ROOSEVELT IS LEADING DAY'S CELEBRATIONS

By United Press

President Roosevelt led the nation today in its 20th anniversary of Armistice Day.

The keynote of addresses throughout the country was national defense. Not since firing ceased on the western front in France, Nov. 11, 1918, has this country been so preparedness conscious.

Wars on two continents, the rise of totalitarian governments and threatened European crisis were factors that led the president to recommend the largest national defense program since the ending of the war.

The major event in the capital was a ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier. At 11 a. m. a bugler sounded taps, signal for activities in the largest cities and smallest towns to halt in a minute of silence in tribute to the war dead.

Mr. Roosevelt then laid a wreath on the tomb. Gen. John J. Pershing urged "prompt and vigorous" strengthening of national defense in an armistice statement. It was his first formal statement since his recent illness.

He warned the world situation "is as menacing and critical as any time in history."

PORT WORTH, Nov. 11.—Patriots protested today their being barred from an American Legion Armistice parade.

The parade stressed preparedness.

New York's New Stage Starlet

Newly risen star in the New York theatrical firmament is Adele Lonemire of New Orleans. Critics acclaimed her "Anna Rutledge" in the current hit, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

By United Press

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester joined the Duke and Duchess of Windsor today, beginning what is expected to be a reconciliation of the royal family.

They arrived by plane on their way home to England after a trip to Africa.

The visit led to rumors the Duchess of Windsor may be given royal status. Since his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson the duke has insisted she be accorded royal status. The government has refused.

In Europe the duke insisted his wife is "her royal highness" and she is so addressed.

The reunion, it is believed, would result in the duke's first visit to England since his abdication. He and his wife may join the royal family at Christmas.

Roosevelt Does Not Envision Any Real Opposition

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt said today he did not envision a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats to oppose him.

Making his first comment since the election, he said he saw in the returns a threat to the continuation of a liberal government.

He said he expected the New York election to come out just the way it did.

On senatorial races, he said he estimated a loss of seven seats, but eight were lost to the Democrats instead.

ALL FRANCE REJOICES IN SALUTE TO PEACE

NO MAN'S LAND NOW HOLDS NO BATTLE SCARS

By United Press

PARIS, Nov. 10.—With torchlight parades at dusk tonight in Paris and all towns and villages throughout the country, France began a program of elaborate ceremonies commemorating the 20th anniversary of the armistice.

Europe's narrow escape from war a month ago over the Sudeten area, gave added importance to the popular celebration of peace which will be climaxed here tomorrow night by the lighting of a symbolic flame at the tomb of the French Unknown Soldier under the Arc de Triomphe.

Tomorrow there will be the traditional annual ceremonies at Rheims, the cleared spot in the forest of Compiègne where the armistice was signed. The national celebration will be climaxed by a review of French troops, at the Arc de Triomphe, when President Albert Lebrun, Premier Edouard Daladier and Generalissimo Maurice Gamelin will take the salute in the presence of the whole government, Parliament, and hundreds of thousands of war veterans and school children.

To celebrate that peace and victory, the government has decreed that three days shall be devoted to ceremonies commemorating the most historic day of the century. In every town and hamlet throughout France, the colonies and mandated territories, local ceremonies will be held tonight with torch parades followed by theatrical and public manifestations.

Elaborated by a specially formed commission under Minister of Pensions Champetier de Ribes, the ceremonies will be the most elaborate in the 20 years of armistice has been celebrated. In the morning symbolic flames sent from every province will be received at the Paris railway stations and conducted with military escorts to the Invalides, where they will be massed until the evening, when the ceremony of relighting the flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier will be held under a flag draped Arc de Triomphe.

As in previous years, the mammoth military parade of the cream of France's fighting forces will be the outstanding public event of tomorrow's ceremonies. Thousands of men who will line all approaches to the Arc and the Champs Elysees with their families will give added thanks on this solemn occasion that peace again can be celebrated.

From his stand built under the arches of the Arc, President Lebrun, surrounded by the highest political and military authorities of the country and the diplomatic corps, representing the French nation, will see the most moving military parade this country has ever witnessed.

The day will close with the annual ceremony of relighting the flame. Instead of being held at dusk as previously, it is being delayed until 11:30 P. M. this year, when the tomb will be flanked by veterans bearing the regimental flags which were carried during the World War.

On the following day a great reception will be held at the City Hall for the provincial and war veterans' delegates who have come to Paris for the ceremonies. This will be attended by high governmental and military personages.

On Sunday, Nov. 13, special prayers will be said in all of the churches for the passing of another year of peace that was so seriously threatened in September. In the provinces ceremonies will be held in the gardens at Versailles and in the evening a great fireworks display will be staged on the Seine.

For the first time in the history of the Armistice the government this year has issued a special stamp to commemorate the date.

Money gathered from their sale and the sale of the traditional French carnation which first were offered to the public on Oct. 9, will help pay for the different public ceremonies.

WILSON'S '14 POINTS' DIM

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—A review of Woodrow Wilson's war-time philosophy on the 20th anniversary of the armistice ending the greatest conflict in history reveals that it has been realized only in a few instances.

The historic "Fourteen Points" laid down by President Wilson in an address to Congress on Jan. 18, 1918, were America's peace terms. Here are the points and the general situation pertinent to them today:

Point 1, which called for "open covenants openly arrived at," had certain invisible antecedents at the Munich conference which rolled back the threat of war in Europe. However, news dispatches and the radio gave the world a play-by-play on diplomatic action which is considered to be without precedent.

Point 2, which called for absolute freedom of the seas in peace as in war, is believed by many observers to have passed the scope of reality in view of new weapons for destruction of commerce and the disposition of mercantile powers to modify the range of their claims of neutral rights.

Point 3, the maximum removal of economic barriers, has a proponent in Secretary of State Cordell Hull, but his fight for internal equality of trading conditions has been challenged.

PROGRAM SETS NEM HIGH FOR ARMISTICE DAY

By HOWARD ETLINGER
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Aid the desolate battlefields of northern France where "cease firing" was sounded on Nov. 11, 1918, a new land has risen in 20 years.

The war left deep craters, a barren and cold as possibly those on the moon. For miles there was not a village, not a tree nor a blade of grass, not even a weed.

Today the pilgrim going through that country, 20 years after, finds a peaceful countryside, fields and forests and small but busy villages. Crops have risen where once there was nothing but shell holes. Pine woods have sprung up in places where nobody thought anything would grow again.

But there are reminders of the war. In every little village there is a monument bearing the names of its war dead, and around everyone of those today there was a ceremony of remembrance. Here and there are war cemeteries, some of them small and marked by graying wooden crosses, others landscaped and more impressive, like the resting places of the Americans at Belleau Wood and Romagne. At all of them thousands flocked to leave flowers today.

Every so often, despite the diligence of the peasants in rebuilding their homes and reclaiming their land from the chaos of barbed wire, shell fragments and human bones, one still finds a small piece of ground so hopelessly torn that nothing could be done with it.

One of the most battered places was the country between Bellcourt and Gouy. There the American 27th division of New York and the 30th division of Carolina and Tennessee, reinforced by Australians, broke through the Hindenburg line in September, 1918.

What they found was almost beyond description. The Germans had destroyed towns and villages in the entire sector around St. Quentin. Trees which still stood after months of shell fire had been sawed down. That place looked like a lunar landscape. It seemed as though life could never come again to a land which had seen horror and desolation worthy of Dante's imagination.

But the peasants began to flock back almost on the last note of that final bugle call.

"The hives were gone but the bees returned," one peasant remarked. "And they set to work as though the hives were still there."

They took shelter in fragments of houses, in dugouts, in tents—anything they could find, and they began to clear the land. One year later they had taken away the shells, leveled the holes, removed the barbed wire and filled the trenches on 120,000 acres of land. They had plowed a third of that area and sown a sixth of it. In two more years 170,000 acres were planted.

Farmhouses sprang up like mushrooms, it seemed. Villages reappeared where nothing had remained to the former inhabitants but feeble memories. Industry came to the town. Roads again appeared where the war had left brown mud, and life began again.

Today it is as normal outwardly as though there had been no war. Only occasionally a farmer will find bones or shell casings turned up by his plow. The bones are always carefully collected and taken to the great ossuary at Douaumont or some other fitting place.

The region about Verdun was the same as the country on the Hindenburg line. Vegetation was blasted and trampled away, and roads disappeared. The land resembled a desert without the smoothness of the sand in the first years after the war. But there, too, the farmers came back. Farmhouses sprang up, crops grew where men had fought in the most costly battles of the war.

Where thousands had lost their lives there are fields and clumps of trees today. Roads cut across once barren stretches, and villages have again grown up in what was no man's land.

Oil Market View Of Area Appears To Be Improved

By United Press

An improved market condition for the West Central Texas oil business is noticeable in monthly statistical reports of the Texas railroad commission.

During the month the 16-county district gained 99 new oil wells and produced 1,133,841 barrels of oil.

Reallocation of allowables and the Saturday and Sunday shutdowns brought the percentage of crude underproduction down to 2.53 per cent from the previous month's figure of 10.70 per cent. Underproduction is the actual reported crude runs in comparison to the allowance.

Storage during the period decreased 11,849 barrels, from 241,400 barrels in August to 229,551 barrels closing stocks on hand at the end of September.

Pipeline runs also decreased 93,475 barrels, from 1,194,997 in August to 1,101,522 barrels during September.

Number of operators reporting to the commission increased from 725 to 727.

Freight Rates Are Holding the South Back, Council Told

By United Press

HOUSTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt's business advisers council was told today southern industry needs organization of rail rate differentials with the north and east, if it is to survive.

F. M. Law, Houston banker, admitted to the group of industrialists headed by Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper, that the south is the nation's first economic problem.

The present situation in the south, he said, is the result of unfair rates and of high tariff walls on southern products.

Previously the foreign trade problems and effects of the wages-hours act on the textile industry was discussed.

Texas RFC Plan Being Worked Out By Party Leaders

By United Press

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 11.—A Texas corporation, patterned after the RFC, was planned here today by Governor-elect W. Lee O'Daniel to help finance new industries in the state.

The agency is needed, O'Daniel said, because Texas financiers have not supplied money for new industries.

He conferred with M. W. Masie, chairman of the Texas Planning Board, on the organization. It would be capitalized at $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, to be supplied by the state and through the sale of stock to private investors.

Election Showdown May Come Quickly

By United Press

They may consider what attitude left wingers should take if President Roosevelt seeks a third term.

EUROPE'S PLAN FOR PEACE IS NOW UNSTABLE

By United Press

Europe's search for stable peace faced new difficulties as a result of a rising tide of anti-semitism on this 20th anniversary of the end of the World War.

Great Britain found, the outlook less encouraging as London newspapers denounced Nazi attacks on Jews and the government made representations to Berlin.

In Roumania and Poland the plight of Jews became more desperate after Nazi bands avenged the assassination of a Reich diplomat in Paris by smashing Jewish stores, burning synagogues and imprisoning thousands.

The Nazi government warned it would find a "final solution" of the Jewish problem and experts were at work on new laws to re-establish the ghetto conditions of the dark ages.

The official viewpoint was explained by propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels. The outbreak of violence was not inspired by the government or organized by Nazis, Goebbels said.

He said if Jews living in other countries want to help their brothers in Germany, they had "better not work against Germany."

Crowds in London watched the king and queen place wreaths on the World War cenotaph on Armistice Day, broke precedent when they cheered the prime minister. But the British press was hurried by developments in Germany.

Elsewhere: Italy—The Vatican was expected to protest the fascist racial program.

France—Half a million war veterans and government leaders observed Armistice Day in a ceremony at the Arc de Triomphe, while strong guard detachments were mobilized as a precaution after communists charged a rightist coup was planned.

EARTHQUAKE IS FELT OVER A WIDE SECTOR

By United Press

One of the severest earthquakes ever recorded was traced today to a center in or near the Aleutian Islands, west of Alaska.

Residents on the Aleutian chain reported a quake, but it was not felt at Fairbanks.

It was definite enough to cause a tidal reaction in the Philippines and was recorded thousands of miles away.

Rumors of disaster swept the Hawaiian Islands and newspapers were besieged with calls from residents.

Civil and military authorities aided in calming the people. When the "tidal wave" finally arrived, many had gathered on the beaches to see it. The change in size of the waves was hardly noticed.

Oil Leaders Talk of Objectives for 1939

Racial Origins Must Be Forgotten in America

If Americans were shocked and saddened by the dissection of Czechoslovakia, they ought to be almighty careful not to let the principle on which that dissection was based become established in their own land.

The principle is simple. It is that the ties of "race" are both permanent and all-important; that a man is, for all time, what his ancestors were, no matter where he may go or what he may do, and that no right of society or claim of economics can prevail against that racial tie.

That is about as dangerous a piece of dynamite as could well be introduced into American life. For if there is one spot on earth where the whole structure of society rests on the exact opposite of that theory, the United States is it.

So it is extremely discouraging to read of the little brush which Gov. Lehman of New York has been having with the Ukrainians of that state.

The Ukrainian-American Democratic Club recently bolted the state ticket—on the ground that although the Ukrainians cast 125,000 votes in New York elections, only five persons of Ukrainian extraction hold political office. The president of the organization declared that in addition to patronage his people want representation in party councils in proportion to their voting strength.

Now it is no great jump from that position of the Sudeten Germans in Mr. Benes' Czechoslovakia. The original complaint of the Sudetens—that they were not given state offices in proportion to their strength—is almost precisely like this complaint. And although it is a little hard to imagine Messrs. Hitler and Chamberlain hot-footing it across the Atlantic to see that the downtrodden Ukrainians get justice from brutal Uncle Sam, the parallel is an ominous thing just the same.

That insistence on the importance of racial origins wrecked Czechoslovakia. It could wreck America just as neatly, if it were carried far enough. And before it is carried any farther, all who believe that the unity of the nation is worth saving ought to express themselves in unmistakable terms.

We have in America people from every nation on earth. The only possible way for us even to come close to order and progress is to insist that our diverse racial origins are of no importance whatever. They may have a sentimental meaning, to be sure—but absolutely nothing beyond that.

That is a lesson that we thought we had learned a century ago. Apparently it needs to be learned again. For this emphasis on the importance of race is the subtlest and most dangerous thing that could possibly arise in American life. Unless it is stamped out we are in for the worst kind of trouble.

NEA wire reports from the North Pole state that Santa Claus and his wife have begun making their Christmas fruit cakes. Wise fruit-cakers invariably bake well in advance. They know that Christmas cakes, like friendships, grow better with aging.

For many years, Lucy Malby of Corning, N. Y., has perfected a new and better recipe for me to pass on to readers. And every year, readers write saying Miss Malby certainly knows her fruit cake. Now it is time for Christmas baking again and our old friend Lucy is ready for us.

Casserole Fruit Cake
 (Makes two Fruit Cakes, 2 1-2 pounds each. Each cake fits a 1-2 quart casserole)

One and one-half cups seedless raisins, 1-2 cup seeded raisins, 1-2 cup cut preserved orange peel, 1-4 cup cut preserved lemon peel, 3-4 cup sliced candied cherries, 1 cup sliced citron, 1 cup broken walnut meats, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons nutmeg, 1-3 teaspoon black pepper, 1 cup butter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 4 eggs, 1-2 cup light molasses, 1-4 cup fruit juice, 2 teaspoons vanilla extract or rum flavoring, 3 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon salt.

TOPPING: One-half cup seedless raisins, 1-2 cup broken walnut meats, 1-2 cup almonds, 1-2 cup finely cut citron, 1-4 cup sliced candied cherries, 3 tablespoons honey, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon fruit juice.

Rinse raisins in hot water, drain and dry on a towel. Slice seeded ones. Rinse peels and fruits, drain and dry on a towel before cutting. Combine fruits, peels, nuts and spices, blend. Cream butter, add sugar and cream thoroughly. Add beaten eggs and mix. Add molasses, fruit juice and flavoring, and mix. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt and beat. Add fruit and nut mixture and beat until well blended. Pour into two greased 1-2 quart heat resistant glass casseroles. Top with blended topping ingredients, part of which may be worked into a design on the top of the cake. Cover and bake in a slow oven (250 deg. to 275 deg. F.) for about 2 1-2 hours. Test for doneness before removing from oven. Baked weight about five pounds for the two cakes.

CLEVELAND, O.—Almost any virtue, state of mind, or animal may be found in the names of Ohio towns.

Everything assumedly always in O. K. in one small village in Lawrence county—for Okey is the name of the town wherein dwell 25 supposedly optimistic people.

Twenty persons live in Purity, located in Licking county, but only 10 consider living in Honesty to be the best policy. The latter, incidentally, is in Noble county.

The natives of Harmony, their harmonious existence in Clark county, near Springfield.

Other virtues represented by towns are Charm, in Holmes county, with 90 inhabitants; Amity, in Knox county; Freedom, in Portage county; Friendship, which boasts a population of 500; Enterprise, with 125 inhabitants, and Independence, Fidelity, Tranquility, Aid, Hope, Pride, and Joy.

Enough animals to fill a good-sized zoo are represented by Ohio towns. Some are: Fox, nesting in Pickaway county, with 30 percent Bantam, crowing over its 150 residents in Clermont county; Racoon, with only 11 inhabitants, and Wolf, in Tuscarawas county with a population of 75.

Then there are the towns of Wren, Lynx, Hawk, Lyons, Buffalo and St. Bernard.

Many early settlers, in casting about for a name, evidently consulted the only book they had—the Bible.

On Ohio's map may be found Antioch, Canaan, Damascus, Babylon, Lebanon, Jerusalem, Bethesda, Mt. Carmel, Mt. Gillead, Mt. Olive, Mt. Orab, and Mesopotamia.

And Ohio reverses "Lawrence of Arabia," and makes it Arabia of Lawrence county.

Many towns are named after girls. There are Alma, Ada, Amelia, Anna, Flora, Laura, Lena, Magnolia, Naomi, Nellie, Olive and Pearl.

One community of 40 in Belmont county named itself in more prosperous days. They called it Businessburg, and, economic conditions to the contrary, haven't changed it.

Franz von Papen, former chancellor of Germany, has announced his retirement from public life. Two of his secretaries were killed in recent Nazi purges. Franz can take a hint.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO US?

WORLD DOMINATED MORE THAN EVER BY FORCE IN 20 YEARS SINCE ARMISTICE

BY WILLIS THORNTON
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent

TWENTY years ago a weary, bloody world was staggering to the close of four years of World War.

People were told it was the end of an era, the beginning of a Brave New World.

And it was the end of an era. But the new era that began then was not the world visioned by the muddy, bloody men in the trenches.

Three million victims of 20 wars rot in their graves since the War to End War!

The League of Nations, which was to bring a new world order of reason and peace, drifts like a leaky and abandoned ship. Democracy is on the defensive in a world which was never less safe for it.

Everywhere the haunting fear of insecurity sends men swarming after strange causes, economic and political. Children born since 1918 have never known, may never know, the independence of Americans who used to say "Shucks! I can get a job anywhere!"

Force has become the prime criterion, and might makes right in international affairs. In personal affairs, the idea that the end justifies the means is more and more generally accepted.

IF THE DEAD COULD LIVE—

NEVERTHELESS, in the 20 years since "Cease Firing" sounded across Flanders fields, a new world has arisen. Every country in the world would already seem a strange land to a man who died in that war, if he could come back and see it.

In 20 years, the population of nearly every country in the world has increased by millions. What

There are more old people, fewer young people. Before the World War there were about 4,000,000 Americans over 65 years old. In 1936 there were 7,500,000, and by 1960 it is expected there will be 15,000,000.

Great strides made in public health and disease prevention are partly responsible. Despite depression years, the people are healthier this year than at any time in history. Unless an unforeseen epidemic comes, 1938 will show the lowest death rate ever known, below the 1937 rate which was only 11 for every 1,000 persons. Influenza, pneumonia, auto-traffic deaths and the social disasters are being successfully attacked.

The rush of people from farms to the cities has practically reversed itself in the United States. By 1935, for instance, 2,500,000 more people were farmers than in 1930. The growth of great cities formerly taken as inevitable, has been checked. Faster transportation is causing such cities to spread out and spill over into suburbs and rural sections. The era of the great skyscrapers came to its peak, and many believe it has passed.

WAR SCARS REMAINED

BUT more important, the country has "grown up" mentally. People are braver and hard instead of mellow and sentimental. This course is traced by the transit from the Hesitation Waltz to the Shag, from May Irwin to Dwight Fiske, from "Way Down East" to "It Happened One Night," from Romberg to Germain, from Puck to Ballyhoo, from O. Henry to Ernest Hemingway.

The war left spiritual scars unhealed long after the physical wounds had knit. A great moral letdown swept across the world in the United States it became apparent in the scandals of the Harding administration. It was seen in 10 years of prohibition and the violent corruption and cynical law avoidance. The racket era sprung from this root. It was seen in the Ku Klux Klan's bid for a secret, unofficial, terrorist government. It flowered in the lax financial morals of the boom era. And its fruit was harvested in the increasingly bitter class conflicts that came with the depression.

The day before Woodrow Wilson was to go before Congress in 1917 and ask that it declare a state of war with Germany, he talked long and earnestly with Frank Cobb, editorial writer for the New York World.

In the agony of his decision, Wilson said these words, reported later by Cobb:

"Once led this people into war and they'll forget there ever was such a thing as tolerance. To fight, you must be brutal and ruthless, and the spirit of ruthless brutality will enter into the very fiber of our national life, infecting Congress, the courts, the policeman of the beat, the man in the street."

The thing Wilson foresaw even as he made his decision for war has happened, not only to his own country, but to the world.

Bible Class Has a Good Attendance At Supper Thurs.

A good attendance was noted at the chili supper of the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church, held Thursday night, to which all members of the class and guests were invited. C. E. Fraet, president of the class, was toastmaster at the informal dinner, with 65 being present. Rev. McLeary, who has conducted revival services in Flagler, was the principal speaker of the evening, and presented an interesting talk.

Twenty years is a long time. A very long time. It is long enough to forget the names of childhood friends... to forget once-familiar faces. But it is not a long enough time to forget the sacrifices of Our Boys. That memory is eternal.

Plans Abandoned For Returning Body Of An Archeologist

By United Press
SANTA FE, N. M.—Plans have been abandoned for returning the remains of Adolf F. Bandelier, archeologist and historian, from Spain for reburial in the Bandelier National Monument near here. Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, president of the School of American Research and director of the Museum of New Mexico, said in announcing abandonment of the plan that the crypt in the Seville, Spain, Cathedral where the famous American ethnologist was buried in 1914 had been purchased in perpetuity and that the remains would be left there.

A group of American scientists bought the crypt through cooperative action. Previously, the group had considered the possibility of reinterment at the Bandelier Monument, named for Bandelier. He had carried on extensive archeological research there in the ruins of an ancient Indian civilization.

The plan for returning the scientist's remains was included in tentative arrangements for nationwide observance of the Bandelier centennial in 1940.

Bandelier has been described as one of the greatest American scholars and scientists, and one of the least known. His research work was sponsored by Peabody Institute of Harvard University, Carnegie Institute, and the American Museum of Natural History. He died while investigating colonial documents in Spain. A permanent plaque has been placed on the Seville crypt. It reads: "Adolf F. Bandelier, archeologist, architect, historian. Born in Bern, Switzerland, August 6, 1840. Died in Seville, Spain."

20 YEARS AGO!

Peace was declared by the nations of the earth... and what a day of rejoicing and happiness... not only at the "front," but in the homes of millions everywhere. Again today we rededicate our lives to the principles of peace... toward all mankind.

In humble silence, let each of us pay tribute to this great day and all that it means the world over.

Texas Prison And Ten Farms Make Up Huge System

By United Press
HUNTSVILLE, Tex.—The Texas Prison System, housing 7,000 prisoners, consists of the Central Prison at Huntsville and ten "farms" embracing 62,454 acres of land.

The farms range from West Texas prairielands to the rich, blackland fields that have been reclaimed from a dense jungle surrounding Eastham Farm, where 656 "incorrigibles" are kept.

Eastham Farm, comprising 17,311 acres of river bottomland and pasture in Houston County, near Crockett, has been called the "Alcatraz of Texas," not because of the few escapes but because of the type of prisoners held there.

Eastham Farm is divided into three separate camps, with reinforced concrete barracks at Camp No. 1 for the most dangerous convicts, and wooden structures at Camps No. 2 and 3. Camps 1 and 3 are known as the Ferguson Farm, and they house prisoners over 25 years of age. The younger convicts are sent to Camp No. 2.

Eastham, where prisoners say they "go crazy because of the solitude" has been the scene of frequent escapes. The late Clyde Harrow delivered Raymond Hamilton and a half-dozen other prisoners from that farm several years ago in one of the most daring breaks on record.

The farm is on the Trinity River, surrounded by thousands of acres of dense forest and underbrush. Few prisoners make their way through that jungle. If they cannot steal or commandeer an automobile on one of the two highways that traverse the area they soon are tracked down by dogs and possums.

The casualty toll from Eastham breaks has run high. Many prisoners have been killed in attempting to escape, and a number of guards have been killed and wounded. Several prisoners have been drowned in Trinity River.

The Central Prison at Huntsville, which serves as receiving unit, houses an average of 1,500 convicts, including Whites, Negroes and Mexicans. The central unit is composed of three main buildings, a brick and concrete coal house for regular prisoners, a reinforced concrete hospital, and a trusty building of wood and corrugated iron. All of these are inside the walls. Outside are several industrial buildings where prison clothes, license tags for Texas automobiles and other commodities are manufactured. The Administration Building is also outside the prison walls.

The Central State Farm at Sugarland included 5,203 acres of farmland and a brick building for farm industries. The 300 inmates are housed at two camps, one for Whites and the other for Negroes. Only prisoners who can be rehabilitated easily are received at the Central Farm.

Harrison Farm at Richmond also receives first offenders with good prospects for rehabilitation. More than 517 young prisoners work its 5,675 acres.

Retrieve Farm at Srippe houses 450 prisoners in a single reinforced block building. All are White prisoners who have served one or more previous terms but who have some prospects of rehabilitation. As they prove to prison officials their willingness to cooperate with them, the Retrieve prisoners are advanced to the Harrison unit, then to the Central Prison at Huntsville, where they are taught a trade in the industrial shops.

Clemmons Farm, of 8,000 acres of land at Brazoria, is divided into three camps, all for Negroes

Medical Insurance Plan Sponsored

By United Press
DALLAS, Tex.—This medical insurance program being sponsored by the Farm Security Administration will eventually benefit more than 20,000 farm families in Texas. C. M. Evans, regional director of the FSA, said today.

"There has long been a need for a low-cost medical aid program on farms throughout the state," Evans said, "and now I believe we have the answer. A large part of the farmers in Texas have hardly enough money to live on, to say nothing of the money to pay for medical attention because they don't have the money to pay a physician."

Organization for medical insurance have been set up so far in three counties—Hamilton, Falls and Limestone.

Three types of insurance are provided under the FSA program. The lowest priced plan starts at $8 a year, plus $1 extra for each member of the family. It provides for medical attention at either the home or the office of the physician.

The next higher price is $13 a year. This plan gives the patient the benefit of medical attention, plus all drugs prescribed, and certain minor and emergency major operations.

For $21 a year a family can obtain all needed care, including hospitalization.

All physicians in county medical societies are eligible to cooperate with the program, and patients may designate the doctors they desire.

Sports Editor, NEA Service

BOB ZUPPKE of Illinois long has contended that a first class college football team could beat the average professional club, and I am inclined to agree.

Certainly the current Pittsburgh, California, Texas Christian, Santa Clara, Dartmouth, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Fordham, Oklahoma, Villanova, and Cornell varsities could make things interesting for the newly organized Cleveland Spias, who in their last three starts belted the mighty Detroit Lions and twice repelled the affluent Chicago Bears to become the talk of the National League.

The average college senior is 22 and has had seven or more seasons of wearing warfare. College players are supposed to be at their peak in their final campaign, yet many are more formidable as juniors.

The general who said: "Give me the young soldier" had something in the way of an argument. Hired hands prepare and practice, but seldom match collegians in condition and hardly ever in mental attitude.

COLLEGIANS are better organized and respond to coaching more readily.

The professional game has improved, but the old college try-aways will be lacking. The paid ball-carrier is ably escorted through the line all right, but you seldom see much downfield blocking. That doesn't appear to be in the contracts, and a game is just another afternoon's work to the run-of-mine professional.

Long before the compensation became important enough to interest the talent, two Pacific-coast athletic clubs . . . the Olympic of San Francisco and the Multnomah of Portland . . . had teams. It was quite an honor for a college star to make one of them, and those who were not entirely fed up with combat came from far and near.

These teams were superior to most professional outfits of today, and played complete schedules of college competition.

The results then were just what they would be today, in my opinion. The more powerful college combinations whipped them.

JIMMY CROWLEY and Don Miller of Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen of 1924 rate the present Pittsburgh backs . . . Goldberg, Stebbins, Chickerno, and Cassiano . . . ahead of any professional set. And I doubt that there is a money line of greater capabilities than that of the Parthians . . . Daddio, Merkovsky, Lezowski, Dannies, Petro, Raskowski and Hoffman.

Could the professionals improve a player like Marshall Goldberg who Dr. Jock Sutherland considers the finest fullback in Pittsburgh history . . . a better blocker and faker than he was an All-America runner at left half?

The answer is "no."

Marshall Goldberg probably will not play professionally, but if he did he wouldn't be the vicious ground gainer and convoy that he has been throughout his three falls of college ball.

The incentive wouldn't be there. Professional football never will have a spur anywhere near as effective as a college cheering section.

Time Upholds a Test of True Love

By United Press

SEATTLE, Wash.—After seven years of happy married life, Seattle's "love exiles" held a birthday party for their 7-year-old son and said they're glad they passed the "love test."

In 1931 James Tully and Dorothy Polet went to the courthouse for a marriage license—the bride-to-be's father, Louis Polet, was waiting there.

"Nothing doing," Polet said firmly. "Dorothy cannot get married."

After much pleading by Tully and Dorothy, Polet decided on the "love test." He placed his daughter on an island where Tully couldn't find her and told the couple, "Wait a month. If you still want to get married, I will give the wedding myself."

When Dorothy returned, she said, "I still love Dorothy."

True to his promise, Dorothy's father gave the wedding.

The young couple now have one son, Louis James Tully—named after his mother's father and his own father.

Tully says he's on fine terms with his father-in-law. The answer to getting along with your father-in-law, he jokingly says, is to name your first son after him.

And after seven years Tully and his wife are agreed that there's nothing like marriage.

HELP! New Deal About Got Us

Brethren: Since the New Deal has ruled that newspapers are under the Wage and Hour Law, it becomes necessary that we work only 44 hours per week in the composing room. This means that Whitey and Joe are going to do their best to keep out of jail and get all advertising copy to the printers on the afternoon of the day before the advertisements are to run in the "Great Headlight."

So please, all advertisers and would-be advertisers, help us by giving us your copy on the day before the ad is to appear. You know, it would not be right for us to go to jail! Or would it?

In all seriousness, we have a problem and are asking each business man who handles the advertising for his business to please work with us so that we can keep the letter of the law as well as give you the cooperation needed to get your message out to the public on schedule. Thanks a lot!

SERIAL STORY LOVERS AWEIGH

BY BETTY WALLACE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY ALCOFF—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.

CHAPTER V
SHE got into her car, and drove to the Coronado Hotel. She asked at the desk for Miss Hastings, and was told that her suite was on the fifth floor.

You've just gotten in. You want to be with him. You feel as though he could have managed to stay with you. But I know better. In the Navy, no one counts.

IT HADN'T been a matter of national emergency that night the Enterprise steamed out to sea, either. Just a routine flight. But Bill Bell had gone, and Diane had not.

"Dwight telephoned me," Judy said, walking to a soft chair and sitting down. Marvel moved across the room, took the bench before the vanity table.

living sound. "You'd do it for any officer you knew who asked you. Couldn't you? Explain to his poor little unversed wife the fine old traditions of the Navy.

MARVEL said, "You can run away, if you like, but that doesn't change anything! I'm leaving not so much because he was ordered to sea, but because from the moment I stepped off that airplane I knew the truth!

Judy said tightly, "I'm sorry you've insulted me, Miss Hastings, but I quite understand. As for being in love with me—it is you, Dwight is engaged to marry, not me!"

Ohioan Begins Life Meetings Planned At Ripe Old Age At Calvary Church

JUSTUS, O.—David T. Evans, 80-year-old school custodian who keeps house, cooks for himself and his two disabled sons, and sings in the choir, believes that life begins at 80. "I feel a sight livelier than I did back in 1913, when I quit coal-mining because I couldn't digest the dust," he said, chuckling, as he dried the dinner dishes. "I guess the reason I feel so good is because I live right."

Evans, lean and leathery, has been working hard for 70 years—having started at 10 in the coal mines of South Wales.

Besides doing all the maintenance work in Justus grade school, he finds time to tend his own vegetable garden, keep house, and sing in the Justus-Paceon Run Glee club.

"In the wintertime I'm busy from 6 in the morning to 10 at night," he said. "And I don't waste any of my time drinking or smoking. There's no sense in burning your money and then blowing the smoke through your nose."

Evans has been singing with musical organizations since he came here from Wales 52 years ago, and is the oldest member of the choir.

He attends all the local baseball games and some of the football games. "When Brewster played Navarre, I just about cheered myself hoarse," the old man said. "Did you see that game? My great grandson, Billy Niedenthal, threw that 42-yard pass that won the game."

Evans has six sons, two daughters, 19 grandchildren, and 27 great-grandchildren.

Saturday to Bring Another Big Crowd

Just a Bit Personal . . .

Mrs. N. J. Novakovich was in Eastland Wednesday on business.

Mrs. Roy Jones of Austin has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Neal, since Sunday. Mr. Jones arrived here last night to join her in her visit here until Sunday afternoon, when they will return to Austin.

Mrs. E. E. Crawford, who has been confined to her home most of the time for the past several months, has been able to get out some recently.

Saturday will see another large crowd in Ranger, attending the Trades Day and making their usual weekly purchases from the large stocks of merchandise found on the shelves of Ranger merchants.

In today's issue of the Times are advertisements from the merchants and business men of the city offering their services and wares to the people of the trade territory. This merchandise is sold at prices in keeping with competition found anywhere in the Old Belt.

The grocers, dry goods merchants, filling station operators and all others invite the people to come to Ranger for their needs. Remember that every Saturday in Ranger is Trades Day and that all merchants are cooperating in the event.

In Europe's No Man's Land

Eyes dull with despair, this Sudeten Jewish mother and daughter huddle on the cold ground of a refugee camp in the no-man's-land between German Sudetenland and Czechoslovakia. Like hundreds of other Jews, they were forced from their Sudetenland home after Germany took the area, and refused entry into Czechoslovakia. They live by the roadside, penniless and hungry, scurrying in the fields for potatoes overlooked by harvesters. Their only shelter is a tarpaulin given by a sympathetic frontier guard.

Italy Becomes An Accordion Land

By United Press

ROME.—Italy, which centuries ago established an enviable reputation as a manufacturer of violins and other musical instruments, today is the leading producer of accordions.

During 1937, Italy exported 73,927 such instruments for a total value of more than $2,500,000. This represents an increase of 256 per cent over the 1931-33 average and 153 per cent over 1934, when 29,222 were exported. Exports represent 95 per cent of the entire Italian industry. This also explains the huge increase in production in the last few years.

As long as the industry depended on home consumption, production was of little consequence. As soon as it found new outlets due largely to Italian emigrants, the local industry had to increase its productive capacity to meet the larger export demand.

The Italian accordion industry employs some 4,500 workers, distributed among 70 business firms and a like number of craftsmen's workshops. It is carried on almost exclusively in the Marches and in the provinces of Pavia and Vercegli.

It was in the Marches that this musical instrument was first created. The precise date is not known but it appears that toward the second half of the last century, some peasants opened the first workshops for the production of accordions at Recanati.

The manufacture of accordions falls into two divisions. One specializes in making the instruments themselves and the other in making the "free reeds," consisting of little metallic plates on which a steel tongue is riveted. When made to vibrate by the wind furnished through the bellows, it produces the note.
