O'DANIEL CITES CHRIST ON HIS ENDORSEMENTS

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Aug. 25.—W. O'Daniel cited Christ, the president, and James Stephen Hogg as his precedents today in endorsing the men whom he wants to aid in his program as governor. The Democratic nominee for governor, in a state-wide radio address, urged a full turnout of voters in Saturday's runoff election. He requested those who ignored subsidiary races last month to vote for his slate this election.

"It sort of looks like I'm traveling in pretty good company in following the teachings of Christ, the principles of the United States Government and the example of the greatest governor Texas ever had," said O'Daniel.

Christ, he said, had the apostles as a "sort of board of directors" in his cabinet.

"He, though perfect, chose one apostle who betrayed Him," said O'Daniel. "So I must admit that I have erred in naming my brethren."

The president chooses his cabinet, and Governor Hogg demanded state officials sympathetic to him.

DALLAS, Aug. 25.—Attorney General William McCraw adopted a "hands off" policy in the controversy W. Lee O'Daniel started by endorsing six candidates for state offices.

McCraw, defeated by O'Daniel, said he would be a "bad sport" if he either criticized the winner or tried to jump on the band wagon.

EX-CONVICT TO BE QUESTIONED IN FROME CASE
By United Press
DALLAS, Aug. 25.—John Mahan, 24, Oklahoma ex-convict, was held in jail here today after an anonymous telephone caller said Mahan knew something about the Frome murders in the desert near Van Horn.

Authorities were skeptical about the information, but said that since they had Mahan in custody they would investigate. A red-haired woman was arrested with him.

The two were picked up after a woman called Deputy Constable Claude Pack Wednesday night and told him "a man and woman you are looking for in the murder of those two women in El Paso are in a tourist camp on the Fort Worth pike."

Mahan said he knew nothing about the Frome case and had not been in El Paso for seven years. Officers said Mahan was wanted in Kilgore for a holdup and shooting three months ago, and in Duncan, Okla.

WPA Will Make A Series of Maps For Defense Use

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA.—A WPA project now underway in Philadelphia and Washington will produce a series of maps of the United States which may be unequalled for strategic defense purposes.

The broad scope of the maps includes all possible data on highways, railroads, airports, topography, hydrography, woodland areas and ferries. These will be divided into numerous subdivisions.

In Philadelphia 32 WPA draftsmen are working on the Atlantic Seaboard section. The area extends from Norfolk to Maine and includes the Canadian border states to Minnesota. Draftsmen in Washington will cover the West Coast. When completed the maps will be turned over to the army.

"This is the first time that a job of such magnitude has been attempted in this country," Albert Gioia, supervisor of the Philadelphia project, said. "A total of 87 maps will be drawn, covering the entire United States."

Gioia said the project brought home the fact that the United States had never been adequately mapped and that the WPA draftsmen were working in complete cooperation with all Federal agencies. He said the Philadelphia group was being advised by Major C. W. Berlin, district engineer of the army.

The maps are being made on a scale of one inch to eight miles. When finished they will be lithographed by the Engineers Production Plant.

Community Center Buildings Planned Under Program

AUSTIN.—Construction work was started this week on a National Youth Administration Community Center at Marshall, J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, announced. Similar structures are nearing completion at Clarksville, he said, and one was recently dedicated in the Kokomo community of Eastland county.

Sixty boys eligible for the NYA Work program, who live in and near Marshall, are helping build the Center for their home town. The project is sponsored by the City of Marshall and is to be used for community recreation and assemblies.

The building will be a rustic, one-story structure, 32 feet by 56 feet in size. When completed the Center will contain five bunk rooms, a large assembly hall with rock fireplace, and a stone terrace. Interior finishings will be of native materials with beamed ceiling.

Mr. Kellam also announced the approval of three other NYA construction projects to begin operation soon. At Abilene 56 youths will help build an indoor livestock exhibition arena with bleachers at the City Fair Park, and at the Norton Rural School in Rannels County approximately 40 boys will work part-time helping erect a two-wing structure to serve as a Homemaking Education Center.

Approval has also been received for an NYA Work Project to employ 50 boys in Beaumont helping build a service building at the Municipal Golf Course, he said.

Ranger Had 127, County Had 753 Births In July
AUSTIN.—"In Texas during 1937, 698 mothers lost their lives through childbirth and associated conditions. Fatality struck 8,618 babies under one year of age and 3,972 infants were stillborn. These facts become particularly distressing when it is realized that at least two-thirds of this motherhood mortality could have been avoided," states Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer.

Eastland county had 753 total live births, of which 716 were white, eight were negro and 29 Mexican; 409 of the infants were male, and 344 female. A more spectacular development came this morning in Berlin. It was a parade of military might such as Germany had not seen since the world war.

A Shrinking World Should Force Amity

It is not so very many years since New York and Chicago were a good 20 hours apart, by the fastest means of transportation.

Half a century before that, 20 hours was good time for the trip from New York to Buffalo.

Go back still another half century, and 20 hours would get you only from New York to Albany.

And now a German transport plane flies from New York to Berlin in 20 hours, and does it so effortlessly and smoothly that the feat does not even look exciting.

If you use the 20-hour marker as a measuring rod, our earth is shrinking at an amazing rate. Never in history, before now, has there been anything like it. It will probably take us another century to adjust ourselves to the shrinkage.

For it is one thing to recognize a fact, and another to figure out its implications.

Ever since railroads, automobiles, steamships and airplanes began snipping pieces off of the earth's time-girdle, men have been perfectly aware that the yardstick was getting shorter; but to this day very little has been done to get human institutions into key with the change.

It is not merely that the pace of life has speeded up, and that men live closer to each other now than they used to live. The very nature of the earth has changed. We live on a smaller planet. All of the complex and intricate human relationships which have been evolved over the centuries are bound to be revolutionized by that fact.

And yet to date we have hardly started to make the change. We still try to order our institutions as if the old conditions were true—as if Europe were a fortnight or more away, as if continents and oceans and deserts were real barriers to human intercourse.

Perhaps that is a principal reason for the war psychosis that grips the world today. For the old world of long distances could put up with never-ending international rivalries without too much disorder. When the Atlantic was six weeks wide, England and France could war over the possession of Canada and still leave the bulk of their peoples more or less undisturbed. When Paris was a week from Brussels, governments could strike at each other without killing any innocent bystanders.

But it's all changed now.

International rows disrupt human life now as completely, as disastrously, as the vendettas of rival factions in the old Italian city-states used to. Trouble has a far shorter distance to travel. In a smaller world, it is harder to get out of range of the guns.

Which simply means that this new, shrunken world is a world in which different nations and races have got to learn how to get along with one another. It will be a hard lesson to learn, and many old prejudices will have to be discarded. But unless we are to enter a new and terrible dark age, we have got to learn it—and act on it.

than No. 10-gauge. If it is a repeating or automatic shotgun it must be permanently plugged to a three shell capacity. The daily bag limit is 15 in the aggregate of both morning and white-winged doves. The possession limit is also 15 in the aggregate of both species. Baiting of doves of either species is prohibited by federal regulations.

State Wildlife And Game Laws

DOVE REGULATIONS

Dove hunters of Texas will not be subjected to a series of conflicting regulations such as confused them last year. The laws will not be so numerous and will be more easily understood. Combined state and federal laws governing both mourning and white-winged doves provides the following open seasons: A large number of counties in the panhandle and north Texas will open to dove shooting September 1st and will run to October 31st. This includes all counties north of a line drawn by Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Throckmorton, Young, Jack, Wise, Denton, Collins and Hunt counties and in addition the following counties: Parker, Tarrant, Dallas, Wackwall, Kaufman, Johnson, Hopkins, Delta and Franklin. All the rest of Texas counties will open September 15th and will close November 15th. Dove hunting may be done only on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays in all the counties below the Texas-Mexican Railway in the Rio Grande Valley—but this exception is not applicable to Webb and Zapata counties. The hours for shooting mourning and white-winged doves during the open season are from 7 a. m. to sunset. Neither species may be shot with a weapon other than a shotgun, and it shall not be larger

General Hunting Laws

It is unlawful for any person to shoot or discharge any gun, pistol or firearm in, along or across any public road in this state. Unlawful to hunt, take, capture or kill, or attempt to take, capture or kill, any game birds or game animals from an automobile, motor boat, sail boat, or any floating device towed by a motor boat. It is unlawful for any person to enter upon the enclosed lands of another without the owner's consent or agent in charge thereof for the purpose of hunting, fishing, camping or in any manner depredate upon same. Violation of this law or any game laws will cause one to forfeit his hunting license and right to hunt for one year and probably a heavy fine.

Did You Know That—

Texas' wildlife resources are valued at $93,000,000 annually. Texas hunters shoot more shotgun shells than those of any other state—almost one tenth of the total shot in the entire nation. Texas sportsmen spend $25,000,000 annually for guns, ammunition, fishing equipment, automobiles, clothing, gasoline, food, hotel accommodations and other articles necessary to hunting and fishing trips. Strimp is the major marine crop of Texas. Over 12,000,000 pounds are taken annually.

All of Texas' Autos Would Make Long Line or Big Noise

AUSTIN — State police statisticians, with fingers crossed, offer this information to Texas drivers: There are 189,300 miles of highways, roads and streets in Texas over which one and a quarter million vehicles travel. If all these vehicles were jammed bumper to bumper the line would reach 3,000 miles, or over three times the distance from El Paso to Texas.

Furthermore, the statisticians opined, if the horns of these vehicles were blowing at one time it would be Sunday afternoon. One accident recorder, quoted scientists on their findings that human intelligence is 40,000 years old, laughingly pointed out that there are many drivers who still believe that the blowing of horns will untangle traffic jams.

SERIAL STORY

HAYWIRE HOUSE

BY EDWIN RUTT

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Not everyone is haywire at the Restorium. Kinks observes as a well-dressed gentleman appears after the Griffin-Cheese feud.

CHAPTER XVI

MR. C. K. TITUS was a quiet man with grave, kindly eyes and a pleasant manner. He arrived at noon the next day after the Great Pierre had returned and, with many "Mon Dieus" and "Parbleus," reincarcerated his snakes.

C. K. Titus

The advent of Mr. Titus appeared to bring a great wave of peace to the Restorium. The days that followed were uneventful. Mr. Titus himself kept his own company, spending long hours in the grounds and rowing on the river.

Much to the surprise of Sally and Kinks, the team of Griffin and Spaldini remained at the Restorium even though the Little Cheese was no longer gunning for them. Bull explained this phenomenon in his inimitable fashion. It appeared that the organization dominated by the Little Cheese was large and widespread. Its members were under orders to give the works to Mr. Griffin on sight. Wherefore he had deemed it advisable to remain where he was until the Little Cheese had had time to round up his cohorts and announce that the feud had been called off.

To add to the general serenity that now prevailed, Wilton Ames had been in and out and making himself most agreeable. And to Sally, Wilton was more than agreeable. He was downright apologetic. Not only had the shares of the Great Divide Copper Company failed to go up; they had "ravenously turned tail and slid toward the market's nadir."

THEN one day Kinks brought up the general subject of finances.

"How's the exchequer getting along?" he asked. "There is," Sally informed him, "just about $400 in the exchequer. Bull Griffin paid for another week in advance and I've hoarded everything and stalled off the tradesmen. In other words, Mr. Parker, we need $200 and we need it in a hurry. You may have forgotten it, but the deadline is 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon."

Kinks wrinkled his brow. "I hadn't forgotten. I've been beating my brain to think of a way to raise some dough. But, honestly, I'm stymied. Isn't there anybody who could borrow from?"

Sally said. "And I don't see how we could approach any of our guests for a loan. We'd have to put up some collateral, wouldn't we? And we've nothing but a property already mortgaged." Suddenly she bit her lip. "The—pitiful part is that if I hadn't been a darn fool, we might have almost made it."

"What do you mean?" said Kinks quickly. Sally was in the mood for true confessions. Yielding to an impulse she told Kinks everything.

He heard her out. At the end of the recital he stared at her perplexedly.

"But, good heavens, girl," he exclaimed. "Didn't you know that the Great Divide Copper Company has been on the rocks for months?"

"Now how on earth would I know that?" retorted Sally irritably. "If it comes to that, how do you know it?"

"You forget, little one, that I was in the bond and stock business before I became half a hotel proprietor or the proprietor of half a hotel. It's a well-known fact. Our firm laid off Great Divide like poison."

For a moment Sally was silent. "Then you think..." She did not finish it.

"It does not become me to speak ill of my greatest rival," said Kinks. "But it looks as if friend Wilton, for reasons of his own, has slipped over a fast one. I simply can't picture a good house like the Brown, Sherlock recommending Great Divide."

Sally pondered. "I don't believe Wilton would do such a thing," she said, at last. "Well," said Kinks, "there's one way to find out. If you went in and called Brown, Sherlock on the phone, you might get the real low-down. You've just been going on when Wilton's been telling you."

SALLY stood silent for another moment. Then, suddenly, she turned on her heel. Presently Kinks heard her slam the door.

He waited 10 minutes. When Sally came back her face was white and set.

"When I get my hands on Wilton Ames," she said bitterly, "I'm going to tear him into little pieces. Those brokers not only didn't recommend Great Divide. They told me distinctly that for a year they've been advising their customers against buying it." Her blue eyes flashed suddenly. "Oh, I never heard of such a dirty trick. When he knew darn well how much I want to keep this place."

Kinks patted her shoulder gently. "If you don't decide to marry those little pieces of Wilton," he said, "you might remember that Parker is still around. And Parker is willin'."

"Oh, go away," said Sally. "That evening Sally went to her room after dinner. Kinks mooned vacantly about, wrestling with the problem of how to raise $200. He finally wound up on the porch where he found Mr. C. K. Titus sitting alone. In a sudden burst of confidence, he told him about their predicament.

THE quiet gentleman listened attentively.

"Well," he said, when Kinks was finished, "it's a grand place. Too bad you're going to have to lose it. I'm very sorry, young man. Very sorry. But now... well, I'll just say good night."

Kinks stared after him. "Huh?" he muttered. "That guy can sure lose other people's troubles over his shoulder. Oh, gee, this is a mess. Disappointed at 3 tomorrow. And Sally is going to be heartbroken."

When he came down next morning two people occupied the dining room. One was Mrs. Clipstick who stood with arms folded, her habitual expression of severity on her face. The other was the Great Pierre. And the Great Pierre was idly passing his hands over a salt-cellar, making it disappear and reappear in a most disconcerting fashion.

Kinks watched him for a second. Then, suddenly, he started. Inspiration, like a great white light, had flooded his brain.

WOULD YOU HAVE AN INTERNE TO PERFORM A MAJOR SURGICAL OPERATION?

Would you select an apprentice as a locomotive engineer? Would you select a young and inexperienced engineer to construct a great dam or reservoir or to confine storm waters in time of flood?

MY JERRY BRONDFIELD NEA Service Staff Writer

HEAVY, heavy hangs the ax over the head of a second division baseball manager, but with three or four leaders could be set adrift without any great surprise to anyone.

When Gabby Street took over at St. Louis all the Brown front office asked him to do was keep the club from winding up in the cellar. But the Old Sarge hasn't been getting any hitting, and as a result it's very likely the Browns will have eighth place all to themselves.

Bill DeWitt, St. Louis business manager, has repeatedly denied that Street is ready for the bounce. But the Old Sarge hasn't been getting any hitting, and as a result it's very likely the Browns will have eighth place all to themselves.

THE other seven pilots in the junior loop look safe enough for another year. Joe McCarthy, of course, is good enough for the Yanks, especially while he has the Broadway Bombers rolling to one championship after another.

Cleveland is having its most successful season since Tris Speaker's last year, and Oscar Vitt is popular with fans, front office, and sports writers. Not only that, but his contract has another year to run.

Joe Cronin is still quite satisfactory with Boston, and his fourth season at the Hub apparently is his best. How he keeps the Red Sox in third place with the pitching he has been getting is a complete mystery to everyone but Joe Cronin.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—A fine word—"boondoggling"—seems to have passed unheeded from the campaign vocabulary.

One day a New York alderman, during an investigation, asked a WPA recreation instructor what he taught and the reply was "boondoggling." The word swept the country.

Most projects proved useful, at least in the eyes of local sponsors, many of whom are not concerned as to whether the results are worth the expenditure. Alf Landon ridiculed WPA guide books, but the 130 produced have proved popular as well as pleasing to critics.

The $10,000 Memphis Dog Pound project, ridiculed in the Senate and elsewhere in 1936 because of reported luxurious appointments for stray dogs, has lessened the number of dog-bitten strophians by penning up and destroying thousands of stray dogs. Seven persons died in that city from rabies in 1925 and 1936.

R. F. C. workers in an office building partly rented by the government screamed in rage the other day. With thermometers at summer's highest mark, the building management turned on the steam heat.

A beauty parlor on the ground floor needed hot water, and that was the only way to get it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Colman's—had You Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Again?

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel weak, sick and the world looks pink.

A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes Colman's, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Do not buy a cheaply made substitute.

13 YEARS HIS SECRETARY NOW WIFE OF MILLIONAIRE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—Fifteen years ago an 18-year-old girl went to work for one of New Orleans' largest furniture stores, simply because she was offered $2 more a week than she had been earning in a laundry.

Today, Hilda Bertoniore, the one-time laundry worker, is the wife of the owner of the furniture store, Robert Sidney Maestri, mayor of this city and one of the south's wealthiest men.

The romance between the millionaire Maestri and Miss Bertoniore, who, as his secretary, in recent years has virtually run the mayor's vast enterprises, developed about two years ago when Maestri became the city's chief executive.

As Maestri's fortune grew he had come to depend increasingly on his secretary for counsel, but few knew they had been sweethearts for the past two years. They were generally regarded as "business partners" and highly successful ones.

The ceremony, performed in the private chapel of Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans, caught the city by surprise.

The 48-year-old mayor had some reputation as a "woman-hater" and had devoted so much of his time to business and politics that only a few intimates knew of his love affair.

That Mrs. Maestri may one day be a governor's wife appears a possibility as several factions are urging Mayor Maestri to be a candidate for the Louisiana governorship.

Maestri, who pays the largest income tax in the state, left with Mrs. Maestri for the east after the wedding. The honeymoon was Maestri's first vacation since he moved into the mayor's job two years ago.

The "Cinderella romance" between Hilda Bertoniore, top photo, and Robert Sidney Maestri, mayor of New Orleans, surprised the entire city and was not revealed until they were married.

Church of Christ Revival Drawing Big Crowd Nightly

Another large congregation was present, Wednesday night, to hear the message brought to the Church of Christ revival services by F. B. Shepherd.

"There is one thing in which it has ever been dangerous to make any change. This is the decree of God. That which has been necessary to please God at one time in a religious dispensation has been necessary in every period and of all persons in the same dispensation.

"Christianity is a paradox. It is peculiar in that progress is made in it by going backward to its original simplicity and purity and perfection, and not forward to any ideal of man. To be true to Divine prototype we must be true to Divine precept. If a thing is new in Christianity it is not new, for that which is true is not new," began evangelist Shepherd in the outdoor revival of the church of Christ last night.

Mr. Shepherd then entered upon an exhaustive discussion of the eight cases of conversion recorded in the New Testament. The claim was presented that the only book in the Bible where conversion under the Christian dispensation is described and illustrated is the Book of Acts and so only as men follow these God given records can they be safe and sure that their conversion is really genuine.

Another was baptized at the close of the service. The sermon for tonight was announced as "What church did he join?"

Morning services were announced for Thursday and Friday at 10 o'clock and evening services at 8:15. The revival closes Sunday night.

Calvary Baptist to Conduct a Singing Contest on Friday

Calvary Baptist Church is expecting a large crowd Friday night when a friendly singing contest between the "Frogs" and "Grasshoppers" will be conducted.

Puri Hunt will be the host of the building and Mrs. M. L. Wilkes will be leaders of the Grasshoppers, who will occupy the east side.

There will be special singers from several different towns and communities. Carl Clemmer from the First Christian Church will have charge of the singing program, which will last for an hour and a half.

The pastor, Rev. J. A. Lovell, will bring a short, inspirational message. Everyone is invited to be present and become a Frog or a Grasshopper.

Nazarene Church Is Conducting Revival

Rev. M. V. Wilson, Indian evangelist, will conduct nightly revival services at the Church of the Nazarene, Oak and East Main Main streets, beginning each evening at 7:45. It was announced heretofore by Rev. A. G. Pool, pastor.

The public is invited by the pastor to come and hear "old time, true gospel, the way it should be preached."

and the other one, but we never have learned his name. Incidentally, if he doesn't like his nickname, just keep it to yourself. We have no desire to incur the displeasure of anyone as big as he is.

YESTERDAY the squad ran signals, and Tipton told them they would be given all the plays they were to use in the first game not later than the latter part of this week, and insisted that every-one study his assignment for each play.

Making Real 'Cheese' Cloth

Possible birth of a new American industry that will provide men with suits made from milk is seen in an invention by two government scientists. Casein, by-product of skim milk and important ingredient of cheese, is processed so that it can be spun and woven into a fabric resembling wool. Shown above in his Department of Agriculture laboratory as he demonstrates the pressure apparatus for spinning, is Earl O. Whittier, who, with his colleague Stephen P. Gould, has applied for patents on the new invention.

Confer With FDR on Wage-Hour Law

A lot of planning is necessary before the new wage-hour law goes into effect October 23, and Administrator Elmer F. Andrews and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins are already hard at work. They are pictured at the White House after conferring with President Roosevelt concerning administration of the law.

Protector of Lelia Lake Made Deputy Of Donley County

By United Press
LELIA LAKE, Texas.—Mrs. John Howard, known as "the protector of Lelia Lake" because she has caused capture of 14 law violators, has been made a deputy sheriff of Donley county.

Sheriff Guy Pierce, who commissioned Mrs. Howard, told her she broke up an attempted robbery of the postoffice here in 1930, then directed officers as they staged a running gunfight with the two would-be robbers. When the two were convicted, Mrs. Howard was rewarded by the federal government.

"If Mrs. Howard hadn't been able to direct us over these West Texas roads when that robbery was broken up, we never would have been able to catch that Jackson gang that pulled the job," Pierce recalled.

Seventeen attempts at burglary and robbery have been made at Lelia Lake in recent years. In only three of the cases have the criminals escaped. Of the three escapes, two were wounded in gun-fire exchanges with Mrs. Howard's husband and their son, Lon. The criminals who escaped were traced partially by blood trails.

"When we first moved here," Mrs. Howard said, "robberies were so frequent that Lon decided to make an alarm system. Now, all I have to do is call Sheriff Pierce at Clarendon when I suspect that something is about to happen."

The style news from Paris is that one of the popular new colors is "Borgia red." To be worn, we take it, with something in poisonous green.
