PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE
By Bill Mayes

TONIGHT—Gorman vs. Ranger, under the new lights.

GORMAN has played Oil Belt teams five times since 1931, according to records we have compiled, and in none of the games was it very decisively beaten, probably the worst showing Gorman has made being against Ranger in 1931, and then the game was played in mid-season.

IN 1931, both Cisco and Ranger played the Yellow Jackets, Cisco winning early in the season by a score of 31 to 12. That year, just to give a comparison, Ranger and Cisco tied 13 to 13, while the Abilene Eagles, state champions, defeated the Bulldogs only 14 to 0, which shows that Ranger had a pretty good team, as that was the same score by which Abilene

WHITE, CAPT. I. S. HALE, KLINE, COOK

Texas Christian University football teams have long been noted for their strong forward walls. The 1938 edition of the Horned Frogs will be no exception. Here are four of the "little boys" who will see a lot of action: Capt. Hale, 245 pounds; Allie White, 200; Forrest Kline, 225; and Jack Cook, 200.

beat Beaumont in the state finals 19 to 6, with Gorman threatening. And Ranger won from Gorman all through the game, that year 27 to 0.

IN 1932, the Yellow Jackets did not play Oil Belt teams, but in 1933, the year Ranger beat Cisco 7 to 6, the Lobos won from Gorman by 12 to 0, and Eastland was defeated by the Yellow Jackets, 12 to 7.

IN 1934, when Ranger had her strongest team in years, the Lobos had a pretty hard time against Gorman, but finally won

Winged Woman

Olive Hall sets a world record of 2 minutes, 19.7 seconds for the 880-yard run in the women's A. A. U. meet at Mitcham, England. The old mark, 2:25.8, established by Mary Lines stood for 15 years.

AND IT WAS about the same time, but probably not in the Gorman game, that someone, playing safety on some team that was playing Eastland, pulled another one we hadn't seen in years, and haven't seen since. When the safety caught the ball, instead of running with it he kicked it back over the Mavericks' heads. Probably the reason we haven't seen it since is that a safety seldom has time to kick now, because the ends and tackles, and sometimes the guards and center, get down under the punts faster.

BUT TONIGHT we expect to see some pretty good football, from the Bulldogs and Yellow Jackets, too.

THE 1938 model uniforms will not be used in the Gorman game, but the 1937 suits have been issued for use until the Eastland contest two weeks hence.

THE SQUADMEN have been listed by Bill Tipton, with numbers, weights and positions. This list will be found in the full page advertisement of the game, which was published in yesterday's Times.

EAST AURORA, N. Y. — This thriving little western New York village, home of the world-famous Roycroft founded in the gay 90's by the late Elbert Hubbard, awaits with curiosity an invasion of "cultured minds trying to find a happy medium of science and religion."

Thus was rescribed the Federation of Churches of Infinite Science, Inc., the new owner of the Roycroft properties, which for 44 years has offered a haven for literary and artistic figures seeking a place of simplicity and charm.

The property virtually was snatched from the hands of creditors by the religious organization soon after Federal Judge John Knight declared the historic institution insolvent following bankruptcy hearings. It was reported the new owners will pay $120,000 for the entire layout — $38,000 less than the actual assets.

Gordon Hodges Bryant of New York, general manager of the federation, has attempted to answer some of the numerous questions regarding his organization and how it plans to utilize the strange conglomeration of fieldstone buildings, artistically laid out on a landscaped campus.

Estimating the federation, formed in 1935, now has 100 local chapters, Bryant explained that the Roycroft would be used as headquarters for the Infinite Science group.

To be re-christened the Roycroft Community, the numerous buildings and the Inn will be operated in much the same manner as they have been in the past, Bryant said.

"It is the intent of the new owners," he said, "to continue publishing the works of Elbert Hubbard, just as his son, Elbert Hubbard, II, has been doing since his father lost his life in the sinking of the Lusitania in 1915."

Bryant said that the print shop, besides turning out editions of Hubbard's "Message to Garcia" and other Hubbard masterpieces, will be used by the federation to publish its monthly periodical and other occasional literature.

Bryant predicted that with the return of normal times he would have the print shop working in three shifts.

He said also that the craft shops, renowned for their hand-tooled leather and hand-wrought copper articles, will continue to produce wares for tourists and curio seekers.

The federation will hold an annual convention each summer that will bring 2,000 people to East Aurora, thus recalling the annual gathering of "Philistines" held each year during Hubbard's time.

Good Sense Achieved
A Century of Peace

It is an odd thing, when you stop to think about it, that this country never got around to dedicate the Perry Memorial at Put-in-Bay until the fall of 1938.

The official government commission which is putting the big monument through the hoop is, to be sure, formally commemorating the 125th anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie. But it is an observance too long delayed, for the story which begins with a battle and ends with a monument is one which cannot be told too often.

The annals of the world's wars are full of stories that can be described that way, of course—stories that begin with a battle and end with a monument. Enough pain, loss, and suffering is packed into that short compass, usually, to make the angels weep, and often enough, looking back, one is hard put to say whether the net gain was worth all it cost.

But the Perry story is different.

Out of those frenzied two hours on Lake Erie there came something which is a priceless possession of two great nations and an ideal to inspire the whole world.

In its immediate effects, of course, Perry's victory was important enough. It saved the northwest for the United States, kept the bungled war of 1812 from ending in disaster, and ended the Indian menace in the Northwest Territory.

Even more important than that, however, was the fact that this great battle was followed by more than a century of peace. Shortly after the war, English and American commissioners drew up and signed the Rush-Bagot treaty limiting armaments on the Great Lakes—the first disarmament treaty in the history of international relations. The spirit of that treaty has been kept ever since, until now it is something that neither the United States nor Canada would conceivably give up.

Now the thing to remember about it is that there was nothing in the cards to make such a peaceful relationship inevitable. The two nations might just as easily—more easily, in fact—have gone ahead in the traditional way, nourishing grudges because of the last war and laying plans for getting even in the next. Every factor that ordinarily makes for rivalry and enmity between two nations was present.

But it didn't happen that way—principally because people involved used good sense.

American fire-eaters stopped talking about the "conquest of Canada"; English imperialists gave up their old idea of crippling the upstart republic. Instead, all hands decided to get along together in peace.

And it worked. That is the great point to remember. Two virile, expanding, and ambitious peoples showed that disarmament is practical. And there has never been a time when the world could meditate on that fact with more profit than today.

HIT-RUN LOVE BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN
COPYRIGHT, 1938 SEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I
THE hot spring sun slid suddenly behind the oncoming gray clouds, throwing the traffic court into too-early shadows. Not even the threat of rain could dampen Patricia McGraw's spirits. While her pencil raced over the whiteness of her pad, covering it with her curlicues of shorthand notes, and the voices of witnesses, judge, and attorneys occupied one side of her mind, the real Pat continued dreaming of the evening's date with Larry Kent. For many weeks now life had been something vivid, magical, quickened with the glamour of love. Before Larry had come with his blond hair so smooth and clean-lined over his broad forehead, the days had been a succession of routine tasks familiar to any court stenographer. Even now the ordinary run of events continued, but overshadowing them was the knowledge that Larry loved her, that soon they would be married. When Pat realized the nearness of that marriage the scene around her took on a strangeness. For over a year it had been her work-a-day world, now she saw it as a stranger's loving life, yet eager to be away to that still dearer world of her own home. The case continued. Up on the wall over Judge Michael Kelly's bench the hands of the old clock moved slowly. Sergt. Herman Mowski switched on the lights, chasing the shadows. Desk Officer Timothy O'Shea sought frantically over the desk for a mislaid file. Pat sighed and looked at the clock again. . . .

The case continued. The arresting officer recited the facts of the case. Speeding . . . a man's car hit.

free years of high school with life at home a casual, comfortable affair. With Bill and Joe filling the house with their young friends, their balls, and bats, bicycles, books, marbles. With her mother, easygoing, busy keeping the house running smoothly and pleasantly for big Dennis McGraw, an officer in the police department. Things had changed swiftly then; had assumed a kaleidoscopic aspect. Her father's death in the line of duty, a rearranged life to fit a widow's pension, her own plans for college changed to a business course. . . .

SOMEHOW, though, as time went on, a new pattern was formed. She took a job in a lawyer's office. The boys went into high school. In two more years they would be finished. Last year she herself, aided by her father's old friends, had secured the position as court stenographer with an opportunity to make a little money on the side typing testimony for attorneys. Her days had not been drab or unpleasant. Only she had drifted along too settled for her years, too serious, too conscious of responsibilities. Now the burdens were lightened, and Larry had come. There was nothing about Larry that she had forgotten. She could close her eyes now and remember their first meeting. It had been just after Christmas on a day filled with huge, feathery snow flakes that slipped gently past her cheeks and clung on her thick lashes. Judge Kelly had asked her to deliver a paper over to the Paramount Auto Sales during the afternoon. Larry was in charge when she entered, handsome, his blue eyes lighting up at her approach. "I would like to see Mr. Abbot," she had said with as much composure as she could gather. "I'm from Judge Kelly's office." But not even that dignified name could erase the smile from his lips. "Mr. Abbot's out," he said, his

Houston Mayor Is A Man of Action When Hard Pressed

By United Press
HOUSTON, Texas.—Mayor R. H. Fonville is a man of action. His official limousine pulled into a residential section alleyway. The mayor alighted, tore down a gate that had been hung across the thoroughfare, and attempted to carry it away on his automobile. When it could not be fastened to his machine, Fonville ordered a city works truck to remove it, then stayed by to watch the work. "I've had 95 telephone calls and 400 letters about that gate," Fonville commented. "It seems there has been a neighborhood feud because someone insisted on shutting off the alley." Next, Fonville drove to another residential area and supervised removal of junk that was blocking an alley. Subordinates protested that the rubbish was "not bothering anyone." "It bothers me," the mayor replied. "People keep me awake nights about it."

This New Dessert Is Old Favorite In a New Form

If you are a homemaker and not just a housekeeper you'll want to surprise your family with this new version of a favorite old dessert. We assure you it'll be a pleasing surprise. Most people like prune whip. Everybody we know who has tried this Quaker prune whip loves it. That in itself is reason enough for serving it. But there's another good reason, too. By adding oatmeal to this old favorite dessert you not only add extra flavor but you add extra food value. You make it a real

"health dessert." Oatmeal, you know, is nature's richest economical source of B-vitamin-rich Thiamin (Vitamin B1), that everybody must have for best health. Because Thiamin is not stored in the body, new supplies are continuously needed. In addition, oatmeal adds proteins for firm muscle and those body-building minerals, iron and phosphorus. A thrifty thought: If you happen to have oatmeal left over from breakfast, use it to make prune oat whip. Here's the recipe:
Quaker's Prune Oat Whip
(Serves 10)
3 cups cooked prunes (1 lb. dried).
2 1/2 cups cooked Quaker or Mather's oats (Quick or Regular).

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.
3/4 teaspoon salt.
3/4 cup sugar.
2 egg whites.
1/2 cup whipping cream.
Remove pits from prunes and beat to a pulp with rotary egg beater or electric mixer. Add cooked and cooled Quaker or Mather's Oats, the cinnamon, salt and about half the sugar. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry, beating in the remaining sugar gradually. Fold into the prune mixture with the whipped cream. Chill well before serving. Serve plain, or garnished with whipped cream.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—"Communism" has bobbed up as an issue in various 1938 primaries and may be heard from in the fall election campaigns.
Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina once advised some of his colleagues:
"Get a good red scare into the campaign and you don't have to worry about issues."
Those who supposed the old "red scare" had been worn threadbare are being fooled. Such seasoned conservative campaigners as Senator Walter George in Georgia, Senator Millard Tydings in Maryland, and Congressman John J. O'Connor in New York, all "purge" targets, deem it good political medicine.
Tydings first used the Communist issue by quoting allegedly radical passages from a book written by Mauritz Hallgren, a supporter of his opponent, Congressman Dave Lewis. Lately Tydings' forces have plastered Maryland with printed warnings—"Your constitutional rights are threatened by the federal administration, supported by the C. I. O., John L. Lewis and Communists. Preserve your civil and religious liberties."
George attributes his New Deal opposition to Tom Corcoran and Ben Cohen, whom he alternately describes as "Communists" and "Wall Street lawyers," and to Eli Oliver of Labor's Non-Partisan League, whom he calls a "Communist."
O'Connor, bracketed by Roosevelt with Tydings as an "obstructionist" who "betrayed" the New Deal, tells voters his troubles are largely due to a Communist plot. Communists have taken to endorsing the most liberal candidates

ONE of those crying major league owners, who professes to wonder why the Yankees run away in the American League, and the National is called another minor, and who tells the customers that he would like to do something about it but doesn't know where to look for talent, might buy Frederick Charles Hutchinson from the Seattle Indians.
Now, don't let him tell you that Freddie Hutchinson can't pitch. He already is crowding the 25-game victory mark in the Class AA Pacific Coast League.
Hutchinson, a big, strong kid, is a corking hitter, too.
The club purchasing him would have plenty of time to realize on its investment, for Hutchinson is only 19. He graduated from a Seattle high school only a few weeks ago.
Hutchinson has more than baseball ability. He is one of the few ball players touched by bucks owner magic. He beat the Seals in San Francisco the other night before 18,215 paying guests, which was only 785 less than the record for the city at the Golden Gate.
The argument has been raised that if owners flatly refused to peddle such best sellers as Hutchinson and DiMaggio, the smaller loops would prosper accordingly, and there would be no lack of attendance, an acre that stalks every keeper of auditor's books in lesser wheels.
BUT what advocates of retaining minor league stars in the minors forget, and what major league owners take advantage of is baseball economics.
Of the club without widespread minor league affiliations, only the New York Giants and Boston Red Sox have in recent years shown any inclination of being willing to pay a worth-while price for a performer.
And then, Bill Terry of the Polo Grounders, who has yet to prove himself any kind of an organizer, has waited until the last minute to turn to the needy Phil

A. & M. Coach Does Not Expect Team To Be Contender

By United Press
COLLEGE STATION, Texas.—Coach Homer Norton looked over his Texas A. & M. College football squad when it turned out for practice, then refused to admit the expected team to be a contender for the Southwest Conference championship in 1938.

"It looks like Rice and Texas Christian will be in a fight for the conference title," Norton declared. "I expect my Aggies to be up against Southern Methodist for third place."

"Any team is liable to upset the dope and win in this conference, however," was the only hint he gave that he might expect his team to take the lead.

Norton indicated that he considered this season one of training for a championship team for 1939 because of its present bounty of sophomore material, but many Texas A. & M. fans are betting now that their team will be at the top of the column this year.

Vaccination Now Urged by the State Health Department

AUSTIN, Texas—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, in a statement issued at Austin this week, urged all local boards of health and boards of education to pass regulations making mandatory smallpox vaccination and diphtheria immunization for all school children before they are allowed to register for the fall school term.

"School children are exposed to so much infection during the school year that where a definite preventive against a disease is known, parents should be urged to take advantage of this knowledge. Vaccination may save a period of prolonged absence from school, doctor's fees, and even life itself. It is foolhardiness not to require that all school children be rendered non-infectious from the communicable diseases, smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid, before they start to school this year," Dr. Cox stated.

The Texas State Department of Health wishes to recommend that the various local school boards adopt such regulations, taking further into consideration that lack of action on their part may mean the difference between a successful school year or prolonged illness, failure or death. 238 children died from diphtheria in Texas during 1937.

Parent Teacher organizations, local medical organizations and strongly in favor of pre-school examinations and vaccination. This campaign against unnecessary death and disease among school children of Texas, State Health Department lends full support.
