SEVEN OCEAN FLEET OF AIRCRAFT CARRIERS IS UP TO THE PRESIDENT

By JOHN R. SEAL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27—Legislation authorizing a "Seven Ocean Fleet" and embodying a revolutionary change in naval warfare in which aircraft carriers will replace battleships as rulers of the sea today awaited President Roosevelt's signature.

The senate sped the $8,500,000,000 (B) fleet expansion bill to the White House after the first secret legislative debate in 18 years. The measure, approved by voice vote, superimposes 1,000,000 tons of warships upon the current two-ocean navy program — itself the most ambitious building enterprise in history — to give the United States a 5,649,480-ton naval striking force.

During the session, held behind locked doors lest Axis sources learn valuable information, members were told by Chairman David I. Walsh, D. Mass., of the naval affairs committee, that the battleship — has been outmoded and is to be supplanted by the carrier with its covey of planes.

Also disclosed were statistics on progress of construction on the old "two-ocean" programs authorized when France was falling before the Nazi onslaught.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D., La., a committee member who attended the session, said the information "showed that amazing progress has been made in our effort to build and complete our two-ocean navy." "The new legislation ignores battleships of this type. It also provides for 500,000 tons of cruisers, 900,000 tons of destroyers and escort vessels and some 800 small patrol craft."

Passage came after senators shouted down an attempt by Sen. Bennett C. Clark, D., Mo., to end further battleship construction.

He contended that to forbid further construction merely would carry out the announced intention of the navy department which, he said, had notified Walsh that it had deferred indefinitely work on the last five battleships authorized by congress. He added that construction would not be undertaken until the navy consulted with the naval affairs committees of both houses.

Sen. Ralph O. Brewster, R., Me., revealed last week that the five ships were of the Montana class, designed as 60,000-ton super dreadnaughts, the biggest and most powerful fighting ships ever planned. In addition to the Montana they were to be called the Ohio, Maine, New Hampshire, and Louisiana.

Among those who shouted down Clark's amendment was Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex., who roared:

"I'm not going to vote tonight to send a message to the Mikado: 'Come on over, we're not going to have any battleships to resist you.'"

Connally interpreted the navy's statement, which Walsh had given the senate in confidence, as not indicating the battleship was an obsolete weapon. He said he was particularly struck by a point made by Walsh that "the time of the battleship is not past, that its utility is still necessary in certain situations, in contexts of long range and of heavy armaments."

The senate's speed in approving the gigantic measure was matched by the senate appropriations committee in providing funds for the army. A subcommittee whipped through the $42,820,943,000 (B) war supply bill for 1943 without change after only two days of testimony from high army officials and it was indicated the senate will pass the bill on Monday.

SOVIETS STOP "TIRED" NAZIS ALONG FRONT

By United Press
MOSCOW, June 27—Front line dispatches today said that a daring counter attack and hand-to-hand fighting by Soviet Marines had blocked a German thrust into the Sevastopol defenses and that one of the most violent battles of the war had stemmed "exhausted" Axis troops on a vital sector of the Kharkov front.

Heavy fighting was still in progress on both the Sevastopol and Kharkov fronts—where enemy gains had been admitted in recent days—but Russian dispatches today emphasized the intensity of the battles and the stubbornness of Red army resistance.

The "massive" Axis attacks east of captured Kopyansk railroad junction were "partly successful" as the Germans brought up fresh men and materials in an effort to fan out in the Ukraine.

"In one of the most violent battles of the war, the Red army is defying numerically superior enemy forces, defending every inch of land and repulsing synchronized infantry and tank attacks," said a dispatch to the government newspaper Izvestia.

"Our forces are exhausting the Germans by means of powerful counter-attacks."

An Ambitious German thrust on the Bryansk sector, southwest of Moscow, was reported in the first communique today, which said Soviet forces had repulsed three battalions of enemy infantry (9,000 men) and killed 300.

Northwest of Moscow, on the Kalinin front, Soviet guardsmen killed up to 400 Germans and destroyed five tanks, besides other war material. More than 200 Germans were killed in two day's fighting on the Leningrad front.

Cafes Will Get A Larger Ration Of Sugar In Future

DALLAS, June 27—Instructions have been sent to local war price aid rationing boards authorizing increases in sugar allotments to restaurants, hotels, boarding houses and other institutional users in proportion to an increase in the number of meals they are serving. Max L. McCullough, region OPA administrator, announced today.

This relief plan is expected to be particularly advantageous to institutional users of sugar in areas where war industry has brought an increase in the service of meals.

Present regulations permit institutional users to obtain 50 per cent of the amount of the sugar they used each month last year, for meal serving purposes, of 50 per cent of the sugar used during each month the establishment was in business between January, 1941, and April 28, 1942. If the establishment did not use sugar in each month of 1941, or the additional alternative of 50 per cent of the amount of sugar they used in the month of March.

The Axis Menace In The Eastern Mediterranean

A new threat has been added in the eastern Mediterranean where a quarter million German paratroopers are reported poised in Crete for attack on Suez or Syria. Map shows probable pattern of Axis attack strategy as revealed by heavy assaults in Libya and Russia.

OPTIMISM IS EXPRESSED BY TWO LEADERS

The prospect for a second front against the Axis mounted today when the United States and Great Britain moved to relieve attacks on Russia and China and to offset the enemy's gains in the battle for Egypt.

"The coming operation will divert the Germans strength from the attack on Russia," President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill said in a joint statement reporting that the "overall picture is more favorable to victory than it was either in August or December of last year."

No specific mention was made of a second front in Europe but London disclosed that American Air Corps personnel had been arriving in the British Isles, presumably to take part later in attacks on German war centers.

The Roosevelt-Churchill statement emphasized that a tremendous task lies ahead of the United nations but said that the picture on the whole was optimistic regarding production and that joint action was being undertaken to reduce the menace of Nazi U-boats in the Atlantic.

Detailed discussions were held in regard to methods against Japan, and for the relief of China.

In North Africa the enemy desert army of Gen Rommel has pushed to within 11 to 15 miles of the main British base at Matruh, where minor engagements were reported as contact was made between mechanized units.

In Russia some of the most violent fighting of the war was reported on the Kharkov front, where the Red Army had been pushed back on several sectors, late Moscow dispatches, however, said Soviet counter attacks appeared to have stemmed the Axis advance in the Ukraine.

In China the Japanese captured the Chekiang province city of Lichui, the last air base in the area from which American long-distance bombers might attack Tokyo.

WITH ONLY TWO DAYS OF RUBBER DRIVE LEFT A LAST EFFORT IS URGED

John Kindle, chairman of the rubber collection in Ranger, and his two assistants, H. H. Vaughn and Price Crawley, reported Saturday that after a checkup in Ranger, made Friday afternoon, it was found that 75,000 pounds of rubber had been added to the nation's rubber scrap pile from Ranger alone.

"This is a very good showing," Kindle said in making the report. "But with very little effort I believe that it can be made 100,000 pounds by the end of the drive, which will be Tuesday night."

"There are still a number of people who have small quantities of rubber in their homes that are not being used, and which could be donated to the Boy Scouts, or even sold. Where there is but one or two pounds in a home, or even less, some of the people seem to think that this would mean very little. But, small amounts like that, left in homes all over the nation, would mean hundreds of thousands of pounds of scrap rubber—possibly millions of pounds.

Ranger Fishermen's Story Is Related At Breckenridge

Editor's Note—The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Breckenridge American from which paper it was taken. The story concerns Ranger fishermen who recently spent some time at Possum Kingdom Lake.

"Introducing Honey Jones, C. J. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Johnson of Ranger, fishing at Possum Kingdom Lake Friday and Saturday."

"Nothing unusual about that, you say?"

Well, Mr. Jones caught a seven and half pound blue cat on a lure. Maybe that is something. Well if you can beat that, beat this. When they dressed the blue cat they found a full grown fox squirrel in his innards.

"Now beat that one and this writer will start running and screaming. There are plenty of witnesses, members of the party said. Whether the blue cat was of the tree climbing variety or the squirrel liked to go swimming in the clear blue waters of the lake remained the only question for debate."

"Estimates of the number fishing at Possum Kingdom Lake Sunday before last was 5,000 and last Sunday 4,000. No reason is offered for that difference."

"To date there has been one case made for violation of the fishing regulations. This was for trolling. A number of persons have been found breaking the regulations in small ways. Game wardens found this due to ignorance of the special regulations, and advised all other cases, except the one mentioned. So far they have found the fisherman glad to cooperate. It was said."

Bombsights Used Upon Tokyo Cost But 20 Cents Each

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27—The American B-25 bombers, which brought havoc to Tokyo and other Japanese cities on April 18, were equipped with improved bombsights costing 20 cents each. This was revealed by the War Department today as decorations were pinned on 23 members of the raiding expedition which Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle commanded.

ALLIED SITUATION IS STILL GRAVE DESPITE AT LEAST A TEMPORARY HALT TO GERMAN DRIVES IN RUSSIA AND EXPECTED BRITISH STAND AT MATRUH IN ATTEMPT TO STOP ROMMEL.

By United Press
By JOE ALEX MORRIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
Prime Minister Winston Churchill mapped plans in London today for a critical parliamentary debate on war developments that have pushed the British back to Matruh in Egypt and forced the Russians to give ground in hard fighting on the Ukraine front.

Churchill, flying home from talks with President Roosevelt, found the battle fronts little changed in the last 24 hours, but impending major battles in Egypt and Russia—possibly supplemented by an Axis paratroop thrust at the Middle East—left no doubt of the grave Allied situation.

Parliamentary leaders discussed the favorable prospects for crushing motions of non-confidence in the conduct of the war in the house of commons, but it was acknowledged that there was considerable demand for Churchill to relinquish the defense ministry and that the outcome might depend on weekend developments on the Russian and Egyptian front.

On the Russian front, dispatches reported that powerful German offensive operations had forced the Soviet armies back on several sectors but that counter-blows had stemmed the enemy advance and that the situation seemed to be in hand at least for the moment. German news agency claims that the important town of Izyum had been captured were unconfirmed and seemed doubtful.

Heavy fighting still was in progress east of Kopyansk railroad junction, which the Germans captured, and the Russian reports spoke of "massive" Axis attacks which were "partly successful."

The Germans claimed to have captured more fortified points on the Sevastopol front at the end of three weeks of furious fighting, but Moscow said there were no important changes there. Axis broadcasts acknowledged that Russian landing attacks had been made on the Kerch Peninsula, at the eastern end of the Crimea, but said they were repulsed. Several times in recent days the German radios have reported "crushing" Russian landing attempts on the Crimean coast along the sea of Anz or elsewhere, but Moscow has not mentioned those alleged operations which may have been Axis propaganda efforts to report a victory.

The Russians estimated that the enemy was using 195,000 troops on the Sevastopol front where German losses were put at more than 50,000 including one regiment "destroyed" yesterday.

On the Egyptian front, advance elements and aerial squadrons were in action but the main battle for Egypt had not yet started, according to today's communique from Cairo.

The tank columns directed by Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had reached points 11 miles southwest of Matruh and 15 miles west of that British base.

British sources said that a major engagement was expected in the Matruh sector or farther south near the Qattara depression at any time and, due to the slow communications, may already have started. There still was no definite information of what reinforcements had reached Matruh, but a dispatch from United Press Correspondent Richard D. McMillan said that the reorganized British Eighth Army still was not strong.

Axis planes bombed Matruh and nearby communications lines and Allied aircraft continued heavy assaults on enemy advance units and rear lines, where American army corps bombers have been giving the RAF important assistance. The Axis claimed that 43 British planes had been shot down.

In Western Europe, Britain and Germany exchanged air blows, with the Nazis attacking Norwich following the big Thursday night RAF devastation raid on Bremen. Two German planes were shot down. One RAF craft was lost in minor operations of Europe.

The German radio, fishing for information, suggested that American forces were involved in the raid on Bremen as a result of this week's announcement that Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had been put in charge of United States forces in the European theater. This apparently was untrue, however.

In the Far East, Allied planes downed six to ten Japanese aircraft in fighting an attack by 19 bombers and many fighters against Port Moresby. Four of our planes were lost.

What About China?

The leaders and thinkers of China have two principal aims today. The first, of course, is to beat Japan. Until that has been accomplished, nothing else can matter. The second is to obtain from Great Britain and the United States some guaranty that, when the war has been won, China will be treated as an equal.

There is nothing theoretical or abstract about this second goal. China isn't social climbing at our expense. She is only asking that we make good on some of the nice things we are saying about democracy and about the rights of all peoples to make their own governmental mistakes in their own ways.

Specifically, China wants to know what we are going to do about extraterritoriality and exclusion.

Extraterritoriality is the multisyllabic name for that privilege, which all western nations have claimed and exercised, of establishing on Chinese soil little private domains of our own, in which the Chinese had no more rights than in Tasmania.

It is as though, in the Chinatown of San Francisco or New York, territories had been set aside over which the United States relinquished all control. Chinese soldiers would guard them; Chinese courts would function; our police could not touch criminals in those Chinatowns.

Needless to say, we nor the British, the French or the Germans would consider granting China such rights. Why, then, should we expect the Chinese to feel happy when we, through superior military might, have enforced such an ignominious bargain upon China?

Exclusion is the antithesis of extraterritoriality. While we force China to admit an occidental at his will, and waive all control over him while on selected Chinese soil, we forbid Chinese to enter the United States at all—except temporarily, under drastic control—or to become citizens under any circumstances.

This rankles almost as much as extraterritoriality. But the argument here is less clean cut. There are important economic angles. The great difficulty springs from oriental ability and willingness to work for a few cents a day, to live on rice and water, and thereby to compete for jobs on a basis that no American should be expected to consider.

With the kindest of feeling toward Chinese, and all gratitude and admiration for the splendid fight they are making, there is a question whether we should make any sweeping promises about exclusion.

But we can proclaim to the world, at once, that after we have helped chase the Japs we shall pull out our troops and renounce forever any claim to extraterritoriality in China.

The Payoff

BY HARRY GRAYSON NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK—War is rapidly making this nation tougher than a keg of nails, and that's the way we want it, brother.

Navy's physical hardening system, having remarkable success in quickly developing flyers and sailors for combat, is spreading throughout colleges and high schools. Collegiate directors are so enthusiastic about the conditioning exercises that they are making recommendations for similar programs to high schools.

Particular emphasis is placed upon swimming because early Japanese successes were aided by aquatic stars. Recruits at Great Lakes, for example, now undergo examinations in four swimming styles—free, breast, side and backstroke. Several of the country's finest swimming coaches are instructors there.

Most physical hardening exercises, combative sports, circle games, wall scaling and tug of war are included in the program.

SUCH a program, designed to condition students for war service, henceforth will be compulsory at Princeton. Similar systems have been installed at Michigan, Northwestern, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan State and Marquette.

The program is already paying schools dividends: Dick France, for instance, jumped from an Indiana physical fitness class to the varsity track squad and won a major letter.

First of the headline athletes rushed into the Navy as physical instructors are now being taught gunnery and fire control preparatory to manning battle stations.

The American athlete will go where he can do the most damage to the other side. That's the way he has always played the game.
