JAPAN NEARS HER GOAL IN CHINESE WAR

Japan's 14-month conquest of China moved toward a smashing climax today. Mediation of the long war, possibly by Britain and Germany, appeared to be a possibility. The vast Chinese defense lines appeared to be breaking from the Yellow river to the Yangtze valley and in the far south. Japanese armored cars, followed by troops, fought their way into Canton, part of China's commercial power and center of the foreign trade interest in the south. Japanese naval and land troops squeezed the ring of defense around Hankow until it appeared to be giving away after months of powerful resistance. The result of those military operations indicated the Japanese were in a more favorable position than at any time since they started their conquest in August, 1937. For many months the Japanese sought to persuade the Cantonese that it was to their best interest to cooperate, instead of joining Gen. Chiang Kai-shek of the success of the invaders in the south was followed by speculation on whether there had been a "sell-out."

Did This Start Name-Calling?

Charles Lindbergh talks to Sir Neville Henderson... Russians charge he talked too much, denounce what they call "lies" told the British during the war crisis about the inefficiency of the Soviet air force. The American aviator and the British ambassador to Germany are pictured at the Berlin congress of the Lillenthal Society for Aeronautical Research.

BUCKAROOS, BULLDOGS WILL CLASH TONIGHT IN OIL BELT GRID CLASSIC

ship, after three years of rebuilding a football team. On paper the Bulldog line outweighs the Buckaroo forward wall, but in the backfield Breckenridge has a decided weight advantage, which even up the weights, as the backfield heavyweights are exceptional line backers. Defensively the Buckaroos have not established as good a record as have the Bulldogs, though Breckenridge has played stronger teams in most games. The Bulldogs allowed Eastland to score eight points, while their foes to date held the Mavericks to seven points, which shows slight defensive difference. But on the offense Breckenridge piled up 54 points on the Mavericks against 40 the Bulldogs scored. Both teams are rated as being in good physical condition, with only minor injuries on either squad, and throughout the game scouts from other teams will be watching the game, to get the "dope" on two of the strongest teams in this section. A total of eight points has been scored on Ranger to date, including two Class A and three Class B games, while 55 points have been marked against the Buckaroos in five Class A games, against such teams as Vernon, Olney and Wichita Falls. Offensively the Buckaroos have scored 152 points, all against Class A competition, and the Bulldogs have scored 97 points, one Class A and one Class B team holding them scoreless.

Sally Says She Won't—But She Does

"I'll pose any way you want— even stand on my head—but I won't pose with a policeman," cried Fan Dancer Sally Rand, but it was too late. Here is Sally, left, sans fans, in a Los Angeles court with Policewoman Cheryl Goodwin, center, and a reporter. Sally was in court to explain why she hadn't appeared earlier in connection with a suit brought by one Hazel Driscoll, who claims the Rand bit her during a scuffle in a Los Angeles theatre.

GRID CONTEST AND A PARADE ARE FEATURES

Simple Entertainment Marks 21st Anniversary of Discovery of Oil. Today Ranger is welcoming a large crowd at her second annual homecoming, today being the 21st anniversary of discovery of oil in the McCleskey No. 1, south of the city. Twenty-one years after Ranger is celebrating with a simple celebration, planned more to let the people have an opportunity to revisit the scenes they once knew than to make an effort to entertain them during their visit. The day's activities did not start until noon, when a joint meeting of the Lions and Rotary clubs was held in the Gholson hotel, with Judge Combes of Abilene as the principal speaker and Congressman Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland as one of the distinguished guests. The Universal Cowboys furnished entertainment during the meeting. At the conclusion of the joint meeting of the service clubs a short entertainment program was scheduled in front of the Gholson hotel, with Mayor Hall Walker extending a welcome. The Universal Cowboys were also scheduled to play for this entertainment. One of the features of the day is a parade to be staged at 4:45, with Breckenridge and Ranger school bands and pep squads participating. Everyone was urged today to place their personal cars at the end of the parade to help swell the number of entries. Tonight, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock, the feature football game of the Oil Belt will be played when Breckenridge plays the Ranger Bulldogs. The new Bulldog stadium, which is now completed with the exception of some painting and minor improvements, will be dedicated in a short ceremony at the game. Because the Homecoming plans were started so late, little more than a week ago, many who were invited to attend were unable to be present, but sent letters of regret. A telegram from Bob Burns, who had been invited by B. E. Barner, local theatre manager, stated that he "hoped the folks of Ranger had a lot of fun" at the celebration and "it makes me feel right good to know the Arcadia is showing 'The Arkansas Traveler.'" Dr. Harry A. Logsdon of Colorado, former mayor of Ranger, wired: "Am certainly sorry I cannot be there for the homecoming. Thank the committee for thinking to invite me. My best wishes will always be with Ranger in any of her programs. Surely hope for you a splendid day of pleasure, and a victory for the Bulldogs."

73 INDICTED IN NEW MEXICO ON WPA CHARGE

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 21.—Seventy-three persons, including the sister and the son-in-law of Sen. Dennis Chavez, Dem., N. M., were to surrender today to appear on charges with criminal misfeasance of the Works Progress Administration's machinery, workers, and materials. The grand jury indicted 62 on charges of conspiracy to violate the WPA appropriations code, an offense carrying a maximum $10,000 fine and two years in prison. Among those indicted were Chavez's son-in-law, Assistant U. S. District Attorney Stanley Miller; Mrs. Anita Tafaya, sister to the senator, and Fred Healy, who was dismissed as New Mexico WPA administrator by Federal Administrator Harry Hopkins on Sept. 24. The grand jury reported the violations affected nearly every section of New Mexico and favored no particular political organization. General charges said that threats were used to compel WPA workers to take part in politics.

Preacher Killed By Officers After Double Shooting

McAlester, Okla., Oct. 21.—J. W. Bryce, 51, itinerant preacher, shot and fatally wounded himself today when he was trapped in a farm house by officers who wanted him for shooting his wife and a man who sought to protect her. Bryce lived for several hours with the bullet in his head. Bryce was sought for shooting his wife and Cotton Geter, 32, Democratic nominee for the state legislature. Both are in a critical condition at a hospital here. Bryce wrecked his car early today and attempted to flee on foot.

HARRY HOPKINS' FRIEND DIES IN LONG FALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Mrs. Gardner Hale, 80, widow of a noted mural painter, who was reported engaged, last May, to Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins, plunged to death today from her 16th floor apartment. Mrs. Hale was introduced to Hopkins by James Roosevelt. She was married to Hale in 1929 and posed for many of his works. Hale was killed in California in 1929 when his car plunged over a 500-foot cliff. Mrs. Hale was known to her friends for her gaiety, and they said she might have tripped over a low window sill.

Employers Accused Of Wage-Hour Fight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Wage-Hour Administrator Elmer Andrews today charged that a "small and scattered minority" of employers are attempting to bring the wage-hour law "into disrepute, evidently with the hope of intimidating the wage and hour administration." HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 21.—President Roosevelt expressed the hope today that employers engaged in intrastate commerce would join those in interstate commerce and abide by the provisions of the federal wage and hour law, which becomes effective Monday.

Shutdown In Oil Fields Saturday Will Stop Soon

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—The final Saturday state-wide oil field shutdown in Texas will be tomorrow, capital oil circles predicted today. Saturday and Sunday closing is required for this week-end under the October proration order of the Texas Railroad Commission. Because the month has five Saturdays and Sundays, the closing order is not effective for the last Saturday and Sunday. Indications the shutdowns may be ended in November was given at last Saturday's oil proration hearing, when a seven-day operation was advocated to prevent loss of Texas oil markets.

Reminder of Old Days Found When Iron Is Discovered

A reminder of past years was brought about recently in Eastland when Mrs. John Van Geem found a "log iron" while cleaning up her yard on West Moss street. Log irons were used years ago to prevent men jailed by the county and who worked on road projects from escaping. About three feet long, they were fastened to a man's leg, preventing him to run. It was supposed the log iron was there because Charlie Van Geem, a brother used to guard county prisoners on road projects and had lived in that residence.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Tanner Are Held Friday

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at Eastland for Mrs. Mary G. M. (Boyd) Tanner, 79, who died last week in Seattle, Wash., at the home of a daughter, Miss Blanche Tanner. Services were held later at the Eastland cemetery. Mrs. Tanner was the widow of the late Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce and prominent citizen. ### Three-Way Race For Governor Seen For 1940 Primary AUSTIN, Texas—It's looking a long way ahead, but there are indications already that W. Lee O'Daniel, Ernest O. Thompson and Bill McCraw will again be in a three-way race for governor in 1940.

Thompson practically has announced he will run again. Right after the first primary in which he finished second, Thompson remarked that it was a "good qualifying heat."

Former Mayor of Amarillo, where he hammered down utility rates including telephone costs, he is championing at the bit here in Austin because the city fathers have permitted a telephone rate hike without a fight.

"Austin rates are not too low. The telephone rates now are fair. It is the other places that are too high," Thompson said. "The capital city should be an example in fair rates for other places."

McCraw remarked right after the primary in which he finished third that the people had elected him to private life. But he already shows signs of wanting to return to the hustings. He has kept a closer check on O'Daniel's doings and statements since July than he has.

Homespun Humorists

did while the last race for governor was on. He has a drawerful of material. Apparently he is not keeping it just to say "I told you so."

McCraw will return to Dallas to resume law practice there at the end of his term as attorney general, but it is a good bet that the next campaign will show him again a candidate.

O'Daniel has made "one-term" talk. He is quoted for the statement that he is going to be governor for that term without regard to the effect on a second term. He may believe so now, but after once tasting the governorship, men do not give it up without a struggle for a second term.

Many things can happen to change the picture. Here at Austin where people look ahead in politics like chess players chart future moves, the prophecy can be heard that O'Daniel really will really seek but one term, and then will try to go to Washington.

This prophecy was based on a general belief that the federal government never will match $15 a month for the aged. O'Daniel then can tell the supporters who gave him last summer's overwhelming vote: "I've done all I can for you as governor. The trouble's at Washington. Send me there and I'll do more."

The Railroads' Solution Demands Fact-Finding

If one thing ought to be clear by this time, it is that a strike won't settle the railroad problem.

Offhand, it looks as if a strike might be the only way out. The railroad men swear that they can't possibly go on paying the current wage scale, for the best of reasons—to wit, they haven't got the money. The workers reply that they are underpaid rather than overpaid, and that they can't afford a cut any more than the railroads can afford the present scale; and they add that the trouble with the railroads is their bank-begotten overhead anyhow and not their wage rates.

When employer and employe talk that way, and mean it, a strike is the usual outcome. But it is hard to think of a greater disaster for both sides than a nation-wide railroad strike right now.

For the trouble seems to be that both sides are right.

The railroads can't pay the scale. They haven't got the money. They are in a spot, and if they don't get some sort of financial relief pretty soon there's going to be a catastrophe. That much is admitted by all who know anything at all about the railroads.

On the other hand, the railroad workers aren't being pampered. In layoffs and in other ways, they have paid their full share of the depression. A horizontal wage cut would be ruinous to them.

Well—so what? If the roads can't afford to go on paying and the workers can't afford to take a cut, where is the answer anyway?

It is easier to say where the answer isn't than where it is; and the most obvious thing, it seems to us, is that a strike wouldn't settle anything. It would leave the basic, underlying problem quite untouched. No matter who "won" it, both sides would lose. And so, if you're interested, would the general public.

The time would seem to be ripe for direct intervention by the government. That doesn't imply operation. It simply means that a complete and final job of fact-finding and policy-making needs to be done, and that some disinterested and supremely capable group ought to be called in by Uncle Sam to do the job.

This railroad problem isn't something new. It has been with us for upwards of a decade now, and some of its roots go back much farther than that. So far we have undertaken to solve the problem by a policy of drift, and the present crisis serves notice that that policy won't work any more.

Simple mediation of the current dispute won't help. A study that goes to the very bottom of the trouble and a chart that shows how our transportation industry can regain its lost health—these are the things that are desperately needed. They can best be had, it would seem, through action by the government.

Don't Look Now, but—

Texas Convict Has Won Recognition As a Story Writer

By United Press

HUNTSVILLE, Texas—Thomas F. Whiteside, serving a murder sentence in Texas State prison, is gaining attention as an author. Two leading national magazines have accepted stories by Whiteside for early publication, prison officials revealed. Several others of his works have been published already, and his earnings from writings done within "The Walls" have passed the $600 mark.

Whiteside, who has been sentenced for the "threat" killing of his wife and once was classed as "incorrigible," finds solace during his loneliest hours in the experiences of O. Henry, the Texan who as William Sidney Porter, was at one time a jail inmate, and the greater writers of the more distant past who served sentences.

"It's so hard to do anything in stir—I can't put it on paper, the atmosphere is so terrible," Whiteside wrote once. "Stop and think—O. Henry, Cervantes, and all the rest of the glorified excons made good 'after' their release. A man gets plenty of experiences in here, but it's hard to click. Bunyan did it, but he had religion. As for me, I've been roasting on the spot for years and there aren't many angels, I find, who'll moisten your tongue with kindness."

Shortly after he was "sent up" Whiteside was transferred to Eastham Farm—the Texas "Alcatraz" reserved for incorrigibles from all units of the prison system.

He was sent there because prison officials learned he was "biking" fellow prisoners by selling jobs and overtime, and that he was practicing other schemes to make money.

Whiteside then first attempted to commit suicide by slashing his throat with the edge of a piece of glass jar.

The baffled prisoner then learned that illiterate prisoners would pay him 15 cents each for letters he could write for them. In one instance, he wrote 150 letters for an old inmate, to be mailed at weekly intervals. The letters were addressed to the man's daughter, and were so worded that, as the daughter grew older, she finally would understand the disappearance of her father.

Whiteside next submitted an essay which won a third prize offered by the National Prison Congress. That award brought Whiteside's literary efforts to the attention of Prison System Manager O. J. S. Ellington, who thought the prisoner should be encouraged in his craft.

Whiteside was transferred to Harlem Prison Farm at Sugarland, where he was assigned as a teacher and told he could use his spare time for writing. He wrote for the Prison Echo, publication of the prison system, and, with the aid of prison printshop Supt. S. H. Barnett, wrote a story entitled "One Minute to Midnight," which he sold to a syndicate. The theme of the short story was defeat of the criminal.

Within a short time, he also sold two more stories to that syndicate, two to another syndicate, and an editorial, "Segregation Must Begin in Jail," to a detective story magazine.

Whiteside had gained an amount of recognition, and one magazine

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

CHICKEN in the skillet brings a sigh of sweet content. In fact, it's one of our most popular folk songs.

Fried Chicken With Cream Gravy (Serves 4)

One 3-pound frying chicken, 3 cups milk, 1-2 clove garlic, 3 sprigs parsley, 2 tablespoons butter, flour, salt, pepper, cayenne.

Cut chicken into 6 pieces. Singe thoroughly. Cover with milk to which garlic and parsley have been added. Stand for 1-2 hour. Remove and dry on clean towel or kitchen paper. Dust with salt, pepper and a little cayenne. Roll lightly in flour.

Heat butter in large heavy frying pan. Fry chicken until lightly browned on all sides. Then place frying pan in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) and continue to cook until tender, about 1-2 hour more. Turn chicken frequently for even browning.

When done, remove to hot platter. Pour milk into drippings in pan. Stir gently and simmer for about 10 minutes. Pour over chicken. Then the music begins. Just plain fried chicken is also a theme song for content.

STORY
MURDER TO MUSIC BY NARD JONES
COPYRIGHT, 1938 BY A SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRA NORTH—heroine, a girl leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero, newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNE LESTER—Myra's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday, Dombey was found dead in debt. Tait offers to buy out Myra's $1000 share in the band, but Macy refuses. Could it be that he wanted a club over Myra's?

CHAPTER XVI
HAD not the Swingaters been in such a precarious spot, Tait would willingly have paid Leonard Macy $5000 for his interest. But at the moment it was an impossibility; and he had the added feeling that, even if Macy were offered that amount, he would refuse.

Tait wished that he knew more about the circumstances under which the share had been purchased. But the only man who had that information was Harris Rogers, and Tait had no desire to encounter him now.

It was a disconsolate and bewildered Bob Tait who returned to his own room from Leonard Macy's luxurious apartment, the certified check still in his pocket. As he opened the door, he heard his telephone ringing furiously. Tait hurried to take it up.

"Robert Tait?" He did not recognize the voice.

"Yes, this is Tait."

"I have some interesting information about the Ludden Dombey murder."

Tait hesitated. "Why don't you notify Feeley down at police headquarters?"

"I can't do that, for reasons I haven't explained over the telephone."

"Then come up here. I'll be glad to see you."

"I can't do that, either. If you want to hear what I have to say, you'll have to come to my address."

It sounded like a trick, and Tait was instantly aware of it. Yet he couldn't afford to pass up any bet. "All right," he said, "let me have your address. I'll come right over." The man gave an address which Tait recognized as on the very edge of town, in a district once a factory area. "Are you sure of that address?" he asked. "I didn't know there were any residences there."

An unpleasant laugh answered him. "I can't be choosy about where I live. I've got a room on the top floor of what used to be a raincoat factory. Don't come unless you want to. It's all up to you."

"I'll be there."

He replaced the receiver, and stared at the wall. He kept thinking of Harris Rogers and his threat. Then he rushed the notion aside. Perhaps this was the very musician that Dannie Feeley had been hunting for days. It was certainly logical that George K. Weeks had retrogressed from that gray lodging house to a top floor of an abandoned raincoat factory.

Tait went to his bureau, took out a small revolver and slipped it into his pocket. Then he telephoned for a taxi, and went down to the curb to wait for it.

The address puzzled even the taxi driver. "Say, that's a new one on me, brother. Sure you got the right address?"

"I think so. Remember the old Millbay addition, where all those red factory buildings are?"

"Oh . . . yeah, I remember that. There ain't anything doing in that part of town now."

Tait grinned. "There may be tonight. Let's go."

The driver snapped down the metal flag and started the cab. "It's okay with me," he said.

It was a fairly long drive to the Millbay addition, but then began the more tedious job of finding the street and number which Tait had received over the telephone. Finally they found the street, a small dead-end affair. "Well," muttered the driver, "we can't go wrong on a dinky street like this."

"I hope you're right," said Tait. "Isn't that a light on the top floor of that building down there? The fellow I'm to see lives on the top floor of one of these old factory buildings."

"It's either a light or a reflection from the moon." The driver piloted toward the curb. "I'll take a look at the number on the door—if there is one. Twenty-seven Thirty, you said it was."

BEFORE Tait could think to restrain him, the driver had jumped out of the car and into the night. He saw him cross the sidewalk, strike a match on the side of the doorway. The match flared for a scant moment, then went out. Suddenly Tait heard a yell and the sound of a body falling hard to the pavement.

He yanked his revolver from his pocket and started across the sidewalk. As he neared the building he caught the scent of a faint perfume, hauntingly familiar.

"Where are you?" he called to the driver.

There was a groan almost at his feet. Before kneeling down, Tait tried to peer into the darkness of the street. "What's wrong? What happened?"

"Somebody—somebody took a whack at me with a knife," the driver gasped. "It—I saw the flash of it just as I struck the match."

Squatted down beside the wounded man, Tait turned warily on his feet. Gradually his eyes became accustomed to the darkness. He was literally afraid to move, but now he began to see the outlines of the doorway. It was empty. He had seen no one go up or down the street, and they must certainly have gone through that door.

He got up, approached it gingerly. Swiftly he kicked it open with one foot and sprang back, his weapon ready. Nothing opened to his gaze but a dimly lit stairway.

"Listen," Tait turned to the luckless driver. "Are you badly hurt? If I get you to the car can you stand it a while?"

"I think it's my shoulder and arm—but you ain't going in there are you?"

"I want to take a look up that stairway. I'll just be a minute—and then I'll drive you to a hospital pronto."

"You go up that stairway and I'll never get to a hospital, and neither will you. It'll be the morgue."

TAIT got one of the man's arms around his shoulders. "Come on. I'll get you onto the back seat of the cab where you can take it easy."

Against the taximan's feeble protests, Tait managed to get him into the cab. A hurried examination showed that there were two knife slashes, neither very deep. But there was no mistaking that the assailant had meant business. The sudden striking of the match practically in his face, had probably spoiled his lunge.

"Stay back against the cushions. I won't be a minute." Tait went to the doorway again. The stairway was still clear. He could see to the first landing, and a little beyond. But he could not determine the position of the dim light.

Stealthily, his gun ready, he started up the stair. Again, and stronger now, he caught the odor of perfume. Suddenly he remembered that scent. It had been worn by the honey-colored blond who had walked out of the Claremont. He had almost collided with her the night he had gone into the apartment to see if Anne Lester had found Myra. It was an odd scent, one that wouldn't be encountered often. What was it doing here, Bob Tait wondered as he took another cautious step upward.

New Chevrolet Has Aero-Stream Body, Mechanical Change

The major mechanical improvements for 1939 are—the new vacuum gearshift with steering column control, optional on both series at nominal extra cost, and the new perfected Knee-Action riding system on the Master DeLuxe. This improvement includes an entirely new Knee-Action mechanism, triple-tested, precision-built, and tailored as a unit to the car, to assure maximum riding comfort over all roads.

The power plant in both series is the time-proven Chevrolet 85-horsepower high-compression six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, in which refinements introduced in 1938 are continued, and additional refinements resulting in greater economy, durability, and ease of servicing, incorporated for 1939. Improvements have been made in the ignition and oiling systems, the carburetor, the intake manifold thermostatic control, the harmonic balancer, which is now floated in rubber, and the cooling system, which now has a self-adjusting permanently-lubricated ball-bearing water pump. The diaphragm-type Tiptoe-matic Clutch introduced for 1938 is continued with improvements, chief of which is new provision for ventilation.

Outwardly, the new Chevrolet is longer and lower in appearance. This is accomplished by the new design of fenders, wheels, running boards, and hood, as well as by a new window treatment. The lower corners of the latter appear practically square, thus effecting a continuous straight-line appearance at the bottom of the side windows.

The hood extends forward from the fowl in a smooth, unbroken surface, curving down gracefully at the front to meet the new radiator grille. The new construction of the top and side panels, from a single piece of sheet steel, accentuates its clean-cut sleekness.

Automobile Sales Show a Decline

AUSTIN, Tex.—Sales of new automobiles in Texas during September were substantially below those of the preceding month, reflecting the change over from 1938 to 1939 models, according to the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas. There was, moreover, a sharp decline from a year ago, for as

Sign of Cross Is Found In Pompeii

ROME—The centuries-old problem of whether Christianity was ever professed in ancient Pompeii is about to be solved, according to information obtained from high authorities of the management of Ancient Arts and Monuments in Rome. Historians and religious scholars have tried in vain to solve the question whether Christianity, which had already been introduced in Imperial Rome, had reached Pompeii, the city destroyed under mud and ash. The eruption of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A. D. During excavation work in Pompeii recently workmen came across the clear impress of a Christian cross on the corridor of an ancient villa.

Work was interrupted immediately and Prof. Amedeo Maiuri, Superintendent of Ancient Art, was summoned to the scene. Under his personal guidance excavation was continued cautiously until the whole of the wall of the corridor was brought to light. The sign of the cross was unmistakable and distinct.

Maiuri declares that the presence of the cross leaves no doubt that only 79 years after the death of Christ, His gospel was already being preached in Pompeii.

The professor has taken several photographs of the cross. It is believed that he will ask the Vatican to send a representative to the scene of the discovery to assist the investigation.

Research work will be accelerated around the villa in hope that new finds may be unearthed.

Pilot's Widow Is Boosting Flying

By United Press
CLEVELAND, Ohio.—Mrs. Rudy Kling, widow of last year's winner of aviation's classic—the Thompson Trophy race—wants her son to follow in the wings tracks of his father, although the elder Kling died in an air crash. "My son, Robert, wants to be a farmer now. He is only 11, though, and I will get him out of that notion," Mrs. Kling said here. "The Klings will be winning trophies again. You'll see."

Turner was touched when she congratulated him after he won the Thompson trophy this year. She said that by the time her son is old enough to enter air-races, speed planes will be even safer than she believes they are now.

Chemical Science Is Most Important In Next Big War

EL PASO, Texas. — Chemical science will be more important than industrial science in the next great war, Dr. Gerald Wendt, research scientist who is director of science for the New York World Fair, predicted in lectures here.

He claimed that Germany could last four years under siege, and called Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's boast that Germany could stand a siege for 30 years "ninety per cent bluff."

Dr. Wendt pointed out that Germany's manufacture of foodstuffs, clothing and war munitions would be replaced in event of war by a need for natural materials, and that these would last hardly longer than four years.

"Ten per cent of the sugar served in Germany is manufactured from wood, yet Germany has sugar beets and cane," Wendt said, using that as an example. "Why does she preserve her supply and use the synthetic? Because, in war time, the natural materials would be needed."

In the early stages of the next war, he predicted, gas will be used to a great extent, both on armed forces and civilian populations. Then would come incendiary bombs which would "spread fire everywhere so fast that the flames can not be controlled."

"Gas, as a military weapon, never will be used with great success on civilian populations," Dr. Wendt said, declaring that war students estimate a gas attack on New York City by 1,000 planes would result in less than 100 persons being killed by the chemical.

El Paso Suggests Leaving Texas to be Part of New Mexico

EL PASO—A plebiscite among El Pasoans on a proposal to lop

"However," he added, "many times this number of persons would be killed in the ensuing panic. For this reason it is important that men, women and children should study handling of gas equipment and procedure during an attack."

The lecturer said also that wood is so precious it should not be used as fuel, but should be conserved for chemical usage. He also predicted that the day will come when "sunshine will be converted into electricity."

Formal Ermine Has Casual Cut

The contrast between the elegance and formality of the fur of which it is made and the casual lines on which it is cut make this evening wrap one of the loveliest in current collections. Of snowy white Russian ermine, it has squared shoulders, wide sleeves and a small collar. Deia Bacher designed it.

this city off from the rest of Texas and tack it onto New Mexico has been proposed by Edgar D. Park, real estate promoter.

El Paso is too much "southwest" to be a part of the Lone Star state, he contends.

"We speak the language of the 'southwest,' the same language of New Mexico and Arizona," Park asserted. "The rest of Texas doesn't understand that language."

"Besides, El Paso would be much better off as a part of New Mexico. We would then receive national recognition in Washington. As it is now, we not only get little, if any, national recognition, but are scarcely noticed by the rest of Texas."

Park's plan calls for all territory west of a line drawn straight north from a canyon outside the city limits to the New Mexico state line to go to New Mexico. He said he felt confident that New Mexico would be glad to acquire the additional land.

He said that he had engaged an attorney to draft the necessary petitions for the plebiscite.
