee, the sprinter, and had the final "kick" to score.

With Charley Kurtsinger having an armful of horse through-practically the entire mile and a quarter, War Admiral turned the second fastest Kentucky Derby on record.

Only one Preakness has been turned faster than War Admiral's High Quest came down in front in 1934 in 1:58 1-5, but his was a lightning-fast strip, and he had his famous stablemate, Cavalade, roaring at his heels.

On an off track and favored by none too good a ride, War Admiral negotiated the mile and three-sixteenths only one-fifth of a second slower.

IT looks as though Pompoon in his three-year-old year is destined to be what Discovery was to Cavalcade. But for the presence of War Admiral, Pompoon, from a sprinting line, would be considered a capable router in a season of pretty good three-year-olds.

I doubt that we have seen a horse like War Admiral in years.
Samuel D. Riddle's prize has all the speed that Discovery and Head Play, which lacked racing soundness, possessed. Discovery beat King Saxon by eight lengths in the Brooklyn Handicap of 1935, with Omaha two lengths in back of King Saxon. This gives you a rough idea of War Admiral's pick up and go.

Present indications are that War Admiral is the year's best horse of any age, just as the three-year-old Granville was in 1936.

To date, War Admiral has never been worse than third, and that only once. He has won seven of 10 starts, was twice second, and showed the other trip. He has earned $121,925.

IF War Admiral remains sound—something few spring phenom-ens have done—he has little to defeat among older heads now in training.

Only time will tell whether any of the other three-year-olds will develop to be in War Admiral's class.

The Admiral should further demonstrate his superiority over his own division in the Belmont Stakes at a mile and a half, June 3.

War Admiral can't win all of the big stakes because of their phre-nology. Pompoon lost nothing but first money in the Derby and Preakness, both of which brought Jerry Loucheim's entrant higher in expert opinion.

The Saratoga Cup and the Jockey Gold Cup often bring together the more formidable of the handicappers and three-year-olds, and it would be entertaining to have War Admiral show the current handi-cappers what a handicap really is.

The Golden Text is: "I am with thee to save thee and to deliver thee, saith the Lord. And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, and I will rescue thee out of the hand of the terrible" (Jeremiah 15:20, 21).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "O Lord, how great are thy works and thy thoughts are very deep.
. When the wicked spring up, and when all the workers of iniquity do flourish; it is that they shall be destroyed forever" (Psalms 92:5, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Animal magnetism has no scientific foundation, for God governs all that is real, harmonious, and eternal, and His power is neither animal nor human" (page 102).

Public Is Warned That 'Dry Ice' Can Be Very Dangerous

NEW ORLEANS—Following the ice wagon may not be dangerous to children, but their handling of "dry ice" presents a new physical hazard.

"Don't play with 'dry ice,'" the Orleans Parish Medical Society warned. And the message was for adults as well as children, for indiscriminate handling of the material may seriously attack and destroy tissues.

"Children all over the United States have made it a practice to follow the ice wagon to get a small amount of ice to eat," the society said.

"With advent of 'dry ice' used by vendors of many types of frozen dairies sold on the streets, children now beg for the surplus 'ice' which vendors usually throw away as their stock become low.

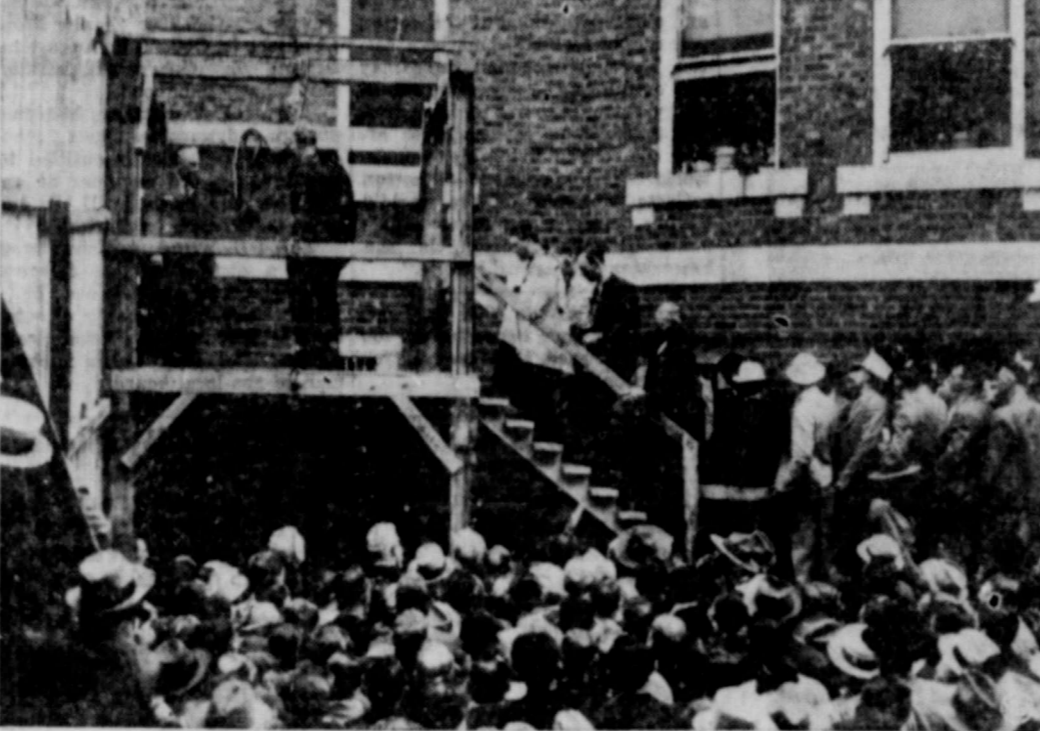

"It seems that this new refrigerant fascinates the youngsters. They have found out that if they hold a small amount of it in their mouths and breathe through their noses, a condensation of the cold resembles breath on a frosty morning.

"On interviewing some of our local adolescents, we learn that this is called 'blowing off steam.' Because 'dry ice' is a tissue destroyer, it is now used in removing blemishes, the doctors pointed out. Placing it in the mouth has resulted in many cases of ulcers and other injury. The society cited a case from New York in which a child had to be treated for two weeks in a hospital from swallowing a piece the size of a grape.

As Killer Walked Up Last Nine Steps to Gallows

From out of the Ozark slopes for miles around the hill folks came into Galena, Mo., to watch Roscoe (Red) Jackson take his last walk up the nine steps to the gallows. This picture of the scene was made just a few seconds before the execution. Jackson, convicted of killing Pearl Harrah, Evansville, Ind., traveling salesman who gave him a lift on the highway, walks behind the priest. Sheriff L. H. Coin, his back to the camera, stands on the gallows with his hand on the trap door lever.

Truck Owners Are Still Worried Over The Trucking Law

AUSTIN.—Merchants and manufacturers who deliver to customers and include delivery charges are not entirely at ease with the promise that they will not be considered operating for hire.

They were so assured at a conference with Gov. James V. Allred and the railroad commission when they visited the governor to ask submission of a new truck law to replace the one vetoed by the governor.

The difficulty is that there has been a court decision in addition to the supreme court ruling in the New Way lumber case that goes farther than the New Way case.

The New Way case held that where a direct charge was made for delivery of goods the merchant or manufacturer was engaged in transportation business. The other case, decided at Galveston, says that even no direct charge is made for the delivery, courts are not so simple minded as to believe that the merchant or manufacturer does not reimburse himself in some way for the delivery, and therefore is in the transportation business.

Magician Fools Humane Society

By United Press
 ST. LOUIS.—The story of how a magician who "ate" goldfish fooled even the Humane society into starting an investigation, has been revealed here.

As part of his stage act a magician would reach into a goldfish bowl, produce what appeared to be a genuine swimmer and swallow it. Indignant, the Humane society installed an agent in the wings of the theatre.

It developed that the magician was merely eating a fish-shaped piece of carrot.

Historical Precedent Shows Justices Appointed To Supreme Court Have Habit of Crossing President

BY JOHN A. REICHMANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON. — President Roosevelt will have little assurance that whomever he picks to succeed Justice Willis Van Devanter when the latter retires from the Supreme Court bench will follow his ideas, a survey of historical precedents reveals.

From the time of Thomas Jefferson to the days of President Hoover, supreme court appointees have had the habit of "walking out" on the ideas of the chief executive who named them.

Pueblo, Colo., Is On Deep Snow Rim
By United Press
PUEBLO, Colo. — Apparently the deep snow country is in Pueblo's own back yard.

As Violence Flared in U. A. W. Drive on Ford

Fists flew with a vengeance, as pictured here, when members of the United Automobile Workers' Union attempted to distribute handbills urging "Unionism, Not Fordism" to Ford workers at the company's River Rouge plant, Detroit. At left, one of the green-bereted members of the U. A. W.'s "emergency brigade" fights back at workers who forced the women to board a street car. At right, a Ford worker appears to be getting the better of a pugilistic argument with a U. A. W. propagandist.

Can You Swim? If Not Read How It Can Be Done

There is nothing hard or difficult about learning to swim. There are some things that you must understand and take into consideration, and when this is done you will find the learning easy.

The first thing that you must know is that the fear of water is a natural thing. It is an instinctive thing. We are born with it, and if we do not have it, or have not had it there is something unusual. It is nothing to be ashamed of. It is just as natural as the fear of high places, the fear of caves, or close places, or any of the other natural fears. They are protective instincts.

Asking Divorce, Says Andy Cruel

"Andy" is known to millions on the radio as the blackface partner of "Amos," but to Mrs. Charles J. Correll, above, "Andy" is a husband and he is guilty of cruelty and abandonment, she charged as she filed suit for divorce in Chicago. They were married in 1927.

water with comfort and ease. The shallow end of a swimming pool is the best place. You can hold on to the sides and there are no currents to take you out to deeper places.

The second step is to learn to float. In waist deep water submerge the head completely and with your hands pull your knees to your chest. This is an easy floating position and is one from which you can easily and naturally regain your feet.

glide or easily slide through the water in this manner learn to slide from 15 to 20 feet.

You now have the foundation of learning to swim. You float balance and glide, and can easily regain your feet. Furthermore fear of the water is gone and you will know that you are going to learn to swim although you have not yet taken a stroke.

There is a real pleasure in teaching a person to swim who did not learn as a boy. It means so much to them. It means the opening up of a new field of participation, and confidence and pleasure takes the place of doubt and distrust.

We have come to the conclusion that there is no such thing as "final." When we closed our doors Saturday night for the last time in business in Ranger, we felt as if we had left our dearest friends behind. But so many of our new found friends in this entire community found time to give us words of encouragement that we really know that you have appreciated us here, and we are deeply grateful for all the kindnesses and patronage bestowed upon us.

Through circumstances over which we had no control we found it necessary to close our Ranger store. Our stocks here were still full of many preferable selections. We will move it to our Eastland store and during the coming week, on Thursday, June 4th, we will start a consolidation sale and place our entire Eastland stock on sale with the Ranger stock.

Those who failed to get advantage of the low prices here are invited to come to Eastland and take part in our big value event there with the opportunity to select from two tremendous stocks of merchandise. Again we thank everybody and assure you that whenever you are in our store in Eastland we shall extend to you every courtesy and a warm greeting.

Wake Up and Live, Musical Laugh Hit Comes to Arcadia

With a good deal of its action occurring in a great broadcasting plant, identified in the film as Radio Center, "Wake up and Live", the 20th Century Fox musical featuring Walter Winchell, Ben Bernie and Alice Faye, now at the Arcadia theatre, offers an interesting comparison of microphone techniques and the broadcasting mannerisms of some of your favorite air-wave stars.

As the news-casting columnist with the lightning-like delivery, Walter Winchell plays a familiar role, representing the fast-talking radio commentator, sure and crisp in his delivery, and imparting that breathless quality that you associate with his familiar "flash".

Ben Bernie affords a contrast to Winchell, with his slow drawing humor and the casual, off-hand manner in which he takes the radio audience into his confidence. Modern radio entertainment owes much to the extemporaneous manner in which Bernie conducts his programs, breaking through the cold and formal air of broadcasting, and cutting a new path by "kidding" the very product he sponsored.

Alice Faye, of course, owes her present screen eminence to radio popularity, becoming widely known as a singer with Rudy Vallee's orchestra and winning larger fame when radio audiences found she looked just as good as she sounded.

For that most familiar of all radio phenomena, "Mike fright," observe Jack Haley as he muffs his big radio chance at an audition. Unnerved by a previous singer's collapse, Haley timidly approaches the mike and finds, to his horror, that it is growing larger and larger. His tongue sticks to his mouth and his vocal chords refuse to function. Finally, in a cold sweat of terror, he faints away, another victim to the cure that intimidates all radio tyros, the mike.

WASHINGTON.—A tentative version of the administration's long-awaited wage and hour bill has been drafted, but the measure is not yet in final form.

This far-reaching legislative proposal will be the subject of the President's next message to Congress in all probability.

The bill, as previously forecast in these dispatches, will provide for general administration by a board, for the establishment of wage and hour standards in individual industries considered to be operating in interstate commerce. Probably it will contain provisions for regulating child labor.

Various vexing problems remain to be settled. One is the question whether a new agency or an existing agency should administer the law, which means an under-surface struggle between Secretary of Labor Perkins and the National Labor Relations Board. Another problem is presented by proposals for North-South wage differentials and this problem may or may not be side-stepped by framers of the bill. There is also some dispute within the administration as to constitutional and other legal angles.

Lately Berry and others have been threatening to sue for $1,600,000 which they claim would be but proper compensation for some land inundated by the building of TVA's Norris Dam. Rich deposits of marble are said to have been covered by the water. The Berry appointment came as an almost complete surprise here because it had been understood that this claim against TVA had ruled the millionaire labor leader out of the picture.

Firestone TIRES

GIVE YOU GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING AND BLOWOUTS

YOU will know the minute you see this tire why car owners everywhere call it the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. The deeper, wider, flatter non-skid tread made of tough, long wearing rubber will give you protection against dangerous skidding.

But tires cannot be judged on tread alone. Under the tread of Firestone Standard Tires are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This Firestone patented construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber which counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life. This Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping gives greater protection against blowouts and is used only in Firestone Tires.

Come in and join the Firestone Save a Life Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

Dinner Party Announces June 16 Marriage of Miss Myrtle Lucile Mills

The spotlight centers on the month of June, and rightly so, with cupid responsible for the culmination of romances of wide interest in Ranger society. Just as surely as the spring bring the flowers each June introduces many happy brides.

Friday evening Mrs. E. H. Mills, entertained at her home, Oddie Street, with a delightful buffet dinner party, announcing the June 16th, marriage of her attractive daughter, Myrtle Lucile, to Mr. Tom L. Watson, of San Francisco, California.

Guests were greeted by the bride-elect gowning in a becoming frock of black net with touches of white.

Foursome tables were grouped about the rooms aglow with garden flowers made more colorful and lovely by soft rays cast from white tapers attractively arranged on the dining table and buffet.

Roses, in all the pastel shades were clustered to fashion a beautiful centerpiece for the dining table. Flanking either side to form a point small crystal baskets were filled with rose buds.

Quartet tables linen surfaced, and completed with silver and crystal service sounded forth added notes of color through small bouquets of vari-mixed blossoms. Places were marked with miniature baskets in white and silver. A silver bell atop the basket suggested attention be paid scrolls tied with silver ribbon. Inscribed within were the words: Myrtle Lucile and Tom Watson, June 16th.

Guests sharing the surprise and paying compliment to bride-elect named: Mmes. W. E. Chambers with Dallas, Felton Brashier, Guy Quinn, Jr., Evis Landers, Lee Russell, and Misses Dixie Neal, Helen Cozason, Doris Mitchell, Katherine and Marie Galloway, Ruth Shirley, Alla Rae Kuykendall, Ester Holyfield, Gene Wil-

Dinner Dance Paramount in Gala Week's Happenings

Paramount in social happenings during the week passed was one of importance and given honor in a highly distinguished manner, since persons honored were Miss Katherine Jane Conley, and C. E. May Jr., both graduates of Ranger high school this spring.

The compliment planned as a dinner dance was hosted by the mothers, Mrs. C. E. May Sr., and Mrs. Charles Conley. Dinner guests were welcomed into the handsomely decorated home of the May's at 7:30 o'clock. Glass colors of red and white were beautifully given emphasis in floral theme.

Following the popular mode of buffet fashion, foursome tables were laid with matching linens centered with small baskets filled with red and white sweetpeas interlaced with fern. Place cards were designed to represent a diploma and favors were silver horse shoes inscribed with a good-luck wish for each guest.

The dining table exquisite in an Italian filet cloth, carried all appointments in red and white. A silver flower boat aglow with radiant roses, rested gracefully atop a reflector which traced the bouquet's pattern about the cloth, aided by the glow of white tapers flanking either side of the centerpiece. Encircling the clusters of gorgeous roses fall sprays of queen's wreath, dotted at intervals with wead red rose buds.

The delicious dinner plate was followed with an ice course of frozen red roses, and cake.

Mrs. L. C. Hale, Favors After Luncheon Hour With Reading of Own Compositions

Mrs. J. W. Ducker New President

On last Thursday the members of the 1937 Club brought to a close one of the most successful years in its history with a luncheon at Acorn Acres for members and their guests.

Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, president and Mrs. C. D. Woods, chairman, of the Hospitality Committee, greeted the guests who were ushered to tables which were gay and inviting. Bowls of spring blossoms centered each table and places were marked by colorful cards and panicles.

Mrs. L. B. Gray pronounced the invocation and Mrs. C. D. Woods graciously welcomed the guests. After a delicious three course luncheon, Mrs. J. W. Ducker reviewed "This England" by Mary Ellen Chase. The book was then presented to Mrs. R. A. Jameson as a parting gift. As a tribute of appreciation, Mrs. Jameson was also presented with a shower of gifts from individual club members. Mrs. W. L. Jackson, on behalf of the club, presented Mrs. M. H. Hagaman with a scrap book, and read a lovely tribute to her as a gesture of the high regard in which she is held by every member of the club. Mrs. Hagaman is the retiring president and leaves behind her an enviable record. Known throughout the state as a leader in education and club activities the club is, indeed, fortunate to have had her as its president during seven terms.

After the luncheon a business final reports were given and other matters completed. Mrs. I. N. Griffin was elected treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. R. A. Jameson. Mrs. L. B. Gray was elected second vice-president. The treasured gavel of the club was then presented by the retiring president, Mrs. Hagaman, to the incoming president, Mrs. J. W. Ducker.

The gavel of the club was an interesting history. It was hand carved from oak which was salvaged from materials used in the construction of the First Methodist church, and has a gold plate with the inscription, "Presented to the 1920 Club by Mrs. M. H. Hagaman. Organized seventeen years ago, the club is regarded as one of the strongest in the Sixth District of Federated Clubs, and its present membership is happy to pay tribute to eight charter members who are still active in its affairs. They are, Mmes. R. M. Davenport, J. M. Gholson, M. H. Hagaman, R. H. Hodges, C. E. Madrox, O. J. Phillips, C. D. Woods and J. F. Dreinhoffer. Of these, five have served as president. They are, Mmes.
