On Thanksgiving Is The Longest Proclamation

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson's Thanksgiving proclamation, issued this year is the longest one in the recollection of officials.

Text of the proclamation follows:
"To all to whom these presents shall come:

"It is among the worthiest traditions of this nation that annually when the autumnal season is at its height and the harvests of all of our people have been gathered, that we set aside a day which all Americans may manifest their gratitude for the mercies and blessings bestowed upon us.

"It is appropriate for all of us to speak with one common voice and say:
"We are thankful, O Lord, for a land of civil and religious liberty in which Christian civilization has made the greatest advancement the world has ever known.

"We are thankful, O Lord, for the glorious achievements of our Revolutionary fathers in throwing off the yoke of arbitrary rule and bequeathing unto us a government of laws enacted by the people.

"We are thankful, O Lord, for the men and women whom you have given us in this fair land of Texas; those of sound minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands; those whom the lust of office does not kill; those whom the spoils of office will not buy; those who possess opinions and a will; those who have honor, those who will not let sun-crowns, who live above the fog in public duty and in private thinking.

"We are thankful, O Lord, that citizens of such character will remember that the perpetuity and prosperity of a republican form of government depend upon the virtue and intelligence of the people.

"We are thankful, O Lord, for the opportunities which have been afforded us by this government and under Your protecting care, and especially for the employment of individual enterprise in collective achievement.

"NOW THEREFORE, I, Coke Stevenson, governor of the State of Texas, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 26, 1942, as—

and a legal holiday in Texas, and I invite the citizens of Texas to observe this holiday in such manner as will show our appreciation for the bountiful blessings which are ours. I especially urge that the United States and Texas flags be displayed in public places and on public buildings to signify our gratefulness for the privilege of living in this land of freedom and opportunity.

"IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name officially and caused the Seal of State to be affixed hereon at Austin, this 12th day of November, A. D., 1942

Coke R. STEVENSON,
Governor of Texas
WILLIAM J. LAWSON,
Secretary of State.

Paved The Way

Poker playing golfer Robert Daniel Murphy spent 10 years in the American embassy in Paris; became the well-loved friend of French officials. Today those years have paid a big dividend. It was Parisian friends who helped Murphy slip 40 U. S. agents into Vichy North Africa. These agents prepared the way for North African collaboration with the U. S. forces which have taken over that vital area.

Queer Cases Are Heard By Court

AUSTIN, Texas.—Circus time in Texas was reflected in an opinion of the Appeals Court. The case was one in which the defendant appealed from a life term under the habitual criminal act. The court held that the prosecutor failed to make a substantial part of the proof of previous convictions required to sustain life sentence and remarked:

"When the main circus folded up and moved out, all side shows went with it."

Sherlock Holmes, himself would have had a difficult time in another case passed upon by the court, which decided that the state had failed to prove a burglary.

Its case was based on finding men standing on a window sill. The window pane was broken and the prosecution contended that he had put his arm through the opening in the broken pane to unlock the window and enter the building.

The court pointed out that the window, the lock and past-board covering over the hole in the window pane were covered with dust and apparently had not been disturbed for a long time.

But the ruling that appeals to most laymen was made in a case in which the complaint made against the defendant was attacked.

The court said:
"If members of this court and the prosecution preparing the brief find a problem in determining whether or not the accused has been properly charged, it is a logical conclusion that one not a lawyer may not know the charge against him with that degree of certainty which farmers of the constitution, both federal and state, desired to grant to every citizen."

Dairy Activities Being Centralized

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Centralization of dairy activities was indicated in a survey conducted by the State Labor Department, which revealed that while there are 676 fewer dairies than at the beginning of the year, the number of cows being milked has gained 26,801.

The figures showed that 1,999 dairies went out of business and 1,323 new ones were started. The number of cows being milked at the beginning of the year was 341,211 and at the time of the report 368,012.

The dairymen who gave up the business assigned various reasons. These were classified as follows:
Shortage of labor, 44 per cent; increased cost of production, 21 per cent; low ceiling on butter fat and raw milk, four per cent; transportation facilities, 13 per cent; labor withdrawals by selective service and war industries, 7 per cent; attractive sales for cattle, five per cent; other causes, including financial reasons and health, six per cent.

J. G. Barr of the State Game, Fish and Oyster Department has compiled the information that 251 creeks in Texas are named for animals or birds.

Barr believes most of them took their names from having been places where the birds and animals congregated or gathered for water. For instance, there are 35 Bear Creeks and 35 Turkey Creeks.

He found in the Gazetteer of Texas Stratus 24 Mustang Creeks, 18 Buffalo Creeks, 17 Hog Creeks, 16 Cow Creeks, 13 Bull Creeks, 12 Panther Creeks and 10 Duck Creeks.

There are also Dove and Duck creeks named for geese, quail, squirrels, snakes, wildcats, o'jousums, 'coons and even polecats.

Cattle Not In Danger Of Getting Disease From Deer

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UP)—Texas stockmen in the deer-raising country may relieve their fears that "lumpy jawed" deer have an ailment that might endanger domestic animals.

Three of the deer with lumpy-jawed jaws were captured and delivered to Dr. H. L. Volkenberg, Tex. A. & M. College veterinarian, who found no trace of disease or infection. Dr. Volkenberg said that the protrusions were an accumulation of hair and food underneath the deer's tongues and that he believed the "pocket" in which the hairs collected were an inherited characteristic.

Colony P-T A. Has Session Thurs.

The Colony P-T A. met Thursday November 12, in the school auditorium.

After the business meeting Miss Fulton conducted a panel discussion on "Can Any Good Come Out of the War?" with Mrs. E. T. Boyd, Mrs. E. E. Paige, Mrs. Otis Anderson, and Mr. L. R. Higginbottom taking part.

The meeting was adjourned and those present went to the Home-making Cottage where the home-making girls served refreshments. The girls serving were Lillian, Jo Kirk, Ruth Eakin, Louise White, Mary Ann Heathcock, and Geraldine Smith.

There were seventeen members present.

New Road Maps More Convenient

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Latest road map issued by the State Highway Department is put out in more convenient form and slips easily into a coat pocket. On its front cover is a view of the state capital. The back has a view of the capitol dome, a picture of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson and a short introductory letter from the governor.

Seems at Texas Army camps and schools are interspersed with views of other places of interest in the state on the reverse side of the map. The reverse also carries a road map of the United States showing connections with state roads.

Italians Are In For Heavy Raids

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Heavy air raids on Italian war production centers were forecast today by members of the Pacific War Council after a meeting with President Roosevelt.

REGISTERING OF YOUTHS IS NOW ORDERED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt today ordered registration for selective service of all youths who have turned 18 years of age since July 1, 1942. The registration will be spread over the last three weeks of December.

This will make perhaps 500,000 more 18-year-olds eligible for service under the new draft law.

Mr. Roosevelt issued his order shortly after National Service Director Gen. Lewis B. Hershey had set in motion machinery which will bring 'teen age boys into the armed service, probably within 40 to 60 days and defer essential farm workers.

Thomas Elwood Passes Exams For Aviation Cadet

Thomas Elwood, 19, 603 Travis, Ranger, has passed all required qualifying examinations and has been recommended by this board of officers for appointment as an Army Aviation Cadet.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elwood, 603 Travis, Ranger.

Qualified applicants are summoned within a few days for final enlistment in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and sent to their homes to wait until they are ordered to report for Aviation Cadet training.

Upon call to active duty, they go first to preflight bases for ground school and physical hardening courses. They are then assigned to flight training fields.

Prefers War Work To Fighting Wife

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—A 30-year-old Dallas man, married only a year, prefers fighting the Axis to fighting his wife, he told Judge John Rawlins.

"Do you know that since you have no children your draft classification will be changed from 5-A to 1-A after I grant you a divorce?" the judge asked the man, plaintiff in a divorce case.

"I know that," the man replied "but I'd rather fight the Germans or Japs than that woman. I've had a year of it and my family fighting experience over that time should qualify me as a member of a Ranger Commando squadron without further training."

P. S. He got his divorce and immediately reported his change in marital status to his draft board, which ordered him to report for induction and physical examination the next day.

Jurors Scruples Win A New Trial For Defendant

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—A defendant who objected because one of the jurors in his trial had conscientious scruples against the death penalty won a reversal of his conviction in the Court of Criminal Appeals at the court's last sitting.

It seems that he invoked no new principle of law to get a four-year rape verdict set aside. Texas courts for a long time have held that either the defendant or the prosecution can object to a juror who has conscientious scruples against a death penalty.

In fact, one case was cited in which neither the prosecutor nor the defendant objected, and the trial judge on his own initiative barred a conscientious objector to the death penalty.

How a defendant can be affected adversely by having a juror who objects to a death sentence was explained by the attorney for the appellant in this fashion:

Refusal of the trial judge to excuse the conscientious objector for cause made necessary for the defendant to exercise one of his peremptory challenges and resulted in giving the state an unfair advantage in selecting the jury from those remaining on the panel. The attorney argued further that a juror who said he had conscientious scruples against the death penalty demonstrated he was not good jury material because he would ignore the charge of the court.

4-H Gardners' Output Is High For The Season

A record output of more than 3 1/2 million bushels of garden vegetables and small fruits will be produced this year by 4-H Club members throughout the nation, in response to the Government's call for super-production of these foodstuffs to meet war needs. This output is an increase of 60 percent over last year's production by the clubsters.

Roughly 350,000 members participated in the 1942 National 4-H Victory Garden Contest conducted in cooperation with Extension Service, in which Sears, Roebuck provided awards consisting chiefly of U. S. War Savings Bonds. This is an all-time high enrollment in the 4-H gardening project, and shows how vital 4-H production is to the war effort in this as in all lines.

County winners in this competition received gold-filled medals and four county representatives of each state blue award group were awarded a $25 War Savings Bond. On the latter will be considered in selecting sectional and national winners. All-expense trips to the 21st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 2, will be awarded to the two highest scoring participants in each of the four extension sections, who will also receive a $100 War Savings Bond apiece.

AMERICAN FORCES NEAR A SHOWDOWN IN MAJOR THEATRES OF THE WAR

Seven Brothers Work At Plant

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Keeping track of the Meuir brothers is a bit of a problem for the bosses at Consolidated bomber plant. You see, there are seven of them—all working in the Fort Worth plant.

Theros are Dave and Delbert and Clifford and Meivin and Walter and Carl and Floyd. The one thing that keeps foreman from tearing their hair over trying to keep them straight is the fact that only two of them work in the same department.

Those are Dave, a leadman in sheet metal, and Carl, the youngest, who operates a drill press nearby.

All seven of the boys were born on a farm near McKinney. The brothers have a pretty good start on this family raising business themselves, boasting a total of 14 children. Dave has the most—four—and Clifford and Floyd three a piece.

Although they work in the same plant they are scattered about in many departments, punch in at different time clocks and seldom see each other.

Oh yes, there's another Meuir—a sister—who's thinking about maybe making an application for a job at the plant.

Lock And Key Salvage Drive Being Started

The Ranger Lions Club is joining a national movement to collect and salvage keys and locks that are no longer in use.

J. L. Haney has been named chairman of the key and lock campaign, and he announced today that jars were being placed in all the schools and in a number of stores in Ranger where anyone having an unused key or lock may drop them.

Old keys contain metal that is needed in building anti-aircraft guns and many of the precision machines used in war, and their salvage is of great importance, it has been pointed out.

Lions clubs all over the country are cooperating in conducting key and lock salvage campaigns in an effort to obtain as much of the needed materials as possible.

Nimitz Picture Is In Museum

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP) An autographed picture of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz of Fredericksburg, Tex., has been placed in a collection of patriotic items in the Texas memorial museum on the University of Texas campus.

The exhibit consists of displays calculated to stimulate patriotic effort. It deals with Texas heroes and personages of the Allied nations who had a part in Texas career under six flags.

Among the exhibits are pictures, flags, busts, newspapers and war trophies.

Farmers May Have Many Headaches Because of War

Fall Of Buna Is Predicted In The House Commons

LONDON—Sir Stafford Cripps, government spokesman, told the House of Commons today that it is "probable the Japanese will be unable to hold Buna."

He based his statement upon the heavy casualties which have been inflicted upon them by the Allied forces in recent days.

Ending Of Japanese Threat In Guadalcanal and Closing Of Pincers on Axis Forces in North Africa are Making as Armies Move Quickly to Take Offensive in Both Sectors

Old Guadalcanal

The original Guadalcanal is not far from the new front in Africa where American troops are on the offensive. The island of Guadalcanal in the Solomons—where U. S. forces battle Japanese—was named by an explorer in 1568 for his home town, Guadalcanal, Spain. Map shows proximity of old Guadalcanal to Gibraltar and Africa.

Assist Heart Is Advice Of Health Officer

AUSTIN, Tex.—The human being pumps approximately 50 gallons of blood every hour with no vacations, no days off, no sleep and, no rest except between beats according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, who says that since the heart has such a tremendous task to perform, it deserves your whole-hearted cooperation.

In order to give your heart every possible assistance in the performance of this amazing task, Dr. Cox suggests the following rules for keeping the heart healthy:

Go to your doctor at least once a year for examination and then follow his advice.

After a serious illness have your doctor give your heart a thorough examination and then return to active life as carefully and slowly as possible. This will give your heart sufficient time to rest and recuperate from the unusual strain of a severe illness.

Go to your dentist regularly and do not neglect infected teeth or tonsils.

Keep your weight near the average for a person of your age, sex, and height.

Be sure that your diet is well balanced and be careful not to overeat.

Do not take headache medicines without consulting your doctor. Many so called headache cures contain drugs that are injurious to the heart.

Ask your doctor about the use of tobacco and stimulants. Live a well rounded life, exercising regularly without overtaxing your self.

War Takes Man Off Retired List

KYLE, Tex. (UP)—The war has taken T. F. Harwell off the retired list.

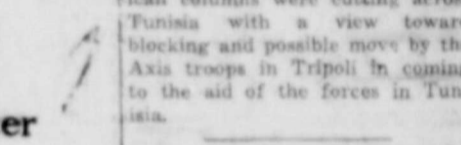

Nineteen years ago Harwell was putting out two papers, the Kyle News and the Buda Star, with the aid of a part-time printer. His health broke under the strain, and his two sons, then in college, had to come home and put out the last edition.

Since then Harwell, 76, has set back and let his son, Turner, run the Kyle News. The past week Turner went into the Army, so his father again is editor in name and in fact.

Daddy of 'Em All

"It's no use thinking of getting somebody else," Harwell chuckles, "I'll just have to do it myself."

As Green Bay Packers smothered Cleveland Rams, 30-12. Don Hutson, their great end, caught three touchdowns passes and placed as many extra points to establish a new individual National Football League season scoring record of 163 points.

NEA Service Washington Correspondent

Keep an eye on Lieut.-Gen. Leslie J. McNair, now chief of the Army ground forces. He's likely to get a still more important assignment. General McNair, quiet, soft-spoken, definitely not the flashy, roaring, dynamic type of military figure, is given a large measure of the credit for the tremendous job of directing the training of the Army to its high degree of efficiency.

Hard-working, he has not been much in the limelight, but now the Army is "building him up" as more of a public figure, with more speeches and more public appearances, presumably to make him more of a front man. He is considered the logical man to succeed Gen. George C. Marshall as chief of staff, should Marshall be moved up to a higher command.

Others who would be in line for the Washington job as U. S. Army chief of staff would be Lieut.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers, chief of the armed force, and Lieut.-Gen. Breton B. Somervell, commander of the services of supply.

U. S. income taxes, highest they have ever been, are still lower than taxes in Great Britain and Canada. In the U. S. for a married man with no dependents, federal taxes go above 10 per cent of income for people earning more than $2000 a year. In Great Britain the 10 per cent tax would apply on incomes of $1500, in Canada, $1080. Top U. S. tax rate is about 90 per cent for incomes of $1 million or more. In Canada the tax hits 95 per cent on the highest brackets, in Great Britain 97 per cent.

BUSINESS firms which have customarily given Christmas bonuses in years past will be allowed to give them this year and in future holidays during the war, and they won't be counted as violations of the wage-freezing orders. But if a firm which has never given Christmas bonuses before wants to give them this year, that's something else again.

A PATRIOTIC businessman from the west came to Washington to try to get something or other from WPA. He had read all about Washington's crowded conditions and the gas shortage and the rubber shortage and so he decided that while in his nation's capital he would show what a patriotic citizen he was by always sharing his taxi. He teamed up with two other businessmen going from the Union Station to his hotel, and when he was ready to leave for his appointment at WPA, he went to the elegantly green-and-gold uniformed doorman to explain why he willine he was to double up.

Hard Work Given Credit For Straight "A" In College

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Work, both in school and out, is Carl Elder's formula for making good grades in the University of Texas. Elder, 19-year-old senior from Oak Grove, Texas, has an almost unprecedented record of straight "A's"—30 of them—to show for his first three years in college.

—MODERN MENUS—

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer THIS Armistice Day should be dedicated, not to celebration but to a determined effort toward victory. That means that every one of us will do whatever is possible to carry the war to victory. One of many things housewives can do on the home front is teach their families to enjoy meat alternatives such as fish, which is plentiful. It is a complete protein and can be used as the menus it places of meat, which is needed for our armed forces.

Fillets Baked in Cocktail Sauce (Serves 4 to 6)

1 to 1-1/2 lbs. thin fish fillet; 1-2 lb. shrimp, cooked, salt, pepper, paprika, 1-3 cup chili sauce; 1-3 cup ketchup, 1-3 teaspoon Worcestershire, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, dash of tabasco, teaspoon horseradish, salt. Wash and dry fish; clean and cook shrimp. Roll each fillet around 3 or 4 shrimp. Place in custard cups. Mix remaining ingredients and spread over top of fish. Bake in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) for about 35 minutes.

Milk-baked Fillets of Fish (Serves 4)

One lb. of fish fillets, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 soft bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, 3-4 cup top milk or cream. Season fillets with salt and pepper; arrange close together in greased shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with crumbs and do with butter; add milk or cream until fish is half covered. Bake in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) for about 25 minutes. Serve a once.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, parsley omelet, whole wheat toast, coffee, milk. LUNCHEON: Green peppers stuffed with left-over meat, hard enriched rolls, apple sauce, cookies, tea, milk. Million And A Half Cars Now Are Off Roads

At least 1,500,000 motor vehicles have been forced off the road in the last year, due to the disintegration of automobiles and tires and the unwillingness of car and truck owners to register their machines in the face of various restrictions, the National Automobile Dealers Association reported today. These figures are for the year ended October 1, 1942. As of July 1, the Association reported a decline of 1,000,000 units during the preceding year. Thus there was indicated a further shrinkage of 500,000 transportation units since July 1 tabulation.

"Total passenger car registrations dropped 4.6 per cent between October 1, 1941, and October 1, 1942, in the 34 states which have so far reported to N. A. D. A.," says the bulletin. "In October 1941, passenger car registrations for these 34 states totaled 17,671,486 units, while in October 1942 they were 16,863,014, a decrease of 808,472 units. As these states accounted for slightly over 65 per cent of the total registrations of the entire United States, according to the most recent complete tabulation of registrations, a total reduction in registrations of approximately 1,237,000 passenger cars as of October 1, 1942, is indicated.

"This does not include those cars which have been stored or junked since being registered this year, as few states make refunds on registration fees. The total number of passenger cars taken out of operation during the year ended October 1, 1942, is probably greater in excess of 1,237,000 units, since more than 2,300,000 cars are scrapped and replaced by new cars during the normal year. Replacements have been meagre this year since production has been stopped.

"Truck registrations in the 34 reporting states declined 4.5 per cent between October 1, 1941, and October 1, 1942, dropping from 3,030,838 to 2,839,924, a decline of 190,914 units. On a national basis, this indicates a loss of about 200,000 units.

"For both passenger cars and trucks there was a decline of 945,316 units in 34 states, and an indicated decline of 1,437,000 units for the entire nation in addition to the group which have been stored or scrapped since being registered in 1942."

OUT OUR WAY

SERIAL STORY

PLAY BY PLAY

BY PAUL DAVID PRESTON

THE STORY: Returning to camp from a football game, the bus carrying the Lincoln Field under team members in a college town. Duane is a soldier's young widow, Nancy Hale, and her small son, Scooter. Blythe Miller, the coach's daughter, sits with the injured Duane in the bus. As they watch Duane Hogan, former college star, holding Nancy's child, Blythe realizes Nancy is falling in love with Duane—even as she herself did two years ago. Blythe is shocked, even though Duane is girl-shy and treats her like a sister.

LOVELY INTRUDER

CHAPTER III REMONSTRATIONS, so Miss Blythe Miller told herself, are all hokey; one doesn't really have them, one just imagines them.

"It's merely that I'm getting touchy on the subject of Duane Hogan," she spoke gently, even with a wry note of humor in the keel of it.

"He's handsome, he's desirable, he's grand," another part of her warned.

She gave sober thought to that, then mentally fought it away. Of course Nancy Hale liked Duane. It was only natural. Mrs. Hale was as well, a smart somebody, obviously. Come to think of it, said Blythe to herself, Nancy's liking Duane so much and so instantly really just verifies my own high opinion of him. And anyway (Blythe laughed out loud a bit) it won't make any difference, because Duane is so girl-shy he'll never know she exists.

That comforting thought ended the odd little-girl conversation; moreover, loud masculine voices broke into her reverie. The cadets were pouring into the gymnasium to dress for practice again. Here in her father's office she could hear most of what they said (and sometimes it wasn't meant for young ladies). She swung back to her typewriter, doing Pop's letters for him.

A football coach has a lot of correspondence, records and things, plus a lot of company and a lot of telephone calls. Even now Pop was snowed under; at least his desk was. But secretarial help was harder and harder to find these days and Blythe's own hunt-and-peck typing, sandwiched in after a long day at school, made barely a dent in the work at hand.

In a quarter hour, though, she had to flee. The mail animal would soon overflow the place in various visible forms. There would be the Monday post-mortem, here in Pop's office, about Saturday's 13-0 defeat. There would be a skull session about next Saturday's game. Much loud talk. Much slapping of backs. Much renewing of steam and energy in the human engines who wore odd smells, uniforms, shoulder pads and cleaned shoes.

"Certainly this ain't the best place for a lady," Pop himself had told her. "Sweetie, you blow out of here at practice time."

"I won't," she had countered. And he had thrown a leather helmet and they had scuffled hilariously, the man who was 59 and the daughter who was 19. Oh, how she loved Pop!

SHE lattered a moment near the doorway frankly hoping for a glimpse and a smile from big Duane Hogan. Then she looked out and saw him boot a practice punt, high and far. The beauty of it thrilled her.

"Going out to watch practice?" a voice asked at her elbow then. "Oh! . . . You startled me, Norman. No, not today, I'm going to the hospital to see about Nancy Hale and Scooter."

"Love me any, ya?" He murmured that intimately, closely, straight into her violet eyes. Norman Dana, up to his old tricks again.

She didn't answer lest her anger show, but she grabbed her bike and rode it violently the half mile to the hospital. Presently, she was sitting at Nancy Hale's side.

"You must be in heaven," the young widow said, after their greetings. "You, the coach's daughter, bossing so many fine boys. They've all been here with gifts. So sweet to me."

Blythe laughed. "I'm not the boss, Pop is. But I love it all."

"No. The sting of—that—is gone. My husband is a memory now, enshrined. But since it happened, Scooter and I—Bly, we don't have any people! No place to go. No—nobody. Not even any money! Don't you understand?"

All at once she was in tears and Blythe's heart went out to her. They talked a great deal more, woman fashion. The sun was low when Blythe took little Scooter from the nursery ward and rode him to her home in the bicycle basket. The tiny fellow found much to delight him.

"He's lived in auto camps and in worse, I guess, for almost a year. Mother," Blythe explained, at dinner table.

"He's a darling."

"He is that!" Pop Miller nodded. "And husky! I'll make a fullback of him, you'll see!"

They answered presents on him and, taking her chances of giving offense, Blythe loaded a suitcase of her own clothes and took them to the hospital for Nancy Hale.

"It's got a gift," she explained. "I'm lending you these because you need them. You're out of here tomorrow, you know. They are worth $10 and you must pay me some day."

She got by with it. Reward was a worshipful look from the wan but oddly beautiful girl in the hospital bed. Blythe felt that incomparable glow which only such deeds bring.

A bit later, in the hospital hall a nurse whispering to Blythe, said, "The poor dear will be stronger when she leaves. She acted like she was starved."

Blythe knew now that it wasn't an act. And the horror of such a thing as hunger in this great land appalled her. Then, happily, she told herself that something could be done about that now.

"She's so pretty, I expect Norman Dana will make a play for her," Blythe was little-girl talking again, with herself. "At least I certainly hope he does."

It might, she reflected, be a solution to her own problem with Norman. Norman, the good-looking quarterback who unfortunately knew he was good-looking, and fated himself irresistible as well.

But it wasn't Norman who, at that moment, came down the hospital corridor to Nancy's door, failing to see Blythe there at the nurses' desk because of the huge, expensive-looking gift of flowers that he carried.

It was Duane Hogan. And even Blythe knew that Duane couldn't really afford such things!

Are you still grieving?

All America Knows Budweiser... but Few Know This

Starch Helps Make Munitions, Batteries..

Everyone knows that corn starch is used in pies, puddings, cakes and other good things to eat. In addition to various household uses, it is necessary, too, for making batteries, cosmetics, paper and textiles, to name a few. Where does Anheuser-Busch fit in this picture? We learned a lot about cereals from constant analysis of barley for Budweiser. With that knowledge we started a Corn Products Division, which now supplies millions of pounds of starches each year to food and other industries.

Year after year, we have striven with research and resources to better the methods and facilities for brewing Budweiser. To do this, a laboratory specializing in fermentation and nutrition was necessary. Discoveries made in the laboratory and in the plant have led to the development of products contributing to human necessity and progress. Some of these products would appear to have only a remote relationship to brewing, yet, they are the result of scientific research into many allied fields.

Endless research in making the world's leading beer has led to other products

VITAMINS, B COMPLEX—Our plant is one of the world's largest sources for manufacturers of pharmaceutical and food products.

VITAMIN D—Anheuser-Busch produces enough of the basic material for Vitamin D to supply the entire American market.

BAKER'S YEAST—We are one of America's biggest suppliers of standard and enriched yeasts and malt syrup used to make bread.

CORN SYRUP—many millions of pounds annually for America's candy industry.

SYRUPS—for food, table and confectionery uses and special syrups for medicinal purposes.

VITAMINS FOR LIVESTOCK—We are America's biggest supplier of yeast vitamins used to fortify animal feeds.

REFRIGERATING EQUIPMENT—for retailers of frozen foods and ice cream the country over. This division is now working all-out on glider wing and fuselage assemblies for our Armed Forces.

DIESEL ENGINES—Adolphus Busch, founder of Anheuser-Busch, acquired the first rights to manufacture this revolutionary engine in America and thus started our great Diesel industry on its way.

Control Board Has Perplexing Duties To Handle

AUSTIN—A member of the Texas Board of Control must know something of the problems of the Quartermaster Corps, the medical profession, and the office efficiency experts.

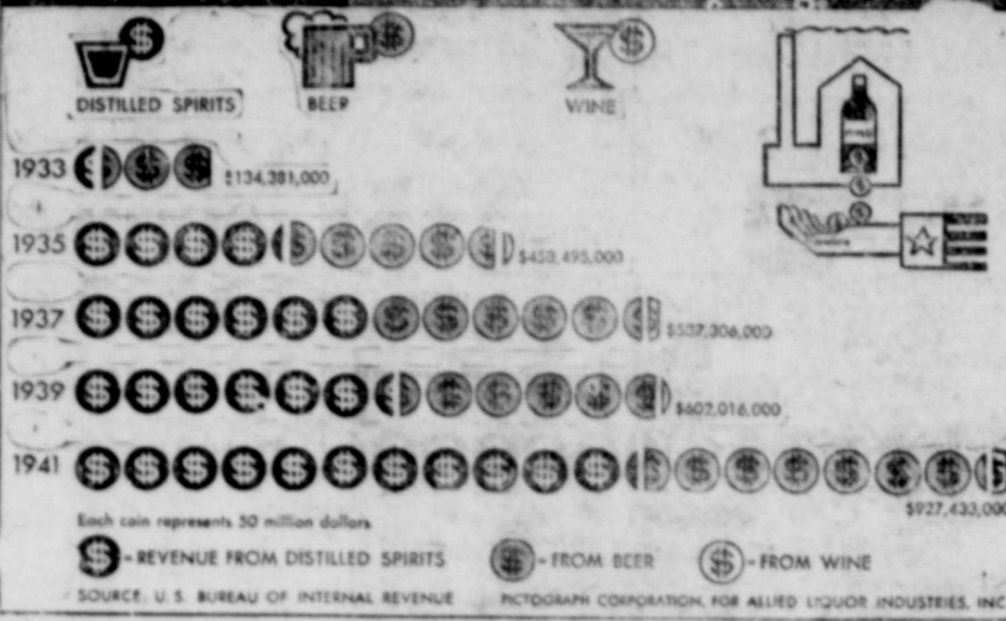

Two months ago the board was worrying about buying beef for patients and inmates of state institutions under its direction. Board members now are confronted with the task of helping Gov. Coke Stevenson prepare a state budget which will reduce pre-war expenditures from the general revenue fund by $7,000,000 a year without cutting salaries or impairing efficiency of government operations.

In addition to such duties, the board finds plenty of "home work" Chairman Weaver Baker of Junction, who is the governor's law partner in private life, is studying the problem of caring for insane persons. Approximately 2,100 Texans thus handicapped are being treated at state hospitals and an additional 300 await admission.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our dear friends for their many acts of kindness shown us during the recent death of our loved one. We are especially grateful for the beautiful floral offering. May God bless each of you in our prayer.
MRS. R. A. MURPHY
MRS. ALICE CRABTREE and children.

HOW FEDERAL REVENUE FROM LIQUOR IS GROWING

Baker is interested in a long-range program designed to improve the care for those unfortunate; to increase trained personnel to treat them.

The board chairman "started at the bottom" in his research on the subject. He first learned the various types of insanity and how to identify victims of each. Baker drops in unannounced occasionally at Austin state hospitals and visits with the staffs and patients.

Modern medical opinion is, he said, that about 50 per cent of the persons afflicted can be cured of mental disorders if treated properly and in time. The most important factor in treating them, he believes, is the quality of personnel. Good equipment is important, but good psychiatrists and assistants are more important.

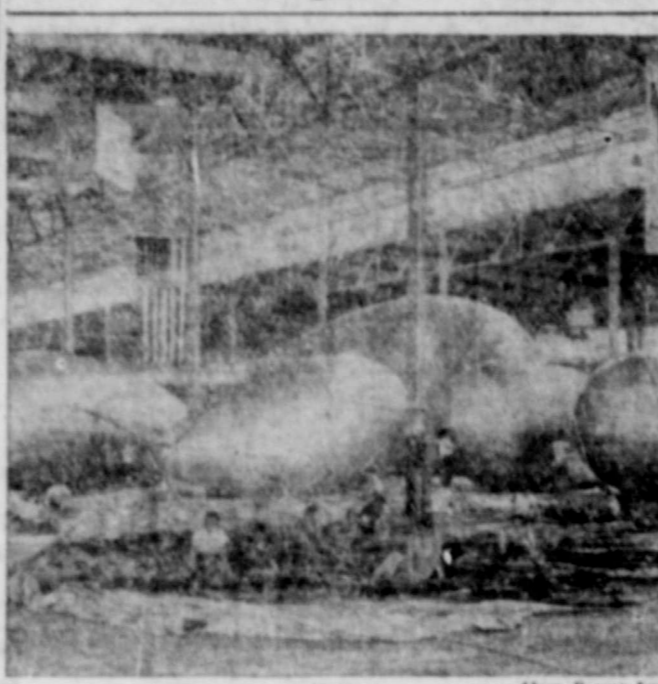

A few generations ago, mentally-afflicted persons were considered victims of "evil spirits", and frequently were chained or beaten.

Baker hopes that some arrangement can be made to interest more medical students in specializing in psychiatry. He believes that cooperation between medical schools and psychopathic institutions should be closer, and that students should have broader instruction in that phase of medicine.

"Some of the students would prefer to continue in that field," he said.

Contrary to popular belief, Baker said that the turnover in doctors at state hospitals for the mentally ill is small.

TIMELY TIPS
On the Use and Care of Your Gas Appliances

Straight-sided pots use heat more efficiently than pots with tapered sides. Pots should have flat bottoms.

Economy Suggestion For Your Gas Range

Conservation is the keynote in wartime America. Use all the gas you need for essential purposes, but don't waste it. Here are a few suggestions that will help you operate your gas range more economically and efficiently:

1. Keep the burners of your gas range adjusted so they produce a blue flame not more than 3/4 of an inch high when burner is on full force. Yellow or excessively high flames waste fuel.
2. When baking or roasting, refrain from "pecking" into oven at frequent intervals. This wastes gas and causes temperature in oven to fluctuate.
3. Don't waste fuel in surface cooking. Place pot on burner before lighting gas. Turn off gas before removing pot.
4. When cooking a roast in your oven, bake potatoes and a casserole dish at the same time to conserve gas.
5. Duplicate or triplicate pans that fit together over one burner, use little more fuel than one. One of these small pans alone wastes heat, however, since it does not cover burner.
6. A heavy utensil will hold heat better than a light one. A warped pan wastes fuel.
7. For oven cooking, dull-finished casseroles and pans are most efficient. Polished metals reflect heat, and waste some of the fuel.
8. Do not turn flame so high that it laps up sides of vessel. Turn down as soon as liquids begin to boil. A small amount of heat is all that's needed to maintain boiling.

We will gladly assist you in regulating your gas range or other appliances, but because of the rubber and manpower shortage we may not be able to answer your call as promptly as in the past. Requests for appliance service will be filled in order received.

TELEPHONE SERVICE IN WARTIME

We are trying to give our nation in war what we have always tried to give in time of peace—the best telephone service in the world. We can't build more lines to do it, because most of the metal is needed for arms. So the longer long distance lines, carrying vital war calls, are becoming more and more crowded. When you think of calling a faraway city, won't you please ask yourself:

1. Is it necessary?
2. If so, how can I keep it short?

War calls come first, and we know you'll gladly help clear the way for them.
