UNITED PRESS SERVICE BRINGS LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TO TIMES READERS
RANGER, TEXAS, SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 14, 1938

New England coast dwellers report a seven-foot monster lurking just off-shore. Maybe it's a foreign pug on the comeback trail.

THREE PLANES CRASH KILLING 32 SATURDAY

Poor flying weather was believed responsible today for airplane crashes on two continents. Two occurred in Europe and the third in Mexico.

In Germany a Czechoslovak commercial plane, carrying 16 persons, including one American, crashed in the Black Forest. All perished except the Stewardess. The American was Miss Dorothy Cogen, address unknown.

At Felixstowe, England, six members of the Royal Air Force were killed when their seaplane crashed into the sea.

Rescue airplanes from Mexico City and Vera Cruz searched the Mexican coast for a plane which was lost with eight passengers and a crew of three.

Twin Sisters; Twin Mothers

On the same day Mrs. Douglas Robinson, left above, and her sister, Mrs. Francis T. Carmody, right, twin daughters of former New York Gov. Nathan L. Miller, gave birth to sons in the same New York hospital. Mrs. Robinson's son, Theodore, arrived first, and 16 hours later Mrs. Carmody's son, Terence, was brought into the world by the same physician who attended her twin sister.

SURVEY SAYS SOUTH NEEDS GREATEST AID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The National Emergency Council's report of depressed economic conditions in the South today foreshadowed administration-sponsored legislation at the next congress for dealing with the South's most urgent problems.

Prepared at the request of President Roosevelt, the 15-point survey bears out the President's view that the South is the "nation's No. 1 economic problem."

The NEC asserted the South offers "the nation's greatest untapped market." The report said that Northern producers are losing profits and Northern workers are losing work "because the South cannot afford to buy their goods."

The report set forth that a large part of the South's population is living at the poverty line, living quarters are inadequate, that there are any certainty of continued employment and freight rate differentials hamper expansion of the South's industries.

HAMILTON AND WALTERS MAY BE CORNERED

DeQUEEN, Ark., Aug. 13.—All roads leading from a wooded section eight miles northeast of here, were blocked late today by Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas officers seeking to trap two men believed to be Floyd Hamilton and Ted Walters, Southwest desperadoes, who escaped into the hills after a gun battle with five Arkansas state troopers.

Officers said they surprised the two men on a bridge just outside DeQueen. The car used by Hamilton and Walters was deserted as the men ran into the woods.

Hamilton and Walters evidently were heading for the Cookson hills of Eastern Oklahoma, officers said.

F. D. R. on 'March Through Georgia'

On the modern "march through Georgia" in which he sought the political defeat of Senator Walter George and election of his opponent, Lawrence Camp, President Roosevelt got a rousing welcome at his "second home," Warm Springs. Here, smiling and looking very healthy after his sea vacation, is the President at Warm Springs, where he dined with youthful infantile paralysis sufferers on his way back to Washington.

EUROPE WORKS INTO A FEVER OVER NEXT WAR

Europe today worked itself into a first class "psychological war fever."

The sudden relapse from a period of recovery was due, largely to speculation and rumor, but fundamentally it involves disturbing developments in the Czech crisis, the Spanish war, and the still threatening conflict between Russia and Japan.

Pressure is just beginning on the Czechs. Germany is putting 1,000,000 men under arms "this month for military maneuvers, coincident with conferences on the minority quarrel."

France, principal ally of Czechoslovakia, is beset on three sides and rendered helpless except in cooperation with London. New German fortifications along the Rhine leave France impotent to rush to the aid of the Czechs if even they are attacked.

Even more troublesome to Paris at the moment is the Spanish civil war intervention by Italy. France has more or less closed her frontiers to loyalist supplies, but has under tremendous pressure to reopen the border on the grounds Italy continues to send men and supplies to the insurgents.

Nationalist airplanes spread death and destruction in raids on Alicante and Valencia today, loyalists reported. The insurgent airplanes at Alicante killed 50 persons and injured 200, according to reports.

Nationalists asserted two loyalist divisions which crossed the Segre river in Northeast Spain had been driven back with heavy losses.

Red Cross Plans A Safety Survey In People's Homes

The Red Cross through its Eastland County Chapter, plans a movement soon for the prevention of accidents in the home and on the farm.

Few realize that more people are maimed and killed through accidents occurring in the homes and on the farms than in any other one vocation or industry.

This campaign is to be put on through the schools in order to reach the homes. Every home in the county is expected to be reached.

Each school is to be asked to get permission of its patrons to allow pupils appointed by the school to inspect their premises.

This will require some preliminary or "mission work" to be done by the teacher through the pupils. This accomplished, the teacher appoints inspection committees of two or three each to go over the premises of the patrons.

Blanks will be furnished by the Red Cross for recording the results of these inspections, the hazards found and suggestions for the disposition or removal of these hazards, fire or otherwise.

It can readily be seen that this work affects the life of every individual from the babe in arms to the oldest person. Should the death of one person be prevented by this solicitation, it would be regarded as a worthy effort well expended.

The Red Cross asks for the full cooperation of every family in the county and that full permission be granted those boys and girls to enter your home and carry out the plan.

Boyd Tanner Wins Cisco Tennis Meet

CISCO, Aug. 13.—Boyd Tanner, youthful Texas University senior from Eastland, won the Cisco tennis championship from defending champion Gordon Sherman, local ace, 6-1, 6-4, yesterday.

Donald Allen of Moran won the Junior men's singles over 15-year-old Roy Fonville, another Cisco ace, 6-8, 6-1, 10-8, in the longest match of the tournament.

Eagle Scored By Earl Conner, Jr., In Philpeco Meet

RISING STAR, Aug. 13.—To District Attorney Earl Conner, Jr., goes the distinction of scoring the only eagle during the tournament and by so doing he won the first round in the second flight consolation from Billy Barton.

The match was one of the last to come in late Saturday afternoon and a large crowd had gathered around the 18th green. Barton and Conner came up on the last tee all square.

It was Barton's first shot and he drove a screamer to within 30 yards of the green on the 310-yard hole. Conner had one straight up the middle but was about 100 yards short of the green. Coming up to his ball, the D. A. drew his trusty mullie and hit a high arching shot. It fell three feet short of the cup, took one hop and "plunk" into the cup for an eagle two.

Barton, with a fine chance for a birdie three, sheepishly picked up his ball, walked up to the green and shook hands with Conner and the match was over. The Conner eagle, incidentally, is the only one to be scored on the new grass greens.

Ranger Gets Credit For Booster Truck Of Fire Department

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—Marvin Hall, fire insurance commissioner of Texas, today praised the city officials of 30 Texas cities for their foresight in sending representatives of their fire departments to the Firemen's Training school at A. & M. college recently, and announced three per cent "key rate" reductions for fire insurance written in those cities on and after August 15.

Explaining that the fire insurance "key rate" is based on the fire-fighting facilities possessed by each city and locality, Commissioner Hall said that experienced and trained firemen are very important factors in keeping losses low.

Among cities granted reduced "key rates" for improvements in their fire-fighting equipment, in addition to the three per cent, is the City of Ranger, with a reduction in the key rate from 33 to 32, credit due for installation of a booster tank truck.

A visit to Camp Bullis, near San Antonio, to inspect Texas National Guard troops engaged in maneuvers of the third army.

Communism Is Charged To CIO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—John Frey, powerful American Federation of Labor leader, today charged that 400 officials of the rival John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization, were Communists or had Communist connections.

CIO Director John Brophy, Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Workers Union, and Harry Bridges, leader of the Pacific Maritime Union, were among those Frey named before the House committee investigating un-American activities.

Frey argued Communism made no headway in the United States while the A. F. of L. was unrivaled as a labor organization, but that after Lewis formed the CIO the Communists were able to get a foothold.

The Forces of Nature
Need a Little Teamwork

One of the tough things about our modern world is the fact that it is getting to be so hard to tell good news from bad.

The U. S. Weather Bureau, for instance, reports the long period of drouth seems to be over—for the time being, anyway—and that for several years to come we ought to have plenty of moisture.

The weather seems to run in long-range cycles. There was a bad drouth period extending through the first half of the '90s. After that the country as a whole had decent weather until 1909, when there was another drouth. Then there was another good spell until about 1930; then six abnormally dry years—we began to hear about the dust bowl, and people started wondering if some of our western grain areas hadn't better be turned back to buffalo grass permanently.

Now we are told this last bad dry spell was just a dry spell, after all, and not a permanent climate change. Possibly we won't have to evacuate large areas, with the tragedy of ruined farms and homeless families.

That ought to be classified as good news, certainly. But before we get too jubilant we might as well note that this good news will bring bad news in its train.

Plenty of moisture will mean bumper crops. Bumper crops will mean bigger and bigger export surpluses—which, in turn, will mean lower prices for farm produce. And if all of this works out as it did before, we may very well get into another era of declining agricultural purchasing power, which would eventually bring us to another industrial slump, which—

Well, we may finally acquire enough wisdom to break up that vicious circle and make abundance a blessing rather than a problem.

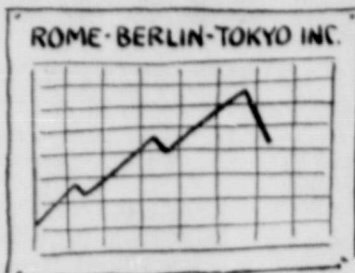

But there is no very dependable sign that we have that wisdom now, and the way the Department of Agriculture is continuing to worry about substitutes for the old AAA crop-restriction programs makes it look as if we may be a long time in getting it.

Which, in turn, means that what ought to be a bit of very good news may yet prove to be an extremely mixed blessing. We have somehow botched the job of building a smoothly running human society.

The farm problem certainly ought to be simpler when nature smiles than when nature scowls. If it isn't, the fault can be no one's but our own. Now that nature seems prepared to do her part again, it's time that we learned how to do ours.

Clothing manufacturers predict that more caps will be worn. Why, don't they know that on the 4th of July the cap business was all shot to pieces?

MODERN PUTS UP BATTLE IN TESCO GAME

Old Faithful, June Hargus, twirled the Texas Electric to their third straight win and into the finals of the A. S. A. district softball tournament Friday night in Eastland by a 5-2 count over a scrapping Modern team that did not stop until the game was all over.

The Cleaners pounded Hargus for seven clean bingles, but they failed to be in the right places to go for enough tallies. The Electricians only collected six off Smith and Cox but errors cost the Cleaners the game.

The game went along on even terms until the fifth inning and the entire batting list for Tesco faced Smith. Mitchell, first man up, smacked a high fly out to Lingle in right field that bounced square in his glove and bounded up again, as Mitchell pulled up safely at third. Then Lewis, the Tesco catcher, rocked a hot one through second base that sent Mitchell in home for the first run of the game and Lewis was safe on first base. Before the inning was over the Electricians had piled up five runs that gave them a lead that was never tied.

Bill Cheatham, the Modern short fielder, seemed to hit Hargus at will and had a full night at the plate. Cheatham connected for three clean bingles for three times at the plate. He started the game off by connecting with the first one Hargus offered for a clean hit. In the sixth Cheatham again started the ball rolling by a clean blow and Lingle made the second out. Then Harkrider walked and Johnny Roberts, batting in clean-up position, fairly knocked the cover off the horsehide as Cheatham and Harkrider both scored and Roberts pulled up safe at third, but Loftis went down for the third out.

Bombs' Figure
in Strike Quiz

At last year's hearing on strike violence before the Senate post-office committee, Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel Corporation, entered the above photograph as evidence that strikers were making "dynamite bombs." The picture was signed by Carl Olson, Youngstown, O., police chief. The current LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee is investigating Olson's later denial that he had ever seen the picture. The "dynamite bombs" are said to be sulphur smudges used for fumigation.

Cox went in for Smith in the seventh and Mitchell, Lewis and Kearney were all slipped into the out groove. Then, in the Modern half of the seventh, Harvey, Groves and Everetts retired the side and Texas Electric stepped into the finals, eliminating Modern Dry Cleaners, the defending

BY EDWIN RUTT

Yesterday, Spencer Ames tells Wilton that a hotel firm is interested in buying the Preston place. Wilton had better watch it closely.

CHAPTER VI

WILTON AMES stared at his father.

"Farnsworth Hotels," he exclaimed. "They're a big outfit, aren't they?"

Spencer inclined his head. "Very big, very solvent and, I am told, very nice people to do business with."

"I'm beginning to understand," said Wilton. "You'll—you'll take the place over?"

"Precisely," said Spencer. "If the interest and amortization payment is not met, the Preston property will have to be put up at public auction. And I'll find a way to buy it in quietly."

Wilton's eyes lighted. "That's a great idea, Dad. We . . . He stopped suddenly. "But what about Sally?"

"Sally? Oh, you mean the Pennington girl? Well, what about her? She'll get a price for it, won't she?"

"Yes," said Wilton shrilly. "But not as much as if she said she interested in buying the Preston place."

"Quite so," said Mr. Ames. "I'm glad you perceive that, Wilton. It shows you've grasped the situation. Now don't you be a fool, my boy. If we play our hand right, Miss Pennington need know nothing about it. We'll make a handsome profit on the deal and you can marry the girl, if she'll have you. I don't know as I'd object to that, either. She seems a nice enough young person and you've got to settle down sometime."

Wilton was silent, considering the proposition. Certainly appeared to be a native craftiness.

"Yes," he said, at last. "I see what you mean. There's one thing that worries me, though. If Sally ever found out that I . . ."

"She won't," interrupted his father. "Unless you're fool enough to tell her. The thing for you to do is keep your ears open and your mouth shut. I'll handle the transaction. Now you'd better go over there this evening and learn what you can. I don't like this Parker chap getting into it. He might be dangerous."

"Yes," said Wilton, and he meant it two ways.

AFTER finishing his sign and setting it up out of town, Kinks arrived to find a great peace brooding over the abode of his late Aunt Martha. Birds chirped in the trees, the sun was warm on the green lawn. In the back the river lapped peacefully by. And in a steamer-chair near the front steps reclined Mr. Harkness, wearing the air of a man whose work has been well done.

"Hello," said Kinks pleasantly. "Taking it easy?"

Mr. Harkness nodded. "Just relaxing. But I have not been idle today, young man. Go up and try that front doorbell."

Kinks mounted the steps and pressed the bell gingerly. The next instant he jumped back and almost dropped his suitcase. An uproar reminiscent of a police siren in full cry had sounded through the house.

"Good night," Kinks called to Mr. Harkness. "What is it?"

The electrical genius waved negligently from the steamer-chair.

"Nothing to marvel at, young man," he replied. "Just an improvement upon ancient methods. The world must progress."

A small, but extremely alluring, portion of it was. Sally Pennington came flying through the hallway inside and jerked the door open. Her hands were covered with flour and there was a tiny dab of it on the end of her charmingly tip-tilted nose.

"Oh, it's you," she said. "Did you really have to ring that thing?"

"Hello," Kinks said. "What are you doing? Playing you're the Great White Chief?"

"I'm making a cake if you must know," said Sally. "I've been working while you were off gallivanting."

"Mr. Harkness tells me he has, too," Kinks said, stepping inside. "She shot him a pained look. 'I'll say he has. Did you ever hear such a terrible racket as that bell makes now? And . . . oh, well, come into the kitchen and see for yourself.'"

THE HITCH BEHIND

Dog and His Owner Go Fishing for Rats

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—A. L. Nidy uses a fishing pole, line and hook to keep down the rat population around his house. And don't forget Pooch, his white dog of an "ordinary" breed.

This modern Pied Piper looked to his fishing outfit when he learned that ordinary rat traps were ineffective against the way invaders.

No Nidy and Pooch went "rat-fishing."

The method, as demonstrated by the man and dog, is simple. Nidy has a fishing pole to which is attached a stout cord with a triad hook on the end. He uses a small chunk of meat for bait and dangles the baited hook near a rat-hole.

Before long, there is a bite. After he feels certain the victim is solidly "hooked," Nidy pulls in the line and jerks the rat out of the hole. Then Pooch goes into action. He grips the rat firmly and enthusiastically about the neck with his teeth, shaves the prey violently, and that's that.

"You see, it's just the same as going fishing, and besides it's a lot more fun," declares Nidy after a demonstration in his home in West Charleston. "I see Pooch on the rat and let him do the killing."

Nidy's fishing methods of rat catching have spread around the neighborhood, he said. Several of the neighbors' boys have adopted the diversion as a new sport that meets parental approval.

Hannah: Godly Motherhood

Text: 1 Samuel 1:9-18: 2:14

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

HANNAH is a great type of the godly mother, the woman yearning for a son, and when her prayer is answered, devoting all her energies and powers to consecrate that son to the very highest purposes and to train him for the things to which she has consecrated him.

Eli, the high priest, had observed Hannah sitting by the door-post of the temple, praying in bitterness of soul and weeping sorely in her anxiety to have a child. Eli mistakenly supposed as he saw her lips moving but did not hear her voice, that she was drunk, and he reproved her—but it must have been with staleness and impressive sincerity that she replied, "No, my lord, I am a woman of a sorrowful spirit; I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but I poured out my soul to Jehovah."

The son that came to Hannah through her prayers was Samuel, who was to be Eli's successor and a great leader in the life of Israel. Men and women are wont to pray zealously for what they want, and when they receive it, forget their vows and devotion—but Hannah fulfilled her part. She had promised to give her child to the service of Jehovah and she did not waver. It must have involved considerable sacrifice on her part to dedicate him to the sanctuary and have him brought up there under the guidance of Eli, when she must have had so much of a mother's longing to keep him to herself. Yet, how much greater this man Samuel was in service to God and man because of his mother's love and sacrifice!

I have read of a Scottish mother of our modern times who gave to the world seven fine sons. Every one of them became a man of distinction in some field of service into which he entered—the ministry, medicine, government, and similar fields. They went out from Scotland to serve other lands. The mother was comparatively unknown, but think of a humble Scottish mother whose life was magnified seven-fold and many times more in the service of her sons!

We are far from Mother's Day, we study this lesson in August, but here are thoughts for Mother's Day and for every day—as Mother's Day ought to be. Samuel was the man of achievement, and the savior of Israel in a time of great crisis. The story of every great man, his mother's part in making him what he is, is not so evident as in the case of Samuel. Would that every Hannah—and their name is legion—might have an inspired biographer like the mother of Samuel!

Sport Glances By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor, NEA Service

NATE DRUXMAN is celebrating his 25th year as a promoter in Seattle with his greatest achievement—the world middle-weight championship fight between Freddie Steele and Al Hostak, July 26.

Druxman, Tex Rickard of the Pacific northwest, drew $500 in his first attempt at matching nose knockers a quarter of a century ago. Indications were that he would play to a $100,000 gate with the neighborhood quarrel between Steele, the champion, and Hostak, a 22-year-old youngster of suburban Seattle.

Steele was guaranteed $30,000, with a privilege of 40 per cent. Druxman's previous high gate was $68,000. Steele and Eddie Babe Risko enticed that through the turnstiles in July, 1936, when the Tacoma Tapper took over the thrumeroom. Druxman has drawn numerous $15,000 and $20,000 houses in late years, usually with Steele the main attraction. He made Seattle the far west's foremost pugilistic center . . . put it ahead of Los Angeles and San Francisco in that respect.

Now that he has realized his dream of a $100,000 show in Seattle, Druxman's ambition is to find a heavyweight in the mammoth forests of the Pacific northwest and send him against Joe Louis, or whoever the champion happens to be, in the Puget Sound country.

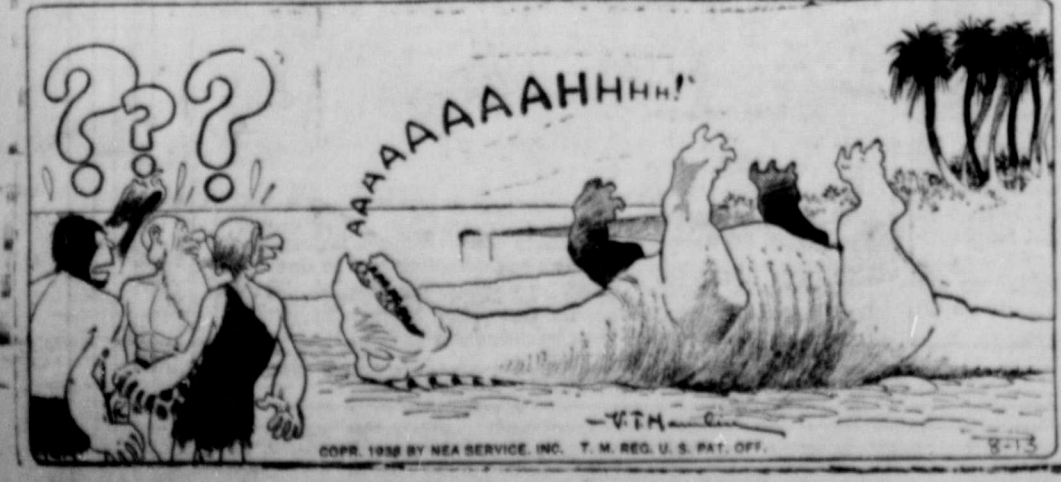

Druxman made a financial success of what originally was an avocation. He has yet to close a season without a good profit. Nate, angered, threw the most at him. Then he changed his mind . . . retrieved the cash . . . paid two seconds 50 cents . . . kept $1.50 for himself . . . gave up the game as an unsuccessful participant. Today he will tell you that owes that old-time promoter thanks. The old-time promoter changed his mind about fighting and taught him the importance of keeping his word.

Two NYA Projects For Ranger Seen In Next Two Weeks

Two National Youth Administration projects for Ranger should be started within the next two weeks, it was announced here Friday by W. B. Watkins, NYA district engineer of Fort Worth, who was in the county to attend the formal opening of the Kokomo 4-H club's new clubhouse.

The two projects expected to be started soon are building a stone meeting house for the local boy scout troop and building a stone fence around the old Ranger cemetery.

Accompanying Watkins here were H. A. Ziegler, district supervisor for NYA, Fort Worth, and Jack Hale, area supervisor, Eastland.

Plans have been submitted for both local NYA projects, but as the boy scout house requires an expenditure of more than $1,000, it had to be submitted to headquarters at Washington for approval. This approval is expected to be given and the project started within about two weeks.

Plans for the stone fence around the old Ranger cemetery are for a wall around the entire grounds, with a large archway on the Young street side, with two pedestrian gates, one on each side of the main arch.

Plans and drawings have been submitted and approval of this project is anticipated within ten days or two weeks, it was stated.

Watkins stated that, after visiting the Kokomo clubhouse and the NYA homemaker project for girls in Ranger he had discovered that the work was even more important than he had thought, though he had been with the NYA for some time.

"I have heard of, read about, and planned these projects," Watkins said, "but I did not realize what they really meant until I actually saw them in operation."
