SHIPMENTS OF ARMS MAY BE STEPPED UP

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Major Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, co-chairman of the joint Canadian-United States Defense Board, hinted today that cooperation between the two countries may include extensive shipments of supplies across the international border.

At the same time he announced that the board would meet here next Monday.

La Guardia's announcement was made after a luncheon conference with President Roosevelt at which he gave a preliminary report on the initial work of the joint board of naval, military and air defense experts. He said the report generally was optimistic.

He was asked whether the new close defense cooperation might include shipment of military supplies to Canada.

"I wish you had not asked me that question, but you probably would be safe in assuming it," La Guardia said.

"Extensive quantities of supplies?" he was asked.

"Well," La Guardia snapped, "they wouldn't be for a Fourth of July celebration."

He intimated further that under the new swap with Great Britain whereby defense base sites were exchanged for 50 World War destroyers, this country procured facilities to establish two bases at Newfoundland. The projected sites are on the Newfoundland south shore and the Avalon peninsula.

"If you will look at the whole defense picture," he said, "you will find it safe to say that when asked whether plans for two new Newfoundland bases."

Strengthening of Human Defenses Talked at Meeting

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Cooperation of governmental agencies and civic organizations toward strengthening human defenses was pledged by the Texas committee on nutrition in relation to national defense at its first meeting in Dallas last week.

Agencies, institutions and organizations represented in the 16-member committee are the WPA, NYA, FSA, State Health Department, home economics departments of Texas State College for Women, Texas Technological College, and North Texas State Teachers College; the home economics department and the extension division of the University of Texas, State Department of Child Welfare, vocational homemaking department of the State Department of Education, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, Clubs, Federation of Women's Clubs, Texas Home Demonstration Association, Texas Dietetics Association and the Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service of A. & M. College.

The committee will give special consideration toward aiding low-income groups in Texas to obtain better diets through wider distribution and use of surplus foods, increased farm home food production, operation of community gardens and canning centers, school lunch programs, and mass education in nutrition and food preparation.

Dr. T. O. Walton, president of A. & M. College recently appointed to the committee upon the request of Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The committee chairman Mildred Horton, vice director and state home demonstration agent of the Extension Service, has tentatively called the committee's second meeting in Austin on October 5.

Beauty Queens Tie
At 200 Votes Each

By United Press
ALBANY, N. Y.—Believe it or not, but the boys at Albany Business College just couldn't make up their minds about two pretty co-eds.

In a popularity and beauty contest conducted at the institution, Miss Jean Van Dyke, red-haired Albany beauty, and Miss Marie Peck, a brunette, from Crown Point, were tied.

Four hundred votes were cast, each contestant receiving 200. It was the first time at ABC that a tie for the honor has been known.

Thirty years ago a young man named Willkie worked at many odd jobs during summers while he attended school and college. Dishwashing was one of them. Now that he's famous as the G. O. ONE WORD IN HITLER'S TALK MAY BE KEY TO WAY THINGS ARE GOING WITH AIR ATTACK

By J. W. T. Mason,
United Press War Expert

Hitler's speech in Berlin has special military interest because of its appeal to Great Britain for mutual cessation of night air bombing. Hitler described the German planes as "useless" and it seems probable that this part of his speech was due to pressure of the German people, disquieted by hostilities in the dark.

The Fuehrer's protest marks his first defensive utterance since the beginning of the war. Hitherto he was always spoken entirely about forthcoming offensives. In his talk, however, he indicated that Germany wanted to moderate the war by eliminating night raiding.

It is strange that Hitler tries to lay down rules limiting air warfare after his frequent references to the great preponderance of German aviation strength and his promise to the German people that they would have mastery over Britain. It would seem that aviation plans of the German high command are not working out according to schedule.

Hitler's statement that he waited three months before retaliating against British night bombings was intended as a moral argument. But, as a matter of fact, German aviation had no training in night navigation and operations. It was necessary to improvise instruction for them which accounts for the three months' delay in hitting back.

German air specialists always scoffed at night raids. They were held to be useless while they considered Germany's large numerical plane superiority would allow daylight attacks of sufficient intensity to guarantee air domination. This misjudgment is the most serious the German high command has made during the war. Hitler now tries to rectify it by urging suspension of night attacks.

The British realized at the outset of the war that major daylight air attacks against Germany would be impossible until they more nearly approached German strength. So they have given their pilots specialized training in the technique of night attack against which defense is a less effective than in the day time.

The British, too, practiced defensive methods for night use which were neglected by the Germans because of their confidence in their own superiority.

Censor Confiscates
Stamps from Letter

FORT WORTH, Tex.—H. F. Engelhardt, stamp collector, wishes war-time censors in Europe would leave his mail alone.

Engelhardt recently received a letter from a friend in Germany, who stated that he was enclosing two Nazi stamps for the American collector. There were no stamps, however, just a curt notice by the censor who had confiscated the stamps.

Only Six Escaped
Convicts at Large

McGEEHEE, Ark., Sept. 6.—Only six of the 36 convicts who escaped from the state farm on Labor Day, remained at liberty today when five more were captured in a railway yard here.

Four of the 36 have been killed in gun battles, 26 have been captured and the remaining six are still at large.

Funeral for John Mayes at Eastland Today at 4:00 P. M.

John Mayes, 72, for many years a merchant at Eastland and at Hamlin, died at Hendrick Memorial hospital in Abilene at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Taken ill a week ago Wednesday, Mr. Mayes had undergone major surgery at the hospital Sunday.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church in Eastland at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. Jones Weathers, pastor of the church, officiated. Interment followed in the cemetery here.

Members of the family surviving are Mrs. Julia Hunt Mayes, with whom he would have observed their golden wedding anniversary on Christmas day, a brother, B. F. Mayes, Abilene, two daughters, Mrs. R. N. (Pauline) Richardson, Abilene, and Mrs. Sam N. (Lila) Hardy, Houston, and a grandson, Rupert N. Richardson, Jr., of this city.

John Mayes was a native of Fayetteville, Ark., where he was born on December 25, 1867. His father, Rev. J. L. Mayes, was a pioneer Baptist minister and Confederate soldier. The Mayes family moved to Texas when the son was three years old, and he was reared at Van Alstyne, in Grayson county.

It was at Savoy, on December 25, 1890 that John Mayes and Julia Hunt, daughter of Rev. E. M. Hunt, pioneer Baptist minister and Union soldier, were married. Mr. Mayes engaged for many years in the hardware business at Eastland, with his brother. Moving to Hamlin, he was in the hardware business there for 10 years, and he resided with his family at Hamlin for 12 years. Returning to Eastland in 1918, he has since lived there and at Olden.

Both daughters are graduates of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, and Mrs. Richardson, wife of the HSU executive vice president, has been a member of the faculty for a number of years.

Mr. Mayes was a devoted member of the First Baptist Church in Eastland, and of the Masonic fraternal order. At funeral services today, pallbearers were P. L. Parker, Ed T. Cox, J. E. Williams, Lehman Gaddis, Ernest Woods, J. F. McWilliams, Gene Witt and Donald Knaird.

Mrs. Hardy, the daughter in Houston, is at the bedside of her husband, who underwent an operation there Saturday, and was unable to attend today's services.

Joe Colleges Are Active These Days

WACO, Texas—Big Joe and Little Joe College are romping about quite a bit these days, to give Baylor University twice its normal mascot strength during the football season.

Big Joe has been with Baylor about 10 years now and is a bit weary from performances season after season. He is noted for his fondness of soda pop.

But Little Joe is to experience his first grid season. He is less than two years old, was given to Baylor last spring by Elmer Benson of McAllen. And—like his two-legged brother "Bears" Baylorites are hoping—he's got a lot of fight in him.

THE WEATHER
WEST TEXAS—Fair tonight and Saturday except showers southwest portion. Not much change in temperature.

DEEP TEST SPURRED IN NORTH OF RANGER BY A WEATHERFORD COMPANY

Nearly 500 people from Eastland, Parker, Stephens and Palo Pinto Counties were on hand Thursday afternoon for ceremonies preceding spudding in of a deep test, oil well five miles north of Ranger on the S. J. Whitson farm. The Mitchell-Pierce Oil Corporation of Weatherford is drilling the test, with O. T. Clark of Prescott, Ark., and Kilgore as the contractor.

Arthur Cato, representative of Parker County, was master of ceremonies at the spudding in ceremonies, with Nolan Queen of Weatherford, L. R. Pearson and Pleas E. Moore of Ranger making short talks.

Raymond Pierce, one of the partners in the oil company, stated Thursday at the well location, that if oil in commercial quantities was found in the shallow sands, or in the Ranger time the rig would be skidded to a new location and another deep test started. If oil in paying quantities is not found in the shallower depths, he stated, the company is prepared to drill deeper.

Familiar Voice Is Back In Legislative Halls at Capitol

By United Press
FORT WORTH, Tex.—A familiar voice is coming back to the state hall of the Texas House of Representatives. The voice belongs to 21-year-old Jack Love, a University of Texas debater who was elected state representative.

Love was a senate page for eight years, and the spectators frequently chuckled when the chubby boy, with a most confident manner, boomed his adult voice into the house microphone. The Fort Worth youngster served as the senate's messenger to the house, reporting to that body on action taken in the senate.

Even now, Love's voice and manner are much more mature than his years. He has aimed for eight years at a political career, after a beginning as a 13-year-old speaker for Gov. Ross Sterling. In his first political race, Love defeated a veteran legislator, R. T. (Nub) Johnson.

The newcomer is well-known in Austin, and announced that he had definite ideas about his new job. Two days after the returns were in, he went to Austin to inquire why most of the state's employees here came from cities other than Fort Worth.

Love—whose slogan was "Win With Love"—was so confident of success that he had eight bills prepared for introduction at the next legislature, even before his choice was assured.

Hunt for Talent For Plane Factory Is Now Underway

DALLAS, Tex.—A talent hunt by officials of the North American Aviation, Inc., was well under way today as they studied personnel problems of the new $7,000,000 war plane factory to be constructed here.

Major Howe Thayer, personnel executive of the corporation which will build and operate the huge plant, has had lengthy conferences with high school and college officials of the area concerning the adaptation of aeronautical skill of workers.

Thayer said that 12,000 skilled aeronautical workers would be needed by his company. He added that he wanted persons who already live in this section and who have trained themselves specifically for work of this type.

He indicated that exhaustive study of vocational educational facilities kindred to aeronautical manufacturing would be made later in other parts of the state that might contribute to the Dallas factory.

Defies the Axis Rumanian Leader

While Rumanian resentment against the Axis flared high, Julius Maniu, above, three-time premier of Rumania and powerful Transylvania leader, notified both Hitler and Mussolini directly that Rumania would "never accept" forced cession of Transylvanian territory to Hungary.

A pro-Nazi and anti-Russian regime took over the reins of government in Rumania today as abdicating King Carol prepared to flee with his mistress, Madga Lupescu, leaving the army to control the country under his 18-year-old son, King Michael, who had served as king once before when Carol was in exile.

A special train was ready to speed ex-King Carol and his Jewish sweetheart out of Rumania from Bucharest to Switzerland. Iron guard forces dominated Bucharest and smashed Jewish shop windows and arrests were ordered for many of the officials of the Carol government.

Meanwhile air battles raged over England, causing some observers to believe that Hitler has decided on all-out warfare between his air forces and those of Britain.

British sources reported that 34 German planes and nine British planes had been shot down, with six of the British pilots being saved by taking to parachutes, while Berlin's score showed 45 British and 14 German planes had been lost in air battles during the day. The Germans also claimed extensive damage had been done by bombs on the southeast coast of England.

An estimated 600 Nazi planes took part in today's raids, directed chiefly against airdromes. Cairo reported that the British Near East land and sea forces were strengthened and that the British Navy had sought, unsuccessfully, to engage a strong Italian force. The Italians were reported to have fled when the British ships approached, and due to their superior speed, were able to outdistance the British ships.

A. & M. Furnished
Most of Officers
For World War I

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—In an article by Bill Cunningham, noted Boston Post sports writer, appearing in a recent issue of the American Legion Magazine, he brought out a fact little known to the country at large, and to Texans in particular.

"Where, in terms of men in uniform, standing daily formations, doing regular close order drill, taking officially taught courses in military tactics and learning expertly to handle all modern engines of attack and defense, is located the largest single military unit in the United States?" Cunningham asks.

And for his second question, he quizzes: "What military or naval school in these United States gave the largest percentage of officers to American service in World War I?"

"It was not the United States Military Academy at West Point, nor the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis," Cunningham wrote, "but Texas A. & M. College, the home of the Texas Aggies."

Cunningham then pointed a word picture of the important part that Texas A. & M. College plays in national defense. In the last war Texas A. & M. College gave 2200 men, mostly officers, to earn first place, Cunningham mentioned.

Texas A. & M. is the nation's largest and most complete Reserve Officers Training Corps unit. Last year A. & M. had an enrollment of 6355 students and all of them were required to take at least two years of basic R. O. T. C. training. Those electing to take the advanced course in their junior and senior years, and recommended by the military department of the College, receive approximately 890 yearly from the government and upon graduation are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Officers Reserve Corps. Last June 360 such commissions were granted to members of the graduating class at Texas A. & M. and today many of those same men are now on active duty at their own request.

NYA Mechanics of

The Airplane Mechanics School of the Ranger NYA project, entertained the NYA girls Thursday evening with a party at the Airplane Mechanics Shop.

Chester Johnson, supervisor of the school, sponsored the party because of the large amount of work done by the students in his school in the past three days, when more than four times the normal amount of work was produced.

In addition to the NYA boys and girls a number of NYA officials attended.

Funeral and burial rites were held Thursday for Philip Johnson (colored) 64, who died Thursday morning at his servants' apartment at the R. N. Wilson residence, 1017 South Seaman street, Eastland. Burial was in Eastland cemetery with Hamner Undertaking Company in charge.

RUMANIA IS UNDER A NEW REGIME NOW

A pro-Nazi and anti-Russian regime took over the reins of government in Rumania today as abdicating King Carol prepared to flee with his mistress, Madga Lupescu, leaving the army to control the country under his 18-year-old son, King Michael, who had served as king once before when Carol was in exile.

Registration of Higher Age Group
Is Recommended

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The House of Representatives today upheld the committee recommendation that men between the ages of 21 and 45 be registered under the military conscription bill, instead of the 21 to 31 ages for registration, as recommended by the senate.

At a press conference, meanwhile, President Roosevelt indirectly opposed an amendment which would allow conscription of only 100,000 men if the army quota cannot be filled by voluntary enlistments within 60 days.

German Crew Still Seeks Camp Sites

DALLAS, Sept. 6.—Captain Wilhelm Dahnke of the scuttled German lines Columbus came here today seeking a camp for the 451 members of his crew, now stranded at San Francisco.

Dallas Chamber of Commerce officials yesterday followed the lead of Fort Worth's Chamber of Commerce, declaring opposition to the camp here, because it might deter establishment of war industries in the two towns.

AUSTIN, Sept. 6.—Appointment of Major J. S. Murchison of Corsicana to succeed Adam Johnson as State Welfare Director, effective Sept. 15, was announced here today.

We Can Still Cock One Eye at Future

In Britain, Germany, or Italy, they have no time for the future. The present occupies them fully. A bomb-proof cellar is not the best place for planning the future.

On second thought, maybe it is, at that. Futures have been planned in prisons. Perhaps they may be glimpsed between bombs. But in any case we have more time to think, here in America; our vision should be clearer.

There are things to think about. For instance, some people take comfortable refuge in the thought that war preparations are going to solve the unemployment problem. But not necessarily. In July British unemployment actually increased by 60,000. In the face of a desperate battle for life, the British have failed to find use for nearly 2,000,000 men.

Do you think for one moment that even if Britain wins, the men and women who fought for her are going to go back to that? Do you think the men who staggered out of Dunquerque harbor did it to preserve the Scotch grouse moors or to keep the fox-hunting pleasant at Buckinghamshire-on-Thrums? Do you think the men and women who are dodging bombs are doing it to hold together the vast estates of mouldy peers who spend fourfifths of their time in the south of France? Are they doing it to preserve the caste system that barred the way to good careers in army, school, and church to any but "gentlemen"?

If you think this, you credit the people of the United Kingdom with less sense than they have.

War, and preparation for war, solve no economic problems. Neither is likely to solve unemployment or any other major dislocation in our economy. We cannot drown in warlike shouting the voice of the disinherited.

True, defense comes first. For if our country is not defended, no plans for a better future are worth the paper they are drawn on. But we must never forget that we do not defend the old ways. What we defend is the new ways of a better future.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS . . .

By BOYCE HOUSE
Back in my younger days, folks upon being introduced would invariably ask, "Are you any kin to Colonel House of Texas?"—referring, of course, to the confidential adviser of President Woodrow Wilson.

At the family style boarding house in Eastland where I used to eat, long ago, when I was editor of the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News (try saying that name all in one breath), there was a young chap named Wilbourne Collie who was deputy district clerk. He always called me "Colonel."

Years went by and Collie became State Senator and was elected President Pro Tem of the Senate. Came an afternoon when the Governor was at the Rose Bowl watching S. M. U. and the Lieutenant Governor was at the Sugar Bowl watching T. C. U. and so Senator Collie became Governor for a day. He signalized his administration by pardoning four convicts and making me a Colonel.

Ever since then, I have been waiting for somebody to ask, "Are you any kin to Colonel House of Texas?" so I could answer, "H. . . I AM Colonel House of Texas"—but, do you know, not a doggone person will ask the question!

Seventy-five years have passed since Abraham Lincoln's death and soon no man will be alive who looked upon the Great Emancipator.

Your columnist has met three men who saw Lincoln. One lived in Valera and remembered hearing Lincoln make a speech. Another, whose home was in Illinois, visited a son-in-law in Eastland, and told of playing, in childhood, with one of Lincoln's sons. An idea of the gaunt and lanky appearance of the Springfield attorney can be gained from a story which the visitor told: A group of boys were playing hide-and-seek; a very little fellow, who was "it," opened a closet door in a doctor's office and found himself confronted by a skeleton. A few days later, the boy saw "Honest Abe," and said, "I know who you are; you belong in Dr. Brown's office."

The third man was attending the theater in Washington when Lincoln was assassinated. He heard the shot and saw the President crumple and the assassin leap from the box of the stage, then turn and cry out something before hastening from the scene.

dragging an injured leg. As the poet said: "The buffalo are gone, And those who saw the buffalo are gone."

Soon the last living link, joining the present with Lincoln, will snap.

The old joke contest shouldn't be limited to those in prose—Funny (or, anyway, odd) that we didn't think about the rhymed ones before. Here's one: "There was a young lady from Niger,

Who smiled as she rode on a tiger.

They came back from the ride With the lady inside.

And a smile on the face of the tiger."

To give you full measure, here's another limerick that is a classic: "A wonderful bird is the pelican!

His mouth can hold more than his belican. He can take in his beak Enough food for a week— I'm darned if I know how the helican!"

News about newsmen: Imagine a stack of newspapers 69 feet high. That's how much the 50th anniversary edition of the Tulsa Herald amounted to—a mound nearly four times as high as the Herald's building . . .

Charles K. Devall, publisher of the Kilgore Herald (which publishes "I Give You Texas") is the new president of the State Press Association; N. H. Pierce's Menard News (which publishes this column) won second place in a national contest for weeklies; the Temple Telegram (Frank Mayborn, publisher, and Walter R. Humphrey, editor) has been awarded a silver plaque by the National Editorial Association for outstanding community service, an award won in spite of the fact that the Telegram does not print "I Give You Texas" . . . Willard Proctor, Grand Saline editor, has been named postmaster . . . The Lindale News, founded by Tom P. Cooper, Sr., issued an excellent 40th anniversary edition . . . The Shamrock Texan has been purchased by Albert Cooper, its publisher since '29; Arvil Montgomery, office manager, and Ted Rogers, mechanical superintendent.

If all the 1940 United States wheat crop plus the supply in the Ever-Normal Granary were used for food, it would provide every man, woman and child in the nation with twice as much bread, cereal and other wheat foods as each ate in the entire year of 1939.

We've taken our greatest all-time car and steadily and carefully brought it forward to a perfection of action, ease, goodness beyond anything ever offered under our name.

It's hard to picture the new 1941 Buicks fairly with old adjectives.

Every car in all five series of the whole new line deserves unused fresh-minted language. Stylewise, their suave and dynamic beauty refreshes the jaded eye as would sight of a hydrant in the desert. They move and function like young wild things. They're all grace and poise and eagerness. They bring to driving and handling a keener pleasure and a new thrill. Tuesday, September 3rd, the new Federal Government Food Stamp Plan to market surplus farm commodities was inaugurated in Eastland County. The stamp plan was inaugurated to give the farmer a greater return for his products, and to assure better nutritional balance of food to the families that are being provided with surplus foods by Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation.

It is only natural that we are ready and willing to cooperate with the new Government Plan... To help the farmer and enable others to receive more food (one third more) for the same money and in some instances for less money.

Stowaway Cat Flies Just for the Fun

FORT WORTH, Texas—A high-flying cat whose home is in airports from coast to coast presents a puzzle to airline officials between New York and Los Angeles.

The cat, a furry black and white youngster, appeared at the Fort Worth airport early this summer. Someone said it came from Memphis. Another pilot said he had seen it in Los Angeles.

Animals are regular riders on the commercial airlines, but this kitten has a knack for slipping unnoticed into plane baggage compartments. Shortly after its first visit here, the cat showed up in New York.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers believe nagging backache quickly ends when they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When discharging of kidney function proceeds poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it brings pain, loss of sleep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or steady passages with aching and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the 15 million of kidney trouble sufferers eliminate waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

It Takes Hustle To Win Football Games and the Bulldogs Will Need It To Replace Their Inexperience

By HILL MAYES
Yesterday—or by the time this goes to print it will be day before yesterday—we sat out at Bulldog Stadium and watched Coach H. G. Jennings working out the Bulldogs. And we wondered about the "attitude" of the men he was working out.

Attitude is an overworked word with football fans, with sports writers and followers of the game in general. It is overworked, but it means a lot at that.

WAKE UP YOUR OWN LAXATIVE FLUID

And Maybe You, Too, Will Feel Like "Happy Days Are Here Again"
Do you suffer from constipation? Do you suffer from fatty indigestion before the ball or stick headache or biliousness due to constipation? If so, you may need to look up the flow of your natural laxative fluid with Carter's Little Liver Pills. Try them according to the directions. These pills, made of two simple vegetable medicines, have dissolved the flow of this laxative fluid in some people as proved by medical tests. Within two days of this laxative fluid flows through our bodies every day. The above mixture of the fluid due to constipation may go away. Then many of us may feel like "Happy Days Are Here Again." Ask your druggist now for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

thought about the Bulldogs winning or losing, but what they thought about playing football. Because thereby hangs a tale. No one who knows football believes that there is a coach in the country who can take a bunch of boys who have never played the game and make a championship team of them. But they can do a lot of other things.

For instance, if they have that attitude—and already this year we are hating that word—but anyway if they have it they can be whipped into a team that can make a good showing on the football fields this year. And what we mean by a good showing does not mean winning games. A team can go down in defeat, doing its best, trying on every play, and look good in defeat. We have seen teams that looked terrible winning, but they are rare. And rarer still is a group of first year boys or boys who have been squabblers but who have not really played, that have the instinct, the ability, the football sense to play their best.

Jennings hit the nail on the head in a few words during passing practice. He said that it was a lot more fun to go down under a pass and catch it than to miss it. Likewise it is a lot more fun to put out all one has playing the game than it is to loaf through one. There's more zest to it, more thrill to it, more fun even if the team loses. That is what the Bulldogs will have to build up this year—hustle—because they are going to meet a lot of teams with more experienced players, teams that are wanting to win, and unless they develop that hustle they won't stand much of a chance to win. We remember a few years back when the Bulldogs lost every game of the season. After the season was over they scrimmaged with Strawn for some reason. We never could figure out why. Anyway one of the linemen was pulled out and he almost cried. "Let me go back in, coach," he begged. "I'm having more fun this afternoon than I had all season."

The reason he was having so much fun was that he had started to get out, and had discovered the thrill of helping to stop plays, of helping them to click when the Bulldogs had the ball. He had found something in football he didn't know before was there. He carried that thrill along for two more years, and made a whale of a good player. There are some on the squad today who may learn that thrill sooner or later. Those who do will make football players.

Kids Fill Theatre For Penney's Show

The Arcadia Theatre was crowded to capacity this morning when the annual J. C. Penney free show for children under 15 years of age was staged.

Ten cartoons and comedies were selected for the showing today, and attracted the largest crowd that any of the J. C. Penney shows had drawn to date. D. M. Cooper, manager of the store, sponsored the free theatre party. Mayor Hall Walker made a short talk before the show started.

The others will just be members of the team. And the more thrill players—not grandstand players because a thrill player forgets there is a grandstand—the more thrill players, the more hustlers can be developed on the squad the more football games will be seen. It all remains to be seen just what will happen this year.

The burglar alarm at a major league ball park went off accidentally, with many fans noticing the startled look on the umpire's face.

Revival To Start In Downtown Area

Jack Hathaway, Dublin evangelist, has announced that he will start a series of Bible teaching services at the Downtown Gospel Tabernacle, across the street from the old Liberty Theatre, beginning Sunday evening.

The services will start each evening at 7:30 and will feature special music, quartets, duets and class singing. The public has been urged to attend, regardless of denomination. The slogan adopted for this revival is, "Don't miss a service."

Thursday night of each week will be given over to a study in prophecy, with relation to the war now being fought across the seas, it has been announced.

Transportation will be furnished for any aged people who would like to attend, but who are unable to walk, it was stated. Business men also have a special invitation. T. T. Notgrass will be director of music and Mrs. May Hunt will be at the piano.

Ben Patterson Has Taken Over Station

J. E. Meroney, wholesale Sinclair agent for Ranger and the surrounding territory, has announced that Ben Patterson and his son, Ben Earl, have taken over the Sinclair station at the corner of Blackwell Road and Highway 50 at Prairie Crossing.

Patterson formerly operated the station, and is returning to the place where he was formerly in business. He invites his many friends to visit him at the station at any time they are in need of service of any kind.

Receptionist Is Hired By Governor

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—Miss Frances Goff of Kennedy is new receptionist for Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's office. The pretty greeter is not a stranger about the state capital. She was a house of representatives stenographer in the 45th and 46th legislatures, and will do stenographic work in the governor's office as well as receiving visitors.

An addition to the staff of the secretary of state's office is Kitty Williamson of Brownwood, better known to the Texas public as "Texas Rose." It was under that name that she became a popular soloist with the W. Lee O'Daniel Hill Billy band. She was one of the band members who did not go over to "Sadler's Stringers" for the recent political campaign.

Mighty Fossil Is Declared Unique

By United Press
DENVER.—Colorado residents who constantly hear talk of drought and its resultant crop failures are looking these days at proof that this area was once excessively damp.

Of course, nobody remembers back that far, but there is a rather grisly testimonial at the Colorado Museum of Natural History that proves what science says. For the last 10 months Philip Reinheimer, chief preparator of the museum, has been putting together the bones of the extinct Plesiosaur, a monster that inhabited Colorado in the neighborhood of 100 million years ago. The Plesiosaur's respiratory apparatus indicates that it travelled exclusively under water, thereby furnishing proof that the state probably was "briny" then.

Approximately 5,000 persons went to the museum to attend the unveiling of the pre-historic fossil. The skeleton is 40 feet long and resembles very much a hugg-back mountain range which has had the bottom cut out from under it. The bones weigh 7,000 pounds, Reinheimer said, and when adorned with muscles, fat and epidermis it probably tipped the beam at about three tons. Sixty-two of the 134 vertebrae are in the neck, indicating that the Plesiosaurian frightened had a good view of its surroundings at all times.

Reinheimer, very proud of his newest construction, said the specimen was found in the flatlands of Southeastern Colorado, now one of the driest areas in the nation. The entire skeleton was in place and complete.

There has been nothing, Reinheimer said, to alter his belief that Colorado's Plesiosaurian specimen is the only one of its kind.

MODERN MENUS

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

SUNDAY'S MENU
BREAKFAST: Sliced peaches and cream, bacon rolls, coffee, milk.
DINNER: Iced cantaloupe, roast stuffed shoulder of lamb, brown gravy, parsley potatoes, green corn, lettuce, tomato and pepper salad, hot blueberry roll with vanilla ice cream, coffee, milk.
SUPPER: Welsh rarebit on toast, baked apples and cream, spice cake, tea, milk.

STUFFING
One onion, 3 stalks celery, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 pint bread crumbs, salt, pepper and savory seasoning (use fresh mint instead of savory, if preferred).
Chop onion and celery. Sauté in butter for a few minutes. Add the bread crumbs, stir all together and season to taste.

Spread the lamb stuffing inside the boned shoulder. Roll the shoulder completely and sew or tie in place. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dust lightly with flour. Place on rack in roasting pan with fat side up. Do not add water and do not cover.
Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) at same temperature from start to finish. Cook until meat is tender—about 2½ to 3 hours. Make gravy of pan drippings.

(Serves 4 to 6)
One cup boiling bouillon, ½ cup finely chopped mint leaves, 1 tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup cubed cooked left-over lamb, 1 cup highly seasoned cooked peas.

Four boiling bouillon over chopped mint leaves. Stand five minutes. Strain. Sprinkle gelatin on cold water. Soak for five minutes. Add to hot minted strained bouillon. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add cubed lamb and peas. Dip mold into cold water, then fill with lamb and pea mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold on bed of lettuce and garnish with sprigs of fresh mint.

LAMB STEW (MADE FROM COOKED MEAT)
(Serves 4)
Two cups left-over cooked lamb cut in large cubes, 1 tablespoon butter, 1½ tablespoons flour, 1 large onion, 1 cup mashed fresh cooked tomatoes, ½ green pepper, 1 clove, 1 teaspoon minced green celery leaves, 1¼ cups stock made of lamb trimmings and vegetable trimmings.

Chop onion and green pepper. Brown in butter. Stir in flour, then slowly add tomatoes, clove and stock. Simmer until the sauce begins to thicken, then add lamb cubes and parsley leaves. Add ½ cup diced left-over potatoes and simmer until all ingredients are thoroughly hot. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

SERIAL STORY

LOVE ON THE LINE

BY PAUL FRIGGENS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER X
IT still was dark when Carrie, her heart pounding in her throat, dressed and started across the prairie to Taylor's. To the east, the fire was etched red against the blackness where the night met the land. Carrie, watching it as she stumbled along, imagined it grew brighter, came more swiftly toward her.

Carrie never knew just how she found Taylor's soddy, except that suddenly the house loomed up a black blob in the night. She ran the last hundred yards, reached the door, pounded loudly, calling, "Mrs. Taylor! Mr. Taylor!" Then there was a stirring inside and a shuffling of feet and big Ed's voice boomed through the open window, "Who's there?"

Carrie did not answer. The last she remembered was that someone was bending over her and that she was lying down and that the fire on the horizon had turned, suddenly, into utter blackness.

WITH night, the realization of Carrie's peril overwhelmed Mark. The wind that had roared in on the first wings of the storm was spent now, but the after-blow was still strong. It whipped and eddied and fanned the flames until the fighting was almost hopeless. Mark looked behind once, saw the wind had dropped blazing tufts of grass where he had just beaten out the fire! He was certain it had leaped Rock Creek. It must have, in the first terrific push of that storm. Yet there was no way of knowing.

After the first, sudden shock of the storm was over, the men had resumed their hopeless battle. They fought the fire with sacks, beat to shreds, with broken shovels. Faces were black with smoke, scorched. Mark straightened up once, paused in his beating, and felt his feet blistered in his boots.

Someone was calling them together. They could not stop the fire on this side of Rock Creek. It had leaped the creek. They were going to backfire, to try to stop it on the other side. And then Mark recognized the voice! Ed Taylor's!

Taylor? What was Taylor doing here? Taylor, who should have been with the women, Taylor, who should have taken Carrie and his wife to town at the first sign of danger.

Suddenly, Mark realized that Ed Taylor, of course, would be fighting the fire. Taylor lived on Rock Creek. The fire had swept toward his home from the west. Taylor would be one of the first to fight it. But where was Carrie? With a shudder Mark thought of her.

He groped through the smoke in the direction of Taylor's voice, approached a grizzled, commanding figure. It was big Ed. The men were gathering around him. Taylor was speaking.

"If we catch it in the slev grass, we're all right. If we don't—" He stopped, recognizing Mark. "Mark, for God's sake, have you seen the women?"

"Have you seen the women?" Together they asked the same question, almost in the same breath, seemed to stagger there with the knowledge neither knew.

"Have I—have I seen 'em?" Taylor ralled. "No, ain't you, Mark? Last I seen 'em was this morning after Carrie came."

"Carrie? She reached your place?" Mark cut in excitedly. "Yeh, she reached it 'n' that's about all, Mark. Faintest cold at the door. First thing we knew about the fire was then. We got her to, an' I hiked out. I told them, then, to hold off going to town unless it got worse, but to keep the team handy. God, Mark, they must've got out by this time."

BUT Mark Deuel knew what Ed Taylor feared, what he was thinking, what both of them were thinking but were afraid to say. Instinctively, the men recognized the truth in each other's faces and shrank from it.

Perhaps the women had not escaped at all! The quiet of the day might have put them off guard. Ed had told them to keep the team handy to go into town if the fire should become worse. But it hadn't become worse. It had slowed down, instead, and the women, watching across the creek, must have noticed that.

Then the storm had struck, undoing in five seconds the work of the whole day, carrying the flames clear across Rock Creek and straight toward the homesteaders.

Had the women become panicky in that first frightful moment? Were they able to handle the horses and get them hitched up in the wind and lightning? Had they started to town on foot, or were they even now caught in the hell of that shifting, ever-widening prairie fire?

In that moment Ed Taylor was yelling for a horse. A boy came running with one out of the darkness and Mark swung up into the saddle. There was only one horse, the boy shouted, the others had broken away in the storm. Big Ed was yelling, "Mark, find the women if it's the last thing you do!"

Mark kicked the horse into a run, raced into the darkness to circle the fire and cross Rock Creek below the point where the flames leaped the stream.

As he rode, he realized suddenly the odds against him. In the darkness he could not hope to find Carrie and Mrs. Taylor, since they would not take the usual road to town along the creek. It would be too late to try that route now.

But he could find out if they'd left with the team. If the wagon was gone, it would mean the women had escaped.

It was two miles around the fire's edge to the crossing below Carrie's. Mark splashed his horse into the cool, shallow water, would have dashed across, but the horse, foam-flecked, thirsty, forced its head down and drank feverishly. To Mark that pause seemed interminable. Seconds later he was splashing up the other side and along the creek bank toward Carrie's.

With breathless satisfaction he noted the fire was burning slower in the creek bottom, choking somewhat on the thickness of the tall, green slev grass. But it was gaining a headway, nevertheless, was less than a quarter mile from the soddy, probably even closer to Taylor's. Mark swung up the little knoll to Carrie's soddy, and knew instantly she was not there.

Quickly, Mark turned his horse away from the soddy, raced that last mile across the prairie to Taylor's claim. He saw the dim outlines of Taylor's soddy and makeshift barn. The fire was much closer here, advancing swiftly in the short, dry grass.

He galloped up to the soddy, slid off his horse, shouted: "Carrie! Mrs. Taylor!"

There was no answer. Mark felt a sudden, vast relief. They were gone! They had escaped! Then he saw the wagon, overturned, by the dugout cellar. Frantic, he ran toward it, on to the barn. With a sudden, sickening sensation he saw the storm had ripped the corner off, taken part of the barn roof. The horses were still tied in their stalls.
