Ranchers Given Advice on 1938 Federal Program

Recommendations by members of Eastland County Agricultural Committee to ranchers who wish to part of their range allowance be used for artificial reseeded announced Monday. The committee, composed of J. J. Day of Carbon, R. R. Bradley of Cisco and E. E. Rickard of Ranger, stated that it advised the use of one of the following pasture grasses and legumes: Rescue grass, bermuda, blue ryegrass, bur clover, black clover and annual sweet clover. The payment for the practice of artificial reseeding is 20 cents per acre. The cost of seed is not included in the 20 cents per acre. The committee advised that the practice be used in combination with contour listing, furrowing and plowing in order to earn payment for reseeding. If both practices are used on the same land the farmer will earn payment. Rescue grass is abundant along fence rows and where seed has been gathered. It was emphasized that it must be obtained soon as it shatters in a few days. One of its advantages, it was declared, is that it makes good late and spring pastures. Bermuda, Italian rye grass seed must be planted in the fall. Italian rye is temporary and spring grass but does not itself. Bur clover and medic sweet clover is similar and will not thrive unless considerable winter rainfall in that section.

GAS GATE RATE REHEARING IS ORDERED TODAY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The supreme court today ordered further judicial consideration of an order of the Texas Railroad Commission setting a rate of 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet as the maximum to be charged by the Lone Star Gas Company for gas delivered at city gates of Texas municipalities. The court reversed Texas court decisions approving the rate order. It ordered further trial of the question of whether the rates are confiscatory. The company challenged the order on the grounds that the rate was confiscatory, the company was an interstate concern, not subject to state regulation and the order illegally called for abrogation of contracts. The company delivers gas to about 270 Texas municipalities. It has charged the old rate of 40 cents a thousand during protracted litigation.

Violent Pressures, Violent Solutions

It is not so very long since earnest Americans were busy worrying about the spread of Nazi propoganda in South America.

Brazil had what looked very much like a Hitler-model government. Other large South American nations were slipping farther and farther away from democracy. German short-wave radio broadcasts were drenching the continent with propoganda. Minority European groups were organizing and preparing to demand their "rights," altogether it looked as if the Monroe Doctrine was being destroyed by a process of infiltration.

But there seems to have been a serious hitch somewhere. Brazil's government turns out to be a pretty stoutly anti-Hitler. The radio propoganda is failing to have its expected effect. Different governments are cracking down on the minority groups. German-language schools have been closed and foreign political agitation has been curbed, even though large German and Italian language groups do remain devote to the cause of the "leaders" back home.

South America, in other words is not proving a very fertile field for the planting of Nazi seeds. When the dust finally settles things will probably be just about as they were before the fuss started. The continent's democracy will still be imperfect, of course, but it will not be perverted by the importation of some European ideology.

Which suggests that perhaps this whole business of Nazism, or Fascism, is after all a European growth, which needs the peculiar conditions of Europe in order to thrive.

Heaven knows that the world as a whole has a great number of problems to solve. But nowhere are these problems as pressing as they are in Europe. Nowhere else do they exert such unendurable pressures on the common people.

For in Europe they are all intensified by the density of the population, by the intensity of nationalistic sentiments, by the wreckage left by the World War, by the intricate web of suspicion, jealousy, fear and hatred that has been built up over many generations. They drive people to seek bizarre and violent solutions. They create an atmosphere in which reason and the spirit of friendly co-operation are crippled.

And this whole Nazi-Fascist business, apparently, can grow only under such conditions. It is not what its leaders boast and its enemies fear—a new world-movement that must inevitably grow and spread. Transplant it and it withers. It cannot take root in the Americas.

Not—and here is the warning to keep in mind—not unless the people of the Americas, by their own folly, erect on their continents the same set of pressures that are driving Europe to ruin and war.

THAT NIGHTMARE IS HERE AGAIN

Hugh F. Barnhart Relates History Of Jersey Group

By Assistant County Agent, Hugh F. Barnhart.

The Eastland County 4-H Club boys have made wonderful progress during the past two years in introducing and encouraging the production of Registered Jerseys in the county. The Eastland County 4-H Registered Jersey Club was organized in July, 1936, with nine boys who had purchased nine bred registered Jersey heifers.

Soon after the organization of this club one of the members suggested that the club carry their own insurance on their animals.

This measure was adopted by the club. Briefly the plan was that "Each member deposited $5.00 in the bank, along with an agreement that the money was to remain in the bank for a period of one year. Should a boy's heifer die within one year's time from the time the agreement was made, then the boy would receive the full payment of $40.00 deposited by the other eight members. Should two heifers die within this stated time each boy would receive a payment of $20.00. It was stipulated in the agreement that the animal must die from disease and not from the lack of feed, before a payment from the insurance fund could be made. The insurance was carried for one full year, and no death losses occurred in the club. These heifers began calving in December, 1936, bringing five bulls and four heifers. Some of these bulls were kept by the boy's father to be bred on his grade Jersey cows, while others were sold to farmers in Eastland county to be used as a herd bull. All of the heifers remained on the 4-H Club boys' farm. For the first six months lactation period a daily milk record sheet was kept on each heifer. Once each month a butterfat test was run on each heifer. Some of these heifers produced as high as 900 lbs. of milk and 51 lbs. of butterfat per month. An accurate feed record was kept by the boy, and at the end of each month the boy could determine whether or not his heifer showed a profit or loss. Winning $464.00 in premiums as well as having eleven grand champion animals, the 4-H Club Dairy Boys have made a creditable showing in the various dairy shows entered. In 1938 L. C. Love showed the grand champion heifer, of the 4-H Club division at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show. Animals have been entered and showed at the following shows: Ranger, Cisco, Dallas, Fort Worth, Abilene and Eastland.

The chosen six are Misses Alice Bryan, Shanghai, China; Lucy Nelle, Dallas; Jeanne Hansen, Plainview; Joan Ladd, Sherman; Ruth Martin, Denton; and Leta Ruth Edson, Stanton.

Four nominees from each class were introduced at the Revue, from which Jarrett selected one of each classification and two at large. His decision has been kept secret all winter in order to enhance the traditional presentation of beauties at the Spring Senior Formal. Each of the girls has a full page picture in the Daedalian yearbook, which was released the day of the senior prom.

At the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth in 1938, four Eastland County 4-H Club heifers were sold for an average price of $145.00 each. Having a higher average price of any 4-H Club heifers in the auction sales ring. At the Texas Centennial in Dallas, 1936 one 4-H Club heifer was sold for $150.00. In addition to making a good showing of their animals in the show ring, the Eastland County 4-H Dairy Calf Club boys have entered in other activities in the dairy field. L. C. Love and James Dean, members of the Alameda Boys' 4-H Club won the State Dairy Demonstration Contest in 1937, and were awarded a free trip to the National Dairy Show in Columbus, Ohio. In 1937 Jack Walker, James Dean and Buster Wheat were awarded gold, silver, and bronze medals at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show for exhibiting the best fitted 4-H Club Jersey heifers, and displaying the best showmanship, in competition with all of the other 4-H Club boys entered at the show. In 1947 Elbert Bennett and James Dean as two of the one hundred outstanding club boys in Texas, and were awarded a Gold Star.

TOBACCO PLANTER SAY:

"We smoke Camels because we know tobacco"

At auctions, Marvin Holloman, well-known planter, sees Camel buyers pay top prices for the finer grades of his crops. Mr. Holloman says: "At auctions the Camel buyers pay and take the real choice lots of bacco. That's why we tobacco men, who know tobacco quality, side out, make Camel our favorite. Then we're sure we're getting finer, COSTLIER tobacco. They sure make a big difference."

"I'm a tobacco planter," says T. Strickland, sold his high grade tobacco Camels. Last year those Camels were bought by the finest lots of my tobacco. And sure bid up to get them. There's difference in those expensive Camels tobacco--so I smoke Camels. And there's your reason why planters I know smoke Camels."

John T. Bone, who cultivates some of North Carolina's choicest leaf tobacco, remarks on the sale of his last crop: "Yes sir! I saw my best lots go for Camels, and you can bet those buyers paid top prices for them. No wonder I smoke the cigarette made of finer, more expensive tobacco--Camels! Most planters who smoke Camels too, for smokers who know tobacco know tobacco."

Picard's game seems effortless. He's a long driver—in a tight spot, a heady strategist. "A cigarette, too, has to be sized up from a lot of angles," he says.

Trial Flight

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES COPYRIGHT, 1938, BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

CASE OF CHARACTERS
 JACKIE DUNN—heroine; she wanted to fly.
 ROGER BRICKNER—hero; he wanted to test the stratosphere.
 HUBBARD MELMORE—wealthy widow; she wanted Roger.
 EVELYN—Melmore's mother; she wanted a son-in-law.

Yesterday the stratosphere flight broke and Jackie, waiting for reports, knows the hours are the longest, most difficult she has ever experienced. It is fortunate she thinks that.

CHAPTER XIII
 JACKIE endeavored to make time pass until Roger's silver ship could be contacted direct, at the radio tower. At the little Airport Inn, where she and Roger had met so many times, she ordered coffee and hot, buttered toast. She would manage somehow to force down a little breakfast. She brought a paper and tried to read for a time, but since there was no news regarding Roger's stratosphere flight she really did not know what she read.

Jackie consulted her wrist watch, for the hundredth time, it seemed. The hands had never moved so slowly. But she had managed to put in those two hours. Roger had been on his way now about 5 1/2 hours, maybe a little longer. Surely before much longer they would be in direct contact with him.

She knew the moment she reached the top step to the tower that something important was happening. Mac signaled to her wildly to hurry, to come close, at the same time warning her not to say anything.

Jackie's heart hammered so painfully in her ears that the reports coming from the receiving sets were only a confused, indistinguishable jumble, absolutely meaningless. Then Mac twisted a dial, held up his hand.

"Listen!" he cried. "I think we've got him." He put a finger to his lips again.

Jackie pressed close, nerves taut, ears strained. If only her heart would not beat so loudly.

"J-BHLP..." Roger's call letters, Roger's own voice, so very familiar, first faint, now growing stronger. "J-BHLP calling DRK..." Those were the radio tower letters.

"Oh, Mac!" Jackie could not restrain the words that would burst from her lips. Excitement now was fearful, heart-filling. "Try to tune him in clearer, please! We must hear every word of it..."

"It'll be perfectly clear in a second," Mac replied, giving the answering signal and report; then—with a jerk of his head toward Jackie—be ended by tacking on quickly, before the call letters, "Jackie sends luck—and love... DRK... DRK..."

"Just luck did not seem enough," he said, turning to her, "get you a new gauge at once."

Mrs. V. W. Weaver is custodian of the club's tester. Any one wishing their cooker tested can have it tested for 10 cents. The club will meet in the home of Mrs. C. L. Rogers, May 26. Everyone is invited.

The hostess served delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake to Mmes. E. E. Murry, V. W. Weaver, Ernest Weaver, Elven Barton, John Guy, Miss Ruth Jancy, and visitor, Mrs. Tom Barton.

Cooker Testers Are Demonstrated at New Hope Meeting

The New Hope home demonstration club met in the home of Mrs. T. D. Taylor Thursday, May 12. To test a pressure cooker make tester down as you would a thermometer to near two hundred," says Ruth Ramsey. "Place cooker on stove, get cooker and lid both hot, have water in cooker as for canning. Then let steam escape seven minutes and close. Let pressure come up to ten pounds and stay there ten minutes. Set cooker off stove and let pressure out slowly. The tester will register two hundred and forty if your cooker is all right. If it is higher or lower, get you a new gauge at once."

School Official Has 'Back Talk' Defense

By United Press
 BUFFALO, N. Y.—Children should be permitted to talk in school and "talk back" if they are to have any initiative when they grow older.

That advice comes from Dr. John Loftus, New York City assistant superintendent of schools. Addressing an audience at the Buffalo State Teachers College, Dr. Loftus recommended that a good school program should develop initiative in pupils.

"Many teachers say they are trying to develop independent action in their pupils," the educator asserted, "but if one of their pupils should walk across the room to talk to another student or talk back to a superior, most teachers would put a stop to it."

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 WASHINGTON.—Promises of co-operation from business in its so-called five-billion-dollar recovery program are exactly what the administration needs most. Many government officials, even though they believe in "spending," gravely doubt if the program by itself can make a dent in the depression.

Analysis of the spending-lending plan has shown its pumping value to be problematical and its reception has been a mixture of mild approval, apathy and opposition. What the program needs is a few business psychologists which would result in turning loose a lot of private capital in anticipation of better times—and that is sadly lacking. So the administration has been trying like the dickens to get some big business men to beat the drums.

It's quite reminiscent of the 1929-30 months when President Hoover was getting all the big business men down here to do exactly the same thing. Mr. Hoover had a far easier time getting the tycoons to express "confidence" than Mr. Roosevelt is having and, on the other hand, Mr. D. R. has a pump-priming scheme which Hoover didn't have. Other pronounced differences in the two situations are obvious and need not be detailed, although it may be noted that some New Deal cynics believe hopeful expressions of co-operation and confidence by business leaders would be no more valuable than they were in 1930.

Insofar as the present Roosevelt program is concerned it is now obvious that: 1.—There will be no immediate rise in the flow of federal spending. 2.—The degree of speed with which new spending and lending money can be put into the system is an uncertain factor. 3.—Even the most optimistic advocates of the program aren't sure that the amount of such money will be enough to lift the country above current depression levels.

So you can see why there's a fervent Washington desire to have business men stop saying "Oh, yeah!" and start crying something like "Clap hands, here comes Charlie!"

Optimists hope the New Deal can get to pushing out $150,000,000 a month of new money by election time. But since WPA expenditures will represent no real increase and RFC loans always have been regarded conservatively, the big difference between the present government outlay and that of a few months hence must be found in about $1,500,000,000 of PWA grant and loan money which Secretary Ickes expects to have available.

Ickes hopes to start pushing this money out within three months and will make a terrific effort to fulfill those hopes and fool the skeptics.

If the present level of business activity can be held through the summer, most of the more cagey administration economists will be satisfied. In that case, they assume business will receive some appreciable stimulus in the fall which will carry it above the recent level.

But the country is going into the summer with some huge industrial inventories, they point out, and there have been no increases in employment yet to promise an offset to the usual summer slump. (Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

 REGINA, Sask.—It's the cow that carries the message now in southern Saskatchewan. A woman near Gladmar, Sask., wanted to get in touch with a neighbor. She was off the telephone line and could not leave her home, noting the neighbor's cow grazing nearby, she wrote her a note, put it in a bag, tied the bag in the cow's horn, slipped it soundly and shoed it off in the direction of its home.

The message arrived safely.

Miss Mabel Caldwell
4-H Club Speaker

"Salads are not only attractive at our meals, but are essential and appetizing," the Bullock 4-H Mabel Caldwell, assistant home demonstration agent. The club met Tuesday evening, May 3 at the home of Mrs. Henry Wilson, sponsor.

In Grandmother's day salads were considered a luxury and were served only on special occasions. Now we consider them a daily necessity; an essential of the adequate diet, in order that we may grow and be healthy. Raw fruits and vegetables are needed to furnish the body with the necessary vitamins and minerals. The cellulose which raw fruits and vegetables provide make them a valuable food. Salads are economical foods, as left-overs may be used in making very appetizing and delicious salads. Salads made of meat, eggs, and cheese combinations, served with an accompaniment may make up an entire meal.

In making salads of raw vegetables or fruits, much care should be taken in cleaning these products because they may carry dangerous bacteria. Salads should be mixed just before serving because the dressing tends to become watery and the salad leaves wilt.

The club planned to have a picnic at the school May 30, from 9:30 to 1 o'clock. They are to bring pencil and paper, sewing, inventories, garden books, hat or shoe rack, D-1-0-5, picnic lunch, one jar of vegetables, and invite their mothers.

The club song, "The More We Get Together," was sung. All members were present.

One Pear Tree Pays All Taxes On Farm

By United Press
STEPHENVILLE — The only thing preventing W. W. Carpenter, southern Erath county farmer, from planting a second pear tree on his place is fear that he would then have to pay an income tax.

Carpenter planted his only pear tree in 1902. It first bore fruit in 1910. He began keeping a record of its production in 1920, and in no year since then has the tree failed to pay all the taxes on the 160-acre farm.

Officials of the organization said that they expected 150 automobiles would be in the caravan.

The tour will start at Albany. On the first day the cattlemen will inspect herds at the G. P. Mitcham ranch near Cisco and the largest ranch at Merkel. The second day's itinerary will include the Walter L. Boothe and G. E. Bradford ranches near Sweetwater, and the Jack Frost ranch at Blackwell.

On the third day the stockmen will inspect the herds of E. P. Neblett and son near Sweetwater, John B. Stribling at Rotan, Winston Brothers at Snyder, and John Henry Dean near Lamesa.

Dust Mirage Believed Cause of Ghost Car

BRANTFORD, Ont. — While driving along a highway near here, Kenneth Southwood, a telegraph messenger, reported a "ghost car" nearby caused him to figure in what might have been a serious accident.

As he drove along he suddenly saw a car loom up directly in the path of his own car. He applied the brakes and had difficulty holding the machine on the road as it skidded. The other car then "disappeared" from in front of him. On reflection, Southwood decided what he had seen was a "dust mirage," probably caused by the shadow of a car passing him from the other direction being thrown across his path.
