GUARDIA IS FULL OVER SPING WPA

By United Press
 NEW YORK, May 8.—Mayor La Guardia of New York today before the house of representatives committee, to the federal relief program of the "American way" of unemployment, and its discontinuance.

He appeared as the opponent for the United States of America, of the chairman. He headed a list of eight city executives before the house committee.

Mayor La Guardia said that the situation in New York in all large cities, and to population, the closing of employable government, or by the WPA without constructive to take its place, would be too terrible to think of. There is not a city in the United States that is not in a state of emergency, he said.

Ruth Coaches Softball as Other Half Of Home Run Twins Runs Out of Gas

As Lou Gehrig broke his consecutive game record at 2130, Babe Ruth, the other half of the New York Yankees' famous home run twins of other years, coached girls' softball teams in batting at St. Albans, Long Island. The Bambino is shown casting a critical eye at the stance of Millie Deegan of the Roverettes.

EASTLAND WILL TAKE PART IN W. T. C. C. MEET

Eastland plans to participate in a fitting manner in the annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at Abilene, according to plans outlined by the Eastland Chamber of Commerce.

Although it is impossible at this time to estimate the number to attend from Eastland, it was apparent Monday that many will be at the convention activities.

The band will be at the convention on Tuesday. Robert Leslie will represent Eastland in the "My Home Town" speaking contest.

T. E. Richardson is Eastland director for the W. T. C. C. Maurice Harkins of Eastland will sing at one of the luncheons during the convention.

Eastland hatbands may be obtained at the chamber of commerce from H. J. Tanner, secretary-manager.

Youth Is Held In Double Slaying Of Car Salesmen

By United Press
 KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 8.—Robert Burgunder, Jr., 22, who learned about crime while his father was a prosecuting attorney, will be returned to Arizona today to be charged with two murders.

He is charged with slaying two men, Jack Peterson, 35, and Ellis Koury, 24, near Phoenix, Ariz., on April 30, for a new automobile and a few dollars.

Peterson and Koury were automobile salesmen. They took a prospect out for a demonstration in a new machine and were never seen alive again.

Their bodies were found in the desert near Phoenix last week. Both had been bound, then shot.

Burgunder attended Sunday School in Johnson City, Tenn., yesterday morning and when he walked out of church the sheriff grabbed him. He had arrived the day before, driving an automobile which has been identified as that of Peterson and Koury.

JAPAN PLANS AN ALLIANCE WITH THE AXIS

By United Press
 TOKYO, May 8.—War Minister Gen. Seishiro Itavaki said today that Japan may conclude a military agreement with Germany and Italy.

The Domei News Agency gave out the following statement by the war minister:

"The moral spirit which animated the anti-communist pact is deep-rooted. Therefore if Germany and Italy desire it is not impossible that Japan will conclude a military agreement with the axis powers."

Gen. K. Koiso, overseas minister, said:

"It is inconvenient and dangerous for Germany and Italy to exercise their national policy in the face of encirclement by other powers without seeking the full cooperation of Japan, which is the greatest power in East Asia."

By United Press
 SHANGHAI, May 8.—Japanese troops and airplanes today started a general offensive in northern Hupeh Province, intended to annihilate a force of 20,000 troops under Gen. Tang En-po, which constitute the main Chinese defense force in the fifth war zone.

A Japanese communique, issued at Hankow, said that despite severe heat, the Japanese forces had advanced on an 80-mile front, extending from Sinyang to Chungking, and that the Chinese had lost 1,000 dead.

Hopkins Says ICC Spreads Gloom By Its Resolutions

By United Press
 WASHINGTON, May 8.—Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins declared today that the resolutions passed at last week's U. S. Chamber of Commerce meeting were unnecessarily gloomy and unwarranted in the face of improving business conditions.

Hopkins met with newspapermen shortly after returning from an overnight cruise on the Potomac with President Roosevelt and Supreme Court Justice William Douglas, former head of the securities exchange commission.

Hopkins had been away from his office 10 weeks with influenza. He declared he was feeling "fine."

He was asked what he thought of the Chamber of Commerce resolution which called for repeal of the wage-hour act, liberalization of tax laws and modifications of many other new deal measures.

"Not much," he said. "They certainly did spread a lot of gloom around town."

"Excellent Show" Reported In Well

Shallow oil potentialities of the Cisco area Saturday had assumed greater extent with reports of an excellent showing in the Joseph L. Fainer et al No. 1 Mary Guyton in the Atwell community southwest of Cisco. Reports said that the showing, obtained in the caprock of a Canyon series sand similar to that from which the Warren et al Cozart strike in the Scranton area is producing was about the same as that which the Cozart yielded.

Five-inch casing was being run and was expected to be lapped and cemented Saturday with drilling in scheduled for Monday or Tuesday. Usually 72 hours is required to let cement set before the plug is drilled.

Depth of the show would be between 1600 and 1700 feet if it is the same as that found in the Warren, as operators were inclined to believe Saturday that it is.

Geologists and oil men generally who have studied the district have maintained that the well is one of several of high shallow oil potentialities correlating with a number of other highs of primary production importance.

The Scranton area "paid off," in a geological sense, with the success in the Warren well, and the operators are preparing to drill several wells in that area.

In the Rising Star territory and in the district between Cisco and Rising Star several other shallow operations either have been completed or are in process of organization or drilling. Given conditions favorable to oil development, such as less tax uncertainty and liberalization regulations, a great deal of shallow activity is anticipated.

Poet Laureate to Speak In Abilene

ABILENE, May 8.—Lexie Dean Robertson, poet laureate of Texas, elected recently by the forty-sixth legislature, will speak to members and guests of the McMurry College Press Club at their annual banquet, May 9.

Mrs. Robertson is an honorary member of the Press Club and has held that position since her appearance at the banquet in 1929. At that occasion she read selections from her book, "Red Hills," which had not then been published.

May 9 will be her third visit to the McMurry campus and students are eagerly awaiting that date.

ITALIAN - NAZI ALLIANCE NOT CAUSE OF FEAR

By United Press
 The announcement of a military alliance between Italy and Germany caused little concern in most European capitals today. On the contrary it was regarded as likely to promote a settlement of Germany's claims on Poland without military force.

Belgian quarters pointed out that Italy is opposed to military action by Germany against Poland, and would not enter such a pact if Germany planned to use force. In Paris it was believed that Premier Mussolini may seek a peaceful solution now that he is in a military alliance with his axis partner, Adolf Hitler.

Germany, however, pursued its usual course in preparation for getting concessions from another country. The Nazi press intensified its attacks on Poland, demanding that "terrorism" against Germany be stopped at once.

London reported that Mussolini entered the military alliance only after France had rejected an apparent invitation to settle his Mediterranean "aspiration."

Informed sources said that Mussolini demanded no territory but asked for two seats for Italy on the governing board of the Suez Canal, a free port for Italy at Djibouti, a new arrangement regarding the French railroad from Djibouti to Addis Ababa, and a new agreement on the status of Italians in French Tunisia.

An encouraging word came from Madrid, where the Italian and German troops were preparing to go home, and Generalissimo Francisco Franco took the first step towards demobilizing the 1,000,000 men he has under arms. The foreign troops were expected to start home immediately after the Madrid victory parade, which will be held within the next two weeks.

C. of C. Directors to Meet Tuesday Night

A. N. Larson, vice president of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, announced today that the regular meeting of the board of directors, scheduled tonight, had been postponed until Tuesday night because several of the directors would be out of town, attending the Lions Convention in Mineral Wells.

Directors have been requested to remember this change in date and to meet promptly Tuesday night.

A & M Students Spend Much On Their Good Looks

By United Press
 COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—College girls who worry because it costs them so much to keep beautiful should look at the expense accounts of their boy friends and take heart.

E. L. Angell, manager of student publications at Texas A. & M. College, took a survey to find out how much the Aggies spent to improve their looks. He found that the students at A. & M. spend a total of $14,000 a year for hair oil, $12,474 for razor blades, $81,581 for cleaning and pressing, and $35,954 for barber work.

They spend $40,486 a year for presents for their girl friends, but their parents can't really kick about this expense, because the Aggies spend $66,186 a year for presents for their fathers and mothers, the survey showed.

Cyclone Cloud Is Seen at Eastland

Pictures of effects of the cyclone which hit the western section of Eastland county Sunday afternoon were obtained by James Reid, amateur photographer.

One picture, taken in the western part of Eastland, clearly shows a funnel shaped cloud.

He also went to Putnam and took pictures of the area where the high wind struck. At Scranton, in Eastland county, it was reported two houses were badly damaged by the wind.

Highest School In U. S. Is Located

By United Press
 FORT WORTH, Texas.—Regional officials of the Public Works Administration, who gather many odd bits of information while handing out taxpayers' money from their headquarters here, have learned that the Wilson Moss school 10 miles south of Vanadium, Colo., is the highest ranking school in the United States—in elevation above sea level.

When students go to classes, they are "high school" students in more ways than one since their new building was erected 10,000 feet above sea level.

Because of their unique location, the students reverse the usual practice of going to school in the winter and taking vacations in the summer. Heavy snows and the severe cold in the mountains make it necessary for them to do their studying in the summer and stay home in the winter.

To Honor Youth At Baptist Church Service Tonight

Tonight in the services of the First Baptist Church revival, a special program favoring the young people will be presented, it was announced today.

A quartet from Howard Payne College, Brownwood, will be presented at the 8 o'clock service period. Dr. Ben M. David, evangelist conducting the services, will present the singers.

A growing interest was noted the latter part of the week in the revival which will continue through this week, closing Sunday, May 14. Services are conducted each morning at 10:00 o'clock, prayer meetings at 7:15, and evening services at 8 o'clock.

As this is specified as Young People's Night, a special invitation has been extended to all young people of Eastland to be present. The public is always welcome.

Cemetery Working to Be Held On Tuesday

A large crowd is expected to attend the cemetery working to be conducted at the Old Ranger Cemetery all day Tuesday, with a basket lunch being served at noon.

V. V. Cooper, Sr., who has charge of the working, has sent out letters to a large number of people who have friends and relatives buried in the cemetery, urging them to be present.

Those who live in or near Ranger have been asked to bring small tools, such as hoes, rakes and shovels, while heavier tools will be furnished.

It was stated today that a water line had been laid to the cemetery, so flowers and shrubbery could be watered regularly, and the cemetery kept in good condition.

April Assistance Totals $13,076

A list of county recipients of assistance in April was filed Monday in the office of County Clerk R. V. Galloway and showed that the payments for the month totaled $13,076. A total of 882 persons received checks.

In March this year 885 checks were issued and payments totaled $6,513. In February 888 checks were issued amounting to $13,068 while in January 879 checks were issued, totaling $12,895.

In April, 1938, 838 checks were written for a total of $12,443.

SERIAL STORY BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1933, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday Hope reached the border...

CHAPTER XXVIII

THE Rio Grande, like all rivers, frequently forms islands by its shifting currents in flood time.

But when the Rio Grande slashed hard into its eastern bank during a flood several years ago, it struck a deposit of soft earth, cut over into an old arroyo, and with a sudden dramatic rush left its old bed completely.

The result was that a piece of land nearly a mile long and averaging 300 yards in width lay now on the west bank of the Rio, whereas it had formerly lain on the east.

Hope Kildare had a good mental picture of this place and, as he rode along in Barro's cavalcade of aliens he realized anew that this New Channel crossing was ideal for smugglers to send over their human contraband.

It's Barro's idea to lead his men right to that river bank, where the water is broad and shallow enough for wading, and send them across, Hope was thinking, again.

HOPE had kept silent as he rode. The cavalcade, moving at a fast walk, rode four abreast, and Hope maneuvered his horse to follow an inner row, the better to escape suspicious glances from Barro or his henchmen.

"Keep moving and make no unnecessary noise," Barro and his interpreter, Gonsal, urged the line of riders, riding up and down speaking in low voices.

Hope wasn't at all sure why he had slipped into the line of march himself. Still, he couldn't possibly have worked his way back to El Paso in time to join his fellow officers in the mobilization which his red signal flares would surely cause.

He considered that at length but finally gave up the idea for the time being. Maybe later, if the chance presented, or maybe, at New Channel Island, he could—glory! Maybe he could maneuver them to ride in the darkness right beside Luis Barro himself, and render a genuine service to the United States Border Patrol!

WHEN the radio call mobilization was sent out, Sheridan Starz paused only to drop a few more clips of ammunition in his pockets, and to say a last word to Betty Mary.

Every bit of news. He'll get every telephone report, and put everything on the air that needs to be I've asked him to keep you posted right up to date.

"But Sherry—" "It's all right, don't thank me. I just wanted it fixed so you'd know it promptly, when I bat down Luis Barro's ears. Or get mine batted down. Well, hell's a poppin'—so long!"

He was out the door, whistling before she could get in a word of protest. He had been unusually sober of late, seemed actually happy now about the impending battle down the Rio Grande.

"They're coming together by now, at the appointed place. I'll tell you when I learn anything, ma'am."

"Thank you kindly," she said. After that she just sat and thought.

She tried to envision Sheridan Starz in action. By now he would be in a car. She wondered what car, with whom. His teammate, Hope, was in Mexico. They had long functioned as a Border Patrol team. Would Sheridan be confused now without him? Sheridan was fiercely loyal to his friends, she knew. She admired his loyalty.

For another half hour she sat there quietly, but after that she could stand it no longer. She tried to interest herself in a magazine that was at hand; she tried locking out a window over the city lights; she tried to interest herself in the radio equipment. But it was futile.

Road Excavations Cause A Lack Of Visibility On Roads

AUSTIN, Texas — Insufficient roadway excavation was blamed for the majority of restricted sight distances on State highways of Texas by Julian Montgomery, State Highway Engineer.

The State Highway Department, cooperating with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, has just finished a survey of potential danger spots on all State highways. This survey disclosed 2,357 important intersections where there is insufficient view of the intersecting road, and 27,948 points at which there is inadequate view of the roadway ahead.

Of all the restrictions to sight, 6,023 were caused by trees, bushes, and weeds; 236 were caused by fences or roadside signs; 570 were caused by buildings; 160 were caused by roadside structures; 20,967 are due to insufficient roadway excavation.

These excavations were regarded as adequate at the time of construction, according to Montgomery, but the higher speeds of present day vehicles have turned them into danger points.

"While the exercise of caution in passing and driving at reasonable speeds will reduce the number of accidents at these points, it is evident that greatly increased expenditure of money for highway construction is necessary in order to eliminate permanently these hazards to the driving public," Montgomery stated.

From Hindenburg to Schurz

One of the first principles of politics is that in order to stop any movement to which you are opposed, you have to present a positive program. Mere opposition is not enough.

Americans of German blood in Milwaukee, one of the great "German" cities of the world have learned this truth. And they have used it in neutralizing and nullifying a budding Nazi Bund movement in that city.

In 1935, when Nazi Bund influence began to be strangely felt in Milwaukee, it made an effort to control the Wisconsin Federation of German-American Societies.

But fortunately those societies were under dynamic control, and Bernhard Hoffmann, their leader, was ready with a positive program. He well knew that many of those who thoughtlessly join the Bund were simply victims of pressure of one kind or another, and that if they knew their own organizations were standing firm, they could stick with them and not be drawn by pressure into Nazi organizations with which they really had little sympathy.

The Nazi group, led by George Froebese, started one of those "summer camps where young men were taught the Hitler salute beneath the Hitler Youth flag. It was named Camp Hindenburg.

Hoffmann was not content with protesting. He had his federated societies lease the camp for this summer. It will be operated this year on American principles for the sons and daughters of the members of the German-American societies.

They will change the name to Camp Carl Schurz and run it with all the advantages of outdoor and camp life but without any "helling" or foreign-inspired trimmings.

The change of name from Hindenburg to Schurz is symbolic of the change in spirit. For it replaces the name of the reactionary Prussian Junker militarist with that of the Republican rebel who fled Germany in 1848 after an unsuccessful effort to set up free government.

Schurz's career in the United States continues to be a greater inspiration to Americans of German blood than that of any Prussian Junker. For Schurz took a brilliant part in American politics as a supporter of Lincoln, served as minister to Spain, distinguished himself during the Civil War as a volunteer officer, became the outstanding editor of the Westliche Post, and later United States senator from Missouri.

Negative opposition to the ideals of Hindenburg is not enough. The Milwaukee German-Americans have shown a splendid example in turning instead to a positive and constructive devotion to the ideals of Schurz.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sawyer of Poplar Bluff, Mo., won tickets to see the movie, "Huckleberry Finn." Of course, the judges will protest the name had nothing to do with it.

Why All That Worry About a Coal Shortage, Anyhow?

Cave Dwelling If World War Comes May Be Expected

PHILADELPHIA—A new cave-dwelling era may result if another European war comes, Dr. Edward Lodholtz, University of Pennsylvania physiology professor, believes.

Millions of human beings will be killed off by the rigors of cave existence, Dr. Lodholtz said, because the race lost its virility with its domestication.

"Some men are thinking about returning to caves already," the Penn professor said. "War clouds looming over Europe make destruction of civilization seem a very real possibility in the event of another terrible conflict."

But science holds out hope for the race through developments leading to a super-race, Dr. Lodholtz added. Control of heredity and sterilization of the unfit will better the race, he said.

"Science tells us that the world has too many people," he said, "and that many of those who are here never should be permitted to be parents. Unfortunately, the unfit have as many children as the fit. Science aims at control of that condition."

"The scientist is also going to be able to control the sex of children in the not too distant future."

Field Marshal Goering is losing weight. Maybe he's worried about having to deliver on some of those threats he's made.

Triple Pendergast

In whispered conference over the defense table, Tom J. Pendergast, right, Kansas City political overlord, appears in Federal Court to answer income tax evasion charges. With him are James M. Pendergast, left, nephew and heir-apparent to the crumbling Democratic machine, and T. J. Pendergast, Jr.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The government debt is something like the Grand Canyon, Niagara Falls or some other great work of nature. It can be studied from all kinds of angles, and you are always seeing something about it that you never noticed before.

Uncle Sam started to go in the red in the fiscal year which ended in June, 1931. He has gone in the red every year since then. And since both receipts and expenditures for the next fiscal year—the one which will end in June, 1940—have been fairly accurately estimated, it is possible to figure out the totals for the entire 10 years—the deficit decade.

During those 10 years, the federal government's revenue from all sources—income taxes, customs taxes, internal revenue levies, processing taxes and what-not—comes to $41,033,000,000.

The public debt at the end of the 1940 fiscal year will stand at just less than $44,500,000,000—substantially more than the entire government revenue for 10 years, which gives you an idea of the time it will take to get that debt wiped out.

During those same 10 years, while it was collecting 41 billions in taxes, the federal government was spending $68,312,000,000, not counting what was spent on debt retirement. Expenditures exceeded income during the decade, then, by something more than 27 billions.

Ordinary operating expenditures for the regular government departments took $6,747,000,000. That is what you might call the cost of running the government, exclusive of military preparedness, relief, emergency expenditures, the unpaid balance of the last war, and so on. It is a lot of money, but it is only a tenth of the total expenditures for the decade.

What else, then? Well, interest on the public debt—which stood at $12,000,000 annually in 1930 and will be upwards of a billion in 1940—accounts for $8,045,000,000.

National defense took $8,019,000,000. Veterans' pensions and benefits called for $9,950,000,000. The triple-A program runs to $3,820,000,000. Social Security accounts for $2,915,000,000.

Railroad retirement funds took $390,000,000. Refunds of tax and customs receipts ran to $750,000,000. Four hundred and twenty-eight million dollars went to government employees' retirement funds. Some $171,000,000 went to settle various war claims, to meet commodity credit losses, and so on. Supplemental items account for $180,000,000.

Public works received $7,952,000,000. This includes highways, TVA, reclamation, rivers and harbors, flood control, public buildings, grants to various public bodies, and a host of smaller items.

There is unemployment relief, which stands at $16,231,000,000 for the 10-year period. A breakdown on that shows that $4,048,000,000 was spent on direct relief, $7,198,000,000 on work relief, $2,550,000,000 on the Civilian Conservation Corps, and $2,435,000,000 on supplemental items in connection with the various relief activities.

Meanwhile—to whom do we owe all this money?

The general public—banks, corporations, insurance companies and individuals—holds $35,449,000,000 of government bonds. The Federal Reserve System has $2,564,000,000 more. Government trust funds and government agencies hold $1,861,000,000. Various special issues, held by the Old Age Reserve Account, the Unemployment Trust Fund, the Railroad Retirement Account, divers veterans' funds, and so on, come to $4,584,000,000.
