On numerous occasions lately we have heard the charge of "conflict of interest" leveled against various public officials, on the national level. Apparently state officials are immune to the charge.

A story in Tuesday afternoon's Amarillo paper reveals a glaring example of conflict of interest Texas style. The story was written by Jim W. Walker, oil editor of the Amarillo paper and had to do with the 23rd annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

As would be expected the speakers on the convention program advocated price increases for crude oil and natural gas at the well head, and also plugged for retention of present oil industry tax benefits and proposed an increase in the depletion allowance. This is what you would expect at a meeting of industry officials and representatives. It is their responsibility to look after the interests of the oil industry, and that they were doing as was to be expected.

Here comes the conflict of interest angle that developed at the meeting; it was the election of W. J. Murray, Jr., of Austin as president of TIPRO for the coming year. Murray is a former member of the Texas Railroad Commission, a three member board that is supposed to look after the interests of the people of that state as opposed to the monopolistic practices of the oil industry and other vested interests. The last person you would expect to be elected to an administrative post in a petroleum organization would be a former member of the Texas Railroad Commission if he had performed his duties well as a commissioner.

The stalemate between the governor and the leaders of the State legislature has generated a considerable amount of interest as well as amusement in the hinterlands. According to the governor the constitution calls for a two-year bill to appropriate funds, and levy taxes, to finance operation of the state government. Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker of the House Gus Mutscher says not so, it can be done a year at a time.

The governor should have, and would have been within his rights, (see ABOUT DIMMITT Page 12)

Feed-grain buyers

Japanese get Texas-style welcome

Two of Japan's most influential leaders in the field of animal agriculture — one of them an honorary Texan — toured Castro County's feedlots and elevators Friday to study recent developments in animal production and marketing with the use of grain sorghum.

THEY WERE Shiro Kawada, vice-president of the Japan Feed Council and president of the Japan Feed Manufacturers Association, and Kakuo Okada, vice-president of the Japan Local Horse Race Association and former director of the Livestock Bureau of the Japanese Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry.

The two Japanese leaders were in the US at the invitation of the US Feed Grains Council, accompanying them on their four-week tour of the US were G. Robert Peterson, Far East director for the US Feed Grains Council, and Teshio Minagawa, feed promotion specialist in the USFGC's Far East office. Minagawa served as the interpreter.

FOR THE area's GSPA men, it was the fifth tour of foreign visitors and potential grain sorghum customers in three weeks. Two weeks ago, the GSPA men hosted a team of West German livestock and feed men on a tour of the county.

After lunching at the Hereford Country Club, the Japanese visitors saw the Community Grain Co. facilities at Easter, studied a new type of feed-blending plant being readied at a new feedlot in Flagg, and toured the Dimmitt Feed Yards.

For Ike Brandon, manager of Dimmitt Feed Yards, it was the second meeting in two weeks with foreign visitors. He "talked shop" also with the West German visitors two weeks ago.

Honorary Texan Shiro Kawada, interpreter Teshio Minagawa, high official Kakuo Okada

"THERE ARE a lot of feed yards in the area, but we feel that the Dimmitt Feed Yards is one of the nicest operations to show to our foreign visitors," Harp said. "It is huge by their standards and has a good feed blending plant to show them."

Kawada, 66, is one of the main men responsible for Japan becoming the largest single export market of US grain sorghum since 1960, Harp said. Japan is now buying $88 million worth of US grain sorghum a year, based on the US market price.

"Mr. Kawada was one of the leaders in getting Japan to import grain sorghum," Harp said.

He has owned his own feed company in Japan since 1926, and because of his high offices in the feed manufacturers association and the Japan Feed Grains Council, he is considered one of the most influential men in Japan in the import of feed grains.

AS A symbol of Kawada's importance to the state's grain sorghum producers, Gov. Preston Smith declared him an honorary Texan in April, before he left Japan for this tour.

The Japanese entourage wasn't scheduled to visit Texas on this tour, but Kawada was so impressed with being made an honorary Texan that he had the itinerary changed to include South Plains grain and feeding facilities. Kawada already was familiar with the area, having been a member of an earlier feed-grains touring team here.

GOV. SMITH sent a staff aide to greet Kawada when the delegation arrived at Lubbock, and to present him with a Stetson hat. But by the time the group reached Dimmitt Feed Yards Friday afternoon, the "grand old man" of the Japanese feed industry was wearing an old, scuffed, rolled-brim felt hat presented to him at Easter by Bill Waldrop. First heavy hails hit

Heavy hail fell from dark, boiling clouds in quilt-pattern fashion two nights last week, totally destroying many crops east of Dimmitt and causing partial destruction elsewhere in the county.

THE TWO hailstorms were accompanied by severe lightning and hit-or-miss rains which Saturday night washed out many fields and covered the major highways north, south and east of Dimmitt.

It was the year's first major hail attacks on the county's ripening crops.

The heaviest damage occurred Saturday night east and southeast of Dimmitt.

Frank Wise reported heavy damage to 100 acres of wheat and cotton east of Dimmitt. MRS. M. L. HARLAN, 2 1/2 miles east, reported a 90 percent loss of wheat and 50 percent loss of cotton in Saturday night's storm.

"The little feed was beaten up pretty badly, but we should come out of it," Mrs. Harlan said. "We had some golf-ball sized hail here, but most of it was smaller. We also had about an inch of rain."

In addition to the damage to the Harlan's crops, a window was broken and the roof on a trailer house was ruined.

PAUL BROOKS, who farms in the Five Point area near the Ellis Gin, said that most of the severe damage to his land was caused by hard rain and high winds.

"We were just on the edge of it," Brooks said.

Fields in the Five Point area southeast of Dimmitt appeared to have been washed out Saturday night as water covered State 196 in at least three places within three miles.

COTTON appears to be the worst-hurt crop in the Five Point area, with foliage stripped off and bare stalks barely visible in some fields.

Wheat fields that were almost ready for harvest were so badly torn up that several farmers were left only with the choice of plowing under or bailing.

Corn and sugar beets, although they took a severe beating, are expected to struggle back to maturity.

SATURDAY night's lightning storm was especially severe at Hart. Thunderbolts split trees as hail and high wind ripped branches off, and part of the city's street lights were knocked out of service.

Sunnyside registered winds of up to 80 mph Saturday night, with up to 2 1/2 inches of rain during the week.

west of Dimmitt, farmers generally were fortunate this time, with mainly light, spotty damage reported.

CARL BRUEGEL's wheat, cotton, potato and onion crops were apparently the worst damaged in the western part of the county.

Bruegel reported that damage to his wheat ran as high as 50 percent. These same fields were totally wiped out by hail last June.

Charles Rickard of Bethel received some hail damage, and Murray Snyder had hail damage on his cotton.

For the county's farmers, one of the worst parts of the severe weather is the worrying, because it isn't over yet. A huge storm system developed over Castro and Hale Counties Tuesday night and spawned a tornado that raked across a section of Plainview, and more severe weather was predicted for late this week.

FIRST WHEAT — For the second year in a row, Gerald Acker of Nazareth harvested Castro County's first load of wheat. Acker (center) delivered the load to Dimmitt Wheat Growers at Nazareth Tuesday afternoon to officially kick off the wheat harvest. With Acker in photo are his son, Although Dimmitt Wheat Growers' corn milling plant won't go into production until sometime next year, customers already are asking for its entire output.

THIS WAS the highlight announcement made to a crowd of 700 at the cooperative's annual meeting Saturday evening by Aaron Isaacs and Jim Harsh, president and vice-president of Dimmitt Management Co., which will operate the mill.

The annual meeting was held in the plant's fabrication shop, where more than half a million dollars' worth of steel sheets are being milled into tanks and cones for the huge mill. Members of the cooperative got a first-hand look at the tough, complex machinery being used to fabricate the plant.

Isaacs and Harsh painted a rosy picture of the mill's marketing prospects, and hinted that the plant may be doubled in size within two years instead of in 1973, as originally planned.

"BECAUSE of two contracts we are now working with, we are already oversold on production," Isaacs said.

Later, Harsh added, "We've been approached by four or five people in the industry, and if the contracts are worked out with these people, the entire output of the plant is already sold. Your board of directors has worked very hard and they've done an outstanding job. I'm very, very proud of them."

Isaacs said that customers' desires may alter the plans for the types of products the mill's second unit will turn out.

THE ORIGINAL plans call for the second 10,000-bushel unit to produce mainly dextrose sugar. But Isaacs said at Saturday's annual meeting, "We're now trying to decide whether to increase to 20,000 bushels in syrups and starches instead of dextrose."

Isaacs told the plant's members, who will grow the corn for it, that an earlier expansion "will pose the question of whether you can meet your contract amount in the first year of production, and produce 150 percent of your contract amount by 1971."

To handle the huge amount of corn that will be grown to feed the hungry mill, Isaacs said the cooperative has leased a half-million-bushel elevator at Lazbuddie for five years to service contract growers in that area. Glen Hammond, DWG general manager, added that the cooperative is working now to increase its handling facilities at Tam Am, Flagg and Nazareth.

ABOUT THE plant's construction progress, Isaacs said, "We were three months behind schedule when the contracts were established. We're on schedule with our work, and are trying desperately to make up those three months. The only place we can do it is here in the fabrication shop."

HENRY SPRUELL, supervisor of fabrication, construction and erection of the huge plant, said the fabrication shop, "even though only temporary, is one of the finest fabricating shops in the state of Texas at this time."

Pfc. Donald Cooper

Former resident loses legs, arm in Viet battle

Pfc. Donald Cooper, a former Dimmitt resident, is in serious condition in an Okinawa hospital after having lost both his legs and an arm in a mortar attack near the Cambodian border in Vietnam.

HIS PARENTS, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cooper of 1207 Oak St., Othello, Wash., were notified last week that their son's condition was "holding stable at present, but he is on the very seriously ill list."

Pfc. Cooper's parents operated a farm here and he attended grade school in Dimmitt before the family moved to Washington in 1952. The wounded man is the nephew of Buster Cooper and Mrs. Ilene McElroy of Dimmitt.

He graduated from Othello High School in 1967 and attended college 1 1/2 years before being drafted. The 20-year-old soldier had been in Vietnam only three weeks.

He was a member of Co. D, 508th Infantry, 82nd Airborne Division. His unit was on a search and destroy mission May 6 in the Hobo Woods near the Cambodian border when it came under heavy enemy mortar fire.

IN THE BATTLE that followed, Pfc. Cooper was badly wounded and received traumatic amputation of both legs above the knee and of the left arm above the elbow.

He was evacuated to a base hospital, then transferred to the US Army Hospital in Okinawa. The telegram to his parents said his evacuation to the US is contemplated, but that no evacuation time can be set yet.

Friends wishing to write to him can address their mail to Pfc. Donald D. Cooper, US 56987450, US Army Hospital, Ryukyu Islands, Okinawa, APO San Francisco, 96331.

Rites held for John Heiman, last of Nazareth's founders

A concelebrated Requiem High Mass was sung in Nazareth's Holy Family Church Saturday morning for John Edward Heiman, 93, one of Nazareth's three founders.

MR. HEIMAN died last Thursday in St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. He had been a resident of St. Ann's Nursing Home in Plainview for the last two years.

The other two were cousins John and Joe Albracht. Mr. Heiman was the last survivor of the three town founders.

Mr. Heiman's son, Rev. Harold Heiman of Subiaco, Ark., concelebrated Saturday's Requiem High Mass with Rev. Stanley Crocchiola, pastor. They were assisted by Rev. Cyril Lange of Snyder. Also taking part in the mass were Father Chrisman of Plainview and Bishop Lawrence De Falco of Amarillo.

Sheffy's chatter

Wheat, cattle and cotton are keeping everyone busy

By MYRTLE SHEFFY
This is a busy time — "Do I have to tell you?"

The farmers are watering the crops and having the greenbugs sprayed with chemicals from air planes and the wheat is turning that beautiful gold color.

Combines should be into that by July 1, and Mayor Bradford says to go look at the pretty cotton that is up a few inches. He is also a girner. I see weeds and drag a water hose around—and I thought I was too old, but I got a card saying to come to the courthouse Monday for petit jury. We must be good Americans and do what we can — like serve on the jury when we are called to do so.

THE CATTLE trucks pass here with big loads of stock going to the feed pens — steaks and more steaks.

WE HAD a good trip to Dallas last week. We went by plane. It rained on us as far as Benjamin coming home, then we got above the clouds that looked like billows of snow. Dallas has fine trees — pecan, sycamore, mimosa and, all very green. They have so much rain. There are 90 shopping centers besides all the towns Dallas has taken in. Nice to go see, but give me Dimmitt.

The Baptist Church has been the busy place this past week. The vacation Bible school with probably 100 kids going has been in progress. Bobbie or Mrs. W. A. Baldrige, was hostess to the seventh and eighth graders at a Teen-a-Rama at her home with games, food and Bible learning. Judy Vogel helped. He and the crew have been four times to the Philippines and in the Yellow Sea. One of the good things about the service is that these boys get to see much of the world they would never see at Uncle Sam's expense. I would love to see these far away places.

First Baptist Church reports 'tremendous increase' in VBS

Dimmitt's First Baptist Church experienced a tremendous increase in vacation Bible school enrollment and activity this year, noted Dr. R. M. Perkins Jr., pastor and principal of the school, which ended Friday.

Jim Hays; Teen-a-Rama Director, Phil Vogel. Each of these departments had numbers of additional workers. The total faculty numbered 67.

LBI State Park open to public

Lyndon B. Johnson State Historic Park is now open, according to Mark Gosdin, director of park services for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. THE PARK is located 14 miles west of Johnson City.

Gosdin said no formal ceremonies were held, since construction is still underway, but visitors are welcome to see the newly built facilities including a visitor center, a restroom and picnic sites.

The visitor center with a display designed and built by the National Park Service is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The home of President Johnson and the First Lady is located on the north bank of the Pedernales River across from the 269-acre park.

GOSDIN says a second phase of construction is scheduled to start soon. When this is completed the park will have a competition size swimming pool, a wading pool, a covered game pavilion, a concession building, a nature trail, an auditorium, an amphitheater and maintenance facilities.

Other attractions in the area are President Johnson's birthplace across the Pedernales River, open daily from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., and his boyhood home in Johnson City, open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The various leaders in the departments were: Nursery Coordinator, Mrs. C. G. Maples; Beginners, Mrs. Darlene Dowell and Mrs. C. G. Lunsford; Primary, Mrs. Dan Heard, Mrs. V. C. Hopson and Mrs. Troy Kirby; Juniors, Mrs. R. M. Perkins Jr., Mrs. Jimmy Ross and Mrs.

"WE WERE able to have three departments which we had not had last year," remarked one of the workers. The vacation Bible school was held at the First Baptist Church for children ages 3 through grade 6.

Another facet this year was the "Teen-a-Rama" held at one of the members' homes and at various places around the Panhandle.

The Teen-a-Rama enrolled more than 28 junior high students in special Bible study. One of the outstanding features of the Teen-a-Rama was a Bible Study Seminar held at Palo Duro Canyon.

"WE COULD never have had anything like the outstanding event we did without the total cooperation and enthusiastic support of our workers," commented Dr. Perkins. "I just wish that each parent and person in the community could have visited the departments as a 'wee mouse in the corner' and seen the planned activities and exciting response on the part of our fine boys and girls. I was especially gratified to see some of the men of our church take their vacation time to help us."

State's produce floods markets

Fresh produce is beginning to flood the markets as items are hauled from Texas truck farms. To insure best value in buying fresh fruits and vegetables, here are suggestions from Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

BUY ONLY fresh fruits and vegetables needed. Never buy more than you can properly refrigerate and use without waste.

Even under ideal storage conditions most fresh fruits and vegetables retain top quality only for a few days. Always sort vegetables before storing. Discard or use at once any bruised or soft ones; do not store them with the sound, firm ones.

Low prices on fresh fruits and vegetables does not necessarily mean a bargain, the specialist advises. Unless the price is low because of over-abundance, the so-called bargain may be undesirable. Frequently poor quality items can be bought at a reduced price, but be sure the waste in preparation doesn't offset price reduction.

SIZE, TOO, is not a reliable guide in selection. Large-sized fruits aren't always best or most economical. Buy the size suited for your purpose.

Learn to distinguish between defects that affect appearance and those that affect edible quality. Some items with an attractive appearance may have relatively poor eating quality because of the variety or because it is over-mature. On the other hand, adds Mrs. Clyatt, poor appearance may be due only to color or superficial blemishes which don't affect eating quality.

Buy fruits and vegetables in season. Quality is usually higher and prices more reasonable than for out-of-season items.

Rough handling in the process of selection causes spoilage and waste for which consumers as a group must pay.

Square Dance Tips

By BILL HARMAN

The Dimmitt Promenaders were well represented at the Seventh Annual State Festival of Square and Round Dancers at the Civic Center in Amarillo Friday and Saturday. Approximately 5,000 square dancers enjoyed the calling of a number of fine callers from over the state. The Promenaders also had a float in the Thursday night parade.

IT WAS election night for the Dimmitt Promenaders at their regular Tuesday night dance. Our new officers are Murray Hall, president; Wade Maynard, vice-president; Paula Harman, secretary-treasurer; and Wilene Oakley, hostess chairman.

Host couples for the evening were Jimmy and Jo Lynn Martin and Darryl and Linda McLain. Door prize was won by Helen Brown. Sid Perkins did his usual fine calling.

A large cartoon was presented to Sid as a gag.

A few Promenaders traveled to Muleshoe Monday night and enjoyed a salad supper and graduation dance of the "Square Thru" Club. Four callers were present to do the calling to a large group of dancers.

Square-m up! Square dancing is fun, just ask any Dimmitt Promenader.

Cline funeral held in Hereford

Funeral services were held May 31 in Hereford for M. L. Cline, former Dimmitt resident who died in a one-auto accident May 29.

SERVICES were conducted in the Gilliland Funeral Home Chapel in Hereford, and burial was in Rest Lawn Cemetery there.

Mr. Cline moved to Hereford in 1955 from Dimmitt. He had been a garage mechanic here, and worked as a radio-TV technician in Hereford.

Mr. Cline was to have been married July 3 to Mrs. Florene Leiner, Castro County treasurer. He is survived by two sons, Floyd of Amarillo and Colin of San Antonio; a daughter, Mrs. Joan Sprouse of Las Lunas, N.M.; his mother, Mrs. Nora Callahan of Clovis; a brother, Forrest, of Clovis; and two grandchildren.

Up in the air

...with Nancy

(Editor's Note: In this new series, you will "fly along" with Nancy Jackson, as she learns to fly at Dimmitt Municipal Airport. Through her first-person accounts, we will fly with her from her first lesson until she earns her private pilot's license and joins the growing legion of Americans who "would rather fly than drive.")

By NANCY JACKSON

I guess flying runs in the Jackson family.

MY UNCLE BO started flying when he was 15 years old. Now he is a captain for Trans-World Airlines (TWA). Besides flying the big jets, he owns a light airplane. My daddy, Kenneth Jackson, started flying when he was going to college. He, too, owns a light airplane. My brother got his private license last summer. He wants to work for an airline after he graduates from college.

I guess the first time I even thought I might like to fly was when Daddy let me take over the controls for a while when we were going somewhere.

THERE IS more to learning to fly than a person would think, but it is a lot of fun. The things necessary are (1) a desire to fly; (2) a good instructor — mine is Brice Dowell; (3) self-assurance — which a good instructor builds; and (4) an airplane, of course — which in my case is furnished by Tidwell Flying Service.

I want you to start with me — on my first lesson.

The first time up, Brice just tried to get me familiar with the airplane by making a preflight check, leaning about the controls and how they effect the flight of the aircraft, etc.

A preflight inspection consists of walking around the outside of the airplane to make sure everything is alright (checking the oil, gas, tires, flaps and ailerons).

WE GOT into the airplane and I learned how to start it and how to taxi to the end of the runway. My instructor took off and got us well into the air, then turned it over to me!

I did a few shallow turns to get the feel of the plane. My instructor then landed and I taxied back to the parking ramp. After parking the plane, we started my "log book."

The next day, I took my second lesson. I did the preflight check, started the airplane, taxied to the end of the runway, and followed through on the controls as my instructor took off.

THIS TIME I had the controls almost immediately after we got in the air. I learned how to do land maneuvers, such as S-turns over a road and rectangular patterns around a section of land. We also tried to maintain a constant heading — trying to fly straight over a straight road. I didn't do that very well. THEN we did a few STALLS.

Then I followed Brice through the landing. We put another entry in my log book and he explained how the wind would affect the S-turns and rectangular patterns, as there wasn't any wind that day.

The next day, I had my third lesson. We mostly reviewed what we had done the day before, but then next day, I had my third cause there was a very slight wind.

My fourth lesson came two days later. We did more stalls (and I guarantee they aren't nearly as bad as the second time around), and reviewed the S-turns and rectangular patterns, because there was a pretty strong wind that day. My instructor then shot two landings, with me following along.

NEXT WEEK, we will start ground school (Tuesday and Thursday nights) along with the flying lessons.

Sheep, lambs still declining

Sheep and lambs in the nation have declined in number by more than a third since 1960 and three-fifths since 1942. They totaled 21.1 million head on Jan. 1, 1969, a drop of five percent from a year earlier, reports John McHaney, Extension economist. A record 75.2 million head made up the Jan. 1, 1942 inventory. McHaney says 1969 lamb prices likely will average above any year since 1951.

GOING DOWN!—Here's how the world looks from inside Gene Smith's dune buggy when you're perched atop a ridge at the "pits" near Dimmitt Airport and you're about to go plummeting down to where those little tracks are. That's open sky reflected in the rear-view mirror.

GOING UP!—Smith "tops out" from a 35-degree hill climb in his little dune buggy, which he finished painting a bright green Friday morning. He made his buggy from a 1963 Volkswagen after cutting 14 1/2 inches out of the frame. Five of the little cars now roam the Dimmitt area.

Financial Facts

By Willis A. Hawkins, Jr.

Suppose you scooped up a handful of coins? What denomination would net you the most, dollar wise? Would it be dollars, halves, quarters, dimes, nickels or pennies?

The answer is dimes.

Do you know what is meant by bimetalism? It's a monetary system in which gold and silver are used. Coinage is at a fixed ratio such as sixteen to one. This means that sixteen ounces of silver equals one ounce of gold.

Our present monetary system is often called the "Gold Bullion" standard.

Far more dollar bills are retired than those of other denominations. High denominations last longer. That's because they are handled less frequently.

VA's appraisal often sets price

In the past year, only one out of every 14 home-buying veterans paid more for his GI home than the Veterans Administration's appraisal price, VA said this week. THIS indicates that it's reasonable value appraisal is fair for the builder or seller as well as for the veteran, said Mrs. Mary Flynt, Castro County veterans' service officer.

home loans. Of this total, only 14,325 — or 7.2 percent — had a purchase price in excess of the VA's reasonable value appraisal. The VA noted that in more than half of the higher than appraisal value sales (7,785) the difference amounted to $500 or less. Veterans paid a $501 to $1,000 difference in approximately 3,600 of the 14,325 above appraisal value sales.

Moving veterans must get release from home loan

The Veterans Administration this week cautioned veterans who will be transferring to new jobs in new locations this summer to get releases in writing from the VA on their present GI home loans. The VA noted that private industry, more and more, is following the longstanding practice of the military services and government agencies of transferring personnel during the summer to avoid disrupting their children's schooling.

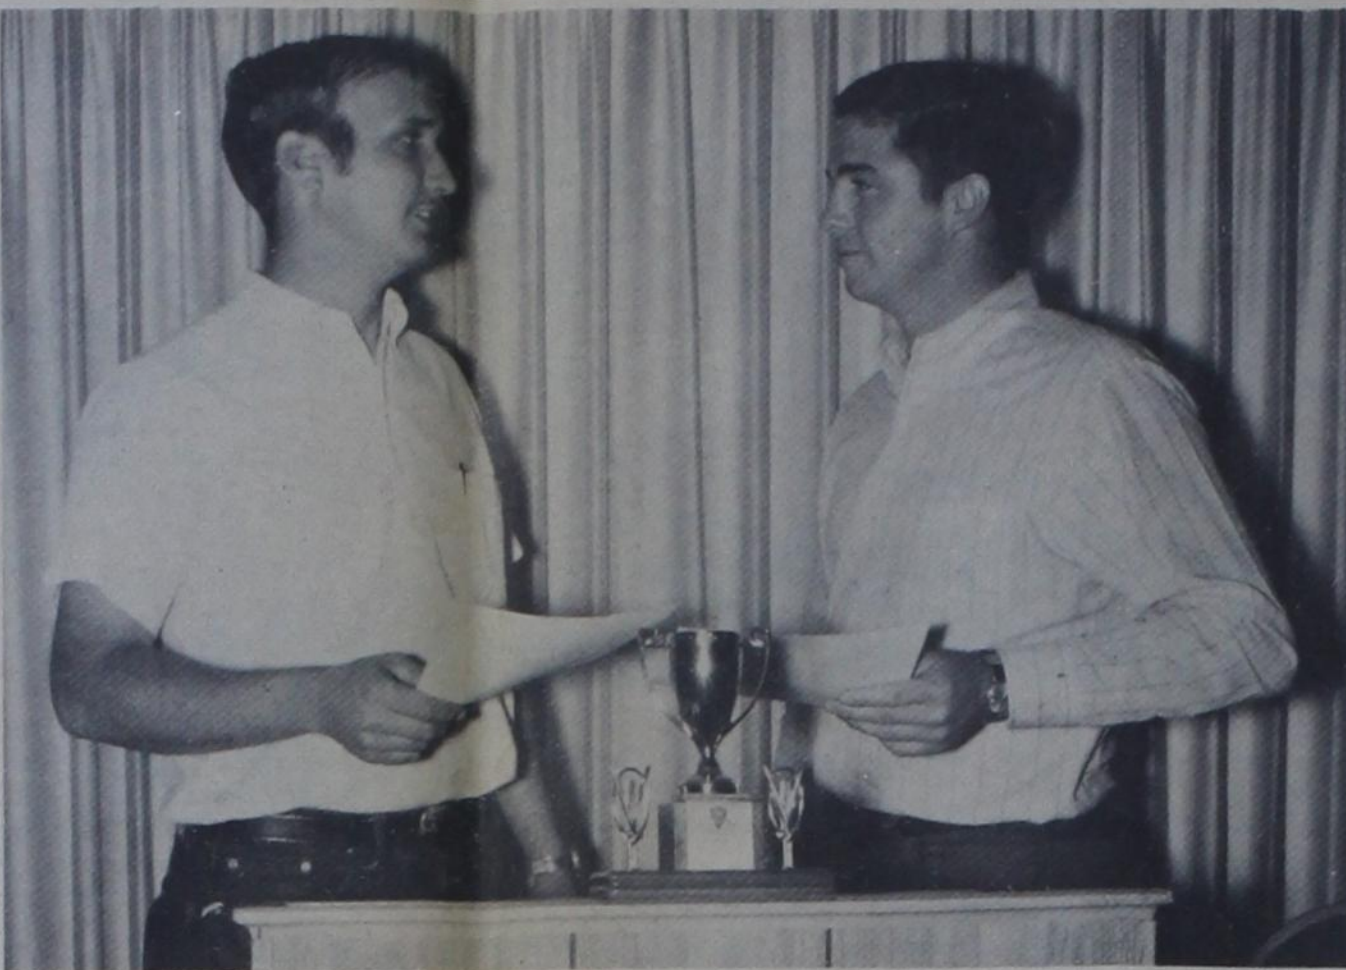

IN THE excitement of moving and concentration on the new job, the VA said, it is easy to overlook the fact that even though a veteran sells his present home he is still liable for his GI loan unless the loan is paid in full or the VA releases him in writing from all future liability. The VA also pointed out that the veteran who sells his home because of a transfer to a new location will be entitled to restoration of the VA home loan guaranty in order to purchase a home in his new community if his old GI loan is paid off.

Trim-Line phone goes on market

A stylish new telephone called the Trim-Line is now available to customers of West Texas Telephone Co. ARLIS McBEE, district manager for West Texas Telephone, says that Trim-Line's attractive appearance and easy handling make it "the modern way to telephone." Trim-Line is contoured to fit the human hand and face, and comes in a selection of decorator colors. The dial is in the handset itself, and so is a disconnect button, so that the user doesn't have to hang up between calls. The dial is illuminated for calls in the dark, and a longer cord allows greater freedom of movement. There's a floating finger stop for easy dialing, and even a concealed volume control to set the bell tone low, medium or loud.

HERE'S MORE information on "Dairy Month." To fit essential milk into your family's summer meals, drink it. There is a type of milk to fit every taste and every budget: fresh whole milk, fresh skimmed milk, buttermilk, chocolate or flavored milk, dry milk and canned milk products. Fresh milk and cultured milk (buttermilk) cost more than dried and canned forms. Milk fortified with multiple vitamins and minerals is generally the most expensive. Nonfat dry skim milk is the most economical form of milk. When you reconstitute dry milk one-third to one-half as much a quart as fresh fluid whole milk. Refrigerate fresh milk and milk products as soon as possible after purchase or delivery. Milk left in the sunshine loses riboflavin and flavor is affected. Don't mix new milk with old except for immediate use.

STORE UNOPENED nonfat dry milk at a temperature of 75 degrees or lower. Keep unused dry milk in the original package or put it in a tightly covered container. Close the package immediately after using. If dry milk is exposed to air during storage, it may become lumpy and stale. After dry milk is reconstituted, store in the refrigerator. To cut costs and still provide your family with the milk it needs, buy fresh milk in multi-quart containers, if you use this amount without waste. Usually, milk in one-half to one gallon containers costs less per quart than single quarts. Use of evaporated milk in cooking cuts costs. Check label to see if vitamin D is added. Use nonfat dry milk in cooking or as a beverage or mix equal amounts of reconstituted nonfat dry milk and fresh whole milk. Buy nonfat milk in as large quantities as you can store and use without waste. If you use nonfat dry milk as a beverage, reconstitute it several hours before serving and keep it cool.

If you're moving, it's wise to rent at first in new city

Finding a suitable place to live perplexes the moving family. WOULD-BE home buyers may be wise to rent, Mrs. Jane Berry, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist, suggests, until they learn about cost, value and features of housing in various areas.

Housing affects job satisfaction, good family relationships and tolerance of family members, she points out. Where supply of available housing is low, the prospective homeowner should not feel compelled to buy "anything that's available" just to have a roof over his head.

RENTING and the inconvenience and another move could well be worthwhile if it means getting the right house in the right location at the right price, Mrs. Berry stresses. Prospective home buyers need to concentrate on getting good value, even if it means purchasing slightly more than they need or can afford.

A banker, lending institution or private appraiser can provide information on the value of the property. The selling price should be closely in line with the appraisal. Congenial neighbors, attractive houses and yards and good schools are qualities most families look for in a place to live.

WHEN A job or circumstances demand frequent moves, the Texas A&M specialist suggest buyers invest in a house with at least three bedrooms to insure quick resale. Look for good construction and adequate plumbing and electrical capacity. Check also on the annual cost of heating and cooling the house, cost of taxes, water and electricity, she adds.

WHY were your story and picture printed free in the News? Because advertising paid the cost. It's another good reason to shop Dimmitt first!

Spot-checks being made on local wheat acreage

By CHARLEY HILL Secretary
Our office is now in the process of spot-checking wheat acreages in the county.

Cotton, feed grain and wheat must be "planted and farmed in a workmanlike manner" to be eligible for 1969 program payments.

Conservation Soil erosion: our main enemy

By CLAYTON JOBE
The farmer uses every possible method to conserve his valuable topsoil. His main enemy is erosion.

THE WORST kind of erosion is sheet erosion caused by rain. The soil moves so slowly that the farmer does not notice until a large amount is lost.

Not all erosion is caused by water. A lot of soil is blown away. Wind erosion is common here on the plains.

Another way of conserving the topsoil is to provide winter cover. This can be done by planting such winter crops as wheat or rye.

ASSISTANCE for planning a program for your farm to prevent erosion is available at the Soil Conservation Office in Dimmitt.

COTTON TRANSFERS
Cotton producers in Castro County disapproved the transfer of cotton allotments by sale or lease outside the county for 1976.

MEASURING SERVICE
Friday is the final date for requesting measuring service for row crops and diverted acres.

ACREAGE REPORTS
We are prepared to accept your "final" acreage report for feed grains, cotton, sugar beets and diverted acres as soon as you are ready to file an accurate report.

Grain Sorghum CHAFF

By WES ANTHONY
Maybe we are more fortunate than we think. We, as farmers, do not get much for our products, but just think of those who do not have the money or the food.

BOY OH boy, have you been cut to see the wheat? It appears that we are going to have plenty of bread for a while.

And all of us who like potato salad can sure find the potatoes. Also, it looks like we will have plenty of beets to make all the sugar we want.

IF THE people of Castro County had to eat all the cattle in our local feedlots this year, each of us would have to eat 12 1/2 beeves. Doesn't sound like starvation, does it?

COTTON textiles are vital in operation of dairies, fisheries, and packing houses.

MODERN AGRICULTURE

Don't wait too long to apply your postemergence herbicides

Proper timing of postemergence herbicides will keep cotton free of weeds, but producers should not wait too long to begin post-emergence applications.

HERBICIDES are designed to help keep a weed or grass problem from developing. Things to consider are size of the cotton, weed or grass that is to be controlled and also the temperature.

Texas cotton producers have available to them more post-emergence herbicides than ever before.

Herbicides are still one of the most effective materials that can be applied, said Elliott. It may not be quite as effective, he noted, in the control of tea weed or cocklebur as DSMA or MSMA combined with Cotoran or Herban.

Elliott emphasized that the farmer should check with the county agent for correct rates of application, and should also ask for a copy of B-1029, "Suggestions for Weed Control with Chemicals."

Get after those greenbugs - but only if you've seen 'em

Sorghum growers should be on the alert again this year for the pesky and destructive greenbug. This tiny pest which sucks the juices from the sorghum plant and did such widespread damage in the Sorghum Belt last summer is back at it in many areas.

IF THERE are greenbugs in your fields be prepared to spray - but do so only after you have positively identified them. Unless you're certain you have the greenbug, you might be destroying beneficial insects by spraying.

Some key identifying characteristics of the greenbug are: A length of about one-sixteenth of an inch, a general light green color with a dark green stripe down the back, green legs with black tips, and black cornicle tips.

The greenbug feeds under leaves and near the ground. In contrast, the corn leaf aphid, which is similar in appearance to the greenbug but lacks the dark green stripe down its back, usually feeds in the whorl on new growth.

IF YOU do identify a greenbug infestation, how do you decide whether its severe enough to spray? Texas A&M, Oklahoma State, Kansas State and the University of Nebraska all offer these general tips:

1. If plants are up to six inches high, spray when there is visible damage with colonies of greenbugs on lower leaf surfaces.

2. Beyond six inches and up to pre-boot, spray before any entire leaves are killed.

3. From pre-boot on, spray when greenbug numbers are sufficient to cause death of more than the two lower, normal-sized leaves.

FOR SPRAY materials, Wayne Fowler, agronomic education director for DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., reports that the most frequently recommended chemicals are Diazinon, Malathion, Ethyl Parathion, Phosdrin and Systox. Fowler says the Diazinon and Malathion can be applied as a ground spray but he advises that the other three are highly toxic and should be sprayed from the air. He warns against using the methyl form of Parathion because of potential damage to the plants.

After a first spraying, farmers should keep a close watch on their plants and be alert to a reinfestation, says Fowler. It may be necessary to spray again. If another application is required, be certain the chemicals can be used a second time in a season. Some materials are labeled for one spraying only.

BE CERTAIN to check with the county agent's office or your seed dealer on any questions regarding greenbug infestation and spraying. Such natural enemies of the greenbug as lady beetles, lacewings and certain wasp species, normally keep greenbug populations under control. But with cool, wet weather conditions, greenbugs are able to reproduce faster than these natural enemies can eliminate them.

FFA boys will attend workshop

John Thomas, Teddy Smithson and Loy Wylie, Dimmitt High School FFA members, and vocational agriculture instructor Marvin Cepica, will attend the seventh annual Farm Electrification Workshop at the Episcopal Church Conference Center north of Amarillo June 16 through 18.

Hart news

Hailstorm batters city, crops

By MYRT LOMAN June has brought rain, high wind and hail to the farmers in the Hart area - as it has for the past four years.

Between 4 and 5 p.m. Tuesday of last week, a cloud from the east hailed out some of the farmers, then that night another storm, with hail, rain and high wind seemed to make a circle of the city.

Robert Hawkins, who lives six miles southwest of Hart, reported hail six inches deep at 10 a.m. Wednesday in bar ditches near his farm.

Saturday night, more rain, hail and high winds struck in and around Hart, with trees being twisted and broken and limbs broken and laying on the ground. An antenna pole was uprooted and fell on top of a house, but was not broken and didn't damage the roof. Lightning struck a tree in the city limits, and street lights on Avenue E were knocked out. A very high wind, blinding rain, and a lot of lightning left 1.07 inches of rain in the city.

'Y' wreck, city mishap cause $2,000 in auto damage Monday

Two accidents in Dimmitt Monday — one on a residential street and one at the "Y" intersection of US 385 and State 194 — resulted in approximately $2,000 damage to four vehicles.

THE FIRST accident took place at the "Y" intersection just before noon, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Porter, Jr., a Dallas couple on their honeymoon, were entering Dimmitt on US 385 when their 1968 Chevrolet collided with a 1966 Chevrolet driven by Harvey Brandon Rials, who was traveling southeast. Mrs. Porter was treated for minor injuries at Plains Memorial Hospital and released.

Estimated damage to Porter's car was $1,100, and Rials' vehicle had approximately $300 damage. Porter was cited by Police Chief W. W. Jones for failing to yield right of way.

THE SECOND accident Monday occurred at the intersection of Tenth and Etter Streets. A Chevrolet pickup driven by Van Earl Hughes was traveling north on Tenth when it collided with a Chevrolet station wagon driven by Mrs. Velcites Salinas, who was traveling west on Etter.

Hughes was cited by Police Chief Jones for failing to yield right of way at an uncontrolled intersection.

Damage to Hughes's pickup was estimated at $100, while Mrs. Salinas' station wagon received approximately $400 damage.

Elcor employees have 32 'misses' in month at 'Y'

If Elcor Chemical Corp.'s employees had not used defensive driving in their to-and-fro work trips last month, they would have averaged an accident a day at the "Y" intersection, a company survey has revealed.

PLANT MANAGER Ron Miller said the company ran a survey throughout May of all its employees who pass the intersection of US 385 and State 196 in southeast Dimmitt on their way to and from work each day.

"We have 30 people who pass the intersection six times a day," Miller said. "We recorded, during the 31-day month, 32 near misses which could have resulted in fatalities had our people not been watching."

Most of the near-accidents occurred, Miller said, when out-of-town drivers failed to see the yield sign on the US 385 approach to the intersection.

"THE MOST recurring story we got was that people who had to be avoided apparently did not see the yield sign," he said. "About 50 percent of the vehicles running the yield sign were cattle trucks, and the other 50 percent were private vehicles."

He added, "These incidents weren't all clustered at one time — they were pretty well scattered throughout the month."

owner of Community Grain. "He said he felt more like a real Texan in the old hat that Bill gave him," Harp said. "He's really proud of being a Texan."

THE YOUNGER of the two Japanese visitors, Okada, is considered one of the top agricultural administrators in the Japanese government.

As the vice-president of the Japan Local Horse Race Association, he is in line to become the assistant secretary of agriculture. The government-owned horse racing association is a big part of Japanese life. All parimutuel earnings of the association go to charity.

The area's GSPA men feel that the Japanese team's visit could help to substantially increase exports of US grain sorghum to Japan.

"WE LINED up our first Japanese feed grain tour back in 1959," Harp recalled. "At that time, Japan wasn't importing any grain sorghum, and didn't even know what it was. They don't grow grain sorghum there."

"We were in Washington with a British team in 1958 when we were contacted by the Japanese agricultural attache," he said. "He told our GSPA men that Japan had a critical shortage of feed grains and wanted to know what the situation was in the US. Considering our surplus of grain sorghum, we thought we'd better not pass up the opportunity."

"When we had the first Japanese feed grain tour in 1959, they weren't interested in grain sorghum," Harp recalled. "They said they didn't even want to look at it."

"BUT WHEN they went to one of our feeding operations and saw grain sorghum being used to feed cattle, they asked what it was. We told them."

"As it turned out, they had thought all along that we were talking about another kind of grain. The word for grain sorghum had translated as 'Koilang,' which is also the word for a Manchurian grain that is high in tannic acid and low in nutrition. That's the only kind of grain they could get during the war, and it wasn't any good for feeding up animals, and they didn't want to have anything to do with it."

"But when they saw grain sorghum for the first time, and saw the sleek, fat cattle it was producing, they started placing orders immediately, and we've been exporting grain sorghum to Japan ever since."

"MR. KAWADA, who was on our second Japanese team in 1960, has been one of the leaders in the import of grain sorghum in Japan," Harp said. "When he started buying US grain sorghum to make feeds with, many of the other feed manufacturers took notice of it. Business has picked up ever since."

The Japanese visitors expect to return to their country with valuable information on the new techniques and modern developments currently being used in production, harvesting, processing, storage, transportation and marketing of US feed grains, and of the government policies affecting them.

had he told the legislature that he would vote anything but a two-year bill. Instead, he just said he was opposed to a one-year bill and didn't make it clear whether he would sign or vote a one-year bill.

With the powerful lobbies behind them, the two leaders of the rubber-stamp legislature passed the one-year bill then voted to adjourn, making a take-it-or-leave-it proposition to one man, the governor. I predict that the governor won't sign the bill, but will either let it become law without his signature or will veto it and call a special session. The second alternative should be his course of action.

Texaco Refinery in Amarillo — added, "I think we'll complete this plant on schedule, or pretty close to schedule, and put the plant on stream successfully."

Guy Williams of Kansas City, senior vice-president of Farmland Industries, told the stockholders that the plant "is an inspiration to me — I've spent half my life trying to convince people that if farmers could stick together they could really accomplish things, and you're proving it here."

Special tribute was paid to Frank Wise, president of the DWG board of directors, whose term on the board expired with the annual meeting.

Elected to the senior board were Morgan Dennis, incumbent, and T. G. McKinney, Milton Bagwell and Glenn Odum were elected to the associate board.

Pageant entry blanks mailed

Entry blanks for the 1969 "Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation" pageant were mailed this week to chambers of commerce, Lions Clubs, Farm Bureau chapters and civic organizations in four states.

THE TENTH annual pageant will be staged in Dimmitt Saturday, Aug. 9, and entries are being sought in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico.

Entries should be brisk, too, with prizes matching those of the Miss Texas Pageant. The new Miss Grain Sorghum of the Nation will receive a $1,000 scholarship, and the first and second runners-up will earn $500 and $250 scholarships.

This year's winner will succeed Karen Hughes of Dimmitt, who is using her scholarship as a freshman honor student at the University of Texas in Austin.

BO BRYANT, pageant chairman, said 300 elevators and agribusiness concerns in grain-producing areas are being asked to support the pageant this year, since its purpose is to promote the growth of the industry through more sales of grain sorghum and its by-products.

Entry blanks are available from Mrs. Dorothy Magness, secretary, Castro County Chamber of Commerce, Dimmitt.

Hart soldier home on leave

SP-5 Larry Houston, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Houston of Hart, is home on leave after serving a year in Bien Hoa, Da Nang, Phu Bai and Don Ha, Vietnam.

A 1966 Hart High School graduate, he attended West Texas State University and volunteered for the service in November 1966. He took his basic training at Fort Pelk, La., and left for Vietnam May 23, 1968, serving as an aircraft mechanic. He is to report to Fort Knox late this month.

He said the boxes of "goodies" from Hart's Beta Sigma Phi sorority were appreciated, and that the ladies sent enough that he could share with others.
