Frivolity—A Symptom of Basic Well-Being

Every time hot weather comes on, and the American indulges himself in his incurable interest in all of the active and passive sports, someone is sure to complain that this simply proves how very frivolous, low-brow, and generally light-minded we all are.

A prize fight draws a million-dollar gate, two hot big league pennant races set whole cities half delirious, golf courses and bathing beaches do a land-office business, swing music festivals draw enormous crowds, motorist set out on their annual hejira to cool breezes and inspiring scenery—and someone is certain to pipe up that we are heedless folk fiddling while Rome burns.

Now it is quite true that dire events are taking shape in this world, and that a man seriously given to worry could sit down and find food for steady, uninterrupted pessimism for weeks on end. Things are going badly at home and worse abroad, and no one knows what the end is going to be.

Yet this very frivolity of ours is probably one of the most encouraging symptoms we could possibly display right now.

Obviously, a nation which can suspend all its other business for a couple of days to wonder which of two prize fighters will beat the other one is not a nation which is living under the shadow of immediate disaster. A city which can go haywire over its balk team is still enjoying pretty robust health. And a country which can send its citizens out to spend $4,000,000,000 on the vacation highways is along way from collapse.

These things are self-evident, to be sure. Yet they are worth repeating, if only because they are a welcome antidote to the cries of the calamity howlers.

We don't need to adopt a Pollyanna attitude about it. We have our troubles, they're big ones, and we're going to be a long time solving them.

But the basic fact, underneath them all, is that we are the luckiest people in the world today.

Our economic system is in bad shape—but it has more of the elements needed to restore it to complete health than any other system on earth.

We have much unrest and dissatisfaction among our people—but we have less than any other great nation, and we have a better chance to cure what we do have.

We face the danger of a world war—but if any nation can stay out of that war, we can, and no nation can be as confident of ultimate victory if war should come in spite of everything.

It doesn't hurt to remind ourselves of these things. They simply mean that although things are bad, they could be ever so much worse—and that they are probably going to get better faster than we sometimes suppose.

Rambling With The Rambler
 BY WAYNE WALLACE

The League of Nations has so far been anything but a howling success. It has been criticized since its beginning and looked upon as something obnoxious by the majority of American people. Certainly it has many bad features, not the least of which is the danger of involving non-interested nations in the entangling alliances of other countries. Yet with all the League's faults it does suggest a means that may eventually be accepted by world's powers in settling international disputes. But before any such thing ever comes to pass, people will have to become more civilized.

Rain, Royal Envoy's Illness Mar Swedish Fete

The main purpose of the League is to outlaw war—a very worthy and noble cause. It wishes to settle disputes by reason rather than by armed force. And if some means if ever reached which will be successful in fulfilling this desire, then the human race will be benefited beyond measure. The main trouble in accomplishing this task is that while the mission of the League is idealistic, its members are not. Each nation wishes the League to work out to its own individual advantage and when such is not the case the threatened nation withdraws.

For such a League to ever work it would be necessary, since this is the only means a League of this nature can employ to control those under its jurisdiction. It cannot use armed force since this is against the underlying principle of its mission. Thus any nation assuming any such authority in subduing another, would itself be offending against the rules of the League, or for that matter even a group of nations. As long as pacts and treaties mean nothing to individual nations, as long as they are considered mere scraps of paper to be discarded at the least provocation, just so long will such a League find its very existence jeopardized.

Although the League of Nations came into existence January 10, 1920 in accordance with a covenant of the Peace Conference at Paris, the idea preceded it by many centuries. In fact it was near the close of the thirteenth century that Pierre Dubois, a reformer, proposed a court of international arbitration and advocated the outlawry of war, holding that the nations responsible for it should be "starved out"—which is nothing more than boycotting Philip the Fair was then king of France.

To many observers the League of Nations seems to be on its last legs. It has met with some successes during its short existence but so far has failed miserably in its many attempts to manipulate a crisis; yet despite this there are still some who believe that the League, or something of like nature, will eventually bring an end to war. John I. Knudson in his book, "A History of the League of Nations," remarks in conclusion, "The world has become so interdependent that some centralized agency for discussion and decision of policy is now indispensable. Should the League not survive due to some fearful cataclysm some similar institution would in time be built upon the same structure and serving the same needs. In other words the League has become an indispensable organization in a world community."

The ideas sponsored by the League of Nations have come a long way down the centuries and their development has been slow; yet those who trust in such things feel that they have something to while playing baseball... The study of hurricanes should prove a windy subject... A sit-down strike, evidently is something that won't stand on its feet... Trying to run business on a shoe-string presents many a knotty problem... Hating people, at its best, is nothing more than wasted effort... A pointed remark may pierce like a lance... Three cheers for Eddie Cantor who puts loyalty to his race above the string of his purse.

Over-Grazing Is One Chief Cause Of Bird Decrease

COLLEGE STATION — Over-grazing and farm tenancy are two of the most important factors affecting wild life in East Texas. That was the conclusion reached by Walter P. Taylor and D. W. Lay for the Texas Co-Operative Wildlife Service at Texas A. & M. College after a survey which they directed in Walker county.

ed acres was 11.25 birds, and on ungrazed areas protected from hunting, the average was 16.8 birds. Taylor and Lay estimated that Walker county had 40,255 quail, or one to each 12.5 acres, but their findings indicated the possibility of substantially increasing the number through improvement of the habitat and better regulation of hunting. Control of grazing in most parts of the county, they said, may solve some of the wild life problems.

OLYMPIAN WRECKED AGAIN

Overtaken by tragedy for the second time within a week, the Milwaukee Railroad's crack "Olympian" is shown above wrecked near Ingomar, Mont., after colliding head-on with an eastbound CCC train. One youth was killed and four trainmen and seven passengers were injured. The CCC train's locomotive rolled over the far side of the embankment and one of its cars was thrown across the rails in front of the "Olympian," as shown above.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Boss Frank Hague has received at least a mild slap on the wrist from President Roosevelt with the promotion of District Judge William Clark of New Jersey to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

Clark has been hearing the suit for an injunction which would forbid Hague to suppress civil rights in Jersey City. His nomination was sent to the Senate at a time when it was generally believed in Washington that he would grant an injunction against Hague. Clark is a Republican and Hague wasn't consulted as to his nomination at any stage.

CLARK is a 47-year-old liberal whose decisions have seldom been reversed by higher courts during his 15 years on the bench. The most notable exception was his decision in 1930 that the prohibition amendment was invalid because it had been ratified by legislatures rather than constitutional assemblies.

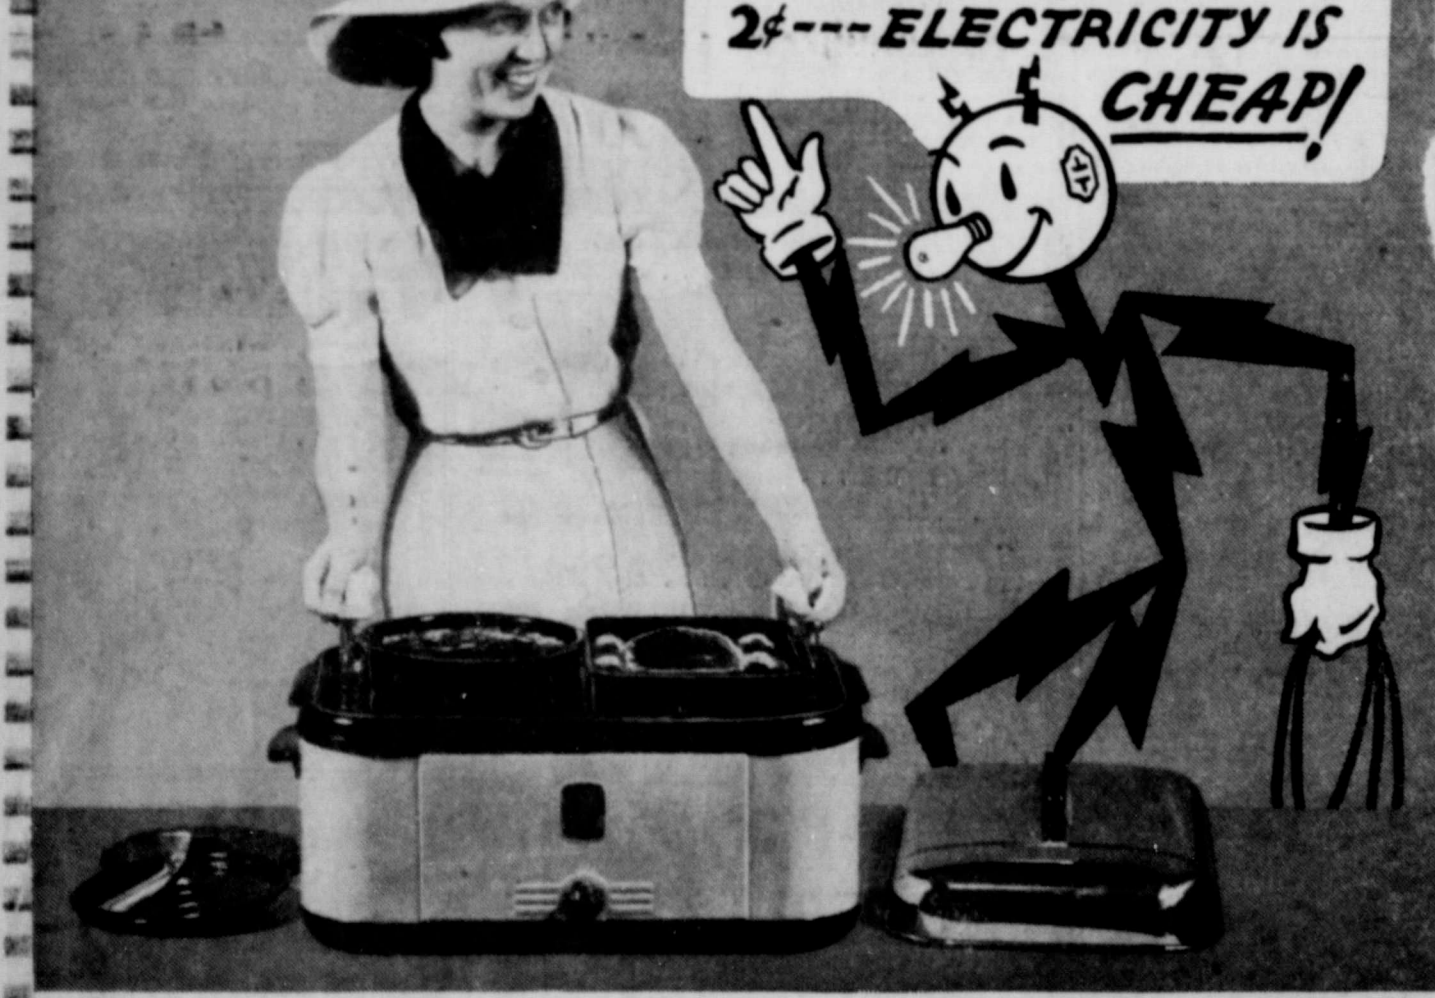

...The average quail size on Dec. 1, 1937, on grazed and hunted areas was 11.25 birds, and on ungrazed areas protected from hunting, the average was 16.8 birds. Taylor and Lay estimated that Walker county had 40,255 quail, or one to each 12.5 acres, but their findings indicated the possibility of substantially increasing the number through improvement of the habitat and better regulation of hunting.

MAYBE you've seen those incredibly fast left hooks thrown by Jack Dempsey—Or Joe Louis, lashing out with his lightning-like punches. Or Max Schmeling's snappy right.

IN San Francisco they call Patsy Amoroso that she's the perfect golf swing. Patsy is just 9, weighs pounds, stands 54 inches, whangs the ball straight down middle for 125 yards.

THE fighter merely swings his fist through the dual electric eye control and his speed is recorded. All of which reminds one that the well-conditioned human muscle, operated by an alert brain, is capable of remarkable things.

Gordon Takes a Scoring Spree To Beat Killingsworth

BY BUSTER HIGDON

In a slambang contest last night, Gordon outscored Killingsworth 18-12. Aided by seven errors on the part of Killingsworth, Gordon got their 18 runs on 16 hits, but they made 4 miscues themselves and the Gordon pitcher allowed 11 hits to account for 12 Killingsworth scores.

Killingsworth started the slaughter early by dragging down three runs in the first inning. Greer walked to start the inning and they were all safe when Poyner bunted and the first baseman bungled the catcher's throw. Simpson popped up to the shortstop and Stuard drew a free pass to fill the bases. Reese hit safely and three runs crossed the plate.

Just a Bit Personal

Miss Betty Ruth Curtis of Fort Worth will arrive in Ranger this afternoon for the week-end visit with friends here. Miss Curtis attended the University of Texas this year, where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicklin and son will leave today for Alamosa, Colorado, where he has been transferred. The Hicklin family have made their home in Ranger the past ten years. During that time Mr. Hicklin has been employed at Montgomery Ward & Co. Their many friends here regret their departure from Ranger.

Mrs. S. W. Bobo and Mrs. Susan Hunt visited relatives at Fort Worth Thursday. Miss Camilla Hunt had as her guest this week John Caldwell, who attends Oklahoma University at Norman, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray McHenry and son, Francis, will leave Sunday for Colorado, Texas, where they will spend the week-end holidays with relatives. Mary McHenry will return home with them after several weeks' visit at Lubbock.

Miss Lorene Harrell is expected home this week-end for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Harrell, and daughter, Inez. Word has been received that she arrived in Austin last week following an extended motor trip to points east, including Pittsburgh, Pa.; Washington, D. C.; and Rogersville, Tenn. She accompanied Mrs. Lucy Rutledge and son, Dayton, of Austin, on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Larson and children, Gladys and Freddie, will leave Saturday afternoon for Waco, where they will spend the week-end holidays with relatives there.

Mrs. Alton Sumrall and Mrs. J. A. Boler have returned from Stanton, where they have been at the bedside of her uncle, J. E. Mill-

“There’s The doorbell again”

Suppose daily to your door came the butcher, the grocer, the clothier, the furrier, the furniture man, and every other merchant with whom you deal? What a tedium of doorbell answering that would mean!

It would be even more impractical for you to visit daily all these stores to find out what they have to offer and the price.

And yet you need those merchants' service quite as much as they need your patronage. Contact between seller and consumer is essential in the supplying of human needs. Before a sale can be closed the goods must be offered. Every day, through the advertising columns of this newspaper, the merchants of this city come to your home with their choicest wares. Easily, quickly, you get the news of all that is worth while in the market-places of the world.

They are not strangers at the door, but merchants you know and trust. You are always surer of high quality and fair price when you buy an article advertised by a reputable firm.
