EVERYONE INVITED TO RANGER RODEO

PARADE LABOR DAY TO BE A FEATURE OF TWO DAY RODEO AND CELEBRATION SEPT. 4-5

Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, who is in charge of the big street parade that will be staged at 10:30 Monday morning, Sept. 4, as the opening feature of the Labor Day Rodeo and Celebration in Ranger, has urged that everyone who can possibly do so enter the parade, whether they live in Ranger or not.

"Anyone who has a saddle horse, mule or anything he can ride, from a donkey or a Model T on up should enter this big parade," Murphy stated today, "and this will help make it one of the biggest parades ever staged in Ranger. With a large number of contestants in the rodeo, and with people from Ranger and the surrounding communities having entries, the parade should start the celebration in a big way."

Murphy stated that he had a number of novelty entries that would attract considerable attention, including the portable jail, in which Ranger citizens have been thrown for not entering into the spirit of the rodeo by wearing western costumes.

The parade will be headed by the Ranger High School band, with the ex-mayors of Ranger riding in automobiles, and Hall Walker, present mayor, riding horseback. Murphy said that the first automobile agent in Ranger to secure a 1940 model automobile would have the privilege of furnishing the car for the ex-mayors.

In addition to the features in the parade, mentioned above, there are a number of other entries that have been planned, and which will be entered by Ranger merchants. All cowboys who have registered for the three big rodeo shows will also be on hand, and will take part in the parade.

Officials of the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association, government peanut-buying cooperative, expect to receive the first of the week notification from the federal agriculture department on the prices to be offered for peanuts this season.

The prices to be paid will be based on recommendations delivered by a committee of 12 persons, including representatives of the Southwestern, at a recent conference in Washington with agricultural officials of the government.

The committee was composed of representatives of the Georgia, Florida and Alabama Peanut Growers Association, the Virginia association, the North Carolina association, the Southwestern and four persons representing shellers.

The Southwestern at the conference recommended that a $2 differential offered growers for Spanish peanuts in the southeast and the southwest as effective last year be eliminated. For Spanish peanuts in the southeast last year growers were offered $65 per ton by the peanut cooperatives while in this section $63 a ton was offered by the Southwestern association.

Dick Weekes manager of the Southwestern association with offices at Eastland, one of the Southwestern officials in Washington for the conference, said he did not expect officials to grant full equalization of the difference but that perhaps this year the prices would not vary more than $1 per ton in the two sections.

Congressman Clyde L. Garrett, of Eastland, said Weekes, aided the Southwestern officials while in Washington.

Warehouses this year will be in locally the same towns as last year, with the exception that warehouses will be added at Abilene, Dublin, Weatherford, and in Oklahoma. In this county warehouses will be at Ranger, Eastland, Gorman, Rising Star and Cisco.

First buying of peanuts is expected by Sept. 20. Paying off on the crop last year began Oct. 20.

Those who went to Washington representing the association, in addition to Weekes, were Jack Vaught of Eastland, assistant manager; Conrad Schaefer of Rising Star, president; T. D. Robnett, De Leon; J. E. Britz, Pleasanton; J. D. Sargent, Tolar; P. L. Hoyt, Katy, directors, and C. E. Boules of College Station, specialist in cooperative marketing for the extension service.

Lepke Surrender Credit Is Claimed By A Columnist

By United Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The New York Daily News said Saturday that its columnist, Walter Winchell, had negotiated, personally, the surrender of Louis (Lepke) Buchalter, and delivered the fugitive racketeer to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Winchell told in a signed story the details of the surrender of the fugitive for whom New York City and the Federal Government had ordered $57,000 in rewards. Winchell will not collect the rewards.

Winchell said Lepke gave himself up at 28th street and Fifth Avenue Thursday night, "while scores of pedestrians and two police cars waited for the lights to change."

John Cobb Sets New Record for Speed

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 26.—John Cobb piloted his 2,600 horsepower racing automobile to three new world speeds today.

He set marks of 326.66 miles per hour for five kilometers, 283.01 miles per hour for 10 kilometers and 270.35 miles per hour for 10 miles.

GERMAN SHIP'S CARGO HELD BY CANADIANS

By United Press
QUEBEC, Aug. 26.—The German freighter Koenigsberg was held captive Saturday by Royal Canadian Mounted Police until her master agreed to unload the rest of the cargo and post $12,000 bond on a theft charge for having tried to sail for Germany without unloading.

The 7,000-ton North German Lloyd line ship had just started to unload Friday night when orders came from Germany for all Nazi merchant ships to hurry home because of the European crisis.

Because her 400-ton cargo, mostly zinc oxide, had been paid for in advance by a Montreal firm, Adelaar Paulhus, national revenue collector, revoked the Koenigsberg's papers.

The ship's captain, Capt. Wilhelm Furt, pulled out and started down the St. Lawrence. In short order, a lawyer representing the company that owned the cargo got a theft warrant and a pilot boat, filled with Royal Police, overhauled and boarded the ship and brought it back here.

ATTENDANCE TOTALS 250 AT GOAT DAY

A total of 250 persons, representing 10 counties, were present Friday at the Terrell ranch in the Staff community when an extension service "goat day" program was conducted.

The program was held to call attention to the growing importance of goats to the county. In the last several years the goat population of the county has increased to approximately 20,000.

Thousands of acres of land in Eastland county, it was stated by County Agent Elmo V. Cook, are ideally adapted for goat raising. Should these acres be used for goats the county would become one of the leading mohair producing counties in the state, it was declared.

Dr. Truman Terrell of Fort Worth, owner of the ranch, welcomed visitors to the program.

County agents present in addition to Cook were C. Y. Robinson of Coleman county, C. W. Lehman of Brown county, Knox Parr of Taylor county and W. H. Lewis of Stephens county. Other counties represented included Lampasas, Mills, Erath, Palo Pinto and Tarrant. County agents in attendance also brought with them goat raisers from their territories.

Barbecued chevon was served at noon. Speakers included Dr. A. K. Wier of Ranger, W. R. Nisbet, extension animal husbandman; Dr. I. E. Boughton, veterinarian of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and Frank Grayson, marketing specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Other farm and agricultural officials present included: Charles Bell, Ranger vocational agriculture teacher; George I. Lane, county FSA supervisor; Dick Weekes, manager, and Jack Vaught, assistant manager, Southwestern Peanut Growers Association.

Wildlife Meetings Slated This Week On Hunting Rules

Three wildlife meetings have been scheduled for this week, according to announcement Saturday by Elmo V. Cook, county agent.

Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the community schoolhouse the Kokomo game association will meet and plan hunting rules for 1939-40.

Wednesday night at 8 o'clock completion of the Staff wildlife organization is scheduled at a meeting in the Baptist church.

The Shady Grove game association rules for 1939-40 will be drafted and the community fair discussed at a meeting called for Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the community schoolhouse.

BRITAIN HAS REPLY READY FOR GERMANY

By WEBB MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Aug. 26.—The British Cabinet, with peace or war in the balance, held an emergency meeting Saturday night and drafted a reply to Adolf Hitler, which reliable sources said would be a refusal to accept his suggestion for settling Germany's demands on Poland.

The reply will be flown to Berlin Sunday by Sir Neville Henderson, British Ambassador to Germany, who flew here this morning and transmitted Hitler's "suggestions" to the cabinet and the king.

The "suggestions," according to British sources, showed no positive retreat from Hitler's previous demands for possession of Danzig, the Polish Corridor and certain other sections along Poland's frontier which belonged to Germany before the World War.

Reliable sources said Hitler demanded a free hand to deal directly with Poland.

Britain and France firmly opposed such a solution, insisting that, if there is any conference, Poland must be fully represented, with the firm backing of Paris and London, also in attendance.

Despite the reported attitude of London, Nazi circles in Berlin continued to express confidence that Britain would counsel Poland to accept Hitler's terms.

Information in London and Paris was different. Informed sources said the two powers were determined to stand by their pledge to protect Poland, even if it meant war.

While the gloomy outlook for peace continued, the British and French professed to be satisfied with the general trend of events.

Stocks Advance On Lull In War News

TWO BIG MOTORCADES ARE INVITING PEOPLE FROM A LARGE AREA TO BE PRESENT

TWO BIG DAYS, MONDAY AND TUESDAY, SEPT. 4TH AND 5TH HAVE BEEN PLANNED WITH LOTS OF ENTERTAINMENT PROMISED ON MONDAY.

Two big days are being planned in Ranger on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 4 and 5, with the biggest and best rodeo ever attempted in the town scheduled for three performances, and many other events planned to keep the people busy throughout Labor Day.

The Labor Day activities will start with a big street parade Monday morning at 10:30 and there will be something happening every minute of the day, with two big rodeo performances and a big, free street dance Monday night.

Cash prizes, larger than ever offered before in this part of the country, will be given winners in the rodeo contests, which will draw the best performers to the big event.

Ranger is today inviting everyone who likes a rodeo, everyone who likes a parade, and everyone who likes entertainment of every kind to be present throughout the day.

The famous Light Crust Doughboys of Fort Worth will arrive in Ranger early Monday morning, and will spend a day and a night in the city, broadcasting their special Labor Day program at 12:30 from the main street of the town, where everyone can be present to see and hear a big time radio broadcast being put on the air.

Everyone has heard the Doughboys, and now everyone will have an opportunity of seeing them while they are actually broadcasting over a large network.

After the big street parade, and before the Light Crust Doughboys put on their 30-minute broadcast, there will be a slow mule race down main street, with each contestant riding another man's mule, the last mule crossing the finish line being declared the winner. In this way each rider will be trying to make the mule he is riding finish first in order that his own mule, ridden by someone else, will come in last and win the race.

At one o'clock, immediately after the big broadcast, there will be a watermelon eating contest between local colored and white boys, followed by entertainment by the NYA Ramblers, the string orchestra composed of National Youth Administration boys.

The first performance of the Labor Day Rodeo will be staged at 2:30 in the afternoon with a parade of rodeo performers immediately prior to the performance.

In the rodeo calf milking, bronc riding, wild mule race, wild cow milking, senior breakaway roping, junior breakaway roping and steer riding will be staged, with the best rodeo performers in Central West Texas participating.

Large cash prizes ranging up to $40 for first place and down to $10 for fourth place, will be given in many of the events as day money prizes.

After the rodeo, at 5 o'clock, will be an old fiddlers' contest, to be staged on Main Street, and which will be open to all contestants, and for which no admission charge will be made. Cash prizes are to be offered for first, second and third place winners in this event.

Following the old fiddlers' contest will be a horned frog race, in which everyone can participate.

The second performance of the Labor Day Rodeo will be staged, beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening, on the lighted rodeo field, which is illuminated with 17 lights of 1,500 watts each, making it the best lighted rodeo field in Central Texas. Grandstand seats for more than 500 have been provided, with bleacher seats to provide for another 500, and parking space for many automobiles along the arena fence, from which good views of the entire arena can be obtained.

The final event of the full day of activities planned for Labor Day will be another of the popular free street dances, which Ranger has staged on Saturday nights for the past few weeks. These street dances draw huge crowds to town, and an entire city block is roped off for the dancers. No charge of any kind is to be made for any of the entertainment features, except the rodeo, for which a nominal admission charge is to be made to help defray the large expense of staging such a show.

Everyone in this part of Texas is invited. There will be something doing every minute, from morning until midnight, and everyone can have a big time with very little expense. This is Ranger's big party, planned especially to entertain her neighbors, so all are urged to attend.

Investigation Of Gasoline Prices Urged, Thompson

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—Railroad commissioner Ernest O. Thompson notified his office today that he was having a survey made "to determine why retail gasoline prices didn't go down with the recent crude oil price cut.

Thompson said that the survey would be exhaustive, considering both independent and major oil company gasolines of all grades.

Germans Charged With "Incidents" On Polish Front

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 26.—A series of shootings, explosions and incendiary fires along Poland's frontier caused Polish officials, Saturday, to charge that Germans were "manufacturing incidents" to provoke a war.

The people were busy procuring enough food for the week-end from diminishing supplies. Otherwise the capitol was quiet, despite reports of border sniping, explosions which the Poles said were set by Germans, and fires alleged to have started to stir up border hatred.

Ranger Legion Is Well Represented At State Meeting

Con Hazard and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hansford left Ranger Saturday morning to attend the state convention of the American Legion at Waco, and to attend a meeting of post service officers and welfare chairmen at 1:30 Saturday afternoon.

Sunday morning Mack Dutton, post commander of the Carl Barnes Post, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Burks and Mrs. H. T. Schooley left for Waco to be there in time to attend the Legion and Legion Auxiliary meetings and the services for the Legion Auxiliary Sunday morning at 10:30.

Several more Legionnaires were expected to join the 17th district motorcade at Dublin, and to go with it to the state convention.

Thousands Drown In A Chinese Flood

A Long Traffic Safety Record Broken

Every record has to fall some time. Every unbeaten football team gets it in the neck some day, and the very moment the new champion knocks out the old, he is merely opening the way for the day when he, too, will be knocked over. The long traffic safety improvement record has been broken. Beginning in November of 1937, every succeeding month showed an improvement over the same months a year before. Now at last this inspiring series of rounds won from death has come to an end. Revised figures for the second quarter of 1939 now show that traffic deaths are almost exactly equal to those in 1938. The June death total was 2330—just 20 more than in June a year ago. So the tide has reversed at last. Death has halted in his retreat and is again advancing on the highways.

It is true that increased traffic in 1939 is giving him considerable help. Five months' figures on gasoline consumption show a good 5 per cent increase over last year. So there is no immediate reason to be discouraged in the fight. In fact, big cities, where concerted drives on traffic deaths are being conducted, nearly all showed further decreases. But the rural areas, covered now with speeding vacationists, showed the increase that spoiled the record. Nevertheless, 3782 lives have been saved since death first began to be driven back in 1927, and that is worth doing. That means the equivalent of a sizable little town, existing in the United States today which would not be in existence if the fight on traffic deaths had not been so relentlessly pressed.

The vacation season is on; business is improving; both elements mean more miles traveled on the roads. And that in turn means that every person planning an automobile vacation ought to take one minute as he gets behind the wheel to begin the tour to say to himself "I will be careful!" Improved roads, improved signs, improved traffic direction will help, but in the long run the question of again beating death back off the highways rests squarely with the man at the wheel. Let's resume, individually and collectively, the attack on death which will at last make our highways reasonably safe.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

BY BRUCE CATTON
NRA Service Staff Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA—If you want to find out how the Republican party aims to get back into power, and what it is likely to do with that power if it succeeds, you might profitably study the group which is booming Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania for the nomination. This group may never nominate Governor James. But it has played such a very large part in the recent refinancing and revitalizing of the party's national machinery that it is apt to have a great deal to say about who is nominated and what he does afterward. Dominant figure in the group is Joseph N. Pew, Jr., of Philadelphia, wealthy vice president of the Sun Oil Co. Teamed with him is Col. Carl Estes of Texas, another oil man. James, Estes, and Pew recently returned from a 10-day Canadian fishing trip. The following day Estes announced at Harrisburg that he thought James "an ideal candidate," and James remarked that while he was not actively seeking the nomination, "no man could refuse" the nomination if it were offered. Neither Pew nor Estes does much talking. It is possible, however, to make a fair summary of the general political beliefs held in this group. These rest largely on a firm belief that a thumping business revival is just around the corner, but that it will stay around the corner until Franklin Roosevelt leaves the White House. It is the President's general personal attitude toward business and business' needs which is chiefly objected to, rather than any specific New Deal measure. Change—that the people are fed up with the New Deal and sorely disillusioned, that platforms will not matter very much, that the American people generally vote against someone rather than for someone, and that right now they are getting their mouths fixed to vote against Mr. Roosevelt. The group also tends to feel that it is time for the old system of party responsibility to be revived; that it should be the party, rather than the individual office holder, who shapes policies, the party to whom the voter's loyalty should be directed. Depending on your point of view, you could probably say either that this means a leaning toward "weak" presidents or that it represents a reaction against one-man control. But if this is a business group, which is inclined to see perils in too much democracy, it is not a low-wage group. Quite the contrary. Not long ago a well-known aspirant for the Republican nomination suggested to a member of the group that there could be no recovery until wage rates had been driven down, as high wages caused high prices and high prices delayed recovery. He got a scorching answer. High wages, he was told, are essential to prosperity. Prices must come down, yes; but any attempt to reduce wages ought to be resisted to the utmost. On relief, the chances are that this group would favor returning control of direct relief to counties and townships, under state responsibility. Here, rather roughly outlined, are some of the leading viewpoints within this group. And whether Governor James becomes the nominee or not, it is extremely likely that this group will have a great deal to say about both the nomination and the ensuing campaign.

Rules On Duck and Dove Hunting In Texas Given Federal Approval

Secretary Ickes has announced there would be a 45-day season for duck hunting this fall under regulations covering the 1939 migratory season. The new rules were approved by President Roosevelt in accordance with the federal migratory bird treaty with Canada and Mexico. The hunting season in the southern zone which includes Texas, for ducks, geese, Wilson's snipes or jacksnipes is November 15 to December 29. The regulations on waterfowl hunting place the daily bag limit for ducks at 10 in the aggregate but the possession limit remains at 20 in the aggregate. When any daily limit includes canvas-back, redhead, bufflehead and Ruddy ducks, not more than three of any one, or more than three in the aggregate of these kinds, may be taken, and possession of these particular kinds of ducks is limited to not more than six of any kind or six in the aggregate. Open season on mourning doves in Texas will be: In counties of Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stonewall, Haskell, Throckmorton, Young, Jack, Wise, Denton, Collin, and Hunt, all counties north of these, and in the counties of Parker, Tarrant, Dallas, Rockwall, Kaufman, Johnson, Hopkins, Delta and Franklin, September 1 to October 31; in the remainder of the state, September 15 to November 15.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Sunday School, 9:45 a. m. Morning worship, 11 a. m. Wednesday, testimonial service "Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 27. The Golden Text is: "The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth" (John 1:14). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Heaven and earth shall pass away; but my words shall not pass away" (Mark 13:31). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If men understood their real spiritual source to be all blessedness, they would struggle for recourse to the spiritual and be at peace; but the deeper the error into which mortal mind is plunged, the more intense the opposition to spirituality, till error yields to Truth" (page 329).

TWO LOCATIONS STIR COUNTY OIL INTEREST

Two new locations in Eastland County topped developments in oil activity for this section the week ending Saturday. One location, W. A. Stiles et al No. 1 Duncan, a 1,500-foot project, is four miles southeast of Eastland. The No. 1 Duncan is 200 feet from the south and west lines of section 10, block 2, H&TC survey. Other location was by Lone Star Gas Company which will drill No. 1 F. J. Kimmel, section 87, block 4, H&TC survey, to the Ellenburger, about 4,400 feet, unless gas or oil are found at a lesser depth. The No. 1 Kimmel is 1,195 feet from the north and 1,475 feet from the west line of the section and is about eight miles north of Ciesco. Other Eastland County oil notes: Hickok Producing and Development Company was drilling at 3,900 feet on the No. 1 Hazel, section 41-4-H&TC, four miles east of Ciesco. Two miles north of Scranton, drilling advanced to 1,600 feet on the R. R. Groce No. 1 J. M. Kush, section 130-H&TC. John L. Reeves No. 1 J. V. Parker, northwest part of the William Van Norman survey, eight miles southeast of Eastland, had progress past 1,225 feet. Callahan County Two miles northwest of Scranton, Jim Lanning No. 1 J. H. Burman estate, Matilda Cherry survey, was drilling at 650 feet. Palo Pinto County survey, eight miles northwest of Graford, was drilling at 1,650 feet toward its objective of 2,500 feet. W. K. Gordon No. 1 W. R. Ringo, section 81-2-T&P, at 900 feet was drilling three miles north of Gordon. Pale Pinto Oil and Gas Company No. 1 A. P. Wilbar, block 59, Burleson County School land, four miles northeast of Strawn, was shut down at 3,350 feet. Erath County Four miles northeast of Deadmons, but in Erath County, T. G. Jackson was drilling at 550 feet on No. 1 J. W. Taylor, Prater survey. Six miles southeast of Deadmons, but also in Erath, T. G. Gray No. 1 C. Young heirs, northwest corner of the Stephen Smith survey, was shut down after being spudded. Eight miles northeast of Stephenville, Wayne Chandler No. 1 Chandler, J. W. Moore survey, was shut down below 4,780 feet. Stephens County George Fagg No. 1 Richardson, section 5-31-SFR, six miles north east of Caddo, was shut down below 500 feet. T. G. Shaw No. 1 S. P. Stroud, northwest one-fourth of the G. Newton survey, was attempting to straighten crooked hole below 650 feet. It is in the northeast corner of the county. A. G. Swanson No. 1 Yeak-Frost, section 37-5-T&P, was drilled at 2,400 feet 10 miles south-

General Manager of Rodeo

Sig Faircloth, Ranger groceryman and rodeo performer of note, pictured above, will have charge of the big Labor Day Rodeo and Celebration in Ranger, Sept. 4 and 5. Faircloth, in addition to being an experienced rodeo performer, has had much experience in staging rodeos, and as arena manager, which assures visitors of a first class performance. Three performances of the rodeo will be staged Monday afternoon, Monday night and Tuesday night.

Junior College Has Added Two New Departments

Ranger Junior College will open for its 14th annual session Monday, Sept. 11. Every indication points to the largest enrollment and the most successful year in the history of the institution. In addition to the regular literary courses and vocational opportunities it has offered in business and commercial education for many years, the students will be greeted this session with two new departments. Through the cooperation of the City of Ranger and the federal government a department of vocational shop work has been added with $75,000.00 worth of equipment. Instruction and actual shop experience is offered young men in wood work, metal work, auto mechanics and radio engineering. Three large corporations have already signified their willingness to take the graduates of the college who take the full training in these shops. Hence this offers an unusual opportunity for young men to learn a trade while they master the required hours for graduation from the college. The second department that is being added this year is that of fine arts. Work of collegiate rank as well as the preparatory courses, will be offered in piano, violin, and voice by skilled musicians who have achieved distinction in their fields, who hold degrees and who have studied in the leading conservatories of America. With the addition of these two new departments Ranger Junior College now offers all the advantages of the small college with a genuine human interest in each individual student plus the opportunities in the literary field, fine arts department, and vocational shop work that can be found only in the largest centers. Ranger Junior College is a member of the Texas Association of Junior Colleges, the Association of Texas Colleges and Universities and The American Association of Junior Colleges. It is fully accredited with all the senior colleges and universities in America.

RURAL POWER PROJECT WILL BE A REALITY

Electricity is being brought to Eastland county's rural residents. A. C. Thomas, project superintendent of the Comanche-Eastland Counties Electric Co-operative Association, Inc., announced Saturday that staking crews will begin work Thursday morning in the southeast part of the county on the electrification work which, according to present plans, will result in the building of 218 miles of rural power lines to serve 497 farm families in the county. The county work is being done under a recent allotment of $157,900 by the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington. Farm officials indicated they see a new chapter in farm life of the county's rural residents. It opens a big field for electric appliance firms. Rural electrification of the county will necessitate new educational work of extension workers. Low bidder on construction work, the O. O. Fuller Construction Company of Austin, has been awarded a contract at the cost of $110,423.35, said Thomas. The Long Bell Lumber Company of DeKiddler, La., will furnish 50 carloads of poles. The Aluminum Company of America has been contracted to furnish 600 miles of wire and the Wagner Electric Company will ship 300 transformers, ranging from 1-2 KVA to 10 KVA. Thomas, who has established offices in the Eastland National Bank building on the second floor in rooms 212 and 214, stated that he had been informed by Carl Brandt, resident engineer, that three staking crews of three men who begin work Thursday will cover about two miles per day. After 100 miles of staking the Fuller Construction Company begins work. The order of work for the construction company will likely be in this order: Clearing of right-of-way; location of poles, stringing of poles, pole setting, boring of holes for poles, pole setting, homes with lines and setting of meters. Skilled labor will be furnished by the construction company. It is understood that common labor may be secured in part from men who have signed along the line. Power will be furnished under a contract with the Texas Power and Light Company. The "juice" will be fed into Comanche county by the company which is also supplying Comanche county customers of the two-county cooperative. Comanche county electrification work will be finished in about 10 days or two weeks. In that county 255 miles were provided for to serve 595 connections. Thomas emphasized that rural families may secure connections in the plan by coming to his office. He said it was beneficial to sign up before completion of the project. Exact time for completion of the work was not given. Potentially, the Eastland county electrification line could serve 1,200 connections. Brandt, the resident engineer, will work with the construction company seeing that work is being done according to the association specifications. Eastland county directors of the association are H. J. Huddleston of De Leon rt. 2, I. S. Echols of Gorman rt. 1, E. E. Blackwell of Ranger rt. 1 and W. H. Starr of

Sound Equipment To Be Plentiful At Ranger Shows

There will be plenty of sound equipment available for the Ranger Labor Day Rodeo and Celebration, it was revealed Saturday, with two splendid pieces of equipment secured for the two days. A stationary sound system, belonging to the Duncan Coffee Company of Houston, has been secured, it was announced as has a sound truck owned by the Philco Company. The stationary equipment is expected to be used at the rodeo, exclusively, while the sound truck, which was secured by J. F. Killingsworth, local Philco dealer, will be used for all events throughout the day.

Dallas Warehouse Destroyed By Fire

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—A raging fire swept through a large warehouse Saturday, destroying stored cotton valued at more than $250,000. The warehouse was owned by the Farmers and Merchants Company and was estimated at least 5,000 bales of cotton were burn-

Mrs. Paulina Hunt Funeral Services Held at Eastland
Eastland County Women Planning to Attend Convention

Funeral services for Mrs. Paulina Hunt of Eastland, whose appearance was that of a woman much younger than her actual age of 96 years, were conducted Saturday afternoon at Eastland. Services for Mrs. Hunt, who died Friday, were at the First Baptist Church with Rev. Morgan of Breckenridge and Rev. H. B. Johnson of Ranger officiating. Burial was in Eastland cemetery. Mrs. Hunt only recently observed her 96th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Julia Mayes of Eastland, with whom she made her home. Mrs. Hunt had been more or less active until 20 months ago, since which time she had been bedfast. She had lived in Eastland since 1898 when with her husband, the late Rev. E. M. Hunt, and family Mrs. Hunt moved from Fannin county. The pioneer was born in Indiana and moved to Texas, settling at Fannin county in 1923. Her husband, who died in 1923 at the age of 84, devoted 51 years to the Baptist ministry. During the Civil War Mrs. Hunt moved from Texas to Missouri. Her husband was a private in the Union forces. After the war they moved back to Texas. Five of seven children survive. They are Mrs. Mayes of Eastland, Will Hunt of Breckenridge, George Hunt of San Antonio, S. C. Hunt of Eastland and John Hunt of Sherman. Hammer Undertaking Company had charge of arrangements. In keeping with a request made to children before her death, the body was not embalmed.

Communist Will Protest Her Rights Have Been Violated

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26.—Emma Tenayuca Brooks, state communist secretary, announced today she had appealed to Attorney General Frank Murphy and the American Civil Liberties League to investigate a "conspiracy against civil liberties in San Antonio." Mrs. Brooks was speaking at a communist meeting Friday night when rioters forced police to dissolve the meeting. A crowd of 5,000 angry citizens, including several hundred World War veterans in fraternal uniforms, broke up the meeting and some of them partially wrecked the building, which was dedicated to Texas soldier dead.

Moore Enthusiastic Over Features On New Hudson Autos

C. J. Moore, local Hudson dealer, who returned recently from Dallas, where he attended a meeting of dealers and a showing of the 1940 models, is enthusiastic over the new Hudson cars and the many features they contain for 1940. "It is really hard to believe that so much can be put into a car for so low a price," Moore enthusiastically stated upon his return. "There is little use in me trying to tell anyone about these features, because they wouldn't believe me anyway. They will just have to see them to believe it. Even then some will probably be a little skeptical about all that quality being in regular stock model cars."

Alice Marble Wins First Tennis Match

FOREST HILL, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Alice Marble of San Francisco set the Stars and Stripes off the lead of the 17th annual Wightman Cup tennis series Saturday, by defeating Mary Hardwick of Great Britain, 6-3; 6-4.

Senator Predicts a Session By Fall

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—Sen. Joe Hill of Henderson predicted today that Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel would call a special session of the legislature this fall to head off "very drastic cuts" in Texas pension payments. The new welfare board, appointed by O'Daniel will meet here next week to draft a plan for obtaining September matching funds from the Federal Social Security board.

"Go Western" Idea Getting Publicity For Ranger Rodeo

Members of the Ranger Labor Day Rodeo committees, and directors of the celebration Saturday thanked the people of the city for their wonderful spirit of cooperation in "going western" to help advertise the big Labor Day Rodeo and Celebration.

It was pointed out that the "go western" idea was conceived, and unanimously voted, at a meeting of the directors of the celebration, as a means of helping to advertise the affair.

Many comments were heard in Ranger Saturday, the first "go western" day, from out-of-town people, who felt that Ranger was 100 per cent behind the movement and were giving it some splendid publicity.

The go western idea was not the plan of any one man, it was pointed out the first day, but was brought up and discussed fully before a full meeting of the directors, and was decided upon at the meeting.

"Of course," it was pointed out by members of the board of directors, "we have no intention of putting those who really cannot afford to go western into the jail, nor do we want to embarrass anyone. It is intended as a publicity gag, which is working out splendidly."

"There has been a little criticism from some who did not attend the meetings, and who did not, at first, understand the go western plan of advertising the rodeo, but this criticism died down quickly when the real facts were explained."

MYSTERY OF MISSING JAIL QUICKLY SOLVED IN RANGER; CITIZENS BEING LOCKED UP

The mystery of the missing hoosegow was solved quickly in Ranger Saturday morning, after thieves had stolen the "go western" jail that was located in front of the Commercial State Bank Friday afternoon. By nine o'clock Saturday morning the missing jail was located, out in the country, and was returned to town, where it was securely chained to a lamp post so it couldn't be stolen again.

The jail was built by the Ranger Fire Department, and into it Ranger citizens who do not join into the spirit of the Labor Day Rodeo and Celebration are thrown. The jail was made portable and was mounted on a portable handstand, in order that it might be paraded around the streets, if necessary. It will also be entered in the big parade on the morning of Labor Day.

The first citizen to make the "stouthouse" Saturday morning was H. L. Baskin, dean of the Ranger Junior College, who put up quite a struggle before he was locked up. His stay in jail was short, however, as he was released within a few minutes. Ira Utz, local newspaper salesman, was the second locked up.

Speculation as to who stole the jail was rife in Ranger early Saturday, as people were seen without the western regalia, but there was no jail in which to lock them. At first it was thought that possibly Cisco citizens, who are also staging a rodeo, and who have a jail on their main street, had stolen the lockup, but this rumor was soon refuted.

Guy Pledger, Ranger Chief of Police, was also accused of the crime, some being of the belief that Pledger had stolen the jail to cut down competition. This Pledger denied, however, stating that both night patrolmen were asleep on the jail platform at the time it was stolen, acting as guards.

Neither of the night patrolmen could be found Saturday morning to deny the charges, or to establish alibis, and the jail was found and returned before they could be located.

The especially-appointed "sheriffs" were more or less lenient in throwing people into the hoosegow, which bears two signs, one reading "Ranger Jug" and the other "Ranger Hoosegow." Their reluctance to throw in too many prisoners was explained by the statement that many were unable to purchase western garb that would fit, some of the smaller and larger sizes being hard to procure. Those who put up this plea were given suspended sentences and released until they could make arrangements to import costumes that would fit.

The jail will be in operation throughout this week, and during the Labor Day Celebration, and more citizens are expected to be jailed as the day of the celebration nears—unless they dress up in appropriate costumes.

E. E. Taliaferro Buys Station And Takes Over Duties

The Central Service Station, at the corner of Pine and South Buck Streets, formerly operated by Aaron Stiles, has been purchased by E. E. Taliaferro, who is now operating the station.

Stiles, who has been in the service station business in Ranger for a number of years, will be associated with A. N. Bradford in operation of the Ranger Steam Laundry.

Taliaferro will be assisted in running the station by Ray Holiday, who is an experienced station operator.

The station will continue to handle Gulf products, and will also do washing and greasing as well as operating a storage service and tire repairing.

Marriage of Miss Anita Crawley and Mr. Vergel G. Perry Is Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Anita Crawley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Crawley, to Mr. Vergel G. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Perry of Hamilton, was solemnized Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents. Rev. G. Alfred Brown read the service.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar backed by a white tulle covered in fern and clusters of crepe myrtle. Large ferns stood at each side and a basket of flowers at the foot of the altar.

The bride was attired in an ensemble of navy blue with blue accessories. Her corsage was of tube roses and carnations. She was attended by Miss Lorena Harrell who was dressed in teal blue and wore a corsage of lilies and tube roses.

Mr. Price Crawley, brother of the bride, served the groom as best man.

The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for a trip to San Antonio and other South Texas points, after which they will make their home in Gorman, where Mr. Perry is head of the science department of the Gorman High school.

The bride is a graduate of the Ranger high school and of Mary Hardin-Baylor College at Belton, and taught for several years after completing her training. She has many friends in Ranger, having lived here for a number of years.

Guests at the wedding were: Miss Jessie May Winkle of Goodlet, Miss Oleta Curlee of Rowin, Mrs. Weaver Aishman, Miss Darlene McGregor, Mrs. G. Alfred Brown and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Creager and daughters, Mrs. W. B. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Crawley and Betty Jean.

Mrs. W. J. Barr, who with Mr. Barr was called to Fort Worth, Friday evening was given a surprise birthday party at Casa Ma-tained at her home Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock with a lawn party for her little friends on her third birthday, at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. J. R. Ervin.

After an hour of play refreshments were served to the following: Ann Le Wolford, Angela Parsons, Gail Garner, Carolyn Sue Burks, Deanna Puley, Jimmie Arrendale, Jack Allen, Bill Swaney, Mary Sue White, Jack Terry, Mary Helen and Jeanette Kirkpatrick, Marjorie Brewer, Mary Theresa O'Donnell and Bob Steels.

Moses Arrendale, Dorthena Parsons, Jack Terry, Raymond Steele, Brann Garner, Preston Burks, Dorothy O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Johnson, Ira Wolford and the child's great grandmother, Mrs. W. O. Walker.

Guest from Menard Entertained Here

Miss LaVerne Jacoby has been entertaining her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Waddell of Menard, for the past week. After leaving Ranger she will return to Menard, where she will resume her duties as chief operator and cashier of the Southwestern States Telephone Co.

Miss Helen Gholson Complimented at Supper

Miss Jane Lauderdale entertained Thursday evening at her home at 7:30 o'clock with a supper in the garden complimenting Miss Helen Gholson, who will leave this week for Evansville, Ind., where she will attend school during the winter.

Following the supper the guests presented Miss Gholson with a surprise shower of gifts. Each gift was marked with an original jingle which had to be read before the gift could be opened.

Guests at the supper were: Misses Doris Dudley, Gene Bartrug, Yvonne Kribbs, Bette Gorman, Marise Chastain, Sara Holt, Dixie Gillinger, Margaret Watt, Sara McLaughlin, Electra Pearson, Fannie Dell Swaney, Dorothy Byas, Rita Mooney, Ann Vaughn, Bessie Roberson, Francis Gholson, Marie Conway, Virginia Garrett, Tirzie Sikes and Julia Parker of Eastland; Cleoanna Moore, Catherine Murray, Doris May, Juneann Grigolet and Anne Cooper.

Dayton Rutledge of Austin is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harrell for the week-end.

Just a Bit Personal . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Johnson have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Johnson in Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Layne Turner and twins, Lana and Layne, of Jal, New Mexico, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hummel and children, Elsie and Jack, left Saturday for a vacation trip to Ohio. While there they will attend the air races at Cleveland.

Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson have returned from a visit in Bonham.

Guy Gray of Fayetteville, Ark., is a guest in the home of his sister, Mrs. T. A. Watt. Mr. Gray will be a junior this year in the University of Arkansas, where he is a member of the Razor Back team.

Direction Isle Gets Imported Soil

By United Press
SINGAPORE.—The most precious thing on Direction Island, lately home of a few British employees of a cable company, is the soil which was shipped there from Christmas Island, more than 500 miles away.

The British wanted a garden, but Direction Island, one of the Cocos group in the Indian Ocean, is mostly coral with little or no soil in which vegetables could be grown. The cable company employees grew weary of tinned vegetables and occasional cold storage supplies received by steamer.

So they arranged with officials of the Christmas Island Phosphate Co. to send them shipments of soil, and now they spend their spare time cultivating vegetables.

They're trying to curb Kansas jitterbugs with a 5:30 curfew. American League pitchers have been trying to stop Joe DiMaggio, too.

Court Without A Flag Worries Six New Born Citizens

By United Press
PHILADELPHIA.—Federal Judge Harry E. Kalodner was embarrassed when six persons who had just received their citizenship papers offered to buy an American flag for the courtroom.

The six "new-born" Americans—three Italians, two Czechs and one Russian—had noticed that the courtroom was without a flag and told Judge Kalodner:

"We are so happy to become Americans that we thought Your Honor wouldn't mind if we put a little money together to buy a flag for your courtroom."

Judge Kalodner replied: "This is a fine gesture on your part. But I must say I hardly feel it is proper for a rich nation to allow you to spend your money for something it should buy."

"I thank you deeply, but please keep your money. I am sure you are going to prove true and valuable Americans."

The judge immediately summoned a court aide and ordered him to purchase a flag.

Never Worry, It Is Aging, Woman Says

By United Press
MENTOR, O.—Mrs. Ellen Spaulding, 102, is afraid that if she worries too much she might grow old.

"There's no stopping what is going to happen," she said on her birthday. "If I worry too much, I'll be growing old."

Mrs. Spaulding, whose home is in suburban Cleveland Heights, is spending the summer here with a son, F. E. Spaulding. She was born in a log house in Genoa county in 1837 and spent most of her life on a dairy farm near Chardon.

Yacht Harbor Gains Security From Cans

By United Press
NEW ORLEANS.—Something new in the way of heavens for yachts is creeping out from the shoreline of Lake Pontchartrain—a harbor made of tin cans.

People swimming along the Huey Long seawall can see their cumulated contents of their ashcans being used in construction of two long "enfolded" arms, which soon will be strong enough to break the often boisterous waves that blow landward.

In three months, the city dump across town has been moved, almost intact, to the lakefront. Work is going on 24 hours a day on the artificial harbor.

The finished harbor will be 1,200 by 1,900 feet, and with about 1,900 feet of wall completed, only about 1,600 feet remain. The base of the breakwater, on the lake bottom, is nearly 200 feet wide. The top of the wall, 10 feet above the water's surface, is 40 feet wide, and a two-lane road 18 feet wide allows dump-truck traffic to be carried on steadily.

Engineers reported that property adjacent to the old city dumping ground has risen in value as scrap material is hauled away.

When the work of transferring waste is completed, slips for 300 yachts will be built in the basin.

A Minnesota farm woman has requested a loud police whistle to call her children because they couldn't hear her voice. Wonder how she rounds up the hogs.

EASTLAND GRIDSTERS BEGIN PLAY IN SEPT. IN CLASS A ACTIVITY

Eastland football team and fans will find themselves in straits, but it is hoped more agreeable company this year.

Beginning this season the Eastland Mavericks play in Class A Interscholastic League competition.

No longer is Eastland in district competition which puts it up against teams from cities such as Breckenridge, Abilene, Cisco, Big Spring, Ranger and San Angelo.

The competition in which Eastland formerly took part is now known as Class AA.

In reality, Eastland this year takes a part in football play which until this year was known as Class B.

Admittedly, Eastland had been out of its class in meeting football teams from schools boasting enrollments many times that of Eastland.

Although Eastland no longer is in the same class as Ranger, the Mavericks have non-conference games matched with their arch but friendly foes of Eastland county, Cisco and Ranger.

Despite the difference in ratings Cisco and Ranger are expected to evince as much interest as ever before when their teams meet Eastland.

In the district in which Eastland plays this year there are also Comanche, Dublin, DeLeon, Hamilton, Hico, Comanche and Hamilton are expected to have two of the strongest teams.

Eastland's Schedule
Scranton at Eastland—Sept. 15
Open Date—Sept. 22
Hico at Eastland—Sept. 29
Gorman at Eastland—Oct. 6
Cisco at Cisco—Oct. 13

Comanche at Eastland—Oct. 20
Dublin at Dublin—Oct. 27
Open Date—Nov. 11
Hamilton at Eastland—Nov. 17
Ranger at Ranger—Nov. 23
* Non-conference game.

Football boys have been asked by Coach Grady to report Sept. 1 at West Ward schoolground. The team will likely be built around Mitchell, Furse, Bush, Van Geem, Self and Young.

Although there are two open dates, it is likely that only the Sept. 22 date will be filled it was said.

Girl of 16 Leads A Clan of Musicians

COLUMBUS, O.—The five members of the J. Louis Richter family are accomplished musicians. Musical families are nothing new, but the Richter clan—including three daughters—would rather play by ear than follow written scores for the piano.

But these days it is Mary Alice, 16, the composer, who gets first chance at the piano in the household, for she has composed two melodies soon to be published. A confessed jitterbug, Mary, like the other members of her family, plays by ear.

Mr. and Mrs. Richter play the piano, as do daughters Louise, 19, and 4-year-old Mary Margaret.

Mary Alice began picking out tunes on the ivories when she was 4, and today she still would much rather hear a song hummed and then play it than sight-read the music, although she took lessons in classical harmonies for two years.

State Police Survey Highway Mishaps To Place Blame

AUSTIN, Tex.—State police today delved into a six-month survey of Texas traffic to place squarely on the drinking driver the chief blame for a disastrous highway toll.

Of 699 lives lost in Texas traffic during the first six months of 1939, more than half, or 394, were taken in highway crashes.

Of 174 pedestrians killed, almost one-third, or 64, were struck on highways—a figure out of proportion with the volume of pedestrian traffic on highways, state men observed.

Separating highway accidents from all others, state police learned that the drinking driver may be held accountable for almost 24 per cent of the fatalities on the highways. When all traffic—urban as well as rural—is considered the drinking driver's percentage in fatal crashes drops to 19.71 per cent.

Head-on collisions with another vehicle was responsible for more than 27 per cent of fatal highway crashes. The percentage drops to a little more than 18 per cent when urban traffic is added to the picture. On the other hand, excess speed for conditions is given the primary cause in but 15 per cent of the highway fatalities compared with more than 16 per cent for all traffic.

The Australian who landed 1000-pound shark with a rod and line didn't bother to mention one that got away.

Oil Played a Prominent Part In The Crumbling Political Empire Which Huey Long Built During His Lifetime

By TED H. MALOY
Special Press Staff Correspondent
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—The black gold beneath Louisiana's soil, played a powerful part in the crumbling of the political empire that Huey Long built.

Among the federal statutes there is a law called the Connally "Hot Oil" Act. "Hot oil" is defined as oil which is produced in violation of the state proration orders and shipped in interstate commerce.

have failed, and former Governor Richard Leche repeatedly informed the other states that Louisiana was holding its production within the U. S. Bureau of Mines estimate of monthly needs.

On Aug. 7 a federal grand jury here indicted Leche and Seymour Weiss, another of the triumvirate to whom Long willed his political empire, on charges of conspiring to violate the Connally Act. A similar indictment was returned against Freeman W. Burford, president of the East Texas Refining Co., Dallas, Texas.

The specific charge was that the Louisiana Conservation Department ordered production from 13 wells on the Sexton lease of the Rodessa field in Northern Louisiana increased from 5,000 barrels daily to 20,000. The indictment alleged that 400,000 barrels of that oil then were sent to Burford's refinery, and that Weiss collected 10 cents a barrel on it and split the money with Leche.

In addition to the $48,000 thus derived, the indictment alleged that $100,000 was paid to Weiss for helping Burford sell his East Texas Pipe Line Co. to the United Gas Co. of Shreveport. Weiss and Leche, according to the government, paid $14,000 to an attorney and split the remainder of the $148,000.

At a hearing in Dallas Shaw testified that he was called to Weiss' office in March, 1936, and was asked to sign an order increasing the production on the Sexton lease. He added that Robert Maestri, then conservation commissioner and now mayor of New Orleans, ordered him by telephone to sign the order. Shaw said he signed "anything they put before me except an order to hang me."

District Judge T. Whit Davidson refused to send Burford back to Louisiana and said that Maestri and Shaw "are just as guilty in this transaction from the face of the record as are any other men indicted in this case."

Shaw's nerves broke under the strain and on the night of Aug. 20 he shot and killed himself in his New Orleans home, depriving government lawyers of the benefits their case might receive from cross-examining him when the indicted men are brought to trial.

believe it is unconstitutional. At present it is a powerful weapon in the federal government's investigation of Louisiana political affairs.

Waiters Urged To Quit Using Lingo

By United Press
KANSAS CITY, Mo.—John B. O'Meara of Chicago, an expert on the proper and improper manner of restaurant service, gave 200 Kansas City waiters and waitresses tips on ways to get ahead in their business. Some pointers: If a man orders milk toast the waitress should not yell: "Stew for a stiff."

Two poached eggs on toast should not be called "Adam and Eve on a raft," nor should frankfurters and sauerkraut be referred to as "dogs in the grass."

Head waiters should never employ the old-fashioned trick of speeding up service by shouting: "Get a move on, you soup jockeys."

Waitresses should not paint their fingernails. It takes a customer's mind off his food. The advice is repeated for wearing engagement rings.

never place a napkin on the patron's lap. That's being too familiar.

The worst blunder O'Meara remembered was on the waitress who brought a customer a rare steak and remarked: "I don't see how you can eat that stuff."

SERIAL STORY

Murder on the Boardwalk

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

Yesterday's questioning proceeds, it is revealed that Mrs. Talbert was Yardley's sister partner. Christine's identity is also made known. Then the inspector hands her a letter written by her cousin Emma's will.

CHAPTER IX

SINCE Christine had first caught sight of that pitiful body on the concrete bench, she had known horror and remorse. Now she knew terror.

"I see for you a very real danger," a voice echoed in her memory.

"But," she faltered, "Cousin Emma knew that I am not extravagant—she never suggested that she thought so. . . . And she has never mentioned her will to me. . . . I can't imagine that she wrote this letter. But—who did?"

"Miss Thorenson," the inspector asked softly, "could you identify your cousin's writing?"

"I—I don't know. This certainly looks like hers."

"Isn't there anything you can tell me," the inspector went on almost gently, "that might throw some light on this business?"

Christine thought, I ought to tell him everything—about Jasper, for instance—about that telephone girl, and about the swamp's wearing that dagger.

But all that—with its inevitable questions—would take time. And if the clairvoyant had had any part in this, why should he have tried to warn her? Now she wanted only to get to her room and satisfy herself that there was, among her belongings, nothing sinister—like this letter—the complete and incredible position in which she found herself.

"Nothing," she said, "that I can think of."

The inspector's face hardened; and he swung upon the disreputable figure in wading boots who, with Bill, had just returned from the next room and had resumed his seat in the corner by the door.

"Thank you," the inspector barked, "suppose you tell me just when and where you have known this young lady."

SOME ONE—Christine thought it was Bill—cried out, "Watch him!"

Then all the lights went out, and a chair fell with a crash. . . . After that the inspector, who stood nothing but the sound of scuffling feet and heavy breathing until the door opened—and slammed shut.

. . . Later, sounds of shouts and running came from the darkened corridor outside.

When the lights flashed on again, there were left in the room only the inspector, who stood with his hand on the light switch, Mrs. Wilmet, cowering behind a chair, and Christine. . . . Almost at once Bill Yardley opened the door and came in.

"Well, Inspector," said Bill, "Puss-in-Boots pulled a fast one, didn't he? I think your men have lost him in the dark. I've been wondering just how long it would take you to notice that the switch was right beside his chair."

"And I'm wondering," the inspector's eyes were far from friendly—"just how much you helped him, Yardley."

The telephone rang. Inspector Parsons picked up the instrument and listened. Then, as if the call had been a signal he was waiting for, he suggested almost pleasantly, "You might as well all go and get some sleep."

Hardly daring to believe that they were free, Christine found herself with Bill and Mr. Wilmet, going downstairs and into the street. As she and Bill were turning away toward Christine's lodging, Mr. Wilmet coughed apologetically.

"Miss Thorenson," he said, "of course you wouldn't care to go on sketching in that booth now—but suppose I find a quieter place? Could you meet me tomorrow morning—say at that drugstore in the Crestview—and talk things over? . . . Working with you has been such a—pleasure."

"Miss Thorenson," he said, "of course you wouldn't care to go on sketching in that booth now—but suppose I find a quieter place? Could you meet me tomorrow morning—say at that drugstore in the Crestview—and talk things over? . . . Working with you has been such a—pleasure."

"Why," Christine hesitated—"frankly I shall have to earn some money somehow, Mr. Wilmet."

"Until 10:30 tomorrow then?" the little man beamed. "Good night."

"LISTEN, Christine," Bill said as Mr. Wilmet patrolled off into the darkness, "I wish you wouldn't go off all around you down on the Boardwalk? After tonight you're a marked woman."

Christine stopped short. "Was that what those men were doing?" she demanded. "It hadn't occurred to me that they were sniping at me."

"Well, it had to be. Tomorrow your pictures will be all over the front page. . . . If you're really hard up, why not let me help instead of a complete outsider? Anyhow, I don't trust your funny little boss."

"Not trust him?" . . . That helpless old baboon-in-the-suit!

"Old!" He's probably not got much on me. Lots of men are bald at 30. And he may be helpless, but he doesn't handle the truth any too carefully."

"What do you mean?"

"He didn't go to any moving picture tonight—or if he did it was nearer 10 than nine as he said."

"How do you know?"

"I saw him down on the beach after 9:30. You see, after Labor Day, I'm permitted to take my horses to the beach. The hitching posts are right beyond that studio. Tonight I went down to see what condition they were in—and there was your little babe-in-the-wood, poking around behind that booth."

"Poking around?"

"He seemed to be examining the foundations of his booth. Just before I came along, he went off up to the Boardwalk. I don't think he even saw me."

"They were strolling along the promenade toward Christine's street."

"Bill," Christine hurried on, "I've got to know—were you beating up Jas—that man down on the beach tonight?"

Bill was silent for a long moment before he replied, ". . . am going to tell you because—well, you have got to know—for your own safety, Christine, he was following you."

"He was—what?"

"He was skulking in a shadow," Bill said, "when you came out of the clairvoyant's booth; and he skulked along the Boardwalk behind you, evidently waiting for a chance to stop you when there was no one else near."

"Of course," Bill went on, "the reason I know is that I was trailing you, too. While I was down on the beach, I saw you standing under a light on the Boardwalk, reading something. I was trying to catch up with you when you went into that Temple of Truth place, and—well, I waited in a parked car just off the Boardwalk. . . . And now I've got something to ask you, Christine. Just now you started to call Puss-in-Boots by name, didn't you?"

"Bill," Christine said, hardly believing it yet herself, "he's Jasper—Cousin Emma's butler. . . . At least he was her butler the day I knew. . . . It's—unbelievable, but suppose he did kill her?"

"I am supposing it," Bill said shortly. "But what's a lot more vital to me is that he wasn't following you for any good."

"But, Bill, even if he stabbed Cousin Emma—why should he want to harm me?"

"God knows—unless he's a maniac. . . . And only God knows where he's skulking now. . . . Christine, you recognized him at once, didn't you? I was sure that you had."

Christine's blood chilled.

If even Bill had been so sure, Inspector Parsons had not, as she hoped, been just guessing. . . . He knew.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By Bruce Catton

WASHINGTON—If you like to dip into the future and look for portents and marvels, you ought to devote a little speculative attention to the Department of Agriculture's famous food stamp plan.

Here may be the biggest thing that the New Deal has turned loose yet. It is just beginning to pick up steam, and it has all the earmarks of being a self-accelerator. The Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation, which invented it, may yet find itself in the position of a man who has a bear by the tail.

Consider, for instance, the figures from Rochester, N. Y., where the plan got its first tryout. They apparently prove that somehow this plan creates an extra dollar's worth of food-buying power—out of thin air, maybe—for every government dollar that is put into it.

Total grocery sales in the Rochester stores patronized by the stamp users rose 12 per cent during the period under study—yet the blue stamps, in themselves, only accounted for half of that increase.

Evidently, the mere fact that the plan was in operation somehow created an increased demand for foodstuffs.

Now go on from there. The 8000-odd Rochester relief families which have been using the stamps like the idea—as why wouldn't they, when it adds 50 per cent to their buying power? The grocers like it, as they would naturally like anything that hikes business by 12 per cent.

The farmers like it, because—apparently, on the basis of these early figures—it does twice as much to stimulate the buying of food as did the direct-subsidy-and-distribution system of disposing of farm surpluses. And the Rochester merchants who have been getting this business have been spending more money on advertising, on store fixtures, and the like.

The FSSC is beginning to get rise out of the bankers. The banks handle the food stamps, and draw cards in the plan that way. Furthermore, they are likely to react favorably to anything that stimulates business among the commercial depositors. And the FSSC is beginning to get inquiries from bankers asking how about all of this, anyway, and is it a good as it looks?

Now a scheme which does all of these things is easy to start—once started, it is likely to be amazingly hard to stop.

The food stamp plan was an experiment three months ago. Now it is getting out of the experimental stage and being readied for 50 or 100 cities. You are hardly being over-imaginative if you begin figuring the sooner or later it might be expanded to apply to all of the reliefers in the United States.

But that is only the half of it. About the first of September FSSC is starting a new experiment. It is going to make the low-income brackets, who are in need of relief at all. This is to happen in Shawnee, Okla., and that experiment will be about as much worth watching as anything that will happen in the United States this summer.

Officials of the FSSC are frank to say that they don't know where they have hold of something that it eventually take in all the reliefers, plus all the low-income wage earners? If so, how many hundreds of millions will it cost and where will the money come from? They don't know and the won't even try to guess.

The one obvious fact is that everywhere in Jerusalem to fall, many, many times bigger the anyone dreamed when the experiment was first started.

A King Who Remembered God

Text: II Chronicles 30:13-22

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D., Editor of Abney

THOSE who believe that character is formed chiefly by environment have a very difficult problem to face. For good fathers often have very weak and evil sons, and very bad fathers often have very good sons. It would seem that father and son who come out of much the same environment would face much the same sort of conditions.

We are too apt to forget, perhaps, that mothers are a very important factor in the case. We are likewise apt to underestimate the importance of heredity, which accounts for the extremes of goodness and badness in generations of the same family. There is, of course, the qualifying circumstance that the environment may actually be very much different from what it seems. The fact that a father has been a drunkard or a waster has sometimes stimulated a son's determination not to follow in his father's footsteps.

The text of our lesson in itself would not seem to mean a great deal or to offer much for spiritual instruction. It seems to read as if it were a record of a ritualistic practice. But if we read the context and take into account the whole story and circumstances, we shall find a most interesting lesson, full of human values and very instructive for righteousness.

HAZ, king of Judah, was one of the worst kings in the whole history of that people. But his son, Hezekiah, in contrast, was one of the best. Hezekiah came to the kingdom under circumstances that would test the character and courage of any man, even if he had the strength to do right.

HAZ, in his viciousness and foolishness, had perverted the religion of Israel. He had stripped the temple of its treasures to try to gain the favor of Tilgath-pileser, king of Assyria, though it did him no good. No content to desecrate the temple and pervert the religion of Israel, he had also set up altars everywhere in Jerusalem to false gods. Pagan shrines were at the street corners.

One can imagine how deeply these things must have taken hold of the life of a people who even permitted them to happen. Yet, the first thing that Hezekiah did when he became king was to face this situation boldly. He purified the temple and restored its worship, and he destroyed the altars that had been set up for idolatrous worship.

This was not enough. The life of the nation itself had to be purified. Our lesson describes this symbolic purification, which had underlying it much real experience of sanctification in the national observance of the Passover, when the people assembled at Jerusalem and "kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness."

It was a great day in Israel, and for modern nations and peoples there is hope in what it emphasizes: that mass movements for health, sanity and righteousness are as much possible as mass movements of lapse into laxity and degradation.

GERMANS SAY HITLER BEING DISCREDITED

By FREDERICK C. OEBERGER, United Press Staff Correspondent BERLIN, Aug. 28.—Nazis, impatiently awaiting a communication from the British government, bitterly accused France today of attempting to discredit Adolf Hitler. Hitler was reported thoroughly angry at a French government communique which, as Nazis held, accused him of rejecting peace suggestions, and caused him after a midnight conference with the highest leaders in the Nazi hierarchy to publish the text of letters he had exchanged with Premier Edouard Daladier. The effect of these letters was that Hitler and Daladier exchanged expressions of a will to peace and friendship but that Daladier reaffirmed France's pledge to aid Poland against attack and Hitler said that he must have Danzig and the Polish Corridor. Hitler said that he saw no possibility of "influencing Poland to correct, in a sensible way, a situation which is insupportable to the German people and the German Reich."

Gasoline Stocks Are Diminishing More Rapidly Now

AUSTIN, Aug. 28.—Reduced stocks of gasoline and crude oil, some cases causing actual shortages, have resulted from a 15-day drop in six mid-continent Texas Railroad Commission today. Reports from representative companies did not indicate that the shortage may be continuing in Texas.

It was not merely diplomatic exchanges that showed the gravity of the situation.

A drastic food rationing system was imposed on the entire country. Meat, including sausage, fresh or canned, milk, coffee and coffee substitutes, cheese, oils and fats; certain cereals and even floor soaps were rationed. Sale of beer or liquors in railroad stations was forbidden.

Tension in German-French relations increased sharply and for that reason the British communication, replying to suggestions which Hitler had made through Sir Neville Henderson, was awaited with additional concern.

Hitler had been busy at his chancellery when news came of the French communique. He had summoned available members of his Nazi Reichstag to address the Reichstag.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER ON THE BOARDWALK BY ELINORE COWAN STONE

COPYRIGHT, 1934, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday's... a questioning... it is revealed that Mrs. Talbert was Yordley's silent partner...

CHAPTER IX

SINCE Christine had first caught sight of that pitiful body on the concrete bench, she had known horror and remorse...

"I see for you a very real danger," a voice echoed in her memory. "But," she faltered, "Cousin Emma knew that I am not extravagant—she never suggested that she thought so..."

"Miss Thoreson," the inspector asked softly, "would you identify your cousin's writing?"

"I—I don't know. This certainly looks like hers."

"Isn't there anything you can tell me," the inspector went on almost gently, "that might throw some light on this business?"

Christine thought, I ought to tell him everything—about Jasper, for instance—about that letter. These girls, and about the swam's wearing that dagger.

But all that—with his inevitable questions—would take time. And if the clairvoyant had had any part in this, why should he have tried to warn her? Now she wanted only to get to her room and satisfy herself that there was, among her belongings, nothing sinister—like this letter—to complicate the incredible position in which she found herself.

"Nothing," she said, "that I can think of."

The inspector's face hardened; and he swung upon the disreputable figure in wading boots who, with Bill, had just returned from the next room and had resumed his seat in the corner by the door.

"Thank you," the inspector barked, "suppose you tell me just when and where you have known this young lady."

SOME ONE—Christine thought it was Bill—cried out, "Watch him!"

Then all the lights went out, and a cheer fell with a crash. After that there was in the room nothing but the sound of scuffling feet and heavy breathing until the door opened—and slammed shut.

Later, sounds of shouts and running came from the darkened corridor outside.

When the lights flashed on again, there were left in the room only the inspector, who stood with his hand on the light switch, and Bill, cowering behind a chair, and Christine. . . . Almost at once Bill Yordley opened the door and came in.

But if we read the context and take into account the whole story and circumstances, we shall find a most interesting lesson, full of human values and very instructive for righteousness.

AHAZ, king of Judah, was one of the worst kings in the whole history of that people. But his son, Hezekiah, in contrast, was one of the best. Hezekiah, in his viciousness and faithlessness, had perverted the religion of Israel. He had stripped the temple of its treasures to try to gain the favor of Tilgath-pileser, king of Assyria, though it did him no good. No content to desecrate the temple and pervert the religion of Israel, he had also set up altars everywhere in Jerusalem to false gods. Pagan shrines were at the street corners.

One can imagine how deeply these things must have taken hold of the life of a people who even permitted them to happen. Yet, the first thing that Hezekiah did when he became king was to face this situation boldly. He purified the temple and restored its worship, and he destroyed the altars that had been set up for idolatrous worship.

This was not enough. The life of the nation itself had to be purified. Our lesson describes this symbolic purification, which had underlying it much real experience. It sanctification in the national observance of the Passover, when the people assembled at Jerusalem and "kept the feast of unleavened bread seven days with great gladness."

It was a great day in Israel, and for modern nations and people there is hope in what it emphasizes: that mass movements for health, sanity and righteousness are as much possible at mass movements of lapse into laxity and degradation.

To Broadcast During Ranger Rodeo

The Light Crust Doughboys, inimitable radio stars, who will make a personal appearance in Ranger on Labor Day, September 4. Left to right are Zeke, Cecil, Snub, Parker Willson, master of ceremonies, Abner, Bashful, Junior, and Knocky. The Doughboys will broadcast their regular daily program from Ranger at 12:30 p. m., which will be held in front of the Gholson Hotel where their special sound-equipped bus will be hooked up for transmitting the program over the Texas Quality Network. Immediately following, they will make a personal appearance in the downtown area where a variety of entertainment will be offered in the likeable manner of their fame has become widespread. The Doughboys are sponsored by the Burrus Mill & Elevator Co., millers of Light Crust Flour.

"go western" beginning Saturday, has been constructed by the Ranger Fire Department, and will be placed on the streets either Friday or Saturday, it was stated today by Fire Chief G. A. Murphy.

Contrary to general belief people from the rural communities around this part of the country will not be placed in the jail for not wearing western regalia, it was pointed out today by members of the rodeo and celebration committee, as the jail is being sponsored more to advertise the big event than to impose upon anyone.

Country people can come to Ranger, as usual, with no fear of being placed in the jail, it was stated today. The jail will be placed on some prominent corner of the town, and business people of Ranger who do not join in the spirit of the celebration by wearing western garb have been warned that they would be imprisoned and fined.

Jail Awaits All Who Do Not Wear Western Regalia

The Ranger rodeo jail is completed, and those who do not wear cowboy regalia, beginning Saturday, will go to jail and pay a fine, they were warned today. This does not, of course, include people from the rural areas, nor those who are not financially able to buy cowboy shirts or pay the fines that will be assessed.

The jail will be located on one of the prominent street intersections in Ranger Saturday morning, though it was placed in front of the Commercial State Bank building this morning as a warning to the people of the city that they must cooperate or go to the hosegow.

The jail has been mounted on the big, portable handstand, and, it was said today by Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, the jail may be hooked behind a truck and paraded through the streets if some prominent citizen is jailed. The jail, also, will be entered in the big parade to be staged Monday morning, Sept. 4, at the beginning of the big celebration.

One In a Million Gas Blast Occurs

By United Press
 LONDON. — A million-to-one chance caused an explosion which injured four men at Morden, Surrey.

Workmen were using an electric lamp while fitting an elbow arm to a gas main in a school in course of construction in Aragon road.

The lamp was knocked over. The bulb broke. An accumulation of gas in the pipe came into contact with the flash.
