Democracy at Work

As propagandists will try to make it appear that the results of our election spell American disunity. That was the line taken by Vichy, even before the votes were cast, and that is the interpretation with which Herr Goebbels must seek to hearten the German people and dishearten those of the occupied countries.

But Hitler and Mussolini and Togo are not deceived. They themselves know that the American people have merely rebuked their public servants for not being tough enough.

An off-year congressional election cannot be interpreted by adding up all the details—the defeat of Congressman X, the re-election of Senator Y, the narrow escape of Governor Z. These things are influenced too much by local and personal considerations.

The measure of what happened this year is the surge of discontent at a time when by all economic standards there should be only contentment. We have been hit hard by the draft, by taxes priorities and shortages. All of these and other inconveniences promise to become more onerous. But we did not punish congressmen for this, or elect replacements in hope of lightening the load.

Rather, what we did was express our disgust with too-little, too-late policies which, in fact, have spared us material discomforts, but which have slowed us down in the prime task of beating Hitler.

The important thing—the thing which Hitler and Mussolini and Hirohito cannot explain away—is that in the midst of total war we have held a completely free election.

Being united wholly in the will to win this war, we yet had the freedom to differ about how it can best be won, and to elect men who disagree on that point with our national administration.

Being resolved to support our President to the limit against the outside world, we yet reserved the right to differ with him about internal policies, and to increase in Washington the number of legislators pledged to oppose many of Mr. Roosevelt's domestic policies.

Having given to the President an accumulation of powers such as no other American ever enjoyed, we decided to have in Congress more men with a mind to keep the President under constant surveillance in his exercise of those powers.

We knew we had to resign many of our normal prerogatives for the time being, but we didn't like it, so we knocked off a few political heads just as a warning that the resignation is voluntary, temporary and grudging.

The fascists said that democracy could not work in wartime. Well, let them study the results of this election and see how they like that.

It's home, sweet home when the housewife does her dishes to hum, sweet hum.

RELEASE FRIDAY, NOV. 20 -MODERN MENUS-

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Service Staff Writer

SUNDAY evening is hospitality time. Invite old friends in for Sunday supper and give them something different. Plan carefully and use some new recipes, then you'll get big results for very little money.

These two recipes come verbatim from Jeanne Owen's "Lunching and Dining at Home" a book inspired by the desire to make the American home the best source of good eating.

Lamb-Kidney Barquettes Soak 3 lamb kidneys in salted water for 3 hours. Skin, remove tendons, and chop very fine. Put 2 tablespoons of butter in a iron skillet and add 1-2 cup of chopped fresh mushrooms, the chopped kidneys, and 2 shallot (or green onions) chopped fine. Add salt, pepper, and a pinch of thyme. Sauté gently till the kidneys are cooked, then add 1-2 cup of cream mixed with 2 egg yolks. Stir till well thickened and fill the pastry shells, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs, and serve very hot. (Just before serving it is well to put them under the broiler for a moment.)

Codfish or Finnan-Haddie Croquettes

Six 1 cup cooked, shredded salt codfish (or finnan haddie) with cup of mashed potatoes, 1 tea spoon of chopped parsley, 1-2 tea spoon of ground ginger, 1-2 tea spoon of pepper, and 1 well beaten egg. Form into small balls, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry. These are also delicious if they are dropped by spoonful into a well-buttered skillet and sautéed until a delicate brown.

SUNDAY'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, waffles, country sausage, honey, coffee, milk. DINNER: Cranberry juice, chicken pie with pastry crust, spiced beets, baked winter squash, romaine salad, fresh fruit gelatin, sponge cake, coffee, milk. SUPPER: Lamb kidney barquettes, mixed vegetable salad, hot biscuits, relishes, stewed fruit, sponge cake, tea, milk.

JEFFERS IS OPPOSED TO RATION DELAY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A spokesman for Rubber Director William M. Jeffers said today that Jeffers is "unalterably opposed to the recommendations of western congressmen that nationwide gasoline rationing, scheduled for Dec. 1, be postponed 90 days. The spokesman said gasoline rationing on a national scale was "vital" to the success of rubber conservation program. Speaker of the House Sam

Rayburn, of Texas, was one of the leaders in a movement to have gasoline postponed. Congressmen from western and southwestern states stated that the people in their section were bitterly opposed to the rationing program, and said that another investigation of the rubber situation, by a congressional committee, would be the only thing that might break down this opposition. Rubber conservation, through the means of gasoline rationing was recommended by the Baruch committee, which conducted a short investigation and made a report of its findings to President Roosevelt.

SERIAL STORY

PLAY BY PLAY

BY PAUL DAVID FRESTON

It was a quiet night in the city of New York. The lights of the city were dimmed, and the streets were empty. A lone figure walked through the shadows, his face obscured by a hood.

NANCY PROGRESSES

CHAPTER VI. Her of the Journal, kept the facts of the matter private, and they didn't know they were happy when she had them. In his column he writes:

"Out at the Lincoln Field area, cadet gridders have a New Institute in the Coach Box. It is a center of his emotional education around a mascot such as this bear have."

"But the Interest there is more than a mascot, it is an inspiration. More than that, it is a moral inspiration, a widow."

"The Hale, it seems is not only a good sport but a good sportswoman. Her life husband, a specialty of Pearl Harbor, had taught her the finer points of tennis, for instance."

"Officially, it isn't any of our business, but we in the world aren't official. You can speculate and gossip in general way as much as we please. And as the Broadway columnist might hint it—what charming young widow from what wealthy apartment over what restaurant is being seen more and more with Mr. Hale—wasn't fullback?"

For Heavy Raids Italians Are In

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Heavy air raids on Italian war production centers were forecast today by members of the Pacific War Council after a meeting with President Roosevelt.

NEW YORK—Bill Dudley, Virginia's first All-America who now does his running for the professional Pittsburgh Steelers, regularly trails five fellow backs when wind sprints are held. Yet he isn't having much trouble out-distancing challengers in the race for the National Football League ground-gaining championship.

There hasn't been anyone like young Dudley among the money players since Cliff Battles ran for Washington in 1937. Ace Parker, who wound up his football career with Brooklyn last fall, didn't have too much size. There were backs who were his superiors in all departments, yet he was voted the most valuable player in the professional world.

The names of Dudley and Parker being in mind, Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the daddy of all baseball players, who took breath-taking liberties on the bases. Ty Cobb was of good speed, but there were faster men.

AS Andy Firkas of the Redskins points out: "A ball-catcher's intuition is worth more to him than his thinking process. There's no time to think when you've got the ball. You just have to get going and hope your reflexes are doing all right by you."

What goes for Dudley went for Parker and for Cobb on the field. The answer is natural coordination, quick reflexes, savvy, anticipation—standard qualities of great athletes. Pure, unadulterated speed—like brute strength—never made a great athlete.

Full utilization of his talents does.

A QUADRUPLE-EXPANDED program for training Civilian Defense fire watchers and auxiliary firemen will in all probability get under way soon as a direct result of the invention and use by the Germans of a new type incendiary bomb of unusual ferocity.

What it amounts to is the addition of a delayed action hand grenade to the old type I, which is a 2.2-pound incendiary bomb. The delayed action may amount to seven minutes and is controlled by a time fuse. If a fire watcher, fireman, air raid warden or ordinary household spots one of these bombs and goes close enough to it to try to put out the fire by the usual methods of water spray, tongs, or a bag of sand, he may succeed in stopping the fire, only to have the hand grenade attachment go off in his face.

On the other hand, if this new type bomb is hit alone, the fire is successfully started. There you have the reasons for the need of all new OCD training.

First of these new fire bombs were dropped on England late in August. Not being prepared for this new and fancy improvement, the British auxiliary firemen proceeded to put out the fire in the usual way. Not every bomb dropped had this grenade or bomb attachment—just one to the dozen or so—enough to cause some 200 casualties.

In Britain the new bombs were given the name of A. P. I. or Anti-Personnel Incendiary.

To the British the problem of dealing with these new A. P. I.'s hasn't been so very difficult. There all the air raid wardens and fire wardens are experienced, so the only step necessary was to issue new instructions to the old firemen. This is a real problem of training for the Civilian Protection branch of OCD under Brig.-Gen. U. S. Grant III and Col. Augustine Janeway, chief of the training section.

AROUND 250,000 auxiliary firemen have been given brief training in handling ordinary incendiary bombs, and these 250,000 have in turn gone back to pass on this training to others in their home communities of the target areas—roughly a strip 200 miles inland from the sea coast.

But with the new A. P. I. bomb menace, it might be necessary to train up to four fire fighters to every block in the target area.

Specifically, the Italian underground takes credit for much of the inefficiency of the Italian army, for sabotage of Italian war industries, for actually aiding the Yugoslavian revolutionary movement under General Mihailovich.

So far, there are only a few of these new A. P. I. bombs in the United States. Marc Peter, Jr., attached to the American embassy

Fifty Years Ago people did things that they dare not do today. Many bought their homes without an abstract, and the title usually was good. But times have changed! Multiplied thousands of titles were clouded during the oil boom days and since, by the passing of time. And the property you have in mind buying now without an abstract may be one of them. Play safe when you buy real estate. Always demand an abstract.
