BUND SESSION ENDED AFTER MINOR FIGHTS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—An Americanization meeting of the pro-Nazi German-American Bund, attended by 18,000 persons, and featured by tributes to George Washington and denunciations of Jews, ended shortly before midnight last night with salutes to swastikas and the singing of the Nazi anthem, "Horst Wessel."

Outside Madison Square Garden policemen had had a six-hour struggle with anti-nazis, who repeatedly charged their lines trying to fight their way inside.

Traffic was halted completely in a six-block area, most of the night, and it was estimated at one time that a crowd of 100,000 was in the neighborhood. Although there were numerous fights, only one person was seriously injured when he rushed the speaking platform when he attempted to attack Fritz Kuhn, national bund leader, and was severely beaten by storm troopers.

NYA Youths Must Sign Affidavits On Citizenship

AUSTIN, Tex.—All young people participating in the National Youth Administration program must execute affidavits of citizenship if their employment is to be continued after March 5, 1939, J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, has announced.

The step is being taken in conformity with a recent act of Congress which requires among other things the execution of citizenship affidavit forms by approximately 30,000 NYA student aid and work project employees in Texas and NYA administrative and supervisory personnel. The official forms will be mailed to participating schools and colleges from the State NYA office in Austin and delivered to NYA project employees through the NYA district offices.

"We hope that NYA workers will not be required to pay notary fees in executing these affidavits," Mr. Kellam said. "Any notary public, county judge, district judge, county clerk, justice of the peace, or the judge of any court of record, is authorized to administer the oath."

The affidavit forms for all schools, colleges, and universities participating in the NYA Student Aid program must be attached to the time reports sent in for the first payroll period ending on or after March 5.

Youths employed on NYA work in Ranger will be given forms by Jesse Leverett, project superintendent.

Any One of These Cardinals Could Be Elected Pope

Cardinal Maglione

Cardinal Boggiani

Cardinal Dolci

Cardinal Pizzardo

A BRILLIANT diplomatic career preceded elevation to the purple of Luigi Cardinal Maglione in 1935. He was born in Naples in 1877, and ordained to the priesthood in 1901. After a thorough study of diplomacy at the Pontifical Gregorian University, he had served in the Secretariat of State, the Secretariat of Ecclesiastical Affairs, after which he had been sent to Switzerland to direct assistance work during the World War. In 1926, he was appointed Apostolic Nuncio of Paris. Monsignor Maglione signed with Premier Briand two agreements providing that liturgical honors due French representatives in the East would be suspended if France did not maintain her embassy to the Holy See. His final act as dean of the diplomatic corps was a plea for international peace.

CHANCELLOR of the Holy Roman Church, Pio Cardinal Boggiani, Bishop of Porto and Santa Rufina, was born in 1863. Ordained in 1879, he offered himself for missions and was sent to Constantinople. Recalled some years later, he taught in Dominican colleges at Chieri and Graz, then was sent to Genoa as a parish priest. When Pius X ordered an apostolic visit to all Italian dioceses, Father Boggiani was selected as one of the Visitors, covering 23 districts. In 1909, he was named Bishop of Adria and later Archbishop of Edessa. Pope Pius X called him to Rome in 1914 and appointed him successor of the Consistorial Congregation, in which office he directed the conclave which elected Pope Benedict XV. He was created a Cardinal in 1916 and named Chancellor in 1933.

ONLY 32 years old when he was named Bishop of Gubbio in 1899, Angelo Maria Cardinal Dolci has served in both pastoral ministry and diplomacy. His greatest renown was won by his services in the years of the World War as Apostolic Delegate in Constantinople. His charity work impressed the government that a monument to Pope Benedict XV was raised in Turkey, land of different race and religion. When Pius XI sought a diplomat to effect a concordat between Rumania and the Holy See, his choice fell upon Dolci, now Archbishop of Amalfi. The results surpassed all hopes and Dolci was made Nuncio at Bucharest in 1923. He was elevated to the purple in the Consistory of March, 1933, and in 1936, took over the suburban Diocese of Palestrina.

GIUSEPPE CARDINAL PIZZARDO was born in Savona, Italy, in 1877. He was ordained in 1903, appointed secretary to the Nuncio of Bavaria in 1909. In February, 1922, Pope Pius XI confirmed him as Substitute of the Secretariat of State. Monsignor Pizzardo was later called as Secretary of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs. On March 28, 1930, the Pope raised him to the titular Archbishop of Cirro, from which he passed, a month later, to that of Nicea. Since 1921, the name of Pizzardo has been linked with many great church events through his collaboration with other officials and his filial devotion to the late pontiff. He has executed much of the reorganization of Catholic action in Italy and has published documents designed to further worldwide church activity.

France and England May Recognize The Franco Government

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Negotiations between France and Generalissimo Francisco Franco for recognition of Nationalist Spain, will be concluded tomorrow, French officials circled said today.

Other informed quarters expected France and Great Britain to grant recognition by this week end without obtaining written guarantees covering the withdrawal of Italian and German troops and clemency for the republicans.

They believed that Franco had decided to stand solidly with his allies, Chancellor Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini and to resist the temptation of financial credits, reported to have been offered by London.

O'Daniel Modifies One Fund Plan of Texas Financng

AUSTIN, Feb. 21.—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today modified his plea to "put all the state's money in one pot" in submitting to the legislature a message asking for the abolition of 55 of the 105 separate funds maintained by the state.

"It seems to me that a bill could be enacted which would increase the efficiency of our system of collecting state taxes, simplify the system of accounts now kept by the state treasurer, centralize the records of fiscal affairs of the state into a single office and at the same time give further protection against loss in collection of state revenues and establish a more direct legislative control of public expenditures," O'Daniel said in naming the topic for emergency action.

The message, and a list of funds to be maintained and another list to be abolished, was given to newspaper correspondents as the governor's secretary announced that O'Daniel's weekly press conference would be cancelled.

The Rangers are in the pink of condition and will uncoil all the tricks they have mastered for this tilt. Coach Jennings expects his boys to play the best basketball of the season tonight and hopes that many of the citizens of Ranger will be out to enjoy the game with the college students.

Starting line up will be: Clement, Dudley, Stuard, Greer and Craig with another group of competent reserves entitled to have a share in the tussle.

HUNTER GETS PRAISE, KNOCKS IN THE HOUSE

AUSTIN, Feb. 21.—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's appointment of J. C. Hunter of Abilene as chairman of the Texas Highway Commission today brought condemnation and praise from members of the Texas House of Representatives.

Rep. Harvey Riviere of Port Arthur, attacked a resolution by Rep. Pat Dwyer of San Antonio, calling upon the house to "vindicate" O'Daniel after remarks made last week by East Texas Senators condemning Hunter's appointment.

Dwyer's resolution was not acted upon because the resolution period was omitted, but Riviere spoke on personal privilege.

"The resolution does not express the sentiment of the entire house," Riviere shouted. "West Texans are willing to support East Texas claims for a highway commissioner to succeed John Wood of Timpan, whose term expired on Feb. 16, but who still is serving pending confirmation by the senate of his successor."

East Texans, Riviere added, voted for the governor, but "also elected a legislature."

Rep. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene defended the choice of Hunter and said, "he could not have selected a better man. Population is drifting from East to West Texas, but the governor selected a man representing no section or class, but the entire citizenship."

Maybe 1939 Will Be the Year of Reconciliation

The year just passed was in many respects a bitter and an unsatisfactory one. The "Honeymoon Year of the Dictatorships," some are calling it. Business in the United States, and in the world, dropped off from 1937. The world was filled with controversies and strife.

But with 1939 scarcely under way, there seems at least a chance that it may become known as the Year of Reconciliation.

The two-and-a-half-year Spanish war, with its million dead, seems approaching the point where it started—that is, the point where the differences between Nationalist and Republican elements must be threshed out around a table.

That is the way with every war. It begins with a controversy. The thousands die and are shoveled into muddy graves. And then it has to be settled around a table, anyway.

Nobody knows just how the Spanish war will be settled. But the chance that it will be settled in some way during the year is good.

The long-standing controversy between the TVA and the neighboring utility companies is in process of settlement. This fight between the new government agency and the privately-owned utilities has been going on for six years, and there are some who believe that it has had a major effect in holding back business advancement.

If there is any truth in that, the obstacle has been removed by the agreement of the TVA to buy the Tennessee Electric Power Co., for about $80,000,000. Here, as in all settlements, concessions were made by both parties, but apparently mostly by the government.

In any case there is reason to believe that the elimination of this long-fought controversy from the business picture brightens the outlook.

Steps are being taken to settle the controversy with Mexico over expropriation of oil properties owned by Americans there.

After nearly a year of bickering, both countries have found little advantage to themselves in this unhealed breach of normal relations. There is good reason to believe that pressure is piling up behind both governments which may lead to settlement.

Of the Chinese war, as much can not yet be said. But even here there have been "peace feelers."

Despite all the unquiet and the wars and rumors of wars that have been giving the world the jitters during the past few months, it is just possible that 1939 instead of being the year of disaster might turn itself into the year of reconciliation and peace. And wouldn't that be something?

Beauty Hunter Is Sure All Is Woe

By United Press

CLEVELAND, O.—Newton K. Wilson, whose job is finding beautiful nurses — with outstanding personalities and minds—is a woe-filled fellow. His work, he says, "is plenty tough."

Wilson is on a cross-country "girl hunt" to find nurses who want to become airline hostesses to replace those who gave up flying, many to marry.

But mere desire to fly is not enough, he says. Disappointments beset him because, "if they are the right size, they usually have the wrong personality." Recently he interviewed 60 prospects in Detroit—and found one "possibility."

Stewardesses must be registered nurses, be under 5 feet 5 inches tall, weigh less than 120 pounds, be under 25 years old—and have personality and intelligence.

our system," Wilson complains. "If girls can pass our requirements, they usually are so attractive they are good subjects for matrimony, too."

Canadian winter sports enthusiasts say they don't neck in the outdoors. Why? Have you ever tried it on skis?

Woman Offers A Plan On Steel Making

By United Press

CLEVELAND, O.—Lena Burrows, who calls herself a "kitchen chemist," has spent 10 years in her laboratory, and claims now to have perfected a new process for producing steel, and a method of treating low grade ore to make it profitable.

"I have found a way to smelt iron ore into steel in one operation by using hydrogen as a reducing agent," she said, "and in this way eliminate the blast-furnace operation. This effects a saving of $3 per ton in the finished product."

By treating gold ore with the same apparatus, the woman scientist has been able to accomplish surprising results by reducing successfully and cheaply, ores which previously had been too low-grade to justify reduction.

"But the astonishing thing," she said, "is that the process seems to transmute some of the lower metals in the ore into gold."

Miss Burrows' father was a well-known metallurgist and geologist. It was from him that she learned chemistry.

NEW ORLEANS.—Harry Fotiades, who gave up a small produce business in 1934 for a flyer in oil, is two-thirds retired with a profit estimated far in excess of $1,000,000.

Fotiades sold two-thirds of his holdings to the Lisbon-Iberia Oil Corporation of New York, but declined to name the amount, saying it was "between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000."

Fotiades was one of the promoters in the opening of the Leesville field. Later, after becoming an independent operator, he acquired holdings in the New Iberia and Jennings fields, and when the Lisbon field in North Louisiana was discovered, he acquired leases in that area.

Included in the transfer were rights to 1,000 acres of proved oil lands. More than 20 wells are flowing in the Lisbon field in Lincoln and Claiborne parishes, the Jennings field in Arcadia parish and the new Iberia field in Iberia parish. Daily production from the wells was 2,500 barrels.

Along with the land transfer went H. L. Hawkins of New Orleans, Fotiades' former assistant, who was made a vice president of the Lisbon-Iberia company and placed in charge of operations.

The former dealer said he would not retire from the oil business, however. He still owns extensive holdings in the new Cross Lake field near Shreveport, in the Lisbon area in Claiborne and Lincoln parishes, in western Kentucky and central Illinois.

only added to his masculine terror. If he could have but known it Susie was having one of the few really good times she had ever experienced in her barren life. Never had she known the utter joy of weeping upon a sympathetic male shoulder. She no longer wept because of hunger. Her tears went back to the frustration and frustrated longing, they were the outward sign that Susie's soul was breaking through its bonds. "There, there, honey," Jeff crooned. "There, there, honey," Jeff's mother had talked like that to him when he was a very small boy. "I'll tell that old Swen a few things in the morning. I won't let him starve you, Susie."

complicated, nothing was said of her near downfall. They all left the apartment together. Jeff to take Susie to the hotel, Edna and Mr. Harker to be ushered into a long, low car by a liveried chauffeur. "Come to see me often, Susie," Edna said as they parted. "Susie looked after the car. "Isn't she lovely, Jeff? Mr. Harker thinks so, doesn't he?" "Yep," said Jeff. "I wish he didn't like her quite so well."

"OUT OUR WAY" - By Williams

THE HEIGHT OF HIGH LIVING

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—If you want to talk to "Cotton Ed" Smith about King Cotton (and he is always ready to do that), you have to sort of follow him around his office as he talks, because he gets pretty worked up about the subject. They don't call him "Cotton Ed" for nothing. While the Senate fixes its attention on foreign affairs, rearmament, relief and the innumerable aspects of economy, Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina renews his vow to do something for the cotton grower. That something needs to be done is perfectly apparent when you look at the figures. During the last 10 years the annual consumption of American cotton has run to approximately 12,500,000 bales, slightly more than half of which were taken by export trade. Last year the American cotton crop was 12,900,000 bales. In addition, when that crop was harvested there existed a holdover of 13,500,000 bales from previous crops. There exists, therefore, just about twice as much American cotton as there is any prospect of selling. To make matters worse the export trade is shrinking and the Department of Agriculture is not at all hopeful about the chances of increasing American consumption of cotton. Hence Senator Smith's uneasiness is quite understandable. For 17 years prior to 1929 the average income from the sale of the American cotton crop was about a billion and a half dollars annually," he says. "Eight hundred million of that was in foreign exchange or foreign money—cash. But from 1929 to 1939, the average income from the total crop has been around 500 millions."

WASHINGTON—Just as if it didn't have enough trouble with the subject last session, this Congress is going to wrestle anew with the thorny project of government reorganization. Only the Supreme Court fight touched off more fireworks than last year's reorganization bill. A bitter struggle during which President Roosevelt was denounced as a would-be dictator ended when the House pigeon-holed his proposal. This time it is likely to be different. There is practically no chance that the reorganization bill could be passed in its original form. Seventy-seven Democrats who voted against the original bill are back this year. Add them to the 169 House Republicans, who probably would be practically solid against the bill, and you get another adverse majority. An effort is now under way to provide a bill which will accomplish some of the streamlining the President asked for without raising the objections that the last bill raised. A few days ago the House formally revived the special committee on reorganization, under the chairmanship of Representative John J. Cochran of Missouri; and Representative Lindsay Warren of North Carolina has been working out a compromise plan to present to this committee. Any such compromise would have to take care of three principal issues: First, Congress wants the right to pass on any changes the President might make in the various government departments, agencies and commissions. Second, Congress so far has been dead against the President's plan to abolish the office of comptroller general and lodge that office's pre-audit functions in the Treasury Department. Third, Congress objects to the President's proposal that the Civil Service Commission be abolished, with its duties transferred to a single administrator directly responsible to the President. Last year Senator Burton K. Wheeler proposed an amendment to the bill under which no merger or reorganization put through by the President could become effective without affirmative congressional action. The administration refused to accept this, declaring that the whole subject would be thrown open to logrolling and that no reorganization would be accomplished. The matter of the comptroller general is an especially sore point. Congress' only check on the executive, in the last analysis, is through its control of the purse strings. Congressmen feel that unless Congress has its own agent to determine how money shall be spent, the President could do practically anything he wanted to. Much the same argument applies to the civil service business—that the President's original plan would give the White House complete power over all appointive jobs, that Congress would not merely lose its fattest source of patronage but that the President would get them under his sole control. One compromise that is suggested would leave the Civil Service Commission untouched, appointing an administrator who would simply act as the commission's agent in making changes and enforcing regulations. It can be taken for granted that Congress would not permit such quasi-judicial agencies as the Interstate Commerce Commission to be tampered with, and Senator Byrd of Virginia predicts that the President's proposal for a new Department of Public Welfare will have to be dropped. Dog's Long Play With Trains Ends At Ripe Old Age

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—Suicide is dead. Railroad men of the Cheyenne Union Pacific division mourned the dog that had more lives than a litter of cats. They christened the mongrel Suicide because of the animal's peculiar idea of adventure. For almost 15 years the fluffy dog, part Collie but mostly cur, flirted with death under the wheels of passing trains. Early in life Suicide decided that the best place to sleep was on the ties between the rails of the road's main line. Out of that came frequent successful attempts to see how long he could stay between the tracks as whistling trains roared down on him. Suicide was hit often, but he always came back for more. He bore his scars bravely and didn't

San Francisco Is The Ghost of Swing

BERKELEY, Cal.—The University of California is falling down on its job, with San Francisco partly responsible, according to Edward Lyland, president of the University Swing Society. He declares that a poll of the campus revealed extreme backwardness of students in their appreciation of swing. He declared that San Francisco is partly responsible because it is notoriously a "ghost" town as far as swing is concerned. Nyland insisted that the old red swing band that ever had an engagement at a San Francisco hotel only lasted two weeks. even let the loss of one foot spoil his fun. He was just a pup when taken from Sidney, Neb., in a freight caboose. A tag on his neck said he was for a Cheyenne depot agent. Railroad officials investigated this "illegal" shipping of the pup and charged the train crew, among other things, had moved the dog over a state line without the necessary health examination. The crew members lost three days work as penalty and Suicide became known as "the $97.50 pup," the amount they lost in salary. A short time later the pup was hit by a fast mail train and hurled several yards into a borrow pit. The engineer of the train later apologized to the station agent owner that he was sorry the dog had been killed—but had to rescind his words when the dog bit him on the leg. From that time on, he was known as Suicide. However, despite his hobby, Suicide cheated the railroad out of his life. His master awoke one morning to find his pet motionless—Suicide had died in his sleep of old age.
