THOMPSON TO RUN AGAIN IS CAPITOL HINT

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 26.—A hint of a sure race was given today by O. Thompson, runner up for governor, as he praised W. O'Daniel and promised him cheerful and official support. "I went through a good quality of running against the wrong fellow," Thompson said. "I didn't even see O'Daniel. The only thing I knew he had passed of us and left me with a cloud of dust in my eyes. I congratulate a fellow who really knows how to run. I hope he takes good and I will help him every way I can. He's entitled to everybody's support." Thompson denied reports he would resign as railroad commissioner.

Chief Quizzer

Caught by the candid camera at the Senate Civil Liberties Committee investigation of labor policy of "little steel" companies is Senator Robert M. LaFollette, chief inquisitor. LaFollette's questioning of one company representative led to a laugh when it developed that the witness helped carry Cleveland for LaFollette's father in the 1924 presidential election.

Oscar Lyerla, chairman of the executive committee, announced Tuesday the county convention would be held Saturday in the courthouse at Eastland. Hoppers Eaten By Cobra Plant

By United Press
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—The solution to the nation's grasshopper problem, according to a study, Wash., botanist, is the little cobra plant, which, it is said, will turn the tables on the hop-destroying hoppers by eating them before they get around to eating wheat and corn fields. M. W. Dye thinks so much of the cobra plant offensive against pests that he announced he would attempt to sell Colorado and county entomologists farmers enough of the plants to establish a barrier between infested areas. The plant—known scientifically as Darringtonia Chrysanthra—usually resembles a hooded cobra and in striking position. The plant lures insects down its stalk and then kills the insects with the acids in its "stomach" at the base of the stem.

Colored Church to Get New Building For District Meet

The St. Paul Baptist Church (colored) of Ranger will entertain the West Texas Baptist District Association beginning Aug. 16 and continuing through Aug. 21, it was announced today by A. L. Dunn, pastor of the church. Since the old St. Paul church is not large enough to accommodate the people, the Gospel Center church building has been purchased and is being moved. As the finances of the church are low the members of the church, and the pastor, are calling upon the white friends of the church, seeking their help and cooperation in this cause. Several of the members have been authorized by the church to solicit funds in order that the building might be moved. Nails, paint, labor, lumber and stain or varnish is needed, the pastor stated today.

Safety Drives Are Saving Many Lives

By United Press
TULSA, Okla.—Three thousand persons are alive in the United States today who can thank current extensive highway safety campaigns for their survival, according to the American Automobile Institute. During the first half of this year, highway fatalities were one-third below those for the corresponding period of 1937. "Although many factors enter into the remarkable trend toward highway safety, including normal fluctuations against danger, it is believed that the major factor is to be found in the rapidly growing safety consciousness of the part of the public."

FLOOD RELIEF WORK TAKEN TO BEND, TEX

Several cases of illness were reported among the flood victims who were removed from the tops of buildings last night. Most of the sickness was thought to have been caused by watermelons, on which the refugees have subsisted for the past three days.

Philpeco to Have Annual Tourney On Aug. 5, 6 and 7

Local golfers Tuesday were advised that the Philpeco Country club, near Rising Star, will stage its annual invitation tournament August 5, 6 and 7. The dates fall on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Course caretaker Claud Haunett has begun putting a new top dressing on the grass greens in preparation for the tourney. This marks the first time the grass greens will have been used for the tournament.

BRITAIN STILL STRIVES FOR WORLD PEACE

Great Britain told the world today that, backed by British arms and British warships, she seeks to bolster world peace only on honorable terms. "Let no one imagine that although we seek peace we are willing to sacrifice British honor and British naval interests," Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons. Stiffening of British policy emphasized the vital role which Great Britain has assumed in improved prospects for preventing a war in the Czech minority crisis. Progress toward relieving the Central European crisis coincided with new warfare in the far east, in Spain and in Palestine. Gravest reports of fighting came through the Japanese press from the Siberian border. It reported a five-hour fight in which 300 Russian soldiers were forced back across the frontier. Accuracy of the dispatch remained to be proved, however.

Oil, Gas Hearing To Be Held Aug. 12 At Mineral Wells

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 26.—A hearing will be held by the Texas Railroad Commission at Mineral Wells, Aug. 12, to consider removing present restrictions on wells that will be submerged when Possum Kingdom Dam on the Brazos river is erected. Whether all restrictions will be removed will be discussed to permit recovery of as much oil as possible before they are submerged. A list furnished by the river authority shows 25 oil wells, six gas wells and one oil-gas well will be submerged.

A Second Corrigan?

Douglass Corrigan's dashing hop to Ireland only strengthened the determination of Herman Schapansky, above, Custer, Oklahoma's "flying farmer," pictured with the home-made airplane which has been grounded after a series of half-raising crashes. Repeated narrow escapes have not stopped Schapansky in his efforts to fly his vegetables to town for sale. "She's safe enough for me," said Schapansky after a disastrous one-wheel landing in a cow-pasture, "but if they won't let me fly her, I'll have to save up and get a better one."

MAYOR OUTLINES PLANS FOR N. Y. A. PROJECTS FOR CITY OF RANGER

Mayor Hall Walker today outlined plans for National Youth Administration projects in Ranger, which have been planned to give boys between the ages of 18 and 25 work. Mayor Walker's statement concerning the project follows: The Chamber of Commerce has joined hands to work out some project acceptable to the National Youth Administration whereby boys may find employment similar to employment given to men by W. P. A. The Chamber of Commerce and City Commission both believe that projects should be worked out in our town to give employment to youths and much thought has been given to this the last two weeks. The Chamber of Commerce has worked up blueprints for a boys scout building to be sponsored by the City Commission. These blueprints have been sent to Fort Worth to National Youth Administration headquarters for this section and they will have to be finally approved in Washington before work can be started. Last week, some Ranger citizens met at the Chamber of Commerce and suggested plans for work to improve the old cemetery located between the T. E. railroad and Wichita Falls and Southern (Continued on page 4)

Vehicle Accident Not As Frightful As Making Speech

A. N. Searly, county commissioner of precinct No. 3 and a candidate for that office, told Tuesday how an automobile accident last week forced the admission he is "more scared to make a speech" than he was when the mishap, which did not injure anyone, occurred. Searly, of Rising Star, was driving his car near Romney when a truck struck his vehicle, causing him to run across a ditch and a field. The driver of the truck later told Searly: "I bet you were scared." "Not as much as when I am making a speech," was the official admission. Searly's car was damaged.

By United Press
LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 26.—Insisting that Gov. A. B. Chandler's current illness is the result of an attempt to poison him, Maj. Americans Do Not Yearn for War-Like Splendor

To a very considerable extent, President Roosevelt's disarmament plea, made under the guns of 63 men-of-war in San Francisco Bay, was overshadowed by news of the scorching round-the-world flight by Howard Hughes. This was one of the few occasions on which the presidential knock for good timing was defeated by the chance intervention of a more spectacular event.

But now that Hughes' magnificent flight has in turn been somewhat blurred by the daring of Douglas Corrigan, the California "wild Irishman" who so casually hopped over to Ireland in a dilapidated, 10-year-old ship of the Lindbergh vintage, it is worth while to turn back to the President's words at San Francisco.

He spoke in a strange place and in strange surroundings for a disarmament talk. The naval concentration spread out beneath him in San Francisco Bay was one of the greatest peace-time naval shows ever assembled.

Yet, generally speaking, the United States paid no heed to this great demonstration of might at sea. When England crowned a king and the Royal Navy paraded at Spithead, a world watched and was duly impressed by the British fleet. Mussolini entertains Hitler and parades his submarine and destroyer fleet and the publicity is tremendous.

Yet there was little notice of the mighty U. S. fleet that lay strung out in the San Francisco roadstead while its commander pleaded for disarmament.

This comparative public indifference in a country whose every schoolchild could have told you the name and commanding officer of every one of Dewey's ships 40 years ago is the best proof that the President is making no idle gesture when he says that the American people really wish they could be spending less on armaments than they do. We quite definitely are not militaristic and our great fleet and other armaments result from the undoubted fact that we are faced as the President said "with a condition—not a theory and the condition is not of our choosing."

After the World War when the United States had in the water and under construction the greatest fleet in the world and certainly one of the strongest military machines, we gave them both up, disbanding the army, and bob-tailing the fleet for the sake of disarmament as envisioned at the Washington conference.

Russia, in making its startling proposal a few years ago of complete disarmament, has made the most gallant gesture toward disarmament.

But no other country has actually given up so much as the United States, and it is well that the President keeps this principle in the forefront of national thought: "What others will do to decrease the arms burden, the United States will do, and do gladly."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox, S.A. Serv. Staff Writer. YOU need a sense of humor and some goulash recipes to be happy during the recession. Walter Slezak, the actor, has both. He's getting plump and wants to tell you how to do likewise.

Begetter Goulash Walter Slezak (Serves 4) Two pounds meat (pork and veal from shoulder), 3 onions, 1 teaspoon sweet paprika, 2 tablespoons vinegar, salt and pepper to taste, 1-2 teaspoon caraway seed, 1-2 clove garlic, 1-2 pint water or soup stock, 1 1/2 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons sour cream.

Cut meat in large pieces as for stew. Sear and place in casserole with light cover. Slice onions fine and saute in butter until light brown. Add to meat in casserole. Add paprika, vinegar, salt and pepper, caraway seed and garlic, and water and soup stock.

Cover and simmer (very slow fire) until juices and stock have cooked down. Then dust with flour, add a little more stock or water to just cover and simmer until meat is tender. Just before serving, add the sour cream.

A favorite dish of his is Viennese stuffed peppers. (Serves 5 in Vienna, 8 in U. S. A.) Ten firm green peppers, 1 pound ground meat (equal parts beef, veal and pork), 1 large onion, 1 cup rice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 pint strained canned or fresh tomatoes.

Slice top from peppers. Remove seeds. Slice onion and brown in butter. Combine meat, onion, seasoning, tomatoes and rice and cook for 10 minutes. Cool mixture, then stuff tomatoes only half full, to leave room for expansion of rice. Place the filled peppers in a casserole dish and pour a little butter over them.

Place in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F) for 5 minutes. Then pour over enough prepared tomato sauce to cover and steam on top of the stove until the peppers are fairly soft (about 1-2 hour). Pour a little more tomato sauce over the whole and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 15 minutes.

Tomato Sauce Six fresh or 1 pound canned tomatoes, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 bay leaf, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1-2 onion sliced, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

Combine ingredients and simmer for 15 minutes. Strain and serve hot. It's grand also with veal cutlet.

Conservation of Subsurface Water Is to Be Studied

AUSTIN.—Conservation and control of the state's diminishing supplies of underground water will be discussed at a statewide meeting to be held in Austin on July 29.

The meeting was called by Gov. James V. Allred after the Texas Planning Board's water resources committee had reported that several sections of Texas were facing a serious shortage in underground water, and that other sections of the state were finding it difficult to locate new sources of water for an increased demand by industrial and domestic users.

Contrary to popular belief the state's underground water resources are not inexhaustible. Under ordinary conditions the present supply of underground water probably would be sufficient to take care of the demands but with new industries coming into the state and the population of the state growing by leaps and bounds water is now being taken from the ground faster than nature can replace it.

Just what legislative steps should be taken to conserve the state's underground water supplies will be discussed at the July 29th meeting. Governor Allred has invited everyone interested in underground water to attend the one-day conference and help formulate a plan for the conservation of this great natural resource.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
NIKKI JEROME, a former black-haired
STEVE MALLORY, her
MRS. HELEN WILLS MOODY
and Suzanne Lenglen were
almost exact opposites.
Mrs. Moody was—and is—phlegmatic, methodical, unimaginative, monotonously efficient.
She did . . . and does . . .
everything perfectly.
Mlle. Lenglen was the supreme artist, imaginative, temperamental, highly strung, tense always.
She was full of tricks and moved divinely. Her anticipation was remarkable.
They had only one thing in common. They were both great tennis players . . . the finest of their sex that ever lived.
Who was the best depends upon whether you like color and showmanship in your tennis.
Helen Wills was 20 when she tackled Mlle. Lenglen at Cannes, in 1926 . . . for the first and only time.
Suzanne then was at the height of her game. The Berkeley miss was still coming along, so her showing in being defeated, 6-3, 6-6, makes it easy to assume that she easily might have caught up with the French genius had not
he latter turned professional.
MARY K. BROWNE perhaps is in the best position to compare them. On their professional tour, Suzanne ran Mary K.'s legs off from coast to coast in repelling her in 40 consecutive matches.
"Suzanne," she says, "was faster
in covering the court . . . more accurate . . . superior in executing the various strokes . . . a finished volleyer."
"Helen had the greater speed,

Nikki followed the creek for two miles along its willow-fringed course and then turned off, circled a rock-dotted hill and started back through a wide valley which led straight to the ranch.

SHE had been on the back trail only a few minutes when she saw a cantering horseman approach and long before the horse whinnied a greeting, she knew the rider was Bancroft. She was amazed at the way this obviously city-bred man handled his horse and remarked on his riding skill when he pulled up at her side, turned and started back with her.

"I wanted to be a jockey once," he said briefly, "but that didn't last long." He looked at Nikki in appreciation. She was wearing a soft white shirt, open at the throat, and a blue neckerchief that heightened the color of her eyes. Her feet were in high-leather cowboy boots. She rode with the graceful, slightly slouching ease that comes from miles spent on the back of a swaying horse.

They rode in silence for a moment as the trail narrowed and forced Bancroft into a position back of Nikki. She was thinking, "I wonder if Sarto shot at Fiske last night or if Fiske shot at Sarto.
But who is Fiske and what is his part in this strange game? Maybe, she thought, he's after the $100,000.
Then Bancroft spoke.

"Will you be at the ranch long?" Nikki answered carefully. "We haven't set any definite time. Two weeks, three or maybe a month.
New York isn't much fun at this time of year."

"You'll return to New York, I suppose, when you leave here?" Nikki wondered what he was getting at.

"Yes, we'll return to New York," she replied. "My father is there, you know." Bancroft said nothing and Nikki continued, casually.

"I wonder if you don't know my father, Peter Jerome?"
"Peter Jerome," repeated Bancroft.
"That's certainly a familiar name. Jerome Inc., Fifth Avenue?"

"Yes," said Nikki.
"I suppose everyone knows of Peter Jerome by name at least," said Bancroft and his face and voice were as expressionless as ever. "But if you don't mind, I'm much more interested in his daughter right now."

Nikki did mind but there was nothing much she could do about it.
"Are you?"

"I know," continued Bancroft.
"That you're engaged to young Mallory. But I wonder if I couldn't see you in New York when we both get back?"

"I'm afraid I shall be pretty busy," said Nikki, "and Steve . . .
"I think Mallory could spare you some of the time," said Bancroft, and that undeniable chill crept into his tone. "Mallory might be made to understand that it would be . . . " he caught himself up abruptly and Nikki's hands tightened. Bancroft laughed unpleasantly.

"I'll call you when we get back," he said, and at that moment Steve rode up, nodded and would have ridden on by but for Nikki's call.
"Oh, Steve," she said. She bounced desperately for a moment for an excuse. "Come on an ride back with us. Woody told me about a deep hole above the lake where there's a hole of a trout.
He's the great-grandfather of U-river. Let's go up and see if we can get a rise out of him. He been hooked twice in the last three years, but no one has ever been able to hold him."

Steve looked at her a little oddly, but pulled around and joined the easy, jogging pace back to the ranch house. Bancroft spoke sarcastically.

"I haven't seen you much since we met on the train Mallory. You and ranch life good for your nerves?"

"My nerves are all right," said Steve shortly, "and my conscience doesn't bother me either."

"And what do you mean by that?"
Bancroft's voice was purring softly, now.

"Make what you want out of it," said Steve. "It was your question. I just answered it." Here I am in the middle again, thought Nikki. She raised her quilt.

"Come on, let's race back to the ranch." Uncle Jim, she knew, would raise the dickens with her for racing, but she let the quilt drop smartly on Steve's horse and kicked her own into a run. Before Steve regained his balance they were at the corral and Bancroft was far in the rear.

They reined in their horses and got off as Aunt Amy came to the back door and called.

"There's a letter here from your father, Nikki."

She hurried up to the house took the letter and went upstairs to her room. That afternoon she knew it would explain her father's note on the train, explain the Dillon-Bancroft mystery and explain the stacks of currency in the dressing case. Now she could tell Steve and things would be right between them again.

She walked over to the window and tore open the letter.

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON 7-26

Fair Year Is Seen In Hotel Business

WASHINGTON.—Hotel business the last part of this year will be above normal but not as good as last year, according to reports compiled by the American Automobile Association.

"Fewer than 20 per cent of the hotels replying to our questionnaire," the AAA said, "have experienced any increase in the volume of tourist business so far this year. With but few exceptions, they expect a decrease in business below last year's record volume.

"However, because touring was at such high levels last year and spending so lavish, a slight decline will not bring hotel patronage below a normal year. The hotel situation will be summed up: business will be good, but not as good as last year."

Sport Glances. By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

MRS. HELEN WILLS MOODY
and Suzanne Lenglen were
almost exact opposites.

Mrs. Moody was—and is—
phlegmatic, methodical, unim-
aginative, monotonously efficient.
She did . . . and does . . .
everything perfectly.

Mlle. Lenglen was the supreme artist, imaginative, temperamen-
tal, highly strung, tense always.
She was full of tricks and moved divinely. Her anticipation was remarkable.

They had only one thing in common. They were both great tennis players . . . the finest of
their sex that ever lived.

Who was the best depends upon
whether you like color and showmanship in your tennis.

Helen Wills was 20 when she
tackled Mlle. Lenglen at Cannes, in 1926 . . . for the first and only
time.

Suzanne then was at the height
of her game. The Berkeley miss
was still coming along, so her
showing in being defeated, 6-3, 6-6, makes it easy to assume that
she easily might have caught up with the French genius had not
he latter turned professional.

MARY K. BROWNE perhaps is
in the best position to compare them. On their professional tour, Suzanne ran Mary K.'s legs
off from coast to coast in repelling her in 40 consecutive
matches.

"Suzanne," she says, "was faster
in covering the court . . . more
accurate . . . superior in executing the various strokes . . . a finished volleyer."

"Helen had the greater speed, and hit the hardest."
"Mlle. Lenglen's strokes, footwork, strategy, concentration, and grace need not be described, for they have been talked of so often," Mrs. Moody once said. "It suffices to say that in all these she was as nearly perfect as is humanly possible.

"In speed of foot she had no equal.

"In speed of ball—yes. Several women have hit swifter balls, but they had not the glorious combination of all the other things that went to make Suzanne the player she was.

"Contrary to belief, Mlle. Lenglen was remarkably suited to tournament competition.

"She had concentration, ur-shakeable poise, balance, and patience beyond belief.

"SHE conserved her strength made her mind do the running instead of her feet. Her favorite play was to keep an opponent running back and forth at an angle a shorter ball so that the opponent had to run the longest distance for it. This is not new, but never was it done with the accuracy she gave it."

Mrs. Moody's amazing comeback, at 32, after a protracted lay-off, was typical of her. She showed the sound sense she's always had by getting in as many tournament competitions as possible before the All-England char-ampionship. A competitor can be sharpened only under actual fire.

Mrs. Moody took one licking, but didn't mind it. Her mind was on perfecting her strokes and getting in condition, and she stuck to it until much of the old sweep returned in time for the Wimbledon show.

Women's tennis has not yet advanced beyond the point to which Suzanne Lenglen brought it unless it has been taken there by the doggedly determined and letter perfect Helen Wills Moody.

Priest Departs On Naturalist Trip Into Deep Arctic

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—Arctic missionary as well as scientist, the Canadian priest, Pere Artheus Dutilly, has just sailed from Montreal in the small motor boat M.
F. Therese on a naturalist's voyage commissioned by the Lateran Museum at Vatican City.

Pere Dutilly, a research assistant at the Catholic University here, will join the Rev. Maximilian Dumay, botanist of St. Vicent's archabbey, Latrobe, Pa., at Fort Churchill, remote trading post on Hudson Bay.

From Fort Churchill the two scientists will proceed northwestward, and while larrying out their missionary labors among the Eskimos will collect samples of plants, soils, insects, weapons and tools of earlier civilization for the papal museum. Their collections will be studied and classified by Pere Dutilly at the university laboratories here.

Pere Dutilly has been voyaging to lonely Arctic missionary stations aboard the Therese for many years. Last year he brought back 1,200 sheets of pressed plants, 1,000 insects, several scores of soil and mineral samples and a large number of old-time weapons and tools.

On this expedition he sailed as far as Igloodik, a tiny island only 20 degrees from the North Pole, just off the coast of solitary Bar-fin Land.

THANKS TO EVERYONE

I am deeply grateful to the good folks of Eastland County who made it possible for me to have a majority vote for the office of County Treasurer.

It is impossible for me to see all of you in person, but as your next County Treasurer I hope to meet you personally, and assure you that I shall devote my entire time to giving you the best service possible and warrant the trust that you have bestowed upon me.

GARLAND BRANTON

(Pol. Adv.)

THANKS

I wish to take this means of expressing my appreciation to the voters of Eastland County for the nice plurality given me in the first primary.

Since no candidate in the District Clerk's race received a majority of all votes cast, there must be a run-off, and I wish to take this method of soliciting your continued support in the second primary.

I feel that the plurality you gave me in the first primary was a vote of confidence for the way I have conducted the County Treasurer's office during my administration of the affairs of that office, and I appreciate this very much, and promise you that if you promote me to the District Clerk's office that you will never have cause to regret it.

Please bear in mind that I am asking for a promotion, based on my record as your county official.

Again expressing my appreciation to you, I beg to remain,

John White

CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT CLERK

(Pol. Adv.)

MYRA NORTH, Special Nurse -- By Thompson and Coll

TO THE VOTERS OF PRECINCT NO. 1, EASTLAND COUNTY:

I want to thank you for the many considerations and courtesies given me during my race for Commissioner of Precinct No. 1. I offered myself as a candidate and made my race solely on my own merits and qualifications for the office and did not deal in personalities. I humbly bow to the wishes of the majority who in their wisdom selected one of my opponents. I join with you in saying to him, "congratulations." I hold no ill will or malice toward anyone who did not support my candidacy but have only love in my heart for you all. I want to thank each one of you who voted for me and supported me. I appreciate your trust and confidence in me. May we all lend our hearty support and co-operate with the Honorable Henry Davenport as our Commissioner and give to him every possible help and encouragement which is justly his. In the language of the Apostle Paul, "forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before," may we "press toward the mark" for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Mayor Outlines

B. H. Peacock was elected chairman. A majority of the City Commission was present and together with the Chamber of Commerce stated they would be glad to sponsor any improvements the citizens of Ranger wish to make at the cemetery if they are financially able to do so.

It was unanimously decided to submit a National Youth Administration project for a rock fence to be built around the cemetery similar to the fence which is now at the new cemetery. The Commission is now trying to secure title to the land and have hired an engineer to work up this project in order for the Commission to sponsor same.

There are other projects which are being considered that N. Y. A. boys can work on. The Chamber of Commerce together with the City Commission are mighty anxious to see every boy who can qualify on N. Y. A. work register and get certified so they will be permitted to go to work as soon as the projects are O. K. by the N. Y. A. The government proposes to pay N. Y. A. boys $10.00 per month for fifty hours work.

The boys must be 18 years old and not over 25 and they are not permitted to work more than fifty hours per month. There may be a raise given in the future similar to the raise for W. P. A. This could not be verified at N. Y. A. headquarters at Fort Worth.

The N. Y. A. recommend projects which consist of construction work whereby the boys can learn a trade such as buildings of all kinds, building rock walls, and building out of natural stone. This class of work will teach the boys how to work up natural rock into building material and teach them how to use cement, mortar, etc., and will give them general knowledge of building.

The Chamber of Commerce believes this to be constructive work for young boys and recommend that the boys get themselves certified to do this work. They should contact Mrs. Long's office back of the Chamber of Commerce office and get certified so there will be no delay in going to work. All boys between the ages of 18 and 25 whose families have small incomes are eligible.

I'M IN THE RUN-OFF---

This is the first time that I have ever asked the people of this county to give me the opportunity to serve you in public office, and I want you to know that I shall be happy and glad of that opportunity and that I shall give you an administration that you will not regret.

First, I want to thank the voters of Eastland County who gave me enough votes to put me in the run-off for the office of District Clerk. I am deeply grateful and appreciative.

I sincerely hope that by the time that the next run-off election occurs in August, that the citizens of Eastland County will see fit to give me the office by their vote and influence.

I want you to know me better, and welcome every investigation of my life as a citizen of this county. I hope to see everybody during the next few weeks. I am in the run-off.

Respectfully and sincerely yours,
CLAUDE (CURLY) MAYNARD
