Sticking Out the Japanese Chin

The unpleasant news from Europe has pretty well obscured the equally unpleasant news from China the last few weeks. But the news from China that wasn't crowded out of the papers has added to the growing belief that Japan is getting herself into an increasingly precarious position.

The Chinese continue to demonstrate their legendary cleverness to the great discomfort of the invader. The war costs millions of dollars that Japan is hard put to raise—and no one knows this better than the Chinese who have discovered that it costs the Nipponese about as much to repel one raiding plane as an entire fleet. Consequently the Chinese send out lone raiders several times during the night. They have other tricks with which they provoke painfully expensive fireworks on the part of the Japanese.

Especially effective have been the guerilla tactics of the Chinese. The farther into China the Japanese push, the longer their thin line of communication stretches out, and the Chinese have been making it very tough for the scattered garrisons in the territory claimed by the Japanese.

But the prize maneuver of all was the formation of a midget Socialist state 200 miles behind the Japanese lines. This government, backed by several million Chinese farmers, supports a huge guerilla army that has paralyzed Japanese communication lines in north China. And all this activity, remember, goes on in Hopeh province, which theoretically is in Japanese hands.

Meanwhile hatred for the Japanese has become something of a fanatical religion among China's millions. True, the casualties on the Chinese side have been tremendous, totaling at least 12 fatalities to one for the Japanese. But Japan cannot kill all the Chinese any more than she can conquer all of China.

Japan had hoped to grab off a big chunk of territory quickly and with the use of only a hundred thousand troops. She now has more than a half million soldiers fighting on foreign soil. And those soldiers must all be provisioned.

So Japan finds herself in the middle. She cannot turn back. Further invasion costs dearly in men and money. And as her soldiers make their expensive gains, powerful Soviet Russia waits for the chance to set the old account.

Ambitious little Japan seems at last to have overshot the mark.

Roosevelt favors spending millions for super highways to help end the recession, but many fear there is no royal road to prosperity.

Hat pins are back in style. Perhaps some women find them necessary to drive home a point.

It's pretty hard to believe that San Francisco whale won't turn out to be a concession at the exposition.

THE AGONY OF JESUS

BY FATHER S. E. BYRNE
St. Rita's Church, Ranger

The public life of Jesus had lasted about three years. As the result of His preaching, He had deeply offended the hypocrites, the irreligious, the material-minded Jews. They had come to hate Him and His teaching, and had made many attempts to take Him and stone Him to death. In the December before He died they had made one such attempt, but Jesus had avoided them and had retired to the country beyond the Jordan. Then, about the end of the following February, when Lazarus died, Jesus came to Bethany and raised him to life. Of course, that wonderful miracle was of vital importance. It drew many after Jesus, and so increased the hatred of His enemies against Him. It was the last straw! Their determination to put Him out of the way increased. The chief priests and Pharisees declared: "If we let Him alone so, all will believe in Him and the Romans will come and take away our place and nation."

Here in this Garden of Gethsemane occurred the terrible Agony. Agony is from the Greek word, Agonia, meaning "struggle." The evangelists give us a full account of it, thus showing how important they considered it. It is well to read the account as given by St. Matthew, with a few supplementary words of St. Luke. St. Matthew writes: "Then Jesus came with them into a country place which is called Gethsemane, and He said to His disciples: 'Sit ye here till I go yonder and pray.' And taking with Him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee He began to grow sorrowful and to be sad. Then He saith to them: 'My soul is sorrowful even unto death; stay ye here and watch with me.' And going a little further He fell upon His face, praying and saying: 'My Father, if it be possible, let this chalice pass from me. Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt.' And He cometh to His disciples and findeth them asleep, and He saith to Peter: 'What? Could ye not watch one hour with me? Watch ye and pray that ye enter not into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing but the flesh is weak.' Again the second time He went and prayed, saying: 'My Father, if this chalice may not pass away, but I must drink it, Thy will be done.' And He cometh again and findeth them sleeping, for their eyes were heavy. And leaving them He went again." And here St. Luke says: "And there appeared to Him an Angel from Heaven, strengthening Him, and being in an agony, He prayed the longer. And His sweat became as drops of blood trickling down upon the ground." And St. Matthew proceeds: "Then He cometh to His disciples and saith to them: 'Sleep ye now and take your rest; behold the hour is at hand and the Son of Man shall be betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise, let us go; behold he is at hand that will betray me.'"

From these words we can picture the entire incident. As soon as Jesus and His friends entered the Gethsemane farm, He ordered eight of them to stay near the gate or entrance. Then He took with Him Peter and James and John and went with them a little way further into the grounds. It was Peter and James and John who had been the witnesses of His Transfiguration; now they were to be permitted to be the witness of His abasement. And as He walked along with them, a terrible anguish came upon Him. His whole body trembled, and He began to be sad and distressed. "My soul is sorrowful even unto death." These words

Some of them have written or wired the President at Warm Springs, congratulating him on his Gainesville speech for the wage-hour bill. But usually their messages have been so phrased as to suggest that he "keep it up."

The liberal, pro-New Deal members think the speech may have been the beginning of an answer to their prayer for aggressive leadership, but they're still praying. Several of them have made their prayers in person, assuring F. D. Lukewarm presidential supporters have been willing to shed New Deal raiment, finding that course tactically as well as emotionally more feasible than the progressives. And the Capitol Hill woods are full of 1936 coat-tail riders who told the voters Roosevelt was swell, but have since been knitting presidential policies consistently.

give us some little idea of His sadness, a sadness so great and so intense that it threatened to break His heart and so cause His sudden death. He asked the three disciples to remain awake, and thus by their watchful presence give Him some little bit of comfort. Then He retired from them about a stone's throw. He fell to His knees, His face bowed to the ground, and prayed: "Father, if it be possible, let this chalice pass from me!"

Now, what was this chalice which so appalled Jesus—this chalice which was so terribly bitter that even the God-Man seemed to hesitate to drink it? Of course, we cannot fully understand. It is a mystery. But we can partly gather the causes of this agony, or struggle with Himself, the effort to do what His human nature seemed to fight against. Jesus, of course, knew all the future. He could see the magnitude, the awfulness, of His coming passion and death on the cross. Remember, He was a man, with every man's fear of death and terrible pain. His human nature recoiled from the torture that was before His eyes. There was no sin in Him. Thus, sin had not prepared the way for Him as for ordinary mortals for the separation of soul and body. And if we shrink so from death, especially a painful death, how much more did He shrink from it, He who was of such finer substance than we, He the perfect Man! He was the master of life and death. How terrible for Him to submit Himself to the power of death! Thus, Jesus suffered terribly, knowing that He was facing death even though He faced it willingly. He willed to submit Himself to death, but His human nature shrank from it just the same.

Now, besides this natural fear of death that so crushed Him to the earth there was even a greater burden that cast Him down. It was the load of sin which He was about to take upon Himself. We can see some of the tragedies that were so close to Him. As He lay there with His face to the ground, how many terrible visions came before His eyes! He saw the treason of Judas already on the way to Gethsemane to sell Him; He saw how His dear friends, the Apostles, would run away from very fear of their lives; He saw how Peter would deny that he ever knew Him; He saw how the Jews would gloat over His death, how they would harden their hearts and remain impenitent; He saw the coming destruction of His beloved Jerusalem; He saw the attacks upon His Gospel, the persecution through all the years from the days of Nero down through the Reformation times to Russia and Spain; He saw the heresies, the scandals, the sacrifices, the impurities, the robberies, the injustices, the innumerable sins of every kind which men would commit; and finally He saw how many souls would be lost in spite of all that He had done to save men.

No wonder there was a struggle with Himself as to whether it was all worth while, seeing what little use men would make of His passion and death. He was crushed by the shame of sin, by the sin of man that He was taking upon Himself.

Added to all these visions were the attacks from the devil, suggesting to Him that all was hopeless, that He would die in vain, and that the devil would still be victor by claiming so many souls. Thus, numbering all these woes that crushed down upon Jesus, we can see how as man He begged to be spared from paying such a terrible price. He experienced all the tortures of soul and body that could be produced by sin and evil, and His soul broke forth in a cry for help. He was now, as it were, a criminal, with all the sins of mankind upon Him, and He was abandoned to Himself by His Father. His human nature rebelled against enduring such agony, but His reason and will immediately sought in prayer and union with the Father the courage and determination to empty the chalice to the very dregs, and thus carry out the Divine Will.

So ended the first agony. Jesus returned to the favored three, only to find them asleep. It was not because they did not love Him, but they were tired out. Jesus expressed surprise that they could not watch this short time with Him. He addressed His complaint particularly to Peter, who such a short time before had expressed his willingness to die with his Master. "Watch ye and pray that ye enter not into temptation." Thus, He warned them to be in readiness so as not to lose their faith in Him when they would soon behold Him arrested and brought to trial and death.

Then He retired again from them to pray and struggle with Himself. He repeated the same words of prayer. No doubt, He went through the same terrible agony of soul and body. Again He returned to His disciples; for He wanted the comfort of their presence. But they were asleep; even their comfort was denied Him. Again He returned to His lonely suffering, this time to His third and most terrible agony. It was to be so terrible that the Father sent an Angel from Heaven to comfort Him during the awful period. And now the agony of soul and body became so terrible that blood burst from His body and fell in drops to the ground.

Not with His eyes alone St. Bernard, "but with members does Christ sweat of blood was not only supernatural; it may be due to natural causes. The fact of great blood gives us an idea of the suffering when the very blood of his veins.

When you buy an "8" to save money IT'S NEWS!

The Standard Tudor

FOR YEARS, only the biggest, most costly cars had 8-cylinder engines. When the Ford V-8 engine was first introduced, people welcomed the finer performance that 8 cylinders provided, but kept their fingers crossed on economy. It somehow seemed as if 8 cylinders had to use more gasoline.

But the news spread that Ford V-8 cars were giving just as good gas mileage as cars that did not offer 8-cylinder advantages. Good design, not number of cylinders, determined economy. By last year, four million people had stepped up to the 85-horsepower

V-8 class. Then the slightly smaller 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was introduced. Reports soon rolled in from owners averaging 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. More than any Ford car had ever given! A new standard economy—a low price—and the smoothness of 8 cylinders! That was NEWS!

America bought 300,000 Ford V-8 "60" the first year and is still buying. If you'd like to know why—if you'd like to save money all ways—see and drive the 1938 version of this thrifty, modern car.

ARCADIA ... SUNDAY and MONDAY

have a special significance to us, and doubtless will to those who attend Sunday School and Church today.
 Our Church School begins at 9:45, with worship and Bible study for all ages. The Junior, Intermediate and Senior departments will have special consecration services as the beginning of Consecration Week Revival which begins today. Weather permitting a banner attendance is expected.

 At 7:45, the pastor's theme will be, "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By." That fact made a tremendous difference to a certain blind man in the long ago. It may make a tremendous difference to some who are in the service this evening.
 The Young People's Fellowship Hour is at 6:30, and the Junior and Intermediate Leagues at 7:00.
 There will be Revival Services each evening through the week at 7:45, special Easter Services next Sunday morning, and the Cantata "Immortality," will be given by the choir, next Sunday night.

Baptist Parsonage Is Converted Into Sun. School Rooms
 First Baptist church is enjoying a splendid growth that has crowded its present building beyond capacity, causing them to take the parsonage and convert it into Sunday school rooms. This building will be occupied by the ladies of the church and will not only house the adult ladies of the Sunday school, consisting of five classes, but will also be the meeting place of the W. M. U., the Y. W. A., and other activities of the ladies. This is a splendid forward step for the church and the officials are confident of a continued growth since more room has been provided.
 This will also relieve the congested condition of the other departments of the Sunday school, allowing them room for growth.
 The pastor will be at home temporarily at the Paramount hotel.

Methodist Revival To Begin Today
 The Consecration Week Revival begins at the First Methodist church in Ranger, this morning, and will continue through the week, with services each evening at 7:45. The services will be under the direction of the local workers, with the pastor, Rev. G. Alfred Brown, doing the preaching, and with Mr. Don Minnick in charge of the music and evangelistic singing.
 This period, from Palm Sunday through Easter, has been designated as Consecration Week, and the services are planned to help both the Christian and the seeker, to a greater life satisfaction, or as Jesus said, to more abundant living.
 Each service will be an examination of some of the problems of life, in the light of Jesus Christ, with the expectation that many of these problems will find their solution in Christ.
 The theme for the 11 o'clock hour will be "The Comforting Christ," beginning with the words of Jesus: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."
 At 7:45 the subject will be, "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By." The pastor will deal with the present significance of this historic statement.
 The general invitation is that you begin right by attending the first service, and continue right by attending each service, and if possible, bring someone with you.

 Grateful for the freedom he found here after fleeing Nazi Germany, 15-year-old Martin Marden, above, Bronx messenger boy, penned a prayer of thanks to his adopted land in words so touching that a copy was sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, and a broadcasting chain put Martin on to read his prayer on a coast-to-coast hookup. The young Jewish boy wants to be a newspaperman.

Treasure Hunt On Old Packet Made
 By United Press
 ST. LOUIS—Appearance of the hulk of the old City of Providence, once queen on the St. Louis to New Orleans river packets, in the Mississippi river during a low water period started a search for hidden treasure.
 The boat sank in 1914 just after it had been converted into an excursion steamer.
 When the mud-covered hulk appeared above the low water engineering workers began digging into it. A slot machine containing $18 was found, also two bottles of good whisky, several antiquated beer mugs and scrap metal.
 The boat belonged to the Columbia Excursion Company. In 1914 it was laid up for the winter at the mouth of a stream feeding the Mississippi. An ice gorge broke suddenly and shoved the City of Providence high and dry on the bank. When attempting to refloat the boat a carpenter left a hatch open and it sank.

Drinking Water Is Essential to Health Of General Public

AUSTIN—Constant supervision over public and private drinking water supplies by trained technicians of the State Department of Health is an essential part of the State's program to rid Texas of communicable diseases, says Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.
 "This necessary work goes on quietly but effectively in every part of Texas," he said. "Sanitary engineers are concerned not only with the purity of water supplies for towns and cities but on farms and rural communities as well. Our problem here is the entire water shed from which the water supply is drawn and water is investigated for possible contamination from the time it reaches the water shed until it is consumed.
 "Through this work we hope to control diseases such as malaria, typhus and yellow fever, and dysentery. The inspection of water supplies for schools is, of course, an important part of the work of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering, and this division of the Health Department has done a splendid work in helping protect child and public health generally in Texas.
 "The work of this bureau includes not only a study of water sources but distribution systems, purification plants, disposal systems, and all other factors which could affect the supply. The bureau even goes to the extent of probing for the cause of mottled enamel in the teeth resulting from peculiarities of water," he added.
 "Public Water Supply Approved" is a sign that means something in Texas," Doctor Cox said, "and 'Ready to Serve' is the motto of the Bureau of Sanitation."
 Stop—do not drink that water, consider for a moment, it is pure? It may be clear, germs of dysentery and typhoid will not cloud it, the taste may be all right but is it pure? Think for just a moment whether this water has been protected from its fall from the clouds to the moment it enters this glass.
 Day by day a trained staff of engineers from the State Health Department are advising and assisting in the building of safeguards for your water whether it is drawn from a faucet in the city or the well on the farm. This work is extensive and intensive, requiring great vigilance.
 The sanitary engineer is interested in the whole watershed from which the water supply is drawn, he examines it for sources of contamination, he follows down the watercourse to see if domestic and industrial wastes enter it. The water plant is then studied for proper design, capacity, and treatment of this necessity of life. Even the distribution system is checked and special attention is given the plumbing which, if of improper type, may completely nullify thousands of dollars spent in securing pure water for distribution.
 The well is studied for source of its supply, its location for the possibility of surface contamination. Samples are analyzed and full suggestions are given free for protection of the water.
 Personnel of this division devote a considerable portion of their time to schools and their water and sewage systems so that the child is protected at all times. Even the water in swimming pools comes under the watchful eye of this group.
 Special activities include studies in removal of the causes of mottled enamel in the teeth and projects intended toward ridding your home of the dangers of malaria, typhus and yellow fever.
 Consider the meaning of the sign on the highway—"Public Water Supply Approved" and drink deeply of protected water.

If your city is without this sign, then this glass of water may have real significance. "Ready to Serve" is the motto of the Bureau of Sanitation of the State Health Department, whether in city or on farm, in fair or foul weather, in days of peace or hours of emergency. The State May Day Committee is proud to have such vigilant protection for the health of Texas children in its vanguard.

Newspaper Editors Vote Against Any Japanese Boycott

NEW YORK—American public opinion, as represented by more than 500 newspaper editors from coast to coast, is overwhelmingly against any intervention by the United States in Asiatic affairs or any boycott of Japanese raw materials or manufactured products.

This was revealed in a nationwide survey made by the Sutton News Service, Inc., which today announced the results of a questionnaire it sent in March to editors of the 2,000 largest newspapers throughout the country in an endeavor to learn the exact feeling of the American people toward our affairs in the Far East. Replies were received from 504 editors.

questions asked were tabulated and analyzed by the Reuben H. Donnelly Corporation and showed that 382 editors or 76.9 per cent of those replying are against American intervention of any kind in the Far East, 78 or 15.7 per cent favor intervention to protect American citizens or other interests and 37 or 7.4 per cent are non-committal. Seven of the replies were too vague for analysis.

On the question of a general public boycott of all Japanese goods almost the same sentiment prevails, 383 of the editors, representing 77.1 per cent, voting against any such boycott, 81 or 16.3 per cent favoring such a measure and 33 or 6.6 per cent not voting.

Slightly different feelings are expressed when the boycott matter is broken down into separate considerations of Japanese manufactured products and non-competitive raw materials, such as silk, menthol, camphor and agar-agar fabricated or processed in the United States. On boycotting Japanese manufactured goods the vote was 323 or 65 per cent against such action, 141 or 28.4 per cent in favor and 33 or 6.6 per cent undecided.

Most emphatic, however, was the opinion against a boycott of raw materials originating in Japan but fabricated by American industry and labor. Here the vote was 403 or 81.1 per cent against boycott, 55 or 11.1 per cent for it and 39 or 7.8 per cent taking sides.

To the question "Is there an organized boycott movement against Japanese goods in your city?" 452 editors replied, "No" and 41 said "yes."

340 or 68.4 per cent of the editors replying believe an economic boycott is a two-edged weapon, ineffective in its results, productive of international aggravation and likely to do more harm to industry and labor in the country of its origin. Only 65 or 13.1 per cent disagree with this finding while 92 or 18.5 per cent express no opinion.

The survey seems to indicate that what actual organized boycott activity there is under way is evenly divided geographically, editors reporting such movements in 14 Mid-Western cities, 7 in the South, 10 in the East and 10 in the Pacific States. Twenty-seven of these campaigns are being staged by organized groups, the balance being of sporadic or individual nature.

Sentiment of editors on all the questions varies only slightly throughout the country. There is somewhat stronger evidence of editorial feeling in favor of a boycott in the South than in the three other sections but even there the lowest figure shows a 62 per cent vote against any form of Japanese boycott.

The editors of all sections are virtually uniform in their objections to intervention by the United States in the Far Eastern imbroglio, voting against it in the following percentages: East, 77.7 per cent; Mid-West, 79.9; South, 75; Pacific Coast, 70.7. Last the Japanese take too much comfort from the foregoing results, the report shows an emphasis.

Snake Angling Is Proving Popular In Most of State

MATADOR, Texas—Cowboys and town dwellers alike are getting new thrills this spring from the rocky ranch country—snake angling.

The idea traveled north from the Rio Grande ranchers, past Breckenridge in Central West Texas, where a "Snake hunt" is an annual outing for many citizens.

The rugged brush country of the "cap rock" plateau of the high plains furnishes a sport usually not found in snake hunting.

Rattlesnakes are the prey and the "rods" are four-foot lengths of pipe encircling a stout wire that is fashioned into a loop at the bottom end. The "angler" carries the rod, and when he meets the rattler the wire loop is slipped over the snake's head. A quick jerk on the other end of the wire and the rattler is killed—either decapitated or with a broken back.

Whereas the Breckenridge snake hunters customarily go forth before the reptiles' winter hibernation is over, the Matador "anglers" find their thrills when the snakes start their spring "run"—the first sallies from their winter homes. The snakes then are extra vicious, early and hungry.

The snake "anglers" find their prey sunning on the rocks or phatic disapproval of their present activities in China. On the question of whether Japan has a legitimate story concerning her needs and problems which has not been adequately told in the United States, 250 or 44.3 per cent of the editors registered a vigorous "No" while 167 of them or 33.6 per cent answered in the affirmative and 110 others representing 22.1 per cent left this question unanswered.

Claims Epochal Find in Medicine

After four and a half years of experimentation, Dr. Alma J. Neill, above, head of the department of physiology at the University of Oklahoma, believes she has discovered the cause of the epidemic of sleeping sickness which caused 60 deaths in St. Louis in 1933. Dr. Neill announced she had found the encephalitis virus in corn grown in the St. Louis area at the time of the epidemic. Extracts from the abnormal corn, she said, caused sleeping sickness when injected into animals.

Semi-Pro Teams Signing Up Players

WACO, Texas.—A. H. Kirksey, state semi-pro baseball commissioner, announced today that baseball teams throughout Texas are signing their players under the national contract system, patterned after organized baseball.

Two teams, Mount Pleasant and Sulphur Springs, already have signed their players under the contract system, Kirksey said. Under the national contract system, players cannot change teams without releases from their managers. The congress will maintain a system of blacklisting teams and players violating contracts or eligibility

Clock Carved From Wood In Florida

ORLANDO Fla.—Forced to retire because of ill health, E. A. Moore, Orlando contractor, has devoted the last five years to constructing a grandfather's clock of native Florida woods.

The unique timepiece, which Moore said "follows no design, being entirely a product of my own mind and labor," is 7-1/2 feet tall and constructed entirely of wood, including the mechanism.

The 37 gear wheels in the time-keeping unit and the 15 gear wheels in the striking unit of the clock are made of Florida grapefruit wood, the grain of which is parallel to the axis of the wheels to insure uniform friction throughout.

Moore explained that the cog wheels were cut by hand and much of the period of construction.

Kirksey predicted a record entry list for the third annual Texas semi-pro baseball finals here in July. District finals tournaments, from which the winners will enter the state tournament, have been scheduled for Dallas, Wills Point and Mount Pleasant, Kirksey said.

and Isabel and Mr. Hamilton and I, in the last carriage."

DICK was standing alone at the head of the gangplank leading down to the tender when Joyce went upstairs. Already a good number of passengers were assembled, all eager to go ashore on this first boat. He called to her, and drew her out of range of the crowd.

"You're going ashore with me, aren't you, Joyce?" he asked hopefully.
 "I'd love to, Dick, but—"
 "But what?"
 "Mrs. Porter asked me to be her assistant on the shore excursion, and I promised that I would."
 He frowned. "You don't have to do anything like that, Joyce."
 "But I want to. I'm terribly grateful for the opportunity. And we'll all be together, Dick."
 "Who is all?"
 "The Porters, you and I. We'll take the last carriage."
 "I prefer carriages for two. I don't see why you won't go with me, Joyce. I asked you, yesterday."

"She hesitated. "I know you did, Dick. But please excuse me. I'd much rather have it this way."
 He shrugged. "Well, then that's all there is to it. I suppose."
 Drawing alongside the wharf, Mrs. Porter gave last minute instructions. Joyce took her stand eagerly, but soon she was beset with difficulties which Mrs. Porter had not explained. Some passengers wanted to change their plans at this last minute.

Forty minutes later, Joyce saw her last charge safely installed in the last carriage. And not until then, when she was standing alone at the carriage stand, did she realize that the Porters, and the last carriage, had gone off without her!

"Morning, Miss Milner."
 One of the ship's officers, a young man from the purser's office, stood beside her, and she realized that the second tender was docking.
 "Did you miss your party?" he asked.
 "So it seems—"
 "That's tough." He remembered suddenly that Miss Milner was the young lady who had lost her pocketbook. So he suggested pleasantly: "Stick around a minute, until I get my people started. I have an extra ticket, for an assistant." He winked.

"I heard that story before," she said dubiously. "Mrs. Porter suggested it—"
 "So that's it!" He was plainly surprised. "Funny she didn't get the extra ticket from me. . . . Well, such advance training, and only those who can pass a rigid examination are admitted.

 This August will round out Lewis' first period of enlistment, but because of this appointment, he will extend his enlistment three more years and take this higher training.
 Lewis just enlisted in August, 1934 as a 4th class seaman and was stationed on the Mississippi. After his period of training at the training station at San Diego, after several months of "breaking in" he was put on the gun crew of turret No. 1 of the "Missy" 14-inch guns. During this training he was a member of the gun crew that broke the all time gun record and world record for shooting the 14-inch guns. This crew fired the 14 inch No. 1 gun, hitting the mark 18 times straight at a distance of 20 miles and did it in less time than it had ever been done before. For this crew received an "E" emblem, a very coveted emblem for the enlisted man.
 Some time after this he applied for transfer to the aviation division and after passing all mental and physical examinations was transferred. He has since been promoted to seaman 3c and at present has his examinations in for seaman 2c.

At the time of his transfer to the naval station he is rated as senior mechanic aboard the Mississippi, plane captain and 1st class mechanic. In addition to the "E" won while on the 14-inch gun, Lewis also holds an "EK" for machine gun firing from an airplane.

He will probably be home in August, between enlistments to visit his parents. At present he is on the high seas somewhere near Hawaii with the fleet.

 "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 10.

The Golden Text is: "The light of the moon shall be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun shall be seven fold, as the light of seven days, in the day that the Lord bindeth up the breach of his people, and healeth the stroke of their frown" (Isaiah 30:26).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Therefore hearken unto me, ye men of understanding: far be it from God, that he should do wickedness; and from the Almighty, that he should commit iniquity" (Job 34:10).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sickness, sin, and death, being inharmonious, do not originate in God nor belong to His government" (page 472).

"They had a carriage all to themselves, with an amiable driver. And Mr. Roberts, as he introduced himself, proved a delightful companion because he knew Bermuda as well as she knew Fall River. In three hours she felt like a native.

"Do you know," Mr. Roberts ventured at last. "I think Mrs. Porter put something over on you."
 "But why? Why in the world would she do a thing like that?"
 He smiled wisely. "Can't you imagine?"
 "Certainly not."
 "Well, perhaps I'm speaking out of turn, but it looks to me as if she's trying to keep young Hamilton for Isabel's exclusive use. And you're competition."
 "Oh, but that's ridiculous," she retorted hastily.
 "Is it? Ten million dollars is no joke."
 Joyce opened her eyes in amazement. "What?" she cried, incredulous.
 "Don't you know?" It was Mr. Roberts' turn to be surprised. "Hamilton's father is president of National Rubber. . . . they're one of the wealthiest families in New York."

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

THE VICTORIOUS SERVANT

Text: Acts 1:22-36

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

THIS is the lesson for Easter Sunday, and as one would expect, it is filled with a note of joy and triumph. It is a part of the great sermon that Peter preached upon the Day of Pentecost, when he so powerfully told the story of the life and death of Jesus and brought so directly home to the consciences of those who listened their responsibility for His death that they turned by thousands in repentance to accept the Christian way of living.

HERE Peter informs those who had participated in the crucifixion of Jesus or who had consented to it that despite their cruel and evil action, God has ordained something better, and that He has raised this crucified Jesus from the dead in newness of life and triumph. Peter is speaking mainly to those who are acquainted with the Old Testament Scriptures and tradition; and he that turns to the promise of David that the Holy One should not see corruption and that the Messiah should sit upon the right hand of God, to speak of the fulfillment of these Scriptures in the Resurrection of Jesus. "Let all the house of Israel therefore know assuredly that God hath made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom ye crucified."

While millions of our fellow-men are suffering from violence and tyranny we cannot hope to improve the world by adding to its violence. It may be our duty to do all in our power to curb the violence of ruthless aggressors and rescue those who suffer; but an immediate duty is to free our own hearts from hate and evil, and overcome evil with good.

SPORT GLANCES . . . . . By Grayson

BY MAX RIDDLE, NEA Service Turf Writer

WHEN Battleship won the Grand National Steeplechase, most grueling horse race in the world, he accomplished a number of things besides winning. First, he fed our British cousins gall and wormwood. Second, he became the first American-bred horse ever to win the most famous race in the world, and third, he became the only horse in the world ever to win both the English and American races of the same name.

The victory of Battleship, son of Man o' War, from the mare, Quarantine, was a bitter dose for the English. Years ago they passed the Jersey which prevented the registration of most American horses on the grounds that they were not thoroughbreds, but only half-bred mongrels.

Man o' War belonged to that lot, and if you liked to mention him as the greatest race horse of all time, the British merely said that a half-bred could not possibly equal a thoroughbred.

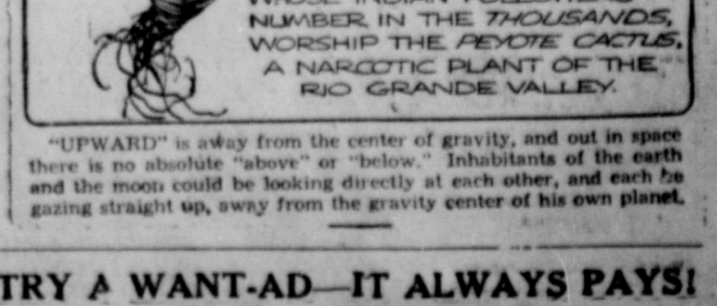

Also, for years the English have sneered at American horses as being inferior animals without stamina, in reality only sprinters.

Today one wonders what the English have to say about Man o' War and Battleship. Battleship has been one of the most popular timber toppers in England ever since he went abroad nearly two years ago. But he was a small horse, and when his Grand National aspirations were mentioned, laughter was the result. How could such a midget, and especially a sprinter, win the most dangerous and difficult race ever run?

BATTLESHIP has given the answer. The 11-year-old stallion by Man o' War outjumped and outstayed the greatest horses in England, and he did it in a style that left no doubt of his greatness.

Miss Ramsey to be Presented

The Ranger Home Demonstration club will hold its regular meeting with Mrs. O. A. Hinman at her home on Tuesday afternoon and Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, will be heard in a talk carrying a theme of mutual interest to the personnel. Members are asked to be present.

Valuable Hints Offered

The Bullock 4-H club girls were advised to choose cotton materials to learn how to sew by Miss Mabel Caldwell, assistant county home demonstration agent, at the meeting Tuesday afternoon, April 5. The meeting was held at the home of the club sponsor, Mrs. Henry Wilson.

Not only is a cotton slip easy to sew but cotton is one of the coolest slip material for summer. Miss Caldwell told the club. A tailored slip without lace will wear longer than with lace, as the lace is not as strong as the slip material. By using darts in a slip will often give a better fit. Miss Caldwell showed the club when she fitted a demonstration slip.

At the meeting a new club reporter was elected, Joyce Bush, to take the place of Eunice Squires, who resigned.

Five members were present: Helen Dempsey, Lillian Adams, Billie Jean Bush, Maxine Beck, Joyce Bush, and the sponsor, Mrs. Henry Wilson.

Those absent were Eunice Squires and Dorothy Evelyn Hatton.

Brunettes? Well, They Can Dye for Their Country!

Are you blonde, beautiful and ready to help in the trenches in the next war? The dye has done it for the world's most beautiful woman. She is Mrs. Jean Colwell, 124 West 21st St. She has dyed her hair for the war effort.

When Hitler went to Austria, Jean Colwell, actress, young, blonde and beautiful, was "hurt terribly." She started thinking—but seriously. About this silly war business, you know, and how to stop it. Preston, came the big idea, embodied in the above "personal" ad she inserted in a New York paper. All you need to do, she says, is recruit a brigade of beautiful blonde bombshells, set them down in No Man's Land. The soldiers go for the blondes, and phft! there goes your war. Miss Colwell is awaiting answers to her ad so she can form her war-squelching organization. She did not comment on the possibility of any of the boys in the trenches being killed in the rush.

Just a Bit Personal

Mrs. George Andrews of Abilene is the guest this week of her sister, Mrs. U. H. Reese, of 304 Elm street.

Marketing Accord With Florida Seen By Citrus Growers

By United Press

MISSION, Texas — Development of a co-ordinated marketing accord between Texas citrus interests and those of Florida was seen in a series of conferences of the Texas Citrus Shippers' Association and the Florida Citrus Commission.

Members of the Florida commission on a goodwill trip to the Lower Rio Grande Valley held discussions with Texas growers and shippers on problems affecting both producing areas. It was believed that several decisions would be reached as a common basis for further citrus marketing activity.

Chairman John Maxey of the Florida commission headed the goodwill delegation. Others in the party included R. E. Bateman of Lakeland, commission secretary; E. G. Grimes, Gradenot, attorney; and J. V. Hodnet, Auburn-dale grower.

In a meeting with Texas shippers Tuesday night the group reached an immediate decision to favor a standard package for citrus fruit containing not more than one and three-fifths bushels. Arguments concerning a two-bushel box developed between Florida and Texas during the present shipping season.

Maxey opened the meeting by recognizing the necessity of co-operative activity between the two great citrus producing areas, and turned discussions towards means of bringing about a co-ordination of sales effort. First step was the decision favoring the bushel and three-fifths size package, known in Texas as the "standard box."

Grimes announced receipt of a telegram from Florida indicating that the attorney general of that state, who had held the Florida commission without authority to regulate container sizes, had later modified his ruling. Florida rules call for shipment of citrus fruit only if each fruit is stamped with the U. S. grade unless shipped in a container approved by the state citrus commission. Fruit also may be shipped in bulk if each is stamped with the grade.

Under the new ruling, Grimes explained, it may be shipped in two-bushel boxes if stamped. The stamping, he said, would entail so many difficulties that it would not encourage use of the two bushel box.

Grimes said that the Florida industry wished to "sell grapefruit, and not brands."

"I believe," he said, "that if Florida and Texas got together to advertise grapefruit, we could still sell it at a profit."

The delegates urged the establishment of a commission in Texas similar to that in Florida, which could act for the Texas area on all matters pertaining to Texas citrus fruit.

Frank Hall, general sales manager for the Rio Grande Valley Citrus Exchange at Weslaco, made the motion, which later was adopted, that the shippers' association favor the standard box and that the association ask State Agricultural Commissioner J. F. McDonald to place such a regulation in effect by next season.

Some day we'll be able to tell our grandchildren about the tough time we had producing a balanced budget and the movie version of "Gone With the Wind."
