It faced new difficulties as republicans and some conservative democrats prepared amendments to reduce the total further from the President's original $3,050,000,000.

W P A WORKERS TO BE LEFT ON RELIEF ROLLS

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Works Projects Commissioner F. C. Harrington today instructed state WPA administrators to suspend dismissal of persons on WPA rolls for 18 months.

Harrington issued his order because of the senate's action, Friday night, in approving a rider to President Roosevelt's lending bill, which would modify the compulsory provision of the 1943 relief act.

Harrington telegraphed all state administrators instructions to suspend the dismissals.

Fort Worth, July 29.—District Director Major Karl Wallace of the WPA estimated today that 2,700 WPA workers had been slated for dismissal under the new WPA bill.

He announced that 670 workers already had been sent dismissal notices.

Those orders will be rescinded, he said.

Of the total number that had been slated for dismissal in this district, 1,200 were in Tarrant County alone.

Death Rides Center Strips of Roads Is Warning To Public

AUSTIN, July 30.—A warning that death rides the center stripe was given by state police today as a study of fatal head-on collisions in June revealed that a high proportion of the deadly crashes occurred on highways.

Of 39 fatal head-on collisions throughout the state last month, 26 took place on highways, as compared with but 13 such accidents in cities and towns.

Motorists were again advised that a center stripe along a highway is more than a dividing line; it is a definite regulator of traffic behavior. Drivers are warned not to pass other vehicles when the auxiliary broken stripe is on their side of the center stripe, state police pointed out.

Comparison of fatal highway accidents with the total for all the states—that is, with the total for all states as well as roads—showed that 24 persons were killed in non-collision crashes on the highways as compared with 37 for all traffic. Speed is the factor which explains the higher proportion of highway deaths in this type of accident, state authorities believe.

Of 24 pedestrians killed and 100 injured in June, nine died and five were injured on the highways. June traffic claimed 128 lives with four more fatalities resulting from injuries received in previous months.

SHANGHAI, July 29.—Japanese soldiers encroached on Great Britain's sector of the International Settlement tonight and started a flight of probably 70,000 Chinese into the foreign area.

Asserting that the action was taken preparatory to a census of un-inoculated Chinese in the thin strip of un-man's land along Soochow Creek, Japanese soldiers pushed the barriers, guarded by British soldiers back 50 feet and set up new barbed wire barricades of their own.

Chinese fled from the area thus brought under Japanese control. Four British soldiers in a truck were held by Japanese on charges of entering the Japanese sector, until arrival of British soldiers resulted in their release.

A Story Hitler Should Read With Interest

The story of history is never complete. Little footnotes keep cropping up, years after the event. Sometimes the new knowledge is so important as to change whole concepts long accepted.

How long it takes for the New York Times to be delivered at Doorn, Holland, and Betchesgaden, Germany, we don't know. But there are readers in both those places who will want to read the sensational footnote to history revealed by the Times last Sunday, clearing up a point that has been clouded in mystery for 31 years. Kaiser William II and Adolf Hitler are the men for whom it should have an abiding interest.

In 1908, when Europe was setting on the war which it hatched in 1914, the Times sent William Bayard Hale to interview the kaiser. Hale, who had intimate German connections, found the kaiser's yacht Hohenzollern at Bergen, Norway, and the kaiser stalked up and down the deck for two hours, giving Hale the stormiest kind of an interview.

But the interview was never printed. The German foreign office suppressed it, and even a diluted version printed later in Century Magazine was killed at the last moment. A German warship called at New York for the unreleased copies of the magazine, and burned them in her furnaces on the way back to Germany, so explosive was the interview.

Many speculative accounts of Hale's historic interview were printed, largely guess work. Not until just the other day, when Times people were cleaning out the personal files of the late Adolph Ochs were the letters, notes, and memoranda of Hale uncovered, and the unvarnished truth learned. There could no longer be any objection to publication, for the very government which had caused their suppression no longer exists.

The kaiser, Hale's notes now reveal, had ranted and raved against the English as "the traitor to the white man's cause." He viewed Japan's victory over Russia as a tragedy to Europe, and insisted that "the danger to us is not Japan, but Japan at the head of a consolidated Asia." He wished close relations with the United States, especially in Asiatic affairs, saying "Germany has no ambitions that traverse or even approach the spheres of American activity." This was at a time when the kaiser felt very close to President Theodore Roosevelt. He inveighed bitterly against the "English ninnies."

It would be indeed interesting if one could know the reactions to it of two men. First, that of the aged kaiser himself, a prisoner at Doorn as the end-result of his own rash temperament. And second, that of Adolf Hitler, the kaiser's corporal who sits in the kaiser's place and foments a axis alliance with the people who are trying to absorb China—"the worst calamity that could threaten the world" in the mind of the man of Doorn.

Yonker Smacks 2 Long Homers Fri to Ruin Ball Game

Tom Yonker wrecked a good ball game Friday night, and spoiled the whole evening for Robinson's grocery.
The two teams were tied at 4-4 in the latter stages of their nine-inning contest, when Yonker came to bat. The bases were full and one was out, and the stage was set for Yonker's prodigious home run, which went to the far corners of the ball lot.
Robinson's men made a noble effort to overcome that four-run lead, and did gain back two tallies. But Yonker, who was out to win that game, smacked another in the same place when he came up in the eighth, and put the finishing touches on the ball game.
The final score was 12 to 7, or thereabouts, in a game that had been much closer during the first six innings.

A & M College Has Plenty Of Room To House Her Students

COLLEGE STATION—Every boy in Texas who wants a college education is invited to enter A. & M.
For the first time in several years the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas will have plenty of dormitory rooms available when the 1939-40 session begins in September, according to officials who have been advised that the $2,000,000 building project is ahead of schedule.
The construction program nearing completion is providing 1380 fine new rooms, in a dozen brick dormitories together with a new dining hall capable of seating more than 2500 students. Funds for the new buildings were provided by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and revenues from the dormitories will be set aside to repay the government loan.
In previous years students have been disappointed when they failed to apply for dormitory accommodations at A. & M. early in the summer, because returning students practically taxed the dormitory facilities to capacity. Several old dormitories have been kept in use for the past few years, long after they had served their time. The new buildings will allow retirement of the older buildings, which probably will be devoted to other uses.
The enrollment of more than 5800 students in 1938-39 necessitated expansion of the cooperative housing program at A. & M. to Navasota, 21 miles away. Two downtown buildings in Navasota were leased and renovated for student use, the boys traveling more than 40 miles a day from living quarters to classrooms and return.

SERIAL STORY

WAR AND A WOMAN

BY BETTY WALLACE
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, realizing that she had fallen in love with Jimmy, Linda hurried her footsteps, determined to see him before he left. Linda blushed as her father of war, believing that she was a deserter.

CHAPTER III

TAKEN a dislike to Jimmy! Linda Storm braced herself against the onslaught of feeling that even his name spoken by Marcia, could arouse in her. "Don't be silly, Marcia!" she cried sharply. She hadn't meant to be sharp. The moment the words were spoken, she heard the shrill note of panic behind them. She went on swiftly, "Of course I like your boy friend. I'm just out of place here. I didn't know when I came that I'd feel like this. But now I find that I can't forget it—my mind goes right on, weighing and judging against my will."

Linda steeled herself for this meeting with Jimmy. Then she looked directly into his eyes as he rose to greet them, and murmured, "Good morning."

There was a stillness. Linda tried again. "Every time I see an airplane or hear that sound of motors, I remember that they're learning how to wage war. That's all that's the matter. It isn't Jimmy! It isn't!" She slipped her arm around Marcia, tried to recapture the intimacy they had shared as young girls at Miss Lantry's school. "Darling, I'm sorry I ever started it. I shouldn't have told you. I should have been polite if it choked me. But you mustn't think it's your boy friend—that I dislike him." Her voice was blurring. "I ought to go home."

The impact of this meeting with Jimmy Cooper. She gazed all her mental armor. Then she looked directly at the tall figure who rose from the sofa to greet them, and murmured, "Good morning."

"Go home?" Oh, Linda, No! Marcia hugged her fiercely. "It's a free country. Go on, hate the planes and war and even Jimmy all you want to. But this is my wedding! Remember how we used to talk about when we'd get married and be each other's maid of honor? You can't go home! I need you."

"I'm afraid I've spoiled it for you already. What a lunk I am sometimes!"

"You're not a lunk! I respect your opinions, even if I don't agree with some of them. What does anything matter, anyway, but the fact that you're friends?" Her voice quivered. "Lots of times we argue about silly things at Miss Lantry's. It's merely that you've been beautiful since you and I another. But Linda, I never had a sister. And ever since we roomed together, I've had you."

"I expect he's right," Mrs. King put in. "History does repeat itself." "But governments seldom learn that lesson," Linda couldn't help saying. "Anyway your father sounds very learned," Jimmy said. "Daddy is one of the foremost authorities in Latin and ancient history in the country."

It killed her, Linda Storm resolved, she must not betray Marcia's trust in her. She must try to be civil and casual with Jimmy. She must try to pretend he was only another man in a world full of men. But she must not snap at him, she must not be too cold either. That was the most difficult part of it all. Because if she was unfriendly, Marcia would be hurt cruelly. But how could she be close to him and still hold fast to reason and judgment?

"Here it comes!" Her eyes began to sting. Linda was not to make any breaks. Linda crumpled back in her fingers and Mrs. King, pouring a second cup of coffee for Jimmy, remarked, "Most professors subscribe to the belief that war is barbarous. And it is of course. Nevertheless, it is lucky you're already engaged to another professor, isn't it, Linda? So many visiting girls bring home flying sons-in-law from Pensacola."

Elijah: A Life of Courage
Text: 1 Kings 18:20-29

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of Advance
"A LIFE of courage" is the description of Elijah for the purposes of this lesson. It might have been "a man of faith," for Elijah's courage was essentially associated with the depth and strength of his faith.

OUR lesson centers around the famous test by fire, in which Elijah had a sign from heaven and put the prophets of Baal to rout. We can neither explain nor comment upon the miraculous aspect of the narrative, but the one thing that does stand out so strongly is the integrity and honor of Elijah in contrast with the trickery and deceit that have always been a part of false religion and of the activity of false prophets.
