

It's 4-H Week

Gov. John Connally has designated Oct. 6-12 as 4-H Club Week in Texas. The dates are the same as for National 4-H Week proclaimed by President Johnson.

IN HIS greetings the governor said, "The development of responsible citizens and leaders for America is the high purpose of 4-H Club work."

"The 4-H program stresses the four-fold development of youth: their head, heart, hands and health. Members of 4-H clubs learn by conducting projects and participating in 4-H activities. By putting into action what they learn, club members improve their homes and communities."

"Since the 4-H program was inaugurated by the United States government in 1914, the 4-H movement has spread across our nation and to 76 foreign countries."

"MORE than 18,000 voluntary adult leaders work with club members in Texas and contribute to the success of 4-H. Parents and friends of 4-H give support and encouragement to club members. The 4-H Club program is directed by the staff of the Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University."

"The opportunities offered to 4-H Club members to grow in citizenship, leadership and practical skills are especially valuable to them, the state of Texas and the nation. The 4-H clubs are a proving ground for future leaders."

HART'S FIRST BALE of cotton was ginned Friday evening, when J. D. Murray (right), who farms four miles north and two east of Hart, brought the first load to the Hart Producers Co-op Gin. The cotton, a certified Gregg variety, was hand-picked from four acres of irrigated land. Murray's load of cotton weighed 2,200 pounds and produced 1,000 pounds of seed in addition to this 550-pound bale. The gin paid for the picking, ginned and wrapped the bale free and paid Murray a $30 rebate. The cotton was planted May 10 and received one light hail early in the season. From left are Johnnie Martinez, gin employee; Wayne Beavers, ginner; Ike Bennett (on truck), gin manager; and Murray.

Ford Attacks 'False Rumors,' Offers to Find Clayton a Job

Frank Ford, Republican candidate for state representative, last week blasted Rep. Bill Clayton's Hereford campaign manager, R. C. "Dick" Godwin, for statements quoted by the Hereford Brand.

The statements attributed to Godwin were that Ford opposes water importation and that he is not a member of Water, Inc. Not true, said the Hereford Republican.

More About: About Dimmitt

tioned above, so there, you Republicans, independents and American party people.

Dick Brown was in Dimmitt Saturday in the interest of his campaign for the office of U.S. Representative. He is making an effort to unseat the incumbent congressman, Bob Price of Pampa. I won't have any trouble voting for Dick, because I plan on making an X, and that will be as I mentioned, at the top of the column with the Democratic heading. Sure makes voting easy. Of course, you people who plan on spitting your ticket would do well to give Mr. Brown some very earnest consideration. He is well qualified to make us a good congressman, something we have been without now for a couple of years. Bob Price has been very diligent in promoting Bob Price, but his constituents have had very little representation. We must elect a congressman from this district who can work with the rest of the Texas delegation on the Hill.

Dick Nixon's handlers continue to keep him under wraps. They know that if they ever let him write his own speeches and come out swinging he will blow the campaign in spite of all the scientific planning that has gone into the effort to get him elected. I know, and most people know, that politics can get to be dirty business. Much is said in the heat of campaigns that probably would have never been spoken under calmer circumstances. But to me there are some tactics that are all but unforgivable, and I believe one is being used in the current campaign. There is a Nixon for president commercial appearing regularly on television that is made up from a number of clips from newscasts from Vietnam. American soldiers are shown in various instances of distress, and naturally with pain and cooer on their faces. Interspersed with pictures of that type are shots of Vietnamese civilians who have been ravished by the war. The commercial points out that what you have just seen is the result of policies under democratic administrations, and infers that it wouldn't have happened if Nixon had been president and since it has happened he will stop the suffering caused by the war if you will give him your vote. The commercial doesn't mention that we became involved in Vietnam under a republican administration of which Nixon was a member. Nor does it mention that the policies of the last two administrations received the endorsement of former president Eisenhower and on occasion of Nixon himself. Whether wise, or unwise, the war effort in Vietnam to prevent the takeover of a small nation by communist aggression was an honest effort by the United States to prevent the further spread of communism. To pre-empt pictures and news reels of the type we have mentioned and employ them for political gain is to say the least, a new low in political campaigning.

MOREOVER, Ford said that he acknowledged Clayton as an authority on water problems — and that if he's elected he would help Clayton find a state job in this field.

"Mr. Godwin knows very well that I support Water, Inc., the local water associations, and the importation efforts wholeheartedly," said Ford, "but I am glad that he put his accusation that I oppose water importation in print, as that statement and the one that I am not a member of Water, Inc., have been put out orally for several weeks."

Ford added that he did not believe that Rep. Clayton was aware of these things, and did not hold him responsible.

"The greater part of the voters in this district who have been watching this campaign," Ford said, "know that I have spoken out often for greater concern for water resources planning, including flood control dams, more conservation efforts and importation plans. I have encouraged Congressman Bob Price to push forward feasibility studies bringing water to this area from the lower Mississippi River, as Congress must fund both the studies and actual work on any importation."

"PEOPLE who know the facts know that I have been very interested in this problem for 18 years, that I worked in the legal division of the State Board of Water Engineers, and that my brother, Dr. Davis L. Ford, a civil engineer, is assistant director of the Center of Research in Water Resources in Austin," he said.

Ford said he "recognizes and appreciates" Rep. Clayton's knowledge of water problems and "would support him, as many others would if he should be defeated, for a state job where he could put his full talents to work for this district without the many pressures of dealing with the hundreds of other issues which confront a legislator."

POTENTIAL DANGER — How many dogs are there in this photo, taken recently along Front Street in Southwest Dimmitt? There are nine in all, counting four grouped together behind the dog at far left. All had city tags, but all were running loose, roaming from one neighborhood to another. Not only are dogs in packs aggravating when they turn over garbage cans — they're also potentially dangerous. Recent tragic cases have proven that when one dog in a pack turns on a child, animal instinct will cause the rest to follow suit. According to city ordinance, pet dogs are supposed to be penned or leashed at home overnight.

Smith Lauds Water Plan

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith said this week that the state is "running out of water" and could face "a slow economic death at the point reached in the year 2000."

SMITH discussed water problems and the Mississippi Water Import Plan in a recent speech to businessmen of the Dallas Restaurant Association, and to Civic Club members in Petersburg.

Except's from his speeches: "Let us turn our thoughts to a little-known, and less-discussed problem facing our state. It is a problem that many people have, for some reason or other, dismissed from their minds. But it is probably the most economically dangerous problem our state will face in the years before the turn of the next century.

"IT IS simply this: We are running out of water.

"Texas faces the sobering fact that by the year 2000 all available water in the state will be in use. There will be no surplus water for economic expansion. There will be no remaining sources within the state which can be developed.

"This picture is made all the more economically frightening because 32 years is a very short period of time in which to locate and develop a major water source.

"SEVERAL possibilities have been studied by the state, but there is one which I feel appears, at this point, to have more merit than the others. It is called the 'Mississippi Water Import Plan.'

"Construction of the necessary physical facilities with which to divert and transport the water will pose many complex problems, but most experts who have studied the plan are convinced that present scientific knowledge and technological ability will enable Texas to build whatever facilities are necessary.

"Studies conducted by the Texas Water Development Board and the US Army Corps of Engineers indicate that water can be diverted at several points along the Mississippi and moved into Texas. Although the estimated costs involved in the various alternate routes do not seem to differ greatly, most of the individuals conducting the studies recommend, at present, that the diversion be on the lower reaches of the Mississippi because of certain political factors.

"THE general economic feasibility of the plan cannot be assessed accurately without considering the situation which brought about such a far-reaching proposal. We have to consider the alternative.

"We have the alternative of either spending a great amount of money and effort to develop the necessary water sources or permitting Texas to freeze and begin a slow economic death at the point reached in the year 2000. It can also be pointed out that once progress ends, regression usually begins. We either go forward or backward. There is no standing still, because when you stand still, you fall behind.

"No certain conclusion can be reached at this time with regard to the economic feasibility of the Mississippi Import Plan.

"IT IS our state government and its leaders who must impress upon the people the urgency of the problem.

"We must all resolve to solve this problem. It can kill us as a progressing state if we do not."

Four defendants received probation sentences in District Court Monday after pleading guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated, subsequent offense.

SENTENCED by District Judge James Joy were: —Delford D. Davis, two counts, five years' probation.

—Kern French, five years' probation.

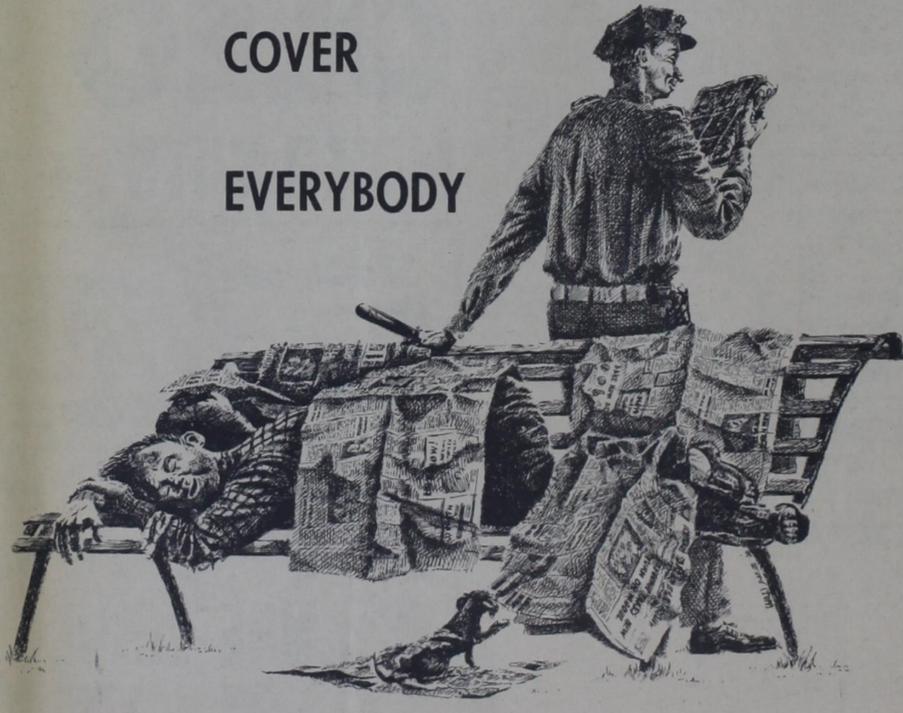

—Eulalio R. Gracia, three years' suspended sentence, placed on probation.

—Sterling Kenneth Bates, two years' probation.

Flowers, Turning Leaves Accent Beautiful Season

By MYRTLE SHEFFY

Let us take a look at the pretty things in Dimmitt, for instance have you seen the bronze mums in front of the courthouse? Look! They were planted by the Milady Garden Club members, a group of young matrons. Betty Dennis, Carolyn Sides are on the Civic Betterment Committee, with Esta Vandiver as chairman. This group has given the City Hall a facelift with cleaned out flower beds and plantings.

AND ANOTHER beautiful thing is the maple tree on the east side of Martha Pearl Sadler's house, and Margaret and Raymond Wilson's tree — and also two or three magnolias, one at Pearl Sheffys and one at the Sadlers. I have a fine "elm." Mrs. B. M. Nelson has the only Hawthorn tree in town in her backyard.

The chrysanthemums all over town are nice. Come to the Flower Show Saturday afternoon at the Charles Vandivers, Clarence Beards and Bud Hills, out on Clovis Road — also to the Art Show at the Country Club. Coffee will be served. It's fun to see your friends from Hart, Earth, Nazareth, Tulia and Hereford.

MARIE HUTTON, Janice Cox, Martha K. Wilde and Shirley Co-well attended a four-day beauty festival in Oklahoma City recently and the same girls with Laydus Burrus went to a beauty clinic and show in Amarillo on other day. All the operators entered the contest work. These gals will be able to make you more beautiful than ever now.

Jay Naman

FU President To Visit Here

Jay Naman of Waco, president of the Texas Farmers Union, will be in Dimmitt at noon Friday.

HE will meet with local Farmers Union members and other interested residents at a Dutch treat lunch at Sally's Steak House.

Naman is currently on a week-long tour of the Texas Panhandle, presiding over the chartering of new county FU organizations and meeting with FU members throughout the area. He will be in Hereford Friday morning before his noon appearance here.

Theron Morrison, president of the Castro County Farmers Union, urged all interested residents to meet with Naman Friday.

ONE of the main topics to be discussed during Naman's visit here will be resolutions to be considered at the county FU convention later this month. County FU directors met Monday morning to hash out the final wording of the proposed resolutions.

"Jay has been in Castro County several times and is familiar with our county's farm economy and problems," Morrison said.

Farmers Union works for legislation that would give the farmer greater bargaining power at the market place. Nationally, it led other farm organizations in a successful fight recently to exempt the Commodity Credit Corp. from a $6 billion budget cut, and has also fought a ceiling on individual farm payments.

Riley Re-elected As PCG Director

Ray Joe Riley, Sunnyside seed grower, was re-elected to the board of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., at a meeting last Thursday at Hart.

HE WAS re-elected by acclamation at the luncheon and business meeting that followed last Thursday's annual Conservation Farm Tour. The meeting was in the community room of Farmers State Bank.

Each county in the PCG area is entitled to a business man director and a producer director. Ike Bennett is currently serving a two-year term as the business man director from Castro County.

BEFORE the election, Ed Dean, a representative of Plains Cotton Growers, told the 40 farmers and business men attending the meeting that most Congressmen "are not too optimistic about the future of the farm program, including the cotton program."

He said the one-year extension of the present farm program by Congress "does give us — and the new Congress — a one-year reprieve during which we can work together toward a new farm program."

But, he said, "There's no indication of what Mr. Freeman (Secretary of Agriculture) is thinking right now... No one we've talked to has had any idea of what kind of program we'll have in 1969. Most seem to think it will be altered quite a bit from the present program, because more of the domestic budget is liable to go to solve the urban problems."

DEAN WARNED that these urban programs — and the urban Congressmen pushing them — are likely to cause a drastic overhaul of the farm program, and that the farmer is likely to become the victim of a national misunderstanding on the part of urbanites.

"Many urban congressmen have a deep resentment of the farm program," he said, "because they don't understand that the so-called farmer's subsidy is actually a consumer subsidy. Many feel the diversion payments are just hand-outs."

He quoted Congressman Bob Peage (D-Tex) who said the farm bill he fought for this year "will be the last one of its type" because of an urban-dominated Congress.

"I BELIEVE a lot of the nation's people don't realize the impact that cuts in the farm program will have on consumer prices, or on government costs for such programs as school lunches and free milk," Dean said.

In an effort to counter the expected cutbacks and help put cotton back on a healthy plane, Dean said, Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., has earmarked $10,000 for the promotion and development of markets for Plains cotton during the next year.

"I realize $10,000 isn't much for promotion and market development," he said, "but if we spend the money wisely, it should be effective."

BENNETT, the county's business man director on the PCG board, announced that the assessment for control of the boll weevil has been cut from 40 cents a bale to 25 cents by PCG, and said the assessment is "a bargain, considering what other regions are having to assess for boll weevil control, and what the cost could be if boll weevils got out of hand."

Pvt. Hamilton Finishes Course

US Army Pvt. Jimmy R. Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton of Route 2, Hart, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Texas, from the training course for US Air Force communications wiring specialist.

Private Hamilton is being assigned to Vietnam.

ONCE AGAIN we are in a conservation crisis that is a matter of urgent public concern. At stake is the quality of our total environment. The crisis will not go away. It demands action now. It demands intelligent, purposeful directions at all levels of government and personal involvement by all citizens. Conservation is a physical task, a social philosophy, and an economic necessity. — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman

40 Men Take Farm Tour; Hawkins Named to Board

A barbecue lunch, election and progress reports capped the annual Castro County Conservation Farm Tour last Thursday.

Approximately 40 farmers, scientists, agricultural specialists and business men joined the half-day tour, sponsored by the Running Water Soil and Water Conservation District.

THE FIELD day included studies of the growth practices, yields and cash return on grain sorghum varieties, grazing grasses, corn varieties, soybeans, alfalfa, sugar beets and castor beans, and such conservation practices as water ways and tailwater return systems.

Visited during the tour were the farms of Joe Nelson and Bryce Dowell, Jerome Brockman, Florence Albracht and Ed Ramaeker, Wade Mil's and Dale Rives. The tour ended in the community room of the Farmers State Bank at Hart, where the bank provided a barbecue lunch, served by members of Beta Sigma Phi.

AFTER lunch, the group elected a director for the district's Zone 5 and a director to the Plains Cotton Growers board (see related story), and heard progress reports on cotton, the farm program and the new corn milling plant in Dimmitt.

Robert Hawkins, 35-year-old Hart farmer, was elected as the new Zone 5 director for the Running Water Conservation District. Hawkins, who farms southwest of Hart, operates a diversified farm that includes a pecan grove. He was named Castro County's "Outstanding Young Farmer" last year by the Dimmitt Jaycees because of his farming and conservation practices, growth of his farming operation and his civic work.

HAWKINS succeeds Wade Mills, who has been a director of the district for 10 years.

Tump McLain of Hart nominated Mills for re-election to the board because "he's the best one we could have."

But Mills withdrew his name and nominated Hawkins, whom he said "can bring new ideas to the board." Hawkins was elected by acclamation.

GUESTS at the tour and meeting included four specialists from the Texas A&M University Extension Service — Frank Peters, agronomist; Jim Valentine, soil chemist; Robert Berry, plant pathologist; and Ed Garnett, farm management specialist.

David Springer, work unit conservationist for the district, was in charge of the tour and meeting. He was assisted by Larry Starnes and Clayton Jobe of the local Soil Conservation Service office.

Comments by specialists at the tour stops were broadcast via remote unit by KDHN Radio of Dimmitt. This "tune-in tour guide" method was pioneered several years ago by the Running Water District and gained national acclaim for the local farm tour.

ED GARNETT, Extension farm management specialist, who was asked to comment on his impressions of the tour, said, "I was impressed by the number of waterways and tailwater pits we saw today." "Water conservation is still a No. 1 objective," he added, "especially in light of the speculation that the import plans of the future will call for a fee of $70 per acre foot. Obviously, the way to get the cheapest water is to conserve what we have now."

In the Extension Service's farm management division, he said, "We're interested in the profit aspect. The farmer is now walking a tightrope in this aspect."

GARNETT explained, "At one time, almost anything a farmer added to his operation was good whether it was a piece of new machinery, a fertilization program or whatever. But we've reached the point now of having to look at diminishing returns — the cost of various fertilizers versus the final net profit, and so forth. That's where farm management plays an important part."

State Representative Bill Clayton, who has been appointed chairman of a statewide board to work with the US Corps of engineers and other US officials to investigate the feasibility of importing water to Texas, called an Hereford. I would say there were area-wide meeting Saturday at several hundred in attendance.

WE are fortunate in having one of our local men, Ray Joe Riley, as a director of Water, Inc., and a key man in the water importation plan. He is working hard and doing a good job.

According to the thinking of those who are making the survey, we are going to begin needing more water by 1985 — not only for irrigation but for our urban population and industry, too.

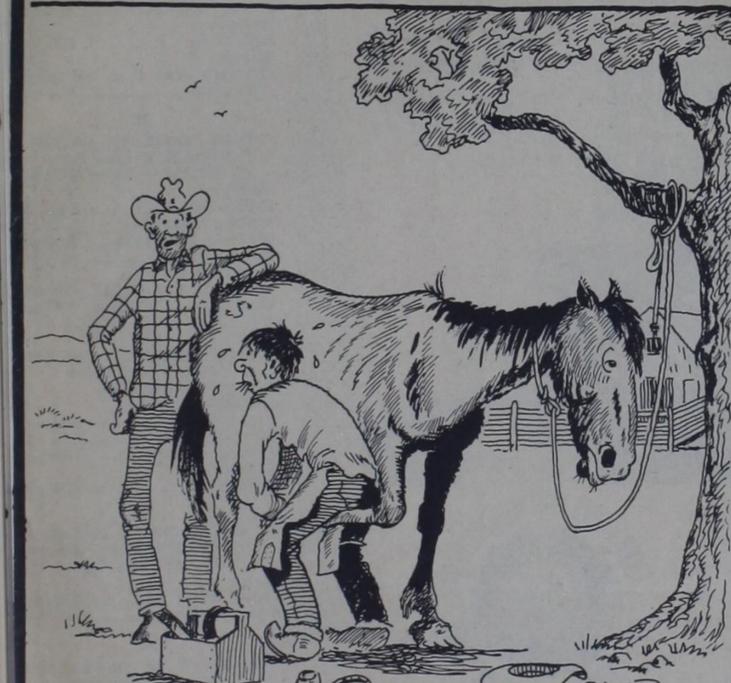

Their figures show that one acre of urban population will use twice as much water in a year as an acre of agriculture.

A SURVEY of 134 irrigation wells within 100 miles of Lubbock showed that, on the average, an acre-foot of water costs $15.61. However, there is quite a spread between the costs of different wells. Some were closing $4 per acre-foot while some cost $70. Some wells were pumping at an efficiency of 5.2 percent while others were getting 82 percent efficiency.

It is estimated that imported water will cost $20 per acre-foot. Studies have been made on importing water from other sources, such as from Alaska, Canada, the Columbia River, the Missouri River and the Rio Grande, but so far the Mississippi River seems to be the most feasible source.

They have seen accidents where babies, teenagers, or adults were killed — that was brutal. They have gone to tell a wife that her husband was killed — that was brutal. They have helped feed hungry children because a drunken father didn't come home — that was brutal.

GETTING OUT... the Vote

Mrs. Jones is active in all types of community work. She is active in politics at the local level. From a list of voters at her elbow she telephones to see if any local residents need the services of the various car pools. Because of this service many who could not otherwise do so, get to the polls and vote.

But more than this, Mrs. Jones is a friend and servant of God. She supports her church and its services because she knows it is the center of all that is good and worthwhile in the Community. It is a place where the souls of men are uplifted and saved.

We, ourselves, would do well to emulate Mrs. Jones. May we urge that you, also, not only vote, but help get out the vote — that you not only attend church, but support it actively with your service.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Bible Thoughts

THIS WE BELIEVE
By Ronnie Parker

Members of the church of Christ believe that the New Testament writers were inspired of God and therefore contend that the New Testament is true and contains the final and complete revelation from God to man (2 Tim. 3:16-17; Jude 3). We believe that the Old Testament is also inspired and that as a part of God's eternal plan, it was a preparation or "tutor to bring us to Christ" (Gal. 3:24). The scriptures teach that the old Law was "taken out of the way, and nailed to the cross" (Col. 2:14). When the old law was abolished the new and better covenant came into effect (Heb. 9:15-18; 8:6-7). We believe that only Christ has the authority to say what the church is and what Christians should teach and do. It is our conviction that the church today should and can be the same as the church of the first century in organization, worship, doctrine, faith, terms of salvation and in the principles of Christian living. We believe that Christianity rests upon the divinity of Jesus Christ and His resurrection from the grave (1 Cor. 15:14). It is our earnest purpose to follow the New Testament as the only rule of faith and practice for people living in the Christian age and therefore strive to speak where the Bible speaks and to be silent where it is silent. FOURTH AND BEDFORD CHURCH OF CHRIST YOU ARE ALWAYS WELCOME

Clinton Billingsley

New Man Joins Bank at Hart

Clinton Billingsley, a native of Olton, is the new vice-president and cashier of Farmers State Bank in Hart.

BILLINGSLEY, 29, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Billingsley of Dimmitt. He assumed his new post Oct. 1, coming to Farmers State Bank from the Western National Bank in Amarillo, where he served a year as vice-president.

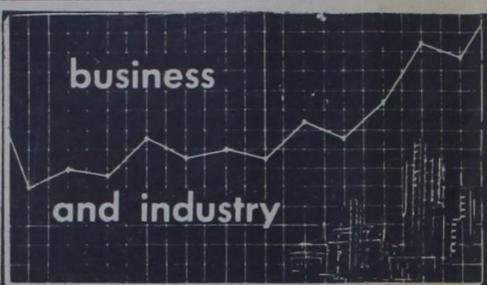

The Hart bank underwent a personnel shift recently when its owners purchased the Citizens State Bank at Earth. Norlan Dudley, president, moved to Earth to become president of the bank there. Willis A. Hawkins Jr., vice-president and cashier, has been carrying out Dudley's former duties at the Hart bank, pending the election of a new president by the bank's board of directors.

After graduating from Olton High School in 1958, Billingsley was on the staff of the Olton State Bank nine years, until he joined the Amarillo bank in 1967.

"I really like it here," he said. "Of course, I was familiar with Hart and knew some of the people here, so it was like coming home."

Billingsley and his wife, Annell, have a son, Barry, 9, and a daughter, Tonda, 6.

'Co-ops: Community Builders' Theme of Special Observance

The month of October has been designated as National Co-op

Month, according to Johnny R. Feagan, Extension economist in farm organization at Texas A&M University.

CO-OP LEADERS have chosen as their theme, "Cooperatives: Community Builders."

More than a third of the nation's families are involved in some sort of a cooperative — not only farmers, who have the best known cooperatives, but also people in the cities. Over 200,000 persons in New York City live in cooperative housing communities.

Cooperatives are concerned with both wholesale and retail marketing; with banking facilities; with credit; with education and extension; with health plans and housing projects; with electrification, irrigation, and provision of new highyielding varieties of food grains and other crops together with fertilizers and pesticides; and with actual agricultural production and processing.

A COOPERATIVE is organized in and is a part of the community. It is established to meet specific needs, to perform functions that are important to the individual and the community, says Feagan.

Farmer cooperatives are a part of the farmers' life in the communities where they are located. Farmers in the 50 states own more than 8,000 marketing and supply cooperatives, with a total annual volume of more than $20 billion.

The existence of a farmer cooperative depends on its ability to meet the actual needs of the patrons and at the same time benefit others.

Cooperative board members learn the ways of business and at the same time, operate their own farming enterprises.

RURAL electric cooperatives serve about 80 percent of the land area of the United States, bringing electric power to some 24 million Americans. These rural electric consumers purchase more than $1 billion worth of electrical appliances and equipment every year.

Cooperative business in Texas continues to grow, even though the total number of farmers has decreased. Total volume and gross sales are up according to the latest report by the Farmers Cooperative Service of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Bill Clayton

Clayton Will Be Honored Monday

Final plans are being completed for an appreciation dinner to honor State Representative Bill Clayton at the junior high school gym in Littlefield Monday night.

MRS. BOB McLEAN and Lonnie Bell are in charge of ticket sales for this area. Frank Cummings of Littlefield, chairman of the ticket sales committee for the six-county district, reports that tickets are selling briskly at $10 each.

Ben Barnes, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, will be the principle speaker. State Senator Jack Hightower, House Speaker Gus Mutchler, and other dignitaries from all parts of the state will be flown to Littlefield in three chartered planes for the appreciation dinner.

Lamesa's ambassadors of good will, The Slumtown Symfunny Orchestra, will furnish music for the banquet. The gym will be decorated in a patriotic theme of red, white and blue.

Dr. Bill Armistead of Littlefield, who is general chairman of the dinner, estimates at least 750 persons from the six-county area will attend.

Open House Set Sunday In Total Electric Home

Southwestern Public Service Co. will join Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams in conducting an open house Sunday afternoon at the Williams' new home at 1009 Pine St.

THE "GOLD Medallion" total electric home will be open for public viewing from 2 to 6 p.m.

The electrical convenience features contained in the Williams' new total-electric home include:

—A central vacuum cleaning system with hose connection outlets in all rooms. The hose unit also includes such vacuum-powered accessories as a massager and pet shears.

In the latest reporting year of 1965-66, Texas farmers marketed about 25 percent of their products through cooperatives. This same group purchased about 18 percent of their supplies through farmer-owned businesses.

ACCORDING to the report, Texas was fourth in total numbers of cooperatives. Total cooperative membership for the state was 184,255. This was about a two percent drop over the previous year, which reflects the trend of those leaving farming, Fragan says. Texas continued first in total receipts for related services of cooperatives with $53 million, he said.

—A COMPLETE Lennox "comfort package," consisting of an electric furnace, refrigerated air conditioning, electronic air cleaner and humidifier. The four units are combined into a centrally controlled system.

—Electrical kitchen built-ins such as a Frigidaire self-cleaning oven, General Electric cook-top, Frigidaire dishwasher, and disposal unit.

—"Light for Living" package, with adequate lights and wiring throughout the home, including automatic lights in all closets.

—PRE-WIRING in garage for automatic, remote controlled doors. The control units will be added later.

—Six exterior electrical outlets and enough interior outlets to accommodate virtually any lighting or appliance arrangement.

Williams' own company, A-1 Mechanical, served as the contractor for electrical wiring, plumbing, heating and air conditioning, and as the dealer for all electrical fixtures and appliances in the home.

Sam Smith was the builder. THE WILLIAMS' new "country manor" style home has an exterior of wood brick. It has three bedrooms, a living room, family room with a stone-faced fireplace, dining area between the family room and kitchen, a quarry tile front porch and entry hall, a patio porch and a two-car garage.

The home is fully carpeted except for the kitchen and baths.

The master bath is two rooms, and features a "swinging door" entry from the master bedroom to the dressing area. Both the master bath and hall bath feature vanity tops and sinks of one-piece Venetian marble.

THE KITCHEN has built-in custom cabinets, there's a built-in matching hutch in the dining area, and matching bookcases in the family room. Decorative moulding and lathed woodwork are used extensively throughout the home.

Windows provide both convenience and architectural accents for the new Gold Medallion home. Featured in the front wall of the living room and the rear wall of the family room are identical, multi-paned bay windows. All other windows in the home are a new type of storm window with the storm sash inside the raisable sash instead of outside, for greater convenience.

The Williams home has 2,000 sq. ft. of living area, and 2,600 sq. ft. under roof, including the double garage.

Williams to Teach Electrical Course

Bill Williams, owner of A-1 Mechanical in Dimmitt, has been asked by the Refrigeration Service and Engineering Society of Amarillo to teach a 20-week course in electrical wiring and associated fields.

THE COURSE is to be an advanced study offered to refrigeration men of the tri-state area who are eligible. Classes will be conducted each Wednesday night in Amarillo.

Williams is a former director and president of the RSES chapter in Amarillo.
