The 'Untouchable' Mayor of Madras

Pity the poor mayor of Madras, Indian city of a million persons and capital of Madras Presidency on the Bay of Bengal.

Although J. Sivashanmugan Pillai is the highest ranking official of the city, many of his clerks won't handle documents he has signed, or pay him ordinary courtesies. Many of his fellow officials won't sit with him in conference. Although it is his duty to inspect the city, there are certain streets down which he cannot walk, many wells from which he cannot drink, hundreds of doors which he cannot enter.

Certain families who associate with him are liable to periods of punishments during which shopkeepers may not sell them goods, barbers may not shave them, mailmen may not deliver their mail, carriers may not take them water and school teachers must not allow their children within school buildings.

Even most of the temples are barred to His Honor, for Mayor Pillai is an untouchable, the first of his wretched class to ever be mayor of an Indian city.

He was elected after a 10-year campaign by India's great Gandhi, but the wisdom of such a campaign and victory is doubted by even Gandhi's friends. For in the minds of millions of people of India the very touch of an untouchable is considered the touch of misfortune for any enterprise.

Lepers, thieves and beggars may use Madras' broad King's Highway, but Mayor Pillai is barred from stepping a foot upon it. He is despised and ostracized by the castes above him and there are no castes below him.

Ghandi has fought a ceaseless battle to break down the Indian caste system which condemns millions of its people by the sole accident of birth to an abject poverty and misery each generation. The untouchable cannot leave his caste and cannot rise above it. There he lives, there he dies.

The election of Mayor Pillai is Ghandi's first wedge into the caste system. All the break has done thus far is to bring scorn upon the head of Madras and acute suffering to the mayor, who can never lose consciousness of his own class humility.

But Gandhi is not working for today, nor tomorrow. Centuries built up the caste system in India and it won't be torn down in mere years. Gandhi disciples who follow will see the untouchable rise to the level of other humans, Gandhi believes, as he strives for India.

A LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT ALONG THE WAY

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
CLYDE L. GARRETT

Farm Bill Passes

Many of our farmers have expressed an interest in the farm bill and asked for copies of it. I will be glad to send anyone desiring a copy of this or any other bill which may be of interest to them.

Grinding Grist Slowly

This session is grinding its grist of legislation slowly. Most of the delay has been caused by slowness of committee action, although the major bills are coming out in regular order. Freak curialls are still being introduced by many members at the behest of enthusiastic constituents. Most of the members could clog the calendar with freak bills at each session if all the requests were offered on the House calendar. Our mail has had less of them this year than last, and has never been fraught with them as some of the other members report.

Appropriations

The Senate has a number of appropriation bills piled up waiting for action. In the meantime, the House appropriations subcommittee is holding hearings on a deficiency bill to carry the request made by President Roosevelt for $250,000,000 additional funds, for the WFA in order that a million men may be put to work. The bill is expected to pass the House, in some form, within ten days and go to the Senate.

Transcontinental Toll Highways

For some time there has been an increasing interest in the possibility of transcontinental toll highways. Senator Bulkley has lately introduced a bill providing authorization for the construction of this type of highway. President Roosevelt is interested in the proposition and believes this would be a means of turning the present recession.

New Canal

Those in favor of a stronger national defense policy are urging the construction of a canal across Nicaragua so the country might reduce its navy, as a connection between the Atlantic and Pacific would be assured even if something should happen to close the Panama Canal.

Social Security Amendment

A bill has been introduced proposing an amendment to the Social Security Act to hold pay roll taxes for old-age benefits to 1 percent each on workers and employers until Congress has decided whether or not to make changes in the law.

Feed Loans

Farmers are aided by a new resolution approved by Congress on Feb. 4. Under this resolution it will be possible for farmers who are not able to obtain credit from other sources to receive crop and feed loans from one of the 550 field offices of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans are not to exceed $400.

She'll Continue Smashing 'Slots'

This knitting is just the calm before the next storm of slot machine smashing in Alton, Ill. Mrs. Irene Kite, above, released from jail on bond pending trial on charges of injuring personal property, says she will resume her attacks on the machines as soon as she gets a new ax. Alton ministers praised her campaign, even though she launched it because slot machines operated when her husband was not allowed to run a dice game.

Ducts for Sale or for Home Consumption was larger in 1937 than in any year of government record. Larger-than-average crops accounted for the unusually large farm output last year. The harvest of fruits, truck crops, and cotton in 1937 was larger than in any previous year, and the production of grain crops for sale or for home consumption was the largest since 1928.

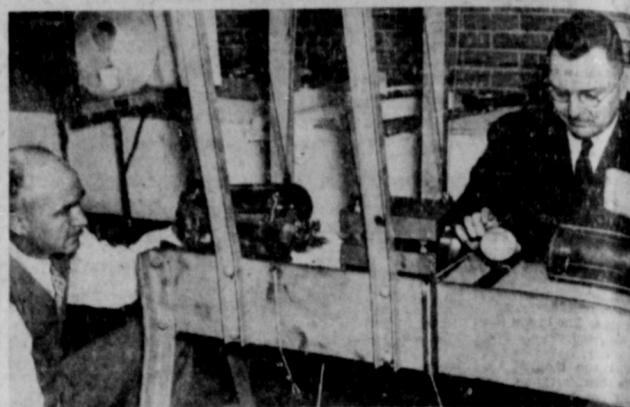

Financing the Small Home

Now a citizen can obtain better terms in financing a small home than ever before, due to the new Federal Housing Administration program. The Federal Housing Administration does not, as many believe, make a direct loan to an individual to build a home. It does, however, make sure the house is built on better terms as it insures mortgage loans. A citizen to obtain an insured mortgage loan for building a small home, should apply to a bank or other lending institution who will investigate the applicant's credit standing. When approved by the bank, the application is then forwarded to the nearest FHA office which will approve or reject it. If the FHA approves the application the bank will be backed by insurance from this institution, at an interest and carrying charge of 5 1/2 percent.

Lincoln

There was a medley of tumult—cheers, shouting, tears mixed with laughter—in the streets of Washington on April 10, 1865, when news reached the city of Lee's surrender. The crowd surged on to the White House and called for the President. Lincoln came and stood at an upper window. He raised his hand for silence and the crowd listened for his message.

MAKING ARTIFICIAL HOMERS

In an attempt to determine whether the ball to be used by the American and International next season is livelier than that used by the National League, the Bureau of Standards, U. S. Dept. of Commerce, is conducting experiments with the machine above. The machine consists of a gun which shoots a one-pound hardwood projectile, representing the bat, at speeds up to 200 feet per second against the ball. Bat and ball are shot out of the gun and caught by ballists by means of which their speeds can be measured. Dr. H. L. Dryden, top right, Bureau of Standards official, is shown holding ball and projectile which are used. His assistant, P. S. H. the left. Below is a closeup of the machine, showing how ball passes through the center to be caught by pendulum at left.

The Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

CHARACTERS: JERRY, Cabell Banks, Miss Chelsey, Jerry Whitfield, Cabell Banks, privateer.

Jerry and Polly Clitte smuggling ship to rescue her father.

Cabell Banks went to where the man with the two ways of speaking...

Down in the cabin Polly heard a key grate on the lock.

"Put on your wig, Miss Chelsey," he said, quite like a parent...

"Wait till I pick up the dog. Are you taking me to Jerry, Mr. Banks?"

Cabell considered a moment. "Well, no, Miss Chelsey. He's at the wheel, standing his trick...

"No doubt this news surprised you, Monsieur Clitte," Cabell said in French.

"When she started to shift her hand on the wheel, where he had been standing, he saw her eyes had seen their pistols...

"I don't know, sir," Cabell said to Jerry. "I want to present him with this wig. Make a proper speech for me, please."

"From your little grandmother to yours, Monsieur, with the gratitude of three wayfaring hearts!"

Jerry's ardent eyes crossed and wooed her even while his starchy gallantry protected her.

"I don't know, sir," Cabell said to Jerry. "I want to present him with this wig. Make a proper speech for me, please."

"I don't know, sir," Cabell said to Jerry. "I want to present him with this wig. Make a proper speech for me, please."

Then came defiance. "What if I have? It's my ship."

Two pistols were raised a few inches and held rigid.

Having drawn these conclusions, the rascal, who was two people, shrugged his shoulders and said to Jerry Whitfield, "You can take the woman ashore. I've got troubles enough. I figured she was a rag-tag Bourbon."

SAILS came down and the anchor was dropped. Clitte gave orders for the long boat to be lowered away with his three passengers, the dog and the trunk in it.

There was a great deal of showy politeness on both sides, though the New Englander's eyes were watchful, and Jerry and Cabell still held their pistols caressingly.

Even when shore was reached and the crew had gone back to the ship there was no relaxing.

The village, like Corly on the other side, had the unwholesome air of a town where the law is a mere suggestion.

Cabell, who spoke French almost as easily as he spoke English, engaged a rough cart to carry them to Calais, and when they had gained the cobbled streets of that ancient and legitimate port city they felt a vast relief.

They were in a country that, like America, was at war with the English.

The cart driver was surprised, when he turned around, to find that the subdued old lady he had carried had become a laughing young woman with cropped brown curls.

She was so intrigued and puzzled that he stopped his cart, to stare.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON.—It has become almost customary for the President to order watermelon, only to have Congress hand him a plate of spinach. Heretofore this has not happened by prearrangement.

Following his request for legislation aimed at "prevention of profiteering in time of war and equalization of the burdens of possible war," however, Roosevelt seems perfectly willing to accept the Sheppard-May bill, which, even if it aims at those objectives, certainly falls a long way short.

TEXAS - TEXANS

Q. When were the Santa Fe prisoners released?
A. All except J. A. Navarro were released June 13, 1842 by Santa Anna, that being his birthday. This was done at the intercession of Waddy Thompson, United States minister to Mexico. Navarro made his escape in 1845.

Q. What was the first act of revenge on the part of the Comanches following the Council House tragedy?
A. The Indians followed up the crushing blow received at San Antonio with a destructive raid on Linnville and Victoria, partly in revenge, but largely to secure horses and provisions for a still greater raid on Texas settlers.

Q. Did the Santa Fe expedition seriously attempt to follow instructions?
A. They reached the neighborhood of San Miguel so exhausted from starvation and exposure that when Governor Arripio refused to believe that they were on an innocent trade mission and ordered them arrested, they were helpless to resist.

Q. What plans were in the making for completely wiping out public squares of the towns that the people might witness their suffering and humiliation. Many were sick and some died on the way. The ears of those who died were cut off to exhibit as proof that they had not escaped.

Ranger High School News

By Dorothy Byas, Chapel

Students in Mrs. Hamrick's advisory gave a most interesting entertainment. Lewis Hughes, Babb Edmonds, and Bob Hunt played three numbers on their cornets which were "Sweet and Low," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," and a "Lullaby" written by Brahms.

A very hilarious pantomime was then offered. It was just as well that it was a pantomime for if the characters had spoken, they could not have been heard because of the laughter. The suitors came to see Doris Dudley fast and furious, so quite a bit of hiding had to be done. Bob Palmer acted as a frog, and W. G. Pounds had to hide behind the sofa while Spud Summers got a nice slap on the face.

Mr. Eady's advisory provided a humorous program when the curtains were drawn, the school room of Possum Hollar school in District 144 was seen. Margaret Watt danced and then the bell was rung.

Woman Gives Reason For Writing Books

DALLAS.—Vicki Baum probably never would have written "Grand Hotel" if her father had not forbade her to read books and spanked her when she was 11 years old for reading a magazine, the writer of several best sellers told a group of Dallas women recently.

"Because I was forbidden to read, I read everything I could get my hands on," Miss Baum said. "Reading became a burning desire to me, and I read and read by the dim flicker of a candle in my room at night. I always dreamed of becoming a great writer."

Miss Baum described her childhood. She told of her life in war-torn Germany, of her family retreating to the quiet of Vienna, and of her coming to America.

"Sinclair Lewis helped teach me to speak English. The first words he taught me were 'lousy' and 'swell.'"

All Lions Urged To Attend Zone Meeting at Cisco

B. E. Garner, president of the Lions club, announced today that all members of the club were being urged to meet at 6:15 this evening at the Gholson hotel, instead of 7:15, in order to be at the quarterly zone meeting of the Lions clubs, to be held at Cisco. A 100 per cent attendance of Ranger Lions club members was urged in order that Ranger's splendid record of attendance at these meetings might be maintained. The club with the lowest percentage of attendance was awarded a booby prize of a live nanny goat, which the club must retain until the next quarterly meeting, when it is again awarded on the same basis.

The town winning the goat normally has the right to hold the next meeting, but since the goat has remained in one town twice in succession the last meeting was awarded to the Ranger club, although the club did not win the doubtful distinction of being awarded the goat.

A concerted effort is being made by the members of the Ranger club to maintain its reputation of not having received the goat, and the full attendance of the club is expected at the meeting tonight at Cisco.

A good program is promised by members of the Cisco club, with other clubs aiding in furnishing the program. Clubs in the zone are from Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge and Graham.
