Changing the Patch-Work Quilt of Western Farms

Like a kaleidoscope, the pattern of farmlands in the south and middle west has changed year by year. Land that once sprouted cotton has been converted into pasturage. Corn areas have been turned over to hay. Oat and alfalfa territories suddenly blossomed out with sugar cane. It looks as if all the land west of the Mississippi has suddenly gone crazy.

But it hasn't. In fact, never before has the produce of the soil been so carefully planned as it is today. Agricultural colleges, co-operative farm agencies and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are working with the farmer to enable him to obtain the greatest possible benefit from his land. Traditional crops have been abandoned for new products—for crops that will not deplete the soil of its nourishment and will be marketable at a reasonable price.

Large areas have been taken over in many states for experiments with the latest methods of crop rotating. Soil erosion is being checked. What were once arid wastes are being irrigated. The farmer is not idly permitting the sands to shift beneath his feet.

The soil has not always been pampered. Before the days of the dust bowls and repeated market collapses and prolonged drouths, the farmer was generally content to plant the same crop in the same places, or at best use only the simplest of crop rotating schemes. If things went bad occasionally, the lapse in productivity was blamed on Providence. There was no apparent reason why land that had always produced cotton or wheat should not forever continue to do so.

By 1932 the farm situation was decidedly in ill health. Studies were made, and soil experts presented various recommendations. On two points nearly everyone agreed: If the land wasn't doing so well with one crop, let the farmer try others for a few years and if markets were declining for certain products, why not encourage the farmer to raise something else for which there still was a demand. So the farmer learned to rotate crops scientifically and to aim his production toward those markets which would give him a profitable return.

In many sections of the south and southwest, farmers have turned to the production of "industrial crops"—cassia beans, sweet potatoes and flax seed. In most cases, it has been discovered, such crops can be produced almost as easily as cotton, the price of which had slipped far below parity.

The farm problem is by no means a closed issue. Research is far from exhaustive, and the steps thus far taken can not be accepted as complete solution. Many of the measures taken in the past seven years have been strictly in the nature of relief.

Social Lingarum Club Meets

The Social Lingarum Club of RJC met at the home of Frances Usery, Tuesday night, November 21. An interesting talk was given by Prof. L. B. Cherry of the Mathematics department of RJC. Refreshments were served to the following members: Katherine White, Muri Wilson, Mary Weaver, Opal Ramsey, Pickens Weaver, Beatrice Reagan, Edith Mae Taylor and Frances Usery and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Cherry. The sponsor, Miss Ruth Black, was unable to attend, due to illness.

College on Wednesday, November 22

After visiting the NYA-College shops, the Fine Arts Department, the Home Economics department, and the Library, Dr. Hereford commented favorably to the Dean and the President on the facilities. He gave indications that he was well pleased with our many courses, the Fine Arts Department and the appreciable increase in college enrollments.

Dramatic Club

The Masquers met November 21 in the home of their sponsor, Mrs. Hunter. Plans for two plays, which are to be presented December 13, were discussed. These two plays should prove to be quite entertaining to outsiders as well as all students and at the price offered for both plays the attendance should be 100%.

So plan to attend Ladies Alone and Saturday Evening when they are presented.

Also plans for a Christmas social were discussed and the night of December 19 was decided upon.

The program of this week proved to be an interesting one with D. A. Robinson reporting on "Prospects for this Season's Stags," Charlie Hicks discussing the drama "The Man Who Came to Dinner," Priscilla Miller discussing Noel Coward's "They Were Dancing" and Virginia Beach another of Noel Coward's plays "Red Poppies." The next meeting will be December 5.

Mr. Cherry Speaks To Language Club

Pickens Weaver "Texas should develop laboratories and institutions to keep her engineers and technicians at home," says Prof. L. B. Cherry of the Mathematics department of RJC. Mr. Cherry, who was employed by the General Electric laboratories of Schenectady, N. Y., in 1937, gave a very interesting informal discussion of his work in the east and his visit into Canada before the Social Lingarum Club of RJC.

Mr. Cherry said that many of the most brilliant engineers and chemists in the world are Texans who were forced to go to the industrial east due to the lack of laboratories and scientific institutions in Texas. He told how many of these men would like to return to Texas, but can't due to lack of facilities.

Upon graduation from the University of Texas, Mr. Cherry and a friend of his, were employed by the GE company and moved to Schenectady, fifteen miles west of Albany, the Capitol of New York. The engineers employed by GE are given $1.00 for every discovery they make and even after leaving the employ of the company, if they make a discovery, and it is proven that it was first thought of while in GE employ, the company gets the invention.

Mr. Cherry and his friend made several trips down the Hudson to New York City to see all the sights but this soon got old. So he persuaded his friend to accompany him to Canada in his friend's car. This car was a gift from the boy's father, and he had no registration papers, so after passing the U. S. customs and stopped by the Canadian Customs, they were not allowed to enter Canada without the proper papers. They returned to the U. S. customs, and got a forty-eight hour pass to see the sights.

Even before entering Canada, the houses and villages were distinctly French, and the highway signs were in both French and English. Approaching Montreal, it seemed to be at a low level. The buildings were all of French architecture and the entire surroundings were all distinctly French.

An amusing incident occurred when the two men asked for a parking lot to put their car. They asked the French hotel manager for a parking lot so he told them of a place, and when they reached their destination, they found the most beautiful public park they had ever seen.

"It is like a world of yesterday," says Mr. Cherry. "They still have their buggies, hansom, and other horse-drawn vehicles." Mr. Cherry said that the Canadian girls were the only girls anywhere comparable to the beautiful Texas girls. In all Schenectady, there was not a so-called good looking girl. Incidentally, Mr. Cherry, went to school, and as a child played with Mary Martin, the now famous Broadway and Hollywood star.

Patter by Percy Step into the reading room sometimes and you'll hear about half of the collegians either whistling or singing "Scatterbrains" or "South of the Border." Yes, we call it a reading room but some people wonder upon entering it for the first time. The CAA permit to RJC has brought several new students to our college who want to earn their wings. Speaking of airplanes, you "ain't seen nuthin' yet" until you see our own Tommy Strong's model airplane perform. He recently was a winner in a model contest at the local airport. At the opening of the semester everyone was weeping and mourning because our dear friend and playmate "Beartracks" would not be with us this year. He departed from our halls of learning for parts unknown. But behold! the Gods were with us for they sent us one to take the original "Beartracks" place. He answers to the name of R. C. Howell. He is an Olden product and has everything including weight, that the original had, excepting one thing; that Yankee accent. Our idea on how to end the World War II Send "Beartracks" over and let him do his Indian dance in "his man's land," and while the Nazis were recovering their wits, let the Allies capture them all and win the war. Chatter Box
Theodore Dreiser, in a recent appearance scorned women and women's organizations. Then, when questioned about his book on philosophy, now being written, he replied, "Without women there would be no need for philosophy," thereby admitting that the useless article, woman, was the inspiration for his book. We'd venture a guess that at least 60 per cent of those who read his books are women. And watch us scram for the first copies of this coming up. Sure, we want to see what he has to say about us! ... Overheard recently, "Courage is the only thing that doesn't change." ... Mr. Ripley should have these—in a neighboring town there's a junk shop owned and operated by a man by the name of Culwell, and then there was the "Hardly-Able" Oil company ... Cupid seems to be camping in this area and has, we hear, aimed straight and hit his mark, again. And there's an extra elegant sparkler that will be flashed about Christmas time ... Speaking of Cupid, I wish the little rascal wouldn't work so fast. Here, we have been looking forward to the pleasure of describing a lovely blond as she walked down the church aisle in bridal illusion but she and cupid conspired against the society editor and we'll feel eternally cheated. Anyway we wish her happiness ... We have been told that all men of genius are absent-minded and there's a man about town who can qualify for that state, having, this week, taken out his glasses case and calmly removed his wrist watch and placed it in the case ... The Child Welfare Club deserves the admiration of Ranger and its supporters too, in the determined way they have fought to keep the Day Nursery operating. So when you see that milk bottle sitting by the downtown cash register, drop in a few pennies. Those pennies do wonders for underprivileged children. # BULLDOGS WIN MAVERICK GAME BY 32-0

The Eastland Mavericks and the Ranger Bulldogs played a game at the Bulldog Stadium Friday afternoon, in which nothing but the score was at stake as both teams were already completely out of their respective divisions. The Bulldogs won by a score of 32 to 0.

The game, which was peculiar in several aspects, was played with the best three Ranger linemen playing in the backfield during the game and the usual passing game for the Mavericks of the Eastland was reversed. Bush was the passing end and Furse was the receiving end of his passes, all but one of which were

Many of "Deadly" Animals, Insects Really Harmless

LUBBOCK, Texas—A scorpion's sting is no worse than a bee's and a small house centipede and a millipede are absolutely harmless, according to Dr. R. A. Studhalter, head professor of biology, zoology, and geology at Texas Technological college. Several birds and reptiles looked upon as enemies of mankind are beneficial, he said.

Dr. Studhalter said that about animals life on Texas plains. "A live toad in your garden is worth $20, U. S. Department of Agriculture figures show, based on number of insects a toad eats in his lifetime. The box turtle also kills insects and should be left alone. A crow can eat a hundred grasshoppers in a meal—and it eats several times a day.

Unless one is absolutely certain of the species, all hawks had better be protected, because most of them do more good than harm eating rats, mice, prairie dogs and other rodents, he declared. The eagles, also, now being hunted on the north plains in automobiles for sport, also is more beneficial than harmful and should be protected.

"In spite of the general fear of snakes, it has been proved that a child has no instinctive fear of them," Studhalter said. "The food of snakes is largely mice, prairie dogs, and other rodents harmful to the farmer, and all of them should be protected except those definitely poisonous." Listed among the poisonous snakes found in West Texas were the rattler, copperhead, water moccasin, coral, and harlequin snake.

The black widow spider is sometimes dangerous, but rarely ever bites. A child or person of low resistance might have serious trouble from a black widow bite, but three or four days in bed would probably be the extent of such illness.

"Large centipedes have poisonous organs, but the old superstition that they 'rot the flesh to the bone' is unfounded," he declared. A centipede might affect the skin as so many pin pricks would, but its poison is more poisonous than a bee's.

"The tarantula is a fine, clean pet," he added. "He rarely ever bites. This is especially true of those imported in banana shipments. They are tropical, cold-blooded, and in our climate it is about all they can do to move."

Water dogs, especially feared in the larval stage when they have queer-looking external gills just back of the head, are harmless in both stages. The much-treasured mountain lion can do no more than maul a man. Also much feared but quite harmless are the child-of-the-earth, praying mantis, walking stick insect, and whip scorpion.

The fact that the food is thoroughly encased so that the hand has no contact with it does not alter the situation.

incomplete or nullified by penalties.

The Bulldogs sewed up the game on the opening kickoff, as it later developed, when Claude Floyd took the Maverick kickoff on his own 10-yard line, fumbled momentarily, then headed for the east sideline and raced it back for a touchdown. Just to make it sure 10 plays later he raced a Maverick punt back 65 yards for another score. For the remainder of the half neither side scored, though the Bulldogs got back to the Eastland three yard line, where Ames, one of the guards who played in the backfield, fumbled and Eastland recovered on the one-yard line. Incidentally, fumbles were numerous throughout the game, both teams losing the ball by that method several times.

The Bulldogs started scoring again in the third quarter when Adkins stumbled over for a touchdown from the eight yard line, after being knocked off balance a couple of times. On the second play of the fourth quarter Gray, a guard, passed to Adkins for 21 yards and a score, then Floyd passed to Martin for the extra point, making the score 25 to 0.

The final marker of the game was made near the end of the game when Adkins intercepted an Eastland pass on the Eastland 20-yard line and went over for the score. Warden, whose regular position has been at center for the Bulldogs, but who switched to the backfield the last quarter, plunged over for the last point of the game, proving that linemen, when given a chance, can sometimes perform in the backfield.

Statistics favored the Bulldogs. The Mavericks made one first down to nine for the Bulldogs. Ranger gained 166 yards rushing to 42 yards for Eastland. Ranger completed five of 16 attempted passes for a gain of 84 yards while Eastland completed one of 14 for 10 yards and had six intercepted. Ranger punted four times for a total of 157 yards and Eastland punted 10 times for a total of 289 yards. Penalties were about even with Ranger being penalized 48 yards and Eastland 47, one for each team being half the distance performed in the backfield.

The 17-jewel "DeLuxe" Elgins in many handsome models are priced from $37.50. And other exceptional Elgin values are available from $24.75.
