MORTON VALLEY GIRL HONORED IN CLUB WORK

Miss Glenn Elaine Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Duncan, of the Morton Valley 4-H club, has won the honor of being a Gold Star Girl of Texas 4-H Clubs, it was reported Monday.

Twelve histories and records are submitted from each county in each district to the district agent. This district is composed of 19 counties with 15 active in club work and Glenn Elaine's history of her club work was selected from 180 records by Miss Maurine Hearn, District agent, and sent to the state, her record was one of the best 100 records in Texas and she will receive a 4-H Gold Star pin.

In her work, Glenn Elaine built a clothes closet at the cost of $1.00. 25c was used for paint and 75c was used to buy a flash light. By making use of the things she had on hand as scraps of lumber for the frame work of the closet, a broom handle for the clothes rod, and two small iron rods which she used to make a shoe rack, and ceiling paper to line the closet, she now has an adequate place to store her clothes.

To make her bed room more attractive was Glenn Elaine's next problem. After talking with her parents she managed to get the room re-papered and the wood-work painted. The paper cost $1.35 and the ivory paint cost $1.35. She bought enough pink wool to make her curtains and to drape around the dressing table that she made from an old table which had been discarded. An old mirror was cut to an attractive size and hung over the dressing table. She also added a bedspread and linoleum to the room. "The entire expense of my room was only $4.65," Glenn Elaine said.

Other work that she did was to add a well equipped sewing box, make a pair of pajamas, a slip, a sport dress, and a house coat. In her garden goal is she helped plant and produce an adequate supply of food for her family and arrange shelves for the storage of the canned products.

This year she is president of her club and is doing the regular work in wardrobe and garden. Besides doing outstanding work in 4-H club, Glenn Elaine is salutatorian of the senior class of Morton Valley School this year, and plans to enter college this fall.

Movie Restrictions Set Aside by Court

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The supreme court today set aside an anti-trust decree to prevent moving picture distributors from imposing certain restrictions on second run theatres in Texas cities, where the motion picture field is dominated by the Hobbittzelle Theatre chains. The high court ordered lower courts to consider merits of the case.

Floods Threaten In South Part of State

SAN ANTONIO, April 25.—The Guadalupe River, fed by torrential rains throughout south-central Texas, today brought a threat of flood to Gonzales and Victoria.

Mother and Child Removed to Home

Mrs. L. L. Harden, wife of the Sinclair Prairie Oil company geologist at Eastland, and their daughter, Linda Ann, born recently, were removed Saturday from a Ranger hospital to their home at Eastland. Both were reported doing nicely.

Versailles Treat

In case you girls have been dying to know what the Duchess of Windsor is wearing this spring, here she is at a recent reception given her by Mayor Henri Hayes of Versailles. Her suit is a two-tone effect of pastel tint hip-length jacket over a dark woolen skirt, slightly flared at the hemline. A pillbox hat with face veil, silver fox scarf and long gloves complete the outfit. The Duke, behind her, still favors his famous wide-spread collar.

Over 100 Entered In Safety Meeting Parade May Sixth

Announcement was made Saturday in Eastland that 110 entrants have been assured for the parade of the Oil Belt Safety conference Friday, May 6, at Eastland and that more are expected.

Officials have drawn up the position entrants will take at the start of the parade at 1:30 the afternoon of the celebration.

A feature of the parade will be highway patrolmen, decorated automobiles, the Eastland band and those from other pep squad, several coffins on a truck designed to show the results of carelessness and representatives from cities over the section. Practically all are companies of the area will be represented.

Saturday came word from Southwestern Greyhound Bus company that they would enter a super-coach in the parade.

Police Chief W. J. Peters of Eastland is chairman of the parade committee.

Pittard, Cisco; Frank Dean, Gorman; and W. R. Laird, Okra.

STATUTE ON TAXES SOUGHT BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Roosevelt today asked congress to enact "a short and simple statute" to subject all government salaries and all future government bond issues to taxation.

The president's recommendation was one of a series of his economy drives.

Mr. Roosevelt advised congress that he believed recent supreme court decisions indicated tax exempt securities and salaries, both federal and state, could be ended without a constitutional amendment.

The statute would enable the government to tax incomes derived from federal, state and municipal bonds and salaries. On the other hand the states could tax incomes from federal bonds and offices.

The president declared that "men with great means" placed funds in tax exempt securities and that a "fair and effective progressive income tax and a huge reserve of tax exempt bonds cannot exist side-by-side."

Under present conditions all government bonds are exempt from taxes. Federal salaries are subject to the federal income tax, but none are subject to state income taxes. State salaries are not subject to federal taxes.

The president's second message this week on monopoly problems is expected to complete his major congressional recommendations of the year.

Road Projects Are Listed For Letting Soon

AUSTIN, April 25.—A list of road projects selected for immediate construction at an estimated cost of $1,988,700 was announced today by the State Highway Department. A second list, to be constructed as soon as finances permit, will cost $1,685,700.

Another group of projects will be handled under a $500,000 special maintenance appropriation. These include:

Johnson county—Leveling asphalt surface on three miles of Highway 25 south of Burleson.

Nolan county—Retaining wall and filling ditches on Highway 80 at Sweetwater creek. Widening and improving culvert in Roscoe on U. S. 80.

East Texans Told To Take Example From New England

LONGVIEW, April 25.—East Texas business men, representing one of the richest sections in the nation, were told today that they could take lessons from business men in one of the hardest hit depression cities in the country.

The advice was given by William Zeller of Manchester, N. H., in an address to the East Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention here.

Work on Kokomo Clubhouse Is On Reports Officials

With thirty-seven NYA boys working on the Kokomo 4-H club building the building is nearing completion. At the present time sufficient rock has been hauled, and the wall have been built up about three feet high.

In order to finance the materials which have to be bought for the building, the Kokomo Boys' 4-H Club have secured ten acres of land to be planted to peanuts. The land will be worked by the boys within the Kokomo 4-H Club. The boys plan to fertilize the land, inoculate the seed peanuts, and plant seed secured from the Texas experiment station.

In addition to providing funds for the building, these boys expect to conduct a model peanut demonstration, at the same time supplying some good seed to the peanut farmers of Eastland county.—Reporter.

Eastland's Water Supply Declared At Higher Level

Lake Eastland, one of Eastland's source of water supply, is at the highest level in two years, officials reported Monday.

It was stated Monday that there is sufficient water for this summer and a lengthy period even should there be no further rains.

Office Is Picked For FHA Activity

The Chamber of Commerce at Eastland announced Monday that it has rented space in the building across from the old postoffice for the region headquarters of the Federal Housing Administration.

The Chamber of Commerce also is to hire a person to do secretarial work for R. E. Sikes, in charge of F. H. A. work in this area.

French Approve a British Agreement

PARIS, April 25.—The French Cabinet approved proposals to work with Great Britain on a foreign policy and establish a "shoulder to shoulder" military policy as submitted today by Premier Daladier.

SAN ANTONIO BOY IS SLAIN WITH A BOTTLE

SAN ANTONIO, April 25.—Four-year-old William Sullivan, his skull smashed by a wine bottle in the hands of a sex degenerate, died at the army base hospital here today.

The child, son of Timothy Sullivan, a retired army sergeant, died of a fractured skull and possibly exposure, suffered while he lay unconscious in a clump of mesquite at the edge of the city from Saturday night to Sunday morning.

Police held the boy's attacker, 24-year-old Cleora Tuttle, former mental patient at the state hospital in Austin. A murder charge was filed against Tuttle.

When police arrested Tuttle Saturday night his clothes were blood clogged. They found him at the home of another youth, only two blocks from where the child was found. A dozen or more youths ranging from 12 to 17 years had dragged him there from his own home and threatened to lynch him unless he told what he had done with the child.

Police said a sanity hearing probably would be held. If found sane Tuttle will be committed again to the asylum.

City Bankrupt Act Is Upheld By High Court

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The supreme court today affirmed the constitutionality of the new municipal bankrupt act, passed by congress to replace a statute invalidated by the court in 1936.

The opinion did not overrule the decision by which the court invalidated the old bankrupt act. Instead it held that the new statute was drawn to meet objections the original statute held.

The court action included: Acceptance for argument of a case concerning the repealed Bankhead Cotton Act.

Rejection of rates established by the secretary of agriculture for livestock commission handling at the Kansas City Stockyards.

Denial of a plea of the New York Transit Corporation that it reconsider its recent decision approving constitutionality of New York City's three per cent gross income tax on utilities.

LaGuardia Puffs A Corn Cob Pipe And Talks Farming

WICHITA FALLS, April 25.—Mayor LaGuardia of New York puffed a corn cob pipe today and discussed the cattle market and prospects of the cotton crop with members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which opened its 20th annual convention.

Directors of the WTCC outlined a 14-point program for the coming year. Principal points were abolition of the state ad valorem tax, establishment of a Big Bend International Park and a comprehensive soil and water conservation program.

Press Agent Quits Jackie Coogan Case

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.—Dave Epstein, a press agent who went to work Saturday for Mrs. Arthur Bernstein to improve her public relations in the suit of her estranged son, Jackie Coogan, quit today. He said Mrs. Bernstein was "listening to her lawyers" instead of him.

New Irish State Poet May Head

The first president of the new state of Ireland, which replaced the Irish Free State under the recently adopted constitution, may be 70-year-old Dr. Douglas Hyde, invited by both major parties to accept the office. Poet, champion of Gaelic as living language, historian and authority on folklore, Dr. Hyde is considered one of the most distinguished living Irish writers.

Rain Halts Golfers In Club Tourney

In spite of the heavy rains that fell Sunday afternoon a number of golfers showed up for their matches in the Ranger Country Club's member tournament, and one match was completed before the rains and nine holes were played on another.

Gid Faircloth defeated Fimer Norris, Jr., in the championship flight 1-up, 21 holes in the only match completed and J. D. McClester was 1-up with 9 to play with Mrs. Glen West when rain halted their match in the fourth flight.

Match play will be completed Sunday, May 8. A total of 32 golfers qualified for the tournament.

Breckenridge Man Pays Fine In Court

Justice of Peace E. E. Wood at Eastland stated Monday that Matt Cooper of Breckenridge recently paid a fine in his court upon a charge of swindling instead of forgery as published. Forgery cases are not tried in a justice court, he pointed out.

Forgery Suspect Is Taken to Eastland

E. C. Manning, charged with forgery, was returned Saturday afternoon from Stephenville, Sheriff Loss Woods announced.

PRAGUE NOW SHAKEN BY A NAZI OUTLAW

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 25.—The first major outbreak of Nazi anti-Jewish violence in Czechoslovakia was revealed today as Premier Milan Hodza called an emergency cabinet meeting to consider demands of the country's German minority for recognition.

The Nazi outbreak occurred last night at Teusling, where the town council resigned and was joined by 300 Germans in a parade through the streets. The demonstrators first dispersed by police, smashed windows of the Jewish temple and Jewish shops.

The Nazi fight for power in the country threatened a new Central European crisis.

Adolf Hitler was credited with inspiring a speech by Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia, demanding minority privileges and close cooperation with Germany.

Other activities along the international front: Russia: Great Britain protested against secret arrests of British citizens as violating the 1937 Anglo-Russian agreement. The Soviet pressed a new purge, arresting almost 25 priests and nuns.

Washington: Reports in reliable sources said Germany was building or planning to build, 51 warships, which would surpass the proposed American naval increase.

Spain: Insurgent armies continued steady gains, reporting that 4,000 loyalists had been killed in the drive toward Valencia.

China: Japan gained ground in southern Shantung Province, but it was reported that Count Terauchi, former war minister had been called to Tokyo because of the slow progress of Japanese troops.

Paris: The cabinet of Premier Daladier adopted a dictatorial reserve program, designed to save the franc.

Membership Group Of C. of C. to Meet Wednesday A. M.

L. L. Bruce, chairman of the membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce, has called a meeting of his committee for Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, when a breakfast will be served at the Paramount Cafe.

After the breakfast the group will be formed into committees to make a whirlwind solicitation for new members. It was stated today that each committee would have only about seven contacts to make before their work would be completed, so each committee should have its work completed within a short time after adjournment of the breakfast session.

Those who have been sent letters requesting their attendance are T. J. Anderson, C. D. Woods, Paul Chapman, Ken Umberson, A. J. Ratliff, B. A. Tunnell, Dave Cooper and Harry Henry.

World Hears Burglars at the Window

A world with the jitters is like a once healthy man who begins to notice the first disturbing symptoms of some deep-rooted organic disease. Jitters in themselves are not important; they are worth noticing as symptoms of a deeper, more fundamental trouble.

A fair sample is the fuss which was made in the Philippines the other day when someone reported that a mysterious fleet of warships had come to anchor in an out-of-the-way harbor in Mindanao Island.

These ships, said a frantic local official, were submarines... or possibly they were destroyers, or even cruisers. Anyhow, they were grim and ominous engines of war, they had no business being where they were, and they were obviously up to no good.

Now this used to be a world in which people no more got nervous over naval apparitions than does the average householder get panicky over the creaking of floorboards in the dead of night. But it is not that kind of world any longer.

And so this mysterious "fleet" in Mindanao panicked American officialdom in the Far East and ruffled the nerves of American newspaper readers back home... although if a similar report had been circulated ten years ago no one would have been in the least disturbed.

A great many of our scares have less foundation in fact. A guileless tourist exercises his pocket camera, and a spy scare is born; a South Sea trading schooner visits some forsaken atoll of water, and a brand-new naval station takes shape before the eyes of strategists.

All of which simply means that we have got the jitters; which, in turn, is a symptom of the bad state of health that the world has got itself into. For the grim and undeniable fact is that we do live in the kind of world wherein malevolent gestures are to be expected.

Perhaps we could understand why economic recovery is so long-delayed if we look at it in the light of that fact. Business builds on a base of confidence, and confidence is the one commodity of which the world is regrettably short these days.

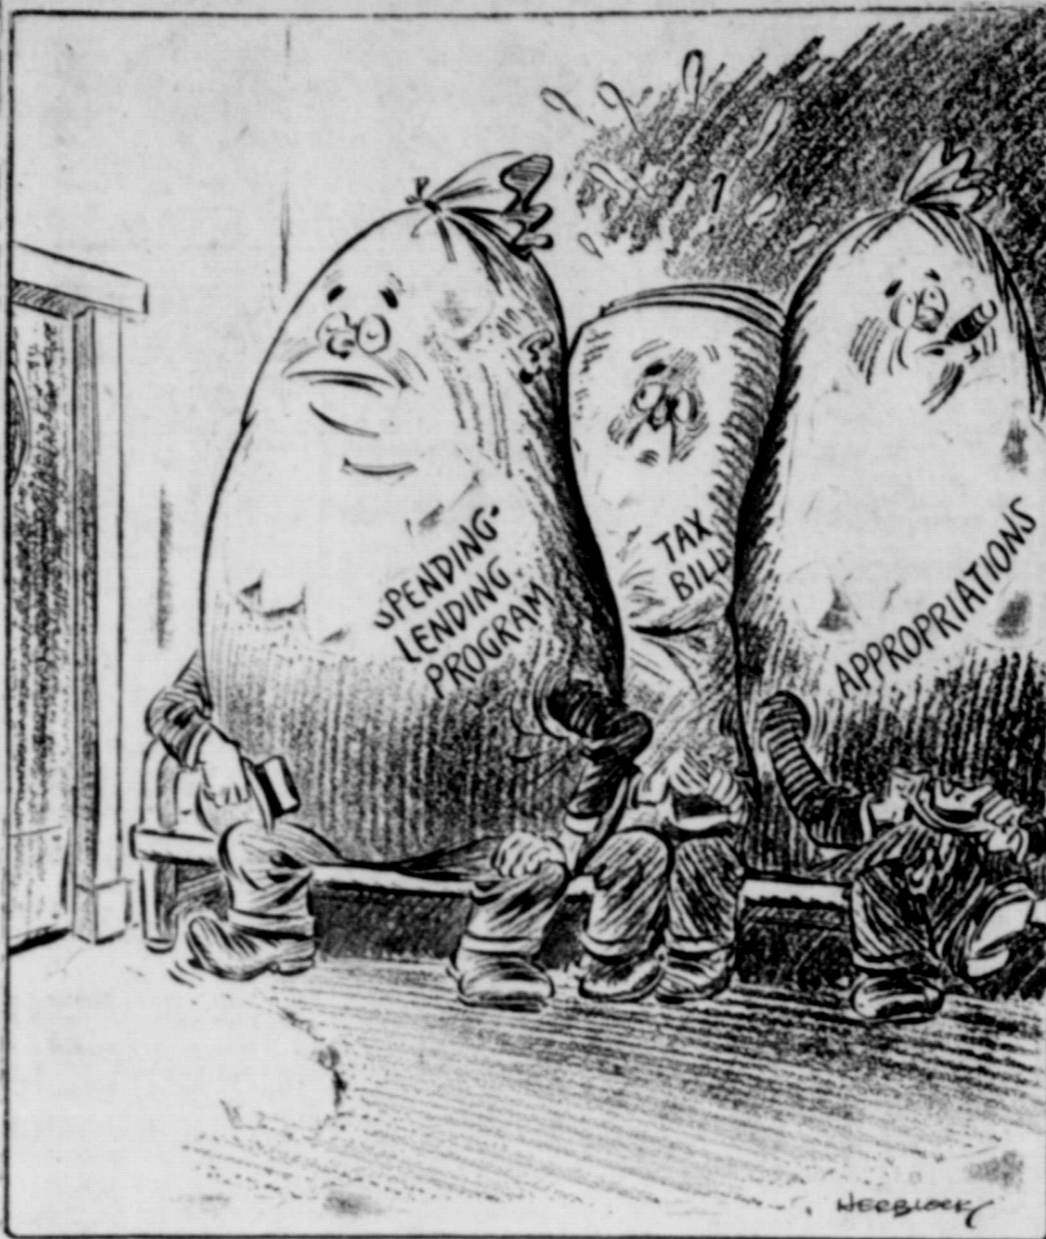

As long as we live under the shadows of an approaching cataclysm, take the approach of that cataclysm for granted, and do nothing to avert it beyond getting ready to do our share of the punching when the time comes—well, can we be surprised if prosperity fails to return?

Cleveland police say that whoever committed the notorious "torso murders" certainly knows his surgery. Maybe he's a medical student. In that case it's a clear case of pre-medicated murder.

Authorities want to test the sanity of a woman in Brownsville, Texas, who has reputedly spent thousands of dollars on aimless airplane trips. Gosh, can't a person have a flight of fancy once in a while?

A Philadelphia man who was calling his girl got locked in a phone booth and had to be freed by the police. There's one good way of cutting those boy-girl conversations short.

IN THE CONGRESSIONAL WAITING ROOM

Three Is Lucky, Triplets Declare

PASADENA, Calif. — The "brilliant Boyd Triplets" is the sobriquet bestowed upon the three 16-year-old daughters of Dr. Jorge E. Boyd, statesman and diplomat of Panama, who are attending the South Pasadena high school.

Besides the brilliancy that has attracted the attention of others, the girls themselves are enthusiastic supporters of the idea that girls have immense advantage in being born triplets.

A few of the accomplishments that have helped them earn the title of the "brilliant triplets" are the fact that all three speak languages — English, Spanish, and French fluently; have unusual musical talent, talent for tap dancing, singing, piano and guitar. The girls plan to attend Vassar unless Hollywood sweeps them off their feet first.

Their ancestry is almost as interesting as the triplets themselves. The mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bolling Boyd, is a direct descendant of Princess Pocahontas. Her father, the late Rolfe E. Bolling, was a brother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

On the father's side, the family is equally distinguished, being one of the first families of Panama. In fact, it was a Senor Frederico Boyd who founded the Republic of Panama.

The father, Dr. Jorge E. Boyd, is associate judge of the Panama Supreme Court and a veteran of the diplomatic service. The girls are brunettes, and identical in bearing, height and weight. Even the parents have difficulty in distinguishing them unless they can see their faces.

One of the reasons why the girls are convinced that a girls should enjoy the advantages of being born triplets is that it simplifies shopping.

It is only necessary for one of the girls to go and try on dresses and shoes and they buy for all three because they can wear each other's clothes and shoes.

The girls always dress alike. At school they prefer a junior uniform because it attracts less attention to them on the campus.

They have one sister, Lola, who is 21 and equally as brilliant. She is a professor of languages at Gunston Hall, a fashionable school at Washington. She was the youngest girl ever to be graduated from Vassar and also the youngest to be graduated from the Balboa high school, Canal Zone.

General Health Is Depending on Child

AUSTIN.—"The general health of Texas and of every community depends largely upon the health and care of its children," said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, in discussing the agencies concerned with child health and which will take part in the May Day-Child Health Day program this year.

"The span of life has grown longer year by year since 1900. It seems a question whether or not we are doing civilized man a favor by prolonging life if we are not making it worth living by reducing pain, disease and disability," he continued.

"Realizing the fact that much of the misery which befalls the human race is the result of conditions very early in life, the division of maternal and child health of the State Department of Health has particularly studied means of bringing children to adulthood stronger, more balanced, and more capable of enjoying an abundant life.

"The health, growth, and development of the child depend upon heredity and environment."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY Mrs. Gaynor Maddox

DESPITE the warm weather, ladies will bake. So here are three excellent recipes which can be baked equally well in gas or coal ovens.

Refrigerator Rolls
One cup milk, 1 yeast cake, 1-4 cup lukewarm milk, 4 tablespoons fat, 4 cups flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt. Scald milk, add fat, sugar and salt. When lukewarm, add dissolved yeast. Add half of flour and liquid.

Beat with mixer till bubbles are formed. Add remainder of flour and knead. Form into rolls, let rise and bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. This dough may be stored in refrigerator and used when desired.

Zweiback Torte
One box zweiback rolled fine, 1-2 cup melted butter, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, 3 egg yolks, 2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup sugar. Mix zweiback, butter and 1-2 cup sugar and line sides and bottom of cake pan. Save enough for top.

Make a custard by mixing cornstarch and sugar well, then add a little milk and the beaten yolks, then rest of milk. Cook

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, waffles with honey, bacon, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Black bean soup, frankfurter rings, endive salad, pecan cookies, applesauce, tea, milk.
DINNER: Roast beef and green pepper hash, baked potatoes, buttered broccoli, stuffed beef salad, zweiback torte, coffee, milk.

on low heat until thick. Add vanilla. Pour this mixture into the lined cake pan, then beat egg whites stiff and spread on custard. Put rest of zweiback on top and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes.

Pecan Cookies
One cup shortening, 2 cups brown sugar, 2 eggs, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup chopped pecans, pinch of salt. Cream shortening and add brown sugar. Mix well, add eggs one at a time. Sift flour, salt and soda and mix with rest of ingredients. Add to other ingredients. Mix in chopped pecans. Turn out on wax paper and store in refrigerator until firm. Slice and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown.

ALLEY OOP

By Hamlin

Joe DiMaggio
has something to say about how different cigarettes can be!

"How about it, Joe, do you find that Camels are different from other cigarettes?"

"Any all-cigarettes-are-alike talk doesn't jibe with my experience. There's a big difference. I've smoked Camels steadily for 5 years, and found that Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me, in a lot of ways. Good taste. Mildness. Easy on the throat. And Camels don't give me jumpy nerves. Like a lot of other people I know, I'd walk a mile for a Camel!"

BILL GRAHAM, seeing Joe DiMaggio pull out his package of Camels, asked his opinion on smoking. Joe came straight to the point: "There's a difference, a big difference, between Camels and the others." You, too, will find in Camels a matchless blend of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic.

"TOBACCO GROWERS FAVOR CAMELS FOR THEIR SMOKING!"
— is the majority opinion in a survey of well-known tobacco planters

"When Camel says 'costlier tobaccos' I know it's right," says Mr. Edward Estes, capable young planter, who knows tobacco from the ground up because he grows it. "Take my last crop, for instance. Camel bought all the best parts—paid me the most I've ever gotten. The men who grow tobacco know what to smoke—Camels!"

"Last year I had the dandiest crop ever," says Mr. Roy Jones, another experienced planter who prefers Camels. "I smoke Camels because I know they bid highest and pay more at the auctions for the choice lots of leaf tobacco. They paid the highest price I ever got from anybody. Considering that Camel uses finer, costlier tobaccos, it's not surprising that Camel is the leading cigarette with us planters."

Mr. Harold Craig, too, bases his preference for Camels on what he knows about the kinds of tobaccos that go into the various cigarettes. "I get the check—so I know that Camels use more expensive tobaccos. Camel got the best of my last crop. That holds true with most planters I know too. You bet I smoke Camels."

Easter Cruise

BY MARION WHITE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
 JOYCE MILNER, heroine; she took an Easter cruise.
 HILARY KINGSTON, her boy; he would sail to the heroine.
 ISOBEL PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday Joyce realized at last that she really loves Dick and that the moment she does not admit it.

CHAPTER XVII
 IN Jamaica, after returning from Port Antonio, Joyce realized, with a sudden pang, that this was the end of her foreign travel. From Kingston, the Empress would sail to Miami, and thence to New York. But Miami was no quaint tropical village, where the steps would feature the same quaint novelties that she could pick up along Fifth avenue. On the entire cruise, she had bought nothing but the set of dishes this morning. Aunt Martha would grant and frown at the thought of spending good money for what she might call foreign junk, but nevertheless she'd like some of the beads, to offer at the next chaise azaar, with a superior explanation: "My niece, you know, bought them in the West Indies."

So she bought beads: vivid, colorful strands, some made of dyed seeds and pods, some of carved fish bones (shark's back), some the native boys told her, to make the sale more exciting), some of a jet-black glass, which looked far more expensive than the one she shilling they cost. She bought an enormous hand-woven straw hat, which Aunt Martha could wear about the garden while spraying June bugs off the rambling roses; she bought bright hankies for mending and marketing.

"For heaven's sake," Dick complained, "where are you going to put all this?"

"Oh, I'll find a place," she replied vaguely, hurrying toward a pile of the wicker furniture, from whence she added two small tables and a rocking chair to her collection.

"There!" she said with satisfaction. "I think I've got enough."
 "I'll say it's enough. If you have any idea of walking through the Grand Central Station loaded down with this—"

"Dick, look!" She laid a detaining hand on his arm, indicating with a quick nod the three men who were coming down the wharf toward them.

"Why, it's Gregory!" he exclaimed, following her direction. A very different Mr. Gregory it was, however. A fearful, furious Mr. Gregory, his face white and drawn, his mouth a thin, horrible line of hatred and desperation. Behind the thick glasses his eyes were two pin-points of cold steel, and as he looked over and saw them standing there, he offered no sign of recognition.

"I wonder what it's all about," Dick mumbled curiously. "That's a Kingston policeman with him."
 "And the other man must be from New York," Joyce pointed out with unconscious clarity. "He's only one around wearing a dark business suit. But he hasn't been on the boat."
 They watched as the three men hurried toward the street and stepped into a waiting car; they noticed that the strangers pushed Mr. Gregory in before them, unceremoniously.

Dick shrugged. "Looks as if he got himself into a jam," he decided without much concern. "He'd better talk himself out of it quickly or he'll miss the boat." Then for the time being they forgot Mr. Gregory, as they struggled up the gangplank with their clumsy assortment of Jamaican merchandise.

It was not until they were at dinner that evening, two hours after they had left Kingston, that they thought of him again. Then it was to wonder why he was not at dinner.

ISOBEL smiled mysteriously. "He's probably worn out from our day ashore," she said proudly.

"We had the most marvelous time! Just before we came on board we stopped at the Myrtle Bank for cocktails, and someone suggested an Iron Heel to Hilary..."

So it's Hilary, Joyce thought. I knew Isobel and he would be congenial.

"Of course he hadn't the slightest idea what it was," Isobel ran on, brightly. "But he's such a good sport! He had two of them. I wonder what effect they're having."

She laughed in gay abandonment.

Something's wrong with me, Joyce told herself. If Mr. Gregory is a good sport, then I don't know my onions. I wonder if they were running him to a hospital. The Iron Heels might have kicked back.

Mrs. Porter shook her head reprovingly. "I think it's very foolish, Isobel, to try these strange drinks..."

She lacked her usual spirit this evening; it was plain that she did not approve Isobel's plan of burying her romance with Dick in a quick new affair with Mr. Gregory. Or perhaps she was not ready to admit defeat. She turned to Dick now, and asked him with forced brightness: "Did you have an enjoyable day, Richard?"

New Jefferson Nickel Is Lucky Coin for Sculptor

Here's the new nickel you'll be handing out when storekeepers say "Five cents, please" next fall. The obverse side at left bears a portrait of Thomas Jefferson, while the reverse side shows his home at Monticello. It is a lucky coin for sculptor Felix Schlag, of Chicago. Art judges dipped 390 plaster models and picked Schlag's design to win the $1000 prize. An American citizen, the 46-year-old winner is German-born but came here in 1929 because "there are more opportunities here."

WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Congress has given evidence that it trusts RFC Chairman Jesse Jones, the lender, more than President Roosevelt, the spender.

This is especially interesting when you consider Jesse's well-known presidential ambitions. The big white-haired Texan has just been handed $1,500,000,000 which he can lend anyone in any amount for any length of time. All the important previous statutory safeguards on RFC loans are off. Only six votes from among 531 members of Congress were cast against this remarkable grant of financial power.

The RFC loan bill, once talked of as a measure to help small business—although that phase had practically been forgotten by the time it passed—whizzed through both houses with remarkable speed at a time when Mr. Roosevelt was fixing to ask for about $2,000,000,000 WPA money and $1,500,000,000 public works money in a new pump-priming, spending-lending program. Mr. Roosevelt will have much more trouble getting his money than Mr. Jones had. And there will be strings tied to it.

The RFC is Jones, and Jones is the RFC. There are four other members of RFC's board of directors and Jones always lets them know about it when he has made an RFC decision. Recently there were a couple of vacancies and a plot was afoot to get at least one independent-minded director appointed. But Jesse nipped that one with a quick trip to Capitol Hill which resulted in an amendment cutting the number of directors from seven to five, leaving no vacancies.

speech, Thomas recalled some of the amusing experiences he had as a preacher. One of the best, he said, occurred in a saloon in Big Spring in the winter of 1883. Thomas was trying to find a place to sleep, all the hotels were full, and finally he started making the rounds of the saloons in an effort to locate a bed.

"I was tired out and was to preach the next morning," he said. "In one saloon a bartender in a Hard-headed, able, efficient and conservative operation has popularized the chairman. One group criticizing the new loan bill complains that turning all that money over to Jesse won't do any good because he will be so tight-fisted with it.

RFC has operated mostly in secret, usually concealing the names of its borrowers. The amounts and circumstances and such considerations as whether its members approved the loans. Heretofore its loans have been limited to industrial and commercial corporations, but the new law says it can't lend to "any business enterprise."

Previous limits of five years on the life of a loan and of $500,000 to any industrial borrower have been wiped out, as have provisions that loans be made only where employment would thereby be maintained or increased. Past requirements for adequate security are abandoned and loans can now be made when RFC feels "reasonably" assured of repayment. Also, RFC may now buy stock in companies. Mr. Jones might, if he so desired, invest tens of millions in the business of a friend. That shows how much Congress trusts him.

Those who fear RFC won't lend money where they think it's needed are still plugging for the plan of SEC Chairman William O. Douglas for a system of regional industrial banks. These banks would invest and assist private houses in underwriting. But government capital and private capital would share the risk.

hat with a rattlesnake band striped at my long-tailed coat and striped breeches.

"You're a gambler, ain't you?" he asked.

"Well, sir, that fellow nearly took a drink of his own whiskey when I replied, 'No, sir, I'm the new Methodist preacher.'"

"It helped the next day's attendance, I thought. Everybody wanted to see what kind of looking fellow I was."

"Pin the Tail On the Donkey"

When you were young, you played that timeless game. Blind-folded, you weaved your way to the painted donkey on the wall, and tried to pin his tail in approximately the right position. You hit his nose, his ear, his leg—or you missed completely, and your blind stab landed on the empty wall.

Do you still "pin the tail on the donkey" when you go shopping? Do you make your purchases "bindfolded," leaving your choice to chance? That is literally the "unenlightened" method. It wastes your time, your energy, your patience—and your money.

Don't buy haphazardly. Know beforehand what to buy, and where to buy it, and how much to pay for it. Read the newspaper advertisements! Scan the shopping columns; compare prices, compare values—decide upon your bargain. Then go directly to the store which advertises it; make your purchase—and be content!

No more hit-and-miss buying when you follow the advertisements. They lift the blindfold; they make it easier to find the best values.
