King in Tune With His Subjects

Kingly dignity goes by the boards in a boys' camp, and, in sweater and knickers, Britain's King George here yodels "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree," complete with gestures, just as lustily as the lads about him. On the right of the king, as he led the action song at the camp he established in 1920 for Suffolk factory and public school boys, is Sir Samuel Hoare, British home secretary. At left is Capt. J. G. Patterson, camp chief.

Eastland Youth's Drawings Attract Friends' Attention

Friends of Grady Allison, 10, believe the Eastland boy is well on his way toward fulfillment of an ambition to be a cartoonist. The son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Allison, the boy, work shows, has exceptional talent for that line of work. He created several comic strip ideas. One tells in drawings and writings the adventures of "Barnaby Basill" and the other of "Albert Arthur." In his work young Allison shows a tendency to draw persons and anything of an adventurous nature. He first began to draw when eight years old and in the third grade. What focused his attention on cartooning was a comic strip book given him at Christmas as a present. He also is interested in writing. His father, now an employe in the tax department of the City of Eastland, formerly was a newspaperman. From memory he can draw likenesses of popular comic strip characters.

VARIED MOODS OF CANDIDATES SEEN TODAY

MARLIN, Aug. 12.—Jerry Sadler of Longview, candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission, opened his campaign here today with charges that "gang methods" were being used against him. SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 12.—W. Lee O'Daniel "made his first political mistake" last night, according to a statement today by Land Commissioner William McDonald. McDonald is running for re-election, and was not among those "preferred" by O'Daniel.

DALLAS, Aug. 12.—Coke Stevenson, candidate for lieutenant governor, was "deeply gratified" when W. Lee O'Daniel endorsed his campaign, he said today.

SHERMAN, Aug. 12.—C. V. Terrell, candidate for re-election to the railroad commission, gave thanks today for the endorsement last night by the governor-nominee.

Nickel Is Added To Formula For Chemical Farming

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—F. C. Glenn, who started a chemical tank farm after he saw one in a newsworld, has found that he raises stronger plants by adding nickel to his food-formula. Last year, he left nickel out of the mixture and the plants developed such a pungent odor that bugs and insects left them alone. This year, a variety of caterpillar has infested his tomato beds, which no longer smell. Glenn said he tried the nickel in the solution because, in combination with 16 other elements in the human body, it tended to promote stronger growth. He has found the same result from using it in his tank farm. His tank farm so far is an experiment, and an expensive one at that. Straw and excelsior are used with the chemicals, and Glenn has found that the yield is about three times what it would be in the same amount of dirt farming. But there are the advantages of not having to depend on the weather, easy regulation of climatic conditions and control of insects. Tank farm crops might be marketed well ahead of field crops. Eventually, Glenn believes, the cost of chemicals used in the solution will be reduced to the point where tank farmers can compete with dirt farmers.

Canada Imports Fly To Fight 'Hoppers'

BELLEVILLE, Ont.—Canadian farmers may be able to enlist the aid of a tiny fly imported from Argentina in their fight against grasshoppers. The fly is known as the bee-fly. Research workers at the Dominion entomological department's laboratories here hope to be able to acclimate the fly and breed and release enough of them on the prairie province wheatfields to wipe out the grasshopper danger.

'Jimmy' Answers Income Accusation

"Jimmy" Roosevelt, still indignant over a magazine article attributing to him a huge income from insurance sales in which it was alleged that his position as the son of the President was too great a factor, is ready with his answer. Here he is with Walter Davenport, associate editor of Collier's Magazine, checking through his income tax reports for the past five years, gathering data for a published rebuttal.

One Knock and a Boost for O'Daniel Political Move

GLADEWATER, Texas, Aug. 12.—Following are excerpts from a telegram sent W. Lee O'Daniel by James Clifford, publisher of the Gladewater Record. "I personally think your act in endorsing three professional politicians to be a direct violation of your promise to rid Texas of them. I hope this is an honest mistake on your part and will not be repeated without personal investigation."

Dentist Tells of His Early Trials

SPRINGVILLE, N. Y.—Farmers of this community received credit today for being the pioneer heroes in the realm of dental science and the development of "painless" tooth extraction. The credit came from Dr. Ralph E. Waite, who as a young practicing dentist in 1891 began experiments with an idea on how to deaden the pain of tooth extraction with cocaine. From his experiments developed a laboratory here for the commercial preparation of novocaine. He has now "retired" to manage the plant.

More Is Told Of Insurance Given James Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Alva Johnston, magazine writer, who started the controversy over James Roosevelt's insurance business, commented on Roosevelt's reply in a national magazine today by quoting new figures, "showing that his business boomed when he went to the white house as secretary to the president." Johnston's original article in another magazine said other insurance men estimated the president's son was profiting $200,000 to $2,000,000 a year in commissions in insurance sold to firms which wanted the president's good will.

REACTION ON O'DANIEL TALK NOW AWAITED

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12.—W. Lee O'Daniel today awaited reaction to his unprecedented endorsement of six runoff candidates for state offices, the men whom he wants to "help run Texas like a business." The democratic nominee for governor asked voters last night to support: Walter Woodul for attorney general; C. V. Terrell for railroad commissioner; Bascom Giles for land commissioner; Coke Stevenson for lieutenant governor; Richard Critz for associate justice of the supreme court, and Harry Graves for associate justice of the court of criminal appeals. Woodul, present lieutenant governor, is opposing Gerald Mann; Giles is running against William McDonald; Terrell is running against Jerry Sadler and Stevenson against Pierce Brooks. Both men endorsed for the judiciary are appointees of Gov. Allred. "You wanted a business administration," said O'Daniel in a 15-minute talk. "There will be much criticism, but this is the way we do things in business." The effect of O'Daniel's support was viewed variously at Austin. Some said it assured the nomination of his "preferred" candidates. Others said the candidates he ignored might form a coalition against all O'Daniel candidates. Gov. Allred declined comment.

Doing Things Leisuredly Becomes a Problem

It is a little bit late in the day to remark that the automobile is remaking American life. The change began a quarter of a century ago, and we are all used to it by now. But it is still going on, and every now and then some little thing is a forceful reminder of it.

Two minor news items pointed it up lately. One was a story announcing the discontinuance of the ferry boat service across the Detroit river, between Detroit and Windsor; the other, a story telling of the abandonment of service on a lengthy branch line of the New Haven Railroad in Massachusetts, with some 80 stations being closed and their towns left dependent on autos, busses, and trucks.

Now these things are of no importance to anybody except the people who will be inconvenienced by the change; there aren't many of these people, and they will soon get used to the new order, and probably there isn't much sense in dwelling on the matter.

But such things do stick in the craw a little, just the same. The auto has been an immeasurable convenience—but it has killed a lot of old conveniences, and by speeding up the pace of daily life it has made us more dependent on it than we might like to be.

You can get to any point in the United States nowadays by auto, and you will have excellent roads most of the way. That's all to the good. But suppose you don't happen to feel like driving; suppose you want to poke along by steamboat, or surrender yourself to the train? In many, many cases you are simply out of luck. You drive, or you don't go at all.

The passenger steamship lines on our inland waterways and our seacoasts are growing fewer, year by year; the branch railroad lines that led to watering places, summer resorts, and remote little cities are giving up the struggle, one by one. The triumph of the auto is getting more and more complete. As it does so, we get more and more dependent on the auto.

Which means that something leisurely is going out of life. We like speed, and we are getting it in steadily increasing quantities; the only trouble is that the slower pace is becoming impossible for us. We have to use speed whether we like it or not.

We'll live through it, of course, without much trouble. Certainly we wouldn't go back to the pre-automobile age, even if we could. But we might live a trifle more pleasantly if we could manage to save a little of the old way of doing things.

It isn't altogether a good thing to rely too much on any one of our machines. We are placing ourselves more and more at the mercy of automobile. It is a priceless servant—but it may turn out to be a rather exacting master.

Here We Go Round the Mulberry Bush

PIGGLY WIGGLY WILL MARK ITS ANNIVERSARY

Marking its 20 years of leadership in the self-service grocery field Piggly Wiggly will this year hold its annual convention in the atmosphere of the exclusive Edgewater Gulf Hotel at Edgewater Park, Mississippi. The board across the town, dotted with beautiful shrubbery and spreading oak trees, surrounding the Hotel at this popular all year 'round resort will be peopled with hundreds of independent Piggly Wiggly merchants from August 14 to 17, the dates set for the Twentieth Anniversary Convention. When President D. D. Williams, of the National Piggly Wiggly Operators Association, announced that Edgewater Park, Miss., had been chosen as the site of the 1938 Piggly Wiggly Convention, manufacturers all over the nation were quick to offer their cooperation to make the Piggly Wiggly Convention this year one of the finest ever held. Piggly Wiggly was the first self-service system, coming into the field in 1918, and it is significant that the grocery chains today, some twenty years later, are turning frantically to self-service as the best way to serve their customers. And still, Piggly Wiggly leads the field... with "Scientific Merchandising" Piggly Wiggly, being the first in the self-service field, has, over the years, constantly studied itself for every improvement that might be made—and in these days has the finest self-service stores in the world, with independent, home-owned stores in 44 states.

Here with headquarters in Eastland, Pippin Bros, Grady and Jess) are the owners and Operators of the Piggly Wiggly franchise in Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge, Graham, Olney, Odessa and Monahans. Messrs. Pippin Bros. have for many years been leading merchants of this section, and their home-owned, independent Piggly Wiggly has been a real leader in the grocery field. Being a member of the great Piggly Wiggly organization, "All Over the World, Messrs. Pippin Bros. have had and have all of the advantages of a chain store, and none of its disadvantages. Piggly Wiggly has had for twenty years the whole-hearted support of manufacturers and jobbers—and so it is with Piggly Wiggly here in this section. This cooperation from manufacturers and jobbers, and the ability of Piggly Wiggly, buying in large quantities, to lower prices has enabled Pippin Bros. to become one of our very outstanding merchants. When Messrs. Pippin Bros. meet with all the other Piggly Wiggly Operators from all parts of the world at Edgewater Park in August, these merchants will discuss and analyze the many business problems that confront grocery stores all over the world. These discussions and the consequent enlightenment will make each one of the members of Piggly Wiggly a better, smarter, broader merchant who can meet his own problems with a sureness of thought and action which might otherwise not be possible. The benefits of this nation-wide organization naturally come home to this section and the customers of Messrs. Pippin Bros.

Front Door Crashes Arouse Home Owner

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Pat McDermott, former sheriff of Douglas county, wants to know whether he should move his house or if the state will move the two highways which meet in front of it. Last year a motorist crashed into the house. A second driver's car almost knocked the house off of its foundation. When a third car bumped into his house, McDermott put up a sign. It read: "Eggs for sale." That helped until recently when another motorist not only bowled over the sign but rammed into McDermott's house again. Within the next two days four other cars shook the cups off the pantry shelves. McDermott said his patience almost exhausted.

Well Gun Taps Near Surface
 By United Press
 HENECTADY, N. Y.—Man's idea of tapping nature's oil wells has been advanced development of an electrical "gun" to break into formations otherwise would be shut.

General Electric Company scientists have perfected a movable "gun" capable of firing a .30-caliber bullet through 4 inches of steel and concrete, to tap oil formations on upper strata.

Inventors explain that in drilling oil wells, sands may be encountered on the way down. Usually these deposits are blocked off by metal and concrete casings and the drilling is continued to more productive lower levels.

After the lower level formations have been exhausted, the "gun" is brought into play to tap the smaller formations above.

The gun, mounted on a special truck bearing 12,000 feet of cable, is about 10 feet long and has 10 or 15 barrels. It is lowered into the shaft, synchronized electrically to indicate the depth to within a few inches.

LET'S have a garden jamboree. Ask all the vegetables in. Watercress, Tomato and Corn Salad

(Serves 4 to 6)

Two and one-half cups cooked corn cut from cob, 1-1/2 teaspoons sugar, 2 large firm tomatoes, 1-2 cup light mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon paprika, pinch cayenne, 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon black pepper, 1 bunch crisp watercress.

Combine corn and sugar. Peel tomatoes and cut into eighths. Remove very soft parts. Stir spices into mayonnaise. Add corn, then tomatoes and mix lightly. Chill well. Cut heavy stems from watercress. Add to salad just before serving.

Make bed of crisp lettuce in large bowl. Turn in the watercress-corn mixture. It's food, yet it is cooling.

Here's a garden sociable from the cook book by Edith Key Haines, who understands entertaining vegetables.

Baked Tomatoes and Lettuce
 (Serves 4 to 6)

Six medium-sized firm tomatoes, 2-1/2 pounds leeks, 1-4 cup uncooked rice, 1-2 teaspoons salt, scant 1-8 teaspoon black pepper, 4 tablespoons sour cream, 1-4 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons butter.

Wash and boil the rice. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt, the pepper, and sour cream and mix lightly together. Wash the leeks and discard the tough green part. Slice thinly crosswise. Arrange in one layer in a shallow dish. Add cold water with 1 teaspoon salt, and dot with butter.

Slice off the top of each tomato and scoop out the seeds and enough of the pulp for the stuffing.

Replace the tops and arrange the tomatoes on the leeks. Cover the dish and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. Then uncover and continue baking for 20 minutes more or until the leeks are tender.

Have you a succotash recipe?

September 20, 1935, to receive the first WPA paychecks delivered in Texas, hundreds of thousands of men and women have performed 2,050,116 man-months of labor on Federal projects. For these services they have received $68,610,004 disbursed in the form of subsistence wage checks.

WPA employment, which today is slightly in excess of 85,500 and, in light of previous experience, is expected to rise sharply during the coming winter months, has fluctuated in Texas from a peak of 125,827 persons at work in February, 1936, to a low mark of 41,228 workers in October, 1937.

Designed to fit the varied kinds of jobs thousands scattered throughout rural and metropolitan areas of all but two of the 254 Texas counties, WPA job assignments have varied from the manual labor involved in digging drainage ditches and building farm-to-market roads to such highly technical tasks as the surveying of millions of acres of Texas farm and ranch lands for the Texas State Tax Board.

Improvements to roads, streets, and highways, involving expenditures of $47,154,568, form the largest group of WPA projects. Operation of sewing rooms in which women workers produce millions of garments annually for distribution to the underprivileged has been financed by expenditures of $19,166,592. Hundreds of public buildings, including schools, gymnasiums, auditoriums, and similar structures, have been erected through expenditures of $9,310,506.

Other types of WPA work and the amount expended on each were listed as follows: construction of parks, athletic fields and similar recreation facilities, $6,050,768; building of dams and other conservation projects, $3,748,862; installation of sewer lines, water lines, and other public utility improvements, $6,889,950; construction of aviation facilities and other transportation projects, $1,594,829; conducting of adult education classes and nursery schools for underprivileged children, $2,892,772; professional and service projects, $7,417,183; conducting of municipal recreation centers, $1,220,557; community sanitation and public health improvements, $4,696,362; distribution of surplus commodities, $1,519,969; operation of training plants, $1,735,188; miscellaneous projects, $106,307.

Filipinos' Jobs May Be Insured
 By United Press
 MANILA.—A plan to avoid seasonal unemployment in the rich sugar areas of the Philippines has been advanced by Secretary of Labor Ramon Torres after a study of conditions in Negros, Panay and Cebu provinces during the slack season.

Secretary Torres pointed out sugar workers can be divided in two general groups—the permanent employees and the 10,000 seasonal workers who have steady jobs only during the five-months milling season.

The secretary proposed that sugar central owners deposit 20 per cent of the seasonal workman's daily wages withdrawn from their pay envelopes, and put with it an equal amount. The sum would be for use of the workers during lay-offs.

He also suggested sugar centrals extended the milling season to six months, thereby dividing the working period and the lay-off equally.

"Where the minimum wage is one peso (50 cents) per day," Torres explained, "the laborer would deposit 20 centavos and the central likewise would deposit 20 centavos. Actually, the laborer would be receiving 80 centavos per day during the milling season, but during the off-season he would instead of not receiving anything get 40 centavos per day." (A centavo is half a cent.)

Torres said sugar central executives in Negros received his plan favorably. He estimated each central would have to appropriate an additional $6,000 for an average of 450 laborers.

A recent report states that 100 million dollars a year is spent for the United States on music lessons. Think of the earmuffs that could have bought!

SERIAL STORY

HAYWIRE HOUSE

BY EDWIN RUTT

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, The Harknesses arrive and then Kinks gets his second surprise, Sally tells him that she will probably marry Wilton Ames.

CHAPTER V

THE Harkness suitcases tumbled from Kinks' arms. For a moment he stared blankly at Sally. Then he shook his head.

"Lady," he said, "you're all wet. You're not going to marry some bleemish named Wilton."

"For your information," said Sally, coldly, "Wilton Ames is not a bleemish. He's in the bank here and doing very well, too."

"Okay, okay. I didn't impugn his financial status. I merely said that you weren't going to marry him."

"And just who are you to decide that?"

"Me!" said Kinks. "Don't you know me? I'm the guy you are going to marry."

She looked at him as if he were an escaped lunatic.

"Stop babbling," she said. "And take those bags upstairs. The Harknesses will want their things."

Kinks retrieved the fallen luggage.

"Look here," he said. "This car belongs Wilton Ames must do something to the gent at the bank. You know, the one who holds the mortgage on this place."

"He's his son," said Sally. "What?"

"So if this Wilton thinks enough of you to want to marry you, ought to be able to get his own money to extend the time of the interest payment."

SALLY shook her head doubtfully. "I don't think he could. You don't know Spencer Ames. He's as hard as nails. And I've I think he's got some sort of interest in this place."

When Kinks came back from taking the Harkness bags to their rooms there was a concerned look on his face.

"We're going to have to watch old Harkness," he said. "or we'll all be electrocuted. He's got a couple of suitcases full of electrical gadgets. And he's already begun to tamper with the wiring in his room."

"Well, I don't know what we can do about it," said Sally. "The customer is always right, isn't he?"

"Guess so," said Kinks. "Well, I'll be back in a minute."

Kinkaid Parker

come on, beautiful. You're driving me to the station."

"STATION? What on earth for?" "I'm going to New York," Kinks announced. "I'll check out of the place I live, get some things and be back bright and early tomorrow. I suppose we can both live under this roof. There seem to be plenty of chaperones."

"You would do something like that," wailed Sally. "You saddle me with two strangers and then leave me to cope with the situation?"

Kinks did not quite make good a threat to get back to the Preston place bright and early the following day. True, he returned to Winston on a morning train. But upon arriving he spent several days in the village. His ambition as some form of advertisement which would announce the existence of the Pennington-Parker auditorium and he finally ferreted out a man of many accomplishments who listed sign-painting among them.

And while Kinks was standing over this gentleman superintending the preparation of the sign, a no-man conference was going on at the Preston place," he inquired.

Mr. Spencer Ames was a grizzled individual of 60-odd, with a thick nose, large shoulders and a neck which bulged around his collar in a rale of red flesh. But his obesity was mere camouflage for a mind as sharp as a whip. Spencer Ames never missed a trick.

HE was looking across his desk now, searching the countenance of his son, Wilton.

"What's all this that's going on at the Preston place?" he inquired. Wilton shrugged. He was a thick-set young man who, as yet, had not taken on his father's corpulence. But he had the same cold eyes, colored a light blue. His hair was straight and brownish, parted carefully in the middle.

"Search me," he said. "I didn't know anything was."

"Then you don't keep your ears open," said his father sharply. "It's all over the village that the Pennington girl has taken in boarders."

Wilton sat up in his chair. "Boarders?"

Spencer Ames lit a cigar. "Here are the facts," he said. "That nephew of Mrs. Preston's, who inherited a half interest in her estate, finally showed up yesterday. He and the Pennington girl called on Kenworthy. Just what was said over there, I don't know. But by nightfall there were two other people at the Preston house and the Clipstack woman told Giles that they're going to board there. Who they are or where they came from, I haven't any idea. But . . . well, what do you make of it, Wilton?"

"Well," said Wilton, starting to his feet. "I'm going down there and find out about this."

"So fast," said Spencer. "I've one or two things to say to you, Wilton." He put the tips of his fingers together and gazed at his son. "As you know, we hold a mortgage on the Preston property."

"So what?" said Wilton inelegantly.

"So," said Mr. Ames. "I am very much interested in knowing whether or not this young man, whose name is Parker I believe, is in a position to continue the interest and amortization payments."

"And if he is or isn't?"

Mr. Ames set the cigar in an ash tray and spoke carefully. "If he is," he said, "I shall have to do a good deal more thinking about this matter than I've already done. But if he isn't . . . well, I shall be very much pleased, that's all."

"Listen," said Wilton, a little irritably. "I'm not getting this. What does the Preston place mean to you, anyway?"

His father's keen eyes shown with their cold light.

"Just this," he said. "A few weeks ago a representative of Farnsworth Hotels, Incorporated, of New York called on me. He was interested in possible sites for country hotels or inns. Well, I look him over to Preston's. And he thinks his firm will want to buy it, that's all."

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON.—Even Jesse Jones of RFC, locally somewhat notorious for tight-fistedness, has come out and criticized bankers—some of them, anyway—for excessive caution in the field of loans to industry. Chairman Harriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board has been feeling the same way about it, only worse, which is why bank examination rules were slightly relaxed recently. Finally, there is Chairman William O. Douglas of Securities and Exchange Commission, who for months has been preaching against what he says is unnecessary restriction of credit and also urging a new regional industrial banking set-up to handle needs of relatively small local industries. The bankers have argued back that nothing of the sort is true, usually asserting—as the Investment Bankers' Conference, Inc. did recently—that lack of confidence in the political and economic outlook, increase of taxes depriving corporations of incentive to expand and the attitude of the administration toward employers caused many companies to refuse to seek new capital. Others suggest that most business men still recall the alacrity with which banks called loans in the depression of 1928-33 and that this memory affects their psychology as to borrowing. SEC experts believe new capital needs are centered in such districts as Atlanta, Cleveland, Columbus, Los Angeles, Louisville, Nashville and Seattle, rather than in the largest centers. Mr. B. E. Garner,
Manager Arcadia Theatre,
Ranger, Texas
Dear Mr. Garner:

I note by advance publicity that you will have for the entertainment of the people of your valued community the fourth of Hardy pictures, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," and will be shown in your theatre Friday and Saturday.

Of course you will deem it unusual for an "outsider" to be interested in what kind of entertainment you have in your city, but as I have personally seen this picture I cannot help but mention to you my reactions of same.

I believe without a question of a doubt that this picture will be the most outstanding you have shown this year and that its impression on those who will be fortunate enough to see it, will be not only enthusiastic to the limit with its vibrating influence, but this will leave the theatre with a happy memory of having seen something worthy for all ages and moods.

I only wish that I could give the good people of your community this message personally and urge them to see this wonderful picture.

In conclusion, I can commend you for bringing to your people "Love Finds Andy Hardy" at a time when it is still a current release.

With all good wishes and kindest regards, I beg to remain,
Very sincerely yours,

E. HINRICHS,
Eastland Telegram.

During my nine years as the manager of your theatres, I have been accused of most everything from arson to hi-jacking and while never having been directly questioned on the Lindbergh kidnaping, have felt the searching eye of the G-Men in connection with the same... Everything it seems, happens to me... I am ready to admit I have played all the bad pictures that have been released during this period and I don't deny hiding in my office a couple of weeks ago when I played DAMAGED LIVES—I also apologized for Wallace Beery last Sunday when we played the only "louse" he ever made. But now I am in a position to make it up to everyone I "ever done wrong" when I offer you what I honestly believe to be one of the really great pictures of all times... "LOVE FINDS ANDY HARDY." Do you remember about seven or eight years ago I advertised in the Times I was playing the "world's worst talking picture"... and it really was... CONGRESS

DANCES. Now I have the real McCoy and stake what reputation I may have for honesty in advertising on this picture... I'll shoot the works and give anyone their money back without question if they don't agree with me that it is marvelous entertainment... Incidentally, our company is offering a hundred bucks to the manager who does the best business on this picture and I have just heard that my pal, Cecil Barham, of the Eastland Lyric broke all house records with ANDY last Friday and Saturday, and I am certainly going to put the W. Lee O'Daniel landslide on him... you understand the way I hate money, this hundred bucks is just secondary, but I know Hall Walker and my other creditors will be pulling for me to get the dough. I had better see you Friday or Saturday or "Pappy won't be passing the Biscuits" and I might be eating my hamburger without meat.

KNOW YOUR SCREEN STARS?—New York City—Here are the doubles for Hollywood motion picture stars who sailed recently for London where they will appear in a forthcoming production. From left to right they are: Carole Dietrich, Margaret Bryson, Virginia Hendel, Sylvia La Mar, Betty Dietrich and Ezelle Poulle. Can you name the stars they represent?

SPACE DEFYING THERMOMETER—Los Angeles, Calif.—Dr. John Strong, astrophysicist at the California Institute of Technology, displays his uncanny thermometer, an electric telescope in effect, which, pointed at any distant object such as the sun or even a bathing beauty, takes the object's temperature.

CAMERA SHY — This fine litter of puppies can't be female—if snubbing a camera is any indication.

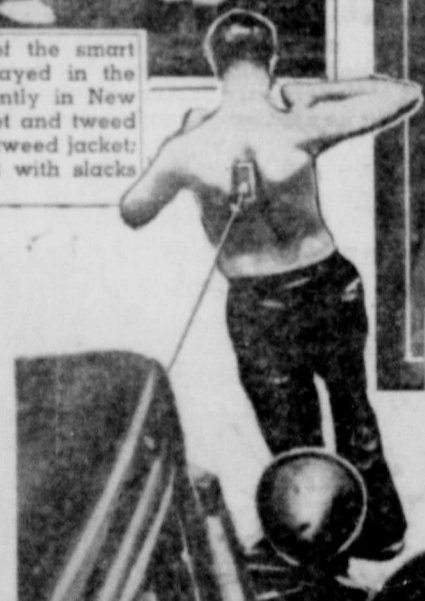

BATHING BEAUTIES—Only a generation apart. Clothing designers, as well as industrial designers, have helped to change our ways of life in the past quarter century, as these pictures show. Consumers Information uses the photographs to demonstrate how national advertising has altered the habits of a nation—and we think you'll agree it's for the better.

DISCLOSING THE RECORD—James Roosevelt (right) son of the President, reveals to Walter Davenport, associate editor of Collier's, all data on his earnings in the insurance business, in order to set clear the record of his income which has recently been wildly exaggerated. All details of Jimmy's business career, including income tax figures, will be presented in Collier's during August.

WORLD'S TINIEST MAN—New York City—Paul Del Rio, 18 years old, termed the smallest man in the world, demonstrates what a difficult feat it is for a twelve-pound chap of 19 inch height to lift a telephone receiver.

STRONG-MAN ACT — St. Louis, Mo. — Equipped with powerful shoulder blades and unusual muscular control, Lawrence Anderson amazes his neighbors every now and then by pulling a 2½-ton truck along the street in this novel manner.

HUGE CLIPPER IN TAXI TRIAL—Seattle, Wash.—A view of the largest clipper, the Boeing 314 Clipper, as she took her first taxi trial on Puget Sound.

PATERNAL INSTINCT? — It seems that Papa Ostrich was found sitting on the nest when the chicks hatched at the Los Angeles ostrich farm. Marilyn Brown presents proud papa with an orange.

HIZZONER—THE TWO FISTED MILKER—Governor E. D. Rivers of Georgia won the championship when he and Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts engaged in a milking contest on the lawn of the Capitol in Atlanta. The governor used both hands while Roberts used one.

SPORTSWEAR NOTE — A versatile sweater knitted of mercerized knitting and crocheted cotton. It is reversible, the back consisting of plain ribbing.

Texas Capitol Was Built On Land the State Didn't Own

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas gave 3,000,000 acres of public land as a price for building the state capital on a site which the state did not own. Later the ground was bought.

If it had not been purchased, title to the big granite structure with its 215-foot dome would have passed to the heirs of Thomas Jefferson Chambers, for under Texas law a building goes with the land upon which it is situated.
The heirs, however, were lenient. They settled for $20,000, which was quite a reasonable amount. In 1925 that amount was voted them by the Texas legislature in settlement of the claim.
Chambers' title to the site had been overlooked all the time when the state government was being established at "Waterloo", old name for Austin. He had acquired it as his land grant for service in the war with Mexico. The site of the capitol was condemned and several claims at that time were paid. Chambers' claim, however, was overlooked. In 1859 he asserted a claim for a tract of land at Fiskville, near Austin, based on his grant. The suit was not pushed because the Civil War occurred

Mine Misses Mark as Jap Gunboats Near Hankow

Taken from the deck of a Japanese gunboat, part of which can be seen in left foreground, this picture shows a mine exploding in the Yangtze river as Japanese naval vessels neared Hankow. Although this explosion missed the mark, the Chinese are using mines and booms effectively to block enemy progress up the river. All of the vessels in this picture are Japanese warboats.

She said that her father put her in overalls when she was a small girl. She has worn them ever since instead of dresses.

"Dresses are clumsy, silly things," Miss Edwards said. "Why did I take up farming? I don't give a hoot for housework and I don't like to cook."

Her plowing clothes consist of overalls, a sleeveless shirt and a pair of heavy work shoes.

After three years in high school she discontinued her formal education to go to work in a Toledo paper mill. Two men had to be hired to take her place when she left the mill.

She draws the same pay as first rate farm hands when she works on neighboring farms.

This farmette knows a good piece of horseflesh when she sees it. When the valley has a parade she is mounted on the lead horse. At county fairs she competes in horse races with men.

She isn't interested in matrimony. "I'm not going to get married. It's all I can do to keep myself without having to support a man," she said.

and he was absent fighting. He was killed shortly after his return and the claim lay dormant for many years. Payment finally was made to two daughters of Chambers.

Repairs to the towering dome of the capitol will be under way shortly. The work will include repainting, tightening up of the circular stair that now creaks alarmingly but not dangerously, and protective metal coverings and floors on the exposed balconies. Test holes bored into the concrete showed the metal beams still in excellent condition after 50 years of service. Last interior painting, tightening up of the circular 22 years ago.

First work will be structural. A separate painting contract will be let next month, that item being in an appropriation available on Sept. 1. In a former redecoration of the dome, a workman plunged to death. He was working at a

Girl Matches Any Farm Hand's Work

CLEVELAND.—Gladys Edwards can plow, handle a team and pitch hay as well as any man.

Miss Edwards, 30, and small but rugged, works as a farm hand on Chagrin Valley farms, near here.

She tills her own farm in her spare time. Miss Edwards and her father, a paper-mill employe, live on the farm of five acres. The farmer was plowing a comparatively low point. No chance of accident will be taken this time. A net will be swung across the interior of the dome at the top balcony. It will be lowered by floors as the workmen complete the higher part of the work.

row, but she stopped her team of horses long enough to give a true account of her outdoor life. Like an old farm hand (which she is in experience), she braced her feet on the plow pedals.

Manager and Head of Ready-to-Wear Department of Hassen Dry Goods Company Return from Fall Buying Trip in St. Louis and Dallas

Mr. W. T. Burch and Mrs. Jack Urban have returned from marketing, Mr. Burch says that he saw more people at market in St. Louis than he has seen in three or four years. Silk houses and dry goods stores were crowded with buyers, especially from West Texas. Mr. Burch contacted many users that he had seen for years, ones that had just come to Dallas to market. He expects an advance in prices on account of the wonderful demand for goods and all wanted them at once, especially shoe buyers who were having trouble supplying the demand. He and Mrs. Urban bought a wonderful line of ready-to-wear. They bought liberally in dresses, suits, and coats, and the merchandise purchased is already arriving and being checked in and displayed for your inspection. Silks, satins and woolsens are gorgeous. Woolsens promise to be very big. The best indication being the ready-to-wear houses are showing so many woolsens and suits, many being modeled at the Wholesalers and Manufacturers Style Show on the Roof Garden of the Statler Hotel which they attended. They showed over 100 different models. Felt hats are shown almost exclusively in fall millinery. Many predominating shades being wine, rust, black and navy. They returned to Dallas and finished up their buying. They bought a beautiful line of College Campus and Landry Lynn dresses. They also bought hats in Dallas. A complete line of bags and novelties will be on display in a few days. Mr. Burch extends a hearty invitation to everyone and asks all the ladies of Ranger and this trade territory to call in and see this wonderful fall merchandise whether they are interested in buying or not.
