WESTERNER IS LIKELY TO BE HIGH JUSTICE

By United Press
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Administration and congressional factors today expected President Roosevelt to appoint a westerner to fill the supreme court seat vacated by Justice Louis Brandeis. There was no hint of white house news.

Increasing the likelihood that a westerner would now be named to the court was the fact that only one member, Pierce Butler, Minnesota, comes from west of the Mississippi river.

Brandeis' retirement came only after the court, through Mr. Roosevelt's appointments, had achieved a liberal majority, in contrast to a conservative majority, during the last administration.

His action was taken under law permitting supreme court justices to retire on full pay after they reach 70 years of age and have served 10 years.

PROJECTS FOR C. OF C. TALKED AT A MEETING

Reports of committees and plans for several projects were taken up at the meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce Monday night, after K. E. Ambrose, president, had named the standing committees for the year.

Reports received included one from the highway committee, which reported work done in the past few weeks, and outlined plans for having signs placed at road intersections in this part of the country, pointing the way to Ranger.

A report was also received that 180 tons of No. 3 peanuts, stored in the Ranger bonded warehouse, had been sold, and that the No. 1 and No. 2 peanuts still remained in storage.

Plans for an annual banquet were not discussed, as this matter was passed over until the next meeting of the board.

There was some discussion of regulations to control fly-by-night advertising promoters, and the entire board seemed to be in favor of some such action. No action was taken until the matter could be given more thought and plans outlined.

The president and secretary were asked to go before the Ranger City Commission to see if a sidewalk could not be built from Main street to the Hodges Oak Park school. Sidewalks have been built from the top of Eastland Hill to Main street, and only a two-block gap remains between this sidewalk and the school.

There was considerable discussion on a plan to move the derrick across the railroad tracks from its present location, to the intersection of Main Street and Highway 80. A committee composed of Lloyd Bruce, A. N. Larson, B. E. Garner and Lee Dockery was appointed to take the matter up with the city commission and see if some plan could be worked out for this project.

Those present at the meeting were K. E. Ambrose, C. D. Woods, Dr. Ross Hodges, Lee Dockery, L. R. Pearson, B. E. Garner, R. S. Balch and C. D. Chaastain.

TEXAS RANGES ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

By United Press
 AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—General rains in January brought slight improvement in the condition of Texas cattle, sheep and goats and the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported today.

Good surface moisture resulted in the prospect, on Feb. 1, that grazing would be good, the bureau reported. General range conditions were 74 per cent normal, a two per cent increase during the month.

Cattle, sheep and goats were 77 per cent normal condition, a fractional decrease for the month.

Truckers Find Way To Beat Load Limit

By United Press
 EDINBURG, Tex.—Truckers have devised a new method of evading arrest for overloading in violation of the Texas 7,000-pound cargo limit law.

Junnie Williams of Fort Worth appeared voluntarily before Justice of the Peace J. L. Ramsour and admitted overloading his truck, paid a $1 fine and $9 costs.

Williams then produced an inspection obtained in the Limestone district court, forbidding his truck. He said he was hauling 4,000 pounds of citrus fruit and had paid one other similar fine in his trip.

O. S. Hurley, Dallas trucker, used the same technique. He also paid a fine and continued his trip unmolested.

ARMS PARLEY IS DEMANDED BY SEN. KING

By United Press
 WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Sen. William H. King, Democrat, Utah, today took issue with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and said the hour was at hand for the United States to call a disarmament conference.

He believed that almost all nations, except Germany, Italy and Japan, would accept invitations, and that those three could be brought into the conference later.

Hull, last night, re-stated his position that international conditions make this an inopportune time to attempt disarmament. He did so in a letter to Rep. Louis Ludlow, Democrat, Indiana, who had urged such a conference.

Sen. King has introduced a resolution which would authorize the president to summon the powers to Washington for discussion of disarmament.

Ranger College Cagers Get New Satin Uniforms

When the Ranger Junior College basketball team takes the court tonight to play Hillsboro Junior College, it will probably be the best dressed basketball team in the state, according to coach H. G. Jennings.

New suits arrived today for 10 players, including warmup suits and playing uniforms.

The warmup jackets are of heavy jersey satin, with white and purple trim around the shoulders, with the word "Rangers" in white on the back. The warmup pants are of heavy purple satin, with a white satin strip down each leg.

The playing suits consist of white silk and wool jerseys, with six-inch numerals in purple, both back and front. The trunks are of white jersey satin, with purple numerals on the left leg with purple piping as trimmings.

The team is probably one of the most improved in this part of the state, starting off without expense and rounding into a snappy basketball team that plays well in all its games.

United Front Of Republicans Seen For 1940 Election

By United Press
 NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The Republican party presented to the nation today, what its leaders said was a "united front" infused with "a great spirit of fight for 1940."

The leaders looked back on last night's Lincoln Day celebration there, one of the largest and most militant gatherings of republicans in several years, and predicted a return to power in the next presidential election, after eight lean years.

Former President Herbert Hoover was the keynote speaker of the six-hour "victory through unity party", last night.

Baptist Banquet Draws Big Crowd

A hundred men of the First Baptist church with some friends enjoyed a most delightful hour of fun, food and fellowship. Oysters and chills with all the trimmings were served by the W. M. U. of the church.

Miss Rose Mary Bruce entertained with several numbers on the violin. Mrs. Mamie Ruth Hamrick presented a sextet, composed of seven girls, Lillian Ruth Carter, Glenda Mae Morris, Mildred Balch, Frances Gholson, Dorothea Jean Williams, Billy Jean Gorman, Meta Ann Scott, who sang several numbers that were greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

At the close of the dinner, the Men's Brotherhood of the Church was organized. Dr. C. L. Jackson was elected president, T. J. Anderson, vice president and E. T. Eubank, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Thos. Taylor, president of Howard Payne college, Brownwood, delivered the main address. He kept the crowd in a constant uproar of laughter with his witty, timely yet instructive remarks concerning the place and value of the church in the community.

The meeting adjourned to meet again the second Monday in March.

Rotarians From Four Towns Hear Dr. Charles Barker at Eastland

Co-operation and friendship are two of the greatest bi-products of Rotary club work. Dr. Charles Barker, a Rotarian for 25 years, told members of the Eastland unit at a luncheon Monday in the Connelle hotel.

Rotarians from Breckenridge, Cisco and Ranger also attended. Judge W. P. Leslie, presided.

The development of friendship he considered the most important part of Rotary club work. The speaker quoted the late Thomas Edison who once told a reporter that the greatest achievement in his life was that "I have been able to make a few honest-to-God friends."

By "honest to God" friends Edison told the reporter he meant those who would come to his aid when he was in trouble. Rotarianism, said Dr. Barker, should develop "honest-to-God" friendship.

Community service was stressed by the former physical instructor to President Taft, who has made over 11,000 addresses in 7,200 towns of the nation.

He chided the older generation in not setting good examples for children. All should attend church each Sunday, he advised. In keeping with Rotary's principle of non-advocation of denomination, Dr. Barker made plain that he did not recommend going to any particular church but any.

The speaker, a man of slight stature but with a vigorous mode of speech delivery, said young children in communities consciously or unconsciously ape and emulate their elders. For adults to attend church each Sunday would be beneficial, continued the speaker.

Restoration of "confidence in God" for youth is necessary in a troubled world, Dr. Barker declared.

As to the international situation, Dr. Barker found fault with Stalin, Mussolini and Hitler. "The mills of God grind slowly," stated Dr. Barker, who predicted revolution in Germany within 10 years and the fall of Hitler.

He used the Rotary motto "He profits most who serves the best" to illustrate his contention that the government heads of Russia, Italy and Germany will come to an inglorious end.

Earlier Monday Dr. Barker had spoken at an assembly of high school students at Eastland and Sunday night to a church congregation.

Dr. L. B. Gray of Ranger pronounced the invocation.

Visitors at the meeting: From Ranger—F. P. Brasher, Ken Ambrose, Pleas Moore, C. E. May, C. B. Pruet, Rev. Charles Tally, Jr., Charles H. Bell, Dr. Gray, O. L. McGaha, L. R. Pearson, Dr. C. L. Jackson.

POPE BURIED IN SOLEMN RITES TODAY

By United Press
 VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14.—The body of Pope Pius XI, sealed in a triple coffin, was laid to rest today in a crypt below St. Peter's basilica, with the most solemn rites of mourning which the liturgy of the Catholic church affords.

Behind the locked gates of the mother church of the Catholic World, several hundred dignitaries knelt with the church buried its 261st pope. Outside the crowd stood with bowed heads. The bells of St. Peter's tolled slowly.

Standing behind the pope's coffin were his relatives and intimates the papal household and behind them the cardinals who already were in Rome.

At 6:32 p. m. the coffin was placed in the crypt and a chant "Benedictus" echoed throughout the cathedral. Six more of the nine daily funeral masses are yet to be said.

FIGURES SHOW A GOOD TREND FOR THE CITY

An interesting comparative statement has been worked up by Pleas E. Moore, secretary of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, giving facts about Ranger during 1937 and 1938, each of which shows an improvement for the past year.

During 1937 the Community Public Service Company had 889 gas meters in Ranger, as compared with 897 in 1938, an increase of eight for the past year.

The Texas Electric Service Company had 961 meters in 1937, while in 1938 the company had 1,068 meters in the city, an increase of 47 for the year.

The city water works department had 857 water meters connected in 1937, and in 1938 this number had increased to 998, making an increase of 141 water meters.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company reports an increase of six telephones during the past year, 518 being in use in 1937 and 522 being in service in 1938.

Postal receipts in Ranger in 1937 totalled $19,567.88, as compared to $19,603.83 in 1938, an increase of $145.95 over the previous year.

Ranger Junior College had an enrollment of 71 in 1937-38, while to date in 1938-39, 102 have registered. This is an increase of 31 for the year.

During 1937-38 the Ranger High School had 511 enrolled, while to date in the 1938-39 year 509 have registered. It was pointed out, however, that the 511 figure included total registrations while the 509-figure represented registrations to date, and more might enter school before the term ends.

Nationalists Hold Catalonian Front

By United Press
 PERPIGNAN, France, Feb. 14.—The Spanish Nationalists today planted their red and gold flag along the last section of the Catalonian frontier, as the main body of a "lost army" of loyalists retreated into France and left only straggling detachments to filter to safety through the mountains.

The last members of the Loyalist cabinet arrived at Madrid, leaving only Jose Pereira, minister without portfolio, to maintain contact with President Manuel Azana, at the Spanish embassy at Paris.

GOV. O'DANIEL TO BUSY FOR PRESS SESSION

By United Press
 AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today cancelled his regular weekly press conference because of "matters of an official nature, which makes it impossible for him to interrupt his work."

The most important matters now before the governor are a $900,000 old age pension bill and appointments of the state highway commissioner and state life insurance commissioner. The pension bill, adopted unanimously by the legislature, provides for a loan to prevent a reduction in payments during the next six months.

The senate has rejected the governor's first two appointees to the state offices, Carr P. Collins of Dallas, as highway commissioner chairman, and Truett Smith of Tahoka as life insurance commissioner.

Let No One Misinterpret America's Will to Peace

Gradually, one by one as war hysteria grows, Americans seem to be slipping away into the resigned belief that "there is going to be a European war; we can't keep out of it; and maybe it's just as well because somebody has to stop the aggressor nations. Besides, maybe it would be good for business."

Bruce Bliven, a keen observer, has gone so far as to say that the American attitude toward Germany is now about what it was in February, 1917.

This is, therefore, exactly the time to sit back, light a cigaret or eat a gumball, according to preference, and think a minute.

True, a chorus of loud and angry voices make the United States at the moment seem very bellicose. Certainly the people are deeply concerned, puzzled, angry, at the way the world goes. But the country is not nearly as angry but nearly as bellicose, as some of the voices would indicate.

Behind every voice demanding "a strong stand," "firm measures," "being armed to the teeth," standing for no more nonsense, "taking up our place in world leadership" and all those ringing phrases, there are thousands of silent, inarticulate men and women who cling to peace. They saw the results of the last great crusade in 1917-1918. They look on a world tottering to ruin largely as a result of that war. They see today's wars, more destructive, more ruinous, more ruthless than of old.

These same people would fight to the death any imminent menace to our country, its lands and people, its vital interests.

But war is still hated and despised in this country as in no other. When President Roosevelt said "I hate war!" a murmur of approbation swept across the whole country. When he said "quarantine the aggressors," there was not unanimous applause, but division. And when he was quoted as having said something to the effect that "the Rhine is now our frontier," there was such a storm of indignation that he was forced to explain three days later that he said no such thing.

Let no one misinterpret America's will to peace. Some of the American colonists, before the revolution, used a flag with a coiled snake and the motto "Don't tread on me!"

Not "Don't tread on Joe Doakes!" or "Don't tread on our particular conception of democracy," but "Don't tread on me!"

There has been considerable thrashing in the bushes near us. Some heavy footprints have clumped down perilously close. But as yet no foot has trodden on us. Until something like that happens, let us remain cool, unhysterical, and vigilant.

THAT TAX
By T. R. Bowles, Ranger.
Just what is a transaction? Our dictionaries say conduct of business. What is business? Buying and selling anything from gas to pig iron, from feathers to granite, from cars to toys. Any business deal. Does that include sales? It does; every kind — including sale of service. It would tax your gas, water, lights; your telephone service. It would require the collection of one and six-tenths per cent on every 5 cent cigar on up to the most costly residence, business house, farm, car or cultivator, harvester, harrow, threshing on down to every tack. Think about this. Take your flour — The elevators buy the wheat, the miller buys it — one and six-tenths per cent — miller sells flour, to son Pat — one and six-tenths per cent — Son Pat sells to your grocer — one and six-tenths per cent. Your grocer sells to you — one and six-tenths per cent. The cost to you is 6.4 percent higher in taxes. This tax would not affect the chain stores. They would be supplied from out of Texas headquarters and the 1.6 per cent would only be paid when they sold. As I see the matter, this will be a most effective way to retire all local merchants. In that case, to whom would you sell truck, fruit, eggs, milk, butter, etc. Who would give you a day's work. Honestly, isn't this the most iniquitous proposition ever placed before the Texas people. In addition, the proposition is to relieve all wealth from ad valorem taxes and nail it to you by putting it in the constitution so you can't get rid of it. I am 83 years old, my wife 78, but that is too high a price, to pay for a pension.

The Story Of The Kellogg Company Society Personal

A generation ago cooking the breakfast cereal was almost a religious rite. On many farms the grain was ground at home or taken to the nearest mill. Next came the long cooking to make it palatable. Many of us remember the big iron kettles in which the corn meal mush was cooked—bubbling and spluttering for hours. Every little while we would be admonished to stir the porridge and how important we felt wielding the long-handled wooden spoon. This all sounds very well in retrospect, but actually one of the greatest time savers of this age has been the development of the cereal business. When anyone says "cereal" today our minds at once think of breakfast foods. The housekeeper has a full line of these from which to choose and the woman who has begun housekeeping during the last ten or fifteen years can hardly appreciate the convenience of being able to take a box from the shelf of the kitchen cabinet, pour the contents into a bowl, and—"Breakfast is served!"

The Kellogg Company was a well-established manufacturer of ready-to-eat cereals when All-Bran was added to the line. This product manufactured from light brown milled from soft red and white winter wheat, has attained great success in twenty years. Because All-Bran is thoroughly cooked with added flavoring in the process of manufacture, it is delicious to eat as a cereal, but is equally good in cooking. Added to recipes, it gives a pleasant flavor. Its iron, Vitamin B, and "bulk" all make valuable contributions to the diet.

SERIAL STORY WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES

Yesterday The Harker store... CHAPTER IX PEOPLE brushed past Susie as she waited for the Chicago bus...

and Mr. Harker should have arranged a system of signals... BUT at that moment a young man breezed out of the crowd...

friendliness was the first point of the wedge which was to break through her inhibitions... "I'm taking you home to dinner with me," he said as they drove out through Lincoln Park...

She wore a dark blue suit, the skirt of which came almost to her ankles... She was not one of glory, merely that the ban of homeliness might be lifted a little.

He said, "I leaned my car against a curb somewhere around here. Let's see if we can find it."

"What's funny?" he asked. "I was thinking that naturally your mother would want to meet me. Anyone would want to meet a poor fool." She said it quite good-naturedly.

And there were moments of lightness, when her spirit surged forward to meet what was to come, when her heart thudded and her eyes shone.

SUSIE thought this over. When she spoke it was to make one of the first clever remarks of her life.

On one point Jeff was pleased. Susie Lambert was not stupid. She was a girl of brains and caring.

She looked vaguely about. Mr. Harker had said she would be met. How would they know her?

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

ANSWER: In northwestern Canada... not Alaska. It borders on Alaska and lies mostly south of the Klondike river, in the Yukon river basin.

Falls up here in the false hope that I could "get by" without studying. Next year I'm coming down there where I can enjoy social life without having to carry a book under my arm...

The terrible load of work and study would not be so much if we had a few minutes social life. But NO! We never do anything. These job-headed teachers actually object to the nine picnics, eight hobo hikes, and two banquets we had last week.

Very sincerely yours, Bertha Sparks.

The Doodler Written by Tommy Smith, Freshman

Two men from exactly divergent walks of life—Inspector Victor and racketeer Nick Altros—sipped coffee in Joe's Cafe.

"Y' know, Vic," began the smooth mobster, "life's a funny thing. Take you and me for instance. We've known each other all our lives, ever since I lived on one side of the tracks and you the other."

"I think not," asserted Altros. "I wasn't born yesterday or the day before either."

Victor reached for his napkin which had been lying on the table and grunted, "Here's what you've been doing to my napkin?"

The napkin was covered with pencil marks—circles with the initials "N. A." inside the circles.

"Oh, that," laughed Nick. "A crazy habit of mine. Whenever there's a pencil in my hand, I always draw those circles."

"A doodler, huh," reflected the inspector, absently crumpling the piece of tissue into his coat pocket.

The two, law and lawless, paid the check and strolled out the door.

"Be good, Inspector," called the gunman as they parted.

Inspector Victor said nothing, not feeling in the mood for repartee, and slid under the wheel of his car and started for the station.

"He was gone, Chief," he stated, "when I got to the box; he went out the back fire escape and spread it out before Altros. Pointing to the pencil marks, he grunted, "Those are yours, aren't they, Nick?"

"Oh, sure, I put those on in the cafe this morning. What are you still carrying that thing for?"

"Just habit, I guess. And by the way, of course you didn't know, but Tony Corona and Mitzel Holt were both shot only about fifteen minutes ago out at the Blue Owl. Now here's the interesting part. The murderer waited in an upper box until both Holt and Corona were close together. Then he shot. But while he waited, time passed slowly. He began getting a bit nervous. A pencil was in his hand and unconsciously he began scribbling on the white table cloth. I brought that table cloth with me, Nick, and I want you to look at it, and then I want you to look at the napkin I showed you. Both marks are the same. Even you can see that."

Altros straightened, smiled ironically, and thrust his hands out for the handcuffs dangling from Sergeant Hensley's large eager hands and wily said, "Guess you win, Inspector; I made those damn marks one time too many. Write the confession, and I'll sign."
